Prudent passed over Louisville at midnight and dumped ballast to keep from hitting the high places. This morning at daybreak he sailed south over Greenville, Ky., 110 miles south of Louisville, and came close enough to the ground to say he was having a fine trip. Then he yelled,

"How far are we from Dayton?"

When Prudent does get to Dayton he will find a representative of the Traction Company waiting with a little bill for repair amounting to about $10,000, the Traction officials said today.

To Acquire Pink Cheeks.

If for some special occasion—a dance or party, for instance—you wish to have pink cheeks, Miss Fairface, try this method and see if it doesn't draw the blood to your soft cheeks and leave them a delicate pink for three or four hours: Rub cold cream into the face with a rotary movement and then wipe the superfluous cream off; rub more cream in and then rub what is left of that off. Now wash the face in warm water and then rinse it in cold water, dashing it over the face repeatedly with the hands. Now, to obtain the fresh pink color take a small piece of ice and cover it with the corner of the towel and rub it repeatedly over the cheeks. This will give a fine color which will last for hours.

As a rule, every girl who has a white complexion with but little color to the cheeks longs for a rosy complexion, and is also cross out of ten if she cannot increase the color in her cheeks by some natural method she will end by using a rouge, which, ten chances to one, is harmful. As a matter of fact, it is vastly more becoming to some people to be pale than to have pink cheeks, and if they have a healthy, transparent skin they should feel proud to think that they have what few people can have—a white complexion that is white or cream, but not yellow.

Pretty Summer Rugs.

Effective rugs for the summer cottage or bungalow or for porch use come in blue and white, old rose and white, green and white, with hemstitch border in Japanese style.

The border consists of several guards of old tones or of wave effects in contrasting color woven into a white background. The rugs are very inexpensive.

HERO OF MAGERSFONTEIN.

Victoria Cross Cost Captain Towse His Eyesight.

Pathetic indeed was an incident which marked the recent inspection of the Gentlemen-at-Arms by the King. A tall, well-built, handsome soldier was carefully piloted before His Majesty by a fellow-officer. It was Captain E. B. B. Towse, V.C., whose eyes were shattered while leading a brilliant charge against the Boers during the South African war. The story of that charge will long live in the memories of the Gordon Highlanders, that regiment which has so many heroic deeds on its roll of honor, and to which Captain Towse belonged.

On April 30th, 1900, Captain Towse with twelve men, took up a position on Mount Thabe. He was totally unsupported; but it was not thought any of the enemy were near. Suddenly, however, a party of Boers, over a hundred strong, who had also made for the position, appeared a hundred yards off. Seeing that they outnumbered the Highlanders, the Boers called upon Captain Towse to surrender.

His prompt reply was to give a ringing command to his men to fire and then charge, the Boers being only about forty yards distant. The sudden onslaught of these twelve intrepid Britishers, with their gallant leader, caused the Boers to waver and fall back; and thus the situation was saved.

But the victory was dearly bought; for the men, to their great grief, saw a bullet shatter the eyes of their captain, who has, consequently, never been able to look on the Cross of Valor which was duly awarded him.

Neither was this the only deed of gallantry performed by Captain Towse during the Boer war. Five months previously, on "Black Monday" (December 11th, 1899), at the disastrous battle of Magersfontein, when Lord Methuen fought 15,000 Boers with 11,000 men, with terrible loss, Captain Towse earned the title of the "Hero of Magersfontein." Concealed in their trenches, the Boers could not be driven out, and Lord Methuen was obliged to retire to the Modder River.

A terrible fire from rifles and pompoms at close range struck down one in five of the Highland Brigade under General Wauchope, who also fell, riddled with bullets. Colonel G. T. F. Downman, Captain Towse's commanding officer, was also struck down. But in spite of the hail of bullets Captain Towse hoisted the colonel on his back and bore him away. It was a gallant deed, well in keeping with the glorious traditions of the famous Gordons.

KIPLING SEES DISASTER

Predicts Trouble as a Result of Present Social Tendencies.

National disaster from present-day tendencies of the National Government is prophesied in a long poem by Rudyard Kipling, which the Morning Post prints.

Describing the citizens of an imaginary state, "The City of Brass," he tells how they started to "decree a new earth at a birth without labor or sorrow."

Their administrative ideas are thus described:

They said: "Who has hate in the soul?
Who has envied his neighbor?
Let him arise and control both that man and his labor."
They said: "Who is eaten by sloth?
Whose unthrift has destroyed him?
He shall levy a tribute from all because none have employed him."
They say: "Who has toiled? Who hath striven and gathered possession?

They raised their ramparts to convert them into pleasure grounds, encouraged rebellion in their colonies, flung away the Imperial possessions their forefathers gained, scouted faith and endeavor, and derided the idea of restraint.

Nemesis comes when they are steeped in self-satisfaction in the form of a hostile host, and the poem concludes

The eaters of other men's bread, the exempted from hardship,
For the hate they had taught through the State brought the State no defender,

A Fading Art.

The art of carving is disappearing among the Maoris of New Zealand. There is no demand for war canoes now, except from world's fairs and Paris exposition. In the olden days the chief's house, the storehouse, and the posts of the village stockade were ornamented with carved figures. But the rainy climate of the country and other causes have been fatal to these monuments. One must go to the museums to see specimens of this fading art.

The "haka" is the war dance or call to arms of old Maoriland. Stripped to the waist, the men arrange themselves in two files and begin to chant in a low tone, a woman giving them the time. They turn right and left, stamping and waving their arms till they work themselves up to a prodigious pitch of fury expressed by rolling eyeballs and deafening roars. Standing to one side, the woman "leader" urges them on to the climax. They give one thunderine stamp, and thrust out their tongues as far as they can. This was the supreme act of defiance to the foe. In the olden days it was no light matter to attend a "haka." Then each warrior brandished a heavy green stone club, and once heated to the pointed of battle frenzy, would hardly cool down, even at a play "haka" without clubbing somebody just to keep his hand in practice.

His Lucky Donkey.

The costermonger's love for his donkey was demonstrated recently at the People's Palace, Mile End road, London. Nearly 200 donkeys, carefully groomed, with their owners standing by them in their Sunday best, were exhibited under the auspices of Our Dumb Friends' League.

Many of the costermongers declared that they would not part with their little animals for untold gold. "Here's the foundation of all my little fortune," said William Witt, an East End coal dealer, as he stroked his sturdy prize winner, Lasy Lightning. "Five years ago I was dead broke. I borrowed 30 shillings to buy my little pal here"—patting the donkey again.

"First my donkey carried coal from street to street on a barrow; but gradually my trade grew. Now I've got three little shops, and a farm out in the country. But it was the donkey that turned my luck and put me on the right road. Out at the farm there's a nice green field, with shady trees in it. As soon as this show's over that's where my donkey's going to end his days just doing nothing but enjoy the green grass—and rest."

Many prizes were awarded to the best-groomed donkeys. A challenge cup and a set of harness, given by the Queen, were won by Jenny, a smart little donkey that pulls the barrow of a wood and coke hawker.

LITERARY HEROISM.

Great Works Accomplished Under the Most Adverse Circumstances.

Some of the world's most valued literary productions have been accomplished by their authors under circumstances of pain and hardship almost incredible.

Of the blind writers one immediately thinks of Milton and of our own Prescott, who, though not entirely blind, was almost so and performed prodigies in the way of historical composition while handicapped in a way calculated to dishearten the bravest.

Another great historian, John Richard Green, did his work in the midst of a hard battle against disease and pain. In 1839, when he was finally prostrated by the disease that had taken hold many years before, the doctors gave him no hope of living more than six months longer. Nevertheless Green set about the task of writing his "Short History of the English People," a task that he triumphantly carried to a conclusion notwithstanding racking pains.

We are assured on excellent authority that Elizabeth Barrett Browning wrote the greater number of her fine poems confined to a darkened room, to which, by reason of her infirmities, only her own family and most intimate friends could be admitted, while she was in great weakness and almost continuous pain.

Another brave struggle was that of the poet Heine. The last seven years of the German thinker's life were spent on what has been termed his "mattress grave" in such pain and suffering that he was obliged to consume doses of opium in quantity sufficient to have killed several men. Yet Heine not only endured all this with resignation and even cheerfulness, but managed to produce some of his most finished work, among which were "Last Poems and Thoughts" and his "Confessions."

To the list of literray heroes must be added the name of Scott. Sir Walter's manly fight against failing health and financial misfortune during the closing years of his life is too well known to need more than passing mention. When the commercial reverses came that left him staggering under a huge burden of debt, he, shattered in health, laboriously set to work "with wearied eyes and worn brain" to recoup. Painfully he toiled, sometimes as many as fourteen hours a day, until the end came, but nevertheless he succeeded in meeting every cent due by reason of the monumental indebtedness forced upon him.

Convincing.

The landed proprietor purchased a carriage horse to match one he already possessed. A day or two later he asked his groom what he thought of the new arrival.

"Weel, sir," said Sandy, "he's certainly a grun' looking horse."

Easily Identified.

One of the peculiarities of Viscount Goschen is to pay surprise visits to the branches of the bank which he helps to control. Not long ago he entered a country branch and asked the clerk in charge to cash a cheque drawn by a friend, adding that both himself and friend were customers of the bank. When the clerk complied, Mr. Goschen, as he was then, read him a severe lesson on cashing cheques for strangers. "How do you know I came by the cheque honestly?" he asked. "I don't know," said the clerk; "but if anything went wrong your father would indemnify the bank against loss, and I always like to oblige a director." The said director had thought he was unknown.

Variety Artistes Salaries.

Exactly who is the highest-paid variety artiste next to Harry Lauder, who received close upon $4,000 a week while touring America, it is not easy to say. Miss Ada Reeve and Miss Vesta Tilley, however, must be very near the top. A recent law case revealed the fact that the former is accustomed to obtain engagements at $1,500 a week, while Miss Vesta Tilley's "turn" is placed at an even greater value. There are quite a number of variety artistes—Mr. Gus Robey, "Little Tich," and Miss Marie Lloyd included—whose salaries range from $500 to $750 and more per week.

Queer Claret.

A party of miners calling at an inn in Llangollen during the absence of the landlord were shown into the best room which, on his return, caused him to remonstrate. His wife, however, explained that a lot of money had been spent, and that seven bottles of claret had already been drunk.

"Claret!" said he. "Why, I sold the last bottle the other day; you've been giving 'em catsup."

A HUNGRY TIGER.

Persistent Attack on a Camp Reported From India.

The Indian mail brings the story of an exciting adventure which befell a surveying party in Assam. They were attacked by a tiger. The party were working in the Lushai hills adjoining the Cachar district of Assam, and the tiger appeared at the camp of surveyor Gopal Singh. It sprang at the surveyor and one of his khalasis, but fortunately touched neither of them, and disappeared as suddenly as it had come. Three days later the tiger returned, and seized a khalasi, who was washing his cooking pots in a stream 20 yards from the camp. A native armed with a stick, rushed to the rescue, and tried to beat the tiger off. When other men arrived the brute dropped its prey and disappeared again. In a few minutes it was back again. In spite of the shouts of the natives it seized the plucky native who had gone to the rescue of the first man. Once more it was driven off, and again it returned, this time to seize a third khalasi.

Frightened away again, the beast left the camp, but the party sat up all night surrounded by a chain of fires. At daybreak they proceeded to a Lushai village. An armed party set off for the abandoned camp to collect the goods left behind. They found that the tents, bedding, blankets, and bags of rice had been dragged about by the tiger, and on a sight-rule and piano-table were marks of the brute's fangs. When Mr. Williams, the camp officer, and the party all the men were so profoundly affected that not one of them could speak above a whisper. They begged not to be sent back to the same locality, but to be allowed to work for the rest of the field season in the open cultivated country. The first man seized by the beast died four days afterwards.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A [illegible] aids, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

WANTED TO VOMIT.

A Condition Involving Both Liver and Stomach that was quickly Cured By Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"The doctors told me my sickness was caused by complications of the stomach and liver," writes Mrs. E. P. Fourraine, well known in Williamsport. "The least little error in eating would cause nausea, and after a timeactual vomiting was easily excited. I grew very thin, pale, with dark lines under the eyes; my strength so failed that even light housework quite exhausted me. Of course, with a large family, I could not afford a doctor all the time, and when in deepest despair, I tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills. From the very first they acted wonderfully, and I experienced a desire for food and ate my meals with a relish. After a while my system became quite regular, and that horrid sick feeling only came now and again. This made me persevere, and it was a good thing I did so, because the continuation of Dr. Hamilton's Pills was the means of giving me my health again, and I am now the happiest woman I know."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Engine Stand Steed Test.

Acting under instructions from Ald. Buller, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, Chief Howard put the fire engine through a test at the new stand near the river bank to facilitate matters in case of a fire at the Quaker Oats Company's buildings. Mr. Denham and a number of the officials of the company watched the proceedings, and were favorably impressed. In the future, should a fire break out at this place, the fact of the stand being at this place will mean that five streams of water will be available from the engine besides the present fire protection of the buildings.

HOME FROM MINING CLAIMS.

Mr. L. O'Connor Back to City After An Absence Since Last May.

After an absence since last May, Mr. L. O'Connor has returned to the city from the northern province. During the first part of the summer Mr O'Connor was up in the Abitibbi district and surrounding country, but since August he has been at Gillies limit, Temagami Reserve. In company with Messrs. Boston, Kane of Toronto, and George LeGros, of Northern Ontario, he has been prospecting for gold and silver on five claims that the three have staked out there, and Mr. O'Connor states that their efforts have been attended with most encouraging success. The claims are opposite the rich Doric mine and are on the same vein of rock. Mr. O'Connor also has claims in the rich Nipissing district four miles north of the "height of land."

While he was away Mr. O'Connor covered a great deal of ground in the northern part of the province, and became pretty familiar with that part of the country. He had many interesting experiences.

While he was in the Abitibbi district Mr. O'Connor saw one of the sailors of the crew of the shipwrecked "Stork," the boat which went on the rocks in the Hudson Straits three days after the sailor had been picked up after roaming in the woods with nothing to eat except the grass and leaves he got hold of while wandering. It was not immediately after the wreck that Mr. O'Connor saw him, however, but the following June, and he had been lost in making a portage, along with the others of the crew and some Indians. This was after the crew had been kept all winter at Moose Factory till the river was navigable.

Mr. O'Connor says the sailor was the worst victim to the ravages of black flies that he ever saw in his life. His legs were swollen from the ankles to the knees, and his face, neck and hands were blotted till the man was a pitiable sight.

HAPPY WOMEN PRAISE PE-RU-NA.

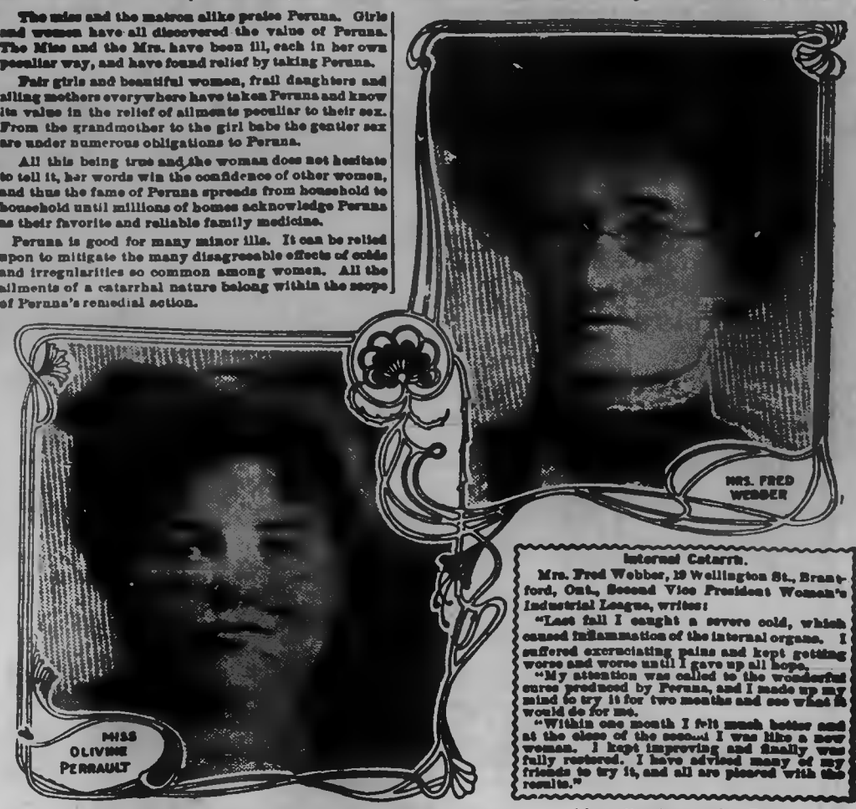
It Is Works, Not Words, That Has Made Pe-ru-na Famous Throughout The Land.

The miss and the matron alike praise Peruna. Girls and women have all discovered the value of Peruna. The Miss and the Mrs. have been ill, each in her own peculiar way, and have found relief by taking Peruna.

Fair girls and beautiful women, frail daughters and ailing mothers everywhere have taken Peruna and know its value in the relief of ailments peculiar to their sex. From the grandmother to the girl babe the gentler sex are under numerous obligations to Peruna.

All this being true and the woman does not hesitate to tell it, her words win the confidence of other women, and thus the fame of Peruna spreads from household to household until millions of homes acknowledge Peruna as their favorite and reliable family medicine.

Peruna is good for many minor ills. It can be relied upon to mitigate the many disagreeable effects of colds and irregularities so common among women. All the ailments of a catarrhal nature belong within the scope of Peruna's remedial action.



Internal Catarrh.

Mrs. Fred Webber, 19 Wellington St., Brantford, Ont., Second Vice President Women's Industrial League, writes:

"Last fall I caught a severe cold, which caused inflammation of the internal organs. I suffered excruciating pains and kept getting worse and worse until I gave up all hope.

"My attention was called to the wonderful cures produced by Peruna, and I made up my mind to try it for two months and see what it would do for me.

"Within one month I felt much better and at the close of the second I was like a new woman. I kept improving and finally was fully restored. I have advised many of my friends to try it, and all are pleased with the results."

Head, Stomach, Lungs.

Miss Olivine Perrault, 295 Davidson street, Boulevard St. Paul, Montreal, Can., writes:

"I write you a word to congratulate you on your famous remedy, Peruna. I tried other remedies, but my cold did not get any better, and I feared I was becoming consumptive.

"The condition of my head and stomach was very annoying. I had coughed day and night for three months, as the result of a cold which I had contracted from sudden change of temperature.

"My brother advised me to try Peruna, and I did so, for he was cured by Peruna. I took it regularly and improved steadily. I have now taken three bottles of it and am completely cured."

To Suffering Women.

"I feel it my duty to write and tell you of the good Peruna has done me.

"I was subject to internal weakness. For six years I suffered more or less.

"We consulted various doctors, who gave me relief, but no cure. I have suffered a great deal, and my husband had very large bills to pay.

"In my despair I decided to try Peruna, and the first bottle taken according to your directions gave me relief. I have had no backset since then.

"Since we have used Peruna, a doctor has seldom been in our house. It would take a book if I were to tell all the good Peruna has done in our family.

"Please accept my most sincere thanks.

"I have often recommended your medicine with good results, and if any suffering woman wishes to write to me or to call on me, I will give her my information in regard to Peruna at any time."—Mrs. Martha Fredrich, Centralia Park, L. I., N. Y.

One Woman's Experience.

"I was troubled with very serious internal weakness, which exhausted me so that I feared I would lose my mind.

"I suffered agony with my back, that pain extending down my left leg. The pain was so severe that I would have welcomed death as a relief.

"Peruna cured me of this trouble—no wonder I recommend it so highly. It will soon be two years since I found relief from the pain, and not a sign of it has returned.

"I am glad that there is a way by which I can speak of this, so many sufferer may read my testimonial, and not only read, but believe."—Mrs. William Henderson, Grant, N. W. T., Canada.

MINISTERIAL VIEW.

Of the Developments at the Recent Election Protest Trial.

The following resolution was carried unanimously by a standing vote at one of the largest meetings in the history of the association yesterday morning:—

Resolved: "That we, the members of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, assembled on October 4th, do put ourselves on record as being deeply distressed and humiliated by the fact that during the past week perjury has been openly and shamelessly committed in our city, and that consequently the good name of Peterborough has suffered greatly, not only in the province, but throughout the whole country. Further, we would deeply deplore the conditions which tempt weak men to such dishonorable and conscienceless action."

COUNTY COURT.

Non-Jury Sittings Open Before Judge Hayden Today.

The non-jury sittings of the County Court will open today at one o'clock before his Honor Judge Hayden. There is only one case to come up for consideration, that of Hamilton Douglas of Norwood versus J. Fleming of the same place. Douglas is claiming $176.74 wages which he earned while in the defendant's employ for forty-five weeks. Fleming in defence claims that he paid the plaintiff more than was due him. For nine weeks he states, he paid Douglas his wages and gave him board, during which time he didn't do any work. Mr. G. F. Sherry is the solicitor for the plaintiff, and Denniston, Peck & Kerr for the defendant.

THE DIVER'S SUIT.

Leaked and He Nearly Drowned at the Waterworks Dam.

A diver who started to work at the new waterworks dam, had an exciting time yesterday morning during his first descent. The diving suit had not been worn for some time, and the water leaked through while the wearer was working under the water. He was not aware of this until the water reached his chin, but prompt action by himself and the men above, who answered his signal, soon released him from his perilous position. Had the leak been of a more extensive nature, the affair would probably have had a more serious ending.

SUFFERED FROM VIOLENT CATHARTICS.

The Warning of Mrs. George C. Fox is One That Should be Heeded By All.

Few men on the road are better known than genial George Fox, Rhoda friends throughout the West are legion. In the following letter he expresses gratitude for signal services rendered by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. He goes on to say: "Until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and experienced their wonderful mildness and curative power, I estimated the value of every pill by its activity. Talking about this to a well-known physician I met on the train the other day, he explained there are different kinds of drugs that act upon the bowels, the most active being known as drastic. Except in extreme cases where the life of the patient depends upon speedy evacuation of the bowels, pills should never be drastic. Purgatives cause catarrh of the bowels and increased, causing even more inflammation; their dose must be increased, causing even more harm. With such a clear explanation I could see why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are curative and not irritating, why they are mild, yet most searching.

"From my experience I recommend everyone that takes pills to give up the old-fashioned harsh, purging pill, and, instead, to use Dr. Hamilton's. They cure headache, biliousness, constipation, bad stomach and keep the system in perfect condition."

C.P.R. MAKE A PROPOSITION TO COUNCIL RE NEW GRAIN ROUTE

Have Not Decided Definitely on the Junction—It is a Question Between Peterborough and Havelock—If Necessary Facilities Could be Had Company Would Decide on Peterborough

The Canadian Pacific Railway Co. have sent the following letter to the council:—

Dear Mr. Mayor,—

In connection with the interview with you and Alderman Phelan some weeks ago as to the entry of the Georgian Bay and Seaboard Railway and the connection between that railway and the Canadian Pacific Railway being made at Peterborough.

We have not yet decided definitely on the junction and it is a question between Peterborough and Havelock. I think, however, that if we could see our way to getting the room for tracks and facilities necessary to a junction point that we would probably decide on Peterborough.

We have given considerable study as to how this could be secured, as well as to the entrance through the city, and in order to find sufficient easy space to take care of the traffic interchanged at junction point it would be necessary to find another location for tracks and freight shed facilities required in connection with the Peterborough local traffic.

I enclose two plans, one of which is intended to show how we would suggest to provide facilities to take care of the Peterborough local traffic, leaving the present tracking opposite the station to provide accommodation for the business occasioned if we make Peterborough the junction in connection with this plan we would propose that the city grant us all their title and interest in the property enclosed within the red lines commonly known as the waterfront.

The other shows our proposed entrance into and through the city for the Georgian Bay and Seaboard Railway, and by reference to it you will see we propose to enter the city, just below the line between Monaghan and the city crossing the following streets, Bonicord, Cordach avenue, McDonnel street, Walnut, Cedar, Elm, Weller streets, and Homewood avenue, where the line enters Monaghan. In this territory we would ask that all the streets except McDonnel and Homewood be closed, and that Monaghan road between Homewood and Weller streets be diverted and the railway carried under the diversion. The line again enters the city limits and joins the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks at Chamberlain street and we suggest the closing across the railway tracks of Chamberlain St., Park street, Stewart street, and Rink street, and giving in lieu of these four crossings a subway under the tracks on Park street with an outlet on Rubidge street as indicated on plan.

City Council in Regular Session Last Night

Although the council meeting last night was not so exciting as some others have been a lot of routine business was put through in good order, and one of the aldermen had the usual scrap but it was not of a serious nature.

TO WAIT AWHILE.

Ald. Morgan's pet bylaw to return to the ward system of electing aldermen was introduced last night for the first and second reading. Ald. Morrow moved that the bylaw be left over for the present and Ald. Bradburn seconded it. The vote was a tie and his worship voted to have the bylaw left over for the time being.

Several bylaws were put through the council the proper number of readings.

On motion of Ald. Morrow and Ald. Metheral, the city clerk was instructed to write the officials of the Grand Trunk Railway requesting them to have less whistling of trains going through the city at night. The residents in the neighborhood are complaining bitterly.

On motion of Aldermen Morrow and Metheral, the city clerk was instructed to have the bylaws to be voted on at the municipal election in January next be advertised the required number of times.

Ald. Duffus moved that the city clerk write the Toronto National Fair authorities and the Peterborough Industrial Fair authorities, thanking them for the courtesies extended to the aldermen of the city.

J. C. Higgins stated that he will proceed in an action against the city if an account for $51.00 for gravel used in repairing his property is not settled.

TAX STATEMENT.

W. Green, collector of taxes submitted the following statement of the roll for the month of September and the roll for the month of September:—

COMMUEICATIONS.

The following communications were received and dealt with according to their merits:—

Mr. C. Griffin wrote stating that he had been unjustly fined in the police court in connection with a dispute over a line fence and asked that the money he had paid be remitted.

Wm. Irwin, Ashburnham, suggested in a letter that the Cereal Company brodge at the end of London street be planked in order to provide access to the city for the residents of the northern part of the east ward while the Smith street bridge is closed for traffic.

From the Canadian Municipal Journal asking the city for a subscription and advertising.

From the Bank of Toronto giving the overdraft at the bank on September 30th as $10,771.64.

From A. Redman asking that the city pay him the amount of the fines imposed on several boys for stealing his apples.

From Geo. A. Bogy & Co., St. Catharines, acknowledging the return of their cheque for $1,115.70. on the Smith street bridge.

WANT A FRANCHISE.

From the Otonabee Power Company as follows:—

We desire, if satisfactory arrangements can be made with the corporation of the City of Peterborough to extend our power plant at dams Nos. 4 and 5 by combining the two dams under one head which will result in the most power being produced. We propose to develop the power at these two dams to the full capacity of the available flow of the Otonabee river under a 26 foot head which will mean an expenditure of at least $250,000.

We find that capitalists do not favor taking up the bonds of a company where the franchise is on a short and more or less uncertain tenure. We desire therefore to obtain from you the best terms and conditions upon which the council would be prepared to give us a franchise for the streets for lighting, power and heating purposes for at least a period of 20 years.

We also desire to draw your attention to the act that was passed at the last session of the Dominion Parliament whereby it is provided in connection with water power developments on the Trent canal under a lease from the Dominion Government that the provisions of the Dominion Railway Act apply for the purpose of regulating the rates at which power, light and heat are sold.

The company also asked to meet the council.

Mr. Dale Fuess of the Examiner staff, put in his application as Librarian for the new Carnegie library.

From the Board of Health recommending the construction of a sewer on Antrim street, also on Hansen avenue.

A petition from several ratepayers asked the council to take action on the House of Providence proposition.

The company have a big cut ahead of them and will be very busy for the next few months.

Farmer's Wife Was Brutally Assaulted

Lindsay, Oct., 4.—Mrs. John McGinnis, a farmer's wife living near Salem's Corners, Mariposa township, was brutally assaulted by a tramp on Saturday last. The man asked for a meal, then obtaining entrance to the house. Seeing that no one was home he demanded money and attacked the woman when none was forthcoming. She was badly beaten and bruised. Mr. McGinnis was in the fields at the time. The barking of the watch dog which seemed to have heard the woman's screams, scared away the tramp. The whole neighborhood is in the wildest state of excitement and dozens of village constables and farmers searched the swamps in the vicinity for miles for the tramp yesterday.

The Peterborough Hardware Co., have plans prepared to erect a large warehouse They have practically secured the property, and are ready to go ahead at once if they can get a siding from the C.P.R. into their new property. To get permission to get this siding, Messrs. Harry Morgan and T. McWilliams and their solicitor, R. F. McWilliams, appeared before the council and explained their request.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams spoke on their behalf and asked for permission to put a siding in back of the Hendry property. It is impossible to get a siding in unless the Hendry building is removed. The Hanmer people want a siding also and he thought the city could not have a better advertisement than its wholesale trade, and this trade should be encouraged. If the siding cannot come in at the back it will have to cross George street. The Peterborough Hardware Company want to put up a wholesale building at once and want the City Council to act at once.

Ald. Gillespie said he and several members of the committee had visited the site and found it practically as Mr. McWilliams had stated.

Ald. Baller said that while he would like to help the Peterborough Hardware Company all he could, he for one would oppose crossing George street. He added that the city engineer had said that if the old building on Dalhousie street was removed a siding could be put in. He, however, recommended that one of the new systems of sidings as used in Buffalo would be the proper thing to put in and would answer all purposes.

Ald. Metheral said he would favor crossing the road if the crossing could no be got in any other way.

Ald. Baller said the building should be removed and the siding put in the proper way.

GOOD BOTTOM

For the New Smith Street Bridge on Which Work Has Been Started.

The work of scraping the river bed under the Smith street bridge, for the purpose of securing a suitable bottom for the piers of the new bridge is being rushed as fast as possible. Scrappers to which long handles are attached are held by several men who walk along two floats which have been built for the purpose and which are pulled along underneath by means of a cable, which is drawn by an engine at the bank. The water is between ten and twelve feet deep at this place and this is a big disadvantage to the contractors. Mr. E. Conroy stated yesterday that an exceptionally good rock bottom has been found.

Local Option By-Law to Go to People Without Usual Preamble

Large Deputation, Headed by Rev. J. G. Potter and the Ministerial Association, were at the Council Meeting

In the Committee of the whole Council held before the regular council meeting the aldermen endeavored to get their bearings on the local option bylaw which it is necessary to submit to the people at the next January elections. It will be remembered that several months ago a petition signed by 25 per cent. of the ratepayers was presented to the council requesting that a local option vote be taken in January. In face of this petition the city solicitor was instructed to prepare a bylaw, and he did so and included a preamble to the effect that the bylaw was being presented on that account.

The temperance people, however, asked to have the preamble cut out as it weakened the bylaw and in the face of their arguments the majority of the council voted with them.

There was a large gathering present headed by Rev. J. G. Potter and the Ministerial Association.

City Solicitor Hall said that as a petition signed by 25 per cent. of the ratepayers the council was bound to submit the local option bylaw. The temperance people wanted the preamble omitted from the bylaw.

The aldermen favored the preamble being in the bylaw. It was the people or 25 per cent. of them requesting that the vote of the people be taken. It was not the council that brought the matter up, and therefore the council should not be held fully responsible.

Ald. Morgan wanted the preamble cut out as he claimed the bylaw would be stronger.

Some of the aldermen thought that if the preamble was cut off it would look like the council were forcing the bylaw on the people whereas it is the 25 per cent. of the people who want it submitted.

Ald. Hicks said that if the preamble is cut off that the petition be dropped entirely and a vote of the council be taken as to whether they would submits a local option bylaw or not.

The committee then adjourned to the council chamber to hear the arguments of the deputation.

THE DISCUSSION.

On motion of Ald. Hicks and Ald. Duffus the local option deputation was heard.

Rev. J. G. Potter said that the local option executive had received a copy of the bylaw it was proposed to submit next January. They had sent into the Legal Committee in Toronto, and that committee had advised that the preamble be cut off as it might lead the council into a long [illegible]

The speaker pointed out that the movement was started by the citizens and all persons are aware that not one member of the council had been connected with the inauguration of the movement.

Ald. Morgan and Ald. Metheral moved that the preamble be stuck out.

Ald. Morrow moved that whereas the city clerk and solicitor had found the petition was properly signed that the council submit the local option bylaw.

HEAVY WOOD BUSINESS.

Three Big Scow Loads of Hard Wood Unloaded Yesterday.

There will be no scarcity of good hard wood in the city this winter. A visit to the Wolfe street wharf will convince anyone of that fact. Last night there were three big scows of wood lying at the wharf and a dozen teams and a score of men busy getting it unloaded. The wood was for the Peterborough Fuel & Cartage Co., R. Hicks & Co., and J. Fitzgerald & Co. From now until the close of navigation the wood business will be very large as all the large companies are putting in a heavy stock and it is of a particularly good quality.

Mr. Carl Hayes, who for the past three years has been connected with the local Bank of Ottawa, as savings ledger keeper, has been transferred to the Kemptville branch and left Sunday morning to resume his new duties. On Saturday night he was presented with a pair of military brushes by a number of his young friends and associates during a gathering at Jacobi's restaurant. Several short speeches were made in which was expressed regret at Mr. Hay's departure and best wishes for the future.

GYPSY SMITH IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Ill., 4.—Gypsy Smith the famous English Gypsy evangelist will begin a series of revival meetings in this city tomorrow night at the 7th Armory regiment, similar to the great Alexander-Torrey revival of a few years ago. The armory seats 8,000 persons.

It is asserted, says the Ottawa Journal, that as a result of the cement merger in Eastern Canada the public in the Canadian West are facing almost a daily rise of ten cents a barrel. The price has risen from $1.75 per barrel to $2.15 a barrel since the merger was effected. The West has good cause to feel concern as to the outcome of the merger. As one Winnipeg paper remarks, cement must be classed as one of the primary necessities in the building up of the many new cities, towns and villages of the West. In Winnipeg over a million dollars annually is being spent on new pavements and cement is one of the costliest materials of which they are made. Every other city of the West, also, is quite as much interested in the price of cement. They are entering upon a period of development during which millions will be spent in constructing paved streets and side-walks. In addition to these public requirements cement is becoming one of the chief elements in the making of building material. Lumber is advancing in price and many prospective home builders on the prairies are looking to cement blocks as a more economical alternative to lumber, out of which to replace the temporary houses with permanent ones.

But though the West may imagine that the matter is of peculiar moment in that quarter it is in reality of general concern to the country. It had been suspected that the control of the Canadian output by the merger would be followed by an increase of price. This has already taken place, and the cost of cement construction must immediately go up. The burden will be more or less widely distributed. In fact, by reason of the cement merger the people of Canada are submitted to an immediate grievance.

There is, however, a remedy to hand, and it should be applied by the Dominion Government without delay. The tariff contains a provision that if it be charged that makers of a given article are in combination to restrict trade by the control of prices, the Government shall order an enquiry and if the charge be sustained by the evidence the Government may either reduce the import duties on the article in question or abolish them altogether. In the cement case the evidence is already strong enough to warrant the Government in taking action under the provisions in the tariff. An immensely powerful Merger has been formed for the control of the cement output and cement prices. This merger has already put the prices up. It then becomes the duty of the Dominion Government to institute an enquiry, and upon the result of that enquiry to deprive the merger of the protection granted it under the cement duties.

COUNCIL MEETING.

Special Session Called for This Morning at Ten O'clock.

A special session of the council will be held this morning to consider the advisability of allowing the Peterborough Hardware Company to build a siding across George street, and to pass the bylaw confirming the contract for the construction of the isolation hospital.

Wind on the Stomach

"A few weeks ago I ate some green vegetables and some fruit that was not quite ripe. It first brought on a fit of indigestion, but unfortunately it developed into biousoughs, accompanied by nausea and cramps. I was dreadfully ill for two days—my head ached and throbbed; I belched gas continually, and I was unable to sleep at night. A neighbor happened in to see me and urged me to try Nerviline. Well, I wouldn't have believed that any preparation could help me so quickly. I took half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in hot sweetened water, and my stomach felt better at once. I used Nerviline several times, and was completely restored."

The above is from a letter written by G. E. Braun, a well-known stockman and farmer near Lethbridge, Alta. Mr. Braun's favorable opinion of the high merit of Nerviline shared by thousands of Canadians who have proved Nerviline is simply a marvel for cramps, diarrhoea, flatulence, nausea and stomach disorders. Safe to use, guaranteed to cure—you can make no mistake in keeping Nerviline for your family remedy. Large 25c. bottles; five for $1.00 Sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 15

NERVILINE STRENGTHENS WEAK STOMACHS

THE WEATHER.

Fine and a Little Higher Temperature.

Don't Neglect SKIN DISEASE!

A WONDERFUL HEALER THAT DESTROYS DISEASE GERMS.

The worst forms of eczema, scalp disease, and blood-poisoning often begin as simple sores. Maybe the warning signal is a rough angry patch on the arm or thigh, or a pimply sore on the head. Don't neglect the first stages!

A sore finger-end or chapped knuckle has over and over again paved the way for serious disease. In the same way cuts and bruises frequently lead to blood-poisoning, festering, and obstinate sores. The reason is clear.

In the air around us and on our bodies are myriads of tiny microbes, many of them "the advance guard" of infectious and contagious disease. So long as the skin is whole, the delicate tissues beneath are safe. Immediately the skin becomes unhealthy, or broken by a cut or small sore, these germs swoop down, contaminate the flesh, and provoke inflammatory disease.

Torture day and night, obstinate resistance of all ordinary methods of treatment, and a tendency of the sores to spread are amongst the penalties for neglecting skin-disease.

Eczema or blood-poisoning, once having gained a foothold, are each most difficult to get rid of. They bring to their victims nights of burning torture; or may even cost the amputation of a limb.

There is only one safe course. If a little Zam-Buk is applied promptly to the affected part, immediate attack is made upon these dangerous germs. Zam-Buk is famous for its antiseptic strength, its purity, and its unique herbal character. By the influence of this rare balm (which is entirely different from mere ointments), the dangerous germs are killed and ejected from the tissues along with the other bad matter drawn out. The flesh is thus soothed by Zam-Buk, and completely purified.

When the tissues have been made perfectly sound, a new protective layer of healthy skin is made to grow. The worst wound and most obstinate sore will be found to yield to regular dressings of Zam-Buk. For this reason Zam-Buk is now often prescribed by doctors and used by nurses.

Zam-Buk contains none of the rancid animal fats or mineral poisons found in many of the cheap, antiquated ointments. On the contrary, Zam-Buk is a skilful combination of certain rare and valuable herbal juices—the outcome of patient experiment in most up-to-date laboratories and is truly the last word of science on the treatment of injuries and skin-diseases.

Mothers will find it an ideal balm for the delicate skins of young children; and in using it have the assurance that they are applying Nature's own healing essences. Zam-Buk is on a plane of its own. Nothing else is "just as good." Nothing at all approaches it. Ask for Zam-Buk and accept nothing else.

WHAT ZAM-BUK CURES.

Zam-Buk is a sure and certain cure for piles, ringworm, festering sores, ulcers, bad leg, blood poisoning, eczema, cuts, burns, sprains, bruises, scalds, sore heads, chapped hands, cold sores, chilblains, rodent ulcers, scalp sores, diseased ankles, and all other skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well into the parts affected it cures neuralgia, rheumatism, and sciatica. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, three for $1.25, and post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for prices.

HIS FORETHOUGHT.

A Bit of Zeal That Was Not Appreciated by His Wife.

He was a very busy man, and, like all of his kind, he hated to waste time by unnecessary waiting. That was why in the midst of his correspondence along about 11 o'clock the other morning he paused and, turning to his secretary, requested him to ring up his residence on the phone.

"Jemmison," he said, "get my house on the wire and ask Mrs. Blank to come to the phone. Just tell them that I wish to speak to her."

The secretary made off, and in a few minutes the required connection was made.

"Is that you, Mary?" said Blank when he got to the phone.

"Yes," was the answer.

"Well, this is John," he said. "I have just rung you up to tell you that Barker was in here this morning with two tickets for the theatre tonight. He and Mrs. Barker have been called suddenly out of town, and he thought we might like to use the tickets. How about it?"

"Fine!" replied Mrs. Blank. "I have nothing else to do."

"All right, my dear," continued Blank. "The curtain rises at half past 8."

"Yes; I know," said Mrs. Blank

"I thought I'd let you know in time so that directly you have had your lunch you can begin to to put your hat on," he went on. "Then we can get there before the middle of the first act. By-by, dear."

The only answer was the angry click at the other end of the wire, which seemed to indicate that another receiver was in trouble, but Mr. Blank only laughed as he returned to his work.

Shut Your Mouth.

George Catlin traveled among the North and South American Indians during the first half of the nineteenth century. He says that "the contrast between the two societies, of savage and of civil, as regards the perfection and duration of their teeth is quite equal to that of their bills of mortality, and I contend that in both cases the principal cause of the difference is exactly the same—that of respiration through the mouth during the hours of sleep. An Indian warrior sleeps and hunts and smiles with his mouth shut and with seeming reluctance opens it even to eat or speak."

PEARY'S POSITION

Of the controversy over the discovery of the Pole the country is growing tired, says the Buffalo Courier, and that Peary's conduct has strained the public patience is equally plain. It has aided largely for creating the situation that the people is probably fifty to one support Dr. Cook, because they like fair play and manly deportment. Beyong the accounts of individual adventure, neither of the explorers has contributed to the world's knowledge beyong the fact that there is nothing at the pole save a frozen sea. The prize sought has been personal glory and gain. Peary's disappointment, no doubt, has been bitter, still this furnishes no excuse for charges which to the present time are unsustained by evidence worthy of the name. The public has been given a new view of Peary that is not at all heroic. The impression prevails that Cook's word is as good as his; opinion has spread throughout the land that before making a further campaign for discrediting his rival it is up to Peary to produce the proofs that he reached the pole himself. It will avail him no longer to assume that the world will accept the unsupported word of a man of the temper he has exhibited toward another whose character has heretofore stood above reproach.

Peary has alienated the sympathy of many who formerly admired him. Nothing that his chief specification in opposition to Cook's claim was that the latter while in the Arctic region made no claim to have reached the pole, but that he now states that while still in that region he heard of Cook's claim, the Pittsburg Dispatch remark: "The two assertions are difficult to reconcile. But beyong that, does the declaration that he would not aid it by allowing a little property of Cook's to be put on his steamer show the spirit of wishing to hope the truth established no matter what it is, or that of being so jealous of the rival claim as to shut out the rival from his own property?"

EDUCATION AND EARNING A LIVING.

With the theory that purely academic studies in the grammar schools have outlived their usefulness in this commercial age, Professor William H. Elson, Superintendent of Schools in Cleveland, will introduce this fall one of the most radical revolutions in school curriculum ever attempted. While the academic studies will not be wholly side-tracked, the whole trend of teaching will be along industrial lines, with the idea of teaching the child the things that will mean bread and butter to him. The change will take place in the fourth of fifth year of schooling; the time devoted to academic studies of the earlier years will, in this years, be cut more than half, the time so saved being utilized in teaching the child the rudiments of trades and crafts. For the boys, shops will be installed with all necessary machinery and in charge of competent instructors. They will be drilled in the intricacies of the different trades, both through books and by working in the shops. The girls will be tutored in household duties, part of each day's work being devoted to teaching them how to sew, cook sweep, dust, and arrange a home in an artistic manner.

The experiment in Cleveland will be watched with interest. The proper apportionment of time to theoretical and practical education in our schools is a large question, and one on which there is a wide divergence of opinion. It is a noteworthy fact however, that the practical work, after years of neglect, is receiving its due share of attention.

THE MOUND BUILDERS

RELICS OF A VANISHED RACE.

The Strangely Shaped Structures Are Thought to Be More Than Two Thousand Years Old—The Enigma of Those Who Reared Them.

Scattered through the middle west and in other parts of the United States are more than 10,000 monstrous, odd shaped "mounds." Some are built like forts, others in queer, sharp geometrical figures, others shaped like huge serpents, crocodiles, buffaloes, turtles, eagles, lizards, dragons with eggs in their mouths, etc. Some of these mounds are a mile long, some much smaller. In Newark, O., stands a continuous mound, constructed in a perfect circle, more than 5,000 feet in circumference. The mounds are often covered with trees that are many centuries in age. These strangely shaped structures are thought to be more than 2,000 years old.

Certainly not the North American Indians. The Indians have ever been a lazy, roving race, making their livelihood chiefly by hunting and fishing, seldom remaining long in one neighborhood and using tents or the rudest huts as their dwelling places.

The mysterious people who built the mounds were not a race of rovers. An infinitely long time must have been required for erecting each huge earth shape. Nor were they ignorant savages, for the mounds show deep knowledge of geometry as well as of astronomy and of the principles of building. Carefully laid out military fortifications abound in the mound builders' country, indicating that the aborigines had martial lore and engineering skill and that they understood many modern principles of attack and defense.

There are also sepulchral mounds, some of them sixty feet high. These contain human bones, skulls, etc., as well as copper utensils and bits of pottery. The bones when exposed to air crumble at once to dust. As the bones of Europeans who died twenty centuries ago are often found intact and strong, many authorities believe the mound builders date back at least several centuries before the time of Julius Cæsar.

Cleverly made pottery and copper or bronze implements of war and peace are found all through the mounds. Ancient abandoned copper mines on the banks of Lake Superior show that the mound builders well understood the art of mining. The workmanship of the copper bracelets, bronze knives, etc., prove their skill at the forge.

In one of the prehistoric Lake Superior mines has been found a mass of copper weighing eight tons, resting on a high platform, ready for removal to the upper earth. This implies the use of well constructed mine machinery. Pictures that have been found etched upon copper and ivory portray much artistic skill.

From all this it seems that in some remote age the central part of North America was inhabited by a race of warlike, industrious, decidedly civilized beings who had splendid skill at building, at the arts of mining, engineering and higher mathematics and who flourished apparently during numerous centuries. Yet so long ago did the mound builders cease to exist that in all Indian folklore there is no mention, no memory, of them.

None know where the Indians themselves came from. Yet they apparently settled in America long after the mound builders had vanished. The skulls discovered in the mounds are not shaped in the least like skulls of Indians nor even of Europeans. Some archæologists claim to find strong resemblance between the mound builders' skulls and those of the ancient Egyptians. If there were any connection between the two, who can explain how an Egyptian race chanced to flourish in the middle west?

The fate of the mound builders is as mysterious as the strange people themselves. After reaching as high a civilization and thriving for as long a time it seems strange that they should have been completely destroyed. No satisfactory explanation has ever been offered. Perhaps the mound builders moved south and became merged with the Mexican Aztecs or Peruvians, or some savage race from the north may have swept down and utterly destroyed them, or a wholesale pestilence may have wiped out their nation.

The weird looking earthen monuments (the purpose of most of them a puzzle to the best archæologists) are the sole remaining proof that this great lost American race ever existed.

How He Managed.

A man in an up state county owns a number of horses and has a great reputation for skill in the treatment of them. One day a farmer who wanted some valuable information approached the horse owner's little boy and said:

"Look here, my little man, when one of your father's horses is ill what does he do?"

"Do you mean slightly ill or seriously ill?" asked the boy cautiously.

"Oh, seriously ill," said the farmer.

"Because," said the child, "if a horse is only slightly ill he gives it medicine, but if it is seriously ill he sells it."

Australian Woman Becomes Hindu.

A remarkable ceremony took place at Lucknow, India when Miss Thomson, a pretty young Australian woman, who is to be married to a Bengali barrister, formally renounced Christianity and embraced Hinduism as practiced by the Ayra Samajists.

The ceremony took place in the courtyard of the rajah of Vizianagram's residence, and was watched by a large crowd of natives.

The convert's reception by the Ayra Samajists was the customary "purification" by fire and water. Miss Thomson answered the questions of the Hindu priest in a low voice, ceremonially washed her hands and head and poured a spoonful of oil on a sandal-wood fire. She then received a Hindu name.

A HARASSING QUESTION.

What Is the Business Woman to Wear in Hot Weather?

In the first place, she wants to be cool in summer, but in any case she must be neat. And if she is neat she will at least look cool, a thing that she would not do were she over so thinly clad in apparel that was other than neat.

As it grows warmer it is a great temptation for the business woman, especially if she is rather new in the field, to resort to some of the cool, dainty frocks that suggest themselves for July and August wear. But if she has been a business woman long enough to understand the situation she knows that frills and furbelows have no place for her. She also knows that they are not essential to feminine charm and that even in the hottest weather perfect tailoring and immaculate cleanliness will do as much toward making her look and even feel cool as sash ribbons and lacy garnitures.

But just what is the business woman to wear in hot weather?

Must she stick to the cloth skirt and white waist of fall and winter? Not necessarily. There are days when she doesn't want to think of a cloth skirt. In this case if she still wishes to retain the two piece suit arrangement it would pay her to have a coat and skirt of linen or cotton poplin in tan or blue.

But this is not wholly satisfactory, as it necessitates the purchase of a coat which is not entirely suitable for wear with other garments, and the coat must be pressed often to keep it in trim. Besides this, the skirt will require more frequent laundering than the coat, and even with the best material this is sure to make a difference in the appearance of the two garments.

This season affords a peculiarly fortunate solution to the dress problem of the business girl in the smart one piece tailored dress. It is, if strictly tailored, entirely proper for wear on the street without a coat, while the shirt waist and skirt seem to suggest the presence of a coat like the skirt. Then, too, the plainly made one piece dress is perfectly suitable for business wear and can be carried out in almost any material. Even a gingham in shepherd's check of black and white has a smart tailored look, though the more common materials are cotton poplin, rachet cloth, rep or linen. The last, however, is only suitable for the woman with an unlimited amount of money for laundry and pressing.

The final advantage of the one piece dress is that it is quickly adjusted, no tiresome fussing with belt, collar and cuff links, but on and fastened up in a minute.

To add to this a skirt of some lightweight material, such as wash or lightweight suiting, will provide an alternate costume for wear with odd waists.

It takes a little courage, to be sure, but the wise business girl has learned that even in hot weather she must not yield to the temptation of wearing those soft, rumply feminine looking things. And, too, if she is wise and has a position of any responsibility or importance she will go just a little easy on this "Dutch neck" craze and will not despise the starched collar altogether.

Fried sandwiches are something new. Cut slices of graham bread very thin, butter them and then spread with grated or cream cheese. Press the slices firmly together and fry till brown in hot butter.

WAS PEPPERED WITH SHOT

Belleville, Ont., Sept. 28.—While Fred Mills and Bert Ball, of this city were hunting on a basin just west of the city limits yesterday, they were getting through a fence, when the gun carried by Mills was accidentally discharged. The bullet penetrated the fleshy part of Mills' hand, passing through it, and struck Ball on the tip of the right thumb, taking off a portion of it. The injuries sustained by Mills are not considered of a serious nature. He was brought to the city and taken to the hospital.

A HUNGRY TIGER.

Persistent Attack on a Camp Reported From India.

The Indian mail brings the story of an exciting adventure which befell a surveying party in Assam. They were attacked by a tiger. The party were working in the Lushai hills adjoining the Cachar district of Assam, and the tiger appeared at the camp of surveyor Gopal Singh. It sprang at the surveyor and one of his khalasis, but fortunately touched neither of them, and disappeared as suddenly as it had come. Three days later the tiger returned, and seized a khalasi, who was washing his cooking pots in a stream 20 yards from the camp. A native armed with a stick, rushed to the rescue, and tried to beat the tiger off. When other men arrived the brute dropped its prey and disappeared again. In a few minutes it was back again. In spite of the shouts of the natives it seized the plucky native who had gone to the rescue of the first man. Once more it was driven off, and again it returned this time to seize a third khalasi.

Frightened away again, the beast left the camp, but the party sat up all night surrounded by a chain of fires. At daybreak they proceeded to a Lushai village. An armed party set off for the abandoned camp to collect the goods left behind. They found that the tents, bedding, blankets, and bags of rice had been dragged about by the tiger, and on a sight-rule and plane-table were marks of the brute's fangs. When Mr. Williams, the camp officer, met the party all the men were so profoundly affected that not one of them could speak above a whisper. They begged not to be sent back to the same locality, but to be allowed to work for the rest of the field season in the open cultivated country. The first man seized by the beast died four days afterwards.

To Acquire Pink Cheeks.

If for some special occasion—a dance or party, for instance—you wish to have pink cheeks, Miss Fairface, try this method and see if it doesn't draw the blood to your soft cheeks and leave them a delicate pink for three or four hours: Rub cold cream into the face with a rotary movement and then wipe the superfluous cream off; rub more cream in and then rub what is left of that off. Now wash the face in warm water and then rinse it in cold water, dashing it over the face repeatedly with the hands. Now, to obtain the fresh pink color take a small piece of ice and cover it with the corner of the towel and rub it repeatedly over the cheeks. This will give a fine color which will last for hours.

As a rule, every girl who has a white complexion with but little color to the cheeks longs for a rosy complexion, and in nine cases out of ten if she cannot increase the color in her cheeks by some natural method she will end by using a rouge, which, too obvious to one, is harmful. As a matter of fact, it is vastly more becoming to some people to be pale than to have pink cheeks, and if they have a healthy, transparent skin they should feel proud to think that they have what few people can have—a white complexion that is white or cream, but not yellow.

Pretty Summer Rugs.

Effective rugs for the summer cottage or bungalow or for porch use come in blue and white, old rose and white, green and white, with headings border in Japanese style.

The border consists of several graded dot lines or of wave effects in contrasting color woven into a white background. The rugs are very inexpensive.

BROKE HER HIP.

Chamberlain Street Lady Met With Bad Accident on Saturday.

Miss Mary Finn, Chamberlain St., met with an accident on Saturday evening which resulted in her right thigh being broken. She was taking a rug off a wire in the yard when in some strange manner she lost her balance and fell, fracturing the neck of the Femur.

This is one of the most severe cases of this kind and although Miss Finn came through the operation successfully it will be some time before she is able to be around again. Herfriends will regret to learn of the mishap she has suffered, for although it occurred under very simple circumstances it is nevertheless of a serious character.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Another Through Sleeper to the Coast.

In accordance with its policy of steadily improving its service, the Union Pacific has added to the equipment of its famous St. Louis Colorado Limited a thorough standard sleeping car from Kansas City to San Francisco. This train now carries through sleepers from Kansas City to Portland San Francisco Salt Lake City and Los Angeles. In connection with the through sleepers to Portland and Los Angeles, already in service, the new car affords practically through service from St. Louis to San Francisco, as through passengers can transfer from sleeper to sleeper while en route.

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with seeming success. Rub-ess, says the doctor never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it is constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another, everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity to tell the sick of a way to health. Sold some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

WANTS ANOTHER CHANCE.

Tommy Burns Thinks He Can Win Back Title.

Tommy Burns, the former champion pugilist who lost to Jack Johnson in Sydney, Australai, and has since been making his home on the other side of the globe, is still a busy man. Writing from Waikata, New Zealand, Tommy says;

"Moved over to the island to give some exhibitions. All well. Enclosed clippings indicate my program.

Burns enclosed clippings from the Waikato Argus, the Waikato Times and other New Zealand papers, one of which has the following to say of the little heavyweight;

"Tommy Burns, ex-champion pugilist of the world, arrived in Hamilton at an early hour this morning on his way to Rotorua for a short spell, in order that he might recover from the sprain received while boxing with his trainer, O'Donnell, the other day, at Palmerton North. His manager, Mr. Taylor, informs me that arrangements have been made for Burns to give an exhibition here next Thursday, when local boxing men are invited to come along and have a bout with the ex-champion.

"In the course of an interview, Burns said;

"'I don't care where I fight again or not. My wife says it is a matter about which I must use my own judgment. If I fight again I would like it to be for the belt. You know 75 per cent. of the people in Sydney think that I wouldnt not have a chance against Johnson if we meet again. I think the opposite. Why, when I tackled Hart, 90 per cent. of the people were tickled over it. But I won., Despite all talk to the contrary, I still say that I had a chance against Johnson at Sydney notwithstanding that my back was out. I have been knocked down nine times and ultimately came out winner. It is no use disguising the fact that I expected to have to take a lot of blows from Johnson. That Johnson had two ribs fractured during his go with me is established beyond doubt now. As soon as the Johnson-Kaufman fight is over, I will cable my offer to fight the winner. I am prepared to meet Johnson on the basis of the winner to take all. Kaufman on any terms he wants. I would sooner fight in Australia than in any other part of the world.'

"Burns spoke further about his fight with Mauri Johnson and declared that if he (Burns) had let Johnson do some leading a different story would have been the result. Once or twice when Johnson assumed the aggressive he nearly fell over himself.

NOT BEATEN YET.

"'I may tell you,' continued Burns, 'that I feel confident that the championship will sooner or later return to me.'

"As to the much-talked-of Jeffries-Johnson match, the world's championship, he said; "Most people seem to think that Jeffries is a back number; but you can take it from me that he could get sufficient back to form to beat Johnson. If they were hitched up for a fight I tell you I would go broke on Jeffries. Of course some people may say that I am biased, but look here, it will be just this way; If Johnson catches sight of Jeffries in the ring he will jump out. It may be that Jeffries' eyes may have to some extent lost their cunning, but Johnson will be licked for all that.'

"While Burns was in our office this morning a cable arrived stating that Jeffries and Johnson had signed articles for a fight. On heard the news the former champion reiterated his opinion that Johnson would be licked.

Board of Education Consider Many Matters Important to Schools

Many Communications Received and Dealt with by the Board—Other Important Business Transacted

The Board of Education held its regular meeting last night and put through a lot of business.

Those present were Messrs. L. M. Hayes, K.C., chairman; D. W. Dumble, E. F. Mason, Dr. Burnham, W. F. Nelson, Dr. Morrison, John Crane.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were read and dealt with:—

From Clarice I. Davidson on behalf of the Peterborough Branch of the Woman's Art Association asking that they allow the society to have the Collegiate Hall free of charge, for a coming lecture.

From Miss M. Fessenden, accepting a position on the Collegiate staff for the balance of the term.

From Miss Burgess accepting a position on the Public School staff.

From John Hart, caretaker at the Collegiate, asking for a raise in salary of $50 as a new room had been added to his school.

The total enrollment at the Collegiate Institute is 377, with 160 boys and 217 girls and the average attendance is 306.

COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:—

Gentlemen,—Your Committee on Appointments beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

As instructed your committee advertised for an additional teacher for the Collegiate Institute staff, and received 24 applications but do not think any of the applicants are sufficiently well qualified, and recommend that Miss Muriel Fessenden be appointed for the balance of this term viz., Oct. 1st. to Dec. 21st, at the rate of $1100 per annum and would ask that your committee be authorized to advertise immediately for a male teacher, duties to start January 1st next.

The resignation of Miss Davidson from the Kindergarten staff necessitates the engaging of a teacher to fill the vacancy. It was considered by your committee that Miss Ida Gillespie of the Queen Alexandria staff, a duly qualified directress and successful teacher should be promoted to take charge of a class. This left the directress of the Queen Alexandria kindergarten without an assistant. Owing to this being the only kindergarten room where the Normal students observe the instruction, it was considered necessary to secure a fully qualified directress to do the work heretofore performed by Miss Gillespie.

For this position your committee received eight applications and after careful consideration recommend that Miss Mary Burgess of London, be appointed to the position of Assistant stant kindergarten directress of the Queen Alexandria school at a fixed salary of $400 per annum.

This is $100 more than was paid Miss Gillespie, but as this extra sum had to be paid to secure a teacher capable of taking up work with the Normal students, your committee feels that this board should continue to pay but $300 of the salary and that the remaining $100 be taken from the government grant of $2850 for extra remuneration of teachers in connection with the Normal training schools. These charges will not increase the expense to the board, and the kindergarten classes will be presided over by a capable staff of teachers. The classes will be in charge of the following teachers;

1. Queen Alexandria—Miss Warnock and Miss Burgess.
2. Central and King Edward — Miss Dunne and Miss Cameron.
3. South Central and Ashburnham —Miss Rush and Miss A-Gillespie.

Chairman and Members Board of Education:—

Gentlemen,—Your Supervision Committee beg leave to report as follows:—

In view of the fact that the government regulations regarding the Collegiate Institute call for a satisfactory gymnasium, failing which the school shall forfeit its status, your committee have entered into negotiations with the Y.M.C.A. for the service of their physical instructor and use of the equipment and gymnasium of the association, for a period of five months from November 1st. 1909 to March 31st, 1910. The cost to the Board will be $450, being half the salary of the instructor. This your committee thinks should meet the requirements for the present.

We recommend that the arrangements as outlined above should be carried out.

The overcrowding of the lower forms in the institute referred to in the principal's communication of September 7th has been to some extent relieved by the opening of another room.

The Property committee has utilized seats already on hand and the room was occupied on the first of October.

Your committee recommend that the usual grant of $25 be made to the school sports.

JOHN CRANE,
Chairman.

The annual field day of sports will be held at Riverside Park, Friday, Oct. 8th, at 1.30. You are cordially invited to be present on that occasion. In past years you have been good enough to donate $25. The boys expect that you will be equally generous this year.

On Monday, October 4th we relieved the congestion in the junior lower school by opening up another form. The janitor, in consequence, has the care of a additional room.

Last winter the pupils occupying the seats nearest to the windows on the north and the west sides of the building complained a good deal of the cold from the windows.

I am pleased to state that the pupils are taking a considerable interest in the library. The supply of books is not equal to the demand.

The bells in the class rooms are still silent.

OTHER BUSINESS.

Moved by Dr. Burnham and Mr. Nelson that the list of text books as set out in the principal's letter be adopted by the board.—Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Hill and seconded by Dr. Burnham that the chairman and secretary be instructed to prepare a letter of recommendation for Miss Davidson from this board.—Carried.

THE WEATHER.

Fine and [illegible] little higher temperature.

The Hilliard Farm for the Isolation Hospital

In all probability the new isolation hospital will be located on the south-east corner of the Hilliard farm—the site once proposed for the Normal School. The view from this elevated ground is a magnificent one, in fact one of the most beautiful in the city. It is just on top of the hill with a splendid view of the river, power houses and all the east part of the city and much of the north and central part. The street cars run along the foot of the hill the water and sewer are not far away and a public roadway runs up past the property from Water street. In every way the site is an ideal one and the only question is "Is it too good for an isolation hospital?"

Yesterday afternoon a number of the aldermen with the mayor drove up to the Hilliard property and looked over the back part as well as the front. At the rear and in line with the temporary quarters now there is a splendid site. The drawback, however, is the distance the sewer and water would have to be carried. A cesspool would have to be built. The aldermen walked across the farm and through the fine big apple orchard to the front elevation and there they were delighted with the view and the location. It is practically settled to build the hospital there with the face to the east and the side to the south overlooking the city.

The waterworks property just below the new dam has been mentioned and the aldermen went up there and walked across the new dam. This property, however, is not suitable. It is too narrow, too close to the railway track, and too close to a couple of houses. The site would, however, be an ideal one for a factory which required to be alongside the water.

Before the location is definitely decided the Property Committee will meet as there are two or three little things to settle first. The meeting will probably be held this morning and then another council meeting this afternoon.

New Water Works Dam is Progressing Rapidly

It is wonderful the progress that is being made on the new waterworks dam. The Bishop Construction Company has a very large force of men at work and one can stand and almost see the mason work climbing up. The west half of the dam with the wheel pits and sluice ways, etc., is completed, and the coffer dam for the east side will be finished today. Only a week has been spent in getting the dam into place. The pumps are already in position to start lifting the water out and they will be started in a day or two at the outside. This half of the dam will be comparatively easy to build as it is all straight work and once the foundation is cleared out there is nothing to stop the progress, and without doubt the dam will be completed this fall unless the weather turns bad

The Bishop Construction Company are also building a four-foot retaining wall on the west bank about half way between the old and the new power houses. This is to prevent the water flooding the road way as the west bank is several feet lower than the east bank where no retaining wall is necessary, although a wing from the dam will be run a short distance up stream.

The mayor and aldermen who visited the new dam yesterday were greatly interested in the work. They climbed up to the top of the power house and looked down into the wheel pits which were filled with the rushing waters. Then they climbed down and went across the coffer dam and around the whole structure. Many favorable comments were passed upon the progress of the work and upon the quality of it.

At 2.30 o'clock the venerable couple with their children and grandchildren and a few intimate friends, sat down to a sumptuous anniversary dinner at the Benson House. The spacious dining hall was beautifully decorated in gold and white effect, while rich carpets extended from the dining hall through the corridor to the main door.

The menu provided by the chef was the essence of daintiness the tables presenting a beautiful appearance. Here Mr. and Mrs. Matthews were again showered with congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthews are valued members of the Baptist Church, and during the afternoon the pastor, Rev. Mr. Welch presented them with an address.

RETURNED HOME.

Dr. T. W. H. Young Has Fine Trip Through Western Canada.

Dr. T. W. Young returned home last night after a month's trip through Western Canada. He went to the Pacific Coast and while away he visited his three brothers, who have been out there for some time. While in Winnipeg the doctor met Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun and had supper with them one night. Mr. and Mrs. Dennistoun are both well and are very glad they went West. In Edmonton the doctor met Col. Edwards and Dr. Gillespie, formerly of Lindsay. Speaking of the condition of the country the traveler said it was in fine shape. The crops had all been good and all the farmers were well satisfied. They are preparing for the fall plowing.

REV. DR. CRAFTS.

Will Be in the City all Day Sunday October 17.

Word was received over the telephone last night from Rev. Dr. Crafts in Montreal, to the effect that owing to the importance of the temperance campaign in Peterborough he would change the date of his visit here from next Tuesday night to Sunday, October 17th. Public meetings will be arranged for that day including service in two of the churches and mass meetings in the Opera House in the afternoon and evening. The work of Rev. Dr. Crafts is to fight the big four evils, viz.:

Intemperance.
Impurity.
Sabbath Breaking.
Gambling.

His famous lecture "The Verdict of the 20th Century Business and Science on the Drink Habit and Drink Traffic, will probably be given at night.

FALLACIES ABOUT HEALTH.

Fuller Knowledge of the Body Needed.

Thousands of useful lives are yearly sacrificed just because people lack knowledge of simple things about the body.

We must remember that little failures of the stomach, kidneys, or liver bring about lack of nutrition. At first the body bends before its burdens, but finally it breaks down.

Health depends upon unity of action between all the organs, and in no way can it be secured more satisfactorily than by the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. From the blood they remove every impurity—to the stomach they impart digestive power, to the bowels they ensure painless and thorough action.

It is easy to see how quickly Dr. Hamilton's Pills will restore health, how surely the system will rebuild, gain strength and endurance. For general family use in the cure of languor, headaches, weak stomach, backache and kidney complaint no medicine ranks with Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they will make you look and feel always your best. Refuse any substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills; 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

HOLDS RECORD.

Canada Evidently Holds Another Record in Connection With Transportation Matters.

The Official Guide of the Railways and Steam Navigation Lines in the United States, Porto Rico, Canada, Mexico, Cuba, is regarded by transportation men, especially those engaged in handling tievets and giving information to the public, as indispensable—it is the Bible of the railway world.

Charles E. Morgan, who has represented the Grand Trunk Railway System and its allied lines at Hamilton, Ont., for a lifetime recently received a letter from the manager of the Official Guide in which the opinion is expressed that Mr. Morgan is entitled to the credit of being the "longest continuous subscriber," his name appearing continuously on the subscription list of the Guide since March 1st, 1874.

Would not Believe Peary or Cook without Some Proof

Canada's Arctic Explorer Returns—Cook's First Letter on Return from Pole—Canada's Help Availed

Quebec, Oct. 5.—Capt. Bernier of the Government steamer Arctic, who has just come back after a year and three months away north has something to add to the Cook-Peary controversy.

"I would not admit that either has been to the Pole before I have had sufficient proof. Both are very persevering," he said.

The captain did not want to say more because he expected to be called later as a witness in the great Polar controversy.

The most interesting document discovered by Bernier was a letter he received from Cook while in Polar seas. It is dated Upernavik, May 23rd last.

"If Dr. Cook had known what I know," said Bernier, "he would have spent a fine winter, as there was a station within easy reach of him containing enough food to feed 60 men for months."

It is understood Bernier accomplished something remarkable, which he will not divulge till he reaches Ottawa. Perhaps it is that he found a new continent west of Banks Land, on which he planted the British flag. Whether this is true, or he saw the land referred to by Dr Cook is yet to be seen.

Election Money Ordered to be Paid to the Men Who Filed It

Toronto, Oct. 5.—What should be done with the money handed into court as evidence by Robt. H. Sheppard, one of the witnesses in the West Peterborough election trial was a matter for consideration.

According to Sheppard's own statements he had sent $10 to the Conservatives of his own money, claiming that it had been given him to disburse for election purposes by the Liberals. $45 he claimed to have received from Mr. J. R. Strattoe's men for services rendered.

The judges have decided that Sheppard has no claim to the money, and have ordered it paid to the men who filed it. That is the petitioner, Mr. J. H. Burnham, and the respondent, Mr. J. R. Strattoe.

Sent Bride on Train while He went on Foot

Lindsay, Oct. 5.—For fifty years Mr. and Mrs. George Matthews of this town, have enjoyed the happiness of married life, and today they are celebrating their golden wedding. The entire family gathered at the family residence and this afternoon a sumptuous banquet was spread in their honor at the Hotel Benson. Mr. Matthews is the founder of the George Matthews Packing Company. Many old friends of Mr. Matthews, who is today a rich man, can well remember the time when he had not hardly a cent to his name. While living at Port Hope he decided to come to Lindsay. He bought his wife a ticket on the railway, but he himself had to foot it all the way to this town, where he started the large concern of which he is now the president.

Presbyterian Commission in Session at Kingston

The commission appointed by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church at their last general meeting in Hamilton, to deal with the relationship of Queen's College to the Presbyterian Church in Canada, opened in Kingston yesterday. Andrew Carnegie's offer of a superannuation fund will be used as a foundation for the superannuation fund for the professors if the college is separated from the Church.

Among some of the local people present are:—Rev. W. Best of Beaverton, Rev. James Wallace of Lindsay, Rev. J. J. Wright of Elk City, Rev. John H. Edmison and Mr. R. Lees, M.A.

In view of the fact that Queen's College set out to raise a quarter of a million dollars and that three-quarters of that amount has already been subscribed the assembly naturally hesitated in permitting the severance of the church connection. The trustees of the university requested that the matter be submitted to a representative commission of ministers and laymen. The commission will likely be in session for two or threedays.

It is understood, however, that the result will be an amicable arrangement by which the theological and arts college, as under the old charter, will be retained in connection with the Church and that all the other faculties, medicine, the science hall, school of mines, the faculty of education and other affiliated colleges will be largely independent and federated under a university constitution with the liberty to elect a university president who may or may not be a member of the Presbyterian Church.

CHILDREN SHOWED IT.

Effect of Their Warm Drink in the Morning.

"A year ago I was a wreck from coffee drinking and was on the point of giving up my position in the school room because of nervousness.

"I was talking a friend about it and she said, "We drink nothing at meal time but Postum, and it is such a comfort to have something we can enjoy drinking with the children.

"I was astonished that she would allow the children to drink any kind of coffee, but she said Postum was the most healthful drink in the world for children as well as for older ones and that the condition of both the children and adults showed that to be a fact.

"My first trial was a failure. The cook boiled it four or five minutes and it tasted so flat that I was in despair but determined to give it one more trial. This time we followed the directions and boiled it fifteen minutes after the boiling began. It was a decided success and I was completely won by its rich delicious flavour. In a short time I noticed a decided improvement in my condition and kept growing better and better month after month, until now I am perfectly healthy, and do my work in the school room with ease and pleasure. I would not return to the nerve destroying regular coffee for any money."

Threatens International Crisis—Britain will Help Spain to Prevent Germany Stepping In Great Britain Worried Over the Danger to Algeciras Convention—France Also Much Alarmed

London, Oct. 5.—With the British Cabinet momentarily expecting to take action in the Moroccan trouble today, the petty Riff rebellion now threatens to precipitate grave international difficulties. It leaked out today that yesterday's cabinet meeting was called for the purpose of considering the situation in Morocco with a view to safeguarding British interests. The diplomatic service has uncovered what, it is conceived, is the real aspect of the Moroccan rebellion, and the result has caused profound alarm.

British statesmen today insist that Spain was forced to proceed with the Riff war by France for the protection of French interests.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

Cholera on the Increase.

St. Petersburh, Oct. 4.—Cholera is again increasing here. Two passers-by fell, striken by cholera, on the Nevsky Prospect, the main thoroughfare on Monday.

Mr. Robt. Grieves, general agent for the Policy Holders' Mutual Life Insurance Company of Toronto, is in the city in the interests of his company. Mr. Grieves in his new sphere, will present to his friends in this city the special advantages of the mutual system of life insurance.

STARTONBANK.

Messrs. James Rose and A.A. McIntyre have commenced work on the new Union Bank Building in Norwood. the contract of which they secured a short time ago. It is located on Colborne street, opposite King's Hotel, on the property which was razzed of its buildings by fire some years ago. The new home of the Union Bank will be a two storey building the front of the lower storey being of Romanstone and the upper of pressed brick. It will cost in the neighborhood of $6,000. The contractors will prosecute the work with as much despatch as possible. Mr. Rose leaves this morning to get the work under way.

SUFFRAGETTE MARTYRS.

To achieve martyrdom it once was necessary to die. The world has moved on and the ways of sacrifice have multiplied. There are triumphs of martyrdom well separated from its fatalities. We instance the cases of Britain's self-immolating suffragettes and the stomach pumps.

Not one of the strenuous sisters who lay in jail at Birmingham but had her source of regret the fact that she had only one life to lose for the cause. Possessed of a devouring zeal, each prisoner destined to devour her nations. A glorious end was in sight. Hunger was to consume where thirst frenzied raged, and a whole sex was to gain in power through a loss of hereic members.

When forced feeding broke the spell of starvation, did it break also the suffragettes' bright dreams of exaltation? [illegible] means. Martyrdom did not change its instruments and complexion. The saving by brute power of lives devoted to daring and death became a "horrible outrage." And the sufferers beneath the pump are luminous now under a fresh, unique oppression at the hands of men.

To be sure, they do not all see it that way. Regardless of the law against suicide, some of them talk of suits against the Home Secretary for the invasion of their right to starve. They should be better advised At law they will be merely plaintiffs. In the attitude of compulsory dining they figure in an apotheosis of devotion tangled in tyrannies.

Horse's Leg Swelled

Animal Was Too Sore and Lame to Work—Quickly Cured by Nerviline.

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill P.O. I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right fare leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff sore and swollen. I sore and swollen. Applied Nerviline and it worked like a charm, in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

NERVILINE IS A TRUSTY LINIMENT

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment."

We have received nearly five thousand letters recommending Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an allround cure for aches anh pains. One million bottles used each year. Try it yourself. THE NORTHERN CLAY BELT.

Mr. D. D. Mann, vice-president of the Canadian Northern Railway Company, says the surveyors of that line confirm the claim that there are sixteen million acres of good farming land in the Northern Ontario clay belt. He points out that Old Ontario and Quebec together have 20,000,000 acres under cultivation, which means that the agricultural development of the two old provinces may be very nearly duplicated in New Ontario. The railway magnate predicts that this latter region will some day hold the balance of power between the east and the west.

The faith of former governments in New Ontario is being rapidly justified. Those who professed to regard the cry "Build up New Ontario" as party clap-trap are now converted and are doing their share towards fulfilling the policies set on foot by their predecessors in office, and are talking as if the present Government inaugurated the development of New Ontario.

Settlement is being greatly promoted by the pushing forth of that road to meet the Transcontinental Railway whose completion will give settlement another impetus. The one disadvantage is the necessity of clearing land, but this is to some extent compensated for by the ready sale of timber. The nearness of the district to the older portion of the Province, less than a day's journey, will count for much with prospective settlers from Eastern Canada. There will not be the severance of old ties to the extent involved in a removal to the West. Northern Ontario will be a land of diversified industry, forest, field and mine, and its market will be at its doors. Great it is and greater still will be its future.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

The Artistic Temperament

The woman in black tulle and pearls spoke up sharply. "I am done with the artistic temperament for good and all," she said. "I wash my hands of it."

"Pallid, Seraphic."

"Why, Mrs Bond," protested the debutante, "you have always been the good fairy of artists of every sort and description. What do you mean?"

"I will tell you. Do you know that tall, pallid, seraphic specimen of the race whom I have been introducing to every body for the last month—Arthur Loringston."

"Yes; go on," chorused the listeners.

"Well, I had met him by the merest chance. I was struck at once by his dreamy, remote air. I learned that he was a musician, a violinist who had studied under excellent masters, had come to Chicago to get some compositions published, had failed and was stranded here without a cent of money. Of course, he didn't blurt this all out as I am doing."

"Exactly," said the others.

"Well, I went home and couldn't get that poor man out of my head. He had given me his address, so I sent for him to lunch with me and discuss matters of business. He came and played for me—divinely! I knew he was indeed an artist the moment he drew his bow across the strings of that violin. But you have heard him yourselves. Then I catechized him. The upshot of the matter was that I persuaded him after numerous interviews, long arguments, an incalculable expenditure of diplomacy and a patience not native to my soul, to let me introduce him to some of the vaudeville managers I own."

"Base woman! Corrupter of genius!" were the protests.

"Well, you may imagine the trouble I had to get even a hearing for the unfortunate vaudeville managers with my artist of the temperament. He doubted if he would not be debasing his calling to so much as consider the project. And all the time there he was, starving!"

"That, by the way, was why you got up that subscription, wasn't it, Mrs Bond?" interrupted a young man on her right.

"Yes," admitted she. "I simply couldn't see him perish with the genius of his. And I knew he must get hungry between my lunches and teas. He didn't mind the subscription at all."

"How did he come out with the auguerats of the drama?" inquired her host.

"Beautifully. They listened hopefully. Oh, such trouble as I had getting those appointments. But you know it takes time to arrange these little matters: In the midst of the negotiations, just when everything looked rosiest, my friend of the temperament disappeared. Simply dropped out of sight, leaving no word of explanation for me."

"What had happened?"

"In ten days he returned—with a wife! If you will believe me, that inane youth had gone and married a little country girl as inexperienced and helpless and altogether impossible as himself—on his prospects!

"Then I had them both on my hands. I couldn't let them die in the street, and there was something awfully appealing about Arthur Loringston. His wife was a sweet little thing, too, though I had hard work to forgive her for ruining his career by marrying him just at that time.

"So I set valiantly to work once more. Arthur had decided that he must study in Paris. He really seemed to have an idea about it. I agreed with him meekly that vaudeville was but a poor excuse for art and hardly worth man's best efforts. Then after weeks of scheming and planning and wire-pulling I was ready for my coup d'etat. What those weeks cost me in broken engagements, weariness of the flesh and self-sacrifice no one knows!"

"Poor Mrs Bond!" murmured a listener.

"Finally the day arrived which was to make my artistic friend's fortune. I secure him of his chance to study in comfort and dignity. Six of the most important people of musical sympathies in the city had consented to give an hour of their time to meet and hear him play. I knew the victory was mine won.

"Well, we met, and we waited. I knew they were fidgeting and, as for me I was shaking with fright. Forty minutes we waited in a dreary process of sociability, and finally we waited. Arthur Loringston had broken his appointment! I was sick with mortification, but I was also alarmed.

"My poor friend," I thought. "What terrible accident has prevented his coming!"

"The next day I met him on the street. He came up to me coolly, smiling appealing as ever, cheerful, yet with his little air of conscious

"Dear Mrs Bond," he said, "I was sorry to disappoint you yesterday, but it was unavoidable. My wife had a little attack of home sickness, so naturally I was unwilling to deny myself the pleasure of serving your friends."

"And that," said Mrs Bond, "is why I have renounced the artistic temperament and all its works."

Rub-ags, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it is constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another, everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread its praise. ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

The Barbarous Babe

By E. Ayres.

(Copyright by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

She was just a little four-year old girl, whom I had been told off to "amuse," as they called it, and as I thought myself until I sank into my proper place of comparative insignificance. When we were left alone we sat looking at each other for some time in silence. I seeing a sweet, demure little face with a frame of flaxen curls, but what her wondering eyes took in I cannot tell, only they made me feel very large and world-worn.

"Would you like to see my baby?" she said, and, slipping down from her chair, disappeared beneath the table, a mysterious underworld when one is only four.

I waited, wondering if I should see some cherished doll, or perhaps a cushion baby, but when she came out her hands were quite empty, although held out carefully.

"Isn't he a dear little mite?" she asked suddenly, looking down with a tender mother-love shining in her eyes, and she began to rock the outstretched arms, as though they indeed held a little baby.

"I'll put him on the ground," she said at last; "he likes to toddle," and the fictitious baby was gently set down. Then she began to tell me his history. "Do you know," she said, "that there was a fire in this baby's house? He brought away his kitty but his mover an' faver an' bwover an' nurse were all burnt."

"Burnt to ashes," she assures me with a delicate glee.

And as I sit wondering over the barbarity of childhood, I hear the soft little voice say wistfully: "My faver's coming home on Fursday week."

"What will you say when you see him?" I ask unthinkingly.

She turns rather red. "I shall not say anything. I'll be too happy for that," she whispers.

But before I have realized this glimpse of a love almost womanly in its expression, she looks round to where the imaginary baby is playing with the equally imaginary kitten. Her whole face lights up with a look wonderful to see. "Those two dear little tots are playing together so sweetly," she murmurs; "why, the kitty has got into the waste-paper basket. Please may I tie your dog or he might frighten the pets?"

So my big collie is dragged off to a distant corner and there tied up with a "pretense" cord, but, being a dog of a gentlemanly disposition, he seems to find it as binding as the heaviest of steel chains; or has he too entered his dream-world, whose shadowy boundaries I find so hard to trace?

And then I hear a gentle crooning and the sound of soft kisses, but I see it is that lucky dream-baby upon whom this tenderness is being lavished.

"Do you know," the real child says, wondering tones,—"do you know this poor baby of mine had a slave called Jemima who was very cwuel to him. She used always to take away his bottle. I cannot think how she could do such a thing, can you? But we cut off Jemima's hands and feet—"

"Oh, no, we did not" I contradict, startled out of politeness.

"Scuse me, we did," the tender voice urges; "scuze me, we cut them off an' stewed them. Then we killed her with scissors."

But as I remonstrate upon the enormity of the punishment compared with the crime the small executioner relents, and finally adopts my suggestion of sending the illfated Jemima to a boarding school—a very strict one. "But it was school in South Afwica," she adds, "and I know she is finding consolation in the thought of there being lions and tigers ready to make a meal of naughty little girls who run away."

Bit again I feel that children are cruel, and that as we grow older we lose in imagination we surely in tenderness, but my thoughts interrupted by a book being put into my hands, and a baby voice asking for a "story, please."

I select one at random, it is the "Babes in the Wood," but before I have finished the first page I hear little sound, and, looking up, I see two blue eyes drowned in tears.

"Shall I stop?" I asked compunctiously but the baby shakes her head. But before we reach the end, two fat arms are flung round my neck, a damp face is pressed to mine.

"Poor, poor little wobin was dead!" she sobs unexpectedly; "was a lot of leeves they had to Record in Cross-Examination.

Something like a record in length of cross-examination was accomplished in Liverpool, England, by Mr. Greaves, with Mr. Leslie Scott as his opponent, appeared at St. George's hall in the celebrated case in which the Lever Bros. Watch Company is a party. The cross-examination of the manager of the company started on Tuesday morning and was still going strong on Saturday, and as the court was busy for nearly eight hours, the cross-examination lasted for over 40 hours.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you?

Then why pay for medicine until that much also first proves to you its actual worth?

Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns." And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "No help, No pay" contract.

I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolute by free if it fails". Let others do the same or else pass their prescriptions by.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are wrong then best Dr Shoop's Restorative. I do not dose the Stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. Years ago I cast away that mistaken idea in medicine. The books below will best tell you how I am succeeding.

These books also tell of a day hidden "in the nerve," no larger than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until in fails, actually gives to the Heart its power, its tone, its never-ceasing action or impulse.

These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how the Stomach, and Kidneys each have their "inner or lower nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize these weak or failing inside nerves. All of them long call why I am able to say, "It is free if it fails."

This is why I say "take no chance on a medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to loan me medicines to the sick.

But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So drop me a line please—and then have an appointment and delays. Tell me also which book you need.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to speech me or you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort to surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

THE MOUND BUILDERS

RELICS OF A VANISHED RACE.

The Strangely Shaped Structures Are Thought to Be More Than Two Thousand Years Old—The Enigma of Those Who Reared Them.

Scattered through the middle west and in other parts of the United States are more than 10,000 monstrous, odd shaped "mounds." Some are built like forts, others in queer, sharp geometrical figures, others shaped like huge serpents, crocodiles, buffaloes, turtles, eagles, lizards, dragons with eggs in their mouths, etc. Some of these mounds are a mile long, some much smaller. In Newark, O., stands a continuous mound, constructed in a perfect circle, more than 5,000 feet in circumference. The mounds are often covered with trees that are many centuries in age. These strangely shaped structures are thought to be more than 2,000 years old.

Certainly not the North American Indians. The Indians have ever been a lazy, roving race, making their livelihood chiefly by hunting and fishing, seldom remaining long in one neighborhood and using tents or the rudest huts as their dwelling places.

The mysterious people who built the mounds were not a race of rovers. An infinitely long time must have been required for erecting such huge earth shapes. Nor were they ignorant savages, for the mounds show deep knowledge of geometry as well as of astronomy and of the principles of building. Carefully laid out military fortifications abound in the mound builders' country, indicating that the aborigines had martial love and engineering skill and that they understood many modern principles of attack and defense.

There are also sepulchral mounds, some of them sixty feet high. These contain human bones, skulls, etc., as well as copper utensils and bits of pottery. The bones when exposed to air crumble at once to dust. As the bones of Europeans who died twenty centuries ago are often found intact and strong, many authorities believe the mound builders date back at least several centuries before the time of Julius Cæsar.

Cleverly made pottery and copper or bronze implements of war and peace are found all through the mounds. Ancient abandoned copper mines on the banks of Lake Superior show that the mound builders well understood the art of mining. The workmanship of the copper bracelets, bronze knives, etc., proves their skill at the forge.

In one of the prehistoric Lake Superior mines has been found a mass of copper weighing eight tons, resting on a high platform, ready for removal to the upper earth. This implies the use of well constructed mine machinery. Pictures that have been found etched upon copper and ivory portray much artistic skill.

From all this it seems that in some remote age the central part of North America was inhabited by a race of warlike, industrious, decidedly civilized beings who had splendid skill at building, at the arts of mining, engineering and higher mathematics and who flourished apparently during numerous centuries. Yet so long ago did the mound builders cease to exist that in all Indian folklore there is no mention, no memory, of them.

None know where the Indians themselves came from. Yet they apparently settled in America long after the mound builders had vanished. The skulls discovered in the mounds are not shaped in the least like skulls of Indians nor even of Europeans. Some archæologists claim to find strong resemblance between the mound builders' skulls and those of the ancient Egyptians. If there were any connection between the two, who can explain how an Egyptian race chanced to flourish in the middle west?

The fate of the mound builders is as mysterious as the strange people themselves. After reaching so high a civilization and thriving for so long a time it seems strange that they should have been completely destroyed. No satisfactory explanation has ever been offered. Perhaps the mound builders moved south and became merged with the Mexican Aztecs or Peruvians, or some savage race from the north may have swept down and utterly destroyed them, or a wholesale pestilence may have wiped out their nation.

The weird looking earthen monuments (the purpose of most of them a puzzle to the best archæologists) are the sole remaining proof that this great lost American race ever existed.

How He Managed.

A man in an up state county owns a number of horses and has a great reputation for skill in the treatment of them. One day a farmer who wanted some valuable information approached the horse owner's little boy and said:

"Look here, my little man, when one of your father's horses is ill what does he do?"

"Do you mean slightly ill or seriously ill?" asked the boy cautiously.

"Oh, seriously ill," said the farmer.

"Because," said the child, "if a horse is only slightly ill he gives it medicine, but if it is seriously ill he sells it."

Australian Woman Becomes Hindu.

A remarkable ceremony took place at Lucknow, India, when Miss Thomson, a pretty young Australian woman, who is to be married to a Bengali barrister, formally renounced Christianity and embraced Hinduism as practiced by the Ayra Samajists.

The ceremony took place in the courtyard of the rajah of Vizianagram's residence, and was watched by a large crowd of natives.

The convert's reception by the Ayra Samajists was the customary "purification" by fire and water. Miss Thomson answered the questions of the Hindu priest in a low voice, ceremonially washed her hands and head and poured a spoonful of oil on a sandal-wood fire. She then received a Hindu name.

A HARASSING QUESTION.

What Is the Business Woman to Wear in Hot Weather?

In the first place, she wants to be cool in summer, but in any case she must be neat. And if she is neat she will at least look cool, a thing that she would not do were she ever so thinly clad in apparel that was other than neat.

As it grows warmer it is a great temptation for the business woman, especially if she is rather new in the field, to resort to some of the cool, dainty frocks that suggest themselves for July and August wear. But if she has been a business woman long enough to understand the situation she knows that frills and furbelows have no place for her. She also knows that they are not essential to feminine charm and that even in the hottest weather perfect tailoring and immaculate cleanliness will do as much toward making her look and even feel cool as sash ribbons and lacy garnitures.

But just what is the business woman to wear in hot weather?

Must she stick to the cloth skirt and white waist of fall and winter? Not necessarily. There are days when she doesn't want to think of a cloth skirt. In this case if she still wishes to retain the two piece suit arrangement it would pay her to have a coat and skirt of linen or cotton poplin to tan or blue.

But this is not wholly satisfactory, as it necessitates the purchase of a coat which is not entirely suitable for wear with other garments, and the coat must be pressed often to keep it in trim. Besides this, the skirt will require more frequent laundering than the coat, and even with the best material this is sure to make a difference in the appearance of the two garments.

This season affords a peculiarly fortunate solution to the dress problem of the business girl in the smart one piece tailored dress. It is, if strictly tailored, entirely proper for wear on the street without a coat, while the shirt waist and skirt seem to suggest the presence of a coat like the skirt. Then, too, the plainly made one piece dress is perfectly suitable for business wear and can be carried out in almost any material. Even a gingham in shepherd's check of black and white has a smart tailored look, though the more common materials are cotton poplin, rocket cloth, rep or linen. The last, however, is only suitable for the woman with an unlimited amount of money for laundry and pressing.

The final advantage of the one piece dress is that it is quickly adjusted, no tiresome fussing with belt, collar and cuff links, but on and fastened up in a minute.

To add to this a shirt of some lightweight material, such as washable or lightweight suiting, will provide an alternate costume for wear with skirt waists.

It takes a little courage, to be sure, but the wise business girl has learned that even in hot weather she must not yield to the temptation of wearing those soft, rumply feminine looking things. And, too, if she is wise and has a position of any responsibility or importance she will go just a little easy on this "Dutch neck" craze and will not despise the starched collar altogether.

KIPLING SEES DISASTER.

Predicts Trouble as a Result of Present Social Tendencies.

National disaster from present-day tendencies of the National Government is prophesied in a long poem by Rudyard Kipling, which the Morning Post prints.

Describing the citizens of an imaginary state, "The City of Brass," he tells how they started to "decree a new earth at a birth without labor or sorrow."

Their administrative ideas are thus described:

They said: "Who has hate in the soul?
Who has envied his neighbor?
Let him arise and control both that man and his labor."
They said: "Who is eaten by sloth?
Whose unthrift has destroyed him?
He shall levy a tribute from all because none have employed him."
They say: "Who has toiled? Who hath striven and gathered possession?
Let him be spoiled, he hath given full power to transgression."

They raised their ramparts to convert them into pleasure grounds, encouraged rebellion in their colonies, flung away the Imperial possessions their forefathers gained, scouted faith and endeavor, and derided the idea of restraint.

Nemesis comes when they are steeped in self-satisfaction in the form of a hostile host, and the poem concludes:

The eaters of other men's bread, the exempted from hardship,
For the hate they had taught through the State brought the State no defender,

A Fading Art.

The art of carving is disappearing among the Maoris of New Zealand. There is no demand for war canoes now, except from world's fairs and Paris expositions. In the olden days the chief's house, the storehouse, and the posts of the village stockade were ornamented with carved figures. But the rainy climate of the country and other causes have been fatal to these monuments. One must go to the museums to see specimens of this fading art.

The "haka" is the war dance or call to arms of old Maoriland. Stripped to the waist, the men arrange themselves in two files and begin to chant in a low tone, a woman giving them the time. They turn right and left, stamping and waving their arms, till they work themselves up to a prodigious pitch of fury expressed by rolling eyeballs and deafening roars. Standing to one side, the woman "leader" urges them on to the climax. They give one thundering stamp, and thrust out their tongues as far as they can. This was the supreme act of defiance to the foe. In the olden days it was no light matter to attend a "haka." Then each warrior brandished a heavy greenstone club, and once heated to the pointed of battle frenzy, would hardly cool down, even at a play "haka," without clubbing somebody just to keep his hand in practice.

Cinematograph in Central Africa.

There seems to be no limit to the ramifications of modern inventions. No sooner does anything establish itself in the favor of the public than it bobs up serenely everywhere. Who would have thought, for instance, that the cinematograph, popular and entertaining as it is, would have appealed to the wild and woolly native of Central Africa? Yet a letter from the office of Superintendent of Buildings at Zomba, Nyasaland, assures us that this is so. The venture is successful, too. Mr. Hackett, of Frome, Somerset, is the intrepid pioneer, and the letter I have received states that "his exhibition has attracted the natives by the thousand." They call Mr. Hackett the "witch doctor," and he is still proceeding into the interior, "with a convoy of 40 Kaffirs to carry provisions, outfit, etc —London Answers.

A WELSH FESTIVAL.

Eisteddfod is Opened by Musicians in London.

In a pretty glade in Kensington Gardens, in London, near the Serpentine, the Welsh bards celebrated recently the ritual of the Gorsedd which marks the opening of the national eisteddfod.

According to the ancient tradition, the rites must be performed "in the face of the sun, the eye of light," and though the somber skies made it impossible to carry out the letter of the law, it was fulfilled sufficiently in the spirit by the performance of the rites in a druidical circle erected in the open air.

The circle consists of unhewn stones, outside of which three other stones are placed. In the centre of the circle is the Maen Llog, a large stone supported on three others.

A trumpeter, standing upon this stone, sounded the Corn Gwlad, thus formally opening the Gorsedd, and the prayer of the Gorsedd was recited in Welsh.

The bards, in their blue, green and white robes, presented a striking spectacle, and the insignia of his office rendered Dyfed, the archdruid, a notable figure. With his flowing white robe, oakleaf crown, and golden torque of horseshoe shape, he was impressive indeed as he mounted the Maen Llog and cried aloud thrice in a voice of thunder the formal challenge, "A oes Heddwch?" (Is it Peace?).

"Heddwch!" the assembly shouted, and Dyfed sheathed again the eight-foot sword which, in symbolic rite, he had half drawn from its scabbard.

Speech-making in Welsh followed, and then the bards and onlookers trooped off to the Albert Hall, where the eisteddfod met.

The proceedings at the hall during the morning were disappointing in a great many ways, and there appeared to be a deplorable lack of organization.

The best singing was heard in the chief choral competition, in which the first prize went to the Carnarvon Choral Society, and the second to the Llanelly Choral Society.

At the afternoon meeting Mr. Balfour made a most interesting speech in praise of music.

"Music has ever been one of the great arts in which Welshmen have excelled," he stated. "There cannot be a rift which carries with it higher pleasures—pleasures more easy of attainment, pleasures which leave no after-sting, no after-taste of evil, but which raise and must raise the whole level of civilised pleasures among the people who practice them.

"Music knows no national barrier; music is not subject to the limitations which unhappily beset language. Music speaks to men of all races and of all tongues."

Costly Pennies.

Who was Wigla? Numismatists know, and gave £449 for two of his silver pennies at Sotheby's. Wigla, or Withlafe, as his name is sometimes spelt in the old chronicles, was that King of Mercia tributary to Egbert, first King of England, and held nominal sway between [illegible] the Thames, without with a cross in centre and a pellet in each angle within a beaded centre on the obverse, and lunettes and pellets on the reverse, caused exciting bidding, which reached £375 (Spink). Only one other of this particular type is known, and it is fortunately in the British Museum. Another Wigtal penny, with a rude head in a circle and a cross-crosslet in centre of reverse, realised £174 (Lincoln). This was found at Dorking in 1617. The sale was that of the famous Rashleigh collection. A penny of Egberht (786-792)—not to be confounded with Egberht, son of Offa of Mercia, but the King of Kent mentioned in old charters—without a bust, but with the King's name, made £183 (Lincoln). Only three other coins of this type are known, two being in the Hunter Museum, Glasgow. An East Anglian penny of Eadvald, 819-827, realised £83 (Lincoln), and one of Jaenberht, who was Archbishop of Canterbury between 766 and 190, £38. This was discovered near Netley Abbey, and wears the names of Offa and the Archbishop. In the digging of the foundation for the Martyrs' Memorial at Oxford, another of this prelate's pennies was found, and this fetched £30. A penny with the diademed bust of Cynethryth, who was Offa's Queen, made £30 (Spink).

Lord Balcarres as a Walker.

It was Lord Balcarres, a trustee of the National Portrait Gallery, who announced the saving to England of Holbein's picture, "The Duchess of Milan." His lordship has crowded much good work into his thirty-seven years of life. Not only has he distinguished himself in the cause of art and architecture — he is a trained architect—but he has also served the state in the House of Commons as one of the Unionist Whips. A notable characteristic is his rapid walk. "Burns' gallop is nowhere in it with Balcarres' walk," growled a recalcitrant member on one occasion after being fetched back to the neverending divisions while trying to escape. "It's no good unless you are streets ahead."

Helping the Enemy.

A coal heaver was getting in a load of coal in the suburbs of London. He was shoveling in the coal at a good rate when he was startled by a terrific yell from the house adjoining.

"Wot the dickens is the matter?" queried the coal man, starting up.

"Matter, you thickhead!" shouted the man, frantically endeavoring to pull his hair up in slots by the roots. "You are putting the coal down the wrong hole. My wife's people live there!"—London Tit-Bits.

AMONG THE CANNIBALS.

Details of the expedition lately concluded by the southern Nigerian Government, by which some 5,000 square miles of hitherto unknown and unadministered country in the north and in the borders of Northern Nigeria have been brought under effective control, have been received by Reuter's Agency.

These operations, which were carried out among tribes who for the most part had never previously seen a white man, proved entirely successful, and were so managed that there was practically no serious fighting. They began early in November last, and only concluded in the middle of April.

The British force consisted of 700 men of the southern Nigeria Regiment, under the command of Colonel Trenchard, who had with him thirty officers, six Maxims and 700 carriers.

The Yula people, in whose country the columns remained for a months, gave a good deal of trouble. When their villages were entered they were found to be deserted, the women and live stock having been removed. The men, meanwhile, had formed bush camps in the open yam fields, where they could see the approach of the British, and had also hidden in the branches of trees scouts, whose duty it was to fire signal guns.

The people then took to their heels and encamped elsewhere, but fired on the column when they were in what they regarded as a tight corner. This tribe, like most of those encountered, was armed with flint locks and carried poisoned arrows, but, fortunately, the country was fairly open and the aim not very accurate.

After some weeks of this kind of thing the Yulis came in, but declined to give up their guns.

In places the natives, hearing of the approach of a large force, dug pits and planted stakes to prevent their progress. What little hostility there was occurred during the earlier part of the operations in the Okpoto country and among the northern Ibo tribes.

Colonel Trenchard's force started in two columns—one from the Niger and one from the Cross River—with instructions to make for an unknown spot marked X, the two afterward joining at Ikom, where the first base camp was formed. From this base small columns were sent out in various directions, each being responsible for a definite district, which was to be mapped, and where the officers' duty was to get into touch with the natives and to show them how to make good roads.

In each case the commanding officer of the column summoned the local chief and explained the Government terms, emphasizing the fact that all human sacrifices must stop, that good roads must be made, and that a British commissioner would be appointed, who would settle all disputes.

On these occasions there were impressive gatherings of thousands of natives in many cases cannibals, and for the most part naked, or practically so. They did not show undue delight at the advent of the British, and, as a rule, silently listened to the recital of the Government terms, and then slowly dispersed.

The various columns report that they found far less human sacrifice and juju rites in the interests unknown north than among the tribes of the delta, and, on the whole, the people were of a better physical type. Several juju places were seen, and a big centre was destroyed. It was impossible to discover the nature of the juju rites practiced, but in the vicinity of one big juju house discovered in a bush clearing there was found a good deal of blood—whether human or not was not ascertained.

A pain prescription is printed upon each 25c. box of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Ask your Doctor or Druggist if this formula is not complete. Head pains, womanly pains, pains anywhere get instant relief from a Pink Pain Tablet. Sold by all dealers.

A PERFECT DREAM CITY.

"London was yesterday a city of gold and green and white. Golden sunshine in the streets and parks, green foliage on every tree upon which the sun shone down, white buildings, newly built or newly painted, with clear outlines under a sky of Oriental blue. What dream-city could be more perfect than London on such a day?

Truly it was an unforgettable day—a day on which it is good to be alive, very good to be young when the spring calls to the blood and when perfume steals into the senses; good even to be old and to sun oneself in the memory of other spring days as golden as this.

The London season is beginning! Good words to those who have the leisure and means to play the game, the merry game of the social whirligig, good even to those who are merely lookers-on.

Yesterday the fun had begun. The King was in town, the court was in the capital the servants of society had pulled up the window blinds of town houses and the sun was shining.

So the streets were very full of life at its best and brightest. Down Bond street and Piccadilly—the highways of the lucky ones—there was an endless tide of carriages, and the sun gleamed upon brightly polished panellings, flashed fire from the brass head lamps and metal work of magnificent motor cars, and glistened on the smooth flanks of good horses, which went dashing by as proudly as though there were no such thing as petrol.

Women were in the carriages and walking on the shady side, and one man sighed because he could not wear salmon pink, or Madonna blue, or walk in lilac beauty like these ladies who were the flowers of the London streets. Flowers, literally because all their hats were in full blossom, brought out by this brilliant sunshine, and from the top of an omnibus one looked down upon moving bouquets of roses and daisies and forget-me-nots, as though all the flowers in Kensington Gardens had been plucked as the garlands of England's fair women.

Yet the men did their poor best, yesterday, to do credit to the divine day. Old Bucks had put on white waistcoats, and young bloods in new silk hats—bright and beautiful things—had put yellow gloves upon their hands. The Green Park was a paradise, into which had slunk many poor devils, against whom the gates of this paradise were not closed. These Weary Willies had come out of the slums, for spring called to them also, and they lay, in lazy happiness and seedy clothes, like corpses on the emerald greensward, which was a carpet worthy of Kings.

Railway men receive so little in the way of commendation that such a letter as this, written by Mr. Arthur A. Lotto of the "Gay Musician Company" to Mr. Frank P. Dwyer, General Agent of the Passenger Department at New York, helps a lot:

A Hydraulic Plunger

A passenger elevator of the latest and most modern design will be installed in the Bee Hive within a short time for the convenience of the large number of customers who patronize this store. The elevator is manufactured and installed by the Otis-Fensome Elevator Company of Toronto, and the operating mechanism is on the same principle as that of the lift lock and makes it absolutely safe to travel in. No cables are used, the motive power being water, which is sent through a pipe near the bottom, and is of sufficient pressure to raise a load of 1500 pounds. The speed is 100 feet per minute but can be regulated to suit conditions. On descending a 10½inch plunger, which is inserted in a 12-inch cylinder, forces the water out through the supply pipe, and this arrangement makes it impossible for an accident to occur.

Alterations are being made in the third storey of the building. A brick

The elevator will be installed at the center of the east end of the store and will connect with all departments. The Beehive is to be congratulated on making such a progressive move.

A funny stunt happened on the dump near the carters, shelter yesterday afternoon, and as a result there will be a police court case this morning. Three old men are at work on the dump. One was a member of the black list brigade and another one had just regained his freedom a few days ago. The old boys got dry and they decided to have some refreshments. The black listhad the necessary coin but his character was no good with the liquor men. The other fellow had no money but his face was good. The two compromised. The ex-blacklister got 50c from the blacklister and hiked up town for the wet goods. He got them all right, but unfortunately he was overcome with thirst before he got back and he emptied the bottle. Upon his return without the booze the man who put up the money got sore. His anger and disappointment knew no bounds. He just waded into his old pal and gave him a good trimming. The third man then took a hand in the fray, and he, with the man with the satisfied thirst, were endeavoring to force the "Indian" to apologize upon his knees for his unruly temper. At this stage P. C McGinty appeared on the scene and took charge of the chief offender.

Considering all the circumstances the blacklister can hardly be blamed for his lack of self-control. He started off with 50 cents and a big long thirst. He parted with his 50 cents, fully expecting to have that dry, parched feeling in his neck replaced by at least a quarter's worth of joy water; but he got an empty bottle with but very little smell to it and a big smile from his ex-friend as he licked his chops and smacked his lips over the poor Indian's whiskey. Consider the man's feelings and then think of what you would have done under similar circumstances. Did you ever want a drink real bad?

THIRTY MEN MEET AN AWFUL DEATH IN A VANCOUVER MINE

In Explosion at Wellington Colleries on Vancouver Island—Sixty Miners Entombed—Wives and Relatives of Men in a Hysterical State of Suspense

Vancouver, Oct. 6.—Thirty miners are believed to have been killed as the result of an explosion in the Extension mine near Nanaimo, on Vancouver Island, owned by Robert Dunsmuir & Sons, incorporated as the Wellington Colliery Company. The explosion was in No. 4 slope in No. 2 mine, and is supposed to have been caused by an open light igniting gas liberated from a pocket. About sixty men were employed in that part of the mine. Only half of whom have been rescued so far. The wives and relatives of the imprisoned men are in a hysterical state of suspense. Rescuers have come from Nanaimo and Ladysmith but no others are allowed to come to the mine. Among those known to be dead are James O'Connell, a well known British Columbia football player, and the following; Alex. McLennan, married; Herman Peterson, Tom O'Connel, single; Robert White, married; James Molyneux, T. Thomas, single; John Wargo, married; William Davidson, single; Andrew Moffatt, married, Fred Ingham, William Quinn, single; P. Ismaster, William Shield, married.

William Strong, one of the rescued, said that the explosion occurred while he was at work. The lights were blown out by the dust and the rush of wind took the men off their feet. They made for the counter level and were joined by many others. Suddenly those in front cried, "Get back, we can get no further."

This was the last Strong saw of his fellow workmen. The place was hot and fearfully stifling and he groped his way back to the place he had been working and remained there till rescued.

Englishmen to Search for the South Pole

Expedition is Being Fitted Out Now—Capt. Scott, an Experienced Explorer, to Make Attempt

London, October 6 —Profiting by the new enthusiasm aroused for Polar exploration, a British exuedition is being organized to reach the South Pole. During the summer of next year the new adventure, led by Captain Robert Falcon Scott of the Royal Navy, is to be undertaken. Captain Scott is at present employed at the Admiralty. His second in command will also be a naval officer. Lieut. E. R. G. R. Evans, of the Navigation School at Portsmouth. Lieut. Shackleton, whose splendid work in the mysterious Far South is familiar to our readers, is not to accompany the expedition. His engagements prevent him from doing so. Funds amounting to £40,000 are needed for the coming dash. Already the keen interest which the public is just now taking in Polar subjects is reflected by encouraging letters and promises of financial support for Captain Scott's expedition, the promoters of which have taken offices in Westminster. It would appear that, whatever the ultimate verdict of science upon the rival claims of Captain Peary and Dr. Cook with regard to the North Pole, British explorers are going to take no risks in the matter of the discovery of the South Pole, and are going to make, by this expedition, yet another determined effort to "nail" the Union Jack to it indubitably and before the rest of the world's explorers have penetrated so far. Captain Scott commanded the National Antarctic Expedition of 1900-4, and afterwards published in "The Voyage of the Discovery" one of the most fascinating and stirring accounts of polar exploration ever published. The new expedition will work from two bases.

SOUTHERN EXTREME.

One will be situated in MacMurdo Sound, which is on the Southern extreme of Victoria Land and dominated by Mounts Erebus and Terror. The second will be in King Edward VII. And if that point can be reached King Edward VII, Land, as its name impress, is probably the most recently discovered portion of the earth, and the expedition will endeavor to explore this land much more thoroughly than Captain Scott was able to do when he discovered and named it on his recent journey. It will of course, make the South Pole its goal and, following upon the work of Lieut. Shackleton, the greatest confidence is felt that something stirring and valuable will be accomplished. Captain Robert Falcon Scott in his previous voyage in the Discovery went far to suggest, if not to decide definitely, the formation of the great Antarctic continent. He was further convinced that the great ice field, rising from 100 feet to 200 feet out of the sea, is indeed a huge iceberg and floating in the water, rather and floating in the water, rather than the glacial covering of land. This barrier was first discovered by Sir James Clark, and, according to Captain Scott, it had receded, southward sixty miles since its discovery. Captain Scott will be accompanied by many of those who followed him to his former expedition. His second in command will, as stated above, be Lieut. Evans, R. N., who is on the staff of the Navigation School at Portsmouth, and has made a previous voyage to the Polar regions as second officer of the Antarctic Discovery relief expedition in the Morning. It is hoped the ship eventually chosen to carry the explorer and his party will be fitted with the Anschutz gyroscope compass, which is non-magnetic, and derives its directive power from the earth's mot on combined with gravity. Owing to the vicinity of the South Magnetic Pole the ordinary magnetic compass practically losses its pointing power in the latitudes in which Captain Scott's ship will cruise. The gyroscope compass being non magnetic will not be adversely affected, and this is the first occasion on which it will have been used in these latitudes.

Farewell to Judge Roger from Congregation of St. Paul's Last Night

St. Paul's congregation bid a formal farewell to Judge G. M. Roger and Mrs. Roger last night after the regular prayer meeting. The event took place in the Sunday school room and was attended by a large representation of the members and officers. Judge Roger has from childhood been connected with the church, and Sunday school and has filled many offices in both. Now that he is taking hisdeparture from the church of his birth it is only becoming that some such mark of esteem and appreciation should be shown him by the members.

Rev. Robert Pogue, pastor of the church, opened the proceedings by an eulogistic reference to the guest of the evening. He called upon Mr. J. C. Shook to read the farewell address on behalf of the officers and members of the church and to make the presentation of a cut glass water set.

The address read was as follows: His Honor Judge Roger:—

Sir,—The pastor, elders, managers, members and adherents of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, desire to congratulate you on your recent appointment to the junior judgship of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham.

From what we know of your past we believe you wil discharge the duties of that important office with credit to yourself and with benefit to the people of the territory under your jurisdiction.

We also desire to congratulate you on your marriage, and sincerely hope that you and Mrs. Roger may realize all the happiness you anticipate from that important event.

We regret more than we can express that the duties now incumbent upon you force you to serve your connection with St. Paul's church, with which you have been identified from its beginning, being for many years one of its most prominent elders.

We unfeignedly trust that your new relations both as a citizen and a church member may be as cordial and as mutually beneficial as those of the old.

We also sincerely hope that we may occasionally have an opportunity of seeing you in our city and in our church, receiving the pleasant and hearty greetings of the past.

Signed on behalf of the congregation of St. Paul's church.

ROBERT POGUE, Pastor.

Peterborough, Oct. 6, 1909.

Addresses were also made by Sheriff Hall on behalf of the session and in his remarks he voiced the feelings of the session and the congregation; and on behalf of the Sunday school by Mr. Madill, in which the judge was also a prominent worker.

Following the addresses light refreshments were served and a pleasant hour spent during which time those present personally said goodbye to Judge and Mrs. Roger and wished them all happiness in their new home.

Judge G. M. Roger is the last member of the family of the late Rev. J. Morrice Roger, who was the founder of St. Paul's church in Peterborough. Rev. J. Morrice Roger, M.A., was the son of a Scotch Presbyterian minister of Aberdeenshire, Scotland. He came to Canada in 1833. Soon after his arrival he proceeded to Peterborough. There was no church here, but the young minister soon gathered around him a flock of devoted followers, and laid the foundation for St. Andrews church, and later became the pastor of St. Paul's church, which position he held for 40 years.

His Honor Judge Roger was born in Peterborough, and lived here all his life. He is one of the best-known men in the city and county, and the one characteristic which has marked his career has been his desire to assist in the uplifting of humanity. Not only was he always a prominent and earnest worker in St. Paul's church but he was actively engaged in the Y.M.C.A., and every other institution and society which was for the moral betterment of the community. He is a man who has spent a very useful life here and has allowed no opportunity to go by to perform some duty for the city. As one of the municipal rulers he held a very prominent position and in all walks of life he made himself felt and in moving to Cobourg he leaves behind only friends who will miss him and regret his departure.

WHY SUFFER FROM PILES?

Nature's Remedy is Zam-Buk.

Impressive Cures of Women Sufferers.

Wherever there is suffering from piles, Zam-Buk should be applied! There are lots of reasons for this, but one of the best is that in practically all cases of piles where the use of Zam-Buk is persevered with, complete cure — not merely relief—is the result.

Mrs. Wm. Hughes, of 253, Hochelaga Street, Hochelaga, Montreal, says:—"I suffered from blind, itching, and protruding piles for years. Sometimes they were so bad that I could hardly bear to move about. The inflammation, the burning smarting pain, the throbbing, the aching, the overpowering feelings of dulness and dark despair which this ailment brings, the shooting spasms of agony—all were so terrible that only sufferers from this awful ailment can understand!"

Bad as this case was, Zam-Buk triumphed, and Mrs. Hughes suffers no longer. It only needed a little perseverance with Zam-Buk, and in the end complete cure resulted.

Mrs. E. Boxall, of Scott Street, St. Thomas, says:—"For months without cessation I endured great pain from bleeding piles. For as many months I tried everything which I thought would give me ease, but in the end, dispirited and still suffering, I gave in."

Then it was she heard of Zam Buk, and she adds:—"Although I feared Zam-Buk would be like the ordinary remedies—useless—I am glad it was not. It soon proved itself to be very different. It rapidly gave me relief, and after a time cured me completely I would like to let all sufferers from piles know what a grand thing Zam-Buk is."

Mr. F. Astridge, 3, St. Paul Street St. Catherine's, says:—"For five years I suffered untold agony from piles. At times the pain was so bad I could have screamed aloud. On a friend's advice I tried a box of Zam-Buk. It gave me considerable ease, and I persevered with the treatment until I was cured. I wish I could convince every sufer from piles of the value of this great herbal balm."

So one could go on quoting case after case, and it is by working such cures that Zam-Buk has earned for itself its great reputation.

For internal piles melt a little Zam Buk and thoroughly soak a wad, made of clean but old linen. Then apply to the part. If the piles are external, application of Zam-Buk is still more simple. Do it upon retiring. Next morning you will be well satisfied!

Zam-Buk is a cure also for cold-sores, and chapped cracked hands, ulcers, festering sores, blood-poisoning eczema, bad leg, ring-worm, scalp sores burns, scalds, and all skin diseases and injuries.

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c a box, or may be obtained post-free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Less price; 3 boxes for $1.25. You are warned however, against cheap and dangerous imitations sometimes offered as being "just as good."

Reception to the Rev. Jonathan Bastow in Murray St. Church

Rev. J. R. Webb and Mrs. Webb gave a reception to the congregation of Murray street Baptist church last night at the conclusion of the regular prayer meeting. The guest of the evening was Rev. Jonathan Bastow of New York, a former pastor of Murray street church, who is now in the city on a visit. The event took place in the lecture room of the church and it was attended by a large number of the members and adherents of the congregation.

Dr. Scott occupied the chair and a program of bright and happy addresses were delivered by the chairman, Rev. Mr. Riddiford of Park street church, Rev. Canon Davidson of St. John's, and Rev. J. G. Potter of St. Andrew's.

Rev. Mr. Bastow made a most fitting reply and thanked the present pastor and his wife for giving him this opportunity of meeting so many of his old friends.

The lecture room was very tastefully decorated with plants and palms for the occasion and gave the appearance of a drawing room. Tables were set in different parts of the room and from these refreshments were served.

After refreshments Mr. R. E. Harding on behalf of the congregation moved a vote of thanks on behalf of Rev. Mr. and Mr. Webb for the opportunity given them to meet in a social way with their former pastor. This was seconded by Mr. J. D. Dunlop and carried with much applause.

Rev. Mr. Webb replied in felicitous terms on behalf of himself and wife stating that it had given them unbounded pleasure to spend a social evening with their friends. He referred to the act that when he was called to Murray street church, he received two letters, one from Rev. Jonathan Bastow, urging the acceptance of the invitation on account of the loyalty of the people, and the other from Rev. Canon Davidson, president of the Ministerial Association in that year, describing the devotion and zeal of the church people.

The evening was closed by singing "Blessed be the Tie that Binds," after which Rev. Canon Davidson pronounced the Benediction.

Robt. H. Sheppard Says He Got $55 From Mr. Burnham's Men.

Robert H. Sheppard, who figured so prominently in the West Peterborough election protest trial, called at The Times office yesterday morning and asked to have a correction made in connection with a despatch from Toronto re the money paid into court during the trial. The despatch said that $45 had been received from J. R. Stratton's men. It should have been $55 received from Mr. Burnham's men.

FALLACIES ABOUT HEALTH.

Fuller Knowledge of the Body Needed.

Thousands of useful lives are yearly sacrificed just because people lack knowledge of simple things about the body.

We must remember that little failures of the stomach, kidneys, or liver bring about lack of nutrition. At first the body bends before its burden, but finally it breaks down.

Health depends upon unity of action between all the organs, and in no way can it be secured more satisfactorily than by the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. From the blood they remove every impurity—to the stomach they impart digestive power, to the bowels they ensure painless and thorough action.

It is easy to see how quickly Dr. Hamilton's Pills will restore health, how surely the system will rebuild, gain strength and endurance. For general family use in the cure of languor, headaches, weak stomach, backache and kidney complaint no medicine ranks with Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they will make you look and feel always your best. Refuse any substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills; 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Prairie Fires Sweep Over Vast Stretches

Winnipeg, Oct. 6. — Disastrous prairie fires are raging in many parts of the West and the damage to farmers will be heavy. A despatch to Calgary states that larg fires are sweeping through portions of Southern Alberta, wiping out whole districts. No loss of life is yet reported though it is feared that isolated homesteaders may have perished. Saskatchewan also is suffering from bad fires with heavy losses to crops. Many farmers have lost their whole year's crops. From many portions of Manitoba serious fires are reported. The atmosphere at Winnipeg last night was heavy with smoke. The fires around Portage La Prairie are so close to the city that the residents are alarmed. Gladstone and Holland also report bad fires.

Peary Ready to Submit His Proofs

Washington, Oct. 6. —Commander Peary has accepted the suggestion of the National Geographical Society that he submit the records of his journey to the North Pole to a competent commission of American scientists.

"Copy of society's resolution just received. I am not only willing but desire to submit all records and data to a commission of American scientists that is impartially selected.

(Signed). "Peary."

The resolution referred to says: The National Geographical Society urges Commander Peary and Dr. Cook speedily to submit all their observations, notes, and data to a competent scientific commission in the United States."

No reply has as yet been received from Dr. Cook.

LETTER FROM BERNIER.

Rev. Dr. Marsh Has Received Word From the Famous Arctic Explorer.

Rev. Dr. Marsh has received a letter from Capt. Bernier, the celebrated Arctic explorer, who has just arrived from his expedition to the polar regions. The letter is dated Quebec City, Oct. 3rd. It reads as follows:—

Dear Mr. Marsh:

I received your letter dated July 29th, 1908, and am writing at the first place I have the opportunity to answer at. I have carried a Canadian exploration to the largest Arctic Archipelago islands, and could have made the northwest passage as easy as going to Quebec, but I had not the orders to do so. But I must be thankful for having accomplised so much with the little "Arctic" which now people have to acknowledge has done her duty as her commander has tried to do his.

Now that the north pole has been discovered, it matters a great deal to me, after having spent $2,000 of my own money, and having had the privilege of helping the discoverer to get there. But I have the consolation of seeing that Capt. Amundsen will do the drift with the old Fram. Time will tell whether my plans were right in wanting to do the same thing many years ago.

We have lost the honor of discovering the pole for Canada, but I have made claims for the last western island for Canada, and all lands to the eastward of the 141st degree of longitude. Time will tell if I am right as I have on my side for 'Canada both Russia and America, who have passed their verdict, as I have collected licenses from American whalers and southern whalers, all admitting our claims without a single gun being fired. I have many friends on both sides who admit that I was right in claiming for Canada what some of our forefathers have labored so hard to secure, such as poor Franklin and others.

Now, dear doctor, I must stop and inquire how you and Mrs. Marsh and family and inquiring friends in Hamilton, Toronto and Springville are I will be in Ottawa later to finish my work. I must thank you for your hospitality while in your home for nearly a month in Hamilton.

(Signed) J. E. BERNIER.

Queen Charlotte Island.

One result of the development at Prince Rupert and the territory tributary to the new port, has been the formation of a million dollar syndicate headed by Mr. J. A. Moore of Seattle and which includes the Rev. Doctor Hillis of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, to develop the resources of Queen Charlotte Island. The syndicate controls 20,500 acres of timber. The intention is to build as rapidly as possible seventeen miles of standard gauge railway to bring out the native resources of the island. A bridge will carry the line over to Lena Island where wharfs and bunkers will be built. In addition to the timber wealth, which is really of secondary consideration, valuable gold veins are said to under lie the surface of the island.

A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Deathly Cramps, Stomach was Bloated

The distress I suffered from cramps last summer was so severe I thought it meant death," writes P. B. Emerson, of Guys Hill P. O. "I was doubled up with pain and in such bad shape I couldn't walk a hundred feet. I remembered having Nerviline on hand and took half a teaspoonful in sweetened water. In five minutes I was well and my stomach derangements disappeared entirely."

For cramps, flatulence, diarrhoea and disorders of the stomach and bowels, Nerviline knows no equal—one million bottles used every year—fifty years on the market, that's proof enough of its merit. Large 25c. bottles five for $1.00. All dealers or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont. 17

CROP STATISTICS.

The monthly bulletin of the Census and Statistics Department estimates a total wheat production for all Canada of 168,386,000 bushels, or 21.73 bushels per acre, as against a production of 124,690,000 bushels at the same date last year. The estimated yield of fall wheat if 16,700,000 bushels and of spring wheat 151,686,000 bushels, being 25.22 and 21.39 bushels per acre respectively.

Oats with an average yield of 37.15 bushels per acre gives an aggregate of 354,819,000 bushels and barley with an average of 30.56 bushels gives an aggregate of 56,978,000 bushels. At the same date last year the estimate was 269,944,000 bushels for oats and 49,488,000 bushels for barley.

Other crops compared with last year show 8,124,000 bushels peas against 7,007,000, beans 1,311,000 against 1,262,000, buckwheat 7,794,000 against 7,727,000, mixed grains 19,939,000 against 19,709,000, rye 1,706,000 against 1,711,000 bushels, and hay and clover 10,240,000 tons against 11,128,000 tons. All field crops except hay and clover show higher averages per acre than at the same date last year.

Comparing the certain crops of wheat, oats and barley with estimates made for the same date last year, the totals of wheat in the Maritime Provinces are 7,300,000 against 7,170,000 bushels, of oats 17,500,000 against 16,268,000 bushels, and of barley 494,000 against 497,000 bushels. In Quebec the estimates for wheat are 1,648,000 against 1,583,000 bushels, for oats 44,380,000 against 37,020,000 bushels and for barley 2,860,000 against 2,391,000 bushels. In Ontario, where fall wheat is chiefly grown, the total estimate for wheat this year is 16,133,000 against 17,574,000 bushels last year, as the same date, for oats 109,880,000 against 108,796,000 bushels, and for barley 16,824,000 against 16,739,000 bushels. On account of summer drought in the central parts of the Province, oats and barley have been short in straw this year, but the kernels have filled well.

Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta show as compared with the same time last year, 149,285,000 bushels wheat against 104,054,000, 107,300,000 bushels oats against 107,300,000 and 23,993,000 bushels barley against 25,967,000. The hot winds of August reduced the estimate of wheat by 1,823,000 bushels in Manitoba and by 6,375,000 bushels in Saskatchewan from the estimates at the end of July, but the earlier ripening of the grain in Alberta gave an increase of 726,000 bushels.

The lowest quotations given by correspondents have been taken in computing the products of the crops, and all higher quotations have been discarded where a range of higher and lower yields has been reported. The per cent. conditions of all other field crops at the end of August is very good. Corn for husking is 92.21 corn for fodder 91.14, potatoes 90.59 roots 89.26, mangolds carrots, etc., 89.21, sugar beets 88 and pasture 90.24.

The reports for live stock and the dairy industry are favorable. The condition of live stock over the whole country is 93 per cent. for horses, 92.13 for milch cows, 90.69 for other horned cattle, 92.50 for sheep and 91.77 for swine. Alsike clovers are estimated at 90.24 and timothy at 90.

A LESSON FOR CANADA.

From the Canadian point of view an exceedingly interesting contribution to the controversy over the ratio between the increase in the wheat production in the United States has just been made by Dr. James Wilson, Secretary for Agriculture, a McGill, and a foremost authority on the subject he discusses, says the Regina Leader. He says the United States is passing through the historical phases of agricultural production; the ruthless exploitation of virgin soil is followed by diminished output per acre, which in turn leads to scientific methods of fertilization, with an increasing yield in consequence. The first phase, Mr. Wilson says, is passed, the second is passing and the third is beginning. "In the case of all crops for which production per acre is known there was an increase during the last ten years in spite of the damaging effect on the general average by reason of decreasing production per acre from land that has not yet entered upon the final historic stage of agriculture." The increased production applies to cotton, corn, wheat, barley, potatoes and hay.

Touching the other aspect of the subject, the increase of population, Mr. Wilson observes that the United States, like other countries, is experiencing a decreasing birth-rate. The fact is obscured by the influx of immigrants and the high birth-rate among the foreign born, but these, in the Secretary's opinion, are temporary factors in the case. After eliminating them he concludes that the natural increase of population, native born, of native parents, is 12½ per cent. during a decade, or 1¼ per cent. yearly. "No one need fear," he observes, "that the farmers of this country will ever be unable to provide for its population." With an increased yield of wheat per acre, within ten years, of 16.1 per cent. in New York State, 45.9 per cent. in Nebraska, 14.5 per cent. in Maryland, and 19.1 per cent. in Virginia, the average yield for the whole country rose, in 1908 to 14 bushels, as against 12.3 in 1899." The acreage under crop is decreasing, as Dr. Wilson regretfully notes, but science is making the farm more profitable.

This is Dr. Wilson's reply to Mr. J. J. Hill, who contends that the demand for wheat will soon overtake the supply, and that ere long the United States will have no surplus wheat for exportation.

"The census of 1910," he says, "will show that we have a population of ninety millions, which will mean that we shall require for our own use 650 million bushels hereafter. We raise now probably 650 million bushels (this year the figures are with good crop conditions). This will leave us but twenty millions as a surplus for export, while in the past we have exported upward of 120 million bushels per annum. No one can say that we shall need all our wheat to feed our own people." The encouragement which Canada may derive from both authorities is that this country will soon be the dominating region of its increasing export, and the warning lest to avoid the impoverishment of the soil by the neglect of fertilizing. The West should turn to mixed farming early.

CANADA HAS THE PULPWOOD.

In the recent tariff revision the United States paper manufacturers dictated the pulp and paper schedules in their own interests. They did so in the belief that this country is to be illimitably by foreign supplies of the country in the future. The time was when it was up to us to consider, but it is not so any longer. These United States paper manufacturers have not had long to wait before sharing the lesson instituted upon them their greed acquired. They [illegible] that Ontario and Quebec would be frightened, but there has been no frightening on this side of the international line. Great consternation the Quebec Government has decided to stop altogether the exportation of pulpwood cut on Crown lands. The United States manufacturers have largely exhausted their own supplies but pulpwood they must have, and so they are preparing to move their plants to Canada.

In September, 1910, the Quebec Government made a promise that the stumpage rates of 60 cents per cord on wood cut from Crown lands would not be raised for a period of the years. It is intended to carry out the pledge in good faith, and no increase in stumpage charges will be made until September, 1919, when the prohibition of export will come into operation. The interests controlling the Berlin mills property in New Hampshire are planning to install a great paper mill at Le Tuque, Quebec and the International Paper Company has proposed plans for numerous locations for paper mills in Canada, that company having stopped the manufacture of print paper at all of its more expensive mills in the United States. And this, as a result of what the saviours of the 1909 upward called protection of United States industry. It looks as if it would be a bleeding in disguise to Canada.

The Barbarous Babe

By E. Ayrton.

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

She was just a little four-year-old girl, whom I had been told off to "amuse," as they called it, and as I thought myself until I sank into my proper place of comparative insignificance. When we were left alone we sat looking at each other for some time in silence, I seeing a sweet, demure little face with a frame of flaxen curls; but what her wondering eyes took in I cannot tell, only they made me feel very large and world-worn. "Would you like to see my baby?" she said, and, slipping down from her chair, disappeared beneath the table, a mysterious underworld when one is only four.

I waited, wondering if I should see some cherished doll, or perhaps a cushion baby, but when she came out her hands were quite empty, although held out carefully.

"Isn't he a dear little mite?" she asked suddenly, looking down with a tender mother-love shining in her eyes, and she began to rock the outstretched arms, as though they indeed held a little baby.

"I'll put him on the ground," she said at last; "he likes to toddle;" and the fictitious baby was gently set down. Then she began to tell me his history. "Do you know," she said, "that there was a fire in this baby's house? He brought away his kitty, but his mever an' fiver an' bwover an' aurse were all burnt."

"Burnt to ashes," she assures me with a delicate relish.

And all the interfering days of the nursery or childhood, I hear the sad little voice say wistfully: "My fayer's coming home on Tuesday week."

"What will you say when you see him?" I ask unthinkingly.

She turns rather red. "I shall not say anything. I'll be too happy for that," she whispers.

But before I have realised this glimpse of a love almost womanly in its expression, she looks round to where the imaginary baby is playing with the equally imaginary kitten. Her whole face lights up with a look of wonderful to see. "Those two dear little tots are playing together so sweetly," she murmurs; "why, the kitty has got into the waste-paper basket. Please may I tie your dog, or he might frighten the pets?"

So my big collie is dragged off to a distant corner and there tied up with a "pretense" cord, but being a dog of a gentlemanly disposition, he seems to find it as binding as the heaviest of steel chains; or has he too entered his dream-world, whose shadowy boundaries I find so hard to avoid?

And then I hear a gentle crooning and the sound of soft blows, and I see with that lovely dream-baby upon whom this tenderness is being lavished.

"Do you know," the real child says in wondering notes, "do you know this poor baby of mine had a sister called Jemima, who was very cruel to him. She used always to take away his bottle, I cannot think how she could do such a thing, can you? But we cut off Jemima's hands and feet—"

"Oh, no, we did not," I contradict, startled out of politeness.

"Boose me, we did," the tender voice argues; "boose you, we cut them off an' stewed them. Then we killed her with scissors."

But as I demonstrate upon the enormity of the punishment, compared with the crime, the small, executioner relents, and finally adopts my suggestion of sending the ill-fated Jemima to a boarding school—"a very strict one, full of bad girls, and I know a Miss Arrowe, a short, stiff, and proud and a sliding for [illegible] the thought of gaily being [illegible] and chilled ready to make a meal of Angelica with her red [illegible] hair, and [illegible] proof, and that on no great odds what we have in imagination we surely [illegible] endurance. A GIFTED NOVELIST.

Sidney McCall (Mary McNeil Fenollosa), the author of "Red Horse Hill," etc., when scarcely more than a girl was living in another part of Japan when the late Lafcadio Hearn began his studies of that country. Independently she, too, was absorbing the mystic influences of beauty, and in a different form, that of verse, was shaping her impressions into concrete structure. A modest little volume of poems called "Out of the East" is thought by many of her friends to contain some of her finest work. Lafcadio Hearn, who later became one of her valued friends, was delighted with these poems. In her home in Tokyo, with its garden where grew pansies, magnolias and "moon flowers," Mrs. Fenollosa wrote her first novel, "Truth Dexter," a book which had a great success. "The Breath of the Gods" was the outcome of her impressions of the situation in Japan and Russia just before the crisis, but it was written after her return to America in the "big, low workroom of her southern home in Alabama, which looks out upon a garden where the blossoming cherry mingles its petals with those of the rose and the jasmine." Kobinata, or Little Sunshine hill, so called after the Japanese house, contains much that is best in beauty both of the east and west. Here also was written Mrs. Fenollosa's latest book, "Red Horse Hill."

Mrs. Fenollosa comes of an artistic family. Both her parents were writers. Her father, William Stoddard McNeil, was a poet of ability and a lover and keen student of nature. Mrs. Fenollosa's home life in Mobile has always been one of the units in a very close knit, large, devoted family group. "Truth Dexter" was in part an outcome of that homesickness which, while absent in Japan, she felt for the dearly loved home circle.

To her husband, the late Professor Ernest F. Fenollosa, well known in art circles as an authority on oriental art, Mrs. Fenollosa feels that she is deeply indebted for criticism, suggestion and constant encouragement, although in the matter of plot and actual writing she always works entirely alone. Their life together, both in Japan and in this country, was characterized by independent but absolutely congenial work and by harmony of interests and tastes.

In her latest book, "Red Horse Hill," Sidney McCall, as she prefers to sign herself, has furnished another American setting, that of a southern mill town. The conflict of human interests, a deep love motive that runs through four related lives among the characters of this story and the power for good or evil held in the hands of the employer of southern mills all bear a vital part in the drama.

Beauty in Dandelions and Milk.

If you want to be beautiful drink lots of dandelion tea and bathe in crested milk. Any one who consents to drink dandelion tea is entitled to immortal beauty as a small reward. Still the stuff may be made palatable by putting things in it. For instance, a dash of brandy may be added, but the tea is better for the skin without that alcoholic addition. Several cups a day must be taken for the first two months of summer and then one cup a day throughout the year. Scalded milk for the skin is recommended by those who study beauty scientifically. The milk must be boiled and then a few drops of violet water added. The fluid must be rubbed into face, neck and arms thoroughly and permitted to dry. Then the rubbing must be renewed. To steam the face with hot milk makes it soft and white as an infant's.

For the Tea Table.

A favorite dainty for the tea table is salted wafers or round, thin water crackers covered with beaten white of egg through which have been mixed finely chopped English walnuts. The crackers are baked in a hot oven and served instead of small cakes.

Travels Far into the North.

Miss Annie S. Nash of Carstairs, Alberta, will travel over a thousand miles straight north of Edmonton before she reaches Hay River, a Hudson Bay post, where she will wed Rev. Alfred J. Vale, an English Church missionary, formerly of Berlin, Ont., and a graduate of Wycliffe College, Toronto, in 1908. The trip will take in the neighborhood of two months to complete, and will be made by rail, stage, snow and river steamer. It is a trip scarcely ever made by a woman, and one that few men except traders take.

Miss Nash is accompanied by Archdeacon Lucas and wife of London, England, who are in Canada for a year's holiday. The archdeacon is going north to perform the marriage ceremony, and will probably spend the winter in that district with his wife, returning to London in the spring of 1910.

Miss Nash has had a wide and varied experience in the five or six years that she has been a trained nurse. Her early home was in Berlin, Ont.

Aged Indian Dies.

Old "Indian Dave" died in his wigwam in Gilford Township a few days ago, where he had made his home for 60 years. He was sure he had passed his 106th birthday. He was known to the oldest settlers in 1836, and was then considered quite old.

Dave claimed to be the son of Chief Nitmup of the Chippewa tribe, but was never recognized as such by his tribesmen. He was known as "Indian Dave," but was recorded as Dave Stecker as a citizen.

He spent the winter in his bark and hide hut manufacturing baskets and bows and arrows, and during the summer traveled about the resorts selling his wares. He is survived by one son, James.

A Private Still?

A private detective is being engaged at St. Catharines to look into the rumor that the "Indian Listers" of this vicinity have a private still where they manufacture the best of whisky for 20 cents a gallon. The still used is said to be a relic of the Scott Act days, when it was kept in active operation in Raleigh.

The Sultan's Throne.

Australian Woman Becomes Hindu.

A remarkable ceremony took place at Lucknow, India, when Miss Thomson, a pretty young Australian woman, who is to be married to a Bengali barrister, formally renounced Christianity and embraced Hinduism as practiced by the Ayra Samajists.

The ceremony took place in the courtyard of the rajah of Vizianagram's residence, and was watched by a large crowd of natives.

The convert's reception by the Ayra Samajists was the customary "purification" by fire and water. Miss Thomson answered the questions of the Hindu priest in a low voice, ceremonially washed her hands and head and poured a spoonful of oil on a sandal-wood fire. She then received a Hindu name.

A Pageant of Priests.

Pageants have so far illustrated the history of a single town or city, but the one held recently in the grounds of Fulham Palace, London, was unique. It depicted the growth and history of the Church of England.

It was split up into a number of episodes, and, beginning with the publication of the Edict of Emperor Constantine, came right down through the ages to the acquittal of the Seven Bishops in 1688. A final tableau, representing the church "throughout the world," concluded the gigantic spectacle.

The grounds of Fulham Palace, lent by the Bishop of London, were well fitted for such a purpose.

The spectators were housed in a grand stand, 394 feet in length, 90 feet in depth, and covering an acre of ground. In addition to a large royal box, there was seating accommodation for 6,750. His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury performed the opening ceremony.

FISHERS OF LUNENBERG.

They Are the Rivals of Gloucester For Cod Bank Honors.

It is recognized that the fishermen of Gloucester have long monopolized fiction and poetry as being the real catchers of cod, and the most picturesque of those who make their living on the Grand Banks.

If you ask a Bluenose, that is a resident of Nova Scotia, who are the real bankers, he will tell you "the men of Lunenburg." Lunenburg is the rival of Gloucester in the hunt for cod, and a pretty husky rival, too, for fishermen from that seaport on the south shore of Nova Scotia are the backbone of that industry that is valued well over $3,000,000 a year.

The Lunenburg fishermen spend about half the year at home, but they do not use this time sitting around the docks spinning yarns. They are busy with lobster catching or in the woods. When March comes around they begin to make ready for the sea.

The schooners are put in order and stocked with provisions. On the Sunday nearest March 21 the churches hold special services, and prayers go up for safe and prosperous voyages. They are devout, these Bluenose fishermen, but they keep an eye on the probs, too.

The fishing schooners are small, rarely reaching 100 tons. The law requires vessels exceeding that size to carry a certified master, and the Lunenburg man can't see the use of passing examinations in navigation. With a compass and a dipsey lead the master of a banker can find his way in any weather.

The start from Lunenburg is like the start of a yacht race. Most of the bankers go out on the same day, and there is good-natured rivalry among the skippers as to who shall first anchor on the fishing grounds.

When a skipper makes a berth in a likely place real work begins. The dories, flat-bottomed boats about fifteen feet long, which are very seaworthy but don't look it, are put overboard and the trawls are set.

These trawls are something akin to the way of fishing lines. The main line is from one to one and a half miles long, with a fringe of smaller lines which carry the hooks. The trawls are anchored at each end and are set like the spokes of a wheel whose hub is the schooner. The dories move up and down the trawls, taking off the fish and rebaiting the hooks. It sounds easy, but in a heavy sea it is ticklish business.

When a schooner has loaded full with fish, cut and salted down, she steals away from the shrieking medley of foghorns and makes for Lunenburg. It is a lucky ship which enters port without her colors at half-mast, which would indicate that one of her crew has gone. The fleet gets back from the spring trip about the end of May, unloads and sails back again on the summer trip, which lasts until autumn.

A Matrimonial Catch.

A remarkably active peer in the Commons is Earl Winterton, the "baby" of the last Parliament, so called because he was elected, while Viscount Turnour, when he was only twenty-one. His lordship has proved himself a young man of energy and vigilance in the House, but apparently politics do not allow him sufficient scope, for it has just been announced that he is to fill the editorial chair of The World. The earl writes as well as he speaks, and in addition is a keen sportsman. Furthermore, he possesses the distinction of being a grandson of that social queen, the late Dowager Duchess of Abercorn. In fact, someone who has counted the says that his lordship has more relatives of exalted rank than anybody else in the United Kingdom, and that the woman who wins him—for he is still a bachelor—will be related by marriage to three dukes, two marquesses, two earls, several barons, and a corresponding number of matchlessness and countesses.

MR. THOMPSON'S MODEL.

The Way She Came to Get a Permanent Engagement.

By Alice L. Wetmore.

Where are you, Billy, you lazy rascal, from the tiny antechamber which Thompson designated the studio.

"Here," replied that gentleman in distinctly cross mouthfuls of tin-tacks, "I'm only Carter," he explained, as Miss Parks, for perhaps you'd rather—

"Oh, let this room be my hall bedroom," cried the girl, "I'd rather live up two pairs."

A long, clean limbed young fellow lounged in, halted apathetically for a moment behind Thompson's canvas and then sank lazily into a pile of cushions on the floor.

The girl on the model stand turned and looked him closely, and quite as he had noted then he was the most typically lazy man she had ever seen. His voice, his walk, his carriage, and an absolute lack of effort that was positively fascinating, and to complete the impression his strong, lean face, was absolutely devoid of expression.

Suddenly, however, he gazed intently and with a semblance of awakened interest at the model. The pose was rather striking. A heavy black velvet gown accentuated that peculiar transparency of color [illegible] ables a certain [illegible] burn hair. A dull green background accentuated the brilliant coloring of the face to the dusky mysteries of the lower canvas. The pose of the figure was saved from insolence only by the wistfulness of the face.

Carter pulled lazily at his pipe and continued to gaze at the girl with half closed critical eyes. "Nice color," he finally asserted. "By Jove, that's a wonderful pose!" with a sudden burst of enthusiasm that startled the girl. "And you engaged after you finish with Thompson?"

The other artist opened his drowsy eyes, with a quiet smile, closed it again. The girl smiled, too, a little smile that curled her upper lip deliciously.

"No, sir; I'm not engaged next week," she replied quietly.

"Can you come to me for a two weeks' [illegible] there, in the morning?"

Thompson looked suddenly at the girl. "Yes, sir, I'll come," she said.

"Oh, is that you, Miss— Do you know, I forgot to ask your name," he drawled.

"Parks," the girl supplied smilingly [illegible] gave her best pose [illegible] black. He had hung heavy stuffs around and above the model stand until the black gown and the background mingled darkly and the white face and auburn hair fairly jumped from the gloom in a single startling note of color.

Carter set to work with a feverish energy which quite transformed him. He tried first one pose, then another in such rapid succession that the girl was positively bewildered.

When he had at last found one that pleased him he drawled apologetically, with a slow, winning smile, "I'm rather a hard fellow to get started, Miss Parks, but I won't give you much more, once we're off."

The girl watched the man with disgusted eyes. He worked with the precision and energy of a splendid machine. He fact, above, with positive inspiration.

An [illegible] was carefully [illegible] Carter's genuineness he felt the absence of the usual clash between the half hearted, pseudo models and the ideals he struggled to embody by their aid. The atmosphere lacked a single inharmonious element, for the girl seemed to throw her whole personality into the work.

At last he emerged from his trance sufficiently to observe that a white line had appeared around the girl's compressed lips and that she wavered as she stood.

"It must be time to rest," he observed. "What, no—no—almost at the clock, "you've been posing for nearly an hour. Why didn't you rest?" he demanded angrily.

The girl tossed her hair with an amused gleam in her eyes. "I never saw anybody so completely lost," she [illegible] I couldn't bear to disturb you."

The next morning he found himself awaiting with unmistakable impatience the arrival of his model, and when at last she did stand before him with a smiling "Good morning" on his lips he regarded the girl with [illegible] art's satisfaction.

She was charming in her dark street gown. Her face was flushed and her eyes bright with the exhilaration of an autumn morning, and Carter was strongly tempted to put away serious work and make a study of her as she stood. But he banished the idea, however, and soon they were at work in the studio. He refused to believe [illegible] noon whistle insisted that it was 12 o'clock and Miss Parks departed.

The afternoon was unprecedentedly long. He felt strangely distracted to work and finally put aside the canvas and brought out some unfinished sketches. He worked on these until he discovered that he had converted five different heads into unmistakable likenesses of Miss Parks.

VISCOUNT KITCHENER.

A Brief Biography of Soldier—Who May Visit Canada.

General Horatio Herbert, first Viscount Kitchener of Khartoum—who has just completed the great work he undertook in 1902 of reorganizing the British Indian Army—was born on Midsummer Day at Ballylongford, in the County Kerry.

During his exceptionally brilliant military career the retiring Indian commander has asserted himself with characteristic confidence and [illegible] ing will, and Lord Kitchener must be accounted one of the most strenuous soldiers that the British Empire has ever possessed. [illegible] set of old Gaunts of a military family, Lord Kitchener passed thirty-eight years [illegible] from Woolwich into the Royal Engineers. Since then his career has been one of scientific brilliancy [illegible] he did—and was recognized as [illegible] in many [illegible] pulsing leader [illegible] of strategy [illegible] Egyptian [illegible] Khedive's cavalry and the remodelling of the Egyptian army. Having effected this to his own exacting desires, Sirdar, [illegible] and a viceroyalty position [illegible] Kitchener [illegible] Chief of Staff to Lord Roberts. Here again he distinguished himself for determination and dash in combination, and when Good had been circumvented at Paardeberg and the British flag hoisted in Pretoria, he was promoted to the command-in-chief of the forces in South Africa and Roberts' return to England. [illegible] brought the Boer [illegible] and the Commander was thereupon [illegible] given a further [illegible] from the country's public [illegible] and raised to the peerage as Viscount.

As a full general he was sent out in 1902 to India as Commander-in-Chief, with practically a free hand to reform the army of our great Empire of the Orient. His ideals of duty brooking no civilian interference in matters military, Viscount Kitchener soon came into conflict with the then Viceroy, Lord Curzon, and the friction ensued in the resignation of that able statesman in 1905.

Since then Lord Kitchener has practically been permitted to have his own way at headquarters in India, and on the completion of his task in the Orient, he is credited by some with hankering after overthrowing the influence of the non-military element in the War Office for good and all.

Barrister's First Brief.

My first brief, I have the best of reasons for remembering particularly clearly. I was engaged for the defense in a case of robbery. Two men, the prisoners, had seized the prosecutor on the platform of Shrewsbury Station, and while one of them held his arms the other quietly rifled his pockets.

They were caught red-handed, and I had a brief to defend the prisoner who had held the prosecutor by the arms. [illegible] the obvious defense. I urged that it was effective to [illegible] two victims to justice when one was [illegible], and the distinction between the two prisoners was manifest, and as the one I defended had not taken any money at all it was impossible to pretend that he was as guilty as his companion.

To the amusement of everybody, not excepting the chairman—who had been careful in his summing up to sweep away my sophistries—the jury made the distinction I suggested to them, and returned a verdict of "Not guilty" against my prisoner.—"Reminiscences of Mr. A. C. Plowden," in The Strand Magazine.

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Sheop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with amazing success. Rub-ons, says the doctor never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it is constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Sheop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another, everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

No Ducks Yet.

Peterborough sportsmen, returning from Rice Lake state that the hunting season has not yet been very good. The ducks are still in the northern waters and have not yet begun to find their way south. The advent of the colder weather will mark the first arrivals although those who have been down during the past week, were anxious to meet with late season luck, as the conditions were ideal. When the sport reaches its best the weather will undoubtedly be cold and will not be enjoyed to the same extent.

HE WAS A SON

Of One of Peterborough's Oldest Settlers.

The following death notice was taken from the Globe and will interest Peterborough people:

HUTCHINSON—Suddenly on Friday Oct. 1st, 1909, Henry Hutchinson, son of the late Dr. John Hutchinson, of Peterborough, in his 76th year. Funeral (private) on Monday at 3 p.m., from his late residence, 317 Sherbourne street.

DECEASED'S FATHER.

Dr. Thos. W. Poole's history of the Town of Peterborough, has the following reference to the father of the late Henry Hutchinson:—

Died—On Sunday, July 1st, 1847, of typus fever, caught while in attendance at the immigrant sheds, John Hutchinson, Esq., M.D., aged 50 years, formerly of Kirkaldy, in Fife, North Britain, and a resident of America since 1815. This melancholy event cast a gloom over the entire community, to whose interests, both as a friend and a physician, had long been faithfully devoted. The writer trusts that some of his most devoted associates will pay a just and fitting tribute to the memory and merits of our departed friend, and it would be both unbecoming and ungrateful that talent and worth such as Dr. Hutchison was largely gifted with, should pass from the busy stage of life without something beyond a passing notice.

Dr. Poole's history also states that Dr. Hutchinson was induced to locate in Peterborough about the year 1830, having come here from Cavan. He was a man of much ability and deservedly esteemed. Dr. Hutchinson lived in a cottage built by Adam Scott, the oldest house in Peterborough.

Mr. Sexsmith Home.

Mr. Sexsmith returned a few days ago from the west. He went in all directions through the prairie country, there is a very large foreign European population, and the influx from the U.S. is also great. B.C. as a farming country he does not think equals expectations. The farmer, young or old, who is doing well in Ontario is much more comfortable and possibly happier than in the great new country, but for a young man without resources, the west he says, is the place. Increased values in the west lead people on to speculation. The reproductive power of the prairie is wonderful. The climate is good. It is clear and healthy, and not so inclement as usually described. Vancouver is growing at the rate of 5,000 per month. The Canadian exhibit of general resources at the Seattle Exhibition was magnificent. The Toronto Exhibition, however, is a larger affair.

GARVEY—MILANEY.

A pretty October wedding was solemnized yesterday morning at eight o'clock at St. Peter's cathedral, when Miss Laurette Helena, eldest daughter of Mr. Luke Milaney, Union street, was united in marriage to Mr. David Garvey, son of Mr. Timothy Garvey of Douro. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. McColl, in the presence of only a few immediate friends.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a becoming traveling costume of striped wisteria Royalette with hat to match. The bridesmaid, Miss Julia Callaghan of Lindsay, cousin of the bride, was attired in a suit of taupe broadcloth with hat to match. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Jos. Garvey.

After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the residence of the bride's parents, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served.

The bride received a number of handsome gifts. The groom's gifts were a beautiful hand-painted brooch to the bride, and a gold locket and chain to the bridesmaid.

Mr. and Mrs. Garvey left on the 4.36 train for Buffalo and Niagara, where the honeymoon will be spent. On their return they will reside in Douro.

Special Council Meeting to Consider C.P.R. Scheme

A special meeting of the council will be held next Tuesday night for the purpose of taking up the C.P.R. proposition re the new grain route from Georgian Bay. The company has submitted a proposition to the council and have sent copies of maps showing the proposed route through the city and also marking the water front which the company desires to secure as a yard for sheds and for handling the local freight traffic.

The council at the suggestion of Mayor Rush thought it advisable to write Mr. Leonard of the C.P.R., and notify him of the special meeting on Tuesday night and to ask him to have a representative at the meeting to go into the matter with the council.

It was also proposed to have representatives of the Board of Trade and some of the leading citizens and manufacturers present.

Commission Favored Separation of Queen's Upon An Approved Plan

Mr. R. Lees returned home last night from Kingston after attending the meeting of the Presbyterian Commission appointed by the General Assembly to deal with the proposed seperation of Queen's University from the church.

On the commission are 42 members representing the Church, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Only about 27 were present including members from Cape Breton in the east to Portage la Prairie in the west.

As a result of the meeting the commission passed a resolution affirming the principle of seperation from the Church and acknowledged it as inevitable, but they did not want to complete the seperation until a plan of future government and maintenance of the university was devised.

A committee was appointed to meet with a similar committee to be appointed by the trustees and the joint committee will prepare a plan which will be laid before the commission at another meeting to be held in the spring and if that plan is acceptable the commission will report favorably to the General Assembly.

Among those present were:—Mr. R. Lees, M.A., of Peterborough; Rev. J. J. Wright, Elk City, a former Peterborough boy; Rev. Mr. Wallace, Lindsay; Rev. Dr. C. W. Gordon, (Ralph Connor), Winnipeg; Lieutenant-Governor Fraser, Nova Scotia and Mr. Hamilton Cassells of Toronto.

Grand Trunk Railway Won the Gold Medal

The Grand Trunk Railway Company secured the gold medal for their building and exhibit at the Alaska Yukon Pacific Exposition. Mr. W. Buntin, city ticket agent, received word to that effect last night. This distinction is much coveted by the transportation companies and the success of the G.T.R. in this matter is quite in keeping with the way they do all thing they undertake.

Besides the Canadian exhibit to represent the wealth, industry and commerce of Canada, the Grand Trunk Railway System and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway have installed a valuable and attractive exhibit.

A special building has been erected for its purpose with a structure being modelled after the lines of Greek architecture, making a very handsome building. The interior has been turned into a veritable art gallery and the collection of photographs that have been placed on the walls, depicting scenes on the Grand Trunk Railway System, are works of art and will attract a great deal of attention. The decorations of the interior are principally of grains and grasses from the provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta and are placed for exhibition purposes to show the wonderful development of the lands through which the Grand Trunk Railway passes, and the opportunities that are offered to the agriculturist in Western Canada.

In addition to these, valuable specimens of fish and game native to Canadian forests and waters enhance the general effect of the interior, and exhibits from Northern British Columbia add to the interests of this handsome display.

Navy Problems Confront Dominion Cabinet

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—From now on till the opening of the session of the Dominion Parliament on Thursday, Nov. 11, almost daily sessions of the cabinet will be held, so that there will be plenty of work for the six week's period before the Christmas holidays. The biggest task which confronts the ministers is the working out of the details of Canada's naval program, and this it is understood, will engage their attention at once. Apart from the size and number of the vessels which will constitute the Canadian fleet, it will have to be definitely settled whether or not the initial ships will be constructed in Canadian or British shipyards. It is a question of the greatest moment, and will demand the most careful consideration in all its aspects.

The belief so fully expressed on both sides of the House of Commons during the naval debate of last session that the first ships of the Canadian navy will have to be built in great Britain is not so generally shared now. The anxiety on the part of the representatives of the great shipbuilding firms to establish yards in Canada has opened the eyes of Canadians to the possibilities of a shipbuilding industry being created on this side of the Atlantic, and, at any rate the possibilities are going to be thoroughly canvassed before it is definitely decided to place the contracts on the other side of the ocean.

KIDNEY TROUBLES.

Failure in Liver Activity a Cause.

There are thousands on the verge Jeremy J. Perry, of New Glasgow, of serious kidney trouble, Bright's disease, diabets, etc., who like Mr. were attributing their physical decline to every other than the true cause.

In a recent letter he says: "My kidneys, perhaps a result of dyspepsia, got all out of order; they ached excessively. I had constant thirst and my body showed signs of wasting, despite an appetite in the early stages of my trouble, ample enough to sustain the body. I decided to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills and have great satisfaction in stating that they have completely cured me. An immediate decline in the volume of urine was the most noticeable result at the beginning, and this was soon followed by a regular action of the bowels. It was a great boon, I assure you, to get rid of so pressing a desire to drink, drink as was the case with me last summer.

"No question remains in my mind that the liver was the cause of my ailments; I am sure that no pills for kidney, liver or bowel trouble can compare with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I

No other medicine is so certain to cure troubles of the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys. You are sure to be cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse any substitutes. Price 25c per box, of all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE CITY COUNCIL'S WRESTLE WITH ISOLATION HOSPITAL

Whole Evening Spent in Trying to Decide Whether or Not to Build It without Going to the People—Some Say It will Cost $20,000

The isolation hospital is not yet. It was, several times, and just as often it was not. The city fathers were in a very undecided frame of mind last night. The entire evening was devoted to the isolation hospital, and it looks very much as if another evening would be spent on it.

In the beginning the majority appeared to be in favor of going on with the work at once, but Aldermen Hicks and Bradburn stood by the Property Committee's original report, viz., to refer the question to the people to vote on at the municipal election next January. They put up a strong argument and a couple of times succeeded in getting a motion carried through the Committee of the Whole Council. Then Aldermen Morrow and Duncan came back with another argument and another motion to proceed with the work at once and their motion carried. It was a see-saw all night.

Those who favored it going to the people produced figures which put the cost of the hospital complete at about $20,000 and the council has authority to spend only $15,000. Their figures were something like the following:

Building	$11,100
Heating and plumbing	2,400
Wiring	250
Architect's fees	650
Extras	500
	$15,000
To the above they added:
Equipment	$1,500
Water	2,000
Sewer	1,000
Fixing up the grounds and fencing lot	500
	$5,000
Total cost	$20,000

Those favoring going on with the work figured the cost something like the following.

Building	$11,100
Heating and plumbing	2,000
Wiring	200
Architect's fees	650
	$13,950
To the above they added;
Water	$ 200
Sewer	250
Equipment	1,000
	$1,450
Total Cost	$15,400

Motion after motion was moved and carried but none of them fully satisfied all the aldermen so it was decided to go into council. This was done and a motion was finally passed referring the whole thing back to the Property Committee to report on again and to give as near as possible the full cost of the hospital complete.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

Ald. Bradbirn brought up the matter of the isolation hospital which, he said, the city had authority to build up to a cost of $15,000. Tenders have been received and the lowest one accepted for $11,100. The architect's estimate of the heating, plumbing and lighting is $2700, the architect's fees are $650 and an estimate of the extras would be around $400. Thus it will be seen that the entire $15000 has been used up and there is no equipment provided for. Therefore it is up to the council to say what is to be done. If the work goes on now the money for the equipment will have to be put on next year's rate.

A number of the aldermen went over the Hilliard farm the other day and selected a site and Mr. W. H. Moore was present on behalf of the City Trust Commission.

Dr. McPherson estimated that the equipment would run up to about $1200 to $1500.

The mayor said that these plans provide for an up-to-date hospital and for the sake of a little money it should not now be thrown aside.

Ald. Hicks said that it was adding permanent expenses to the city, and the majority of those who are voting for an isolation hospital are the ones who oppose every year the striking of a rate sufficiently high to meet all these expenditures.

Ald. Hicks said that the act only allows the expenditure of $15000 and the balance will have to be taken out of next year's current account. "Now," he added, "it will not make a difference of six weeks in the completion of the building to wait until January and submit a bylaw to the people."

Ald. Bradburn said that personally he was opposed to exceeding the $15,000.

It was proposed that the heating and plumbing be secured and in the meantime the matter be left in abeyance.

Ald. Hicks again said it would be better to let the matter go to the people in January.

After a lot of discussion it was moved by Ald. Morrow that the contract for the isolation hospital be awarded to Mr. James Rose. Ald. Duncan seconded the motion.

Moved by Ald. Hicks in amendment that prices on other parts of the building be got at once before the contract is let. Ald. Bradburn seconded it.—Lost.

As the council decided to build the hospital, Mr. Moore, the chairman of the City Trust Commissioners, was called in and asked about the site. He first asked how much land would be required.

It was thought that about two acres of property would be needed.

It was then decided to leave the matter of the amount of land with the chairman of the Property Committee and that the building be placed on the high land off Hilliard street.

THERE WAS A JAR.

After this there was a discussion about the sewer and water works, and it turned out that it would cost a thousand dollars or more. Mr. Moore estimated that the water alone would cost $2000. With these figures added to the hospital and equipment would bring the cost up to nearly $20,000.

Aldermen Bradburn and Hicks got busy again with their scheme of going to the people being adopted after all.

Ald. Hicks at this point suggested that a regular council meeting be held and settle the matter.

The committee adjourned and went into council

COUNCIL MEETING.

As soon as the council met Ald. Bradburn moved, seconded by Ald. Hicks, that the Property Committee secure fuller particulars as to cost and equipment of an isolation hospital and that a bylaw be prepared and submitted to the people in January, asking for authority to borrow the required amount.

Ald. Morrow put up a strong argument for the isolation hospital being built at once.

Ald. Morrow then moved in amendment that a contract with James Rose be entered into for the isolation hospital and that the work be proceeded with at once. Ald. Duncan seconded it and the motion was lost.

Ald. Duffus moved that the council adjourn till Monday night and that in the meantime the Property Committee get figures on the hospital complete in every respect.

Ald. Morrow then withdrew his motion and seconded Ald. Duffus' and it carried by a vote of five to four.

Whole Arctic Archipelago Now Under British Flag

Quebec, Oct. 6.—What is considered as the feature of Captain Bernier's expedition is the conquest of the Northwest passage which was undertaken from the East for the first time and successfully effected, while the planting of the Union Jack on the remainder of the Arctic archipelago is the captain's pet achievement, and it is considered that the report which he is guarding so carefully, is in connection with this land which he took possession of. Captain Bernier spoke enthusiastically of his crew and the way they had worked. He had a good word for the Newfoundlanders in his party.

His account of the Northwest passage trip was thrilling. He sent out parties over the ice, and they picked up the various points, and, in fact made the famous passage on foot. He saw open water as far as Mercy Bay, and there he found Russian whalers had destroyed the depot there. These whalers came in from the Pacific. Bernier was asked why he did not go right through from the Atlantic to the Pacific, through the Northwest Passage. His reply was characteristic: "There might have been another Arctic inquiry if some of those members of parliament had seen me off the British Columbian coast one of these fine days."

The whole of the Arctic archipelago is now under the British flag, says Bernier, and new tracts have been discovered. Cook and Peary found no land, and, if they did, I venture to say if they look long enough they would find a Union Jack sticking about somewhere.

The letter from Dr. Cook which Captain Bernier has in his possession contains very grevious accusations against Commander Peary and charges him openly with the appropriation of supplies from Dr. Cook's station to barter with the natives and satisfy his commercial greed.

Jarvis-Shafor Recital was a Great Success

The Harold Jarvis and Shafor recital last night was a pronounced success in every way. The ladies' Aid Society are to be congratulated on the magnificent result of their persistant and incessant efforts to secure a good house for their distinguished talent.

It was also excellent taste to have the program given in the beautiful auditorium of the church for the singing of such songs as were sung last night could best be appreciated within walls that are sacred to all that is sublime and divine.

One cannot do justice to the excellent expression of Jarvis in his robust and vigorous tenor. In his rendition of "The Death of Nelson" all his powers as an artist were revealed and one could only say, he sang eloquently.

Mrs. Shafor proved herself to be a highly accomplished reader. Her repertoire is so varied that it gave her an excellent opportunity to show that whether in the difficult parts of "Romeo and Juliet," or in the apparently simple monologue she had absolutely control of voice andgesture.

The platform of the church was prettily decorated with palms and flowers. During the progress of the program Mrs. Shafor was presented with a handsome bouquet of roses by Miss Florence Jean Potter.

Canada will Spend Twenty Millions on a Navy

Twelve Cruisers and Destroyers to be Provided Under the Proposed Naval Defence Act—Yearly Cost to be Three Million

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—The legislation to be submitted to the House next session providing for a Canadian navy will be introduced as "The Naval Defence Act."

It will provide for twelve vessels of the cruiser and destroyer types, nine of which will probably be placed on the Atlantic and three on the Pacific coast.

The total capital expenditure will exceed twenty million dollars and the annual outlay will be something over three million.

Negotiations as to training ship and docks are still in progress, but it is expected that they will be concluded in time to make an announcement when the session opens.

The above proposals are the result of the Imperial Defence Conference, held in London a few months ago. At this conference it was decided that Canada and Australia should follow their preference in the maintenance of their own navies, while New Zealand should continue to make direct cash contributions towards the cost of the British fleets. A remodelling of the squadrons in far eastern waters was agreed upon and the formation of a Pacific fleet composed of three units in the East Indies, Australian waterms, and the China Sea. Each unit is to be composed of a large armored cruiser of the Indomitable type, three second class cruisers of the British type, six destroyers of the river class, and three submarines of the sea class.

Australia, with some assistance from Britain at first, will maintain one of these three units. The initial cost of the ships composing the units will be probably fifteen million dollars. New Zealand's offer of two vessels of the Indomitable type costing about the same sum, was also accepted.

Canada's navy will consist of cruisers of the Bristol type, and torpedo destroyers of the river class. They will require at least five thousand men.

A large shipment of new toys and games have arrived and are now being opened up at Times Bookstore.

United States Navy is Not a Bluff

Admiral Dewey Says Other Nations Regard It as Something Serious—He Once Feared Germany

A POINTER FOR BRITAIN.

"It is a fact little known that the German navy is building its ships with a very small coal carrying capacity. That looks as though they were intended for use very near their home waters. I used to think that the German ships were being built for us, but I don't think so now."—Admiral Dewey, Chief Officer of the American Navy.

Washington, Oct. 7.—George Dewey Admiral of the American navy, does not believe that the institution of which he is the chief officer is a "blut," and is confident that it would render a good account of itself in any scrimmage in which it was called upon to take part. He is also strongly in favor of subsidizing a merchant marine, in order that it may furnish auxiliaries for the navy in time of need.

"When ex-Congressman Landis used the word "bluff" in connection with the American navy," said Admiral Dewey today, referring to the speech made by Mr. Landis in Cincinnati, "he used an unfortunate word. Of course he meant that the navy would be comparatively useless in time of war without necessary auxiliaries drawn from the merchant marine. He wants a subsidy for our ships of commerce, and so do I. And I believe that we could get it and build up a strong merchant marine if it were not for the use of the word 'subsidy.' Many people do not like that, thinking that it means to give something for nothing. President Taft put in a good way when he urged that the ships should be paid for carrying the mails.

"But the American navy is not quite so helpless as one might imagine from Mr. Landis' remarks. We have fifteen colliers and several transports already in the service. Of course, these would not be enough in time of war, and I hope that we shall continue to add to their number. But one can do most anything with money, and if we were to have a war we could purchase as many ships as we might need. We did so in the Spanish war. I bought two myself. I knew that war was coming, and months before began making preparations for it. When war became imminent, Secretary of the Navy Long was very nervous about my getting coal.

"Admiral Bradford, Chief of the Bureau of Equipment, just said to him: 'Cable Dewey a letter of credit and he will do the rest.' So I bought the Nanshan and the Zafiro, with their cargoes of coal. I kept their crews and their two Scotch captains sailed into Manila Bay with me. Ever since they have been trying to become American citizens, but have been unable to do so because of lack of residence, although I have even asked Congress to pass a special law for their benefit."

MISS SPROULE.

Will Address W.C.T.U. During the Present Month.

The local branch of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union is called to meet in the Y.M.C.A. parlour this afternoon at half-past three o'clock. Word has been received by the president that Miss Sproule the courageous lady, who has at a great cost of personal comfort given very much of her life for the boys in the mines and lumber camps of New Ontario, will visit Peterborough during the present month and arrangements will be made for a public reception.

All women interested in temperance reform are cordially invited to be present.

ENTOMBED IN WELL.

The Sides Caved In—Young Man Is Still Alive.

St. John, Oct. 6.—Mr. J. Henry Coffen, the young man who was entombed Saturday night, when quick sand through which he was sinking a well shifted, and the well sides caved in, is still believed to be alive, although covered with some eighty feet of dirt. The workers who have been frantically trying to make an opening to the unfortunate man heard faint cries for help early today coming from a two-inch pipe, which protrudes from the well shaft. They pounded on the pipe in response and then redoubled their efforts to sink a new shaft, so that Coffen can be extricated if possible.

It is a well nigh hopeless task, however, as the nature of the soil makes progress very slow. But two men can work in the excavation at once, and the quicksand makes it necessary to timber every foot as they progress.

In the hope of reaching the unfortunate with water and nourishment an effort is to be made to send a small pipe through the debris, and one has been ordered from New York. Sinking this pipe, however, will be extremely dangerous, inasmuch as driving it may shift the bits of boards which are believed to be holding the earth off Coffin. It will be tried, however, as, unless nourishment reaches him he will starve to death.

His frenzied parents refuse to leave the scene of the accident, and they are continually begging the workers to hurry. Throughout last night they stood by the side of the well, and their presence kept all of the workers stimulated to their best efforts. It was declared today that it will take at least another 24 hours to penetrate to the bottom of the caved-in shaft.

WHY SUFFER FROM PILES?

Nature's Remedy is Zam-Buk.

Impressive Cures of Women Sufferers.

Wherever there is suffering from piles, Zam-Buk should be applied. There are lots of reasons for this, but one of the best is that in practically all cases of piles where the use of Zam-Buk is persevered with, complete cure — not merely relief—is the result.

Mrs. Wm. Hughes, of 253, Hochelaga Street, Hochelaga, Montreal, says:—"I suffered from blind, itching, and protruding piles for years. Sometimes they were so bad that I could hardly bear to move about. The inflammation, the burning smarting pain, the throbbing, the aching, the overpowering feelings of dulness and dark despair which this ailment brings, the shooting spasms of agony—all were so terrible that only sufferers from this awful ailment can understand!"

Bad as this case was, Zam-Buk triumphed, and Mrs. Hughes suffers no longer. It only needed a little perseverance with Zam-Buk, and in the end complete cure resulted.

Mrs. E. Boxall, of Scott Street, St. Thomas, says:—"For months without cessation I endured great pain from bleeding piles. For as many months I tried everything which I thought would give me ease, but in the end, dispirited and still suffering, I gave in."

Then it was she heard of Zam Buk, and she adds:—"Although I feared Zam-Buk would be like the ordinary remedies—useless—I am glad it was not. It soon proved itself to be very different. It rapidly gave me relief, and after a time cured me completely. I would like to let all sufferers from piles know what a grand thing Zam-Buk is."

Mr. F. Astridge, 3, St. Paul Street St. Catherine's, says:—"For five years I suffered untold agony from piles. At times the pain was so bad I could have screamed aloud. On a friend's advice I tried a box of Zam-Buk. It gave me considerable ease, and I persevered with the treatment until I was cured. I wish I could convince every sufferer from piles of the value of this great herbal balm."

So one could go on quoting case after case, and it is by working such cures that Zam-Buk has earned for itself its great reputation.

For internal piles melt a little Zam-Buk and thoroughly soak a wad, made of clean but old linen. Then apply to the part. If the piles are external, application of Zam-Buk is still more simple. Do it upon retiring. Next morning you will be well satisfied!

Zam-Buk is a cure also for cold-sores, and chapped cracked hands, ulcers, festering sores, blood-poisoning eczema, bad leg, ring-worm, scalp sores, burns, scalds, and all skin diseases and injuries.

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c a box, or may be obtained post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price; 3 boxes for $1.25. You are warned, however, against cheap and dangerous imitations sometimes offered as being "just as good."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

"Nerviline" Cures Rheumatism

If I had lived through my sufferings another year it would have been a miracle." This is the opening sentence of the declaration made by Mr. J. Eccles Squires, member of one of the best-known families for twenty miles round Sydney. "My hands were drawn out of shape, even my fingers were gnarled and crooked—my lameness, stiffness and inhability to get about all showed the havoc Rheumatism made with my health. The blessing of it all is that I have heard of Nerviline, and now I am able to tell and advise others how they may get well, too. My system was so weakened that I had to build up with a good tonic, so I took Ferrozone at meals. But I never stopped rubbing on Nerviline—it had a magic influence on my stiff, painful joints, and bottle was rubbed on the painful parts. Nerviline cured me, I am well today—have been well for 4½ years."

CURED 4 1-2 YEARS

You also can cure rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia or any plain or stiffness in the muscles or joints—to do so use Nerviline. Don't let your druggist substitute. Get Nerviline only; large bottles, 25c., or five for $1.00; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 18

LET THEM STARVE.

Some of the female hoodlums who are in jail in England for disorderly conduct, are refusing to take food, and the prison authorities are feeding them with stomach pumps. This is deeply resented and claimed to be illegal. Why use stomach pumps? Why not let them starve? If these creatures were publicly spanked, in a way that would make the crowd laugh, it might do them some good.

IN FREE CANADA.

It is no wonder that the Pope is pleased with the treatment of his church in the British Empire. It is only natural. He sees religious orders driven from France, and the church's property confiscated; he sees anti-clerical riots in Spain, resulting in the slaughter of priests; and he finds himself, in his own Italy, despoiled of the ancient lands of the papacy and practically a prisoner in his palace. So why shouldn't he be pleased to see his people perfectly free, unmolested and untrammeled under British rule?

BRITAIN'S NAVAL STRENGTH.

An expert naval correspondent of the Westminster Gazette sums the new Imperial naval policy up. He says it is "the transference of the wardenship of the Pacific to the people of the three great commonwealths and the establishment outside Europe of a second centre of sea power it will still be left to the Mother Country to maintain the two-power standard navy against Europe." He suggests the possibility of a financial contribution from the Indian Empire, and by its help the establishment of a second two-power standard in non-European waters, capable of dealing with possible future problems of imperial defence which the old formula against Europe was never designed to meet." This certainly has a very satisfactory sound and if such a policy is carried out, the result will prove a potent factor in maintaining the peace of the world.

DEAFNESS CANGOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

WANTED TIME FOR THOUGHT.

Arduous Duties Before the Head of the House Required His Entire Attention.

The baby was ill, and the doctor ordered that he be taken to the sea. This involved the closing of the house until the little one should be well enough to return. After the wife had secured hotel accommodations by the long-distance telephone, the man of the house went to his room and slowly and thoughtfully spread the entire contents of his wardrobe upon his bed, that they might be convenient for his wife to pack.

He stood surveying them, deep in meditation, when his wife came into the room and began to speak to him.

He raised his hand rebukingly. "Don't talk to me now, Susie, don't talk to me! I have a great deal on my mind. If we are going to the seashore day after to-morrow there are many things to be done, and I must plan."

His wife, who had already telephoned the butcher, milkman, baker, grocer, expressman and ticket office, and given the maid a month's vacation and arranged with a relative for the care of the dog, gazed at him in silence.

"A great deal on my mind," he repeated. Then the interrogative nature of his wife's silence forced him to explain.

"You see," he said, "I have got to put a nail in the cellar window and stop the newspaper."—Youth's Companion.

PECULIAR IDEAS OF AUTHORS.

Alexander Pope, who was the literary pontiff of his time, thought best when in bed. Whenever a thought came to him he would jot it down on a scrap of paper. His servant often found bedclothes and floor covered with white bits containing aphorisms which have now become hackneyed quotations.

Victor Hugo wrote "Les Miserables" standing up, an attitude which Hawthorne also assumed when he wrote many of his romances.

One leg thrown over the arm of a chair or sitting on the arm of his secretary's chair were Napoleon's favorite positions while dictating to Bourrienne, a position which he varied now and then by patting that scribe on the head or pulling his ears.

Sir Walter Scott could while reclining on a lounge dictate to two amanuenses, who frequently had to stop writing, so funny the dictated passages seemed to them.

William Morris made one of his famous translations from the Greek while riding on the steam cars. Walt Whitman and Horace Traubel, original in all things, were most original in the position they took while thinking. They were wont, so Mr. Traubel says, to climb upon a pile of lumber and lie down upon their backs. In that way each found out what the other's best thoughts were.

Coming Down Easy.

Inquiries after the welfare of Patrick Conroy were answered by his devoted friend, Terrace Dolan, who was at the Conroy's in the double capacity of nurse and cook. "No, he's not dangerously hurt at all," was Mr Dolan's reply to a solemnly whispered question at the door.

"We heard he had a bad fall and was all broke to pieces," whispered the neighbor.

"'Tis a big story you've heard," said Mr. Dolan, in his cheerful roar. "True, he fell off'n the roof o' the Brady stables, where he was shingling, and he broke his lift leg, knocked out a couple of teeth and broke his collar bone.

"Mind ye, if he'd have fell clear to the ground it might have hurted him bad, but sure there was a big pile of shtones and old lumber that broke his fall."—Youth's Companion.

Be Amiable and Retain Youth.

As a charming woman once said: "To remain always young one must be always amiable." A melancholy face, a sullen, an evil look, is like coming in contact with winter; whereas a serene face, a gracious air, a kind and good expression, is like a spring day and a smile on the lips like its sunshine. Sulky people, you may have remarked, always appear to be ten years older than they are. The face grows wrinkled from contracting the brows; the mouth projects disagreeably when sulking. Behold beside the portrait of the sullen woman the picture of the sweet and gracious woman. If her features are in repose, her lips form an adorable Cupid's bow, kind expression softens her glance and no shadow disfigures her brow. Perhaps she is the older, but she will always appear young and charming.

The Ill-Natured Man.

The ill-natured man, though but of equal parts with the good-natured man, gives himself a larger field to expatiate in. He exposes those failings in human nature which the other would cast a veil over; laughs at vices which the other either excuses or conceals; falls indifferently upon friends or enemies; exposes the person who has obliged him; and, in short, sticks at nothing that may establish his character of a wit.

Back to Earth.

"Every cloud has a silver lining," said the ready-made philosopher.

"Yes," answered Miss Cavenna. "The clouds are all right. But how about pocketbooks?"

THE RUSH TO THE CITY.

James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway, is once more quoted as saying that the rush to the city, by the younger boys and girls of the rural districts constitutes the greatest danger to which United States is at present exposed. Mr. Hill has preached this doctrine for many years. He has proved his faith by his works. He has spent large sums of money to improve farming conditions along the lines of railway in which he is interested. He has observed the spread of settlement on the western agricultural lands, the augmentation of the price of acreage in the older settled districts, and he has kept accurate tab on the changes in the ratio of urban to rural population. His conclusion is that the abandonment of the farm and farm labor is the greatest danger to which the United States is open at the present day.

Many school children suffer from constipation, which is often the cause of screaming, stupidity at lessons. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are an ideal medicine to give a child, for they are mild and gentle in their effect, and will cure even chronic constipation.

Uncle Bentley and the Roosters

By Hayden Carruth

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

The burden of Uncle Bentley has always rested heavily on our town. Having not a shadow of business to attend to he has made other people's business his own, and looked after it in season and out—especially out. If there is a thing which nobody wants done, to this Uncle Bentley applies his busy hand.

One warm summer Sunday we were all at church. Our pastor had taken for the passage on turning the other cheek, or one akin to it, for his text and was preaching on peace and quiet and non-resistance. He soon had us in a devout mood which must have been beautiful to see and encouraging to the good man.

Of course, Uncle Bentley was there—he always was, and forever in a front pew, with his neck craned and looking backward to see if there was anything that didn't need doing which he could do. He always tinkered the fires in the winter and fussed with the windows in the summer, and at his worst with each. His strongest church point was ushering. No sooner went to usher the stranger within our gates, he would usher all of us. He always thrust us into pews with which the people we didn't want to sit with. If you failed to follow him when he took you in tow, he would stop and look back reproachfully, describing mighty indrawing curves with his arm; and if you pretended not to see him, he would give a low whistle to attract your attention, the arm working right along, like a Holland windmill.

On this particular warm summer Sunday Uncle Bentley was in place wearing his long, full-skirted coat, a queer, dark, bottle-green, purplish blue. He had ushered to his own exceeding joy, and got two men in one pew, and given them a single hymn book, who wouldn't on week days speak to each other. I ought to mention that we had long before made a verb of Uncle Bentley. To unclebent meant to do the wrong thing.

The minister was floating along smoothly on the subject of peace when Uncle Bentley was observed to throw up his head. He had heard a sound outside. It was really nothing; but one of Deacon Plummer's young roosters crowing. The deacon lived near, and vocal offerings from his poultry were frequent and had ceased to interest anyone except Uncle Bentley. Then in the pauses between the preacher's periods we heard the flapping of wings, with sudden stops, pipings and startings. Those unregenerate fowls, unable to understand the good man's words, were fighting. Even this didn't interest us—we were committed to peace. But Uncle Bentley shot up like a jack-in-a-box and cantered down the aisle. Of course, his notion was that the roosters were disturbing the services and that it was his duty to go out and stop them. We heard vigorous "Shoos!" and "Take thats!" and "Consairn yous!" and then Uncle Bentley came back looking very important, and as he stalked up the aisle he glanced around and nodded his head, saying as clearly as words: "There, where would you be without me?" Another defiant crow floated in at the window.

The next moment the rushing and beating of wings began again, and down the aisle went Uncle Bentley the long tails of that coat fairly flowing like a cloud behind him. There was further uproar outside, and Uncle Bentley was back in his place, the time turning around and whispering hoarsely: "I fixed 'em!" But it was not the case, for twice more the very same thing was repeated. The last time Uncle Bentley came back he wore a calm, smug expression, as who should say: "Now I have fixed it." We should have liked it better if the roosters had fixed Uncle Bentley. But nobody paid much attention to poor Deacon Plummer. The thought occurred to him that perhaps Uncle Bentley had killed the fowls. But he hadn't.

However, there was no more disturbance without, and after a time the sermon closed. There was some notice of a special collection to be taken up. Of course, Uncle Bentley always insisted on taking up all the collections. He hopped up on this occasion and seized the plate with more than usual vigor. His struggles with the roosters had evidently stimulated him, for soon made the rounds and approached the table in front of the pulpit to deposit his harvest. As he did so I saw to our horror that the long tail of that ridiculous coat were violently agitated. A sickening suspicion came over us. The next moment one of those belligerent young roosters thrust a head out of either of the coat-tail pockets. One uttered a triumphant crow, the other made a vicious peck at Uncle Bentley, who dropped the plate with a scattering of coin, seized a coat skirt in each hand and drew it front. This dumped both fowls out on the floor, where they went at it hammer and tongs. What happened after this is a blur in most of our memories. All that is certain is that there was an uproar in the congregation, especially the younger portion; that the deacon began making unsuccessful dives for his poultry; that the organist struck up "Onward, Christian Soldier," and that the minister waved us away with a benediction amid loud shouts of "Shoo!" "I swanny!" and "Drat the pesky critters!" from your Uncle Bentley.

Did it serve to subdue Uncle Bentley? Not in the least; he survived to do worse things.

Woman's World

A GIFTED NOVELIST.

Sidney McCall (Mary McNeil Fenollosa), the author of "Red Horse Hill," etc., when scarcely more than a girl was living in another part of Japan when the late Lafcadio Hearn began his studies of the country. Independently she, too, was absorbing the mystic influences of beauty, and in a different form, that of verse, was shaping her impressions into concrete structure. A modest little volume of poems called "Out of the Nest" is thought by many of her friends to contain some of her finest work. Lafcadio Hearn, who later became one of her valued friends, was delighted with these poems. In her home in Tokyo, with its garden where grew pansies, magnolias and "moon flowers," Mrs. Fenollosa wrote her first novel, "Truth Dexter," a book which had a great success. "The Breath of the Gods" was the outcome of her impressions of the situation in Japan and Russia just before the crisis, but it was written after her return to America in the "big, low workroom of her southern home in Alabama, which looks out upon a garden where the blossoming cherry mingles its petals with those of the rose and the jasmine." Kokinata, or Little Sunshine hill, so called after the Japanese home, contains much that is best in beauty both of the east and west. Here also was written Mrs. Fenollosa's latest book, "Red Horse Hill."

Mrs. Fenollosa comes of an artistic family. Both her parents were writers. Her father, William Steddard McNeil, was a poet of ability and a lover and keen student of nature. Mrs. Fenollosa's home life in Mobile has always been one of the units in a very close knit, large, devoted family group. "Truth Dexter" was in part an outcome of that homesickness which, while absent in Japan, she felt for the dearly loved home circle.

SIDNEY M'CALL.

To her husband, the late Professor Ernest F. Fenollosa, well known in art circles as an authority on oriental art, Mrs. Fenollosa feels that she is deeply indebted for criticism, suggestion and constant encouragement, although in the matter of plot and actual writing she always works entirely alone. Their life together, both in Japan and in this country, was characterized by independent but absolutely congenial work and by harmony of interests and tastes.

In her latest book, "Red Horse Hill," Sidney McCall, as she prefers to sign herself, has furnished another American setting, that of a southern mill town. The conflict of human interests, a deep love motive that runs through four related lives among the characters of this story and the power for good or evil held in the hands of the controller of southern mills all bear a vital part in the drama.

Beauty in Dandelions and Milk.

If you want to be beautiful drink lots of dandelion tea and bathe in sweetened milk. Any one who commences to drink dandelion tea is entitled to immortal beauty as a small reward. Still the stuff may be made palatable by putting things in it. For instance, a dash of brandy may be added, but the tea is better for the skin without that alcoholic addition. Several cups a day must be taken for the first two months of summer and then two cups a day throughout the year. Scandal milk for the skin is recommended by those who study beauty scientifically. The milk must be boiled and then a few drops of violet water added. The fluid must be rubbed into face, neck and arms thoroughly and permitted to dry. Then the rubbing must be renewed. To steam the face with hot milk makes it soft and white as an infant's.

For the Tea Table.

A favorite dainty for the tea table is salted wafers or round, thin water crackers covered with beaten white of egg through which have been mixed finely chopped English walnuts. The crackers are baked in a hot oven and served instead of small cakes.

Travels Far Into the North.

Miss Annie S. Nash of Carstairs, Alberta, will travel over a thousand miles straight north of Edmonton before she reaches Hay River, a Hudson Bay post, where she will wed Rev. Alfred J. Vale, an English Church missionary, formerly of Berlin, Ont., and a graduate of Wycliffe College, Toronto, in 1908. The trip will take in the neighborhood of two months to complete, and will be made by rail, stage, snow and river steamer. It is a trip scarcely ever made by a woman, and one that few men except traders take.

Miss Nash is accompanied by Archdeacon Lucas and wife of London, England, who are in Canada for a year's holiday. The archdeacon is going north to perform the marriage ceremony, and will probably spend the winter in that district with his wife, returning to London in the spring of 1910.

Miss Nash has had a wide and varied experience in the five or six years that she has been a trained nurse. Her early home was in Berlin, Ont.

Aged Indian Dies.

Old "Indian Dave" died in his wigwam in Gilford Township a few days ago, where he had made his home for 60 years. He was sure he had passed his 106th birthday. He was known to the oldest settlers in 1838, and was then considered quite old.

Dave claimed to be the son of Chief Nitmup of the Chippewa tribe, but was never recognized as such by his tribesmen. He was known as "Indian Dave," but was recorded as Dave Stecker as a citizen.

He spent the winter in his bark and hide hut manufacturing baskets and bows and arrows, and during the summer traveled about the resorts selling his wares. He is survived by one son, James.

A Private Still?

A private detective is being engaged at St. Catharines to look into the rumor that the "Indian Listers" of this vicinity have a private still where they manufacture the best of whisky for 20 cents a gallon. The still used is said to be a relic of the Scott Act days, when it was kept in active operation in Raleigh.

The Sultan's Throne.

Australian Woman Becomes Hindu.

A remarkable ceremony took place at Lucknow, India, when Miss Thomson, a pretty young Australian woman, who is to be married to a Bengali barrister, formally renounced Christianity and embraced Hinduism as practiced by the Ayra Samajists.

The ceremony took place in the courtyard of the rajah of Vizianagram's residence, and was watched by a large crowd of natives.

The convert's reception by the Ayra Samajists was the customary "purification" by fire and water. Miss Thomson answered the questions of the Hindu priest in a low voice, ceremonially washed her hands and head and poured a spoonful of oil on a sandal-wood fire. She then received a Hindu name.

A Pageant of Priests.

Pageants have so far illustrated the history of a single town or city, but the one held recently in the grounds of Fulham Palace, London, was unique. It depicted the growth and history of the Church of England.

It was split up into a number of episodes, and, beginning with the publication of the Edict of Emperor Constantine, came right down through the ages to the acquittal of the Seven Bishops in 1688. A final tableau, representing the church "throughout the world," concluded the gigantic spectacle.

The grounds of Fulham Palace, lent by the Bishop of London, were well fitted for such a purpose.

The spectators were housed in a grand stand, 394 feet in length, 90 feet in depth, and covering an acre of ground. In addition to a large royal box, there was seating accommodation for 6,750. His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury performed the opening ceremony.

An Amiable Violinist.

Robert Browning and Joachim met one evening at a friendly gathering in London. The violinist had "oblig-

SERVED AS HIS LADY'S MAID.

A St. Petersburg paper publishes details of a Russian romance in which figures the wealthy and beautiful young Baroness Urussof, the widow of a distinguished Russian government official.

All the young cavaliers of Moscow were hopelessly in love with her. The baroness, however, rejected all attempts to obtain an introduction to her and lived in perfect seclusion, attended only by an elderly relative. Some months ago a young peasant girl began to visit the residence of the baroness, offering the servants cheap articles for sale. Subsequently the baroness used to buy different articles from the peasant, who was intelligent, had good manners and considerable conversational talents.

The baroness eventually asked the girl whether she would enter her service as a lady's maid. She agreed and discharged her duties to perfection for a fortnight and then revealed "herself" as a young Russian nobleman named Markuseff, who, taking advantage of his fair hair and complexion, had masqueraded as a domestic servant to break down the barriers with which the beautiful baroness had surrounded herself.

The baroness was so much impressed by his extraordinary perseverance that she became engaged to him, and the marriage took place a few days ago.

ORIGIN OF FOOLSCAP PAPER.

Emblem First Made Use Of by Cromwell to Show His Contempt for All Things Royal.

Everyone who has handled paper recognizes foolscap as a sheet 13 by 16 inches. This is used as a standard size all the world over, officially and commercially. It will therefore be interesting to know where and how this word originated. After the execution of Charles I. Cromwell and his staff, in organizing the commonwealth, made all possible effort to remove everything which had anything to do with the old monarchy. The paper in official use up to the time had as a watermark the king's crown; and, when Cromwell was asked what should be put in the place of the crown, to show his overwhelming dislike for anything concerning royalty, he directed a fool's cap to be put in place of the crown. This was done, and when Charles II. ascended the throne of England, it was at first forgotten to replace the cap by something else, and then, too late, the king was afraid to do anything to recall things dangerous to touch, and so it was neglected and the fool's cap may be seen as a water-mark on nearly all British official papers.

Hot Water Cure for Insomnia.

To insure the benefit of the hot water, it must be taken off the fire the moment it boils—not just before or after—and poured at once into a cup or glass. Then it should be taken while very hot. A little practice will enable one to swallow it at little less than the boiling point, and in addition to the proper temperature, the proper time must be observed. It is most efficacious in curing indigestion and improving the general tone of the system if taken immediately on waking in the morning, again an hour before lunch and an hour before dinner also, and to drink two glassfuls on retiring will almost positively insure sound sleep. It may require two or three days' trial before the desired result is effected, but once gained it can be held without interruption by faithfully pursuing this method.

No, Dog!

Reared in the strict school of "Yes, sir!" and "No, ma'am!" addressed without thought of servility to all elders and betters, I find this a season of rare courtesy and scant civility.

Well do I remember that awesome scene at my father's table when a stout and rebellious little sister, seething with disappointment over some denied dainty, answered "No!" to a well meant proffer of a less desirable dish.

"No, dog? or No, cat?" my father inquired with ominous calm. "No, dog!" the sturdy lass recklessly replied.

I quake even now at the thought of the breathless pause which followed, and draw a veil over the painful aftermath.—Appleton's.

Cure for Headache.

One of the very best remedies for a sick or nervous headache was suggested to me recently by a Finnish servant girl. She took raw potatoes without either washing or paring and cut them into thick slices. These were laid close together on the forehead and temples and kept in place by covering with a large handkerchief folded cornerwise and tied in the back.

In a short time the pain disappeared. As the pieces of potato got hot replace with cold fresh ones.

They give all the coolness of ice without the incidental dampness, and there is not the burning sensation ice often causes.

Unsympathetic.

Mrs. Malaprop—Young Sharp will have to apologize before I'll speak to him again.

Miss Interest—Did he insult you?

Mrs. Malaprop—Did he? The last time I met him I told him that my uncle, Lord de Style, had become lunatic maniacal, and he had the impudence to ask if he "whistled at crossings." He's an unsympathetic brute.

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with seemingly success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it is constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another, everywhere. Grateful patients gladly extend remedy. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

Uncle Bentley and the Roosters

By Hayden Carruth

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

The burden of Uncle Bentley has always rested heavily on our town. Having not a shadow of business to attend to he has made other people's business his own, and looked after it in season and out—especially out. If there is a thing which nobody wants done, to this Uncle Bentley applies his busy hand.

One warm summer Sunday we were all at church. Our pastor had taken the passage on turning the other cheek, or one akin to it, for his text, and was preaching on peace and quiet and non-resistance. He soon had us in a devout mood which must have been beautiful to see and encouraging to the good man.

Of course, Uncle Bentley was there—he always was, and forever in a front pew, with his neck craned up looking backward to see if there was anything that didn't need doing which he could do. He always tinkered with the fires in the winter and fussed with the windows in the summer, and did his worst with each. His strongest church point was ushering. Not content to usher the stranger within our gates, he would usher all of us, and always thrust us into pews with just the people we didn't want to sit with. If you failed to follow him when he took you in tow, he would stop and look back reproachfully, describing mighty indrawing curves with his arm; and if you pretended not to see him, he would give a low whistle to attract your attention, the arm working right along, like a Holland windmill.

On this particular warm summer Sunday Uncle Bentley was in place wearing his long, full-skirted coat, a queer, dark, bottle-green, purplish blue. He had ushered to his own exceeding joy, and got two men in one pew, and given them a single hymn-book, who wouldn't on week-days speak to each other. I ought to mention that we had long before made a verb of Uncle Bentley. To unclebentley was to do the wrong thing.

The minister was floating along smoothly on the subject of peace when Uncle Bentley was observed to throw up his head. He had heard a sound outside. It was really nothing but one of Deacon Plummer's young roosters crowing. The deacon lived near, and vocal offerings from his poultry were frequent and had ceased to interest anyone except Uncle Bentley. Then in the pauses between the preacher's periods we heard the flapping of wings, with sudden stoppings and startings. Those unregenerate fowls, unable to understand the good man's words, were fighting. Even this didn't interest us—we were committed to peace. But Uncle Bentley shot up like a jack-in-a-box and cantered down the aisle. Of course, his notion was that the roosters were disturbing the services and that it was his duty to go out and stop them. We heard vigorous "Shoos!" and "Take thats!" and "Consairs yous!" and then Uncle Bentley came back looking very important, and as he stalked up the aisle he glanced around and nodded his head, saying as clearly as words: "There, where would you be without me?" Another defiant crow floated in at the window.

The next moment the rushing and beating of wings began again, and down the aisle went Uncle Bentley the long tails of that coat fairly floating like a cloud behind him. There was further uproar outside, and Uncle Bentley was back in his place, this time turning around and whispering hoarsely: "I fixed 'em!" But such was not the case, for twice more the very same thing was repeated. The last time Uncle Bentley came back he wore a calm, smug expression, as who should say: "Now I have fixed 'em!" We should have liked it better if the roosters had fixed Uncle Bentley. But nobody paid much attention except Deacon Plummer. The thought occurred to him that perhaps Uncle Bentley had killed the fowls. But he hadn't.

However, there was no more disturbance without, and after a time the sermon closed. There was some sort of a special collection to be taken up. Of course, Uncle Bentley always insisted on taking up all the collections. He hopped up on this occasion and seized the plate with more than usual vigor. His struggles with the rooster had evidently stimulated him. He soon made the rounds and approached the table in front of the pulpit to deposit his harvest. As he did so we saw to our horror that the long tails of that ridiculous coat were violently agitated. A sickening suspicion came over us. The next moment one of those belligerent young roosters thrust a head out of either of those coat-tail pockets. One uttered a raucous crow, the other made a vicious dab. Uncle Bentley dropped the plate with a scattering of coin, seized a coat-skirt in each hand and drew it front. This dumped both fowls out on the floor, where they went at it hammer and tongs. What happened after this is a blur in most of our memories. All that is certain is that there was an uproar in the congregation, especially the younger portion; that the deacon began making unsuccessful dives for his poultry; that the organist struck up "Onward, Christian Soldier," and that the minister waved us away without a benediction amid loud shouts of "Shoo!" "I swanny!" and "Drat the pesky critters!" from your Uncle Bentley.

Did it serve to subdue Uncle Bentley? Not in the least; he survived to do worse things.

ST. LOUIS CENTENNIAL

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 5.—The observance of the centennial anniversary of the city of St. Louis will begin [illegible] with a church day celebration. At sunrise all church bells will clang in a general chorus up as a signal to be given by all of the firebells of the city; then will follow the ringing of chimes. On Monday the festivities will begin in earnest with carnivals parades and sports of all kinds, for which many valuable prizes have been offered.

WANTED TIME FOR THOUGHT.

Arduous Duties Before the Head of the House Required His Entire Attention.

The baby was ill, and the doctor ordered that he be taken to the sea. This involved the closing of the house until the little one should be well enough to return. After the wife had secured hotel accommodations by the long-distance telephone, the man of the house went to his room and slowly and thoughtfully spread the entire contents of his wardrobe upon his bed, that they might be convenient for his wife to pack.

He stood surveying them, deep in meditation, when his wife came into the room and began to speak to him.

He raised his hand rebukingly. "Don't talk to me now, Susie, don't talk to me! I have a great deal on my mind. If we are going to the seashore day after to-morrow there are many things to be done, and I must plan."

His wife, who had already telephoned the butcher, milkman, baker, grocer, expressman and ticket office, and given the maid a month's vacation and arranged with a relative for the care of the dog, gazed at him in silence.

"A great deal on my mind," he repeated. Then the interrogative nature of his wife's silence forced him to explain.

"You see," he said, "I have got to put a nail in the cellar window and stop the newspaper."—Youth's Companion.

PECULIAR IDEAS OF AUTHORS.

Alexander Pope, who was the literary pontiff of his time, thought best when in bed. Whenever a thought came to him he would jot it down on a scrap of paper. His servant often found bedclothes and floor covered with white bits containing aphorisms which have now become hackneyed quotations.

Victor Hugo wrote "Les Miserables" standing up, an attitude which Hawthorne also assumed when he wrote many of his romances.

One leg thrown over the arm of a chair or sitting on the arm of his secretary's chair were Napoleon's favorite positions while dictating to Bourrienne, a position which he varied now and then by patting that scribe on the head or pulling his ears.

Sir Walter Scott could while reclining on a lounge dictate to two amanuenses, who frequently had to stop writing, so funny the dictated passages seemed to them.

William Morris made one of his famous translations from the Greek while riding on the steam cars. Walt Whitman and Horace Traubel, original in all things, were most original in the position they took while thinking. They were wont, so Mr. Traubel says, to climb upon a pile of lumber and lie down upon their backs. In that way each found out what the other's best thoughts were.

Coming Down Easy.

Inquiries after the welfare of Patrick Conroy were answered by his devoted friend, Terence Dolan, who was at the Conroy's in the double capacity of nurse and cook. "No, he's not dangerously hurt at all," was Mr Dolan's reply to a solemnly whispered question at the door.

"We heard he had a bad fall and was all broke to pieces," whispered the neighbor.

"'Tis a big story you've heard," said Mr. Dolan, in his cheerful roar. "Thrue, he fell off'n the roof o' the Brady stebles, where he was shingling, and he broke his lift leg, knocked out a couple of teeth and broke his collar bone.

"Mind ye, if he'd have fell clear to the ground it might have hurted him bad, but sure there was a big pile of shtones and old lumber that broke his fall."—Youth's Companion.

Be Amiable and Retain Youth.

As a charming woman once said: "To remain always young one must be always amiable." A melancholy face, a sullen, an evil look, is like coming in contact with winter; whereas a serene face, a gracious air, a kind and good expression, is like a spring day, and a smile on the lips like its sunshine. Sulky people, you may have remarked, always appear to be ten years older than they are. The face grows wrinkled from contracting the brows; the mouth projects disagreeably when sulking. Behold beside the portrait of the sullen woman the picture of the sweet and gracious woman; all her features are in repose, her lips form an adorable Cupid's bow, kindness softens her glance and goodness illuminates her brow. Perhaps she is the elder, but she will always appear young and charming.

The Ill-Natured Man.

The ill-natured man, though but of equal parts with the good-natured man, gives himself a larger field to expatiate in. He exposes those failings in human nature which the other would cast a veil over; laughs at vices which the other either excuses or conceals; falls indifferently upon friends or enemies; exposes the person who has obliged him; and, in short, sticks at nothing that may establish his character of a wit.

Back to Earth.

"Every cloud has a silver lining," said the ready-made philosopher.

"Yes," answered Miss Cavenna. "The clouds are all right. But how about pocketbooks?"

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

IRELAND.

George Meredith's plea for home rule is embodied in his last poem, "Ireland," which leads off "Scribner's" for July, accompanied by a hitherto unpublished portrait which was painted in 1897 for J. M. Barrie by Amy Draper Sumner. We quote three of the seven stanzas:

"Ere in her ashes Ireland feels
And in her veins a glow of heat
To her the lost old time appeals
For resurrection, good to great;
Not as a shape to spectral eyes,
But humanly maternal, young
In all that quickens pride, and wise
To speak the best her bards have sung.

May she not call herself her own?
That is her cry, and thence her spite
Of fury, thence her graceless tone
At justice given in bits and bits.
The limbs once raw with gnawing chains
Will fret at silken when God's beams
Of freedom beckon o'er the plains
From mounts that show it more than dreams.

A nation she, and formed to charm,
With heart for heart and hands all round,
So longer England's broken arm,
Would England know where strength is found,
And strength to-day is England's need;
To-morrow it may be for both
Salvation: heed the portents, heed
The warnings, free the mind from sloth.

WOULDN'T CONFIRM BOY.

Anglican Vicar Refuses Sacrament to Canadian Lad.

The Rev. F. W. Clarke, vicar of Caldicot, South Monmouthshire, England, has refused to allow a Church lad, a Canadian, to attend his confirmation class because the youngster is a member of the Boys' Brigade, which holds its meetings in the Wesleyan school-room. The lad has been brought up in the Church of England, his parents belong to the Church, it was at the invitation of the curate that he presented himself at the vicar's confirmation class, but the vicar asked him at the close of the class if he belonged to the Boys' Brigade, and, when informed that he did, said, "We must draw the line somewhere."

The complaint seems to be that a church lad, though willing to obtain full membership of the Church, should have been guilty of the grievous sin of "schism" by belonging to an unsectarian organization, and attending a Bible class in connection with the Boys' Brigade, in which simple Bible teaching is given. The vicar called upon the father of the lad, Mr. Arthur C. Leaf, and said: "We must draw the line somewhere. Seeing he is in the brigade, we cannot very well confirm him." Mr. Leaf said: "Very well; that finishes the matter."

To an interviewer, Mr. Leaf observed: "It is strange to me, after living for fifteen years in British Columbia, where things are so different." When invited to give his version of the matter, the Rev. F. W. Clarke said he hoped no newspaper would interfere in a matter which must be left to the clergy to deal with."

Mr. Alfred Kemp, the Wesleyan evangelist, who has charge of the Caldicot Boys' Brigade, said they were absolutely unsectarian, and told the boys to attend what place of worship they pleased, but several members of the Boys' Brigade were asked to leave the church Sunday school because of their membership, and a lieutenant of the brigade left the church choir for the same reason. The curious thing is that the brigade have attended Rogiet Church, where the Archbishop of Monmouth preached to them. But Boys' Brigade members are not wanted in the parish church of Caldicot.

From Journalism to Playwriting.

Quite a number of popular playwrights served their literary apprenticeship as journalists. J. M. Barrie was a reporter on a Nottingham paper before he came to London. Henry Arthur Jones wrote articles and stories from boyhood, and did not enter a theatre until he was eighteen years of age. Hubert Davies was for some years a journalist in America, while Hall Caine, after being trained as an architect, became a journalist and leader-writer on the staff of the Liverpool Mercury, and after coming to London wrote for the Athenaeum, Academy, and other papers.

Cecil Raleigh, the author of so many Drury Lane dramas, wrote for Vanity Fair, and was at one time sub-editor and dramatic critic for the Lady. Cosmo Hamilton has filled the editorial chair of the World. Adrian Ross has done much journalistic work, while it would be impossible to say how many papers and periodicals George R. Sims has written for.

Haydn Manuscript as "Rubbish."

Dr. Cummings, principal of the Guildhall School of Music, in an address on Haydn at the rooms of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, Hanover square, a few days ago, said that some time ago he visited a second-hand music seller's in St. Martin's lane and purchased a Haydn manuscript for two shillings and sixpence. The manuscript was rescued out of a stack of what the music seller described as rubbish.

Lame back comes on suddenly and is extremely painful. It is caused by rheumatism of the muscles. Quick relief is afforded by applying Chamberlain's Liniment.

Rainbow Tinted Fishes.

The remarkable brilliancy of colors in the fish living about the coral reefs in tropical regions has been often noticed. Brilliant blue with fins and tail of bright yellow, vivid crimson shading off into a more subdued hue, bright green spotted and banded with red, green with long parallel stripes of blue and red, green marked with red above and bright blue below—such are some of the colors displayed by the fish of the Great Barrier reef of Australia. In order to explain such brilliant hues on the principles of natural selection they have been described as "warning colors." The fish are thought to be nauseous or poisonous and to proclaim this by their bright colors. As regards those of the Australian coral reef, however, many of them are said to be excellent eating.

A Bold Defence.

"An enlisted man once put the president of a court-martial in a difficult position," says a writer in Cassell's Magazine. "The court-martial was trying the soldier for some fault or other. When the evidence—and it took an unusually long time—had been given, the president asked the prisoner if he had anything to say in his defence.

"'Well, sir,' said the man, 'I can't see how this 'ere court can sentence me,' for Major Jones 'as been reading a paper under the table the 'ole blooming time, and Captain Smith 'as been making me into karicatoor on the blotting pad, and, as for Lieut. Brown, 'e 'asn't 'ad his commission a year and don't count anyways!'"

Casting Metals.

As is well known, some metals are unsuitable for casting, while others, like iron, can readily be cast in any desired shape. The property of casting well is said to depend upon whether the metal contracts or expands on solidifying from the liquid form. Iron, like water, expands in solidifying, and hence the solid metal may be seen floating in the liquid iron about it. The expansion causes it to fill the die into which it is poured and so it can be cast easily. Gold and silver contract in cooling and therefore are not suitable for casting.

The London Pageant.

The site selected for next year's London pageant in that part of Chingford Plain which adjoins Connaught Water has been approved by the pageant authorities. Between the lake and the old hunting lodge of Queen Elizabeth a great horseshoe stand will be built, three times the size of that erected at Fulham for the charter pageant. There will be 15,000 performers.

Canadian Securities.

The quiet but successful placing of $5,000,000 of Dominion Iron and Steel Co. bonds with English banking houses affords another demonstration of London's capacity for the absorption of Canadian securities.—Toronto.

THE CARIBOU AT HOME

BIG BEAST IS CANADA'S MOST ERRATIC ANIMAL.

Can Always Be Relied on to Do the Opposite Thing to Any Other Animal—Color Is Like That of Moss-Grown Bushes—It Herds With Its Fellows More Than the Moose or Deer—Feet Adapted to Deep Snow.

"The caribou or American reindeer (Rangifer caribou)," writes Mr. W. H. Moore in The Educational Review of St. John, N.B., "which is found in the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, is in size midway between the Virginian deer and the moose, and is without a doubt the most erratic in its wanderings of any of our native mammals. Its true habitat is among barrens, somewhat overgrown with black spruce, upon which usnea moss (really a lichen — Usnea barbata) is the main diet of the caribou, whether its long pendulous threads or fronds grow on the spruces of the barrens or on the trees of rocky, elevated positions. This animal also follows the roads made by the lumbermen and crops the lichens which grow on the felled trees.

When disturbed, the caribou always goes away, perhaps not to return for weeks; and when pursued may be expected to do exactly the opposite to what another animal would do. Herds of half a dozen or more have been known to allow a hunter to come up with them, and to stand staring at him in amazement, as one after another of them was shot down. At other times they flee at the slightest warning at the approach of a hunter. The actions of this animal are very uncertain. If, while wandering about, one of them should come across a man's trail in the snow, it will sometimes wheel about and run for perhaps twenty miles without stopping; and, another time, it is quite as likely to follow up his trail.

The color of the caribou, which in summer is a glossy reddish-brown, becoming grayer towards winter, serves to protect it because it much resembles that of the moss-grown bushes among which it stands. The under parts being of a lighter color than the upper, the form of the animal is much broken, and its outline is rendered indistinct to any but an experienced eye.

The female caribou brings forth a single fawn at first birth, and after that two are born at a time. Unlike the cow moose, she is often the possessor of a pair of antlers, which are, however, much smaller and more slender than those of the male. Some hold that the antlers of the female caribou are never dropped. This statement is based on the belief that the antlers not having an encasement at their base—known as the "burr"—cannot be dropped and again reproduced. The writer, however, believes that the antlers of the female are dropped and grown just the same as are those of the male, and that as for the burr, the female has not much in proportion to the size of her antlers as has the male.

Wedding Bells

HOPKINS—HOPWOOD.

A pretty October wedding was celebrated at St. John's church, Emily, on Wednesday afternoon, October 6th when Anna Pearl, eldest daughter of Mrs. Ellen Hopwood, was united in marriage to Mr. John Hopkins, son Mr. A. Y. Hopkins of Kinmount. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Mr. Earle of Christ church, Omemee. Miss Alice Hopwood, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, while Miss Preston of Midland, presided at the organ and played the wedding march and other appropriate selections during the wedding ceremony. The church was prettily decorated with autumn leaves and flowers. After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding dinner was served at the residence of the bride's mother, after which the happy couple left on the evening train for Toronto, and other points west. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful gold watch, and to the maid of honor jeweled bracelet. The handsome array of presents and the attendance of a large number of guests from distant points testified to the esteem in which the bride is held.

LETTER OF PRAISE.

For the Local Fire Chief and Chief of Police.

At the time Chief Howard was chosen as the head of Peterborough's new fire brigade, he received a letter from the Fire Underwriters, congratulating him upon his appointment, and also calling attention to the bad condition of the back yards and premises in Peterborough, and asking him to pay some attention to that problem and to try and remedy the conditions. The subject happened to be a pet hobby of Chief Howard's, and he at once instituted a vigorous campaign with the help of Chief of Police Rossel. The transformation that has been accomplished has been marvellous, and in view of that the following letter from the inspector of the Liverpool and London and Globe insurance Company will be of interest:

Chief Howard, Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir.—Don't forget to prepare a paper to be read at the next meeting of the Fire Chiefs, on the advantages of a clean town, and how to go about it. What the chief of police and yourself have done in Peterborough can be done in other places if the other fire chiefs and chiefs of police are of the right caliber. It is your duty in any case to tell the other fire chiefs what you have accomplished along this line in your own town, and the means you took to do this work.

Yours truly,
A. C. STEPHENSON,
Inspector.

When a man or woman finds sickness coming on, such as indigestion, weak eyes, kidney trouble etc., it is time some attention is given to the subject of food and drink.

In practically all such cases where coffee or tea is the drink, one can obtain relief by quitting the coffee or tea and taking Postum.

He leaves off a drink that is an active producer of disease and takes in its place a powerful liquid food that contains elements for rebuilding the nerve centres which have heretofore been tore down.

Fair Association Want Public Meeting to Discuss Permanent Grounds

As yet the secretary of the Peterborough Agriculture Society, has not been able to get all the accounts in, a fact that seems exceedingly strang a fact that seems exceedingly strange when money is so scarce. A meeting of the society was held a week ago, and all the accounts that were in were passed. Another meeting of the executive will be held shortly to pass the balance of the accounts and to prepare a financial statement.

PUBLIC MEETING.

His Worship Mayor Rush, will be asked to call a public meeting for the purpose of discussing the municipally owned exhibition grounds. The society has a few thousand dollars in the savings bank and if the city would get them the grounds they would soon put the exhibition on an excellent basis, financially and as an exhibition. The move should be a popular one, but if it is proposed to put a bylaw to the people this January the Fair Association will have to get a wiggle on and get the meeting called. If the bylaw is not to be voted on until next year it would be idle to talk to the present council as they could do nothing.

Local People Hear Wilbur F. Crafts Speak at Lindsay Last Night

An enthusiastic audience crowded the Academy of Music, Lindsay last night on the occasion of the first visit of Dr. Wilbur Crafts to that town. At eight o'clock every available space was occupied and late comers had to stand along the walls or sit on window sills or aisle steps.

Mr. Flavelle occupied the chair, and after the singing of a double male quartette. Dr. Crafts explained his mission to Canada.

He was always interested in temperance reform but thought that it was always more interesting to be in centers where something was doing, and so had decided to cancel engagements in New York and come and help in the work in this vicinity He desired to urge his arguments in favor of local option because it had nothing in it that meant the removal of a man's liberty but the banishing of the facilities and inducements to strong drink. Let the towns and cities set these men free whose only work from early morning till late at night was to put inducements, temptations, and encouragements in the way of their fellowmen. Let them find some more respectable employment and they will be better citizens themselves and will not be the influences of evil and ruin. Any city that is organized for business cannot afford to support an institution whose only business is to produce industrial inefficiency, for in accurate and undisputed tests made it has been discovered that toilers of hand and brain such as type setters lose at least one-tenth of their efficiency and productivity by the moderate use even of beer and wine.

He believes thoroughly in local option as he believed in ward option and even building option.

In the Capitol at Washington when the saloon was banished from the building Congressman Sims rising in Congress said that it had decreased drunkenness of Congressmen and he believed that what was good for the Capitol of the United States, was good for Canada. His had just left Montreal after a conference with General Manager Hays of the Grand Trunk, who is one of the honored members of the International Bureau of Reform, and he had stated that on the Grand Trunk System they would not tolerate an engineer or driver who used intoxicating liquor or would they have a man in their employ who drank even off duty if they knew it.

If it is necessary to have a clear head and steady nerve to run a train it needs a clear head and a steady nerve to run a government.

Therefore do away with the saloon and you remove at once the temptation, the enticement, the inducement, the facility and the atmosphere of strong drink.

In Germany science waas taking a most advanced step in seeking to curb the destructive tendency of the use of beer because of its effect upon industrial productivity.

In France posters were to be seen on school buildings, public buildings, drug stores, bill boards and all other conspicuous places stating the tremendous physical havoc—not of drunkenness or even habitual drinking merely but of the slightest use of alcholic drinks—proving that it leads at once to a state of alcoholism or blood poisoning that does untold injury to mind and body. Dr. Craft's lecture was full of power throughout and his convincing arguments were received by a most appreciative audience.

Lindsay is well organized for the local option campaign and are conducting it along lines of public economy, cleanliness, morality and righteousness. The business men evidently see that it is for the highest good of the entire community. and are convinced that from the civic and commercial points of view Lindsay wants to give her young men a chance.—Com.

The West will Make an Appeal to Ottawa

Winnipeg, Oct. 8.—"The Governments of the three Western Provinces have decided to make a united appeal to the Ottawa authorities for the right to administrate their own school land and school land funds." This interesting announcement was made by Hon. George R. Caldwell, Minister of Education for Manitoba, who returned last night from Regina, where he was in conference with Premier Rutherford of Alberta, and Hon. J. A. Calder, Minister of Education of Saskatchewan, on the subject. The whole question was discussed thoroughly and the three Cabinet ministers resolved to urge the co-operation of their respective governments in securing legislation towards this end.

Pittsburg Sluggers won the First Game

"Ty" Cobb Scored First Run of the Game in Opening Innings on Delehanty's Single—Story of Game

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 8.—Fine weather prevailed today for the first game of the world's series between Pittsburg and Detroit though the early morning indications were anything but promising. Heavy fog enveloped the city necessitating the use of electric lights on the streets until 9.30. Then the sun broke through the haze and an hour later it was a perfect summer day.

Reports of Pittsburg being baseball crazy are not a bit exaggerated. Crazy is the right word. The excitement over the games here puts to shame anything that Detroit or Chicago ever experienced during the past two years.

The city is filled with visitors and it is impossible to get sleeping accommodation for half of those who are here.

The local population naturally has the baseball fever worse than the visitors so that it was not surprising to find thousands of fans lined up at the gates of Forbes Field all night long in the hope of securing admission to the grounds.

All the reserved seats have been sold days ago. Speculators offered some today at prices ranging from ten to twenty-five dollars, according to location.

All the prominent baseball men of the country are here today including President Powers of the Eastern League. The newspaper contingent numbers two hundred and fifty, representing all the prominent dailies in the United States and Canada.

The National Commission met at noon at Hotel Schenley, when the case of Pitcher Pfeffer, involving the Chicago National League Club and the Toronto Club was re-opened upon the application of President Murphy, who it will be remembered was recently fined $500 by the commission for tampering with the Toronto player.

A tremendous rush for seats followed the opening of the gates, and in a short time all but the reserved sections and boxes were filled to overflowing. The holders of seat coupons strolled in more leisurely. Many thousand persons will have to be content to remain without the gates.

Following is the line-up:

Pittsburg —Byrne, 2b; Leach, cf; Clark, lf; Wagner, ss; Miller, 3b, Abstein, 1b; Wilson, rf, Gibson, c; Adams, p.

Umpires — O'Loughlin and Johnstone.

One of thepeculiar features of the early morning ticket selling was the odd way in which the fans lined up for the purpose of reaching the dispensor of pasteboards. One line, extending in the direction of the city, was almost a mile long. Street cars discharged their crowds fully three blocks from the field, and the fans minus tickets immediately fell in behind those already lined up.

The immense gates which led to the bleachers and field seats were thrown open at ten o'clock and these places were filled in a jiffy. Hundreds brought lunches and the bleachers presented the appearance of an immense picnic.

The game started promptly at two o'clock. Detroit scored their first and only run an the first innings. Pittsburg scored one in the fourth, two in the fifth, and their last in the sixth, thus winning the first of the series by the score of 4—1.

DEPARTURE OF TROOPS FOR THE BATTLEFIELD.

GENERAL MARINA.

MOORS SLAUGHTER 70 SPANIARDS

Took Them Prisoners and are Reported to Have Massacred Them All.

Lisbon, Ort. 8.—Rout and disaster, following another attempt of the Spanish forces to extend their operations in the vicinity of Melilla where they are penned in by the Riff tribesmen, are related in a message received here today from Melilla. It is reported that seventy of the Spanish cavalrymen captured by the Riffs during the engagement were slaughtered in cold blood in the native camps.

The object of the expedition was to reconnoiter the position of the tribesmen, who are constantly changing their camps and massing their forces at different points along the Spanish front and if possible, to establish a fortified Spanish position some distance south of Mount Gurugu. A strong force of Spanish infantry and cavalry with several heavy guns ventured from the fortified camps at Mount Gurugu, and had proceeded some distance into the hostile territory before meeting with the natives.

In a shallow ravine between two low hills, the Spaniards were attacked from every side. The ambush had been carefully planned and the Spanish infantry were practically helpless. The cavalry charged the hills on one side of the position, and covered the retreat of the demoralized infantry which fell back to Mount Gurugu with heavy loss. The cavalry charge succeeded in stopping the Riffs long enough to save the infantry, but at the price of heavy loss to the cavalry. Seventy of the latter were surrounded and captured among the hills. All the cannon and supplies of the expedition fell into the hands of the Moors.

It is reported here that the tribesmen are receiving large numbers of reinforcements from the interior and from the troops of Mulai Hafid

BASEBALL TODAY.

The last game of baseball for this season gives promise of being one of the best, if not the best game. The Strathconas will go up against the "Has Beens" and the game will be called at Riverside Park sharp at 3 o'clock, and no doubt there will be a big crowd there. The Has Beens will pick their team from the following:—Parnell, Graham, D. McCabe, Steve Roddy, George Johnston, Yebbie Flaherty Fred Davidson, Harry Burridge and Jack Sheridan. Dan McCabe and Yebbie Flaherty will hold down the mound and Edmond and Burridge will do the receiving. Norm Dusty and Len Dobson will be the Straths' battery.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION.

Second Annual Show on January 4th, 5th and 6th.

Already the Poultry Association is preparing for its second annual poultry and pet stock exhibition. The poultry men are talking about it and they are getting their birds in shape That the class of birds to be shown will include many of the best in Ontario is assured, and that the show will be a great success is equally assured. Every time the poultrymen get a chance to display their feathered pets they do so and each season sees a big improvement over the previous ones. It is only a very few years ago that the poultry exhibit at the Peterborough Fair was a very small and insignificant one. It is not so now. In fact the poultry tent is one of the main attractions at the fair.

The fall exhibition is certainly good but the birds in January have a great advantage as they are then fully feathered. They have been housed in and they are smooth and sleek, so that they present a much more beautiful appearance than they do in the fall.

The show this year is on January 4th, 5th and 7th. and it will be held in the market hall as usual. A large number of new coops have been secured and the directors expect that at least 1200 birds will be shown. Keep the dates in mind. Tell your friends about it and help the association talk it up. It is a big thing for the city and it should be encouraged.

Body was interred Without the Prayers

Hamilton, Oct. 8.—The unusual spectacle of a body being interred in an Anglican cemetery without a word of prayer by two ministers present, has caused gossip throughout the countryside.

The alleged incident took place at the funeral of Miss Fraser, who was buried at Greensville recently. Nine years ago Miss Fraser had a disagreement with Rev. S. Bennett, her Anglican minister, and before her death she made arrangements with a Hamilton rector to take charge of the funeral. Rev. Mr. Bennett notified him that he would not stand for being ignored in his own parish, and the local clergyman consequently had to step down and out. To fill the gap the services of a Presbyterian minister was secured, and he performed the funeral service at the house. But at the grave Mr. Bennet put in an appearance and refused to allow the Presbyterian pastor to officiate in the cemetery, and so it came about that the body was lowered into the grave, the grave filled in, and the relatives departed without a prayer of any kind being offered by either of the two ministers of the gospel present.

IN FREE CANADA.

It is no wonder that the Pope is pleased with the treatment of his church in the British Empire. It is only natural. He sees religious orders driven from France, and the church's property confiscated; he sees anti-clerical riots in Spain, resulting in the slaughter of priests; and he finds himself, in his own Italy, despoiled of the ancient lands of the papacy and practically a prisoner in his palace. So why shouldn't he be pleased to see his people perfectly free, unmolested and untrammeled under British rule?

Isolation Hospital and what It will Cost

It is understood that Ald. Bradburn is busy gathering information as to the cost of the isolation hospital, complete and ready for occupancy. To get this ready for a council meeting on Monday night the chairman of the Property Committee has his work cut out for him as there is a lot to do.

The final action of the council the other night in referring the matter back to the committee for full information was the wisest thing they could do under the circumstances. It is quite evident that the aldermen do not know within a couple of thousand dollars what the hospital will cost. They have authority only to spend $15,000 without going to the people. One faction of the council claim it will cost $20,000 while another states that only a few hundred dollars over the $15,000 are required. No one really knows what is wanted.

Granting that an isolation hospital is necessary. Few will deny it. the question is the cost. If the council undertakes to build one for $15,000 and issue debentures for that amount, they should not exceed that sum by one dollar. Whatever amount they start out with they should complete the building throughout and fix up the grounds, put in the water and sewar and leave nothing for the future with the idea of taking it out of current revenue. The $15,000, or whatever sum is decided upon should provide everything that is necessary and that is known to be necessary. If it did not the aldermen would be fooling the people and over-reaching their authority.

The people want an isolation hospital, and will be satisfied to pay for it. But they also want a known for it. But they also want to know what it is going to cost. If the $15,000 will do it well and good. Everyone will be glad to see the work proceeded with at once. If more than that sum is necessary than the council should go to the people and ask for the full amount required and the people will no doubt grant it. The people could hardly be expected to stand for an $18,000 or $20,000 building being erected with only $15,000 provided and the balance taken out of current revenue.

GIVES CLEARNESS TO SKIN

Feeds and Purifies Blood and Thereby Keeps You in Good Health.

Most women and some men try to remove yellowishness of skin blotches, dark lines under the eyes by cosmetiques. Such means are as useless as disappointing. When the skin lacks clearness, particularly when the body is emaciated, it is simply the stain upon the skin of impurities in the bowels that are carried about by the blood. Sluggish activity is certainly the cause of bad complexion even if regularity should be pretty fair.

Better than any cosmetique, because they remove the cause of skin discoloration, Dr. Hamilton's Pills ensure inward cleansing and activity. In addition to their laxative action they are a true tonic to all the eliminating organs, liver, kidneys, bowels, and glands. Dr. Hamiltan's Pills remove the cause of all blood that manifest themselves outwardly, and strengthen the organs and thereby prevent a return of diseased conditions."

One box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills proves their merit, even one dose shows how different they are from other pills. 25c per box, at all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

The last baseball game of the season will be played at Riverside Park this afternoon at 3 o'clock between the "Has Beens" and the "Would Be's."

A boon to Stock Raisers

It is matter of vital importance to every farmer, horse-owner and stock-raiser to know exactly what to do when one of his animals is taken suddenly sick.

The letter of Mr. Frank F. Dullerton, which we print below, gives information of inestimable value, and tells of his experience in curing ailing stock during the past thirty-eight years:

SAVED $1,000 BY NERVILINE

"Several years ago when my horses took colic I used to give them Cayenne Pepper in hot milk, but in a few cases only did it help, and because I had no proper means at hand I lost several valuable animals. Some one told me of the success Mr. Wendling, of Brockville, Ont., had in his racing stables with "Nerviline", so I laid in a supply. It wasn't very long before Nerviline saved the life of a valuable stallion of mine, which was worth at least $1,000.00. This horse was taken with colic, and would have died, had it not been for Nerviline. I have used Nerviline for reducing swellings, for taking out distemper lumps, and easing a bad cough, and always found it worked well. I recommend every man who owns horses or cattle to keep Nerviline on hand.

Mr. Fullerton is one of the best known residents of Stormont, and his recommendation as an experienced and practical horseman proved beyond question how valuable Nerviline really is.

Give Nerviline a trial. It's good for man or beast, internally or externally, 25c. per bottle or five for $1.00. At all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 19

DISEASED MEAT.

The Medical Health Officer for this city stated in his annual report last November; that much of the meat offered for sale in the city was produced under unsanitary conditions and in violation of the provisions of the Public Health Act and the act respecting the slaughter of animal that over 200 carcasses of disease cattle were offered for sale in thi market annually. He recommended the establishment of a municipal abattoir and the official inspectioo of all animals slaughtered for food."

The chief veterinary officer of the Department of Agriculture recommends in a circular widely distributed at the Toronto Fair "the abolition of the private slaughter-houses and the substitution therefor of municipal abattoirs conducted under the supervision of trained and qualified veterinary inspectors, as most of the objectional meats placed on the market emanate from these undesirable and unsanitary places."

It is the duty of every man to see that his family, as well as himself, does not eat diseased and unwholesome meat. In places where establishments under Government inspection do not exist, safety in this regard can be secured only by the establishment of a municipal abattoir under official inspection. Municipal authorities have been too long neglectful of the necessity for intelligent action in the matter of meat inspection. We are glad to know, however, that our own city council has become alive to the importances of this and that a committee is now gathering information with the object of establishing a municipal abattoir, which is an ideal which the aldermen should keep before them while engaged in this investigation.—Exchange.

DEAFNESS CANGOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroted forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

ARTS LIMITATIONS

When the Portrait Painter Called.

On his thumb hung a palette such as an artist sports in his hours of ease, and taking this palette as the keynote of his adornment, he had contrived an appearance which loudly sang of the studio. Fixing his face and drawing a full breath, he rang the bell of apartment No. 61 and awaited the event, his palette held prominently before him and his black leather box on the floor.

Little feet tripped along the hall inside and the door opened.

She was, then, just about as thin as they make them, and it would be difficult to tell which of her features challenged the glance with the greatest insistence. Her hair was not as beautiful as her eyes, nor her eyes as beautiful as her nose, nor her nose as beautiful as her lips, nor her lips as beautiful as her chin. And as for her chin, she had none. Yes, such was she who opened the door of apartment 61 and looked into the eyes of the artist.

"Madame," said he, "good morning!" whipped a pencil from his pocket and, closing one eye, he squinted at her over the tip of this pencil with a heavenly look of rapture on his face.

"Has any one ever told you," he exclaimed, with a sudden vigor, "that you would make a perfect artist's model?"

"Why, no," she said. "Why, no."

"Then, madame," he cried, "if I were to paint a lovely picture of you—in oils—a full-length picture fit for any gallery—and all for nothing, mind you, all for nothing— would it be too much for me to ask you to tell admiring friends that Prof. Soulsby painted it—Prof. Soulsby of the Munich art school. Would that be asking too much?"

"Why, no," she said. "Why, no. All for nothing, you say?"

"All for nothing!" he graciously assured her. "All for nothing!"

"Why, no," she said, and, almost blushing, she added, "Why, I'd be pleased to tell them."

"Margaret! You be careful!"

"There is no need for her to be careful, madame!" cried the artist through the open door. "If she will only consent to sit for me I'll be more than amply repaid." And turning again to Margaret, Mr. Faust added: "You know it's so hard to get a start in this this great city of yours. Every one is so suspicious."

"O, I don't mind her!" she whispered.

"Now, I have here," whispered the artist as he opened the black leather box, "a package of sealed envelopes numbered from 1 to 100. Ninety-nine of these are empty; the 100th contains a card bearing these simple words, 'Grand prize.' Of course there isn't a lady in New York, however grand and however beautiful, who wouldn't jump at the chance of getting a genuine Soulsby portrait—in oils—and so I have adopted this method. You pick an envelope—any envelope—it costs you nothing and it commits you to nothing. And if you draw the lucky one, why, then, you do get your portrait in oils for nothing, absolutely nothing, and that's all there is to it. Now! Any card! Any card!"

She drew a card, and taking it from her the artist held it to the light.

"By jove!" he exclaimed in shaking tones, "you've won it!"

"O, mother!" she cried over her shoulder. "I've won it!"

"O, isn't that grand!" cried Margaret. "But, then, I was always lucky!"

"Now, madame," said the artist, "as I said before I am a stranger in your city, just arrived from the great art centers of Europe, and my studio is not yet fitted up as I would like to have it. So if you will let me have a cabinet photograph of yourself I will at once—"

"Ask him," cried the voice within, "if any deposit is necessary."

"Why, no, mother!" cried Margaret over her shoulder. "Don't you understand? I won the grand prize!" And turing to the artist she whispered: "Is any deposit necessary?"

"Only a dollar," he hurriedly whispered back. "First installment on the beautiful frame I furnish with each and every picture. Of course, you understand that I can hardly be expected to furnish the beautiful frame for nothing as well as the picture, do you?"

"Why, no," said Margaret. "I couldn't expect that."

"Is he trying to sell a frame?" cried the voice within.

"Mother!" exclaimed Margaret over her shoulder. "I tell you I won the Grand Prize!"

"Perhaps," said the gloomy voice within, "perhaps they are all Grand Prizes. Come in here, young man, and let me draw one of those envelopes."

"Madame," cried the artist through the door, as he hid his palette under his coat, and slung his black leather box over his shoulder, "I am a portrait painter, and never yet have I been obliged to paint a fortress, or a wild night at sea, or feeding time at the menagerie, or moonlight on the ruins, or"—

"Margaret!" cried the voice, "shut the door!"

And as for Margaret, Margaret's gaze fixed itself upon vacuity again, and she sadly shut the door.

THE RUSH TO THE CITY.

James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway, is once more quoted as saying that the rush to the city, by the younger boys and girls of the rural districts constitutes the greatest danger to which United States is at present exposed. Mr. Hill has preached this doctrine for many years. He has proved his faith by his works. He has spent large sums of money to improve farming conditions along the lines of railway in which he is interested. He has observed the spread of cattle-raising, the augmentation of the prices of acreage in the older settled districts, and he has kept accurate tab on the changes in the ratio of urban to rural population. His conclusion is that the abandonment of the farm and farm labor is the greatest danger to which the United States is open at the present day.

The old, old story, told times without number, and repeated over again for the last 30 years, but it is always a welcomed story to those in search of health—There is nothing in the world that cures coughs and colds as quickly as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. 19

NO STEEL TIES FOR ACTOR.

Tragedian Opposes Forward with Grievance for Which Real Sympathy Will Be Felt.

He had long hair and it was black, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. His voice was heavy, so heavy that at times it rumbled.

"Have the common people any rights?" he asked.

"A few," the editor admitted.

"And the uncommon people—how about them?"

The editor adroitly parried the question.

"State your grievance," he said.

The stranger assumed an impressive pose.

"I am an actor," he announced, "and while I am a very busy man, I find time to read the daily journals. In your sheet this morning, sir, I noted the statement that certain railroads are to adopt electricity as a motive power. In this connection, they will use steel ties instead of wooden ones. These steel ties, I am informed, are apt to carry powerful electric currents. There are times, sir, when, through lack of financial appreciation, actors are forced to use the railroads—but not the cars. I am a tragedian, sir. I have played Hamlet and Lear. Do you think it right for soulless corporations to force a Hamlet or a Lear to dance a frantic mazurka, as it were, from one electric-charged tie to another? Can these corporations do this unjust thing?"

"I'd like to see 'em try it," said the editor, as he turned back to his work.

"Too bad, Sistah Sagg—outtingly 'twus!—dat yo' couldn't be at de weddin'," sympathetically said Sister Taggie, who had been present. "Ah-Lawd! —'twus one o' de most conscrous events of de present social season, yass'm! The Longest Word.

What is believed to be the longest word to be found in any dictionary—one that leaves even German and Dutch hopelessly out of it—may be turned up in Liddell and Scott's lexicon by those who can read Greek characters. Those who cannot may be content to know that this word which begins "lepadotemachoselachogaleo," proceeds in like manner through 78 syllables, and counts 170 letters in all. Of course, no ancient Greek ever used such a word as this in ordinary conversation. It is a comic word invented by Aristophanes for rhythmical delivery in one of his plays and means a dish compounded of all sorts of fish, fresh, fowl and sauces, which are enumerated in the word. The most ingenious English translation of it yet suggested is—"hash."

Couldn't Place Horace.

"They say that Horace wrote his poems in praise of wine," the school teacher said to the Billville citizens.

"Who? Horace Greely? Never knowed he writ poetry."

"No, no—the other Horace, who comes from antiquity."

"Never hearn tell of him, n'er the place he come from; but it's my opinion, whoever he was, that he had mighty little to do to be wastin' time on wine, when the country has more corn licker tha s it kin consume convenient; but, come ter think of it, the less said 'bout corn, now a-old, in the north Georgy region, the better. The blamed ol' government is mighty watchful!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Not a Lady Killer.

"They tell me, Mr. Sh——" whispered the fluffy young thing, "that you are quite a lady killer."

"They do me an injustice, my word, Miss Giggles," responded the gallant old beau, laying his hand on his heart and making a profound bow, "I catch 'em alive."

SIMCOE'S HOME.

High among the hills surrounding Honiton, the little country town which is famed far and wide as the centre of the lace-making industry of Devon, England, stands Wolford Lodge, the pleasant English home where General Simcoe, the first Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada, spent the last few years of his eventful life. Weakened by the wounds and hardships endured in the disheartening campaigns of the American Revolutionary war, and worn with his anxious toil for the benefit of the new British province which it had been given to him to organize in the wilderness, he came back to England in 1796 to seek well-earned repose. But rest was not for him. Almost immediately he was sent back across the Atlantic to put down an insurrection in the West Indies. Returning again to his native land, he began, about the year 1800, to build himself a spacious mansion on a green slope deep amongst the gently-rounded, well-cultivated hills of lovely Devon. Surely no toil-worn warrior ever found a more restful spot in which to spend the evening of his days, for still, despite a hundred years of progress, despite vastly increased population, despite railways and motor-cars, the whole land speaks of peace.

The lodge was built in solid fashion by the General round an old farm-house, which was on the estate when he bought it. Except for the addition of some large bow-windows, the house has been little altered from the original design, and much of the old furniture remains in its spacious rooms. So large are they that an ancient four-post bedstead appears a comparatively small piece of furniture, and the General's own bedroom is larger than many a village church. In the different rooms numerous relics connected with him have been carefully preserved.

On either side of the entrance window, in the square entrance hall, are two venerable flags, the colors of the "Queen's Rangers," a provincial corps of Loyalists, which was raised by Simcoe and did gallant service during the revolutionary war.—Emily P. Weaver.

His Lucky Donkey.

The costermonger's love for his donkey was demonstrated recently at the People's Palace, Mile End road, London. Nearly 200 donkeys, carefully groomed, with their owners standing by them in their Sunday best, were exhibited under the auspices of Our Dumb Friends' League.

Many of the costermongers declared that they would not part with their little animals for untold gold. "Here's the foundation of all my little fortune," said William Witt, an East End coal dealer, as he stroked his sturdy prize winner, Lazy Lightning. "Five years ago I was dead broke; I borrowed 30 shillings to buy my little pal here" -patting the donkey again.

"First my donkey carried coal from street to street on a barrow; but gradually my trade grew. Now I've got three little shops, and a farm out in the country. But it was the donkey that turned my luck and put me on the right road. Out at the farm there's a nice green field, with shady trees in it. As soon as this show's over that's where my donkey's going, to end his days just doing nothing but enjoy the green grass—and rest."

Many prizes were awarded to the best-groomed donkeys. A challenge cup and a set of harness, given by the Queen, were won by Jenny, a smart little donkey that pulls the barrow of a wood and coke hawker.

HOW TO WIN.

Determination and Unity of Purpose Will Work Wonders.

Once you have chosen your occupation or profession hold fast thereto. Let nothing allure you from the main traveled road. Having chosen, hold like steel. Make everything feed into the main current of your life. Even modest talents, organized and unified, have conquered great distinction and world-wide success. History is full of illustrations of the unifying power of a great purpose. Witness the poor child Hastings looking at a distant manor house that once had belonged to his father. The determination to win back that estate before he died lent power and momentum and produced Lord Hastings. Witness the influence of purpose upon that little Scotch boy, out upon a holiday on the banks of the Clyde, with three precious coppers as his entire possession. He determined to build a house on the hilltop overlooking the river and forty years later moved into the castle, from which he looked down upon twenty ocean steamers he had built. Witness the purpose of William the Silent, filling all the days and nights for the here struggling to deliver brave little Holland from Spain. Witness Milton's vow to write a poem that the world would not willingly let die and who therefore lived an epic life. Witness Paul's resolution to do one thing and one thing alone and who, with that unit purpose, achieved democracy for all subsequent peoples and centuries. Aimlessness will make your life like a sand heap.—Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis.

FULL OF HUMAN INTEREST.

Landscapes of the Dutch Painters of the Seventeenth Century.

The Dutch painters of the seventeenth century were as little concerned with poetic feeling as with idealism. They used their eyes and painted what they saw, but neither their imaginations nor their feelings were touched. While most modern painters interpret how the scene has affected themselves, the Dutch looked at it as something entirely outside themselves.

Otherwise the Dutch landscapes present us pictures of a pleasant workaday world or of the quiet evenings that follow after the labors of the day—never a hint of disturbance, though war and rumors of war were constant; instead, the perpetual suggestion of prosperous peace and thrifty comfort, for they abound with the evidences of busy humanity. Not only is nature brought into touch with human life by the little figures, so charmingly life-like, which animate the scene, but everywhere are the results of man's handiwork seen in little things as well as big—in the trimly kept fruit trees of a laborer's garden plot no less than in the handsome facade of a rich burgher's town house. There is no country in the world where the influence of man is so minutely imprinted upon every foot of ground, and no three artists were eager to represent the things they saw no landscapes are so full of human interest as theirs.—Charles H. Caffin in St. Nicholas.

A PERFECT DREAM CITY.

London was yesterday a city of gold and green and white. Golden sunshine in the streets and parks, green foliage on every tree upon which the sun shone down, white buildings, newly built or newly painted, with clear outlines under a sky of Oriental blue. What dream-city could be more perfect than London on such a day?

Truly it was an unforgettable day—a day on which it is good to be alive, very good to be young when the spring calls to the blood and when perfume steals into the senses; good even to be old and to sun oneself in the memory of other spring days as golden as this.

The London season is beginning! Good words to those who have the leisure and means to play the game, the merry game of the social whirligig, good even to those who are merely lookers-on.

Yesterday the fun had began. The King was in town, the court was in the capital, the servants of society had pulled up the window blinds of town houses and the sun was shining.

So the streets were very full of life at its best and brightest. Down Bond street and Piccadilly—the highways of the lessy ones—there was an endless tide of carriages, and the sun gleamed upon brightly polished panellings, flashed fire from the brass head lamps and metal work of magnificent motor cars, and glistened on the smooth flanks of good horses, which went dashing by as proudly as though there were no such thing as petrol.

Women were in the carriages and walking on the shady side, and one man sighed because he could not wear salmon pink, or Madonna blue, or walk in lilac beauty like these ladies who were the flowers of the London streets. Flowers, literally because all their hats were in full blossom, brought out by this brilliant sunshine, and from the top of an omnibus one looked down upon moving bouquets of roses and daisies and forget-me-nots, as though all the flowers in Kensington Gardens had been plucked as the garlands of England's fair women.

Yet the men did their poor best, yesterday, to do credit to the divinday. Old Bucks had put on white waistcoats, and young bloods in new silk hats—bright and beautiful things—had put yellow gloves upon their hands. The Green Park was a paradise, into which had slunk many poor devils, against whom the gates of this paradise were not closed. These Weary Willies had come out of the slums, for spring called to them also, and they lay, in lazy happiness and seedy clothes, like corpses on the emerald greensward, which was a carpet worthy of Kings.

A Cool Deadhead.

Mr. Oscar Asche, the London actor, who, with his wife, Miss Lily Brayton, is on his way to Australia—his native land—which he left eighteen years ago, remarked just before he set sail, apropos of the slump in theatres, that the deadhead is a destroyer of drama. "Once give a man a free seat for a play," he said, "and you will have a difficulty ever after to make him 'pay to go in.' While I was touring with a certain highly respected manager, we were playing at a long-famous old playhouse in an ancient town. We had billed 'Macbeth' for the Monday night, but during that day the theatre was burnt down. For our next week there our chief contrived to borrow a playhouse a little way out of the district. On reaching there to rehearse on the Monday the manager received a letter saying that the writer had been given two dress-circle orders for the performance of 'Macbeth,' but as that play was not performed owing to the destruction of the theatre, the writer surmised that the manager would remit the money value of those orders."

SAVING MRS. STEPSANDS

Making Jimmy's Suit Was All Right, But—

When Mrs. Stepsands dressed Jimmy in preparation for the evening meal there were traces of excitement on her face. She turned the small boy about with many lingering pats and held him off at arm's length several times critically to view the effect. Jimmy somewhat disturbed matters by standing on one foot and hooking the other around his stationary ankle, at the same time twisting with the agility usual to small boys aged five. "It looks fine!" she concluded.

When Stepsands came puffing in after a battle with wind and snow on his way from the suburban train he was too much occupied at first in commenting fervently on the weather to notice his son particularly, but on the way to the dining room Jimmy got in full range of Stepsands' eye.

"Hello!" said Stepsands. "What's this? Jimmy in a new suit?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Stepsands with elaborate indifference. "He really needed one."

"He looks different somehow," said Stepsands. "Guess it's all right, though. Where'd you get it?"

Mrs. Stepsands exploded the bomb. "I made it myself!" she said. "Every stitch of it."

Stepsands laid down the carving knife and whistled. "You don't say!" he cried. "Jimmy, come around here and let me look at you. Made it yourself! Well, well!"

Mrs. Stepsands in her excitement left her seat and joined the family group, of which Jimmy was the center. "And it looks just as good as though I'd bought it," she said, triumphantly.

"Well, I should say!" agreed her husband.

"I just got tired of handing over such ridiculous sums of money for Jimmy's little suits," explained the wife. "They charge so for children's clothes—I think it is an outrage. It's out of all proportion to the amount of goods in them. And I thought I'd get a pattern and see what I could do."

"It looks splendid," said Stepsands, turning his son about.

"I didn't know whether I could make a success of it or not," went on his wife. "I was nervous, but then I thought if I did spoil the goods it wasn't expensive and I could get more. Why, Jedan, that suit cost only a little over $2! And I paid $12 at the store for his last suit. Nearly $10 saved."

"Think of that!" said Stepsands approvingly.

"I thought it would be lots better for Jimmy to have that $10 toward his education than put in clothes he didn't care anything about," said his mother. "It will mean lots more to him."

"It certainly will!" said his father. "It must have taken an awful lot of time, didn't it?"

"Yes," admitted Mrs. Stepsands. "But I didn't mind. I think it's a woman's duty to spend her time on her family instead of on clubs and society."

"There aren't many women that feel that way," said Stepsands, in a self congratulatory tone. "I think I'm lucky."

"Here I was with plenty of time on my hands," said Mrs. Stepsands, "and I felt that I wanted to have something to show for it."

"Well, you have," said her husband.

"I felt so interested in the work," said his wife. "Jimmy, put your napkin up and be careful not to spill anything on yourself. It seemed as if I really was accomplishing something. If I make five or six suits a year that's nearly $100 saved."

"Think of it!" said Stepsands. "You certainly have a head on you."

"I knew you'd think so," nodded his wife. "I've got another surprise for you, too, Julian. I was going to keep it till after dinner, but I can't wait."

She ran upstairs and approached Stepsands from the back of his chair, suddenly thrusting something into his lap. "There!" she said, triumphantly. "I made that, too! I got the goods on the remnant counter—and a pattern just like your old smoking jacket—and I made every bit of it."

"You don't say!" cried Stepsands, in something like consternation. He pushed back his chair and held up the garment gingerly.

"Why, your last smoking jacket cost you $15," said his wife. "And I can't see but that this looks just as good—and it cost exactly $3.65, lining and all. The lining was made from my old skirt!"

"You don't say!" repeated Stepsands, a little faintly.

"Oh, my, yes!" said Stepsands, courageously, hurriedly folding over a seam which struck him as unusual in tailored work. "It is grand. But, Evelyn, dear, I can't have you shutting yourself up in the house and working yourself to death doing things for me. I want my wife to get out and enjoy herself. I can't let you sacrifice yourself for me this way. Promise me you'll never do it again."

"You are so thoughtful of me, Julian," said his wife, with tears in her voice. "Why, if I make all your smoking jackets you'll save an awful lot of money. Put it on."

"But at the expense of your health," said Stepsands, firmly. "I—I think I'll just keep this carefully because it is the work of your own hands, Evelyn, and have one sent up from down town to wear that I won't care about."

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with seeming success. Rub-my, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it is constitutional—always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another, everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread report. It is an act of humanity, to tell that of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

FOR WALL STREET SUCCESS.

Just a Few of the Qualifications Necessary If One Is to "Beat the Game."

The clergyman who says that he can take "a $100 bill, a pencil and a pad" and make a fortune in Wall street recommends the process only to those who possess one important qualification. They must know the game. Given that, the rest is easy. To know the game thoroughly it is necessary to be in the confidence of the board when ten per cent. dividends are to be declared; to learn ahead of the crowd what stock is next to be marked up on the strength of rumors of dividend guarantees; what bankrupt road is to be sold to a system; what manipulation the bull pool is about to undertake, and to have other advance information equally helpful. It is given to few to possess this knowledge, no doubt by a wise provision of nature which permits the many to be sacrificed that the most fit may survive. If it were possible for any one with a $100 bill to become a Wall street millionaire the aggregation of swollen fortunes would menace the republic. Doubtless in the case of the clergyman in question the gain to the ministry involved the loss of a magnate to the financial world. But for the ordinary run of speculators there is no place where a little learning is so dangerous a thing as in Wall street.

MULES NOT HARD TO HANDLE.

Horse and mule men at the stock yards stood in admiration the other afternoon while the soldiers of Battery A and B, Second United States artillery, loaded 12 cars of mules in 26 minutes. It was a new record on the loading docks, and it wasn't accomplished by any unusual methods either. Nor was the mule driver's vocabulary resorted to. How did they do it? The lieutenant simply called the roll and the mules responded to their names.

"Nigger," called an officer, and a little black gun mule ambled up.

If a mule was refractory a few men in khaki took hold of him and pushed and shoved him into place.

"No wonder," said an envious mule driver, "they know their mules; they couldn't do them all that way."

"That so?" said a non commissioned officer. "I guess we could. It's all in knowing how. You never want to flinch around a mule. Never look back when you leave him. After you know how, mules are easier to handle than horses."—Kansas City Times.

How the Baby Bird Flew.

J. M. Barrie has a little fable in one of his works about a baby lark asking its mother to teach it to fly. The mother thought hard about how she herself had learned to fly long ago last year, but all she could recall was that you suddenly do it.

"Wait till the sun comes out after the rain," she said, half remembering. The rain came and glued the bird's wings together.

"I shall never be able to fly nor to sing," it wailed. Then of a sudden it had to blink its eyes for a glorious light had spread over the world. The baby bird's breast swelled, it did not know why, and it fluttered from the ground, it did not know how. "The sun has come out after the rain," it trilled. "Thank you, sun, thank you," and it floated up crying: "Thank you."

An Optical Illusion.

Did you ever try to see through your hand? By following these directions you may at least make yourself believe you are looking right through the palm. Out of a piece of pasteboard about five inches square roll a tube. Have one end just large enough to fit around the eye, and the other a little smaller. Take the tube between the thumb and fingers of the right hand; put the larger end to your eye, and press your left hand against the smaller end. Keep both eyes open. Objects beyond the left hand will be plainly visible, and there will appear to be a hole through the center of the palm. It is the uncovered left eye which is actually doing all the seeing, but so far as appearances go, it will seem as if the right eye were seeing right straight through the left hand.

Well Answered.

During the encampment of several regiments of British soldiers in a certain district the wood and turf used for cooking purposes were carted by the neighboring farmers. One day a donkey-cart full of turf was brought in the driver being a country lad. As a regimental band was playing, he stood in front of the donkey and held the animal tightly by the head. Some of the "smart ones" gathered round, highly pleased, and the wit of the party asked why he "held his brother so tightly." The reply was crushing: "I'm afraid he might enlist."

Well-Stocked.

Last summer a typical down-easter furnished a New York author, who had a cottage in a Maine village, with farm produce.

One day when the man called with a wagon-load of vegetables, the author, wishing to make himself agreeable, asked how much stock he kept on his farm.

"Five cows an' a bull," enumerated the farmer, "an' two yokes of oxen, a calf, a boss, an' three shares of Maine Central."—Youth's Companion.

ART'S LIMITATIONS

When the Portrait Painter Called.

On his thumb hung a palette such as an artist sports in his hours of ease, and taking this palette as the keynote of his adornment, he had contrived an appearance which loudly sang of the studio. Fixing his face and drawing a full breath, he rang the bell of apartment No. 61 and awaited the event, his palette held prominently before him and his black leather box on the floor.

Little feet tripped along the hall inside and the door opened.

She was, then, just about as thin as they make them, and it would be difficult to tell which of her features challenged the glance with the greatest insistence. Her hair was not as beautiful as her eyes, nor her eyes as beautiful as her nose, nor her nose as beautiful as her lips, nor her lips as beautiful as her chin. And as for her chin, she had none. Yes, such was she who opened the door of apartment 61 and looked into the eyes of the artist.

"Madame," said he, "good morning!" whipped a pencil from his pocket and, closing one eye, he squinted at her over the tip of this pencil with a heavenly look of rapture on his face.

"Has any one ever told you," he exclaimed, with a sudden vigor, "that you would make a perfect artist's model?"

"Why, no," she said. "Why, no."

"Then, madame," he cried, "if I were to paint a lovely picture of you—in oils—a full-length picture fit for any gallery—and all for nothing, mind you, all for nothing— would it be too much for me to ask you to tell admiring friends that Prof. Soulsky painted it—Prof. Soulsky of the Munich art school. Would that be asking too much?"

"Why, no," she said. "Why, no. All for nothing, you say?"

"All for nothing!" he graciously assured her. "All for nothing!"

"Why, no," she said, and, almost blushing, she added, "Why, I'd be pleased to tell them."

"Margaret! You be careful!"

"There is no need for her to be careful, madame!" cried the artist through the open door. "If she will only consent to sit for me I'll be more than amply repaid." And turning again to Margaret, Mr. Faust added: "You know it's so hard to get a start in this this great city of yours. Every one is so suspicious."

"O, I don't mind her!" she whispered.

"Now, I have here," whispered the artist as he opened the black leather box, "a package of sealed envelopes numbered from 1 to 100. Ninety-nine of these are empty; the 100th contains a card bearing these simple words. 'Grand prize.' Of course there isn't a lady in New York, however grand and however beautiful, who wouldn't jump at the chance of getting a genuine Soulsky portrait—in oils—and so I have adopted this method. You pick an envelope—any envelope—it costs you nothing and it commits you to nothing. And if you draw the lucky one, why, then, you do get your portrait in oils for nothing, absolutely nothing, and that's all there is to it. Now! Any card! Any card!"

She drew a card, and taking it from her the artist held it to the light.

"By jove!" he exclaimed in shaking tones, "you've won it!"

"O, mother!" she cried over her shoulder. "I've won it!"

"O, isn't that grand!" cried Margaret. "But then, I was always lucky!"

"Now, madame," said the artist, "as I said before I am a stranger in your city, just arrived from the great art centers of Europe, and my studio is not yet fitted up as I would like to have it. So if you will let me have a cabinet photograph of yourself I will at once—"

"Ask him," cried the voice within, "if any deposit is necessary."

"Why, no, mother!" cried Margaret over her shoulder. "Don't you understand? I won the grand prize!" And turing to the artist she whispered: "Is any deposit necessary?"

"Only a dollar," he horriedly whispered back. "First installment on the beautiful frame I furnish with each and every picture. Of course, you understand that I can hardly be expected to furnish the beautiful frame for nothing as well as the picture, do you?"

"Why, no," said Margaret. "I couldn't expect that."

"Is he trying to sell a frame?" cried the voice within.

"Mother!" exclaimed Margaret over her shoulder. "I tell you I won the Grand Prize!"

"Perhaps," said the gloomy voice within, "perhaps they are all Grand Prizes. Come in here, young man, and let me draw one of these envelopes."

"Madame," cried the artist through the door, as he hid his palette under his coat, and slung his black leather box over his shoulder, "I am a portrait painter, and never yet have I been obliged to paint a fortress, or a wild night at sea, or feeding time at the menagerie, or moonlight on the ruins, or"—

"Margaret!" cried the voice, "shut the door!"

And as for Margaret, Margaret's gaze fixed itself upon vacuity again, and she sadly shut the door.

Stomach troubles would cease quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attributes that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

MAN'S ENEMIES.

The Small Foes Are the Most Deadly and Destructive.

In one of Herbert Wells' brilliant stories the terribly scientific and practically invincible Martians who have invaded the earth and conquered England are stopped in the midst of their victories and utterly destroyed by the attacks of microscopic foes. Infinitesimal organisms, germs of diseases to which man has become in some degree immune, slay the wonderful warriors of a planet never invaded by these earth foes. What the greatest battleships and the heaviest guns could not do the unseen and unknown living seeds of death accomplish.

More clearly every day the world understands that in the life and affairs of mankind the most deadly and destructive foes are extremely small. All of the fierce mammals and poisonous serpents of Africa do not kill as many human beings in ten years as the tsetse fly slays in one. The tigers and cobras of India kill their thousands every year, but the rats which spread the germs of the bubonic plague destroy their tens of thousands. In this country the common housefly undoubtedly causes more deaths than all the venomous snakes, wild beasts, mad dogs, runaway horses and ill tempered bulls ten times over. The actual proportion is probably much higher than ten to one.

MAN AND MONKEY.

Difference Between the Human and Animal Method of Thought.

The difference between the animal and the human idea of what constitutes "knowing" comes out nicely in a piece of work done at Clark university—A. J. Kinnman's study of rhesus monkeys, the Bandar-log of the "Jungle Book."

The monkey, following the usual procedure, learned to get his food from a box, the lid of which fastened with a key. The key, however, could not be withdrawn from the lock. After the monkey had become familiar with the device and could operate it as readily as a man could do the experimenter took the key out of the lock and laid it on the floor in front of the box. The monkey picked up the key, played with it, but made no attempt to use it. Then the experimenter took up the key, and, fifty times in succession, with the monkey two feet away watching every motion, he unlocked the box. The monkey would have starved before he imitated that simple act. He had learned to open the box by making certain movements. He had no idea of the key as an instrument in the process. We sometimes think instruments and means and causes. The animal thinks largely motions.—E. T. Brosnton in McClure's Magazine.

A Rare Opportunity.

When the circus came to Bunkby the large attendance was a surprise to Squire Bemis, and he said so to William Hamlin, the postmaster.

"It is natural that men and children should wish to go," remarked the squire in his formal tone, "but I must confess to a feeling of amazement on hearing that the ladies of the town had flocked to see wild beasts and that young woman who leaps from one wire to another, with no regard for her personal safety."

"Tell you just how 'tis, square," said Mr. Hamlin confidentially. "I don't think many of the women folks planned to go till Jed Potter came in here one mail time and told Miss Emma Bolles he understood the show was enough to scare anybody out of ten years' growth.

"Miss Emma's getting on, and you couldn't expect her to let a chance like that go—nor any of the other women, now, could ye?"

Keep Your Temper.

Which of all the domestic virtues is most essential to a happy married life? The ability to keep one's temper, beyond all question.

There is nothing which lends more to misery, not only for its possessor, but also for those about him, than an ungovernable and unreasonable temper. No one is worse to live with than an ill tempered man, except perhaps an ill tempered woman.

Had tempered people completely spoil the lives of those who associate with them. The feeling of strain is ever present. One never knows just when the storm will break, although apparently the weather, metaphorically, is "set fair." Life in these circumstances becomes a burden almost beyond bearing.

Caught Her.

"I am looking for something nice for a young man," said the young and pretty shopper.

"Why don't you look in the mirror?" asked the gallant clerk.

And she was so flustered that he managed to sell her four different things that she did not want before she knew what she was doing.

Misgivings.

"That was a very lucid document you prepared," said the friend.

"Yes," answered the statesman dubiously. "I made it so lucid that I am afraid the public will fail to regard it as able and profound."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

HOW TO WIN.

Determination and Unity of Purpose Will Work Wonders.

Once you have chosen your occupation or profession hold fast thereto. Let nothing allure you from the main traveled road. Having chosen, hold like steel. Make everything feed into the main current of your life. Even modest talents, organized and unified, have conquered great distinction and worldwide success. History is full of illustrations of the unifying power of a great purpose. Witness the poor child Hastings looking at a distant manor house that once had belonged to his father. The determination to win back that estate before he died lent power and momentum and produced Lord Hastings. Witness the influence of purpose upon that little Scotch boy, out upon a holiday on the banks of the Clyde with three precious coppers as his entire possession. He determined to build a home on the hilltop overlooking the river and forty years later moved into the castle, from which he looked down upon twenty ocean steamers he had built. Witness the purpose of William the Silent, filling all the days and nights for the hero struggling to deliver brave little Holland from Spain. Witness Milton's vow to write a poem that the world would not willingly let die and who therefore lived an epic life. Witness Paul's resolution to do one thing and one thing alone and who, with that unit purpose, achieved democracy for all subsequent peoples and centuries. Aimlessness will make our life like a sand heap.—Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis.

FULL OF HUMAN INTEREST.

Landscapes of the Dutch Painters of the Seventeenth Century.

The Dutch painters of the seventeenth century were as little concerned with poetic feeling as with idealism. They used their eyes and painted what they saw, but neither their imaginations nor their feelings were touched. While most modern painters interpret how the scene has affected themselves, the Dutch looked at it as something entirely outside themselves.

Otherwise the Dutch landscapes present us pictures of a pleasant workday world or of the quiet evenings that follow after the labors of the day—never a hint of disturbance, though war and rumors of war were constant; instead, the perpetual suggestion of prosperous peace and thrifty comfort, for they abound with the evidences of busy humanity. Not only is nature brought into touch with human life by the little figures, so charmingly lifelike, which animate the scene, but everywhere are the results of man's handiwork seen in little things as well as big—in the trimly kept fruit trees of a laborer's garden plot no less than in the handsome facade of a rich burgher's town house. There is no country in the world where the influence of man is so minutely imprinted foot of ground, and as these artists were eager to represent the things they saw no landscapes are so full of human interest as theirs.—Charles H. Coffin in St. Nicholas.

Her Home.

Some years ago, when a part of the Japanese imperial palace was burned at Tokyo, the empress was forced to flee to one of the old daimio houses near by. It was not at all comfortable, and, as the story goes, her majesty, appreciating that her subjects would be much concerned at her living in such a mean place, sat down and wrote them a little poem in which she denied that she had changed her residence. The poem, which was in the best Japanese language, stated that her majesty's home had always been in the hearts of the people and that neither the flames nor the cold could ever drive her from that dear abode.

The Dead Larks.

In Baluchistan even the wolves go mad. In his book, "The Frontiers of Baluchistan," G. P. Tate writes: "The shepherds give a strange reason for the epidemic of rabies. According to them, it was caused by the wild beasts eating dead larks. In some years, they said, the larks develop extraordinary vitality and pour forth such a flood of songs as they rise on the wing that they become suffocated and fall to the ground dead. A wild animal which eats one of those dead birds invariably develops rabies. This is a widespread superstition and seems not unfamiliar to the natives of India who were with me."

A Butchers' Common.

William, earl of Warren, in the time of King John, while standing upon the castle walls saw two bulls fighting in the castle meadow till all the butcher dogs pursued one of the maddened bulls quite through the town. The sight pleased the earl so much that he gave the castle meadows, where the duel of the bulls began, for a common to the butchers of the town, after the first grass was mowed, on condition that they should find a mad bull the day six weeks before Christmas day for the continuance of that sport forever.—London Standard.

Fine Crops.

"Do you raise anything worth while in your garden?" said the visitor from the city.

"I should say so," answered Mr. Crossiots. "It's the best place for fishing worms in the entire village."

Plain Talk.

"I think she's double faced."

"Oh, don't say that! One face like hers is bad enough!"—Comic Cuts.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—16 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 200,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $600. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

Defective Wire.

The fire brigade was given a run to Mr. Herb. Morphet's residence on Hunter street yesterday morning. A defective wire caused some alarm, but that was the extent of the trouble.

Warbler for Golden Wedding.

A golden warbler from South United States was in the Customs office over Sunday without an apparent owner. The valuable and rare little singer was consigned to Mr. George Matthews, and he did not know how it could have been sent to him, so he did not take it out until something definite about the bird was received. There was three dollars, duty on the bird and another bill for ten dollars.

The warbler was left in the Customs office all day Sunday, Mr. Matthews being unable to find anything further about it. The Customs officials only knew that it was consigned to him. Enlightment followed, however, when Mr. T. F. Matthews, of Peterborough, reached town. His father told him about the bird and the reply was that he had sent down south for it, and that it had been consigned wrongly. It ought to have been sent to Peterborough first. It was intended as a present for Mr. George Matthews on the occasion of his golden wedding yesterday. The bird is a very rare one and a beautiful singer.—Lindsay Warder.

Gas Stove Exploded.

LUFF—JACK.

The marriage of Miss Annie Alexander Jack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Torrance Jack, to Mr. J. Hillard Luff, took place at half-past two o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Parkdale Presbyterian church. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Gaggie, assisted by the Rev. Henry Sinclair. Mr. Peter Kennedy presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register Miss Edith Parker sang "Beloved, it is Morn." The bride, who was given away by her father was attired in white Liberty silk with rose point lace, and tulle veil arranged over a wreath of lillies of the valley, and she carried a sheaf of bridal roses. Miss Laura Quinn was the attendant in green silk eolienne and black velvet picture hat and carried red carnations. Mr. Jack Bomelie was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Grant Jack and Mr. B. Luff. Mrs. Jack held a reception afterwards at her home in Maynard avenue, wearing amethyst broadcloth with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Luff left later for Buffalo and the Southern States, and on their return will live in Grace street. The bride went away in navy blue cloth, smartly tailored, with hat to match.—Mail & Empire.

Mr. Jack is connected with the Canadian Cordage Company here, and Miss Jack has spent several seasons in Peterborough.

What the Women Will Do— In Session Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon a very largely attended meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held in the Y.M.C.A. Building. Mrs. (Rev.) Campbell occupied the chair, and after devotion the work of the union was carefully surveyed.

Very interesting references were made concerning the good work done by the White Ribbon Tidings and the members were exhorted to take a deeper interest in its extension as it was known that a temperance paper could do more effective work for the home.

The president of the Peterborough Moral and Social Reform League gave a rapid survey of what has already been done in the local option campaign and outlined the work that had been projected for the remaining weeks of the year. Great and unbounded enthusiasm was struck home to the hearts of all present when it was announced that Governor Glenn the man of affairs, who carried North Carolina by a majority of 40,000 for prohibition, would spend two days in Peterborough in the near future.

The Union unanimously decided to join in the Women's Prayer Circle to be conducted in the parlors of the Y.W.C.A. every Sunday afternoon while the mass meetings are being held in the Opera House. These meetings will be started after Dr. Crafts has opened the campaign.

It was also unanimously decided to accept the offer of the league to provide the speaker for the opera house mass meeting on Sunday, October 24th, while Miss Sproule the courageous and indefatigable missionary of the Ontario W.C.T.U. among the lumbermen and miners of North Ontario will be the speaker.

Two Charges Laid.

Magistrate Edmison will go to Havelock on Monday to hear a case which is alleged to be a breach of the Liquour License Act. Elias Williams, license inspector for East Peterborough, is said to have had reasons for believing that contraband wet goods were being brought into the Railway Town, and more than one throat was refreshed by the coveted "stuff," which could not otherwise be secured in the village. He searched the buggy of one William Anderson, while it was in a public yard, and from all reports found two large flasks which he quietly took into his own possession. There are two charges preferred against Mr. Anderson. In one he will be asked to explain the presence of the bottles and in the other he is charged with illegally having the liquor for sale.

Disease of The Kidneys Brought on By Catarrh.

Pe-ru-na Made a Well Man of Me.

I Cannot Speak Too Highly of It.

Mr. George King, 462 St. Denis St., Montreal, Canada, a well-known business man of that city, writes:

"Peruna cured me from what the doctors were afraid would turn into Bright's disease, and after you have gone through the suffering that I have with catarrh of the bladder and kidney trouble, and have been cured you are pretty apt to remember the medicine that did the work.

"Peruna is a blessing to a sick man. Eight bottles made me well and were worth more than a thousand dollars to me. I cannot speak too highly of it. It is now four years since I was troubled, and I have enjoyed perfect health since. Every spring and fall I take a bottle of it and it keeps me well."

MR. GEORGE KING

It is not until the disease has a firm hold upon the kidneys that the patient begins to realize that there is some derangement of these organs.

The slight backaches, the feelings of lassitude, and other warning symptoms of kidney disease are overlooked.

They are not serious enough to detain the patient from his regular work.

Even when he discovers that the kidneys are affected, he does not recognize the difficulty as being caused catarrh.

Catarrh is so insidious in its approach and its earlier symptoms cause such slight discomfort that it is not noticed.

However, when it is once firmly seated in the kidneys it becomes a difficult disease to exterminate.

Indeed, catarrh of the kidneys is more serious than catarrh affecting some of the other organs of the body.

In the kidneys it is liable to terminate in Bright's disease or diabetes, both of which are recognized as very serious ailments, if not fatal.

The thing to be done, when catarrh of the kidneys is discovered, is to take some internal, systematic catarrh remedy, one that reaches the very source of the disorder, and removes the cause of the difficulty.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. It reaches catarrh, no matter where it may be located in the body—whether in the more exposed membranes of the nose and throat, or whether in the remotest part of the kidneys.

That Peruna is at once the safest and most reliable remedy for catarrh of the kidneys is proven by the many testimonials written by those who have experienced its benefits.

PE-RU-NA AN INTERNAL CATARRH REMEDY.

The testimonials given here are only specimens of the many testimonials on our records, pertaining to the relief afforded by Peruna in severe cases of kidney trouble.

Kidney Disease of Long Standing.

Mr. Samuel A. Paxton, 1118 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo., member I. O. O. F. and National Annuity Association, writes:

"I am a well man to-day, thanks to your splendid medicine, Peruna. I was troubled with catarrh and kidney disease of long standing when I first began using Peruna. I soon found I was getting better and continued taking it for four months. It cleaned out the system, leaving me well and strong and feeling better than I have in years."

Mourners went to Funeral and were Greeted by Deceased

Rev. Wm. Teeple was Wrongly Reported Dead by the Newspapers—Friends Found Him Very Much Alive

St. Catharines, Oct. 9.—Yesterday afternoon a number of people from this city took the electric car to Ponthil to attend the funeral of Rev Wm. Teeple, a retired Methodist minister, who had been making his home in that village. The mourners were received at the house by Rev. Mr. Teeple himself. Mr. Teeple enjoyed the joke immensely when told what they were there for, but stated, that he would like very much to get hold of the party who started the story. It seems a notice of his death together with an eulogistic obituary appeared in a St. Catharines paper Thursday, and that was what caused all the trouble. Mr. Teeple has been ill for some time and the paper was evidently prepared for all eventualities and was rather premature in the use of what it had prepared. Mr. Teeple is now well on his way to recovery. The mourners from St. Catharines, after congratulating their old friend on being alive left for home feeling just a little bit sheepish.

Grape Crop Very Heavy Hard to Find a Market, Prices Climbing Down

The housewife is going to get cheap grapes this season, in fact very cheap grapes. The crop in the Niagara district is at least half as big again as last year, and the growers are having a difficulty in getting a sale for them. The buyers are only paying 9c. a basket to the growers and in Montreal and Toronto the fruit is only bringing from 11c. to 14c. per basket, and many commission merchants have refused to buy any more even at that price. These are the prices for the very choice varieties and for the best quality, such as Concords, Niagaras, and Red Rogers. As a result of the abundant crop the consumer will benefit for the grapes that brought 25c. a basket last year are this season only bringing 15c.

The price in Peterborough has been kept up to the old standard of 25c. for a six-quart basket. The price will come down. The consumers need not pay it. They can wait for a week if the price does not come down at once, but there is every probability that grapes will be cheaper.

A Times representative had a talk with a local merchant who makes fruit his speciality and asked why grapes were still 25c. here. He explained that he had to pay 12c. per basket in Toronto on Saturday and the express down here is 5c. a basket, so that there would be very little profit in selling them for less than a quarter. He pointed out, however, that if the consumers want ed grapes for wine or jam they could buy them, the same quality, by quantities at 2½c. a pound and have them shipped in the large peach baskets. This would make them 30c. a large basket, or about 15c. for the small baskets. This merchant has a quarter of a ton coming in today or tomorrow in the large baskets.

The greatest difficulty in marketing the grapes this year is the short age of baskets. The manufacturers are hundreds of thousands of baskets behind their orders, although they have all kinds of peach baskets on hand. Under these circumstances the local fruit merchants should in the interests of the consumers bring their grapes in, in the large baskets, because 25c. for the small baskets is too much money. There is a big crop and there will be a big consumption if the prices are made right

Indian Abducts White Girl, Kills Father and Shot Three of a Posse

San Bernardino, Cal., Oct. 9.—Out on lonely Bullion Peak, in the heart of the Mojave desert, Billy Boy, civilized Indian, is making his last fight after the manner of his forefathers, against a San Bernardino posse, which wants Billy badly, because he shot a white man, and stole the white man's daughter. Three of the posse have been seriously wounded, and three horses have been killed in the attempt to get Billy down from Bullion Peak.

Two weeks ago Billy took to the desert from San Barnardino, taking with him the daughter of Mike Boniface. The girl had fought desperately to get away from him, and when she began to retard his pace so that his pursuers were nearing him, he shot her dead and left her on the desert sands.

Billy wooed the Boniface girl for a week, and then demanded her from her father. He was refused in no gentle terms, and Boniface volunteered a few remarks on the Indian race. He never spoke again. Billy lifted the girl from the side of her dead father, and carried her to the desert.

But the girl was unwilling and the methods of the Indian suitor threatened to end in disaster until he shot her to death. Then he gained on his pursuers, and soon was on the vantage point of Bullion Peak. There the posse has had him besieged for four days.

Attempts to force the position or assault the peak have each time ended in disaster to the pursuers. Deputy Sheriff Chas. Roche is wounded in the thigh, John Hide, an Indian trailer, is shot in the back, and Segunda Chin, an Indian policeman from the Banning reservation, where Billy Boy originally came from, has a bullet in his head.

The posse has settled down today to starve Billy Boy out. Night assaults have failed, for Billy has seemingly forsworn sleep and starvation appears the only means of conquering him.

PAINTS CANADA DARK.

London, Oct. 9.—In the course of a remarkable editorial, the object whereof is to restrain the Irish people from emigrating to Canada, the Freeman's Journal says:—"The reason Canada requires emigrants is that it must get inhabitants at any cost in suffering to the newcomers. When wolves howl round the cowbyres there is need of foreign thousands, if only as to act as sort of vermin killers. Many of the newcomers will go mad with the desperation of loneliness and bitter hardship of the life. Many will fall in utter misery by the wayside, but some will live through it all, the vermin-killing will one day all be done, and the dreary empty spaces begin to be really habitable by normal human beings.

"This is Canada's need, first bands of victims, romantically called 'pioneers,' then afterwards, on the ruins of these, happier throngs will reap in joy where others sowed in sorrow."

HE FELL DOWN.

Old Peterborough Runner Failed to Make Good When Expected.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 9.—, William Stanley, the San Francisco distance runner, proved the dark horse of the ten-mile indoor professional race run here last night, winning in the fast time of 54 minutes, 13 seconds. Frank Baylis of Victoria, who made his first appearance in professional company, was second, one hundred and fifty yards behind the winner, while Art Burn, the Calagary runner, was five laps of the twelve-lap track to the bad. Alex. Rowan of Nanaimo fell, and sprained his ankle in the fifth mile, having to withdraw from the race. Stanley jumped to the lead at the start and cut out a fast pace, he and Rowan having several brushes for the lead in the first two miles. At seven miles Stanley seemed to have run himself out by sprinting Burn, whom he lapped five times but he kept up the clip and finished apparently as fresh as when he started.

Burn's poor showing was the surprise of the race. He was generally picked to win, but seemed unable to stay with the leaders. Bay,is ran a remarkably good race for a first attempt.

Burn's in and out running around Peterborough years ago makes Ontario sportsmen regard this race with suspicion. Of course this suspicion may be groundless, but Burn, poor runner though he is, has no license to be beaten half a mile in 54.48 by a third-rate runner.

MOVING PICTURE MACHINE.

An interesting case was heard before his honor Judge Huycke last week. The plaintiff was H. S. Guthrie of the Crystal Theater, Barrie, and he took action against Mr. W. A. Edwards of the Crystal, in Peterborough, for the recovery of $60 he paid for an Edison second-hand moving picture machine and expenses, etc., connected therewith, amounting in all to $100.

Several witnesses were called for both sides. The plaintiff claims that the machine was not as represented and that he could not get a good picture from it. The defendant claimed that the machine was in perfect running order when shipped to Barrie and that the plaintiff had seen it in operation and was satisfied. When the machine arrived here again from Barrie it was looseley packed and the defendand refused to accept it.

After the evidence was all in the case was adjourned until Wednesday when the lawyers will present their arguments before his honor.

The Rugby boys of the Trinity School, Port Hope, certainly took revenge on the Collegiate boys in the return game at Port Hope, Saturday afternoon. The game resulted in a decisive victory for Trinity, the score being 22—0. It will be remembered that a week ago the Collegiate team pulled out a victory at Riverside Park with odds against them, but Saturday's game put a crimp in their sails.

The boys went to Port Hope on the 11.45 G.T.R. train and in the afternoon played on the Trinity grounds. The day was an ideal one for Rugby and the play on the whole was fast and classy, but at times it was rough. The locals pulled out without any injuries of a serious nature but one of the Port Hope players will not likely be on the campus again this season. He had a knee and an ankle twisted. It was the same Collegiate team that played here with the exception of Hall and Leahy. Their places were filled by Eastwood and Dennison. It was Port Hope all the way and they proved themselves the better team.

Only a handful of fans witnessed the Old Boys-Strathconas game at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon, in which the latter team was victorious by the score of 5—3. Flaherty and Gorman, the opposing twirlers, took things easy and the rest of the players acted likewise. Only seven innings were played as none of the players were in the best of shape. Flaherty struck out ten men but the Strathconas secured seven hits, while the best the Old Boys could do with Gorman was to make four, the longest of which was a triple by Jerry Edmunds. Burridge got two of the runs for his team and Edmunds the other. The greater part of the plays were pulled off by the infielders, Sheridan being the only busy man in the garden. Ask the Kaiser if War Will Come

New York, Oct. 9.—Admiral Sir Edward Seymour of the British navy when asked yesterday about a report that the German warships now here brought over flags captured in the Franco-Prussian war to carry in the Hudson-Fulton parade, replied that he did not believe it.

"In my experience with the Germans in all parts of the world," he said, "I have always found that they strictly observe the proprieties."

Asked whether he thought that there was any probability of a war between England and Germany, Admiral Seymour replied that the German emperor was the only person who would answer that satisfactorily. Personally, he hoped not, because war today meant a great loss of life and expense, which must be met by taxation, and in his opinion it was wrong to even discuss publicly the likelihood of war between two at present friendly nations.

The press has a great power to work good or evil for the world at large," said the admiral. "And if the men who control the great daily newspapers would only think of that, and how much influence they wield on the minds of their fellow men sensational stories of impending war would never appear."

"Do you think that Germany is preparing for war?" he was asked.

"Germany is increasing her navy," said Admiral Seymour, "but I cannot tell you the reason because I do not know it. The millennium is not yet in sight and nations have to be prepared for war. It is easy to inflame the minds of one people against another, and then one never knows what may happen."

The admiral laughed at the idea of his great flagship, the Inflexible, trying to compete with the Cunarder Mauretania, when returning to England. The Mauretania's average speed on her latest trip westward was 26.5 knots an hour, whereas the Inflexible could not maintain more than 25.5 knots for any length of time. Nevertheless he considers the Inflexible the best type of warship afloat.

Miss Dolly Wells of Weller street, has returned home after visiting relatives and friends in Toronto for the past few weeks.

Plan a Big Combine Affects Whole Country

Huge Steel and Coal Consolidation Projected by Dominion Financiers—$125-000,000 in the Deal

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 10.—If present negotiations are successful Canada will shortly have one of the biggest industrial corporations in the world This project represents nothing less than a $125,000,000 steel and coal consolidation, which when completed will have tremendous influence on the whole of the Dominion's industrial position. It is the intention of those financiers who recently have made several successful consolidations of industrial companies to bring some of the leading Canadian steel and coal companies under one strong controlling or holding company, and no doubt the recent successes, combined with the fact that this country has well demonstrated a very unexpected capacity to absorb millions of dollars of new securities, will give encouragement to those who are now working out the plains for the big steel and coal corporation.

TO BUILD WAR SHIPS.

A big shipbuilding company is in course of formation in Canada, and one of its purposes is to bid for the construction of war ships for the naval arm of defense of this country. Canadian capital is to finance the enterprise, the operation and control of which will be entirely in the hands of Canadians. The men interested are for the most part prominent in shipping and commercial circles in Montreal. For several months past rumors have been current that certain English firms would establish plants work and ultimately undertake the in construction of the new Canadian navy. There is no doubt that such projects are being seriously entertained by several of the big British shipbuilding companies. Messrs. Campbell, Laird & Co., the English builders of fast torpedo boats, have recently been licensed by the government of British Columbia as an extra provincial company. This company has secured rights to enter business as builders of war ships, armor plate, etc., in that province.

SECRET WELL KEPT.

It is believed that this move is to enable the English concern to establish a plant in British Columbia in the event of the Canadian government building a fleet of war craft on the Pacific coast. The men, however, behind the new Canadian shipbuilding company have kept their scheme a secret so far, and the news has come as a surprise to most Canadians that a number of their countrymen are so much alive to the possibilities of Canada soon becoming the scene of a great shipbuilding industry. Sir Montagu Allan of the Allan line of steamships admits that many prominent Canadians have been discussing the project quietly for some time, and have promised to unite in financing the scheme. As yet he said, no decision as to the site of a shipbuilding plant had been determined on, but a great one would undoubtedly be established.

With the financial backing promised, it is certain that the Canadian compete, on its own merits, with any in the world. Some of the finest engineering experts in Great Britain and Europe will be appointed to supervise the work of the new enterprise when finally established in Canada.

CATTLE QUESTION UP.

In the British house of commons the statement was made by the government that the Argentine Republic had intimated the cattle herds of that country were completely free from foot and mouth disease. It was further stated that communications were now proceeding with the Argentine government with regard to the admission of Argentine cattle into Great Britain.

The attitude of the imperial authorities on this question in regard to Canada is, to say the least, rather peculiar. Should the embargo restrictions be raised or relaxed in favor of Argentina and maintained against Canada, as it now seems they undoubtedly will, the loyalty of many people in this country will be rudely shocked. The Canadian government has for some years been insisting that the cattle herds of the Dominion have always been and are now entirely free from disease and that Canadian live cattle should be permitted to enter the United Kingdom. But the frequent demands for recognition of this fact have always been promptly denied.

BLAME THE STATES.

Unable to question that the Canadian herds were free from disease, the British authorities point to the alleged recent outbreak of foot and mouth disease in the United States and then call attention to what they describe as the long and loosely guarded boundary line and the easy-going disregard for customs, and give these as the reasons which influenced them in maintaining the embargo restrictions.

The movement, however, for the removal of the embargo against Canadian cattle, with consequent increase in British supplies from overseas, seems at last to have received its final quietus from the hands of the British prime minister himself.

Belfast Firm May Build Our First War-Ships

Ottawa, Oct. 8.—Harland and Wolff, of Belfast, Ireland, the greatest individual shipbuilding firm in the world, have decided to establish in Canada.

It is understood that Harland and Wolff will build in Canada the first warships for the new Canadian navy.

It is probable that the first dockyards will be constructed and the plants laid down at Halifax.

Not only in the Maritime Provinces, but also on the Pacific Coast, will Canadian war vessels be built. The belief has prevailed that Vancouver will be the favored city, but in view of the statement made in London by the Canadian representatives to the Imperial Naval Defence Conference, it is believed that the building of the Pacific section of the fleet will take place at Prince Rupert.

ANOTHER WINTER CARNIVAL.

Montreal to Indulge in Season of Gay Sports.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—In spite of recent denials, Montreal is to have another winter carnival, probably in the second week of January, and arrangements are already being made to make it a financial as well as a speculative success. A member of last year's committee states definitely that an ice palace larger than the last will be constructed, and that no opposition is expected this time from sources which were bitterly against the carnival last winter. As a result of a newspaper article, several of last year's subscribers who had not paid up have handed in their subscriptions this week.

To quickly check a cold, druggists are dispensing everywhere, a clever Candy Cold Cure Tablet called Preventics. Preventics are also fine for feverish children. Take Preventics at the sneeze stage, to head off all colds. Box of 48—25c.

Dying of Cholera

What is it that keeps down cholera cramps, and summer complaints in America? Ask any doctor or live druggist and he will tell you "Nerviline. Just fancy, a million bottles are sold every year to people who use Nerviline for stomach disorder, cramps, flatulence, and summer complaint. For fifty years in most Canadian homes no other pain-relieving medicine but Nerviline is kept. Nothing cures the aches, pains and sickness of the entire family so quickly as Nerviline.

LETTER NO. 4672

"As far back as I can remember, at least 50 years ago, there was never a time that our house was without 'Nerviline'. In the summer time, when the children ate green apples and got sick with diarrhoea and cramps, it was Nerviline that cured them. My father used Nerviline frequently to cure gas on his stomach and acute indigestion. There are but few minor ailments that Nerviline does not cure, and I know of no medicine so useful; in fact, so indispensable around the home as Nerviline."

This letter, written by Mrs. N. C. Butcher, a well known resident in Battersea, shows the high opinion entertained of Nerviline by those who have used it constantly for nearly half a century.

You'll never regret using Nerviline Get it to-day, keep it on hand for an accident or sudden case of sickness in your home. Refuse anything else offered you instead of Nerviline, 25c. per bottle, or five for $1.00. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 20.

THE TARIFF AND COMBINES.

The formation of four important mergers has a bearing on the request made by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association for a tariff commission. As the discussion was secret, and as the resolution does not go into particulars, the public does not know what kind of a commission the association or rather a majority of the association wants. But if the proposal for a commission is seriously considered, it will be necessary to consult, not the manufacturers only, but the farmers, and all other classes of the community. Assuming that the commission is a workable idea certain conditions would have to be fulfilled.

The railway commission stands between the railways, the shippers and the general public and enforces fair play. A tariff commission would have to do the same thing. As between the protected manufacturers and the general public there would be no other justification for its existence. It could not exist merely for the purpose of giving relief to manufacturing industries suffering under foreign competition. It must decide whether the tariff is fair to the consumer, or whether it is to be used as a means of exacting unfair and excessive prices. Hence one of its important duties would be to investigate the working of combines and mergers. All these concerns are intended to destroy domestic competition the consumer should not be left at the mercy of a monopoly, but should have the benefit of the competition of British and foreign manufacturers. If the tariff commission provided a simple and inexpensive means of inquiring into these complaints and giving or recommending relief, it would do something to justify its existence.

But, if the request for a commission is refused upon the ground that its powers would conflict with those of government and parliament, then the government and parliament must accept the responsibility that accompanies power. It is their duty to protect the consumer, and to see that the tariff is not used to its disadvantage. The privilege granted by the tariff is conditional. The principle of the tariff law is that as foreign competition is diminished the consumer is to have the benefit of domestic competition. If domestic competition is destroyed by combination, and the consumer suffers, the condition is not fulfilled, the trust is betrayed and the privilege ought to be forfeited.

It is for the government to find the ways and means of giving this relief. No complicated legal procedure is necessary. The power of the government over the tariff is absolute. If the minister of finance and his colleagues believe that a certain duty is being abused, whether by combine, merger or individual manufacturer, they can remove or reduce the duty when the annual budget is presented. If the minister of finance would announce that this his policy and that combines and mergers are being closely watched, a very wholesome check would be placed upon their operations.

A CASE FOR CLEMENCY.

The petition to the governor-general for clemency in the case of Mrs. James Robinson of Warren, is likely to be largely signed, and that very properly. Never was wife and mother subjected to greater mental and moral torture than this unfortunate woman. Every sense of family affection and decency outraged, the bewildered woman resorted to a desperate act. Twice the jury discharged her on the obvious and reasonable plea of temporary insanity, but the court was inexorable and finally secured a verdict against her. Sentence of death by hanging followed, and the unhappy creature awaits death or pardon at the hands of the governor-general. The petition has the sanction of and has been set in motion by the National Council of Women.

THE PEAT PROBLEM SOLVED!

Vast stores of carbon are locked up in the peat deposits of the world and the problem of converting this into usable fuel has long attracted the study of scientists and engineers. It now seems possible that this problem has been solved. The great obstacle to the economic production of peat fuel in commercial quantities, according to an editorial writer in Engineering News (New York, July 29), is that peat consists of 90 per cent. of water held by the 10 per cent. of sponge. We read:

"A simple calculation will show that it requires a few more that units to evaporate the 90 per cent. comthe latter. Artificial drying has provbustible than are released in burning ed useless, as might have been expected.

"The writer, somehow has also mechanical process. Either the whole mass of raw peat pulp would refuse to be squeezed out, by flow through the screen or the screening walls would be burst apart. The few processes that up to the present have placed peat fuel on local markets in commercial forms and quantities have depended primarily upon air drying to reduce the water contents and to put the peat into a workable condition.

"The reason behind the difficulty of pressing the water out of peat es described in a paper before the responge is now disclosed by research-cent meeting of the Iron and Steel Institute.....Dr. Ekenberg there shows that all the trouble has been due to the presence of a jelly or a slime, chemically termed hydrocellulose. The simplicity of the process for removing this jelly is striking. The mere application of heat, sufficient to raise the temperature of the hydrocellulose to 150 per cent., has been shown to split it up into water and caramel or sugar. Once the jelly has disappeared the peat substances may be mechanically prest as any spongy material would be.

"Processes depending largely on air drying to put the peat pulp into workable peat have had a certain degree of success, but they have never overcome the handicap imposed by weather and season. There are no such limitations to mechanical treatment, and if these experiments develop a process, as practical and commercial as Dr. Ekenberg's account claims to be possible, truly they have unlocked a great storehouse of fuel practically sealed."

AN IMPERIAL DUTY.

Mr. Joseph Bernier, M.P.P. member for St. Boniface contributes an article on the Empire to Le Manitoba, St. Boniface, and the following is a translation of his closing paragraphs: "Our population is composed of different elements—English, French, Scotch, Irish, Americans, Germans and many others, amongst which the Officians and Poles are numerous. Every one must have his eyes turned towards the same goal. All must be Canadian at heart and in spirit, otherwise our great dreams for the future will never be realised; but there must be a standard around which all these citizens, whatever blood might run in their veins, can unite as a great family.

"That standard can be no other than the British flag. No people can expect to live and become great without a flag loved, respected and cheered. The flag represents the country. The flag is that simple piece of cloth which, floating over a house or at the top of a mast and ideas of a citizen. For us Canadians, the British flag means liberty and power; the British flag means union, unity of action, unity of thought. Today more than ever should we see the raising of the British flag in all the colonies of England. It must be proved to the world that England is not isolated in her isles and that the British crown is formed with all the jewels spread in the world like Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the others.

Mr. Chas. Moyes, accompanied by his wife and daughter, have returned after a two weeks visit with friends in Toronto and Rochester, N.Y.

FAMOUS WAX ARTIST

Mme. Tussaud Had an Exciting and Dramatic Career.

IN THE FRENCH REVOLUTION.

During That Era of Bloodshed She Modeled Some of the Heads That Fell by the Guillotine and Was For a Time in Prison Herself as a Suspect.

This is the story of Mme. Tussaud, who was born in Berne in 1700 and died in London in 1850, and who, during the stormy time of the French revolution, modeled in wax some of the heads that fell by the guillotine.

Marie Gresholtz was the daughter of an aid-de-camp of General Wurmser in the Seven Years' war. She was born after the death of her father.

Her mother was the sister of Dr. John Christopher Curtius of Berne. This Dr. Curtius had made many anatomical and other models in wax and had attracted the attention of the Prince de Conti. This nobleman urged Curtius to come to Paris and establish himself as a modeler in wax.

The Curtius studio became the rendezvous of the fashionable world, and in connection with this he had a museum of curiosities. Among his patrons were Voltaire, Jean Jacques, Rousseau, Mesmer, Mirabeau, Diderot, Benjamin Franklin, Paul Jones and many other notable persons.

In his visits to his sister at Berne Dr. Curtius had taught his niece, Marie, many of the secrets of modeling in wax. She showed such ability in this that her uncle urged her mother to make a home with him in Paris and to allow him to adopt Marie as his daughter.

Marie began earnest study with Dr. Curtius, and she was so skillful in the modeling of wax dowers that this art became a craze. Even the royal personages in the palace took it up, and Marie spent some time giving lessons to Mme. Elisabeth, the young sister of Louis XVI.

When the revolution broke out Dr. Curtius took the side of the people and sent for Marie to come from the palace. It was rather singular that two of his wax models should have played a foremost part in the opening scenes of that awful period. In his collection of models was a bust of the minister, Necker, father of Mme. de Staël, and one of Philippe, duke of Orleans. Two days before the storming of the Bastille a mob took these two busts from his museum in the Palais Royal, draped them in black crape to show their sympathy and started to parade the streets with these.

As the procession filed across the Place Vendome a troop of dragoons and one of the regiments charged. A sword stroke cut the bust of Necker in halves, and the man who was carrying it was hit by a musket ball in the leg and received the thrust of a sword in his breast.

The bust of the Duke of Orleans escaped injury, but in the fight to defend it several persons were killed. The soldiers made desperate efforts to demolish it.

At the taking of the Bastille Dr. Curtius was active, and for his services to France was rewarded by the national assembly. A badge of honor was presented to him, and this was inscribed with the famous date and a memorial of his bravery and patriotism. His house was a favorite place of meeting with the leaders of the revolution, so Marie had an opportunity to see them all.

There was only one time when Marie was in any danger during this desperate period. She was "suspected" and sent to prison. Here at the same time was Mme. de Beauharnais, who had barely escaped the guillotine and who was later the Josephine of Napoleon Bonaparte. Her uncle was able to get Marie's release from prison, and she came out in time to see the down fall of Robespierre, Danton and Des moulins.

In the days of their power she had been called to model the heads of many who fell by the guillotine. She was obliged to take them just after the fall of the fatal knife. She did this awful work with the heads of poor Marie Antoinette and of the Princess Lamballe, the queen's friend. When the leaders suffered by the guillotine in their turn she modeled their heads.

After the revolution her uncle died, and in 1795 she married M. Tussaud. She could not overcome the shock of her experiences during the revolution, and she persuaded her husband to take her and the valuable collections of wax models left her by Dr. Curtius over to England.

They established this collection in the Strand. The collection was taken all about the country, and in 1833 it was brought back to London and made a permanent exhibition. Her sons conducted the business, and she took an active share in this till she was eighty years of age.

Naming Their Children.

It was a musical man who gave his four daughters the following names: Do re, Mi-fa, So-la, Ti-do. The first entered with the nickname Dora, the second answered Miffy, the third owned up to Solly while the youngest generally got Tiddy.

The case of the musical man is matched by that of the provincial printer who named his children from the type fonts he used: Ruby, Pearl, Diamond. The first two are no uncommon names for girls, only Ruby happened to be a boy. He followed in his father's footsteps and afterward became a printer's manager in London.—London Chronicle.

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with seeming success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it is constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another, everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you?

Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?

Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns". And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "no help, No pay" contract.

I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same or else pass their prescriptions by.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys go wrong, then but Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I do not dose the Stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. Yet in a roundabout way that mistaken idea in medicine. The books below will best tell you how I am succeeding.

Those books also tell of a tiny hidden "inside nerve," so large than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until it fails, actually gives to the Heart its power, its tone, its never-ceasing action or impulse.

These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how the stomach, and Kidneys each have their "inside" or power nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize these weak or failing inside nerves. All of these facts tell why I am able to say, "It is free if it fails".

This is why I say "take no chances on a medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to loan my medicines to the sick.

But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So drop me a line please—and thus save disappointment and delays. Tell me also which book you need.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailments. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

SIMCOE'S HOME.

High among the hills surrounding Honiton, the little country town which is famed far and wide as the centre of the lace-making industry of Devon, England, stands Wolford Lodge, the pleasant English home where General Simcoe, the first Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada, spent the last few years of his eventful life. Weakened by the wounds and hardships endured in the disheartening campaigns of the American Revolutionary war, and worn with his anxious toil for the benefit of the new British province which it had been given to him to organize in the wilderness, he came back to England in 1796 to seek well-earned repose. But rest was not for him. Almost immediately he was sent back across the Atlantic to put down an insurrection in the West Indies. Returning again to his native land, he began, about the year 1800, to build himself a spacious mansion on a green slope deep amongst the gently-rounded, well-cultivated hills of lovely Devon. Surely no toil-worn warrior ever found a more restful spot in which to spend the evening of his days, for still, despite a hundred years of progress, despite vastly increased population, despite railways and motor-cars, the whole land speaks of peace.

The lodge was built in solid fashion by the General round an old farm-house, which was on the estate when he bought it. Except for the addition of some large bow-windows, the house has been little altered from the original design, and much of the old furniture remains in its spacious rooms. So large are they that an ancient four-post bedstead appears a comparatively small piece of furniture, and the General's own bedroom is larger than many a village church. In the different rooms numerous relics connected with him have been carefully preserved.

On either side of the stairway window, in the square entrance hall, are two venerable flags, the colors of the "Queen's Rangers," a provincial corps of Loyalists, which was raised by Simcoe and did gallant service during the revolutionary war.—Emily P. Weaver.

His Lucky Donkey.

The costermonger's love for his donkey was demonstrated recently at the People's Palace, Mile End road, London. Nearly 200 donkeys, carefully groomed, with their owners standing by them in their Sunday best, were exhibited under the auspices of Our Dumb Friends' League.

Many of the costermongers declared that they would not part with their little animals for untold gold. "Here's the foundation of all my little fortune," said William Witt, an East End coal dealer, as he stroked his sturdy prize winner, Lazy Lightning. "Five years ago I was dead broke; I borrowed 30 shillings to buy my little pal here" -patting the donkey again.

"First my donkey carried coal from street to street on a barrow; but gradually my trade grew. Now I've got three little shops, and a farm out in the country. But it was the donkey that turned my luck and put me on the right road. Out at the farm there's a nice green field, with shady trees in it. As soon as this show's over that's where my donkey's going, to end his days just doing nothing but enjoy the green grass—and rest."

Many prizes were awarded to the best-groomed donkeys. A challenge cup and a set of harness, given by the Queen, were won by Jenny, a smart little donkey that pulls the barrow of a wood and coke hawker.

HOW TO WIN.

Determination and Unity of Purpose Will Work Wonders.

Once you have chosen your occupation or profession hold fast thereto. Let nothing allure you from the main traveled road. Having chosen, hold like steel. Make everything feed into the main current of your life. Even modest talents, organized and unified, have conquered great distinction and world-wide success. History is full of illustrations of the unifying power of a great purpose. Witness the poor child Hastings looking at a distant manor house that once had belonged to his father. The determination to win back that estate before he died lent power and momentum and produced Lord Hastings. Witness the influence of purpose upon that little Scotch boy, out upon a holiday on the banks of the Clyde, with three precious coppers as his entire possession. He determined to build a house on the hilltop overlooking the river and forty years later moved into the castle, from which he looked down upon twenty ocean steamers he had built. Witness the purpose of William the Silent, filling all the days and nights for the hero struggling to deliver brave little Holland from Spain. Witness Milton's vow to write a poem that the world would not willingly let die and who therefore lived an epic life. Witness Paul's resolution to do one thing and one thing alone and who, with that unit purpose, achieved democracy for all subsequent peoples and centuries. Aimlessness will make your life like a sand heap.—Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis.

FULL OF HUMAN INTEREST.

Landscapes of the Dutch Painters of the Seventeenth Century.

The Dutch painters of the seventeenth century were as little concerned with poetic feeling as with idealism. They used their eyes and painted what they saw, but neither their imagination nor their feelings were touched. While most modern painters interpret how the scene has affected themselves, the Dutch looked at it as something entirely outside themselves.

Otherwise the Dutch landscapes present us pictures of a pleasant workaday world or of the quiet evenings that follow after the labors of the day—never a hint of disturbance, though war and rumors of war were constant; instead, the perpetual suggestion of prosperous peace and thrifty comfort, for they abound with the evidences of busy humanity. Not only is nature brought into touch with human life by the little figures, so charmingly little, which animate the scene, but everywhere are the results of man's handiwork seen in little things as well as big—in the trimly kept fruit trees of a laborer's garden plot no less than in the handsome facade of a rich burgher's town house. There is no country in the world where the influence of man is so minutely imprinted upon every foot of ground, and as these artists were eager to represent the things they saw no landscapes are so full of human interest as theirs.—Charles H. Caffin in St. Nicholas.

A PERFECT DREAM CITY.

London was yesterday a city of gold and green and white. Golden sunshine in the streets and parks, green foliage on every tree upon which the sun shone down, white buildings, newly built or newly painted, with clear outlines under a sky of Oriental blue. What dream-city could be more perfect than London on such a day?

Truly it was an unforgettable day—a day on which it is good to be alive, very good to be young when the spring calls to the blood and when perfume steals into the senses; good even to be old and to sun oneself in the memory of other spring days as golden as this.

The London season is beginning! Good words to those who have the leisure and means to play the game, the merry game of the social whirligig, good even to those who are merely lookers-on.

Yesterday the fun had begun. The King was in town, the court was in the capital, the servants of society had pulled up the window blinds of town houses and the sun was shining.

So the streets were very full of life at its best and brightest. Down Bond street and Piccadilly—the highways of the lucky ones—there was an endless tide of carriages, and the sun gleamed upon brightly polished panellings, flashed fire from the brass head lamps and metal work of magnificent motor cars, and glistened on the smooth flanks of good horses, which went dashing by as proudly as though there were no such thing as petrol.

Women were in the carriages and walking on the shady side, and one man sighed because he could not wear salmon pink, or Madonna blue, or walk in lilac beauty like these ladies who were the flowers of the London streets. Flowers, literally because all their hats were in full blossom, brought out by this brilliant sunshine, and from the top of an omnibus one looked down upon moving bouquets of roses and daisies and forget-me-nots, as though all the flowers in Kensington Gardens had been plucked as the garlands of England's fair women.

Yet the men did their poor best, yesterday, to do credit to the divine day. Old Bucks had put on white waistcoats, and young bloods in new silk hats—bright and beautiful things—had put yellow gloves upon their hands. The Green Park was a paradise, into which had slunk many poor devils, against whom the gates of this paradise were not closed. These Weary Willies had come out of the slums, for spring called to them also, and they lay, in lazy happiness and seedy clothes, like corpses on the emerald greensward, which was a carpet worthy of Kings.

A Cool Deadhead.

Mr. Oscar Asche, the London actor, who, with his wife, Miss Lily Brayton, is on his way to Australia—his native land—which he left eighteen years ago, remarked just before he set sail, apropos of the slump in theatres, that the deadhead is a destroyer of drama. "Once give a man a free seat for a play," he said, "and you will have a difficulty ever after to make him 'pay to go in.' While I was touring with a certain highly respected manager, we were playing at a long-famous old playhouse in an ancient town. We had billed 'Macbeth' for the Friday night, but during that day the theatre was burnt down. For our next week there our chief contrived to borrow a playhouse a little way out of the district. On reaching there to rehearse on the Monday the manager received a letter saying that the writer had been given two dress-circle orders for the performance of 'Macbeth,' but as that play was not performed owing to the destruction of the theatre, the writer surmised that the manager would remit the money value of those orders."

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—18 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 200,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $500. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

Mines located near Valardena, Durango, Mexico only six miles by wagon road and three miles straight line from the property of the Guggenheims upon which they have recently erected a $2,000,000 smelter. Sample assays have averaged from $54 to $102 per ton.

Up to the present time, the Turquoise Copper Co., has been practically a close corporation; an initial offering of 100,000 shares has just been made at 25 cents, par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable. Proceeds will be used to further continue the development work already begun.

We have options on 50,000 shares of this stock and advise immediate purchase at 25 cents per share. It is the intention of The Board of Directors to list the stock on the New York Curb and it should sell at $1.00 per share by the first of the year.

BRITAIN'S NAVAL STRENGTH.

An expert naval correspondent of the Westminter Gazette sums the new Imperial naval policy up. He says it is "the transference of the wardenship of the Pacific to the people of the three great commonwealths and the establishment outside Europe of a second centre of sea power it will still be left to the Mother Country to maintain the two-power standard navy against Europe." He suggests the possibility of a financial contribution from the Indian Empire, and by its help the establishment of a second two-power standard in non-European waters, capable of dealing with possible future problems of imperial defence which the old formula against Europe was never designed to meet." This certainly has a very satisfactory sound and if such a policy is carried out, the result will prove a potent factor in maintaining the peace of the world.

DISEASED MEAT.

The Medical Health Officer for this city stated in his annual report last November; that much of the meat offered for sale in the city was produced under unsanitary conditions and in violation of the provisions of the Public Health Act and the act respecting the slaughter of animal that over 200 carcasses of disease cattle were offered for sale in thi market annually. He recommended the establishment of a municipal abattoir and the official inspection of all animals slaughtered for food."

The chief veterinary officer of the Department of Agriculture recommends in a circular widely distributed at the Toronto Fair "the abolition of the private slaughter-houses and the substitution therefor of municipal abattoirs conducted under the supervision of trained and qualified veterinary inspectors, as most of the objectional meats placed on the market emanate from these undesirable and unsanitary places."

It is the duty of every man to see that his family, as well as himself, does not eat diseased and unwholesome meat. In places where establishments under Government inspection do not exist, safety in this regard can be secured only by the establishment of a municipal abattoir under official inspection. Municipal authorities have been too long neglectful of the necessity for intelligent action in the matter of meat inspection. We are glad to know, however, that our own city council has become alive to the importance of this and that a committee is now gathering information with the object of establishing a municipal abattoir, which is an ideal which the aldermen should keep before them while engaged in this investigation.—Exchange.

The October Rod and Gun.

On the eve of the big game hunting season, the October Number of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont., gives foremost attention to big game hunting stories. They will be found varied enough in both localities and experiences to interest all sportsmen, and many will doubtless recall incidents in their own careers corresponding with some related in such pleasing fashion in these pages. In the same way the article on "The Characteristics of a Fine Backwoods Guide," will remind numerous readers of character features shown by their own guides, and revive many pleasant memories— a rich storehouse of which is the property of every sportsman. Fish culture in Newfoundland will receive attention from every brother of the rod, and its inclusion shows that even at such a time the interests of the devotees of the fishing art are not neglected. Other seasonable pages are given, making the number one that should be the companion of every sportsman either at home or on his vacation, giving him many pleasant half hours in perusing what others have done and enabling him to fight some of his own battles o'er again.

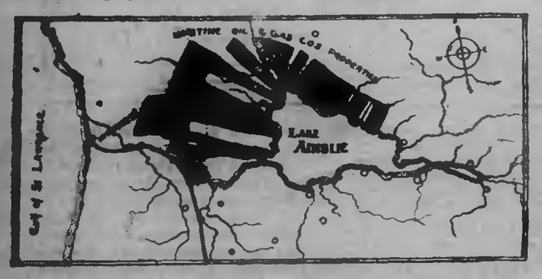
PROPERTY.

The property of the Company consists of leases for oil and gas of about 25,000 acres of the best oil lands in the Lake Ainslie District, County of Inverness, Cape Breton. This district has been known for years to be an oil district. Recently Mr. F. H. Stover, who is rightly considered to be one of the best oil experts in America, examined the property, and after a thorough and searching examination his opinion of the possibilities of this property is contained in the following report:



Charlottetown, August 2nd, 1909

To the Directors of The Maritime Oil & Gas Company Limited:

Dear Sirs,—I beg to say that I have thoroughly examined the properties held under lease by your company for oil and gas, and as a result of the examination I beg to report:—

1st. I am familiar with the oil regions of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, and Ontario, having operated largely in these districts for the last twenty five years.

2nd. In my opinion Lake Ainslie District shows almost exactly the same indications of oil as appeared in Oil Creek in Pennsylvania, which has been the greatest oil producing district in America. Oil Creek was the only district where oil in any quantity was to be found seeping from the rocks, and in the Lake Ainslie District the same conditions are to be found. The oil is seeping from the rocks on the shores of the Lake. The difference between the two districts is that the oil sand rock in the Lake Ainslie district is thicker and hence more liable to be a better producing oil sand. I have taken samples of the oil as it comes from the rock, and I find that the oil is of a very high lubricating quality, and will require but little refining to make it a very valuable lubricating oil. I consider that there is no question of the existence of a very large quantity of oil and gas in this property, and the prospects of striking oil upon the Company's property are of the very best.

F. H. STOVER

After the examination Mr. Stover immediately became financially interested in the Company, and has accepted the office of President and General-Manager of the Company.

The Company proposes to drill several wells upon this property at once, and for that purpose arrangements have been made with Messrs. Stover Bros., oil contractors, to place a first-class drilling equipment upon the property, this much can be said—it is the very best equipment possible to obtain for this purpose, and it is such that the contractors guarantee that under the conditions such as they expect to find in Lake Ainslie their equipment will drill a well to the depth of three thousand feet in two months.

STOCK.

Mr Alexander G. Baillie, of Port Hastings, is Trustee for a certain portion of the company's stock, which is offered for sale for the purpose of development. Of this stock it is proposed to sell a block of three hundred thousand shares, starting at five cents per share.

100 shares	$ 5.00
200 shares	10.00
300 shares	15.00
400 shares	20.00
500 shares	25.00
1,000 shares	50.00
2,000 shares	100.00
10,000 shares	500.00

PROSPECTS FOR INVESTORS.

The history of the oil business in America, from its very inception to the present date, is one continuous story of financial success. Thousands of men, formerly poor, became enormously wealthy. More money has been made out of oil than out of any industry in the world today. When oil is once struck by the Oil Company the value of the stock is increased enormously. The following is a small list of the oil companies in operation less than three years, showing the original price of their stock and the highest price it has reached:—

	Original Price	Highest Price
New York Oil Co	$ .50	$ 200.00
Buick Oil Co	1.00	1,400.00
Eldorado Oil Co	.50	5.00
Essex River Oil Co	1.00	20.00
Peerless Oil Co	.20	2.00
Hartford Oil Co	5.00	115.00
Home Oil Co	5.00	5,000.00

Contracts have been entered into on behalf of the Company, and to which the Company is a party with William Harrington, of Lake Ainslie, in the County of Inverness, dated July 9th, 1909, and Alexander G. Baillie, of Port Hastings, dated August, 1909, which contracts are on file in the office of the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, Halifax.

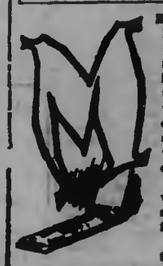
Her Bank Account



MR. ARLING didn't know much about business, but she never admired her husband more than when he was writing her a check. It seemed such a pleasant way to pay a debt.

"I wish I could write some," she said one day, wistfully.

She had always felt very important when Arling asked her to sign a coal receipt or any other mysterious document.

"You may have a bank account, my dear, if you want one," said Arling, holding her chin up to look into her eyes. "Perhaps it will help you to keep your accounts straight. It is easy to know what you pay out in that way. I'll open an account for you in Mr. Cole's bank, near home."

"But I won't know what to do unless you show me."

"Mr. Cole knows you. Just tell him what you want and he'll fix it up for you."

So the bank account came into existence.

"Well, how does the bank account go?" asked Arling of his wife a few weeks after.

"It doesn't go at all," she lamented. "I called Saturday afternoon and—"

"Of course, the bank was closed."

"I tried again yesterday—"

"Another legal holiday. An election day."

"So, while you were away I borrowed some money from Mrs. Smyth and Mrs. Rose, and I'm all mixed up—"

"Just write them some checks."

"I did and the checks were returned. Here they are."

"Why, you forgot to sign them!"

"Did I? I'll go to the bank to-morrow and fix things—if it isn't some holiday or other."

The next afternoon Mrs. Arling went into the bank. Banker Cole looked surprised.

"Why, Mrs. Arling—" he began.

"You look as if I didn't have any money here," protested she.

"It isn't that. Banking hours are from nine to three."

"Well, I'm sure it's after nine."

"And after three, also."

"Oh, it can't be. I've just got through lunch!"

"That ought to be conclusive, but it isn't. It's ten minutes after banking hours."

"Surely you are mistaken, for I had only a simple lunch and my husband wasn't there. It didn't take me long to fix chipped beef and an omelet—"

"I Want to Write the Checks."

"Never mind. They were just about to lock the door, but if you'll hurry I'll wait on you."

"I want some money. Let me see, I owe Mrs. Smyth for three yards of lace at 36 cents—or was it 36½ cents a yard? I just hate fractions, don't you? And I owe Mrs. Rose—she paid for a C. O. D. package from Martin's—"

"But I want to write the checks to them. It's easier to keep the accounts so, my husband says."

"Better make out a check to yourself and draw money for both."

"What right have I to pay myself for their money? I don't think that would be honest. I'm sure they wouldn't consider it paid. I'll let them wait and just get the money that I want myself. Let me see. A pair of shoes—that's five dollars—and some crochet cotton. What will that cost, do you think?"

"Can't tell. Still, maybe—"

"Why, doesn't Mrs. Cole crochet? I'll show her my lovely new stitch."

"Sorry I can't wait, Mrs. Arling. Just come in the morning. I'm going to close the bank."

"Of course, Mr. Cole, if you don't wish to give me my own money—My husband told me I could get it any time. Still, I suppose the interest on it does amount to something to you. I shall transfer my account to a larger bank. These small banks are closed most of the time anyway. Good-day."

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "Inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all druggists.

A DREAM STORY.

The following dream story is told in "The Story of My Life," by Augustus C. Hare. The story was told to Mr. Hare in Rome in 1870:

Lady Vernon dreamed that she saw the butler, with a knife in one hand and a candle in the other, crossing the entrance hall, and she awoke with a great start. After awhile she composed herself to sleep again, and she dreamed—she dreamed that she saw the butler, with a knife in one hand and a candle in the other, on the middle of the staircase, and she awoke with a great shock. She got up. She thought she could not be quite well, and she took a little sal volatile. At last she fell asleep again, and she dreamed—she dreamed that she saw the butler, with a knife in one hand and a candle in the other, standing at her bedroom door, and she awoke in a great terror, and she jumped out of bed, and she said, "I'll have an end of this; I'll have an end of these foolish imaginations." And she rushed to the door, and she threw the door wide open. And there at the door stood the butler, with a knife in one hand and a candle in the other. And when he suddenly saw Lady Vernon in her white nightdress, with her hair streaming down her back, he was so dreadfully frightened that he dropped the candle on the floor and rushed off down the staircase and off to the stables, where there was a horse ready saddled and bridled, on which he meant to have ridden away when he had murdered Lady Vernon. And he rode away without having murdered her at all, and he was never heard of again.

THERE WAS NO ACCIDENT.

And the Message She Received Was Not a Practical Joke.

She was reclining in a low chair in the drawing room, thinking about her dear Willie, who had been legally her property for the space of three months, when a telegram arrived for her. Hurriedly tearing open the envelope, she scanned the contents, then fell back in a swoon. The message was from her brother in the city and read:

Will run over today. GEORGE.

Her maid at last restored her to consciousness. Her Willie run over! She could not grasp the full significance of it. One thing she would do—go to him at once. So she hastily attired herself and at length reached her brother's office, who, having sent the news, would be able to tell her all about it.

"How is he, and where have they taken him?"

Her brother stared at her stupidly.

"Oh, don't keep me in suspense! Tell me where he is."

"Who is who is?"

"Why Willie."

"At his office, I presume. I haven't seen him today."

"Then what does this mean? Isn't he run over? is this one of your silly jokes?"

George took the telegram from his sister, read his own message, then exploded with laughter. It was a long time before he could convince her that this simple intimation that he would run over and pay her a visit was not a detestable and practical joke.

The Talker.

You'll note the man who talks too much is always working round. He never seems to hold the job which some one else has found for him because he's bound to keep his tongue upon the wag and spend his boss' precious time in self bouquets and brag. He stays until his story's told and then told once again, and by this time the boss' ear is overfull of pain, and he is told to take his grip, although the boss feels sad, because he's lost his other grip upon the job he had. And yet he never, never learns, but talks his jobs away, because the habit's grown on him that he must have his say. And so he talks until he dies, up to his waning breath; he's talked his chances all away and talked himself to death.

Confessions.

The woman begged the bachelor girl not to go yet awhile. She was so urgent that the girl finally sat down again. Then the two sat perfectly still and silent, looking at each other.

"I know what you are thinking," said the bachelor girl by and by.

"What?" asked the woman.

"That, now you've got me to stay, you wonder why it was you insisted so. You don't know what to do with me or to say to me, now I'm here to stay."

"How did you guess it?" the woman laughed.

"I've felt just that way myself," said the bachelor girl "many and many a time."

A Bad Hole to Get Into.

A gentleman was going round a strange golf course with a local caddie, and after playing part of the way he pointed to a rather high wall and inquired, "Is there a hole over there?"

"Yes, sir," replied the caddie solemnly; "there's the cemetery over there. Don't put yourself into a hole there if you can help it."—London Scraps.

BUSINESS METHODS.

A man may have several carloads of [illegible]. He may have brains and ideas and other desirable things. But all the [illegible] talent" will not avail to [illegible] a man who neglects that all important item of advertising. You simply must get after them. Of course you can get attention by firing off a revolver during office hours or you can [illegible] by wearing loud clothes and procuring your kindly in the sporting [illegible]. But most men who have risen from the ranks have carefully selected to use methods of this kind.

Every office man must act as his own salesman. He must constantly prepare himself to increase his efficiency. He must be able to do the work for which he is hired. Not only should he do that for which he is hired, but he must do that work better than it ever was done before. When that [illegible] attended to it is then time to ask [illegible] for more work.

The wise employee will keep his eye on the job ahead of, better still, will [illegible] a job which does not exist, but which should exist for the good of the business. The next step is to think out a selling talk that will get the attention, arouse the interest, create a desire and bring about in the mind of the employer a desire to do what the [illegible] employee desires him to do.—Book keeper.

FORGOT HIS OWN LINES.

A Quotation That the Poet Campbell Failed to Recognize.

That poets, like other folks, sometimes forget their own creations is shown by an incident related by Sir Frederick Pollock. At a dinner where Thomas Campbell and Lord Nugent were present the conversation drifted into the use of Latin words in English [illegible] verse. Some one expressed a doubt whether two consecutive lines composed of words of one syllable could be found in our language. Lord Nugent at once quoted:

[illegible] dread name we wave the sword on high,

Campbell said he did not believe in the lines and asked where they came from. Lord Nugent said, "From your own 'Pleasures of Hope.'" "How do you know that?" asked the poet. "I know it all by heart," replied Nugent. "I'll bet you a guinea you can't repeat it," said Campbell. The bet was taken and Nugent started declaiming. The poet soon got tired and said: "I see you know the poem. Don't go any further." The other insisted upon repeating the whole poem or claiming double stakes, and Campbell paid the extra guinea in order to be spared the recital of the poem which had made him famous—which he had forgotten.

How to Patch a Canoe.

There are several different "home-made" methods by which to repair a crack or leak in a canoe. Perhaps the most permanent is varnish or shellac and silk. Put a little varnish over the crack, place a small silk patch over the varnish, letting it dry, then varnish or shellac over the silk. Two coats will be sufficient. If it is a varnished canoe, use white silk, and the patch can hardly be detected, the silk being transparent. This may be put on both inside and outside if necessary. White lead and varnish mixed well and put in the crack is also a good permanent repair. If on a cruise in the woods and without the necessary articles to make a permanent repair, get a little spruce gum off the trees, heat and add a little grease and put over the crack. The grease has a tendency to keep the gum from getting very hard, and it will not break so easily. The silk and shellac repair is the usual remedy for a puncture in a canvas covered canoe.—Recreation.

The Dogs of Turkey.

In the matter of kindness to animals it is said that the Turk cannot be surpassed. Thus at Stamboul the wandering dogs are treated with great gentleness and when puppies come into the world they are lodged with their mother at the side of the street in improvised kennels made out of old boxes lined with straw and bits of carpet. And frequently when a young Turk happens to be flush of money he goes to the nearest baker's shop and buys a quantity of bread, which he distributes among the dogs of the quarter, who testify their gratitude by jumping up at him with muddy paws and sniffing muzzles.

When Youth Wanes.

Old age has many definitions, and middle age more. But you may take it that you are not really an old man so long as you take an interest in your personal appearance. There is not a nurse who does not know the sign of convalescence—when the patient wants to be shaved and put a good appearance in this world. And so long as the man of sixty can take an interest in the latest tie—and tie it—he is preserving his youth.—London Chronicle.

He Had a Reason.

"I notice you are very cautious in what you say about people."

"Yes."

"Why is this?"

"Well, I ain't prominent enough to claim I was misquoted."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

GIVES CLEARNESS TO SKIN.

Most women and some men try to remove yellowishness of skin blotches, dark lines under the eyes by cosmetiques. Such means are as useless as disappointing. When the skin lacks clearness, particularly when the body is emaciated, it is simply the stain upon the skin of impurities in the bowels that are carried about by the blood. Sluggish activity is certainly the cause of bad complexion even if regularity should be pretty fair.

Better than any cosmetique, because they remove the cause of skin discoloration, Dr. Hamilton's Pills ensure inward cleansing and activity. In addition to their laxative action they are a true tonic to all the eliminating organs, liver, kidneys, bowels, and glands. Dr. Hamiltan's Pills remove the cause of all blood that manifest themselves outwardly, and strengthen the organs and thereby prevent a return of diseased conditions."

WANTS WARD SYSTEM.

Bylaw Submitted to the People in January Next.

(To the Editor of The Times.

Dear Sir,—I was greatly surprised when I read in your columns last week that the aldermen had laid the ward system bylaw over, which I take it means that Ald. Morrow and those who voted with him, including the mayor, intend to crowd the bylaw over until next year, as they did last year. What the object of the anti-warder-system aldermen is is hard to explain, unless it is a purely personal reason. If that is so those are the kind of aldermen we want to get rid of, as the aldermen are elected to serve the people, not themselves. That the people want the ward system of electing aldermen adopted is a fact borne out by the large petition presented to the council asking for it, and they will have the ward system or know the reason why. It is the only fair system and it is the system adopted by all progressive cities. It is to be hoped that thebylaw will be given two readings at the next council meeting and sent on to the people for approval in January.

MAY BE COFFEE.

That Causes all the Trouble.

When the house is afire, it's like a body when disease begins to show, it's no time to talk but time to act—delay is dangerous—remove the cause of the trouble at once.

"For a number of years," says a Kansas lady, "I felt sure that coffee was hurting me, and yet, I was so fond of it, I could not give it up. I faltered with my appetite and of course yielded to the temptation to drink more. At last I got so bad that I made up my mind I must either quit the use of coffee or die.

"Everything I ate distressed me, and I suffered severely almost all the time with palpitation of the heart. I frequently woke up in the night with the feeling that I was almost gone—my heart seemed so smothered and weak in its action that I feared it would stop beating. My breath grew short and the least exertion set me to panting. I slept but little and suffered from rheumatism.

"Two years ago I stopped using the coffee and began to use Postum, and from the very first I began to improve. It worked a miracle! Now I can eat anything and digest it with out trouble. I sleep like a baby, and my heart beats full, strong and easely. My breathing has become steady and normal, and my rheumatism has left me. I feel like another person, and it is all due to quitting coffee and using Postum, for I haven't used any medicine and none would have done any good as long as I kept dragging with coffee." "There's a Reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

What about Burleigh Falls power? Is it dead or is there still a little life left around the heart? Apparently the latter is the case for a small movement was noticed in the carcas last night at the council meeting.

It will be remembered that a month ago the city clerk was instructed to write the Central Ontario Power Co., accepting their offer to supply Burleigh Falls power to the city at $11 or $12. Nothing was heard from the company until this week when the city clerk received the following letter from Mr. R. J. McLaughlin;

S. R. Armstrong, Esq.,
City Clerk,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—I have your favor of Sept. 24, which I have delayed answering until I could consult with some of the parties interested. I presume in your letter that you refer to my letter to you of June 12th last when I estimated that it would cost a private company at least $4 per horse power more to develop and transmit Burleigh power to the city of Peterborough than it would cost the city by reason of extra expense which the company would be put to and which is in detail in the letter, over and above what the city would have to pay.

This estimate was also based upon a guarantee of the bonds of the company by the city which I do not understand by your letter of September 24th, that your city proposes to do. Since that time and since your city allowed the second option to expire without carrying out the understanding arrived at with your council as to obtaining a report, we have made progress towards an arrangement for the development and operation of the power by private company and in such case we hope to have some part of the power to spare for Peterborough, but an additional cost of about $80,000 will give us a transmission line to Bowmanville, Oshawa and Whitby, where there is a population of about 14,000 inhabitants at present depending entirely upon steam power, and Oshawa especially being a very important manufacturing town and furnishes a large market for power. This line will be comparatively short following the C.P.R. to a point ten miles north of Bowmanville and dropping down to Bowmanville and following the Kingston road to Oshawa and Whitby. The company handling its own power at these points will give these towns a very favorable power rate, and yet make a revenue far in excess of your city's offer.

Your city would also, it appears to me, do well to consider before entering into a contract for the whole of the power that we can develop at Burleigh. You may not need it all for four or five years. If you purchased the property out and out as explained to you before you could put in hydraulic and electrical machinery in units and only bring the power down as you require it.

It Peterborough wants a municipal power plant the only rational way to proceed about it is to buy it, develop it and own it yourselves. As far as Burleigh is concerned you have had it under consideration for quite a length o tim quite a length of time and if your council do not decide to act very shortly the opportunity to acquire it will have passed.

The price we offered to you is exceptionally low. It will only amount to an annual rental of about $1.12½ on a gross development of four thousand horsepower; while the government rental for other purposes on the same river is $2 per horse power for the gross development. Another syndicate in which we are interested is paying the government a much larger price per horse power for the power on the same waters not nearly so near the market than what we have been asking the city of Peterborough for Burleigh. Finally I would say if your city wants to act immediately.

Yours truly,
R. J. McLaughlin,

The Committee of the Whole Council will probably take the matter up at an early date.

A Cable Says Edward William Bedfort Surrendered in London, England, Confessing He Had Killed the Girl

Montreal, Oct. 11.—A special cable from London, England, says; "Edward William Bedford gave himself up to the police here today on the confession that he had murdered Ethel Kinrade by shooting at Hamilton, Ontario, last February, at the instigation of another man, whose name he has forgotten but who gave him $500."

Bedford's name was not mentioned at any stage of the Kinrade inquest.

Jurymen will Get an Increase in Their Pay

There is good news for the jurymen of the County of Peterborough. Sheriff Hall has been notified that beginning with the fall assizes, which open on Oct. 18th, the fees for jurymen will be $2.50 per day instead of $2, and their mileage will be 13c. per mile instead of 10c. as heretofore This will make quite a difference to the jurymen and also to the county.

RUGBY ON SATURDAY.

Locals Will meet Parkdale at Riverside Park—Practice Every Night.

The senior Rugby season will open here on Saturday afternoon, when the locals will meet the Parkdale Canoe Club of Toronto, at Riverside Park. The make-up of the Peterborough team is as yet unknown and the fourteen will not hr picked till the end of the week. It looks, however, as if there would be several new faces on the team as a number of the youngsters are showing up well in practice. Vincent Corkery may be found on the back division, as he has demonstrated that he has a fair knowledge of the game, and that he is fleet of foot and a reliable catch. "Tick" Thornton, one of the braves of other days, has turned out again and will likely be found on the team Saturday.

About twaty players were at work at Riverside Park Saturday afternoon and were kept hard at it by Dr. McPherson who is doing the coaching. Practices will be held every night this week and the team should be working smoothly by Saturday. The Toronto team will find that they are not going to have a cinch.

BEATING HIS WAY.

Peterborough Youth Goes to See Baseball Games at Detroit.

Peterborough has at least one real baseball enthusiast. He is a youth of about 17 summers, and he has gone to Detroit to see the Michigan city end of the championship series between the Tigers and Pittsburg. He did not like to stand the expense of riding in a Pullman, so he left Peterborough with the intention of "beating" his way to the home of Hughie Jennings' band. He pulled out of the city on a freight Saturday night and was confident that he would be able to reach Detroit without paying a cent for transportation. He is an experienced hand at "beating" the railways, and says he has traveled hundreds of miles without buying a ticket. When he left Peterborough on Saturday night he expected to reach Detroit in time to see yesterday's game.

Isolation Hospital Goes to the People at January Elections

Majority of the Aldermen Believe the Cost will Exceed $15,000 and Decided to Proceed the Safe Course—Hard Battle Between the Two Factions

It is for the people to say whether or not they want an isolation hospitalbuilt. They will get the opportunity to make known their desires at the municipal elections in January next. Such was the final decision of the council at a special meeting last night called for that purpose.

The isolation hospital has been a vexed question for several years and now the council has plans for a good hospital and they have a pretty fair idea what it will cost, and it will be for the people to give authority to borrow the necessary funds.

There was a warm argument last night between the two factions, the one favoring going to the people and the other favoring the construction of the building this fall. The former contended the cost would exceed the $15,000 which the city has authority to spend, and the latter believed the building could be completed for $15,000. The former however won out on the vote.

Ald Bradburn notified the council to the effect that he had seen the Water Commissioners on Friday last and that Mr. Matthews gave him to understand that the commissioners would put the water in and charge only the regular artes for hospitals. Mr. Henderson has prepared a report on the cost of doing the work but he did not say what the commissioners would do.

The chairman of the Property Committee said that he had nothing in writing from the commissioners but Mr. Hill also gave him to understand that the commissioners would put the water in and charge only the regular rates. The city would also have to put in a hydrant for fire protection.

Ald. Bradburn then went into the proposed cost of a reduced size of the hospital. He proposed that the building be cut down 10 feet in length and the total cost would be $14,328.50 and from this must be deducted $75 for the cesspool which was provided in the plans and which will not be required now. It is not compulsory now to place the isolation hospital 450 feet from all buildings. A permission from the local Board of Health would be sufficient. The medical health officer places the lowest cost for equipment at $504. This would permit the hospital to be occupied but $1000 would be more satisfactory. There are bound to be other necessities required from time to time, that cannot be thought of now. This brings the cost up to $14,832.50.

Ald. Morrow moved that a contract be entered into with James Rose to build the hospital as reduced by the architect, and that the work proceed at once.

A couple of the aldermen thought new tenders should be called on the small hospital or to go ahead with the original hospital.

Ald. Morrow said he was prepared to support the original building as proposed.

Ald. Duffus said that from the figures the chairman of the Property Committee brought in and allowing several hundred more for fixing up the grounds and a roadway and walks he could not see how the work could be carried out within the $15,000. Ald. Duffus then moved the following motion:—

Moved by Ald. Duffus and Ald. Hicks that the council recognizes the necessity for the construction without delay of an isolation hospital in view of the recurrence of epidemics of contagious diseases and the hardships caused thereby and believe that the plans and contract now made are very satisfactory but cannot be carried out with the amount which the council has authority to spend and therefors recommends the submission to the people of a by-law to raise the full amount necessary to meet all expenditures involved.

Ald. Morrow said that so far as Ald. Hicks' statement about going to the people was concerned he was not opposed to going to the people. But the Property Committee, of which Ald. Hicks was a member, had had the matter in hand all the year and they had brought in no recommendation during the summer to go to the people which should been done.

Ald. Hicks seconded Ald. Duffus' motion. He said that it was true he had not attended all the meetings of the Property Committee and he was not at the meeting when the Property Committee brought in their recommendation to submit the matter to the people. When that recommendation was read to the council he supported it and has done so ever since. He was not responsible in any way for that recommendation.

Aldermen Morrow and Duncan moved in amendment to Ald. Duffus' motion that the work be proceeded with at once if the Property Committee can make satisfactory arrangements with Mr. J. Rose.

A couple of the aldermen stated that they did not believe that the work could be done for the $15,000, and could not favor going on with the work.

The motions were then put and the amendment was lost.

The yeas and nays were called for as follows:

Yeas—Aldermen Phelan, Gillespie, Turner, Morrow, Duncan.

Nays—Aldermen Duffus, Buller, Hicks, McIntyre, Metheral, Bradburn.

Ald. Duffus motion was then put and resulted as follows;

In favor—6.
Opposed—5.

Mayor Rush said—"Since you have decided to go to the people I would like to see a bylaw prepared which will provide a first-class hospital and completely equipped."

To this all the laldermen said Hear! hear!

Ald. Buller said he would like the chairman of the Property Committee to see Mr. Rose if his tender will stand good in case the bylaw is carried.

On motion the cheques from the contractors were ordered to be returned.

Potato Pickers' Union Struck for More Money

Fraserville, Oct. 11.—The youngsters in and around this village have formed a Potato Pickers' Union, and have refused to pick potatoes for less than seventy-five cents per day. The youthful unionists, about 10 in number were engaged to pick some potatoes the other day by a prominent farmer of this vicinity, and when they arrived for the day's work, were offered fifty cents for the day, they immediately dropped their pails saying they would go home before they would take less than seventy-five. The farmer was unable to get other help and was forced to come up to the requested rate. The boys have admitted since, however, that a seventy-five cent day is harder than a fifty-center, to put it in their own words.

If the plans of the aldermen carry out there will be another meeting of the council to night for the purpose of opening up negotiations between the C.P.R. re the entrance of the new grain route from Georgian Bay to the city. Up to the time of going to press the mayor had not received a reply from Mr. Leonard of the C.P.R., but he expects one today and he also expects that Mr Leonard, or an authorized representative of the company will be here.

Besides the members of the council the Board of Trade will be represented and many of the leading citizens and ratepayers will be present as well as a large number of residents from the west end of the city whose property will be affected.

POST CARD PETITION.

The Toronto District Women's Christian Temperance Union has instituted a post card petition in behalf of Mrs. Anna Robinson, now under sentence of death at Sudbury. Acting under legal advice, we, with good reason, believe if this campaign succeeds, her life will be spared and her friends will have time in which to take further measures.

We make through the courtesy and generosity of the press a three-fold appeal.

1. Will every editor who receives this appeal kindly publish it in his next issue?
2. Will every man and woman who reads this request comply with its demands?
3. Will you do it AT ONCE, for the unhappy victim has only six weeks to live.

Our request is, write a postal card as follows :—

"I respectfully beg of you to recommend that the death sentence passed on Anna Robinson be commuted."

DYSPEPSIA AS IT BEGINS.

This Stage Easily Cured.

One of the most common symptoms of stomach disorder is a sense of fullness or lightness after eating. This indicates that the stomach needs help. Belching of gas frequently follows, the tongue is coated, the bowels become irregular, until finally, in addition to the stomach distress, constipation adds its deadly influence in destroying health.

The treatment is simple and if employed promptly and reasonably persevered with, cure is speedy and permanent. Take Dr. Hamilton's Pills in full doses every second or third night, then three times a week, one pill at bed time.

The first effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills is to excite activity of the liver and kidneys. This cleanses the system and prepares the stomach for vigorous work. Gastric juice is abundantly secreted, digestion of food and not its fermentation, marks stomach activity with total absence of gas and removal of other symptoms of perverted action.

For good health, vigorous appetite and the best digestion, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. No other medicine will do so much good. Price 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Invaluable to Every Farmer

Its Wonderful Power in Curing Sick Cattle and Colicky Horses Makes "Nerviline" Worth its Weight in Gold.

The stockman or farmer that doesn't know of the thousand and one uses of "Nerviline" around the stable, has a great deal to learn. "Why, I wouldn't think of locking my stable door at night without knowing I had a supply of 'Nerviline' on hand. I always get a dozen bottles at a time from my druggist.

"To cure colic in NERVILINE digestion and bad stomach in a horse or cow there is no CURES remedy on earth in the same class as COLICKY Nerviline'. Last summer I had a $250 HORSES horse that got the scours, and I would have lost him if I hadn't been able to give him Nerviline. I poured a full bottle of Nerviline in a pint of water down his throat and saved his life. I know of neighbors who have saved many heads of valuable stock, stricken with colic, just by using Nerviline. It is equally good as a rub-on liniment, and I know from my experience that for man or beast internally or externally, 'Nerviline' is worth a dollar a drop."

James E. McCullough,
Stock Breeder, etc.

You will not regret using Nerviline—but see you get it and not something else, 25c. per bottle or five for $1.00, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont. 21

OCTOBER, TUESDAY 12, 1909.

FEDERATION OF THE WORLD.

So long as there is no strange peace agreement among nations, it is idle to expect any decline in military and naval preparations for war. The nations will increase their armaments, pay heavier charges for maintenance, and give more and more attention to drill and discipline. Each of them will strive to develop the most effective fighting machine, will encourage inventive genius to devise the most destructive instruments of attack, and displace the old ships and guns with new ones as rapidly as it can find the means for doing so. This is emphatically the logic of the situation, and it should be admitted without demur by peace advocates. They are certainly not practical when they protest against efforts to perfect the machine while it is held for use.

But, though this is true, it does not prove that the movement to bring about a comprehensive scheme of arbitration is not practical. The peace committee of the National German-American Alliance speaks of a federation of all nations, based on a mutual guarantee of their independence and their possessions, and it should certainly be possible for the great powers to arrive at an understanding that would do away with the need of vast armies and navies. For ostensibly their chief external concern now, is commercial expansion. They are not trying to acquire new territorial possessions or to divide the earth over again. The developments of the last thirty years have led to a partition that is satisfactory upon the whole and that could not be disturbed without causing the most perplexing international complications. War is against the common interest of all nations. An old-fashioned land-grabbing campaign would be generally discountenanced. The objects are pretty well reduced to the gratification of national hatreds and of pride in the display of national strength. If moral reasons do not count against such objects there are material reasons that must count heavily. Why bear the burdens imposed by military budgets if there are no substantial gains in sight? Why put off much-needed domestic reforms and permit taxes to be indulge in the bloody sport of an armed conflict?

Obviously common sense and the interests of the masses are against war. Its adherents who talk so much of the practical are swayed by passion, romantic traditions and melodramatic impulses. The reasons on the side of arbitration agreements are of such a nature that, tested by human experience, they should prevail, and given the agreements there would soon be a reduction of armaments.

Members' Banquet.

The local Y.M.C.A. is making arrangements for a members' banquet on the evening of October 19th that promises to surpass anything of the kind ever held by the association. During the evening the Howden and Eastwood trophies and the other prizes in connection with the recent meet at Riverside Park will be presented.

THE NEXT MOVE.

The Stars and Stripes were nailed to the North Pole, according to Cook and Peary, and now a British sailor is planning on a dash to antarctic regions that he may nail the Union Jack to the other pole. This intrepid sailor is Captain Scott, whose voyage to the southern polar regions in the Discovery several years ago won him fame as an explorer.

What difference it makes whether or not the South Pole is ever found is something which will puzzle a great many people. But the same spirit which has animated explorers for centuries still glows in the men who seek the unknown and they defy dangers, suffering and death to force their way to the secrets of the world. Britishers the world over may doubt the good that Scott may accomplish but national pride will fan their enthusiasm over his undertaking and make strong the desire for his success.

POSITION OF AMERICA.

The statement of Lord Northcliffe published in the Tribune was interest not so much because of what he had to say regarding the evidence of German preparation for war with England as for what he said reagrding the attitude of the United States.

Certain English sentimentalists and their kin in New York and Massachusetts have been singing the refrain that "blood is thicker than water," or have been stretching ineffectual hands acroos the sea. It passes the comprehension of the student of international relations why these good Anglophiles or Philo-Americans imagine that an isolated nation, actuated by nations, self-interest and subject to German as well as English influence, would interfere in a European international struggle.

A little later the Tribune will publish a series of articles on the English German situation in its relation to the United States, which also wil be published in the London Times. The question, therefore, can be dismissed today with the sentiment that Lord Northcliffe is a better judge of American sentiment than the vapid sheets which think American neutrality is consistent with appreciation of English worth.—Chicago Tribune.

J. Pierpont Morgan has tried to buy a royal castle in Italy and failed although he offered $5,000,000 for it, the Italian government claiming that no foreigner should be permitted to own the historic pile. In order to overcome the difficulty Mr. Morgan might buy Italy and thus cease to be a foreigner in that country.

DIVORCE RATE.

Washington, Oct. 9.— The Census Bureau has published a comprehensive report on marriage and divorce. The investigation of the subject was undertaken by direction of congress and grew out of a conference in this city between representatives of various religious denominations. The investigation has extended over a period of nearly five years.

"Apparently the divorce rate, like the velocity of a falling body, is constantly increasing," says the report, "and it is impossible to determine statistically from available data just what the results would be if the rate reached at any particular time remained constant; in other words, no statistics bearing on this question of the duration of marriages terminated by divorce have been obtained that accurately represent present conditions or conditions at any particular period, for the conditions are not static, but dynamic."

The statistics cover a period from 1867 to the end of 1906, and the total number of marriages recorded was 12,832,034. The investigation showed that in the twenty years covered the number of divorces granted was 945,625. In the twenty years from 1867 to 1886 the number was about 328,716, hardly more than one-third of the number recorded in the second twenty years. The report says that each successive five-year period since 1867 has witnessed a marked increase in the number of divorces.

HOW TO WIN.

Determination and Unity of Purpose Will Work Wonders.

Once you have chosen your occupation or profession hold fast thereto. Let nothing allure you from the main traveled road. Having chosen, hold like steel. Make everything feed into the main current of your life. Even modest talents, organized and unified, have conquered great distinction and worldwide success. History is full of illustrations of the unifying power of a great purpose. Witness the poor child Hastings looking at a distant manor house that once had belonged to his father. The determination to win back that estate before he died lent power and momentum and produced Lord Hastings. Witness the influence of purpose upon that little Scotch boy, out upon a holiday on the banks of the Clyde, with three precious coppers as his entire possession. He determined to build a house on the hilltop overlooking the river and forty years later moved into the castle, from which he looked down upon twenty ocean steamers he had built. Witness the purpose of William the Silent, filling all the days and nights for the hero struggling to deliver brave little Holland from Spain. Witness Milton's vow to write a poem that the world would not willingly let die and who therefore lived an epic life. Witness Paul's resolution to do one thing and one thing alone and who, with that unit purpose, achieved democracy for all subsequent peoples and centuries. Aimlessness will make your life like a sand heap.—Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis.

FULL OF HUMAN INTEREST.

Landscapes of the Dutch Painters of the Seventeenth Century.

The Dutch painters of the seventeenth century were as little concerned with poetic feeling as with idealism. They used their eyes and painted what they saw, but neither their imaginations nor their feelings were touched While most modern painters interpret how the scene has affected themselves, the Dutch looked at it as something entirely outside themselves.

Otherwise the Dutch landscapes present us pictures of a pleasant workaday world or of the quiet evenings that follow after the labors of the day—never a hint of disturbance, though war and rumors of war were constant; instead, the perpetual suggestion of prosperous peace and thrifty comfort, for they abound with the evidences of busy humanity. Not only is nature brought into touch with human life by the little figures, so charmingly lifelike, which animate the scene, but everywhere are the results of man's handiwork seen in little things as well as big—in the trimly kept fruit trees of a laborer's garden plot no less than in the handsome facade of a rich burgher's town house. There is no country in the world where the influence of man is so minutely imprinted these artists were eager to represent the things they saw so landscapes are so full of human interest as theirs.—Charles H. Caffin in St. Nicholas.

Her Home.

Some years ago, when a part of the Japanese imperial palace was burned at Tokyo, the empress was forced to flee to one of the old daimio houses near by. It was not at all comfortable, and, as the story goes, her majesty, appreciating that her subjects would be much concerned at her living in such a mean place, sat down and wrote them a little poem in which she denied that she had changed her residence. The poem, which was in the best Japanese language, stated that her majesty's home had always been in the hearts of the people and that neither the flames nor the cold could ever drive her from that dear abode.

The Dead Larks.

In Baluchistan even the wolves go mad. In his book, "The Frontiers of Baluchistan," G. P. Tate writes: "The shepherds give a strange reason for the epidemic of rabies. According to them, it was caused by the wild beasts eating dead larks. In some years, they said, the larks develop extraordinary vitality and pour forth such a flood of songs as they rise on the wing that they become suffocated and fall to the ground dead. A wild animal which eats one of these dead birds invariably develops rabies. This is a widespread superstition and seems not unfamiliar to the natives of India who were with me."

A Butchers' Common.

William, earl of Warren, in the time of King John, while standing upon the castle walls saw two bulls fighting in the castle meadow till all the butcher dogs pursued one of the maddened bulls quite through the town. The sight pleased the earl so much that he gave the castle meadows, where the duel of the bulls began, for a common to the butchers of the town, after the first grass was mowed, on condition that they should find a mad bull the day six weeks before Christmas day for the continuance of that sport forever.—London Standard.

MAN'S ENEMIES.

The Small Foes Are the Most Deadly and Destructive.

In one of Herbert Wells' brilliant stories the terribly scientific and practically invincible Martians who have invaded the earth and conquered England are stopped in the midst of their victories and utterly destroyed by the attacks of microscopic foes. Infinitely small organisms, germs of diseases to which man has become in some degree immune, slay the wonderful warriors of a planet never invaded by those earth foes. What the greatest battleships and the heaviest guns could not do the unseen and unknown living seeds of death accomplish.

More clearly every day the world understands that in the life and affairs of mankind the most deadly and destructive foes are extremely small. All of the fierce mammals and poisonous serpents of Africa do not kill as many human beings in ten years as the tsetse fly slays in one. The tigers and cobras of India kill their thousands every year, but the rats which spread the germs of the bubonic plague destroy their tens of thousands. In this country the common housefly undoubtedly causes more deaths than all the venomous snakes, wild beasts, mad dogs, runaway horses and ill tempered bulls ten times over. The actual proportion is probably much higher than ten to one.

MAN AND MONKEY.

Difference Between the Human and Animal Method of Thought.

The difference between the animal and the human idea of what constitutes "knowing" comes out nicely in a piece of work done at Clark university—A. J. Kinsman's study of rhesus monkeys, the Bandar-log of the "Jungle Book."

The monkey, following the usual procedure, learned to get his food from a box, the lid of which fastened with a key. The key, however, could not be withdrawn from the lock. After the monkey had become familiar with the device and could operate it as readily as a man could do the experimenter took the key out of the lock and laid it on the floor in front of the box. The monkey picked up the key, played with it, but made no attempt to use it. Then the experimenter took up the key, and, fifty times in succession, with the monkey two feet away watching every motion, he unlocked the box. The monkey would have starved before he imitated that simple act. He had learned to open the box by making certain movements. He had no idea of the key as an instrument in the process. We sometimes think instruments and means and causes. The animal thinks largely by motions.—E. T. Brewster in McClure's Magazine.

A Rare Opportunity.

When the circus came to Bunkby the large attendance was a surprise to Squire Bemis, and he said as to Willis Hamlin, the postmaster,

Fine Crops.

"Do you raise anything worth while in your garden?" said the visitor from the city.

"I should say so," answered Mr. Crosslots. "It's the best place for fishing worms in the entire village."

Plain Talk.

"I think she's double faced."

A Matrimonial Catch.

A remarkably active peer in this Commons is Earl Winterton, the "baby" of the last Parliament, so called because he was elected, while Viscount Turnour, when he was only twenty-one. His lordship has proved himself a young man of energy and vigilance in the House, but apparently politics do not allow him sufficient scope, for it has just been announced that he is to fill the editorial chair of The World. The earl writes as well as he speaks, and in addition is a keen sportsman. Furthermore, he possesses the distinction of being a grandson of that social genius, the late Duvergier Duchess of Abercorn. In fact, someone who has counted up says that his lordship has more relatives of exalted rank than anybody else in the United Kingdom, and that the women who wins him—for he is still a bachelor—will be related by marriage to fifteen dukes, two marquesses, two earls, several barons, and a correspondingly number of marchionesses and countesses.

A Butchers' Common.

William, earl of Warren, in the time of King John, while standing upon the castle walls saw two bulls fighting in the castle meadow till all the butcher dogs pursued one of the maddened bulls quite through the town. The sight pleased the earl so much that he gave the castle meadows, where the duel of the bulls began, for a common to the butchers of the town, after the first grass was mowed, on condition that they should find a mad bull the day six weeks before Christmas day for the continuance of that sport forever.—London Standard.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-2 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—16 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 200,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $500. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

Up to the present time, the Turquoise Copper Co., has been practically a close corporation; an initial offering of 100,000 shares has just been made at 25 cents, par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable. Proceeds will be used to further continue the development work already begun.

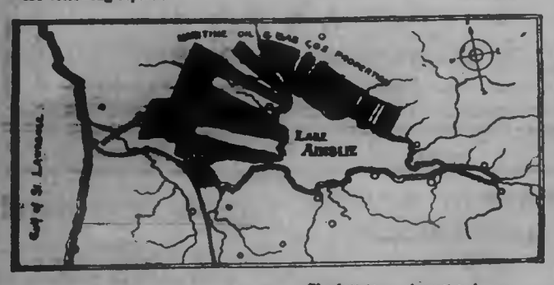
PROPERTY

The property of the Company consists of leases for oil and gas of about 25,000 acres of the best oil lands in the Lake Ainslie District, County of Inverness, Cape Breton. This district has been known for years to be an oil district. Recently Mr. F. H. Stover, who is rightly considered to be one of the best oil experts in America, examined the property, and after a thorough and searching examination his opinion of the possibilities of this property is contained in the following report:



Charlottetown, August 2nd, 1909

To the Directors of The Maritime Oil & Gas Company Limited:

Dear Sirs,—I beg to say that I have thoroughly examined the properties held under lease by your company for oil and gas, and as a result of the examination I beg to report:—

1st. I am familiar with the oil regions of Pennsylvania West Virginia, Ohio, and Ontario, having operated largely in these districts for the last twenty five years.

2nd. In my opinion Lake Ainslie District shows almost exactly the same indications of oil as appeared in Oil Creek in Pennsylvania, which has been the greatest oil producing district in America. Oil Creek was the only district where oil in any quantity was to be found seeping from the rocks, and in the Lake Ainslie District the same conditions are to be found. The oil is seeping from the rocks on the shores of the Lake. The difference between the two districts is that the oil sand rock in the Lake Ainslie district is thicker and hence more liable to be a better producing oil sand. I have taken samples of the oil as it comes from the rock, and I find that the oil is of a very high lubricating quality, and will require but little refining to make it a very valuable lubricating oil. I consider that there is no question of the existence of a very large quantity of oil and gas in this property, and the prospects of striking oil upon the Company's property are of the very best.

Yours truly F. H. STOVER

After the examination Mr Stover immediately became financially interested in the Company, and has accepted the office of President and General Manager of the Company.

The Company proposes to drill several wells upon this property at once, and for that purpose arrangements have been made with Messrs. Stover Bros., oil contractors, to place a first-class drilling equipment upon the property, this much can be said—it is the very best equipment possible to obtain for this purpose, and it is such that the contractors guarantee that under the conditions such as they expect to find in Lake Ainslie their equipment will drill a well to the depth of three thousand feet in two months.

STOCK.

Mr Alexander G. Baillie, of Port Hastings, is Trustee for a certain portion of the Company's stock, which is offered for sale for the purpose of development. Of this stock it is proposed to sell a block of three hundred thousand shares, starting at five cents per share.

200 shares	10.00
300 shares	15.00
400 shares	20.00

2,000 shares	100.00

PROSPECTS FOR INVESTORS

The history of the oil business in America, from its very inception to the present date, is one continuous story of financial success. Thousands of men, formerly poor, became enormously wealthy. More money has been made out of oil than out of any industry in the world today. When oil is once struck by the Oil Company the value of the stock is increased enormously. The following is a small list of the oil companies in operation less than three years, showing the original price of their stock and the highest price it has reached:—

	Original Price	Highest Price
New York Oil Co	$ .50	$ 200.00
Equa Oil Co	1.00	1,200.00
Illinois Oil Co	.50	5.00
Equa River Oil Co	1.00	26.00
Portland Oil Co	.50	5.00
Standard Oil Co	5.00	110.00
Home Oil Co	5.00	5,000.00

Contracts have been entered into on behalf of the Company, and to which the Company is a party with William Harrington, of Lake Ainslie, in the County of Inverness, dated July 9th, 1909, and Alexander G. Baillie, of Port Hastings, dated August, 1909, which contracts are on file in the office of the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, Halifax.

Why She Took Up Her Abode at the Bottom of a Well.

"I am naked," said Truth, and shivered. "Come here," said the Grafter, "and I will dress you as you should be dressed." And so Truth was rigged out in the garments he provided for her. She presented a sorry figure, and many people took her for an effigy. Looking at herself in the glass, she discovered that something was wrong. And so she flung aside the garments and started forth once more.

"I am still naked," she moaned.

"As if," cried the Scientist, "I hadn't been waiting all these years to show you just how you should be garbed." And so he caught her, and fitted her out with a complete wardrobe. It certainly looked alluring. Truth was fetching in the extreme. She looked so convincing that she was almost ready to believe she had now become, through the force of outward appearances, the real thing. But alas! Her colors did not wear. As fast as her clothes were made for her by this new tailor they faded. And so once more Truth stole away and denuded herself.

"Still naked," she murmured.

A theologian came along.

"And so," he said, "perhaps you will be ready now to believe that I can improve your appearance." And he promptly togged her out in surplice and stole and put a solemn mask on her face.

Truth stood it as long as she could. "I am suffocating," she exclaimed at last, and tore off the mask and the other robes and started to run away.

"Come here," said Good Society, "and I will give you precedence over the mighty."

But Truth shook her head.

"Sorry," she replied, "but I have a permanent engagement at the bottom of a well. No one will trouble me there, as there are too many germs."

And so Truth found herself at last.

PUT ON TO A NEW WRINKLE.

City Salesman Learned Something About Regulation of Watches.

"After carrying a watch for 30 years I have just learned something new in watch lore," said the city salesman. "I don't know whether it is true or not, but an old watchmaker told me. I bought a watch of him the other day. It was a cheap watch. He said:

"'What pocket are you going to carry your watch in—the right or left?'

"'Then,' said he, 'I will regulate it for the left.'

"I asked what difference it made, and he declared that a watch runs faster on the left side than on the right, so to keep it from gaining time he regulates it accordingly. In fine watches the difference is hardly worth considering, but in watches of cheap make like mine it is very noticeable. I asked for a scientific reason for this variation. He could give none; said he only knew it was true, and then, whether he was joking or not, he pretended to regulate my watch for the left pocket."

A Legal Triumph.

A seasoned old lawyer was cross examining a recalcitrant witness. The question at issue was the identification of an individual charged with assault and battery. For some time the lawyer endeavored to break down the attempt on the part of the witness to describe the guilty party, and at last, becoming irritated, he put the following question:

"You say the assailant had black hair?"

"I did,' calmly replied the witness.

"It is brown," was the answer.

Thereupon the lawyer rose to his feet, and snatching off his wig, which disclosed a pate as bald as an egg, bellowed out as he glanced in triumph toward the jury box, "What is the color of it now?"—Harper's Weekly.

Jim Crow.

The crow is the cheough and daw of Shakespeare, the raven of Poe, and the jackdaw, magpie and rook of English story writers. His inky highness is a remarkably cunning bird, and an arrant rogue, but superstitious withal, for, great corn thief that he is, a common white string strung on poles around a field will keep him out better than would a tight fence a mile high. If you have a gun you can't get near him; otherwise you can. I have seen him steal a hen's egg out of a nest and fly off with it, and he did it by running his beak through the shell at one end, and holding the delicious morsel close to his breast by bending his neck, and so flying away."—New York Press.

The Last Leisure.

Leisure is gone—gone where the spinning-wheels are gone, and the pack horses and the slow wagons, and the peddlers who brought bargains to the door on sunny afternoons. Ingenious philosophers tell you, perhaps, that the great work of the steam engine is to create leisure for mankind. Do not believe them; it only creates a vacuum for eager thought to rush in. Even idleness is eager now—eager for amusement; prone to excursion trains, art museums, periodical literature and exciting novels.—George Eliot.

A Wily One.

"While hunting in the woods I got on the track of a black bear, which I shot five times before he dropped!"

"A hard one to kill, eh?"

"Yes. Even after he dropped like as he was dead gamed!"—Saturday Magazine.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does the same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, delicacy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a Perfect Beer are ever in evidence.

HISTORIC WEAPONS.

Among the trophies of arms displayed on the walls of Windsor castle one of the most interesting of the long series is a group of weapons and armor sent to Queen Victoria by Lord Kitchener after the Dongola campaign on the upper Nile in 1896.

The trophy consists of a coat of hain mail, a number of spears and a long cross hilted sword. On the straight steel blade of the sword there is an inscription in odd fashioned letters: "No me saques sin razon. No me entrames sin honor."

The words are Spanish, but the same motto was inscribed on sword blades in the days of chivalry in most of the languages of Europe. Its meaning is the knightly rule for all who bear the sword: Do not draw me without reason. Do not sheathe me without honor.

The weapon was taken from the abandoned camp of Wad Bisharn, the dervish general, after the battle of Hafir (Sept. 22, 1896). How came a blade with such a motto to be found in a Moslem bivouac in the heart of the Sudan?

The presence of these crusader swords in the Sudan is not so difficult to explain. In the thirteenth century the Mohammedan caliphs of Egypt not only carried on successful wars against the crusaders in Syria, destroying the last vestiges of the Latin kingdom of Jerusalem, but also defeated two attempts of the Europeans to invade Egypt itself, one of them led by St. Louis of France.

Enormous quantities of western arms and warlike equipments must have thus passed into the possession of the Mohammedan conquerors.—Chambers' Journal.

BABY TALK.

An Infantile Habit That Sometimes Sticks and Breeds Trouble.

Once in awhile a rare stammering case comes to the laboratory where there's nothing the matter with the child—the matter is with his dear mamma. In 1905 Dr. Witmer examined a boy of twelve who talked baby talk—a bright, alert youngster, to all appearances normal. But nobody could understand a word he uttered—except mamma; she understood it all perfectly. "I—aw—ow—ay" was to her ear "I want to go out to play" as plain as anything could be. It was her tender custom to reply likewise, and she took pride in the thought that she had never allowed her Willie to associate with the children on the block. She had encouraged him to be her baby and "kept him from growing up too soon" by prattling to him.

Except for his unintelligible language, the examination did not reveal a defect, physical or mental, in the boy, and Dr. Witmer was forced to the conclusion that the trouble lay in the persistence of an infantile habit of articulation for which the mother was solely responsible. Through sentimentality and overindulgence "she had almost ruined his chances for a useful and possibly successful life." (Psychological clinic, March, 1907.) Months of painstaking, expert labor had to be expended upon him to break up the habit his mother had carefully developed before he could even begin to make himself understood by any one else.—Dr. Witmer of Yale in McClure's Magazine.

Almost Disbelieved Her Eyes.

"Among the memories of my boyhood," said a New York man, "there is one odd episode that is particularly vivid. It is a conversation that I overheard one morning as I walked toward the Boston high school between two women.

"The women were talking about babies—their size, weight, health, and so forth.

"'Why, when I was a week old,' said the first woman, 'I was such a little baby that they put me in a quart pot and put the lid on over me.'

"The other woman was amazed and horrified. 'And did you live?' she asked.

"'They say I did,' her friend answered.

"'Well, well, well!' exclaimed the second woman. And she glanced at the other almost doubtfully."

In the Wrong Place.

A one legged Welsh orator named Jones was pretty successful in bantering an Irishman, when the latter asked him:

"How did you come to lose your leg?"

"Well," said Jones, "on examining my pedigree and looking up my descent I found there was some Irish blood in me, and, becoming convinced that it was settled in the left leg, I had it cut off at once."

"By the powers," said Pat, "it would have been a very good thing if it had only settled in your head!"—London Mail.

The Fool.

He was a noble lord, and he was in an awful rage with one of his footmen.

"It is intolerable!" he exclaimed. "Are you a fool, or am I?"

"Oh, my lord," replied James, with humility, anxious to appease the great man, "I am sure you would not keep a servant who was a fool."

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with amazing success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it is constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another, everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

Mr. F. L. Greer has returned home after a pleasant visit with friends in Brockville and Ogdensburg.

A SPLENDID INVESTMENT.

At Lake Ainslie, Inverness county, Cape Breton, oil has been oozing out of the sand rock at the edge of the lake for many years. The oil is of a very superior quality, almost free from any odor or smell, a very important matter in a lubricating oil. Even in its crude state the farmers who use it testify to its superior qualities for lubricating purposes, and different analysis show it a high grade oil requiring very little refining. Efforts in the past to locate the oil basin proper appliances, partly through want of system in carrying on the work and lack of capital. In Mr. Stover's opinion in years gone by they did not drill in the right locality.

The Maritime Oil and Gas company, limited, incorporated June 28th, 1909, acquired considerable property at the organization of the company, and since then F. H. Stover accompanied by A. G. Baillie, secured personally many thousands of acres round Lake Ainslie, from farmers who, for many years would not lease their lands until they felt satisfied that practical, experienced and successful oil men had taken hold, who meant business. In this way nearly twelve miles (with the exception of a few farms) were secured around Lake Ainslie, running back a mile and a quarter from the lake and in some case with rear lots extending their area two and three miles. These leases are for twenty years, or as long after as oil and gas are produced. The owner of the soil is to receive five barrels of oil out of each one hundred produced, and free gas for his house use. The Maritime Oil and Gas company, limited, in acquiring this additional very valuable territory will assure every investor in the company, if oil is struck, a large investment for his money. The Maritime Oil and Gas company's prospectus appears on another page.

CHICAGO SPENDER MAKES HIT.

Walla Walla, Wash., Oct. 11.—Henry C. Ostermann, the millionaire freight car manufacturer of Chicago, has been here only four days, but he has startled the natives by spending $3,000 in his own way. Other attractions have dropped to second place since the arrival of this modern Croesus Sunday with Mrs. Ostermann and his business associate, W. H. Brennan, in an automobile. Mr. Ostermann put the touring-car in the repair shop and started to have a good time.

These are a few of the things he did:

Allowed no one to buy a drink; grabbed a $10 bill from the bar, where another man has laid it, and, after tearing it into pieces, gave the owner another bill and bought him a drink; paid a band $20 whenever it played a piece he asked for hired the band for a dance, tore a $100 bill in two and gave the leader half, promised the remainder later, and, after giving the bandmaster the other half and $30 more, gave a handful of $5 gold pieces to small boys; gave no tips less than $1.

Henry C. Ostermann is president of the Ostermann Manufacturing Company, West Pullmen, Ill., builders and repairers of cars, and lives at 6534 Monroe avenue. He left Chicago two months ago for a trip through the West, and at the Ostermann residence last night it was said he had been in Walla Walla for only a day or two. It was not known when he would return Chicago.

A pain prescription is printed upon each 25c. box of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Ask your Doctor or Druggist if this formula is not complete. Head pains, womanly pains, pains anywhere get instant relief from a Pink Pain Tablet.

South Monaghan Monsters.

Mr. Joseph Byers, South Monaghan called at The Times sanctum yesterday morning under the burden of the really, biggest potato. This tremendous tuber, which looks not unlike a flattened pink pumpkin, is called in the catalogues the "Mammoth Wonderful," and it well deserves the name. Mr. Rogers' specimen weighs two pounds, nine and one-half ounces, and is probably the largest potato ever grown in this country. It is an early ripening, good yielding potato of good quality.

To Buckhorn.

Messrs. N. A. Lloyd and Chas. Cosgrove of Cincinnati arrived in the city Sunday morning on their way to Buckhorn where they will spend the next week or ten days' fishing This is Mr. Lloyd's eight annual trip to the Northern fishing grounds for the sport which he keenly loves. He had previously met with encouraging results in the vicinity of Buckhorn and is hopeful of again landing some of the best of the finny tribe. A number of years ago he hooked a thirty-five pound lunge which he had mounted and which now adorns one of the walls of his den in his home in Cincinnati.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Will the City Erect a House of Refuge to Care for the Poor?

Annual Meeting of Peterborough Protestant Home—City Should Provide an Institution for the Poor

The past year has been a successful one for the Protestant Home. The annual meeting was held yesterday afternoon when a large number were present and great interest was shown in the work.

The main topic for discussion was the future provision for the care of the city's poor. The members seemed inclined to the belief that the city should provide an institution for this purpose and they were strengthened in that belief by the fact that the department and the grand jury had frequently referred to Peterborough as needing an industrial home or house of refuge or some such institution where proper care could be taken of the poor of the city.

The Board of the Home were of one mind in the attitude toward the housing of men. They believe that their efforts should be devoted to the aged and needy women only and that the city itself should look after the men. If this were done their efforts would be much more successful and they believe more would be accomplished.

After the minutes were read and adopted, Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, secretary of the board, presented her report which showed that good work had been done by the home in the care of 27 needy cases.

The report referred to the very regrettable fact that Miss Fraser, superintendant, had resigned, but her place will be filled by Miss Webster of Lakefield, a very competent person

TREASURER'S REPORT.

Miss Brown read the treasurer's report which showed a balance on hand of about $400. The board's income was $2,000. Of this $400 was paid in salaries and $1200 was paid for food, etc., necessary for the main tenances.

Both reports were adopted.

Duke of Bedford Too Poor to Give Tenants Their Annual Dinner

Did you read this:

"The Duke of Bedford has sent word that on account of the new expenditures (incident to the tax levied by Mr. Lloyd-George's Budget) he will have to do away with the old custom of giving his tenants a supper on the birthday of his eldest son?

And also this: "The Duke of Buccleuch announced his inability to pay his annual subscription to the football team on his estate?"

When I read it aloud to a number of men yesterday, one of them was wicked enough to exclaim "Poor Devils!"

The latter of these poverty-stricken creatures has an income of $1,500,000 a year—while the Duke of Bedford is in receipt of a yearly income of $2,000,000, and still too poor to give his tenants a birthday supper! How sad! One hardly knows whom to pity most—the tenants, or the son?

It may be news to many of our readers to learn that the Duke of Bedford owns twenty acres of the best city land on earth in the heart of London, in addition to 80,424 acres just outside the metropolis. (Is it any wonder that he and his associate, English landlords are worried over the Budget? And think of it! Some Canadians, to say nothing of Irishmen, are cruel enough to wish not only that the Budget will sweep the country, but "worry the life" out of them).

Every pound of produce that comes into Covent Garden Market helps to bring a big revenue to the personal estate of the Duke because the market belongs absolutely to him in fee simple. His agents have an office within the precincts of the market, and they levy a tax of from one cent up to five cents on every crate, box, barrel or truck load of fruit or vegetables which passes thru the greatest clearing house for farm produce in the world. The duke's income from there tolls alone amounts to over $125,000 a year, to say nothing of the rents which he charges for stalls and offices within the market itself, and for the ground rent on which the buildings stand.

His landed interests give him an exclusive monopoly over the market produce of London. Not only does he wield despotic sway over the market itself, but levies a toll on all vehicles bringing produce to the market which come to rest in any street within a quarter of a mile of the market. In the early morning nearly every street converging on the market is literally blocked with carts, waggons, barrows and steam lorries bringing truck from the country. Each one of these vehicles has to pay a toll to the duke for standing in the streets while waiting to be unloaded, and the consignees also have to pay an additional tax per pound on the produce itself. What adds greatly to the duke's revenue is the fact that a large number of theatres are on the property. He charges enormous ground rents for these structures and exercises almost tyrannical control over them. Several of these places have had to shut down owing to their inability to pay dividends, the rents eating up all the profits!

As a rule, Londerers take very little interest in questions of social economy, and they would be quite content to let the Duke of Bedford enjoy his enormous revenues so long as they did not find themselves directly affected by his ownership. But the control of Covent Garden market by the duke brings the matter home to the dinner table of every Londoner; and the duke's tolls on London fruits and vegetables are an actual tax on the pockets of the people. That is why the question of taxing the duke on his London property— and particularly on his revenue from Covent Garden—has recently become such a popular measure and we think we voice the prayer of every true democrat—every true Social reformer—every true Christian— when we express a hope that the Peoples' Budget may carry, and that this "rich man"—who will hardly" get into the Kingdom (as per statement of Christ) may be compelled to pay taxes on his enormously increased land values.

Under no circumstances is it needed more than in the selection of right food.

C.P.R. REPRESENTATIVES MET THE ALDERMEN AND CITIZENS

Proposition of the Railway Company was Explained—It is the Best Offer Ever Made to a City—Practically Nothing is Asked from the City

Mr. J. Oborne, general superintendant of the C.P.R., and Mr. J. C. Sullivan, manager of construction, and Mr. W. S. Dodd, local agent, were the representatives of the C.P.R., at the council meeting last night when the council took up for the first time the proposition the company made to the city in reference to the new grain route. The C.P.R. men explained fully their proposition and pointed out that it was the most reasonable one ever made to a city. They asked the city for no cash. All they wanted was to close a few streets in lieu of which they give three subways and for a piece of barren waste land known as the water front, which the company would have to spend many thousands of dollars in before it could be serviceable for freight yards. The city would also have the advantage of having the freight sheds right near the heart of the business section which would mean a big saving in cartage to the shippers.

Several aldermen and citizens spoke on the matter and asked a number of questions. The opposition was very mild from the city people. As a matter of fact very little damage will be done to the city as the road only passes through a small portion of the west end from Jackson Park to about Homewood Ave. and then down to the south end it runs through a small piece of property before it strikes the main line. Those who will be affected most are the people who live in the township. The railway runs through their farms but the city property is not much effected.

His Worship opened the meeting by stating that the subject for discussion was the proposed extension of the C.P.R. He said that Mr. Oborne and Mr. Sullivan were present on behalf of the company, and he called upon them to speak.

MR. JAS OBORNE.

Mr Oborne was called upon first to address the aldermen. He said Mr Leonard was called to address the Railway Commission meeting. The time had come for a decision as to whether the new air line from Victoria Harbor to connect with the main line would come to Peterborough or by the more direct way to Havelock. It would be a little cheaper to go to Havelock but owing to the importance of Peterborough the company desired to come here if they could do so at a reasonable rate. The proposition made to the city was very reasonable. It asked for the closing of certain streets in the west part of the city and also just west of the station and in lieu of this subways would be given at Park street and one in the west part of the city to cross the Monaghan road. In the south three crossings are to be closed and a subway will be given at the join of Park and Rubidge streets, or that vicinity. Out near the park there are a number of streets which exist on paper only and some real streets. Also the diversion of the Monaghan road at Homewood avenue is asked for and at that point another subway will be built. In addition to the closing of these streets the city controls property leading to the Quaker Oats Co., and this would be required for local freight yards, while the present yards would be used as junction yards. The company asks that these be given them by the city.

MR. J. C. SULLIVAN.

Mr. Sullivan said one of the main objects of the C.P.R. was to get the good will of the people. The interest of the company and the city are mutual.

From Victoria Harbor to Havelock via Peterborough was one and a half mile further. The cost of construction direct to Havelock would be a little heavier. But to double track from Peterborough to Havelock and the heavy grade for seven miles west of Peterborough would increase the cost by about $450,000 and the cost of operation is proportionately great er.

The question of the street crossing is one to be settled now while the road is building. The main idea of the company is to do away as far as possible with level crossings and to build subways so that no new level crossings can be built in future. Mr. Sullivan then took the map of the proposed route and explained it to the council. One thing he said was that the company was willing to pay the damages to adjoining property at the present time rather than to go into the thing with those damages to be settled latter.

The streets to be closed in the south part of the city are Park, Chamberlain, Rink and Drank. In lieu of this the company will build a subway.

At Weller and Elm streets the road would have to have a cut of about eight feet. At McDonald St., the track is about level with the road grade. The subway at Homewood avenue would not be depressed as the track is raised about 16 feet. From Charlotte street south they are going down grade. Charlotte and Sherbrooke streets are open.

MR. D. W. DUMBLE.

Mr. D. W. Dumble pointed out the general injury that the railways had done to the city by coming in in all directions and crossing the streets at all kinds of angles had done a permanent injury. He said he wanted the railroad and every effort should be made to get it, but the city, at the same time should prevent the railways doing this permanent damage. He thought the railway should cut across the townships and tap the main line farther west.

Mr. Oborne said in answer to Mr. R. Neill, that if the line went through Peterborough to Coldwater, it would be on the main line of the C.P.R. to the west. The grain trade will only last for two months in the fall so that the road must do a great deal of other business aswell.

To Ald. Morgan, Mr. Sullivan said there was no intention to make Peterborough other than a junction point. Havelock will remain a divisional point and will retain the round house and repair shops. But the construction of the road alone would mean the expenditure of millions here.

Mr. Oborne said that the advantages of being on a main line to the west were manifest and the person best qualified to give this information is the industrial commissioner. Hamilton has doubled its population by a liberal railway policy. He hoped Peterborough would take a liberal view of this matter. The offer of the company was the most liberal he ever knew of being made to a city and he had been railroading for 35 years. The company is asking nothing from the city in cash. They ask only for the closing of some streets and all admit that there are too many streets here now, and some waste barren land which will cost a great deal of money to fill up and made suitable for a freight shed. This new yard will save the local shippers a great sum in cartage and it will also be much more convenient. There are now 15 miles already built from Victoria Harbor to Coldwater. The C.P.R. did not have to come here.

City Engineer Hay asked Mr. Sullivan if the country two or two and a half miles west of the city had been thoroughly explored, as he remembered while engaged on the construction of the Missing Link line having struck a line which he though having struck a me which he thought would be a good one for the C.P.R. to follow.

Mr. Sullivan said the country had been thoroughly explored but that he would send the engineer up again to go over that property with Mr. Hay.

MR. G. W. HATTON.

Mr. G. W. Hatton, thought that the present proposed route of the C.P.R. would put the city in anything but an envious position. He pointed out that the road would be in direct competition with the Trent Valley canal. On the whole he said he could not see anything in the offer of the C.P.R.

Mr. W. C. Austin could not see any particular advantage to the city to have the railway coming here. If we were getting the car shops or something of that kind he would think seriously of the matter.

Mr. T. H. G. Denne said he was here to get information. He said that to the manufacturers of the city it was a very great advantage to get on a main route. One important advantage was that the city manufacturers would have a first call on empty cars. He would be glad to see another route further west if that was possible.

Mr. G. Walter Greene favored getting the line here. He would like to see several other roads here.

Mr. Vincent Eastwood said it appeared to him that if it was possible to get a route further west to take that and if it cost more that the city pay a portion of the extra cost.

Ald. Morrow moved the thanks of the council be tendered Mr Oborne and Mr. Sullivan for attending the meeting and that the council take the matter up with the Board of trade and come to some conclusion, and then invite the C.P.R. to again send an official here to meet the council.

Blythe Must Again Face Murder Charge

Toronto, Oct. 12.—According to the conclusion reached by the Crown Walter Blythe, who was granted a new trial by the Court of Appeal, will again have to stand trial for murdering his wife with a poker in their home at Agincourt.

In his argument before the court of Appeal T. C. Robinette, K. C., Blythe's counsel, said that if a stated case was granted he would save the country the expense of a new trial by pleading guilty to a charge of manslaughter. This would mean that Blythe would be saved from the gallows to spend the rest of his days in prison.

The opinion has been growing that such would be the outcome, but G. Tate Blackstock, K.C., who will act as Crown Prosecutor at the assizes next week, stated definitely to the press that there would be no lessing of the charge from that of the original one of murder.

The pleasant purgative effect experienced by all who use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and the healthy condition of the body and mind which they create, makes one feel joyful. 2

Nebulae and Cluster Stars were the Subject of Interesting Lecture

There was a very large attendance at the fortnightly meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society held in the Collegiate Institute last night. It was also one of the most interesting meetings the society has held. The speaker was eloquent and capable; his slides were most instructive and the whole lecture was extremely interesting.

Mr. Perry Jenkins of Hamilton, president of the Hamilton Center R.S.A., was the speaker. He was born in Wales and while there he was an active astronomer. He succeeded in building a telescopic reflector and with it he made several observations which at that time all the world was trying to make with but little success. He was enabled to make the observations by striking a time when the sky was not cloudy. He is a fellow of the R.S.A. of England.

Mr. Jenkins illustrated his lecture with lantern slides made from photos taken by himself. In opening he dealt with the trip which the Dominion Government caused to be made some years ago to Labrador when some 20 or 30 astronomers, including our own Rev. Dr. Marsh, went up to observe the eclipse of the sun. He showed several pictures taken on the trip including views of the different instruments used and of the scenery in that country. The explorers or travelers dug a hole in the ground when they arrived at their destination and erected a concrete pillar on which to erect their instruments, and it was the fact that the white man could make stone that filled the natives with amazement. They were more interested in that than in any of the instruments used.

The lecture proper dealt with the stars Nebulae and Cluster, and he showed his own photos of these two great gaseous clouds. There are only two of these clouds that can be seen by the naked eye, but with the telescope they have found 120,000 gas clouds. These gas clouds it appears have a definite revolution and in their turning round and round they gather together and become great burning clouds or aetars. He showed the progress of the clouds from the beginning, through their revolutionary action until they become stars and planets. It was these clouds that formed the sun and the earth and all the planets and solar system are separated parts of the sun. By the use of an instrument the chemists can tell the nature of the substance which is burning in these clouds.

At the conclusion of the lecture Rev. G. W. Henderson and Mr W. H. Collier moved a vote of thanks

SOCIETY NOTES.

Two weeks from last night Rev. Dr. Marsh will take the society on a geographical trip to the Carribean Sea, down in the Panama Canal district. He will show 75 slides which are photos taken by himself when he was down there.

Word has been received from Capt. Bernier, the world famous Arctic explorer, stating that he will give a lecturer before the Peterborough society just as soon as he is released from duty by the Dominion Government. Capt. Bernier's lecture will undoubtedly be looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure.

Mr. Stupart, the director of the meterological service at Toronto, commonly known as the weather man, and a very prominent lecturer will visit Peterborough a month from last night.

Evidence Points to the Mother Killing Her Little Babe

"We, the jury empanneled to inquire into the death of Dolan Sutter find that the child came to its death on or about Sept. 20th, near the home of Martin Sutter, by strangulation, and that in our opinion most of the evidence points to the mother Eva Sutter, as the one who caused the death.

Bracebridge, Oct. 12.—The above was the verdict returned last night by the coroner's jury in the case of the Sutter child, found dead in a swamp near the home of Martin Sutter, father of Eva, the child's mother, mentioned by the jury.

To the neighbors Eva said that her own father killed the child. Martin Sutter is a hard-working, respectable farmer, of Draper township, The father of the child, according to reports here, is a married man now living in the West.

Eva Sutter is now in jail here awaiting the preliminary hearing of her case before a magistrate. She is quite cheerful, and does not seem to realize the seriousness of her position.

EVIDENCE LAST NIGHT.

The court room was crowded when the inquest resumed last night. Hr. T. E. Godson appeared for Miss Sutter.

Drs. Williams and Colbeck conducted a post-mortem examination Saturday morning. Dr. Williams' report of the post-mortem was; There were no scars on the body. A piece of cotton rag was tightly tied around the neck. There were no wounds showing on the scalp. Each organ was healthy except that the throat was congested. We found no other cause of death than strangulation. We would consider it the body of a healthy child.

Dr. Colbeck of Bracebridge, said that conditions of the body pointed to strangulation. He could not say definitely how long the child had been dead.

Elizabeth Wetlaufer, a neighbor said that Eva Sutter lived about a mile and a quarter away.

"Eva was living at home till Sept 20th," she said. "I met her at Sharpe's Hill that day as I was going home. She was on a rig. I spoke as we passed. I knew Dolan, her boy. I didn't see him with her that day. I wrote to her soon after I went home. She replied. Miss Sutter never complained to me of her father's treatment to her. She seemed to be affectionate towards the child."

THE SISTER'S STORY.

"Eva came home late one Sunday night, and father said if she did not keep better hours she could leave. Eva didn't come down for breakfast next day. She was upstairs, and I got breakfast ready. About 9 o'clock she came down. Father was at the stable or barn then. She took the baby and a valise with her. It did not have shoes on and wore a red dress. It's head was bare. Father did not leave the house till after one o'clock. He went to the barn. He was building at the barn, and was back and forth to and from the house. He wasn't out to the swamp

Admiral Sutter, 11 years' old, said he was with his father all day and that the father was not away from the place: that he was in the house from the time Eva left until after dinner.

The crown attorney and coroner briefly addressed the jury, who, after an hour's deliberation, brought in the above verdict.

DERANGED KIDNEY ACTION.

Causes Florid Skin Blotches, Flushings.

Mrs. Conrad Somid, Hamilton, discovered what a great many women would like to know, the cause of redness, that unlike natural healthy color suffuses the entire face. It is humiliating indeed to a refined person to always present the appearance with "dram drinking." In writing of her case, Mrs. Schmid says: "Cosmetiques and local applications were quite useless. By reason of an aching pain in the back I was recommended by a friend to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills to relieve my kidneys. I discovered that failure of the kidneys to remove matter from the blood was the cause of my heightened color. Dr. Hamilton's Pills at once removed the cause of the pain and gave me a complexion that most young girls might envy. I have the most satisfactory proof that Dr. Hamilton's Pills not only regulate the organs but purify the blood thoroughly."

No other medicine will so quickly clear the skin, cure pimples, eruptions and all blemishes. For general family use, as a blood cleanser and tonic laxative, Dr. Hamilton's Pills can't be excelled. Beware of substitutes. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Declares He Was Employed by a Man in Toronto to Kill the Girl for Five Hundred Dollars

His Employer Said he had Been Jilted by the Kinrade Girl.—Bedford Was Remanded for a week.—Police Officers Think that the Self-confessed Murderer is Crazy.—His Confession Put in Writing.

London, Eng., Oct. 12.—Edward William Bedford appeared in the Bow street police court today. He is six feet tall, with clearcut features, slimly-built with fair hair and blue eyes. He gave his age as twenty-one. His answers to the magistrate were clear and decisive.

Bedford confessing to Superintendent Forest said, "I committed the murder in Hamilton, Canada, last year by shooting Miss Ethel Kinrade I have come to give myself up; I can not stand the worry of it any longer.

Bedford afterwards put his confession in writing, taking ten foolscap pages to tell his story. His statement was not read in court. A remand of one week was ordered.

Florence and Montrose Wright Hear and Talk of Confession—Knew It Would Come at Last

Calgary, Alta., Oct. 11.—"Thank God for that old man, you have brought us the best news we have had for many a long day, shake," said Montrose Wright, husband of Florence Kinrade, to a reporter when shown a despatch stating that a man named Bedford in London, England, had confessed to the murder of Ethel Kinrade.

This was the first intimation Mr. Wright had of the confession and it almost unnerved him.

The elated man went into the adjoining room from which a few seconds later there came a little cry. Then all was quiet for a few minutes.

"Do you think it is true," he asked eagerly. "Are you absolutely certain there is no chance of mistake. My God I only hope it is true.

As he spoke he alternately crumpled up the despatch and smoothed it out again with shaking hands, while his face was set in an effort to control the emotion he showed so plainly.

Asked if he or his wife ever knew a man named Bedford he again went in and saw his wife, and said though both had tried hard to place him they could not.

"Would Mrs. Wright know the murderer again, if she saw him?" he was asked and he replied:

"She has always maintained that she could recognize him and I believe she could. I suppose if the report is true it means a trip back east again and the reopening of the whole matter, but it is worth it. If wrong it will only serve to revive interest in the affair again.

Chest Inflamation

"NERVILINE" CURED QUICKLY.

"Anyone that goes through all that I suffered last winter will appreciate the value of a remedy that cures like Nerviline. These are the opening words of the solemn declaration of E. P. Von Hayden, the well-known violinist of Middleford. "My work took me, at first, into playing in cold, drafty places brought on a severe cold that settled in my chest. Then a harsh, rasping cough and fever pains began to go through my sides and settled in my shoulders. I used different liniments, but none broke up my cold till I used Nerviline. I rubbed it on my neck, chest and shoulders morning and night, and all the pain disappeared. Realizing that such a heavy cold had run down my system I took Ferrozone at meals, and was completely built up and strengthened. Since using Nerviline I have no more colds or pleurisy, and enjoy perfect health."

It's because Nerviline contains the purest and most healing essences and medicinal principles, because it has the power of sinking through the pores to the kernel of the pain, these are the reasons why it breaks up colds, cures lumbago, stiffness, neuralgia, sciatica and rheumatism. Refuse any substitute your dealer may suggest—insist on Nerviline only. Large 25c. bottles, five for $1.00. Sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

HIS HOUSE IN ORDER.

Field-Marshal Lord Kitchener leaves India for his new command conscious that he has done more than any of his predecessors to establish the Army in India on a basis not far removed from perfect, when the difficulties of the case are considered. Though the ex-Commander-in-Chief in that restless quarter of His Majesty's dominions was involved at one time—by no means entirely owing to his own fault—in a most acrimonious controversy with one Viceroy, the successor of the latter has been fully at one of Lord Kitchener on the eve of his departure to take up new responsibilities what the "world beneath" to India "an army better trained, equipped and paid than she had ever possessed before." Seven years have seen this ordered finally success effected, "seven years" during which the new Field-Marshal has worked whole-heartedly for the good of India and the Empire, and if he has had his own time, else the result must have fallen far short of what history can now record. And it must have been a far more difficult task than any which confronted him in Africa, North or South. His career in the Soudan and on the veldt would we imagine, be more grateful to him as a soldier than one in which he was compelled to meet, instead of open enemies, the bickerings and back-bitings from which no human survey is entirely free. Whatever, as Sirdar of the Army in Egypt, Commander-in-Chief against Boers after the return home of Lord Roberts, he was able to do work of a nature which particularly appeals to a public fond at all times and gifted with little foresight, his [illegible] personal popularity and [illegible] for as their writings prove this at any time, position, but in this day [illegible] shadows [illegible] the finest [illegible] that we can judge of how [illegible] they [illegible] will have [illegible] the obstacles with which [illegible] Kitchener contended. Briefly [illegible] are what [illegible] where he found the straw. The [illegible] in the [illegible] proved [illegible] soldiers [illegible] worthy [illegible] most brilliant military [illegible] long [illegible] the other hand, [illegible] the [illegible] organizer [illegible] as an administrator [illegible] the last organizer whose task was [illegible] Duke of [illegible] all [illegible] Chief and [illegible] Mediterranean [illegible] Kitchener will make of it something other than a sinecure, not counting the cost. If coming events truly cast their shadows before, we can, though hidden by the curtain of the [illegible] already at work [illegible] in which he will [illegible] part. Kitchener sees further than his contemporaries, and it is not inconceivable that what he sees already in the Near and Middle East has influenced his decision, at the moment so inexplicable. The littoral of the Mediterranean is painted crimson in the map of history, and the coming [illegible] of darker tone add [illegible] Lord Kitchener does not shrink with us, wary in our estimate of him and of the times.

WHAT ALINE FOUND OUT.

The Great Change It Made in Her Mode of Life.

By BELLE MANIATES.

Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

Aline looked up from her book as her husband rose from his chair.

"I am going to work again tonight," he remarked casually.

A faint flush stole to her cheeks. For the first time in her three months of married life her thoughts were centered on her husband, Stephen Alden. When her father committed suicide, leaving her and her mother penniless, Stephen had asked her to marry him. Her wealth, and, incidentally, her position, his paying her any special attention. One other refuge was available; a distant cousin, whom Aline's father had once befriended, and who lived on a farm offered her asylum.

She accepted Stephen, and three months after her father's death they were married. The home Stephen was able to provide was a very simple one, and it had not been a very happy one. Aline was in the listless state that succeeds, violent grief and apathetically allowed the house to be run at the will of a succession of slatternly servants.

Three nights before a break in their monotonous life had resulted from Stephen's leaving the house at 2 o'clock and not returning until late. His excuse of having to work would have passed unnoticed tonight except for the fact that she had been unable to get him by telephone at the office the night before, even after repeated calls.

At [illegible] had come in and go down the hall to his room. His [illegible] her thoughts and following day the fact of his spending his evenings out did not disturb her, but she was at a loss to fathom his motive in deceiving her. It assailed her conscience and opened her eyes to the truth that she, his wife, did not know him well enough to suspect the deception nor to speak to him about the matter.

A newly awakened sense of duty and a feeling that she ought as long as assume the duty of taking some interest in his movements impelled her to attempt to discover where he was spending his evenings. Therefore, as he was again leaving after dinner, she slipped out a side entrance and followed him at discreet distance. After a walk of nearly two miles she saw him pause in front of a theater.

"Poor Stephen!" she thought. "This evening must have been dull. No wonder he seeks entertainment."

But he turned and went down the side street, entering the theater by the way of the stage door. After a solicitation of his conduct occurred to her she felt a great load wrench from her only thing she had left, and was taken from her without knowing what she refused it. She had had perfect confidence in his love for her.

Entering she felt ill with almost an [illegible] manner of woman had attracted him. It was a [illegible] theater, and she bought a [illegible] seat in an obscure [illegible] of the house.

RECOVERED HORSE.

That Was Stolen Three Years or More Ago.

After persevering three years, undaunted by continued set backs, Jas. J. Foran of Winona, Ont., has found trace of a bay filly which with a jogging cart was stolen from pasture on July 29th, 1906. The case is an unusually interesting one and to a slight extent has local connection. It was a night after a meet that the mare disappeared and in spite of the efforts of detectives and police the thieves eluded their would-be captors. Dr. Johnston received a communication from the Pinkerton Detective Bureau notifying him of the theft and asking him to keep an "eye open" in this district as $360 reward had been offered for the recovery of the mare and information that would lead to the arrest of the guilty party. Suspicion was entertained against a horseman, who at that time was residing in Peterborough.

No trace of the missing mare was found but Forgan refused to forsake the trail. A short time ago an advertisement appeared in a Toronto daily, describing a bay filly for sale. Mr. Foran saw it and communicated with A. W. Green who offered it for sale. He wrote back a complete description which tallied so closely with the mare he had lost that Mr. Foran decided to see her. He did so and was satisfied that it was the missing filly. He said nothing, however, but visited his lawyer who advised him to make an affidavit setting forth the circumstances and on the strength of this he obtained an order for the replevin of the horse, and forwith issued a writ for the recovery and for damages.

The mare is now five years old and is valued by Mr. Foran at $400. He estimates that he has spent over $300 in an endeavor to recover the animal, but is fully satisfied with his belated success.

TRAGEDY OF JEALOUSY.

Man Killed His Wife. But His Suicide Didn't Come Off.

Philadelphia, October 11.—Charged with murdering his wife in a fit of jealous rage, Wm. Fisher, aged 50 years, was arrested here last night. He was embracing the body of the dead woman when he was taken into custody in the room they had occupied. Fisher refused to make any statement.

According to other occupants of the house, he had frequent quarrels with his wife, of whom he was insanely jealous. Last night a shot was heard in the Fisher apartments. A few minutes later Fisher appeared at a neighbor's room, and is alleged to have said: "Fix this thing for me. I have killed my wife, and now I want to kill myself."

The hammer of the revolver had failed to work after the first shot. The startled neighbor under pretence of getting a tool to fix the revolver went out and informed the police.

WHAT A CENT DID.

Squared Up all Accounts With Office Staff.

An old subscriber cuts from the Boston Journal of twenty years ago a paragraph which then interested him, and which he believes will interest others now. It was the account of a transaction that served to illustrate how small was the actual amount of money needed to adjust balances and read as follows: The office boy owed one of the clerks three cents. The clerk owed the cashier two cents. The cashier owed the boy two cents. One day the boy having a cent in his pocket was disposed to diminish his outstanding indebtedness, and paid the clerk, to whom he was indebted three cents, one cent on account. The clerk, animated by so laudable an example, paid one cent to the cashier, to whom he was indebted two cents. The cashier, who owed the boy two cents, paid him one. And now the boy having again his cent in his hand, paid another third of his debt to the clerk. The clerk, with the said really "current" cent, squared with the cashier, instantly paid the boy in full. And now, the lad, with the cent again in his hand, paid off the third and last instalment of his debt of three cents. Thus were the parties square and all their accounts adjusted.

SENTENCE CAME SWIFTLY.

Man Goes to Prison for Life 24 Hours After Killing Wife.

Kokomo, Ind., October 12.—Within twenty-four hours of the time he killed his wife, Jennie Robison, Wm. Robison pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree and was sentenced to the State prison at Michigan City for life. Robison shot and killed his wife in a department store when she reiterated her intention of seeking a divorce. Indictments charging first and second degree murder were read to him. He asked that the one indicting him for murder in the second degree be repeated. When the words "without premeditation" were reached, he interrupted and said, "Well, I guess it is the best I can do. I don't want a lawyer, as I don't believe one could do me much good. I did not mean to do it."

REFORM IN MONTREAL.

Permanent Committee Formed to Watch Council.

Montreal, Oct. 11.—The Citizens' committee, which was responsible for bringing up piles of damaging evidence before Justice Cannon's Royal Commission showing mismanagement of the city's affairs by the aldermen, is now an incorporated body and will open an office and lead the campaign for the election of a reform council and a board of control in February next. A joint stock company has been formed and citizens will be invited to join and thus show their interest in civic reform. The capital is $20,000. "No dividends are expected," said ex-Mayor Laporte, head of the committee, "but we intend to issue 2,000 shares at $10 a share, with a membership fee of $5, and we hope to have 20,000 citizens as members before next February.

"As regards the shares no one would get more than one, no matter what his subscription might be, the object being not to permit a few powerful subscribers to have undue control. All would therefore be placed on the same footing in the interests of the city.

ONE CENT A YEAR.

Carried Uncle Sam's Mail for This Sum.

Galena, Ill., Oct. 12.—After carrying mail over an eight-mile route since 1861 for the salary of one cent a year the carrier has lost his job. It was not from any neglect of duty that this employe of the government was severed from the payroll. Neither is there any evidence that he was unwilling to continue longer the duties of his position, for he worked as long as his penny a year was forthcoming.

The Postoffice Department has decided to discontinue Star Route No. 39,125, between Dodgeville and Mineral Point. This line of eight miles was a remnant of the old route established between Milwaukee and Galena in 1835. It was reduced to eight miles in 1881.

The carrier has been offered as high as $20 for his government order paying him his yearly stipend, but has thus far resisted the souvenir hunters.

TRIBUTE PAID.

To Late Henry Pulliman, President of National League.

Pittsburg, Oct. 9.—The National Baseball Commission adopted the following resolution yesterday in regard to Harry C. Pulliam, late president of the National League; Harry C. Pulliam, one of the originators of the series has passed away. His counsel in this body will be heard no more. Organized baseball never had a more solicitous and devoted sponsor. In order, therefore, that his memory may forever remain green, it is directed by the National Commission that a memorial card be printed, and that, on the day scheduled for the first game of the world's series in each year, the same to be distributed to all the eligible players of the contesting clubs, the official umpires, scorers and business representatives as well as members of the contending clubs and press and, that on the same in each year, there be placed on the grave of Harry C. Pulliam at Louisville, Ky., a floral wreath as a token of the esteem in which he was held by everyone connected with organized baseball."

KITCHENER AS VICEROY.

Britain's Famous Soldier May Succeed Lord Minto in India.

London, October 11.—Intimations become plainer every day that Lord Kitchener will not long submit to the eclipse of his career involved in his appointment to the high-sounding post of High Commissioner and Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief in the Mediterranean. There is in his present position rather too much suggestion of the Chinese custom of heaping grand-eloquent honors on unpopular statesmen to suit the spirit of Britain's iron souled captain.

Lord Kitchener is now on a tour of the Far East and the latest report is that after his return home arrangements will be quietly made for his succession to Lord Minto as Viceroy India when the latter's term expires.

ENGLAND TO BE CASTRO AID?

Willemstad, Curacao, Oct. 12.—According to the latest reports received here from Venezuela, that republic is in a condition of considerable political unrest. A number of prominent men have been arrested recently and imprisoned in the fortress of San Carlos, near Maracaibo. A story is current in Venezuela to the effect that Great Britain may aid a revolutionary movement headed by Castro because of the refusal last month of the Venezuelan government to abolish the differential duty collected on goods sent into the republic from West Indian points.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

1-2 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—15 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 10 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $500. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

This is the best opportunity for the investor to get an interest in this safe and conservative mining venture.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

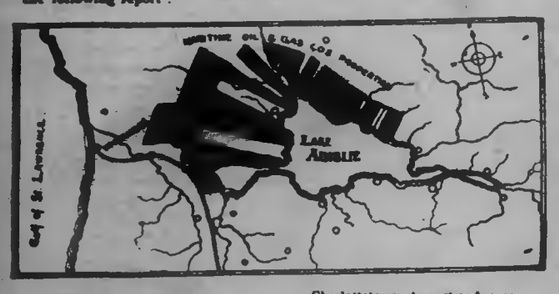
PROPERTY

The property of the Company consists of leases for oil and gas of about 25,000 acres of the best oil lands in the Lake Ainslie District, County of Inverness, Cape Breton. This district has been known for years to be an oil district. Recently Mr. F. H. Stover, who is rightly considered to be one of the best oil experts in America, examined the property, and after a thorough and searching examination his opinion of the possibilities of this property is contained in the following report:



Charlottetown, August 2nd, 1909

To the Directors of The Maritime Oil & Gas Company Limited;

Dear Sirs,—I beg to say that I have thoroughly examined the properties held under lease by your company for oil and gas, and as a result of the examination I beg to report:—

1st. I am familiar with the oil regions of Pennsylvania West Virginia, Ohio, and Ontario, having operated largely in these districts for the last twenty five years.

2nd. In my opinion Lake Ainslie District shows almost exactly the same indications of oil as appeared in Oil Creek in Pennsylvania, which has been the greatest oil producing district in America. Oil Creek was the only district where oil in any quantity was to be found seeping from the rocks, and in the Lake Ainslie District the same conditions are to be found. The oil is seeping from the rocks on the shores of the Lake. The difference between the two districts is that the oil and rock in the Lake Ainslie district is thicker and hence more liable to be a better producing oil sand. I have taken samples of the oil as it comes from the rock, and I find that the oil is of a very high lubricating quality, and will require but little refining to make it a very valuable lubricating oil. I consider that there is no question of the existence of a very large quantity of oil and gas in this property, and the prospects of striking oil upon the Company's property are of the very best.

Yours truly F. H. STOVER

After the examination Mr Stover immediately became financially interested in the Company, and has accepted the office of President and General Manager of the Company.

The Company proposes to drill several wells upon this property at once, and for that purpose arrangements have been made with Messrs. Stover Bros., oil contractors, to place a first-class drilling equipment upon the property, this much can be said—it is the very best equipment possible to obtain for this purpose, and it is such that the contractors guarantee that under the conditions such as they expect to find in Lake Ainslie their equipment will drill a well to the depth of three thousand feet in two months.

STOCK.

Mr Alexander G. Baillie, of Port Hastings, is Trustee for a certain portion of the Company's stock, which is offered for sale for the purpose of development. Of this stock it is proposed to sell a block of three hundred thousand shares, starting at five cents per share.

100 shares	$ 5.00
200 shares	10.00
300 shares	15.00
400 shares	20.00
500 shares	25.00
1,000 shares	50.00
2,000 shares	100.00
10,000 shares	500.00

PROSPECTS FOR INVESTORS

The history of the oil business in America, from its very inception to the present date, is one continuous story of financial success. Thousands of men, formerly poor, became enormously wealthy. More money has been made out of oil than out of any industry in the world today. When oil is once struck by the Oil Company the value of the stock is increased enormously. The following is a small list of the oil companies in operation less than three years, showing the original price of their stock and the highest price it has reached:—

	Original Price	Highest Price
New York Oil Co	$ .50	$ 200.00
Union Oil Co	1.00	1,300.00
Eldorado Oil Co	.50	5.00
Keora River Oil Co	1.00	26.00
Fairfax Oil Co	.20	5.00
Rustford Oil Co	2.00	110.00
Enos Oil Co	5.00	5,000.00

Contracts have been entered into on behalf of the Company, and to which the Company is a party with William Harrington, of Lake Ainslie, in the County of Inverness, dated July 9th, 1909, and Alexander G Baillie, of Port Hastings, dated August, 1909, which contracts are on file in the office of the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, Halifax.

POST CARD PETITION.

The Toronto District Women's Christian Temperance Union has instituted a post card petition in behalf of Mrs. Anna Robinson, now under sentence of death at Sudbury. Acting under legal advice, we, with good reason, believe if this campaign succeeds, her life will be spared and her friends will have time in which to take further measures.

We make through the courtesy and generosity of the press a three-fold appeal.

1. Will every editor who receives this appeal kindly publish it in his next issue?

2. Will every man and woman who reads this request comply with its demands?

3. Will you do it AT ONCE, for the unhappy victim has only six weeks to live.

Our request is, write a postal card as follows:—

"I respectfully beg of you to recommend that the death sentence passed on Anna Robinson be commuted."

Sign your name and place of residence, address it to the Hon. A. D. Aylesworth, Ottawa, Canada. DO IT NOW.

RUGBY ON SATURDAY.

Locals Will meet Parkdale at Riverside Park—Practice Every Night.

The senior Rugby season will open here on Saturday afternoon, when the locals will meet the Parkdale Canoe Club of Toronto, at Riverside Park. The make-up of the Peterborough team is as yet unknown and the fourteen will not be picked till the end of the week. It looks, however, as if there would be several new faces on the team as a number of the youngsters are showing up well in practice. Vincent Corkery may be found on the back division, as he has demonstrated that he has a fair knowledge of the game, and that he is fleet of foot and a reliable catch. "Tick" Thornton, one of the braves of other days, has turned out again and will likely be found on the team Saturday.

About twaty players were at work at Riverside Park Saturday afternoon and were kept hard at it by Dr. McPherson who is doing the coaching. Practices will be held every night this week and the team should be working smoothly by Saturday. The Toronto team will find that they are not going to have a cinch.

To Buckhorn.

Messrs. N. A. Lloyd and Chas. Cosgrove of Cincinnati arrived in the city Sunday morning on their way to Buckhorn where they will spend the next week or ten days' fishing. This is Mr. Lloyd's eight annual trip to the Northern fishing grounds for the sport which he keenly loves. He had previously met with encouraging results in the vicinity of Buckhorn and is hopeful of again landing some of the best of the finny tribe. A number of years ago he hooked a thirty-five pound lunge which he had mounted and which now adorns one of the walls of his den in his home in Cincinnati.

BROUGHT THEIR LUNCHES.

Forbes Field, Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 8.—When the Detroit team, champions of the American League, and the Pittsburgs, premier performers in the National, trotted out on the field here today they were greeted by the largest assemblage of simon pure fans ever gotten together within a fence. It was a great day for Pittsburg. The weather was perfect, and there was not a vacant seat within the immense amphitheater by noon. Forbes Field cost one million dollars, and represents the very latest in ball field construction, and it was admitted by the thousands of spectators that jammed the triple, three deck grandstand, the long line of bleacher seats, and the temporary circus seats that had been installed, that there was nothing to prevent solid enjoyment of what was expected to be the best game of ball of the present season.

The stands and bleachers failed to afford accommodation for one-third of the fanatics that stormed the gates. The advance guard of fans, which gathered as early as eight o'clock last night was swelled to thousands shortly after the breakfast hour this morning. The knowledge that twelve thousand general admission tickets were to be disposed of this morning caused the bugs to stampede for the grounds in the the hope of gaining admission by hook or crook.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny inside, hidden nerves, says Dr. Shoop governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

ABRAHAM BEST.

The following account of the death of Abraham Best appeared in the October 8th issue of the "Walhalla" Mountaineer of Walhalla, North Dakota:

The sad but unexpected news of the death of Mr. Abraham Best was received by phone from his Bay Center home on Sunday evening at about seven o'clock, dissolution having taken place about half an hour previous. He had been suffering for some three weeks or more with Bright's disease, and it was known from the first that recovery was practically impossible.

Mr. Best was born in the county of Durham, Ontario, some seventy-six years ago, coming to his present home in this county in April, 1880. He has been a successful farmer and has received the respect of the people with whom he was acquainted, being considered an excellent neighbor and a kind friend in need.

He leaves to mourn his death, besides his wife, five sons, Rees of Oxbow, Wilbur of Winnipeg, and Arthur, George and Elmer, all at home and three daughters, Misses Tessie and May, who have been attending a course in nursing at a Winnipeg hospital, and Florence, who has been at home. These and more distant relatives have the heartfelt sympathy of the hosts of friends in this community.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon from the house, conducted by Mr. Gill of Winnipeg, of the Plymouth Brethren faith, to which Mr. Best was a staunch adherent.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

VOL. XXXII NO. 240 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, THURSDAY OCTOBER 14, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

W.G. McClellan Honored by Citizens of Picton

The following from the Picton Gazette refers to a son of Mr. J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the Trent Canal, and to a brother of Mr. A. J. McClellan.

Mr. W. G. McClellan, manager of the Picton branch of the Metropolitan Bank for the past six years, has been transferred to the Brockville agency. This was the surprising news that was confirmed on Thursday morning.

The going away of Mr. McClellan will remove one of the best known and most popular bank managers that has ever been at the head of a town banking institution. Just how his removal effects Mr. McClellan is best expressed in his own remark to the Gazette reporter, "Picton will always seem home to me."

Mr. McClellan has been a resident of Prince Edward seven years. Six years he has managed the local branch, coming here from Wellington, when the Metropolitan Bank agency here was just feeling its way. Under his regime the new bank building was built. The great growth of the Metropolitan Bank in Picton district is wholly due to the influence of a manager who has not only become generally popular but who has instilled a feeling of confidence into the customers of the bank.

Not alone in a commercial sense is Mr. McClellan liked. He has been actively identified with the many interests of the town. He has taken a most prominent part and held high office with the Masons. He has been closely associated with the recent upbuilding of the cheese industry of Prince Edward, and he has been active the past couple of years in an improvement of things, generally, of the Agricultural Society, being a most efficient director. He was also president of the Board of Trade. In civic and social circles, Mr. McClellan has been well liked, indeed.

It is anticipated that Mr. McClellan will leave town the middle of next week.

Port Hope Feeling A Bit Sidetracked

Port Hope, Oct. 13.—The announcement from the Canadian Northern to the effect that they propose to adhere to the northern route as surveyed and located two years ago is regarded with keen disappointment here.

To a deputation consisting of Colonel Ward and H. T. Bush, which went to Toronto to interview them, Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann promised to come to Port Hope to look over suggested deviations themselves, and also to send engineers to run new trial lines, with the object of getting a suitable grade nearer the town. On the day that Mr. Mann was to come to Port Hope, according to his promise to the deputation he went to New York, and up to the present neither Mr. Mann, Mr. Mackenzie, nor Mr. Moore has been here.

Interviewed last night, Mr. Moore said that Port Hope's case was not under consideration when the engineers were returning to the country to try for a new line. Regarding Port Hope's suggestion as to the location of the station, Mr. Moore said that that matter was to be considered further.

C.P.R. PROPOSITION.

It is Strongly Advocated as a Boon to Peterborough.

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—While I was unable to be present at the council meeting when the representatives of the C. P.R., Messrs. Oborne and Sullivan, were here and explained the company's proposition re the entrance of the new grain route, I am none the less interested as a citizen in the welfare of the city. This new railway line I maintain is in the interests of the city. The great feature, in my opinion, is that it places Peterborough on a main line and direct route to the Canadian West, the full value of which cannot be estimated. This alone should make the people view with great favor of the entrance of the road into the city.

It is not such a great many years ago that Peterborough was extremely anxious to get a railway from Toronto through to the east and the people actually passed a bylaw to give the company $150,000 towards building the road. The county passed a like bylaw, and both were carried by a very large majority. Yet the city was not called upon to pay a cent.

Now the C.P.R. comes along and offers to build a road equally important and does not ask one cent from the city. It asks that certain streets be closed and this the city ought to welcome as an excuse to get rid of a lot of useless expenditure, for roads, walks, sewers, etc. There are far too many streets and especially short streets, and Peterborough will, for that reason, always be a highly taxed city.

Then as for the water front. The city could not put that property to better use. The land is worth very little to the city. It cannot be used as a wharf, and as a market it would be a decided failure. But to have large and modern freight sheds on the outskirts of the business section would be a valuable asset and a great convenience to all shippers.

I hope that the council will not turn the matter down or delay too long until the opportunity passes. It is a chance of a life time and we need that road.

Yours truly,
W. H. ROBERTSON.

"EVEN IN YOUTH NEVER STRONG.":

How the Rich, Happy Possessor of Good Health Which Was Restored by

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS.

"Even when I was young I was not robust and healthy like other girls. I suffered from headaches and had sort of blue feelings that deprived me of the joyful spirits and pleasures other girls seemed to get. After I married I found I could not throw worries off like other women, and those dull feelings of despondency and weariness made to feel so, and my doctor said my liver was sluggish and this accounted for my poor color, my tiredness, languor and despair. The pills the doctor gave me were too purgative, made me weaker because they were too active for my constitution. Dozens of my friends recommended Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and they were so mild and healthful. Well, I never used a pill that acted so quietly as Dr. Hamilton's. They were so comfortable to use I was afraid they might not help. But in a week I knew they had been actively engaged in cleaning up my system. They did the work of a tonic and blood medicine combined. I improved to a marvellous degree with Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I now maintain the most perfect kind of health by using them just once or twice a week."

It is Mrs. E. N. Erlanger, the wife of Capt. Erlanger, well known at Gloucester, who relates the above experience. She proved what you and all others, men and women, can prove—that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are best for restoring health and best for keeping the system in perfect running order. Don't be misled into using anything but Dr. Hamilton's Pills, sold in yellow boxes, 25c. All dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Peterborough is Not Damaged by the Proposed Grain Route

Closing of the Streets is a Direct Benefit—All Traffic is Well Provided for—Very Little City Property Effected in West Part—An Engineer's Opinion

Where will the C.P.R. enter the city with their new grain route from Victoria Harbor? The majority of the people are asking that question and they are seriously considering the proposition of the C.P.R., and the more they consider it the more easily it is for them to see the reasonableness of the offer.

A study of the map furnished by the company, and which is in the city clerk's office will soon convince the ordinary citizen who has the ordinary breadth of mind, that the city of Peterborough is not being permanently injured, as some would lead you to believe. As a matter of fact the city is being permanently benefitted, and to a greater extent than any large industry coming here would benefit it.

The new grain route enters the city at Smith street, just west of the creek running through Jackson Park, or a few hundred yards east of the Monaghan road. It runs at an angle towards the south until it strikes the Monaghan Road, or western boundary, at Homewood avenue. From that point south until it taps the main line it passes through the township and through property that is not in the city and is not likely to be during the life of the average citizen. For that reason the people of Peterborough have no reason to complain about the road doing damage.

The city property, through which the road passes between Smith St., and Homewood avenue, is for the most part unoccupied and still known as park lots. Not more than half a dozen houses on the entire route are interferred with and for these and for all damage to adjoining property the railway pays a good price.

The only thing the city can possibly object to is the streets the company asks to have closed. This, when looked into, is really a small matter, as most of the streets referred to have never yet been opened They are included in the unoccupied park lots. The streets that are to be really closed are Weller, Elm, Boncord and perhaps one or two others. The distance between the Monaghan road and the proposed railway is very short; not over a few hundred yards at Smith street down to nothing at Homewood Ave. and in lieu of the closing of those streets the railway proposes to have a level crossing at McDonnel street, and a subway at Homewood avenue. These two crossings will handle all the traffic for a good many years as the chief entrance to the city from the country are Smith street and Charlotte street and they are both left open.

There are no streets west of the boundary road and very few dwellings, none of which will be inconvenienced by the closing of the streets mentioned, while the city people going to the country will not have to travel out of their way at all.

Mr. Jas. Oborne, general superintendent of the C.P.R., was right when he said that no better proposition was ever offered to any city by a railway company. As a matter of fact the city is being benefitted by the closing of the streets and if a lot more streets could be closed it would be a good thing and would save the city a great deal of money.

ENGINEER'S OPINION.

Mr. T. A. S. Hay, city engineer and an experienced railway engineer, said to The Times that he was surprised to find that the C.P.R. could get so good a line via the route they proposed. He thought the cuttings and embankments were extremely reasonable and he could not see where the city was going to be damaged. He suggested a possible route further west, but he would be satisfied that that was not practicable if the C.P.R. engineer said so, as it is 25 years since he made the survey for the Grand Trunk and he has none of the information now and would not say that it was feasible. On the other hand he finds by the map of the C.P.R., that the route proposed is feasible and is what he would call a good line.

MR. CHAS. M. HAYS.

Mr. C. M. Hays will be New G. T. R. President

London, Oct. 13—It was announced yesterday that at the end of the present year Sir Charles Rivers Wilson will retire from the presidency of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, which office he has occupied for fifteen years. C. M. Hays, the general manager in Canada, will succeed to the title of president, which will give him the same rank as is accorded to the chief executive of other Canadian lines. The board of directors, however, will continue to be the same and the control and administration of the company will be as heretofore. Vice-President A. Smithers will be the first chairman of the board.

Town of Aylmer Rent by Explosion

Aylmer, Ont., Oct. 13.—Harry Fisher, engineer, was instantly killed when the Aylmer Electric Light and Water plant was blown to pieces, the premises of the Brandon Shoe Company were burned to the ground, all the result of a boiler explosion at the civic electric power plant here last night about seven o'clock.

The cause of the explosion is unknown. Harry Fisher's body was found under the wall of the dynamo room, and he was the only one in the place at the time.

The boiler, which was of a hundred horse-power, and was situated at the west end of the building, had been recently overhauled and was inspected a week or two ago. Last night was the first time it had been used since it was renovated.

The estimated loss is about $200,000, of which $50,000 will be borne by the town's light and water plant, and $150,000 by the Brandon shoe factory. Both are well covered by insurance. Nearly one hundred men will be out of work.

Fisher, the engineer who was killed, has been in the employment of the town for some years. He was 45 years old and leaves a widow and family.

ANOTHER CHEQUE.

For the Firemen's Benefit Fund from Mr. Develin, Hunter street.

Chief Howard of the fire department, yesterday received a cheque from Mr. Devlin, Hunter street, as appreciation of the services of the department during the recent fire at his home. The cheque was to be applied to the firemen's benefit fund. The chief and his staff wish to express their hearty thanks to Mr. Develin.

TRADES AND LABOR.

Council Held Big Meeting—New Officers to Be Elected.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held last night when a lot of routine business was put through. The next important feature was the decision to re-organize the council at the next meeting to be held three weeks hence. It is proposed to elect a new set of officers to renew interest and to make the council felt in the life of the city. When the new officers are installed it is expected that there will be something doing during the next year.

WILL ERECT LANDING.

Harbor Commissioners of Montreal Will Demolish Victoria Pier.

Montreal, Oct. 13.—The demolition of the Victoria pier and the erection of a new concrete landing almost along the whole water front will be the undertaking of Harbor Commissioners as soon as they get the loan of $18,000,000 promised them by the government. Huge improvements are contemplated all along the line.

FINAL STRUGGLE.

For Ontario Football Championship to Be Played Friday.

Brussels' and Havelock Football teams will come together at the park in Havelock on Friday afternoon for the final struggle for the championship of Ontario. These two teams are in the pink of condition and they will play for all that is in them.

Brussels now has a lead of one goal but Havelock hopes to overcome that disadvantage and to win the championship. The game is called for two o'clock sharp. It is expected that a number of exponents from Peterborough will witness the contest. twin oumpkins

TWIN PUMPKINS.

Freak of Nature Grows on Farm of Mr. A. Tedford.

Double-jointed peanuts have long been in vogue but double-jointed pumpkins are something new. Of course there are certain conditions under which a man might think he saw two pumpkins where there was only one but there is nothing like that in this case. Mr. A. Tedford of Douro, showed the "double-header" to The Times yesterday. Both parts of it are large and fully ripened and are of the same size. They are united a la Siamese twins and form a rare curiosity.

Parkdale and Peterborough will have a great afternoon next Saturday at Peterborough. This engagement will be the Paddlers hardest game. Last year the T.A.A.C. barely won at Peterborough. Mara's fine run alone being responsible for a 7 to 6 victory, so the Parkdalers are none too confident.

Fifth Game of World's Series Was Won by Pittsburg Pirates

Forbes Field, Pittsburg, Oct. 13.—In the fifth of the series of world's championship ball games played here today the weather was very cold. The crowd was not large enough to flow into the temporary enclosures around the outfield but the low fences were still up and ground rules were necessary. Adams went in the box for Pittsburg and Summers twirled for Detroit.

THE LINE-UPS.

The line-up of the two teams is as follows:

Pittsburg— Byrne, 3b; Leach, cf; Clarke, lf; Wagner, ss; Miller, 2b; Abstein, 1b; Wilson, rf; Gibson, c; Adams, p.

According to Garry Herrmann, the chairman of the National Commission, the seventh game, if it is necessary, will be played in this city because of the superior accommodation for an immense crowd.

SEVERAL PLAYERS FINED.

The National Commission also announced that it had fined Miller of Pittsburg, $50 for his conduct in yesterday's game, and a penalty of $25 was inflicted on Donovan, of Detroit, for his actions which caused Umpire Klem to send him from the field. The fining of Manager Clarke, Gibson, Leach and Camnitz, for their actions in Monday's game makes six fines that have been inflicted during the last two games.

COBB WANTED FOR ASSAULT.

Ty Cobb, the star rightfielder of the Detroit team did not accompany his team mates on the National Commission special train last night, because of his desire to avoid Cleveland. Manager Jennings of Detroit, received information that the Cleveland authorities intended to arrest Cobb as he passed through Cleveland in the special train. Cobb had trouble with an elevator man in Cleveland recently, and it was reported to Jennings that an indictment for felonious assault had been brought against Cobb by the grand jury.

Cobb came from Detroit to Pittsburg by way of Buffalo, and did not arrive until long after his team mates. There was some little anxiety among the Detroit players because of his late arrival, but he was here in time for the game.

FIRST INNING.

Detroit—D. Jones hit into the center field stand for a home run. Bush walked and the Pittsburg team began to delay the game. Play was resumed after a delay of two minutes. Cobb sent a long fly to Leach. Crawford singled to left and Bush went to third on a hit and run signal. Delahanty struck out. Crawford stole to second and Gibson did not throw to get him for fear of Bush coming in from third but threw to Adams instead. Moriarity popped to Abstein. One Run.

Pittsburg—Byrne singled past Bush Leach beat out a bunt along the first base line, Byrne going to second.

Publish My Letter the World over

"Three years ago I discovered that a man subject to lumbago might just as well be dead as alive." These words open the sincere, straightforward letter of H. P. Bushy, a well known man in the plumbing and tinsmithing business in Portland.

"One attack came after another, and lumbago got to be a chronic thing with me. I could scarcely get in a day's work before that knifing, cruel pain would attack my back! I used a gallon of liniments, but one of them seemed penetrating enough to get at the core of the pain. I read in The Montreal Witness LETTER NO. 4311. about Nerviline, and got five bottles. It is a wonderful medicine—I could feel its soothing pain-relieving action every time it was applied. When I got the disease under control with Nerviline, I built up my strength and fortified my blood by taking Ferrozone at meals. This treatment cured me permanently, and I urge everyone to give up the thick, white, oily liniments they are using, and try an up-to-date, penetrating, pain-destroyer like Nerviline.

"Please publish my letter the world over. I want all to hear of Nerviline."

Don't be cajoled into receiving anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." Large bottles 25c.; five for $1.00. Sold everywhere or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 23

BRITISH POLITICS.

The intervention of King Edward, the defiant speech of Lloyd-George the talk of an immediate dissolution combine to make a most interesting situation in Great Britain.

Nominally, Ministers of the Crown are the advisors of the King. Actually, the King is the adviser of the ministers; the adviser of the chiefs of the Opposition; the adviser of the peers, the general mediator and peacemaker. We may be sure that if he has consented to mediate and to offer arvice, it is in the interest not of any class or party, but of the people, the nation, the Empie.

The defiant tone of Lloy-George's speech is due in part to the character of the man, but is due also to the strong position now occupied by the government. The government does not desire, and does not need to make terms with the House of Lords Rather than modify its budget, it would prefer to have its budget rejected, and go to the country upon the issue tgus created.

More than once a measure introduced by a Liberal Government and passed by the House of Commons has been rejected by the House of Lords. When the Liberals protested the answer has been, "Appeal to the country, and let the country decide between the Liberals and the Lords.' But until now, the issue has not been large enough to warrant the acceptance of the challenge. Liberals have felt that they were elected not merely to enact one measure, but to give the country a general course of Liberal legislation and administration. They have felt that it was not fair that the House of Lords should be allowed to terminate a Liberal Parliament, stop the course of Liberal legislation and administration, and compel an appeal to the country upon ground chosen by the Lords.

But now the Liberals have chosen the ground. They feel that the groun is strong, and that the issue can be stated in plain language that will appeal to the electors. Shall taxataxation be controlled by peers, or by elected representatives of the people? Shall it be levied upon the necessaries of life, or upon land and wealth and luxury?

No doubt the issue is so great that it seems to threaten a crisis, a class war, a revolution. But the Liberals say that it is for the Lords to avoid the crisis by leaving the budget alone. Then, if they are to assert their position against the Lords it must be one big question—a question which is so big as to suggest ideas of crisis and revolution. On a question of detail the Lords would have the advantage.

The root of the difficulty is that the Lords have not used their power with impartiality. The only reason for the existence of a second chamber lies in its power and disposition to check the dominant party. The Lords have checked only the Liberal party, leaving the Conservative party to have its own way. To maintain its authority the House of Lords must follow the example of the King, and divest itself of partyism and of the personal feelings of its class, and act for the nation alone. One day we may hear of a peer giving this advice to his friends.

THE TARIFF AND COMBINES.

The formation of four important mergers has a bearing on the request made by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association for a tariff commission. As the discussion was secret, and as the resolution does not go into particulars, the public does not know what kind of a commission the association or rather a majority of the association wants. But if the proposal for a commission is seriously considered, it will be necessary to consult, not the manufacturers only, but the farmers, and all other classes of the community. Assuming that the commission is a workable idea certain conditions would have to be fulfilled.

The railway commission stands between the railways, the shippers and the general public and enforces fair play. A tariff commission would have to do the same thing. As between the protected manufacturers and the general public there would be no other justification for its existence. It could not exist merely for the purpose of giving relief to manufacturing industries suffering under foreign competition. It must decide whether the tariff is fair to the consumer, or whether it is to be used as a means of exacting unfair and excessive prices. Hence one of its important duties would be to investigate the working of combines and mergers. All these concerns are intended to destroy domestic competition the consumer should not be left at the mercy of a monopoly, but should have the benefit of the competition of British and foreign manufacturers. If the tariff commission provided a simple and inexpensive means of inquiring into these complaints and giving or recommending relief, it would do something to justify its existence.

But, if the request for a commission is refused upon the ground that its powers would conflict with those of government and parliament, then the government and parliament must accept the responsibility that accompanies power. It is their duty to protect the consumer, and to see that the tariff is not used to its disadvantage. The privilege granted by the tariff is conditional. The principle of the tariff law is that as foreign competition is diminished the consumer is to have the benefit of domestic competition. I f domestic competition is destroyed by combination, and the consumer suffers, the condition is nto fulfilled, the trust is betrayed and the privilege ought to be foreseited.

It is for the givernment to find the ways and means of giving this relief. No complicated legal procedure is necessary. The power of the government over the tariff is absolute. If the minister of finance and his colleagues believe that a certain duty is being abused, whether by combinf, merger or individual manufacturer, they can remove or reduce the duty when the annual budget is presented. If the minister of finance would announce that this his policy and that combines and mergers are being closely watched, a very wholesome check would be placed upon their operations.

THE PEAT PROBLEM SOLVED!

Vast stores of carbon are locked up in the peat deposits of the world and the problem of converting this into usable fuel has long attracted the study of scientists and engineers. It now seems possible that this problem has been solved. The great obstacle to the economic production of peat fuel in commercial quantities, according to an editorial writer in Engineering News (New York, July 29), is that peat consists of 90 per cent. of water held by the 10 per cent. of sponge. We read:

"A simple calculation will show that it requires a few more that units to evaporate the 90 per cent. comthe latter. Artificial drying has provbustible than are released in burning ed useless, as might have been expected.

"The writer, somehow has also mechanical process. Either the whole mass of raw peat pulp would refuse to be squeezed out, by flow through the screen or the screening walls would be burst apart. The few processes that up to the present have placed peat fuel on local markets in commercial forms and quantities have depended primarily upon air drying to reduce the water contents and to put the peat into a workable condition.

"The reason behind the difficulty of pressing the water out of peat, as described in a paper before the response is now disclosed by researchcent meeting of the Iron and Steel Institute.... ....Dr. Ekenberg there shows that all the trouble has been due to the presence of a jelly or a slime, chemically termed hydrocellulose. The simplicity of the process for removing this jelly is striking. The mere application of heat, sufficient to raise the temperature of the hydrocellulose to 150 per cent., has been shown to split it up into water and caramel or sugar. Once the jelly has disappeared the peat substances may be mechanically prest as any spongy material would be.

"Processes depending largely on air drying to put the peat pulp into workable peat have had a certain degree of success, but they have never overcome the handicap imposed by weather and season. There are no such limitations to mechanical treatment, and if these experiments develop a process, as practical and commercial as Dr. Ekenberg's account claims to be possible, truly they have unlocked a great storehouse of fuel practically sealed."

The wholesome, harmless green leaves and tender stems of a hung healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. Tickling or dry bronchial coughs quickly and safely or yield to this highly effective Cough medicine, Dr. Shoop assures mothers that they can with safety give it to even very young babes. No opium, no chloroform—absolutely nothing harsh or harmful. It calms the distressing cough, and heals the sensitive membranes. Accept no other. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Sold by all dealers.

MR. PICHE, PROMOTER.

Prospector Has Floated Some Interesting Companies In His Career.

Piche, the French-Canadian prospector, who was captured by the authorities after a two years' search in all parts of the continent, has, as has already been shown by the reports in the daily press, had a spectacular career in his long life in the wilds, but there is one episode in his career that has not found its way into the daily papers.

A few years ago the city editor of an evening newspaper was asked to send a reporter to a certain address on John street, Toronto, to receive an item about on important joint stock company that was to be formed. He finally located the place, and found it to be one of the rather shabby lodging houses that abound in that district. Here he found the little weasel-faced prospector in the company of twelve or fifteen Englishmen who had come to Canada with their savings to make a fortune. Piche was expounding what he called a great scheme, which the Englishmen were drinking in with apparent delight.

It was nothing less than to secure a large reservation on the shores of the Hudson Bay for the "breeding of fur-bearing animals." The promoter of the scheme had his prospectus drawn up, and expatiated on the high price of furs, and how in his wanderings in the wilds he had learned the secret of rearing beavers and other valuable beasts. The reporter had obviously been sent for as a ruse to convince the strangers that his scheme was bona fire. Piche, indeed, seemed to believe in his own plan, and his manner was so sincere that it was impossible to say whether he regarded the other fellows as "suckers" or not. However, the reporter decided that his paper did not want to boost this "get-rich-quick" scheme, and whether any of the Englishmen were persuaded to tempt fortune in the frozen north he never learned. At any rate, Piche's company never obtained letters of incorporation.

Farm Hands In Demand.

"We cannot begin to supply the demands which come to us for farm laborers. We have at the present time over fifty applications which we cannot fill," was the statement made by a Montreal Salvation Army immigration official last week. "These are all local applications, from farmers and landowners within easy distance of Montreal.

"We have had a good many immigrants book with us this year, more than last year, but not so many as the year before. Next summer we expect the number to be larger than we have ever had. We book only for farm labor and domestic service, that is, we guarantee only to find those classes of work. Nearly all the immigrants come with the intention of going West, but we have placed several near Montreal this spring. For one man who came with his family, we found a situation at Como at $30 per month, and a free house besides. Several others have been similarly placed.

"The class of our immigrants has been unusually good. They have nearly all been able to pay their own way out, and in only about a dozen cases have we been oblized to give any assistance of this kind. They have been respectable, industrious men and women, and have been giving good satisfaction wherever we sent them. We have had only three deportations this year.

"For domestics we have always far more applications than we can possibly fill. Out of two hundred and fifty this year we have been able to fill only twenty.

To Stop Accident Fakirs.

Arising out of the arrest of three foreigners in Montreal July 7, for "faking" railway accidents, a bureau of information and identification is soon to be established in Canada, whereby tab will be kept on all accidents, to guard against any capricious "repeat," with the idea of "holding up" the corporations of this country.

This announcement was made by James Forrest, claims agent of the Toronto Railway Co., on the occasion of a picnic to Buffalo, on which all the chief officials of the company participated.

Such a bureau has been in existence in the United States for some time, with headquarters in Columbus, Ohio; but until the charges were laid against the three foreigners in Montreal for having adopted the system of purposely falling off street cars or trams as a profitable means of making capital through damage claims, no such system has been thought necessary.

Already, Mr. Forrest states, the Toronto Street Railway has the forms in shape and cards printed relating to certain recent accidents, including the Montreal trio, and Acton Burrows, secretary of the Canadian Street Railway Association, will, it is said, assume the duties of filing and keeping track of these and future cases and sending these cards for distribution.

Sir Charles Tupper.

Canada has emerged into the status of a young nation blinking at the brilliancy of its own future. We are fond of saying that Canada stands on the threshold. But surely we crossed the threshold on July 1, 1867, when a few scattered settlements under the genius of the old chieftain and the devoted loyalty to Canada of a galaxy of patriots. And of all that brilliant corps of nation founders the one whose task was the most arduous, still lives in the full possession of his faculties. Sir Charles Tupper.—Vancouver Sunset.

Tell Some Sick One

It is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?
Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer?
Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker wants to the risk, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."
And I you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.
For 20 years it has been the popular remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart troubles everywhere in America.
When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that brings back vitality, strength, and brightness to those nerves and organs back to health again.
Do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is foolish.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes right to the cause of these ailments—the Nerves. Weak, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the reason for its success.
When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.
To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician alive to say to a suffering sick, "Take my prescription for it, use it, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."
Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, when the maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?
I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "No help, no pay" protective plan.
Be it so, you are free to consult me just as you would your family physician. Just write and tell me your symptoms—and what you think of my offer.
Please a word or two from you will clear up matters at once. I have no [illegible] stands ready to [illegible] by any grades [illegible] or [illegible]. My best efforts [illegible] worth your simple request.
Select now and you can order at once. Take the matter [illegible] forward.

I will have an immediate [illegible] the druggist to whom you can conveniently go for [illegible] day I get.

A SPLENDID INVESTMENT.

At Lake Ainslie, Inverness county, Cape Breton, oil has been oozing out of the sand rock at the edge of the lake for many years. The oil is of a very superior quality, almost free from any odor or smell, a very important matter in a lubricating oil. Even in its crude state the farmers who use it testify to its superior qualities for lubricating purposes, and different analysis show it a high grade oil requiring very little refining. Efforts in the past to locate the oil basin proper appliances, partly through want of system in carrying on the work and lack of capital. In Mr. Stover's opinion in years gone by they did not drill in the right locality.

The Maritime Oil and Gas company, limited, incorporated June 28th, 1909, acquired considerable property at the organization of the company, and since then F. H. Stover accompanied by A. G. Baillie, secured personally many thousands of acres round Lake Ainslie, from farmers who, for many years would not lease their lands until they felt satisfied that practical, experienced and successful oil men had taken hold, who meant business. In this way nearly twelve miles (with the exception of a few farms) were secured around Lake Ainslie, running back a mile and a quarter from the lake and in some cases with rear lots extending their area two and three miles. These leases are for twenty years, or as long after as oil and gas are produced. The owner of the soil is to received five barrels of oil out of each one hundred produced, and free gas for his house use. The Maritime Oil and Gas company, limited, in acquiring this additional very valuable territory will assure every investor in the company, if oil is struck, a large investment for his money. The Maritime Oil and Gas company's prospectus appears on another page.

Mr. Gillespie of Peterborough, opened the bidding at 11 1-16c, but was downed by Mr. Fitzgerald of Peterborough at 11¼c. Wedding Bells

CREBA—GILCHRIST.

A pretty wedding took place at 9 o'clock last evening in Wesley Methodist church, when Rev. R. A. Pearlett, married William Creba of Maple Creek, Alta., and Miss Margaret May Gilchrist of Winnipeg, the ceremony being witnessed by a number of intimate friends of the bride and groom. The bride, who was given away by Mr. Glenn of Winnipeg, looked charming in her traveling suit of navy blue serge, the long coat opening over a handsome blouse of Japanese silk, beautifully hand embroidered. Her hat was of black panne velvet trimmed with jet and two magnificent black plumes. She carried a bouquet of white roses and ferns. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl pendant. The bride was the receipient of many beautiful presents among which was noticed an oak case of cutlery and silver from the manager and employes of D McCaul Co. Mr. and Mrs. Creba left for their new home in Maple Creek. Many friends were at the depot to see them off and extend best wishes for their future happiness. —Winnipeg Fre Press, Oct. 7th.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of George street Methodist church yesterday afternoon when Rev. E. A. Pearson united in the holy bonds of matrimony Mr. George Manley to Miss Mary Vincent, both of this city. The young couple left on the afternoon train for a short honeymoon and when they return will reside at 217 Bethune street.

Important to Ladies.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwood of Toronto is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at Oriental Hotel on Monday October 22.

CHICAGO SPENDER MAKES HIT.

Walla Walla, Wash., Oct. 11.—Henry C. Ostermann, the millionaire freight car manufacturer of Cgicago, has been here only four days, but he has startled the natives by spending $3,000 in his own way. Other attractions have dropped to second place since the arrival of this modern Croesus Sunday with Mrs. Osterman and his business associate, W. H. Brennan, in an automobile. Mr. Osterman put the touring-car in the repair shop and started to have a good time.

These are a few of the things he did:

Allowed no one to buy a drink; grabbed a $10 bill from the bar, where another man has laid it, and, after tearing it into pieces, gave the owner another bill and bought him a drink; paid a band $20 whenever it played a piece he asked for hired the band for a dance, tore a $100 bill in two and gave the leader half, promised the remainder later, and, after giving the bandmaster the other half and $30 more, gave a handful of $5 gold pieces to small boys; gave no tips less than $1.

Henry C. Ostermann is president of the Ostermann Manufacturing Company, West Pullman, Ill., builders and repairers of cars, and lives at 6534 Monroe avenue. He left Chicago two months ago for a trip through the West, and at the Ostermann residence last night it was said he had been in Walla Walla for only a day or two. It was not known when he would return Chicago.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-9 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—18 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $600. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

TURQUOISE COPPER

NOT A PROSPECT

400 FOOT TUNNEL—140 FOOT SHAFT

Mines located near Valardena, Durango, Mexico only six miles by wagon road and three miles straight line from the property of the Guggenheims upon which they have recently erected a $2,000,000 smelter. Sample assays have averaged from $54 to $102 per ton.

Up to the present time, the Turquoise Copper Co., has been practically a close corporation; an initial offering of 100,000 shares has just been made at 25 cents, par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable. Proceeds will be used to further continue the development work already begun.

We have options on 50,000 shares of this stock and advise immediate purchase at 25 cents per share. It is the intention of The Board of Directors to list the stock on the New York Curb and it should sell at $1.00 per share by the first of the year.

Write now for prospectus and Mining Engineer's report.

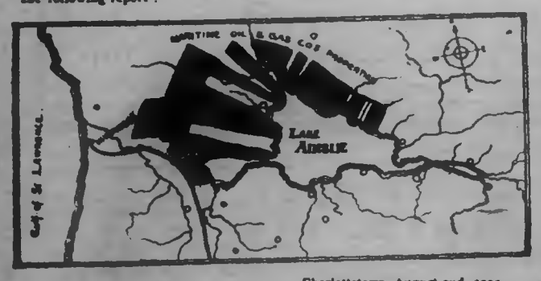
PROPERTY

The property of the Company consists of leases for oil and gas of about 25,000 acres of the best oil lands in the Lake Ainslie District, County of Inverness, Cape Breton. This district has been known for years to be an oil district. Recently Mr. F. H. Stover, who is rightly considered to be one of the best oil experts in America, examined the property, and after a thorough and searching examination his opinion of the possibilities of this property is contained in the following report:



Charlottetown, August 2nd, 1909

To the Directors of The Maritime Oil & Gas Company Limited;

Dear Sirs,—I beg to say that I have thoroughly examined the properties held under lease by your company for oil and gas, and as a result of the examination I beg to report:—

1st. I am familiar with the oil regions of Pennsylvania West Virginia, Ohio, and Ontario, having operated largely in these districts for the last twenty five years.

2nd. In my opinion Lake Ainslie District shows almost exactly the same indications of oil as appeared in Oil Creek in Pennsylvania, which has been the greatest oil producing district in America. Oil Creek was the only district where oil in any quantity was to be found seeping from the rocks, and in the Lake Ainslie District the same conditions are to be found. The oil is seeping from the rocks on the shores of the Lake. The difference between the two districts is that the oil sand rock in the Lake Ainslie district is thicker and hence more liable to be a better producing oil sand. I have taken samples of the oil as it comes from the rock, and I find that the oil is of a very high lubricating quality, and will require but little refining to make it a very valuable lubricating oil. I consider that there is no question of the existence of a very large quantity of oil and gas in this property, and the prospects of striking oil upon the Company's property are of the very best.

Yours truly F. H. STOVER

After the examination Mr. Stover immediately became financially interested in the Company, and has accepted the office of President and General Manager of the Company.

The Company proposes to drill several wells upon this property at once, and for that purpose arrangements have been made with Messrs. Stover Bros., oil contractors, to place a first-class drilling equipment upon the property, this much can be said—it is the very best equipment possible to obtain for this purpose, and it is such that the contractors guarantee that under the conditions such as they expect to find in Lake Ainslie their equipment will drill a well to the depth of three thousand feet in two months.

STOCK.

Mr Alexander G. Baillie, of Port Hastings, is Trustee for a certain portion of the company's stock, which is offered for sale for the purpose of development. Of this stock it is proposed to sell a block of three hundred thousand shares, starting at five cents per share.

PROSPECTS FOR INVESTORS

The history of the oil business in America, from its very inception to the present date is one continuous story of financial success. Thousands of men, formerly poor, became enormously wealthy. More money has been made out of oil than out of any industry in the world today. When oil is once struck by the Oil Company the value of the stock is increased enormously. The following is a small list of the oil companies in operation less than three years, showing the original price of their stock and the highest price it has reached:—

	Original Price	Highest Price
New York Oil Co.	$ .50	$ 200.00
Union Oil Co.	1.00	1,200.00
Standard Oil Co.	.50	5.00
Kern River Oil Co.	1.00	30.00
Peerless Oil Co.	.20	5.00
Standard Oil Co.	5.00	110.00
Home Oil Co.	5.00	1,000.00

Contracts have been entered into on behalf of the Company, and to which the Company is a party with William Harrington, of Lake Ainslie, in the County of Inverness, dated July 9th, 1909, and Alexander G. Baillie, of Port Hastings, dated August, 1909, which contracts are on file in the office of the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, Halifax.

DIVORCES FOR THE POOR.

Movement Under Way in England to Secure Cheap Separations.

London, Oct. 10.—A movement is under way in England for a system of easier and cheaper divorces for the poor. As the English law now stands only wealthy persons can afford the luxury of a divorce. Solicitors agree that the only change necessary would involve no alteration in the law, but would be purely administrative.

Last April a committee appointed by the lord chancellor, and presided over by Lord Gorell, lately president of the Divorce Court, suggested reforms with the same object in view, the most striking being the establishment of provincial courts of divorce. In July Lord Gorell moved a resolution in the House of Lords to confer limited jurisdiction in divorce and matrimonial cases on County Courts, but after the Archbishop of Canterbury, and Lord Halifax, president of the English Church Union, had strenuously opposed the motion it was withdrawn.

At the meeting of the Law Society at Newcastle, the other day, H. Pickstone submitted that the divorce laws furnished the only justification which really existed in England about the gibe of there being one law for the rich and another for the poor. It was agreed that the remedy was to confer limited jurisdiction in the provincial courts.

BURIED TREASURE.

A Severe Storm Reveals Pirate's Hoard.

Merida, Yucatan, Oct. 10.—For many years there have been stories ies of a buried treasurer in the coast of Yucatan, and search has often been made unavailing for the booty supposed to have been hidden by Lafitte, the pirate, who died and is buried in Yucatan. And now the truth of these stories would appear to be verified.

The recent severe storm along the coast of Yucatan is believed to have uncovered from the beach at Puerto Celestum the buried wealth of the pirate.

Soon after the storm subsided the crews of fishing boats began picking up many gold and silver coins of English and Spanish make and bearing dates of the early part of last century. These coins are scattered all along the beach at Puerto Celestum and several thousand dollars of them have so far been collected.

Tin Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sherwood, 490 Sherbrooke street, celebrated their tin wedding, the tenth anniversary of their marriage, at their home on Monday evening. About thirty guests were present, all of whom brought gifts of some article of tinware. The evening was spent in a social way and refreshments were served. The best wishes of a host of friends were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood for more years of happiness.

POST CARD PETITION.

The Toronto District Women's Christian Temperance Union has instituted a post card petition in behalf of Mrs. Anna Robinson, now under sentence of death at Sudbury. Acting under legal advice, we, with good reason, believe if this campaign succeeds, her life will be spared and her friends will have time in which to take further measures.

We make through the courtesy and generosity of the press a three-fold appeal.

1. Will every editor who receives this appeal kindly publish it in his next issue?

2. Will every man and woman who reads this request comply with its demands?

3. Will you do it AT ONCE, for the unhappy victim has only six weeks to live.

Our request is, write a postal card as follows:—

"I respectfully beg of you to recommend that the death sentence passed on Anna Robinson be commuted."

Sign your name and place of residence, address it to the Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Ottawa, Canada. DO IT NOW.

RUGBY ON SATURDAY.

Locals Will meet Parkdale at Riverside Park—Practice Every Night.

The senior Rugby season will open here on Saturday afternoon, when the locals will meet the Parkdale Canoe Club of Toronto, at Riverside Park. The make-up of the Peterborough team is as yet unknown and the fourteen will not be picked till the end of the week. It looks, however, as if there would be several new faces on the team as a number of the youngsters are showing up well in practice. Vincent Corkery may be found on the back division, as he has demonstrated that he has a fair knowledge of the game, and that he is fleet of foot and a reliable catch. "Tick" Thornton, one of the braves of other days, has turned out again and will likely be found on the team Saturday.

About twaty players were at work at Riverside Park Saturday afternoon and were kept hard at it by Dr. McPherson who is doing the coaching. Practices will be held every night this week and the team should be working smoothly by Saturday. The Toronto team will find that they are not going to have a cinch.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny inside, hidden nerves, says Dr. Shoop governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

WANT CANADIAN CATTLE.

Glasgow Butchers Would Like Them Put Out to Pasture.

Mr. A. M. Trotter, veterinary surgeon for the police department of the city of Aberdeen, Glasgow, Scotland, who has been on a short holiday trip through Canada, as well as to Toronto, Niagara Falls, and other western Ontario points, left for home early. Mr. Trotter, who from his official position should be an authority on the subject, just before sailing, gave his views to The Montreal Standard on the cattle embargo by which cattle imported from Canada were placed in the quarantine station and examined by a veterinary surgeon appointed by the British Government, and must be slaughtered within a certain time, say about seven days. Mr. Trotter said that the general feeling was that the Canadian cattle ought to be allowed in to the country and placed for a few months on the grass, as they were then in a much better condition for the market.

"I may say," added Mr. Trotter, "that during the nine years that I have been in charge of the meat inspection at Glasgow, I have had four hundred thousand cattle either from Canada or the United States pass through my hands, and they were slaughtered under the supervision of myself or my assistants, and in no instance was there the slightest suspicion of contagious pleuro-pneumonia."

"You think, then, that were the Canadian cattle put on the grass for a short time, they would be in much better condition for the market?" Mr. Trotter was asked.

"Most certainly," he replied. "For thirteen years before coming to Glasgow to take up my official position, I was on the east coast of Scotland, and the feeders there much preferred receiving the cattle from Canadian sources to any other, owing to their being easier adapted and made ready for the market."

NOT ALL HE EXPECTED.

How the Pilot Hero Disregarded the Conventions of Heroism.

A couple of men prominently connected with St. Lawrence River navigation, were swapping yarns the other day, and one of them told an amusing story of a presentation company. At one of the annual meetings of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co., a gold watch was presented to the pilot who had taken the steamer Montreal down the rapids. This immense vessel was built at Toronto, and then the hull and machinery, without any superstructure, had to make the perilous trip to Montreal. Thanks to the wonderful skill of the pilot, this voyage was made without any serious damage, though many had regarded it as almost impossible for a boat of that size. The directors of the company felt that some recognition should be given the pilot, and the acknowledgment took the form of a handsome gold watch.

The chronometer was handed to the daring and skillful helmsman with a few kind words of congratulation and praise. Then the knight of the wheel stood there in the midst of a general silence of expectation. Everyone sat waiting for this intrepid rivetman to express in broken accents his undying devotion to the company. Perhaps he would concede in the worst event to such occasions. "I only done my duty."

But did he say this? Did his voice grow husky with emotion, and tears fill his eyes? No. On the contrary, he stood there cool as a cucumber frappe, and gazed intently at the watch.

America's Largest Crane.

The new and powerful floating crane for which the port of Montreal has been waiting for the past twelve months is now established and in operation. Her first test on this side of the Atlantic took place recently, and she passed it successfully.

Just opposite the Harbor Commissioners office, a large lake launch destined for use on Lake Temiscamingue, was waiting to be hauled up on board a flat car to be conveyed to its destination. The crane was placed in position, the lifting apparatus attached and she hauled the craft up in the air, swung it round and placed it gently in the required position. The operation was watched with interest by a large number of specialists. The test was directed by Mr. John Thomson, of the firm of Vickers, Sons & Maxim, the builders, while Mr. E. W. Cowie, the Harbor Commissioners' engineer, was also present.

The crane is now, therefore, open for the handling of all business that offers. She is the largest floating crane on this continent, and the second largest in the world, having a lifting capacity of 75 tons.

Task for Canadian Clubs.

Dominion Day should mean something more to Canadians than an opportunity to see a horse race. There should be something nationally distinctive about this holiday, something to set it up as an annual landmark. In every centre of population there should be some specific and universal recognition of the day's significance. It is necessary to frame a plea to win for the day what is its due, but in other countries they have contrived from many sources to meet these requirements. Such processes and periodically recur work out a unique and valuable St. John Sun.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Canada's Peat Bogs.

A bulletin entitled "The Investigation of the Peat Bog and Peat Industry of Canada, during the season of 1903-09, by Erik Nystrom, M.E., peat expert, has been issued from Ottawa showing the location of Canada's peat supply. Of these in eastern Canada the most valuable are:

1. Mer Bleue, near Ottawa.
2. The Alfred peat bog, about 40 miles from Ottawa.
3. The Welland peat bog, about six miles north of Welland.
4. The Nonquon bog, on the New York & Ottawa Railway, and about 40 miles from Ottawa.
5. The Perth bog, a mile and a half from Perth.
6. The Victoria Road bog, about a mile from Victoria road station on the Midland division of the Grand Trunk Railway.

The bulletin contains a descriptive report of each bog, showing the location, area and structure, and giving an estimate of the available supply of peat fuel with records of analyses, calorific values, etc., and should be of particular interest to those engaged in, or connected with, the development of Canada's peat resources.

A fuel testing plant is now being erected at Ottawa in which the values of peat for the production of power and gas will be demonstrated, and the Department proposes to carry on a very thorough investigation of this subject.

Last Tie Severed.

The last of the ties that bound Lord Dundonald to Ottawa has been severed.

His house and grounds at Rockliffe have been sold to an Ottawa speculator and the property, which consists of [illegible] acres in all, will be broken into building lots.

When Lord Dundonald left Ottawa it was given out that he was building a country residence at Rockliffe and that [illegible] this permanent public attachment to Canada he would return to Ottawa to live. It was generally understood that Lord Dundonald had a warm spot in his heart for Canada — particularly for Ottawa.

The sale of the property would, however, seem to indicate that His Lordship has decided to remain in the Old Country.

McWilliams, representing the Board of management of the Peterborough Protestant Home, will attend a conference of Charities and Correction to be held in Toronto next week. The particular part of the conference that they are interested in is the house of refuge work.

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with seeming success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it is constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another, everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

MOUNT ROBSON

In a letter received by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway from the Rev. George Kinney of Keremeos, B.C., who made a successful ascent of Mount Robson, the highest peak on the Canadian Rockies and which feat was chronicled some days ago, he says:—

"You are already aware of the value of this wonderful mountain to your road. Our party was one of the first to ever visit the mountain. The last three summers have been spent by me in this work and my discoveries are quite important. I have no hesitation in emphatically stating that from the scenic standpoint, Mt. Robson and vicinity is without a peer. Nothing in the Rockies or Selkirks can touch this one beauty spot: Forest fringed emerald lakes, Berg Lake with its icebergs floating at all times on its surface, countless glaciers and towering crags and its "Valley of 1000 falls" are but a few of the interesting features of this superb mountain.

CURE THAT OBSTINATE SORE.

Where Ordinary Salves fail Zam-Buk Succeeds.

Chronic sores which cause trouble by "breaking open," may be cured by Zam-Buk, as well as recent injuries and diseases. If you suffer from some old sore—hidden, perhaps, but none the less painful for that—don't dally, apply Nature's healing essences as provided in Zam-Buk. Mrs. A. E. Ashton, of 111 Vickers Street, Fort William, tells how valuable Zam-Buk is as a family balm. She says:—"We first used Zam-Buk for cuts and bruises, etc., and found it so satisfactory that my husband started using it for a chronic sore. For a long time he had been bothered with an old sore on his leg, and had used various preparations, yet nothing had permanently cured it. He began applying Zam-Buk balm, and was very soon agreeably surprised to notice a great improvement.

"It was only a matter of a short time before Zam-Buk had thoroughly cleansed the sore of all foul matter and healing commenced. It is now some months since the sore was completely closed, and there is no likelihood of it breaking out again.

"Since then my baby, eighteen months old, has been cured of eczema on the scalp by Zam-Buk. This eczema came in red pimples, and it rubbed or scratched, formed into sores. The child was very fretful from the irritation of the scalp, but whenever Zam-Buk was applied it seemed to bring the greatest relief. Frequent applications were effective in clearing all traces of the disease from the baby's scalp in a short space of time. I feel it my duty to give the credit where due, and I cheerfully recommend Zam-Buk to all sufferers from chronic sores, bad leg, or eczema."

Zam-Buk is Nature's own healing balm, being composed of pure herbal essences. It is a sure cure for eczema ringworm, ulcers, cuts, burns, bruises poisoned sores, chronic wounds, bad leg, piles, festering sores, chapped hands, cold-sores, frost-bite, and all skin injuries and diseases. Druggists and stores everywhere sell at 50c. a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto; 3 boxes $1.25. You are warned against harmful imitations represented to be "just as good."

TWO NEW MARCHES.

To Be Played at First Concert By the 57th Band.

It is expected that the opening concert of a winter series to be given by the 57th Regimental Band will take place within a couple of weeks. The band is preparing an excellent program, four numbers of which will be the beautiful Masseniello overture, a grand patriotic selection, Under the British Flag, and two new marches written by Mr. Gliddon, the conductor of the band:

One of the marches is the 57th Regiment, and is dedicated by the composer to Lieut.-Col. Stevenson and the officers of the regiment. Both marches have been rehearsed by the band, and the bandsmen are quite enthusiastic over their possibilities. They are tunefully attractive and should prove popular selections.

KINRADE CONFESSOR WRONG.

Montreal, Oct. 13.—From evidence collected in this city it is believed there is ample ground for pronouncing the story of Edward William Bedford about having murdered Ethel Kinrade at Hamilton a fake. This evidence has been secured at the office of the White Star-Dominion Line here. Bedford stated to Scotland Yard officials that he sailed from Montreal after committing the murder on the steamship Laurentic under the name of Christopher. The murder was committed in February, and the Laurentic did not make her first trip until April, and although the lists have been searched since she made that trip no such name as Christopher is to be found.

An Ottawa despatch says that no communications have yet been received by State of Justice Departments from the London authorities in respect to the Kinrade case.

Hamilton, Oct. 13.—There are several discrepancies in Bedford's story that he murdered Miss Ethel Kinrade, compared with the facts known.

He says he committed the murder in the summer of 1908, whereas the crime was committed in February last.

He speaks of the Kinrade house as a corner house, when it is almost in the middle of the block.

He says he fired five shots; the police found eight or nine bullets.

He intimates that the shooting occurred near the front of the house, instead of in the kitchen.

He says that he escaped through a window in the back of the house; the ground was covered with light snow, and the only tracks in the back yard were those of a girl, so the police claim, and Florence says the murderer left by the front door.

The description of the man Bedfort says hired him to do the deed is about the description the police sent broadcast in printed form of the alleged murderer. It was the description Florence furnished the afternoon of the tragedy.

The points upon which the stories of Bedfort and Florence agree are:

That the murderer was dressed roughly, although on the stand Florence said he did not look exactly like a tramp.

Bedfort says the girl who admitted him to the Kinrade house was dark, and about 24 years of age. That is a fairly accurate description of Florence.

VOL. XXXII NO. 241 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, FRIDAY OCTOBER 15, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

The Water Front for Freight Sheds for the New C.P.R. Line

City Gains Many Advantages by Moving Freight Sheds to the River Bank and by Getting the New Railway Through to the West

What will Peterborough do with the water front which lies between the C.P.R. spur line to the Quaker Oats and the east side of Water street? As a matter of fact is it a water front, or is it so called because one can look from the city property across the C.P.R. property and see the water of the Otonabee river?

The number of uses to which the city could put that property to are many, if one was to listen to all, but so far not one scheme would directly bring a revenue to the city's coffers. A market would be a failure. A shipping yard for canal traffic would be a failure as the C.P.R. tracks are already there and have to be crossed. To locate a factory means the free gift of the property upon which several thousand dollars have already been spent. For a public building it is not suitable.

If the land was used for any of the above purposes many thousands of dollars would have yet to be spent upon it, in filling up and in grading the water street hill to get an entrance and exit. In short the so-called water front is a white elephant in the hands of the city.

The C.P.R. Company comes along and offers to go to a great deal of extra expense to put a new line through Peterborough which will place the city on a direct route to the Canadian West, and to spend several million dollars here in construction if the city will give them those few acres of water front on which to erect new freight sheds and place their sidings to accommodate the local business.

Some of the advantages thus gained are that the local freight trains will not be shunting across George street all hours of the day. The freight sheds and freight business will be removed from the station and from George street altogether. The freight offices will be in the center of the city where business men can go to do business without wasting an hour or so in going and coming. The freight will be handled a much shorter distance and the merchants will get their goods quicker. New and more modern methods for handling freight will be adopted and the new quarters will be ideal for the city and the company. It would also separate the local traffic from the through traffic entirely and only through trains would interfere with George street.

Ask any manufacturer in Peterborough what it would be worth to them to be on a direct line to the West? Without exception they would say they would save hundreds and some thousands of dollars yearly. It would be a great inducement for new concerns to locate in the prettiest city in Canada, that has large water powers, water traffic and a through railway connection to the east and to the west. It is a direct route to the west that is required to make Peterborough's position as a manufacturing city almost perfect.

If Peterborough is to have manufacturers it must have direct transportation in all directions. The railways furnish this and they are entitled to fair play if not liberal treatment from the city. A new factory gets every thing it asks for, but what good is the factory if it cannot reach the markets where its goods are in demand. The C.P.R. has done much for Peterborough and it has offered to do more, it is up Peterborough to accept the offer.

Honored Resident Gone Christopher Leary Dead

In the death of Christopher Leary yesterday morning at the residence of his son, Mr. Robert Leary, 182 McDonnel street, Peterborough county loses one of its pioneers, a citizen held in the highest esteem by a host of friends in this city and in other municipalities. He was Canadian born and had seen the country develop from primitive conditions which in his early years he experienced to its present era of progressiveness. He had passed the allotted three score years and ten and was privileged to enjoy this life through a much longer lapse. At the time of his death he was in his eighty-ninth year and up till eleven months ago had enjoyed excellent health, the reward of a well spent life.

The late Mr. Leary was born in Kingston, February, 14th, 1821. When he reached the age of seven he moved with his parents to the township of Haldimand. This journey was made in a clumsy cart drawn by oxen, the beats of burden then in general use throughout the country.

On March 8th, 1849 he was married to the late Anne Weir of Otonabee, who predeceased him June 15th, 1896. When the late Mr. Leary moved to this county he resided in Douro, where he farmed for a number of years, afterward coming in to Peterborough.

He entered the distilling business on the property where Mr. Thos. Rehill now resides. Mr. Leary had the distinction of erecting the first brick dwelling in this city. Mr. Leary afterwards moved to North Monaghan where he purchased the Boswell farm For a number of years he was elected councillor on the township council rendering faithful service in that position. About that time he handled considerable real estate. Later Mr. Leary went to Minden and during his residence there his wife passed away. After this bereavement Mr. Leary returned to Peterborough spending his declining years with his son, Eleven months ago his health began to fail and during the interim his condition gradually became weaker until his death yesterday morning which was practically the natural result of his old age.

Of a family of eight children five are living. They are John E. of Cheyenne, Oklahoma; Daniel A. and William T. of Corpus Christie, Texas; Charles C., of Los Angeles, Cal., and Robert H., of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock from the residence of Mr. R. Leary, 182 McDonel street, and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery.

The late Christopher Leary was a stanch member of the Church of England, and in politics was a Liberal. His sterling qualities as a citizen, as a neighbor and as a friend won for him an enviable position in the regard of a host of people who will extend their sincere sympathy to Mr. R. Leary in his bereavement.

SHEPHERD PERJURY CHARGES DISMISSED BY THE MAGISTRATE

The Denial of Shepherd's Statements Were Too General and Too Broad, Said Mr. Dumble—Not Sufficient Evidence to Commit for Trial

The Shepherd perjury charges fell flat. Magistrate D. W. Dumble did not take long to give his judgment When the evidence was all in he said that there was not sufficient to warrant him committing the defendant for trial, and both charges were thrown out.

Robt. H Shepherd was one of the witnesses at the West Peterborough election protest trial. He made statements under oath in the witness box at that time which caused Messrs. Brundsett and Wilson to lay charges of perjury against him. Shepherd was arrested and allowed out on bail. He got a hearing before the police magistrate yesterday morning

Magistrate Dumble in sizing up the charge, said that he was not dealing with the morality of the case or the differences of the two parties. All I have to do is to take the evidence submitted to me and decide whether or not it is sufficient to commit Shepherd for trial. The magistrate characterised the denials of Shepherd's statements as too broad and general and dismissed the charges.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

When the police court resumed at three o'clock yesterday afternoon several witnesses were heard.

The first witness heard was Geo. Benton, jr., who swore that he wrote to Shepherd, at the instance of Mr. Burnham to send information of the workings of the Liberals during the campaign to Mr. W. H. Moore.

Herbert Kendry, an active worker in the Conservative interests said that during the campaign there was a suspicion of corruption in the Liberal ranks, but he did not know that Shepherd had been engaged as a detective.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, the defeated Conservative candidate was put in the box, and said that he knew that Shepherd had been detained as a detective. He did not, however, know of any money being paid to him. He acquiesced in the detectives being employed but they were for purely detective purposes. He was not aware that Shepherd had bribed any voters.

This wound up the Wilson charge against Shepherd and the magistrate gave out the decision as above noted.

BRUNDRETTE CHARGE.

His worship opined, when the Brundrette charge was commenced, that the evidence would be practically the same as in the previous charge and he did not think it necessary to hear a lot of witnesses.

Mr. Brundrette, however, wished to go into the box and make his statements under oath to show his employers he had taken no part what characterized Shepherd's statements over in the election campaign. He in the witness box at the election protest trial as being absolutely false. He said Shepherd had seen him and Wilson about the election, and said he wanted to work in the interests of the Conservative party as the Liberals had not used him fairly. The witness told Shepherd, however, that he could give him no information as he was taking no part in the contest.

This was all the evidence taken and the magistrate dismissed that charge also.

MORNING SESSION.

The preliminary hearing in connection with the charge of perjury against Robt. H. Shepherd, arising out of the West Peterborough election trial, was commenced before Police Magistrate Dumble in the court yesterday morning. There was only a small attendance of spectators. Crown Attorney R. E. Wood appeared for the Crown, and Mr. G. N. Gordon for the accused.

The information and complaint of John G. M. Wilson was taken up first. It states that Robert H. Shepherd did, on the trial of the election petition falsely, wilfully and corruptly depose and swear to the following effect: That he, the said Robert H. Shepherd, on the 20th day of September, 1908, had been engaged by one James Kendry, and the said complainant to pretend to be a supporter of James Robert Stratton, and to work in his committee rooms, and sit in Mr. Stratton's committee rooms and get all the information he could and supply such information to the said Wilson and Roland M. Waddell; whereas, in truth and in fact no such arrangement nor engagement was made between the said Shepherd on the one part, and the said James Kendry on the other part, or between any of them on the said day of September, 1908, nor at any time, and the said Robert M. Shepherd did then and there on the said trial commit wilful and corrupt perjury, contrary to the provision of the criminal code.

"I do not care to elect," announced Mr. Gordon, on behalf of Shepherd, and I am ready to go on with the case.

Herbert S. Wood, the first witness called, gave formal evidence as to acting as registrar of the court during the election trial, and to the form of oath administered to the defendant.

The Crown Attorney announced that Mr. Berryman, the Court stenographer, during the trial, had been subpoenaed, but that it would not be possible for him to be present before Saturday. In the meantime he suggested that the certified copy of the evidence, which had been secured from the stenographer, should be put in until verified by Mr. Berryman. This was agreed upon and the taking of evidence was proceeded with.

John G. M. Wilson, one of the complainants, was the next witness called. He testified that he was employed at the Canadian General Electric Works, and had been there for a number of years. Mr. Wood read the parts of Shepherd's evidence given at the trial, in which it was stated that at a meeting in Mr. Kendry's office during the election it had been arranged between the defendant and Messrs. Kendry and Wilson, that Shepherd should act as a spy in the Conservative interests in the Liberal committee rooms. The witness denied that there had been any such arrangements entered into.

To Mr. Gordon witness stated that he had never worked for Mr. Burnham during the election.

"Did you ever canvass any votes during the election?"

"No, sir."

"You have a telephone in your room at the White House?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did Mr. Burnham or the Conservative party pay for that telephone?"

"No, sir; not to my knowledge".

"Did you pay for the telephone yourself?"

"No, sir; no bill has ever been presented to me."

"It was put in previous to the election?"

"I think it was, yes."

"Have you received any bills for long distance calls?"

"No, sir."

"Were you chairman of No. 1 Ward during the last election?"

"No, sir."

"Were you an officer of the Young Conservative Club at the time of the election?"

"Yes, I think I was on the Executive."

On the Sunday in question witness said that he had met Shepherd about 2 o'clock, and they had gone to Mr. Kendry's office. The witness walked up George street and Shepherd went up by way of Water street.

"Why did you do that?" asked Mr. Gordon.

"At Shepherd's suggestion," replied the witness.

The matter of seeing Mr. Kendry had been arranged two or three days before, the witness said. Shepherd had stated that he wanted to see Mr. Kendry. They had stayed in Mr. Kendry's office probably an hour. Shepherd had stated, the witness testified, that he was dissatisfied with the Liberal party, that Mr. Stratton and others had promised him things, which they had not carried out. They had not talked about the vote in No. 1 Ward, and Mr. Kendry had not stated

House of Refuge Wanted in Peterborough Shortly

A house of refuge for the poor of the city is the next proposition that the council will have to take up in the way of public institutions. It is understood that the time is near at hand when the aldermen will be approached with a plan for housing and caring for the poor. That plan will, in short, be a request that the city provide a house of refuge—probably for the care of both men and women and probably only for the men. If the latter the Protestant Home will take care of the women, and it is understood that that would be a popular scheme with the Protestant Home Board.

Whatever comes of it the fact still remains that this city needs a house of refuge and there is no reason why one should not be provided. Peterborough has the poor, it has the farm of 60 acres and it has the money. The grand jury repeatedly deplores the lack of proper provision for the poor and needy. The department at Toronto has often referred to the same thing. Yet nothing has been done by the city.

The isolation hospital, if built, will be put on the Hilliard farm. That is the very place for the house of refuge. The two buildings could be placed in the south lot of the farm overlooking the city and that beautiful property could not be devoted to a more humane purpose than as a home for the poor and old and for the sick. All the rest of the farm is then available for the use of the home, and it is large enough and fertile enough to practically make the home self-sustaining. If not a few more acres adjoining could be bought and make it so.

The aldermen who take this matter up and post themselves on the subject so as to be ready when the time comes will be doing a really great work.

THE WEATHER.

Cold, with rain.

Little Boy Killed a Young Woman

Pittsburg, Oct. 14.—Angered because he had been scolded, and, believing his cousin, Margaret Lang, aged 18, had complained to his mother, little George Augustian, aged 7, shot and instantly killed the young woman today while she was in the Augustian home in Millvale.

Miss Lang had been visiting with Mrs. John Augustian, and at noon, the two sons, George and John, aged five, came racing into the house from school with mud and dirt on their shoes. Miss Lang, it is said, called the mother's attention to the dirt on the boys' shoes.

Many Girls are Reported Missing

Tiverton, R.I., Oct. 14.—New England today is searching for a human head, in the hope that it will clear up one of the most puzzling mysteries of years, and relieve the anxiety of several fathers and mothers, who are sure that the dismembered body that has been found, in pieces, in the woods near here, is that of their own daughter. All the portions of the chopped-up body, with the exception of the head have been found, and Medical-Examiner Stimson, after a thorough examination, has made the statement that the fiends who cut up the body began their bloody work almost before the spark of life had left the girl.

The woods are being scoured by a great posse, and if the girl's head remains in this vicinity, it is more than probable that it will be found, and the identity of the girl revealed. When the head is found it will be known whether the girl was Amelia St. Jean, 19, of Woonsocket, or Mildred H. Higgins, 15, of Boston, or one of the other half dozen girls who have been reported missing in the past few days, though the police declare their belief that the body was that of Miss Higgins. The Boston girl was only a child in years, and not fully matured, while Miss St. Jean, who was 19 years old, was more fully developed than the dismembered body found here.

Every day since the murder was first known, some portion of the girls dismembered body has been found.

The arms and foot and ankle of the right leg were found late yesterday about a mile south of the spot where the torso was found. They were near the road and had evidently been thrown from a speeding automobile.

Proving Dr. Cook a Prevaricator

New York, Oct. 14.—The fight of the Peary adherents to prove that Dr. Frederick A. Cook did not discover the North Pole, today took a new track, the Peary followers this time, by attacking Dr. Cook's alleged conquest of Mt. McKinley, attempting to show, by interference, that Dr. Cook is not to be believed.

In Buffalo, Dr. Cook gave out an interview in which he declared he would prove on Friday that he had climbed Mt. McKinley, and thus set at rest that controversy. In that interview he claimed that he had sent to Missoula, Mont., for Barrill and Prince, the two guides he claimed were with him when he made his alleged ascent of Mt. McKinley in Alaska.

He declared he wanted to have them interviewed in New York, so that they could tell of his trip up the hitherto unscaled mountain.

NOT WITHIN 20 MILES.

In refutation of this statement, there was made public in New York this afternoon, from mysterious sources an affidavit signed by Edward N. Barrill, of Darby, Montana who swears that he is the man Cook calls "Barrill," or "Barrille," that he was with Dr. Cook on this trip; that Cook did not climb Mt. McKinley, and that, as a matter of fact, Dr. Cook was not within 20 miles of the summit of the peak.

While no one will publicly father the affidavit, it is being sent out by men known to favor the Peary cause, and is sworn to by Barrill.

The affidavit details at great length Dr. Cook's trip. Barrill swears his diary of the trip is "doctored" at Dr. Cook's orders. Barril swears that the photo Dr. Cook publishes in his book, "To the top of the Continent," as being a photograph taken at the top of Mt. McKinley, was in reality taken at the top of a glacier 20 miles away.

Barill swears that from the point where he stood when Dr. Cook the alleged faked picture, eight other peaks were visible and he called Dr. Cook's attention to the fact that they might show in the photograph, and thus prove that Dr. Cook was not at the spot he intended to claim Cook told him, Barril swears, he had elevated the lens of his camera so those other peaks would not show This photo, Barrill further swears, appears on page 227, of Dr. Cook's book, as having been made at the summit of Mt. McKinley.

RUGBY SATURDAY.

Officials Appointed for the Opening of the O.R.F.U. Season.

The officials for the Peterborough-Parkdale Rugby match at Riverside Park tomorrow afternoon are J. H. McArthur and Dr. Wood, both of Toronto. They are well known Rugby authorities and a square deal is assured.

There were between 25 and 30 players out in uniform last night and one of the best practices of the season was had. The boys are in great trim and are confident of winning their first game.

CANADIAN CLUB.

Members Failed to Attend the Reorganization Meeting.

The resurrection of the Canadian Club did not materialize last night as expected. Secretary E. L. Goodwill and Mr. R. F. McWilliams were the only two who turned up and they waited until 8.30 o'clock when Mr. McWilliams moved, seconded by Mr. Goodwill that the meeting adjourn. The members of the press present declared it carried, and the very interesting program was brought to a close while the new fife and drum band in the Orange Hall played "Tipperary."

This is the second meeting that has been called for the purpose of reorganizing the Canadian Club for the coming season, and it met with the same fate as the previous one. It appears that the spirit of patriotism which has characterized the citizens in the past, is waning, which if a fact, is much to be regretted.

Publish My Letter the World over

"Three years ago I discovered that a man subject to lumbago might just as well be dead as alive." These words—from the sincere, straightforward letter of H. P. Bushy, a well-known man in the plumbing and tinsmithing business in Portland.

One attack came after another, and lumbago got to be a chronic thing with me. I could scarcely get in a day's work before that knifing, cruel pain would attack my back! I used a gallon of liniments; not one of them seemed penetrating enough to get at the core of the pain. I read in The Montreal Witness about Nerviline, and got five bottles. It is a wonderful medicine—I could feel its soothing pain-relieving action every time it was applied. When I got the disease under control with Nerviline, I built up my strength and fortified my blood by taking Ferrozone at meals. This treatment cured me permanently, and I urge everyone to give up the thick, white, oily liniments they are using, and try an up-to-date, penetrating, pain-destroyer like Nerviline.

LETTER NO. 4311.

"Please publish my letter the world over. I want all to hear of Nerviline."

Don't be cajoled into receiving anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." Large bottles 25c.; five for $1.00. Sold everywhere or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 23

FRIDAY OCTOBER 15, 1909

THE PUBLIC WILL SUFFER.

The first result of the thirty million dollar cement merger is to increase the price of the commodity thirty cents a barrel. That means that the merger, as an initial move, proposes to take its dividends out of the pockets of the public. It is too bad that mergers and trusts do not combine with a genius for organization, a percentage of prudence and common sense. A properly operated trust can save enough money by the reduction of operating expenses, due to the centralization of management, to represent a handsome addition to its income, but seldom a trust can resist exploiting its powers as a monopoly to hold up the general public. If it only refrained from this, a long tenure of monopoly would probably be assured to it; but when the long suffering public is held up, sooner or later it exercises its dormant power of autocracy.

FEDERATION OF THE WORLD.

So long as there is no strange peace agreement among nations, it is idle to expect any decline in military and naval preparations for war. The nations will increase their armaments, pay heavier charges for maintenance, and give more and more attention to drill and discipline. Each of them will strive to develop the most effective fighting machine, will encourage inventive genius to devise the most destructive instruments of attack, and displace the old ships and guns with new ones as rapidly as it can find the means for doing so. This is emphatically the logic of the situation, and it should be admitted without demur by peace advocates. They are certainly not practical when they protest against efforts to perfect the machine while it is held for use.

But, though this is true, it does not prove that the movement to bring about a comprehensive scheme of arbitration is not practical. The peace committee of the National German-American Alliance speaks of a federation of all nations, based on a mutual guarantee of their independence and their possessions, and it should certainly be possible for the great powers to arrive at an understanding that would do away with the need of vast armies and navies. For ostensibly their chief external concern now, is commercial expansion. They are not trying to acquire new territorial possessions or to divide the earth over again. The developments of the last thirty years have led to a partition that is satisfactory upon the whole and that could not be disturbed without causing the most perplexing international complications. War is against the common interest of all nations. An old-fashioned land-grabbing campaign would be generally discountenanced. The objects are pretty well reduced to the gratification of national hatreds and of pride in the display of national strength. If moral reasons do not count against such objects there are material reasons that should count heavily. Why bear the burdens imposed by military budgets if there are no substantial gains in sight? Why put off much needed domestic reforms and permit taxes to be indulge in the bloody sport of an armed conflict?

Obviously common sense and the interests of the masses are against war. Its adherents who talk so much of the practical are swayed by passion, romantic traditions and melodramatic impulses. The reasons on the side of arbitration agreements are of such a nature that, tested by human experience, they should prevail, and given the agreements there would soon be a reduction of armaments.

MR. THOMPSON'S MODEL.

The Way She Came to Get a Permanent Engagement.

By ALICE R. WETMORE.

(Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.)

"Where are you, Bill?" came a lazy drawl from the tiny anteroom, which Thompson designated the office.

"Here," replied that gentleman as distinctly as a mouthful of brushes would permit. "It's only Carter," he explained to his model. "Or perhaps you'd rather"—

"Oh, let him come in by all means," replied the girl. "I'd rather like to see him."

A long, clean limbed young fellow lounged in, halted apathetically for a moment behind Thompson's canvas and then sunk lazily into a pile of cushions on the floor.

The girl on the model stand scrutinized him closely and made up her mind that he was the most typically lazy man she had ever seen. His voice, his walk, his carriage, had an absolute lack of effort that was positively fascinating, and to complete the impression his strong, lean face was absolutely devoid of expression.

Suddenly, however, he gazed intently and with a semblance of awakened interest at the model. The pose was rather striking. A heavy black velvet gown accentuated that peculiar transparency of coloring which accompanies a certain deep rich shade of auburn hair. A dull green background reconciled the brilliant coloring of the upper part of the picture to the dusky mysteries of the lower canvas. The pose of the figure was saved from insolence only by the winsomeness of the face.

Carter pulled lazily at his pipe and continued to gaze at the girl with half closed critical eyes. "Nice color," he finally asserted. "By Jove, that's a wonderful pose!" with a sudden burst of enthusiasm that startled the girl. "Are you engaged after you finish with Thompson?"

The other artist opened his mouth then, with a quiet smile, closed it again. The girl smiled, too, a little smile that curled her upper lip deliciously.

"No, sir; I'm not engaged next week," she replied quietly.

"Can you come to me for a two weeks' pose then, in the mornings?"

Thompson looked dubiously at the girl. "Yes, sir, I'll come," she said.

"Oh, is that you, Miss— Do you know, I forgot to ask your name," he drawled.

"Parks," the girl supplied smilingly.

The gown he gave her was also black. He had hung heavy stuff around and above the model stand until the black gown and the background mingled darkly and the white face and auburn hair fairly jumped from the gloom in a single, startling note of color.

Carter set to work with a feverish energy which quite transformed him. He tried first one pose, then another, in such rapid succession that the girl was positively bewildered.

When he had at last found one that pleased him he drawled apologetically, with a slow, winning smile, "I'm rather a hard fellow to get started, Miss Parks, but I won't give you much trouble once we're off."

The girl watched the man with fascinated eyes. He worked with the precision and energy of a splendid machine. His face shone with positive inspiration.

As for Carter himself, he was blissfully happy. With the true artist's sensitiveness he felt the absence of the usual clash between the half hearted, prosaic models and the ideals he struggled to embody by their aid. The atmosphere lacked a single inharmonious element, for the girl seemed to throw her whole personality into the work.

At last he emerged from his trance sufficiently to observe that a white line had appeared around the girl's compressed lips and that she wavered as she stood.

"It must be time to rest," he observed. "Why," as he glanced at the clock, "you've been posing for nearly an hour. Why didn't you rest?" he demanded reproachfully.

The girl sank into a chair with an amused gleam in her eyes. "I never saw anybody so completely lost," she said. "I couldn't bear to disturb you."

The next morning he found himself awaiting with unmistakable impatience the arrival of his model, and when at last she did stand before him with a smiling "Good morning" on her lips he regarded the girl with an artist's satisfaction.

She was charming in her dark street gown. Her face was flushed and her eyes bright with the exhilaration of an autumn morning, and Carter was strongly tempted to put away serious work and make a study of her as she stood. He banished the idea, however, and soon they were at work on the "masterpiece." He refused to believe it when the noon whistle insisted that it was 12 o'clock and Miss Parks departed.

The afternoon was unprecedentedly slow. He felt strangely disinclined to work and finally put aside the canvas and brought out some unfinished sketches. He worked on these until he discovered that he had converted five different heads into unmistakable likenesses of Miss Parks. Then he muttered something beneath his breath and gave up in despair.

At the end of the last day but one of the two weeks Carter realized that the central figure of his canvas was completed, and the realization brought a poignant feeling of regret. The reason for it came when it suddenly flashed upon him that tomorrow was Miss Parks' last day. And then it was that Carter made a discovery that a less inexperienced man would have made long before. It came with such a shock that he was fairly stunned. He, John Carter, the most unimpressionist of men, in love with his model!

When Miss Parks appeared the next day he greeted her with his usual cheerful "Good morning," but not another word was spoken until she had taken the old familiar pose—for the last time, he said to himself, with a pang.

There was a strange restraint of which both were aware. At last, "This is the last day of the pose," the girl ventured. Carter worked furiously. "Yes," he answered shortly. Another pause. "Then you won't want me any more?" The girl's voice strove hard to be commonplace.

Carter threw down his palette in despair. The girl kept her pose bravely, her pretty head tilted, but the eyes which met Carter's held a look which even he could not mistake. The man brushed his hand across his eyes in a quick, desperate little gesture. He seemed to have brushed the old nonchalance away. He was fairly transformed.

"Want you!" he gasped. "Want you! Don't you know I want you more than anything in the world?"

"But you don't understand," the girl began finally in a voice that was somewhat smothered by Carter's broad shoulder. "There are reasons," she continued, with dignity, "why I cannot marry you."

"I am all ears," avowed Carter solemnly, "but you won't mind if I say right now that the reasons won't make a particle of difference, will you?"

"Oh, but they will. I've been deceiving you," she confessed haltingly.

"Go on," commanded Carter more soberly. All kinds of dreadful possibilities loomed up before him.

"You'll never love me when you know," she continued, with visible effort. "I—I'm not a model at all. I'm Billy Thompson's cousin," she rushed on, "and when you came in and thought I was a professional I wouldn't let Billy tell you, and—I thought it would be such a good joke because Billy had told me how you never cared for girls or—anything and"—

"You there, Jim?" interrupted a familiar voice from the hall. The girl fled to the model stand and took her pose. Carter dabbed lazily and with perfect composure at his canvas.

Billy strolled in, an amused look in his eyes. "Nice model," he remarked. "Can I engage you for next week, my pretty maid?"

Carter turned about lazily and regarded his friend.

"I'm afraid not, Billy," he drawled. "You see, your cousin has a permanent engagement with me."

Actors Under King William III.

How summarily actors and managers were dealt with in the days of King William III. is shown by the petition of Alexander Davenant and others, dated Dec. 19, 1691, which has been found among the historical documents of the house of lords. These "sharers and adventurers in the playhouse"—this seems to have reference to the Dorset Garden theater in Whitefriars—set forth that Lord Longueville, having complained of being assaulted, together with his servants, by the guard at this famous playhouse in the course of what seems to have been a rather serious fracas, the king had given orders at the desire of the peers that no soldiers should be on duty there for the future and that the players should be "suspended from acting till they had begged pardon for the affront."

The house had also, it appears, vindicated its dignity, thus outraged in the person of one of its members, by ordering a sergeant and a soldier to be sent to the gatehouse at Whitehall, then used as a prison. The petitioners having humbly solicited the "removal of the suspension upon them" and promised to "do their best to prevent the like miscarriage for the future," it is officially noted that "the suspension on the players was removed" and that "on Dec. 29 the sergeant and soldier were on petition released."—London Standard.

Not an Affair of the Heart.

They stood at her door, and there seemed to be some constraint between them.

He was a trifle older than she, and she had the advantage of him in looks too.

In his eyes there was supplication, and in hers there were disdain, scorn, rejection.

"If I might"— he began.

"No, sir," she interrupted. "It is totally unnecessary."

"But"—

"I do not wish to hear you."

"One word."

"Not one, sir."

"Well, if you won't"—

"I want nothing you can offer me."

"But I"—

"Once for all, I tell you I want no one ever today."

She shut the door and went in, and the peddler went on to the next house.

Defiant of Fashion.

"Those people don't seem to care what the world thinks of them," said the fashionable woman.

"How do you know?"

"They still play progressive euchre and croquet."—Washington Star.

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with amazingly success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it is constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by way of mouth from one to another, everywhere. Constant patients gladly spread results. It is no act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

Don't Risk even a penny—until health returns. And I mean just exactly that. I am the one physician who says to the sick, "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help!" And for 30 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other unwarranted and uncertain medicines? Thousands upon thousands have by the past successfully used Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

Get Health

When the Nerves or Heart nerves fail, know how Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when health fails to return Dr. Shoop will himself gladly pay the druggist for that test. And for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted.

First

But write me first for an order.

This will save delay and disappointment.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but those who are not informed in why test the genuine—for I have appointed an honest and responsible druggist in almost every community, everywhere, to issue my "no risk, no pay," medicines to the sick.

Then

Tell me also which book you need.

The books below will surely open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me just as your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Pay

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Peary's Proof That Cook Wasn't at Pole

New York, Oct. 13.—A statement of Commander Robert E. Peary, which he submitted together with a map, to the Peary Aretic Club, in support of his contention that Dr. Cook did not reach the North Pole, has been made public. The statement and map have been copyrighted by the Peary Club.

In an introduction Peary says. "Some of my reasons for saying that Dr. Cook did not go to the North Pole will be understood by those who read tShe following statements of the two Eskimo boys who went with him, and who told me, and others of my party where he did go. Several Eskimos who started with Dr. Cook from Annotok in February, 1908, were at Etah, when I arrived there in August, 1908, They told me that Dr. Cook had with him after they left, two Eskimo boys or young men, two sledges and some twenty dogs. The boys were I-took-a-Shoo and Ah-Pe-Lah. I had known them from their childhood. One was about eighteen and the other about nineteen years of age.

"On my return from Cape Sheridan and at the very first settlement I touched (Nerke, near Cape Chalon) in August, 1909, and nine days before reaching Etah, the Eskimos told me in a general way, where Dr. Cook had been; that he had wintered in Jones Sound, and that he had told the white men at Etah that he had been a long way north, but that this was not so. The Eskimos laughed at Dr. Cook's story. On reaching Etah. I talked with the Eskimos there, and with the two boys and asked them to describe Dr. Cook's journey to members of my party and myself. This they did in the manner stated below.

OTHERS HEARD STORY.

Then follows a statement signed by Peary, Capt. Bartlett, Prof. McMillan and Borup and Henson, of the crew, which says in part: "The two Eskimo boys, I-Took-a-Shoo and Ah-Pe-Lah who accompanied Dr. Cook while he was away from Annotok in 1908 and 1909, were questioned separately and independently, and were corroborated by Panikpah, the father of one of them (I-Took-a-Shoo), who was personally familiar with the first third and last third of the journey, and who said that the route for the remaining third, as shown by them, was as described to him by his son after his return with Dr. Cook."

The bulk of the boys' statements was not taken by Commander Peary nor in his oresence, a fact that obviates any possible claim that they were awed by him.

The narrative of these Eskimos is as follows: They, with Dr. Cook, Francke, and nine other Eskimos, left Annotok, crossed Smith's Sound to Cape Sabine, slept in Commander Peary's old house in Payer Harbor, then west through Rice Strait to Buchanan Bay. After a few marches, Francke and three Eskimos returned to Annotok.

Dr. Cook, with the others, then proceeded up Flagler Bay, a branch of Buchanan Bay, and crossed Ellsmere Land, through the valley pass at the head of Flagler Bay, indicated by Commander Peary in 1898, and utilized by Sverdrup in 1899, to the head of Sverdrup's Bay fiord, on the west side of Ellsmere Land. Their route then lat through this fiord, thence north through Sverdrup's "Heruka Sound" and Nansen Strait.

WHERE FOUR TURNED BACK.

"On their way they killed musk-oxen and bear and made caches, arriving eventually at a point on the west side of Nansen Strait, (shore of Axel Heiberg Land or Severdrup), south of Capt. Thomas Hubbard.

"A cache was found here and the four Eskimos did not go beyond this point. Two others went on one more march, with Dr. Cook and the two boys helped to build the snow sledges, then returned without sleeping.

"After sleepat the camp where the last two Eskimos turned back, Dr. Cook and the two boys went in a northerly or north-westerly direction with two sledges and twenty odd dogs, one more march, when they encountered rough ice, and a lead of open water. They did not enter this rough ice, nor cross the lead, but turned westward or south-westward a short distance and returned to Helberg Land at a point west of where they had left the cache.

IMPORTANT SPEECH.

By French Prime Minister Preparatory to Opening of Chamber of Deputies.

Paris, Oct. 12.—Prime Minister Briand made an important speech yesterday at Perigueux, preparatory to the reopening of the Chamber of Deputies on Oct. 19. He said he considered that the Republic had now lived through its period of strife and that the era of appeasement had come.

The religious question, he asserted, had been regulated with justice, leaving the Catholics masters of their consciences and churches, allowing them the possibility of retaining the disposal of their property and permitting them to recruit their forces and to live and prosper.

The government's first act would be to pass laws for pensions for workingmen. He appealed to everybody not to allow local interests to be opposed to the general interest, and he spoke of the collaboration between capital and labor by participation in profits.

RUGBY SEASON.

Will Open on Saturday When Parkdale Plays Here.

Speaking of the game the Toronto Star says—!

Lindsay may play Peterborough in Peterborough on Thanksgiving Day, and the return match may be played the following Saturday in Lindsay.

The Peterborough seniors are not wanting for material. Among those who were out Saturday were the following: O'Connor, Lundy, Dickson, Davidson, A. Quinlan, H. Quinlan, Corkery, McKnight, Turner, Dorris, Staunton, Fitzgerald, Moore, Eccleston, Thornton, Clarke, Canniff, Hickey and others.

It is stated cement prices have increased once already since the merger.

ROGERS THE CHIEF OF POLICE.

Toronto, Oct. 13.—The long-delayed work of reorganising the Provincial poice force has at least been completed.

After a meeting of the Cabinet this morning it was learned that Inspector Joseph Rogers had been appointed head of the reorganized force.

Only the appointment of Inspector Rogers was officially announced, as the formal signing of the order in council making the appointment had not been done by the lieutenant-governor.

It is, however, regarded as more than probable as announced by the press some months ago, the Province will be divided between the north and south, and an advisory board placed in control of the force to regulate fish and game laws, the enforcement of the license law, and regular criminal investigations.

Inspector Rogers has been a member of the Provincial detective force for many years and is the senior man in the service.

GAS TURNED OFF.

But They are Thanking Their Lucky Stars That the Grape Crop is Not Injured.

St. Catharines, Ont., Oct. 13.—The grape-growers are congratulating themselves today because the frost last night was not so severe as they expected. "There was only a slight frost," said a leading grower and shipper this morning, "and the amount of damage, judging from reports we received, is very small indeed." This morning the ground here was covered with snow, and the residents of the city felt the first touch of winter in a most uncomfortable manner, through shortage of natural gas supply there was not enough gas to cook breakfast in a thousand or two homes and as these people depend on gas for heating they had no means of heating their homes.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—18 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $600. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

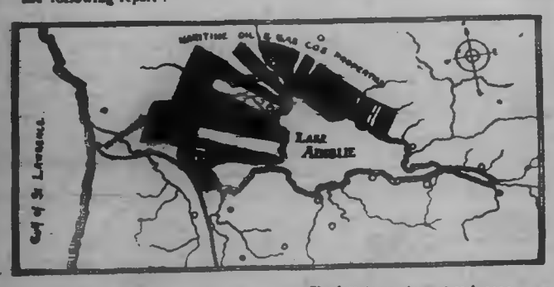
PROPERTY

The property of the Company consists of leases for oil and gas of about 25,000 acres of the best oil lands in the Lake Ainslie District, County of Inverness, Cape Breton. This district has been known for years to be an oil district. Recently Mr. F. H. Stover, who is rightly considered to be one of the best oil experts in America, examined the property, and after a thorough and searching examination his opinion of the possibilities of this property is contained in the following report:



Charlottetown, August 2nd, 1909

To the Directors of The Maritime Oil & Gas Company Limited;

Dear Sirs,—I beg to say that I have thoroughly examined the properties held under lease by your company for oil and gas, and as a result of the examination I beg to report:—

1st. I am familiar with the oil regions of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, and Ontario, having operated largely in these districts for the last twenty five years.

2nd. In my opinion Lake Ainslie District shows almost exactly the same indications of oil as appeared in Oil Creek in Pennsylvania, which has been the greatest oil producing district in America. Oil Creek was the only district where oil in any quantity was to be found seeping from the rocks, and in the Lake Ainslie District the same conditions are to be found. The oil is seeping from the rocks on the shores of the Lake. The difference between the two districts is that the oil sand rock in the Lake Ainslie district is thicker and hence more liable to be a better producing oil sand. I have taken samples of the oil as it comes from the rock, and I find that the oil is of a very high lubricating quality, and will require but little refining to make it a very valuable lubricating oil. I consider that there is no question of the existence of a very large quanity of oil and gas in this property, and the prospects of striking oil upon the Company's property are of the very best.

Yours truly F. H. STOVER

After the examination Mr Stover immediately became financially interested in the Company, and has accepted the office of President and General Manager of the Company

The Company proposes to drill several wells upon this property at once, and for that purpose arrangements have been made with Messrs. Stover Bros., oil contractors, to place a first-class drilling equipment upon the property, this much can be said—it is the very best equipment possible to obtain for this purpose, and it is such that the contractors guarantee that under the conditions such as they expect to find in Lake Ainslie their equipment will drill a well to the depth of three thousand feet in two months.

STOCK.

Mr Alexander G. Baillie, of Port Hastings, is Trustee for a certain portion of the Company's stock, which is offered for sale for the purpose of development. Of this stock it is proposed to sell a block of three hundred thousand shares, starting at five cents per share.

100 shares	$ 5.00
200 shares	10.00
300 shares	15.00
400 shares	20.00

1,000 shares	50.00
2,000 shares	100.00
10,000 shares	500.00

PROSPECTS FOR INVESTORS.

The history of the oil business in America, from its very inception to the present date, is one continuous story of financial success. Thousands of men, formerly poor, became enormously wealthy. More money has been made out of oil than out of any industry in the world today. When oil is once struck by the Oil Company the value of the stock is increased enormously. The following is a small list of the oil companies in operation less than three years, showing the original price of their stock and the highest price it has reached:—

	Original Price	Highest
New York Oil Co	$ .50	$ 200.00
Union Oil Co	1.00	1,500.00
Eldorado Oil Co	.50	5.00
Keane River Oil Co	1.00	50.00
Pantera Oil Co	.25	5.00
Hartford Oil Co	3.00	110.00
Home Oil Co	5.00	5,000.00

Contracts have been entered into on behalf of the Company, and to which the Company is a party with William Harrington, of Lake Ainslie, in the County of Inverness, dated July 9th, 1909, and Alexander G Baillie, of Port Hastings, dated August, 1909, which contracts are on file in the office of the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, Halifax.

ANOTHER FLAG EPISODE

HOW A CANADIAN SHIP FARED IN AUSTRALIA.

Officials of Port Adelaide Failed to Recognize the Canadian Ensign and Ordered a British Flag In Its Place —After a Heated Dispute With Handspikes Explanation of Affair Was Arrived At.

All the talk lately about an alleged insult to the British flag in Toronto, started one of the city's well-known wholesale merchants reminiscing the other day; and he told an interesting story of a flag episode in Port Adelaide, South Australia, in which he himself was a participant. Things became very lively for a while, but in the end, just as in the Toronto affair, it was found that the whole thing was due to a mistake. But let him tell it in his own words:

"In 1883 I was an able seamen on board the Canadian barque 'Lake Erie,' on a voyage from London, England, to Port Adelaide, South Australia, with general cargo. Our commander was Captain John Keay, our chief officer was George Fullam, and the second officer was Jack Bird, all Nova Scotia men, and two-thirds of the crew of 28 men were Nova Scotians or Canadians.

"We arrived in Port Adelaide one bright morning, and like all deep-water ships, we dressed ship when we moored alongside of our dock, and we were very proud to haul up the Canadian ensign at our peak. During the forenoon we were visited by a messenger from the deputy port warden's office, who came aboard and ordered our flag to be pulled down and the British ensign to be hoisted. Naturally, our mate being on his own ship, was not used to taking orders. A quick right and left—one between the eyes and the other in the neighborhood of the chin—put the messenger from the port warden's office out of business, and a few seconds later the bo'sun and the bo'sun's mate were busy piping 'All hands aft.' On our arrival aft we were told that the warden had ordered the Canadian flag to be hauled down, and the mate ordered that we line up alongside the ship, every man in fact everybody on the ship, including the cook—to handle a handspike.

"On the return of the messenges to the port warden's office a couple more messengers were sent down, and from the dock, without coming aboard the ship, they commanded that we haul down the flag that was flying; and on the mate still refusing to do so a detachment of police was sent for. Naturally, when the police came aboard, a bunch of sailors that had been six months at sea were ready for a rough-house; and for a few minutes it looked like an Irish wake. It did not last long; but while it lasted it was hot. During the fracas the commander, Captain Keay, came aboard, and by instructions from the office, or rather the shipowners' agents the commander was compelled to haul down the flag and substitute the red ensign.

"Now this happened to a British ship in a British port, and naturally enquiries were made as to why such a thing should occur. In fact, our commander threatened to haul his ship out into the offing and lay at anchor and fly his flag in spite of the South Australian Government; but when it was explained, it shows how easily mistakes can occur through the misinterpretation of instructions by an over-zealous officer, only anxious to carry out his interpretations of the instructions.

"It appears that at that time South Australia was inaugurating a navy of her own, consisting of a number of small coasting gunboats. The South Australian flag is a blue ensign, the same as the British Royal Navy Reserve, but which had a round, white disc on the lower wing with an aboriginal or nigger in the corner. When the navy was inaugurated, they adopted the blue ensign with the nigger for their naval flag, the same as the British Royal Navy adopted the white ensign with the red cross of St. Andrew, and in adopting this flag for the South Australian navy they prohibited all Australian vessels from flying anything but the red ensign or British ensign; but in making out their regulations, instead of using the words 'South Australian vessels,' it read, "all colonial vessels," consequently the ship I was in, hailing from a British colony, came under the regulations as a colonial vessel and consequently under the rules of the port a colonial vessel was compelled to fly the British flag instead of the colonial. Needless to say, the matter was quickly remedied, and a very short time afterward a deputation again visited our ship from the port warden's office with instructions for us to hoist the Canadian flag, which was done with great ceremony, resulting in a general piping aft of the watch for grog, and a half-holiday."

Writes From Arctic.

A letter has been received at the geological survey at Ottawa from V. Steffansson, who is far up in the Arctic circle, conducting natural researches in conjunction with Dr. Anderson. The two gentlemen are living among the Eskimos, their principal diet being caribou.

Steffansson says that he has come in contact with many Eskimos who never before have seen a white man. The two explorers got along well during their long stay in the north, where they will remain for over a year more. They expect to spend next winter at the mouth of the Copper Mine River.

The letter was written on Feb. 12, taking five months to reach Ottawa.

Capital Abroad.

Why is it that so much Canadian capital is invested abroad? Millions upon millions of Canadian money are invested in Mexico in water-powers and irrigating lands. Much is also used in the American stock market. It looks as if this were not a good country for the investor.—Daily Review, Peterborough

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny inside, hidden nerves, says Dr. Shoop governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

QUINQUENNIAL ECHOES.

Toronto Ladies Still Talk of Their Strong-Minded Guests.

If the half were to be printed of what is being told about delegates to the Quinquennial Council in Toronto that town would not contain the writing thereof. There were adequate daily reports as to how the council occupied its business hours, but the private lives of its members while there is a subject which has been left to gossip, and some funny stories are circulating currency.

Some of the European visitors stopped at other points on their way to Toronto, and it is said that a Montreal family, returning to the city for a brief sojourn in their town house in preparation of their visit to the city, found entirely to their surprise, a prominent Teutonic delegate to the council occupying their house and bossing their servants. They deprecated her untimely arrival during their absence and the upset condition of the house, and assured her of their complete surprise. But their guest comforted her involuntary entertainers with the assurance of the great comfort of her entertainment, and her intention to remain until it was time to move on. Meeting later on in Toronto, the German lady was equally candid in informing the Montreal people that she was not being half so well entertained in the Queen City.

There is an old cricket story, which saw the light in the times when cricket matches never extended into the second day, about some Englishmen exiled to France, who desired to alleviate their homesickness by indulgence in the national game. They accepted a free lease from a wealthy landowner near the town of a portion of his pasture, and soon came to feel so much at home that their secretary wrote their benefactor requesting him to remove his cows from their cricket field. Some of the delegates must have been descended from these old cricketers.

A Toronto lady who bears a foreign name, but yields in loyal British sentiment to no one in the Empire, was called upon to entertain a lady from over the seas and one daughter. The expected guest asked the privilege of bringing another daughter, and eventually turned up with three daughters and a maid. No doubt the hospitable hostess, who has never winced under the hardships of synod time, began to understand why the quartering of soldiers used to be unpopular, and has ceased to be customary, especially when her enterprising guests turned her out of her own room.

Niagara's Age.

According to Mr. Spencer, of the Canadian Geological Survey, the great spectacle of Niagara Falls, as we see it to-day, has been about 30,000 years in the making. Mr. Spencer, in common with other geologists who have studied Niagara, believes that originally the cataract fell into Lake Ontario over three steps, or platforms, the first being 35 feet high, and the third being at or near the edge of the lake proper, instead of seven miles back up the river as at present. It took the stream 35,000 years to hollow out the first three miles of the gorge, but only 4,000 years for the other four miles. The difference of time in these two stages of the erosion, and of the cataract's recession of seven miles in all, is explained on the theory of a sudden and enormous increase of the volume of water, caused by seismic disturbance, or earthquake.

Formerly the Niagara River served as outlet to Lake Erie only. After the upheaval, the waters of Lakes Huron, Michigan, and Superior, which previously had debouched directly into Lake Ontario, were diverted into Lake Erie into the Niagara River, swelling that stream to six times its former volume. Mr. Spencer's figures, of course, can be taken only approximately, as even contemporary authorities are at variance as to how the Falls of Niagara have receded during the past fifty years—some estimates making it 1.28 metres per annum, others 1.53. Moreover, while the U.S. Geological Survey declares that the rate of recession of the Falls has increased during the last fifteen years, the corresponding Canadian official report shows that the rate has decreased some 66 centimetres per annum.

Elevators and Flour Mills.

The Department of the Interior has recently issued a map of that part of Canada lying west of the Great Lakes, showing the positions of grain elevators and flour and oatmeal mills, together with tables showing their individual and collective capacity. In the three provinces of Manitoba, Alberta, and Saskatchewan there are 650 grain elevators, with an aggregate capacity of 43,881,900 bushels. The terminal elevators at Lake Superior have a capacity of 20,152,700 bushels, and there are also transfer elevators at eastern points with a capacity of 14,686,000 bushels. Thus the total elevator capacity of Western Canada amounts to 78,016,140 bushels. Manitoba has 50 flour and oatmeal mills, with a daily capacity of 17,365 barrels; Saskatchewan has 25 mills, with a possible daily output of 3,265 barrels; while Alberta has 17 mills, with a possible daily output of 1,530 barrels.

Fish Freights.

In order to encourage the developments of the Canadian fishing industry on the Pacific coast, where the bounty system prevailing in the Atlantic provinces does not obtain, the Dominion Government recently passed an Order-in-Council granting a bonus equal to a rebate of one-third of the express freight rates on all shipments of fish billed from Vancouver by Canadian fishing companies or Canadian fishermen to any point in Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba. This rebate or bonus applies to any variety of sea-fish caught in Canadian waters, including salmon, halibut, oysters, crabs, and clams.

CROOKS INVADE LONDON.

Old Time Tricks Still Worked on the Public.

Hundreds of the cleverest sharpers and "crooks" from various parts of the world have lately invaded London for the purpose of preying on those very innocent people—visitors mostly—who fondly imagine they are going to get something for nothing.

These criminals have the same old "gag," the same old tricks, the same old bundles of flash notes; but they can always find new victims to fleece of hoarded wealth, and they manage to do their work so neatly and so efficiently that at times even the "flats" themselves do not know they have been swindled.

"The police," says a well-known Scotland Yard detective, "do their best to protect those people who are not able to protect themselves from these rogues, but, of course, we cannot always succeed.

"One of the most astonishing things is that the older the swindle the more it seems to flourish. Take the purse trick for instance. The sharper offers to sell three half crowns in a purse for one half crown.

"His many victims do not stop to reason out the matter themselves. They think they are going to get something for nothing, and, naturally, they are trapped. They find only three pennies in the purse.

"Then there is the three-card trick which is practiced in trains and on race-courses as often as ever it was. Here again the deluded folk who are lured into 'finding the lady,' imagine they are smart enough to trick the trickster, and that they will go home with pockets bulging with gold.

"West End hotels are the headquarters of the confidence trick gentleman. As a rule, they are well-educated men, and, of course, nimble-witted. They dress stylishly, talk big,' and show a considerable display of wealth while they mark down their victims.

"One of them 'tells the tale.' He has inherited a fortune, and in order to show his deep appreciation of his new friend's many acts of kindness he intends to intrust him with $250,000 to invest for him.

"Confederates—all apparent strangers to each other — sing the lucky man's praises, and eventually the new friend consents to hand over just as much money as he possesses in order to show that he, too, has confidence in the honesty of the smooth-tongued swindler. And the fool and his money are parted—forever.

"Quite recently the police broke up a clever gang of Australians—one of whom was actually a member of the Automobile Club—who swindled a man of hundreds of pounds by the old trick of backing a horse after the result of the race was known; but in spite of the publicity given to the case this particular form of swindle will be practiced in the future with similar results."

An Accomplished Lady.

Mrs. Hertha Ayrton, widow of the late Prof. William Edward Ayrton, F.R.S., the famous electrical engineer and inventor, has herself achieved much in the realm of science.

This accomplished lady is the only female member of the Institution of Electrical Engineers, and though debarred by her sex from election to the Royal Society on her nomination to that distinction after reading an able paper before that body, she was awarded the first medal ever granted by the society to a woman.

At an age when most girls are puzzling over the toilets of their dolls, Mrs. Ayrton was showing an aptitude for deep and serious study in various directions, and she had only just turned sixteen when she was earning her own living as a teacher at Girton.

Mrs. Ayrton discovered herself the connection between current, length and pressure in the arc, as also the cause and laws of hissing therein, and has written learnedly and lucidly upon the subject. This remarkable lady has also read interesting papers on special scientific subjects at several of the meetings of the British Association, as well as before the International Electrical Congress and the Institution of Electrical Engineers.

The Monks of Old London.

The monk was generally, at any rate in London, drawn from the ranks of the gentry and the aristocracy. He usually paid a good round fee to be taken into an abbey or a priory, and he lived for the most part in ease and comfort—often in luxury, as luxury was reckoned in those days. Many of the abbeys and priories were little less than high-class social clubs for younger sons. They were often as exclusive as the West-End social clubs are to-day. The monks of London frequently vied with the nobles in horses and hawks and hounds, and in every other accompaniment of a sportsman and a man of the world. They dressed in the latest and gayest fashion, with nothing to mark their special calling. They lived the fashionable and worldly life to the full.—Nineteenth Century.

Do Only "Dreadnoughts" Count.

The "King Edwards," "Lord Nelsons," and even the "Royal Sovereigns" are still formidable ships, and could render an excellent account of themselves. It will be many years before an enemy's fleet will be composed only of "Dreadnoughts," and therefore our older ships will be able to find opponents with whom they are evenly matched. Between two fleets, however, of equal numbers and equally well drilled one of "Dreadnoughts" and the other of "King Edwards," victory should declare in favor of the "Dreadnoughts."—"Navalis," in The Fortnightly Review.

Caught!

He was a smart junior, with a rising reputation for genius in the art of cross-examination. Said he to witness, a garrulous but alert old lady—"How much money had you in your pocket when you say it was picked?" "Four shillings, two sixpences, and a sovereign in gold," came the reply trippingly on the tongue. "Did you ever see a sovereign in anything but gold?" was the next question cynically put. "Yes; I once saw King Edward in a carriage."

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. MOUNT ROBSON

In a letter received by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway from the Rev. George Kinney of Keremeos, B.C., who made a successful ascent of Mount Robson, the highest peak on the Canadian Rockies and which fact was chronicled some days ago, he says:—

"You are already aware of the value of this wonderful mountain to your road. Our party was one of the first to ever visit the mountain. The last three summers have been spent by me in this work and my discoveries are quite important. I have no hesitation in emphatically stating that from the scenic standpoint, Mt. Robson and vicinity is without a peer. Nothing in the Rockies or Selkirks can touch this one beauty spot; Forest fringed emerald lakes, Berg Lake with its icebergs floating at all times on its surface, countless glaciers and towering crags and its "Valley of 1000 falls" are but a few of the interesting features of this superb mountain.

The wholesome, harmless green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. Tickling or dry bronchial coughs quickly and safely or yield to this highly effective Cough medicine. Dr. Shoop assures mothers that they can with safety give it to even very young babes. No opium, no chloroform—absolutely nothing harsh or harmful. It calms the distressing cough, and heals the sensitive membranes. Accept no other. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Sold by all dealers.

MADE A HIT.

Peterborough Whistling Girl Becomes Popular on New York Stage.

The New York Evening World says

A new female whistler makes her debut at Keith & Proctor's fifth Avenue Theater this afternoon She is Olive Helene Greatrix, a charming young Canadian woman, formerly of Peterborough, who is said to have most remarkable powers in her speciality. She strikes the high note of high C with the accuracy and strength of an operatic tenor.

Miss Greatrix was born in Toronto. She has whistled almost since babyhood. The accomplishment is natural but her parents and friends tried to break her of the habit.

Two years ago the young woman went to Colorado to spend the summer on a ranch. Some of the cowboys heard her whistle and reports of her ability spread until she became quite a character in the ranch life of the section. Her parents moved to Chicago, where she attended the Academy of Fine Arts, and upon the advice of experts her gift was cultivated.

SLUGGISH LIVER RUINED BUSINESS MAN'S HEALTH.

Story of a Merchant Who Almost Lost His Business and His Health Through Neglecting Early Symptoms of Disease.

"My life for years has been of sedentary character," writes T. B. Titchfield, head of a well-known firm in Buckingham. "Nine hours every day I spent at office work and took exercise only on Sunday. I disregarded the symptoms of ill health, which were all too apparent to my family. I grew thin, then pale, and before long I was jaundiced—eyes and skin were yellow, my strength and nerve energy were lowered, and I was quite unfitted for business. In the morning a lightness in the head, particularly when I bent over, made me very worried about my health. Most of the laxative medicines I found weakening, and knowing that I had to be at business every day I neglected myself rather than risk further weakness. Of course I grew worse, but by a happy chance I began to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I was forcibly struck by the fact that they neither caused griping nor nausea, and it seemed incredible that pills could tone, cleanse and regulate the system without causing any unpleasant after effects. Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted with me just as gently as nature—they gave new life to my liver, strengthned my stomach, and won me back to perfect good health. My skin is clear, dizziness has disappeared and my appetite, strength, spirits are perfect."

Refuse anything offered you instead of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are sure to cure. Sold in 25c boxes, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

LARGE CROWDS AT FIRE SALE.

Bargains at Richard Hall & Son's Were Eagerly Sought After.

It wasn't a suffragette meeting on George street yesterday morning, it was the opening of Richard Hall & Son's fire sale and the large crowds in front of the store were composed of housewives who wished to have the opportunity of securing some, if not all of the bargains offered. Inside the store forty clerks worked overtime in an endeavor to meet the demands of the bargain hunters. The goods as advertised were ticketed at ridiculously low prices, and there was a steady stream of happy customers with their arms full of parcels making an exit by means of the back lane, the front door being only opened at intervals to avoid overcrowding in the store.

GOT A GOLD WATCH.

Mr. Frank Birdsall's Services Were Acknowledged.

An interesting event took place at the Norwood Fair yesterday when Mr. Frank Birdsall, the veteran president of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society, was honored by his fellow directors, the occasion being the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage. Mr. Pierce, one of the oldest directors of the society, acted as chairman, and the event took place on the bandstand during the height of the proceedings.

Mr. Pierce, on behalf of the directors, congratulated Mr. Birdsall in a neat speech upon his reaching the golden wedding stage, and referred in terms of the highest praise to the work he had done during his forty year's connection with the East Peterborough Agricultural Society. He then called for three cheers for Mr. Birdsall, which were given with a hearty good-will, and presented the president with a solid gold watch, seventeen jewels, with the following inscription:

"East Peterborough Agricultural Society: presented to Frank Birdsall, Esq., for twenty years president and on the 50th anniversary of his marriage to Emma Birdsall, Oct. 13, 1909."

Mr. Birdsall made a feeling reply in which he thanked the directors for their gift and their kind words. He expressed the pleasure that he had always taken in the work of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society, and thanked those who had been associated with him for the assistance they had given him in the years gone by.

Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., and Mr. James Thompson, M.P.P., for East Peterborough, Mr. Ed. M. Elliott, county clerk and treasurer, and Squire Breckenridge, a veteran director of the society, made short speeches congratulating Mr. Birdsall upon his reaching the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage and upon his work in connection with the Agricultural Society.

Perjury Charges

anything about hiring detectives.

"Did Mr. Kendry say that he would see Shepherd through?"

"No, sir."

Witness had seen Shepherd down the river and thought that he had seen him out fishing with W. A. Brundrette.

"Did Mr. Waddell ever tell you about a man named Farrish?"

Mr. Wood objected to the question, contending that it was immaterial to the matter at issue.

"I am going to prove some pretty lively things," stated Mr. Gordon.

"I don't think you are," replied the Crown Attorney. "We are not going to give you a free car ride all over this investigation."

At this stage a letter was read from Shepherd, addressed to Mr. Waddell, in which some information was supplied the Conservatives as to what was going on among the Liberals, was read by Mr. Gordon, and the witness stated that this letter had been shown to him before.

Witness admitted that Mr. Waddell had met Shepherd on the street before election day but denied that Mr. Waddell had told him that he had paid him some money.

Mr. Wood objected to matters which he thought, were immaterial being dragged into the case.

"I don't think. I should be held down too strictly in the lines of evidence," complained Mr. Gordon.

"That's a good letter," commented Mr. Wood, when the counsel for the defendant finished reading the communication over which they had been arguing. "There's nothing very harmful in that."

"Did you ever lend or give Shepherd any money in the summer or fall, a year ago?"

"No, not to my knowledge."

"Will you swear that you did not?"

"I have not to my knowledge."

"Did you personally hand [illegible] House among some commercial travellers and talking politics?"

"I may have been."

Witness stated that he did not remember telling Waddell that Shepherd was a good man.

Jas Kendry testified that Shepherd and Wilson were at his office on Sunday afternoon, Wilson made an appointment with him to meet Shepherd who was introduced by Wilson. Mr. Wood read Shepherd's evidence as to what was said at the time, about his telling Mr. Kendry about the interview down the river, and about "doing up Mr. Stratton," and witness asserted that nothing of the kind took place.

There was no arrangement made, as Shepherd alleges. There was no arrangement made with the parties present.

To Mr. Gordon—"I couldn't say what time the appointment was made by Wilson. Wilson came into the office with Shepherd. All the conversation was of Shepherd's origination. Shepherd was disgruntled with the Liberals, and said he was willing to work for the Conservatives. I didn't say that I was glad that he would support Mr. Burnham. Wilson did not say to me that Shepherd proposed canvassing for Burnham. Shepherd volunteered service on 23rd or 24th of September, 1908. He said he wanted money to pay his board, as the other party was using money. I did not say anything to Shepherd about discovering the employment of money by the opposite party. Detectives were employed to work in the campaign. Mr. Waddell never talked to me about Shepherd. Nobody spoke to me about Shepherd before the election.

I said nothing to Shepherd in reply to his proposal to work for Mr. Burnham. I saw Wilson since this charge was laid, and I told him that as far as I was concerned there was no truth in Shepherd's statements. Peter Gardner or Mr. Wilson, or Mr. Waddell, or Mr. Burnham, never told me that detectives were at work in Mr. Stratton's committee rooms. Wilson was only at my place for a few minutes. Wilson and Shepherd went away from my office together. I have had a talk with Brundrette since the charges were laid, and he told me that the statements made by Shepherd were untrue.

For the Defence.

R. M. Waddell was called by the defence. I was interested in the last election contest. I was frequently in Mr. Wilson's rooms. I saw a telephone in his rooms. I would not swear when it was put in. There may have been arrangements with members of the Conservative party. I heard there was some such arrangement. Can't say who spoke to me about it. I met Mr. Shepherd occasionally during that campaign. I first met Mr. Shepherd in Mr. Kendry's house. Shepherd made suggestions that he wanted to work for Burnham, and was told to use his own judgment in regard to getting information useful to the Conservative party.

Mr. Gordon, on objection of Mr. Wood, said he was regarding him as an adverse witness and the court sustained his contention that Mr. Waddell was an adverse witness, and permitted him to continue his line of examination.

I went to Mr. Kendry's house after ten o'clock with Peter Gardner. We were there from ten to fifteen minutes. Shepherd volunteered to furnish information to me or Mr. Gardner. I did not object to Gardner giving information. Mr. Kendry did not object.

Letter of Shepherd re reports of work done as per arrangement by him shown to witness.

That letter was recovered by me, as well as the appended reports of his work.

On another letter being produced, witness said: "I may have shown that letter to Mr. Wilson.

I saw Wilson at committee rooms while Shepherd was making the reports. I was at the White House frequently between the 20th of September and the date of the last election. I met others in Mr. Wilson's rooms; Shepherd may have been there. Met Shepherd in the Munroe House.

Shepherd received from me about $36 for certain reports that were handed in.

Mr. Dumble—"Who made the arrangements with Shepherd?

Witness—"I cannot say. I did not. Shepherd made reports to me and handed in moneys he said he got from the Liberal party. I paid Shepherd for furnishing information. Shepherd desired to be paid for services quietly. Don't recollect Wilson saying that he paid Shepherd money. I got the information from the Conservative party and candidate.

Mr. Dumble—"Whose money did you pay out?

Mr. Wadell—"I got the money from Peter Gardner, one of the Conservative committee.

Shepherd rang up several times before the elections about how things were going on. I don't remember whether Gardner told me I was to meet Shepherd at Mr. Kendry's house. I was not surprised to see him there, as I had had an intimation that he would be there. When Shepherd came in he volunteered to get information about the Liberals. He volunteered—

Magistrate—"Don't use that word 'volnteer'; it looks as if you even using it for a purpose. Shepherd said that he was hard up and needed money on the work done. Mr. Kendry said "his family wouldn't be seen starve."

Mr. Dumble—"It was, I supopse, understood that Shepherd was to be paid for his services?"

"I supopse so."

Shepherd was to use his own judgment in regard to the way information was got., was concerned. I think I paid him only $35. There was some money for Shepherd left with Wilson at his rooms at the White House. I think the amount was $20. I am fairly sure that Wilson told me to give the money to Shepherd—within the last ten days of election Shepherd made demands on money which was not paid. I heard that Shepherd was working in the Liberal committee rooms. I did not object to his doing so. I was an active supporter and worker for Mr. Burnham in the last election.

The hearing was adjourned till three o'clock.

Returned Missionary from India Addressed Boys of Knox Church

A most interesting meeting was held in Knox church last night when a large number of boys with their friends gathered to hear the Rev. D. C. Cock, B.D., of India. A very appropropriate quartette, entitled "The Business of the King," was rendered by Messrs. Galley, Davenport, Thompson and Dickson.

The Rev. Mr. Cock gave an exceedingly racy description of the very important influence of British rule in India and the East generally. In traveling in the East the British flag counted for much in law and order.

At Colomb in Ceylon and other posts it was interesting to see that the Sabbath was well observed so far as loading or unloading ships was concerned.

He had enjoyed his work amongst the boys of India. As athletes they could take their stand with Canadians and as students they in many respects seemed to be their superior.

A Cambridge principal said that he would not be afraid to take 100 boys from the schools in India and place them alongside of 100 in Britain and feel that they would take a most favorable stand in examination. Our greatest problem however, is the religious side of their life.

These boys are exceedingly bright. One case is especially interesting. He was only 16 years of age and he asked to write examinations with the teachers' course. The missionary was somewhat interested and queried concerning his standing. When he learned that he had received certificates for three different grades. The young lad tried the examination and received highest men's and teachers' diploma. That boy was a famine child who had to be fed with a spoon andfor six weeks could not lift a hand for absolute weakness.

There are some 25 blind boys who are taught to read the Bible with the raised type. All these learn some useful trade suitable to their condition.

Another interesting case was a young lad whose leg was amputated. He was quite a scholar and went to Indore College. When he returned to Nihow he held up in great glee a medal which he had received from the governor-general of India. for his work on the parallel bars.

Mr. Cock emphasized the fact that while the industrial school cared for the bodies of the children, the great and main purpose was to save them and make them followers of Christ. and this work was going on all the time with very encouraging results.

The Rev. Mr. Keith spoke of the great pleasure it had been for the boys of Knox to have a little share in helping on this work, and knew that they would do more in the future.

Mr. Gordon Hall occupied the chair.

The Rev. G. W. Rose of Alton, Ont., and Rev. J. G. Potter of St. Andrew's were among the visitors present.

At the conclusion of the addresses Master Shepherd in a neat speech, moved a resolution of thanks to the Rev. Mr. Cock for his encouraging address. This was heartily supported.

CHOIR AND CLASS.

Did Honor to Mrs. C. Solomon of Springville Presbyterian Church.

A very pleasant affair took place at the manse of the Springville Presbartian church last night when the members of the choir and of Mrs. Solomon's Sunday school class gathered to do honor to Mrs. J. Solomon as a result of hermarriage a few weeks ago. The choir presented her with a handsome mantel clock and the class gave her a dozen solid silver spoons and an address accompanied each.

We the members of your Sabbath school class beg to take this opportunity of expressing to you our gratitude for the manner in which you have conducted yourself as our teacher and for the helpful way in which you have always explained to us the lessons. We ask you to accept this little present as a token of our esteem on this the occasion of your marriage and we sincerely hope that you may long be spared to contribute your labor of love as our teacher.

After the presentations Mr. Solomon made a suitable reply on behalf of his wife and thanked their many friends for their kindness.

Short addresses were also delivered by Mr. Fred Wilson and Mr. G. Parry Jenkins of Hamilton.

After a very pleasant evening those assembled sang "For they are jolly good fellows," and "Blest be the tie that binds."

Revolution Inevitable, Spain Sick of Monarchy

Outbreak May Occur Any Moment, or be Delayed for Months—Cortes to Demand Separation of Church from State

London, Oct. 15.—King Alfonso's throne is tottering. Spain is a seething sea of intrigue and revolution on which the royal ship of state, a battered and weakened hull, is being tossed about in a last struggle.

Revolution is inevitable. The flash may not come withia a week or a month. It may be satved off a year. but there is every reason to believe today, following the white heat engendered by the "State murder" of Francisco Ferrer, that the outbreak is very near at hand. Moreover, developments of the last few days have indicated clearly that once the fires of revolution break out in Spain there will be the gravest danger of the conflagration spreading to every Latin country of Southern Europe.

Agincourt Citizens Angry at Legal Delay in the Blythe Case

Agincourt, Oct. 15.—At a meeting last night the following resolution was adopted: "That this meeting of citizens of Agincourt hereby express their indignation at the legal delays occasioned in the trial of Water Blythe, who was found guilty at the Assizes last winter of the crime of beating his wife to death, and who has since been granted two reprieves and a retrial on technical grounds. This meeting feels that such treatment is liable to bring the administration of justice into contempt, and herewith calls upon the government to make such amendments to the Criminal Code as will make repetitions of this occurrence impossible."

THE CHAIRMAN'S REMARKS.

Unique in Canada was the gathering of men where the Blythe matter was discussed. Reports had it that an indignation meeting was to be held. but the feeling of the meeting was one rather of sorrow than of anger. Mr. James T. Stuart, who acted as chairman, said in part: "While we rejoice in British fair play, we as citizens also agree that where justice is decreed nothing should stand in the path of its being carried out. Wherein would our safety lie? What would we be if justice, being decreed, its course was balked, so that failure to carry it out ensued?"

"Many of us, who were on the coroner's jury and viewed the body of the dead woman, realized what she must have suffered,' said Mr. John Elliott. "The people of Agincourt feel, that if possible, it is time some thing was done. Our name has been branded, has been held up as a spectacle throughout the land." He felt extremely sorry because of the evil notoriety which had become attached to the fair name of Agincourt!

THE MAGISTRATE'S COMMENT.

"We often point to the long trials and the wavering course of justice which are so common in the land to the south of us, but weare arriving at the same thing!" said Mr. John Milne, J.P., the magistrate who committed Walter Blythe after the death of his wife. "It would be a great pity if our humble voices were not raised should we see that men are not getting the justice they earn.

Mr. Alexander Macklin also spoke of the unsatisfactory results of the long and repeated trials, as allowed in the United States, and used the expression, "brazen attempt," in connection with the treatment of the man.

In response to the requests that the sentiments of the meeting be embodied in a resolution, Mr. John Elliot read the resolution, and it was adopted, being carried unanimously, on motion of himself, seconded by Mr. D. F. Young, V.S.

KANE WAS OUTSPOKEN.

Speakingto tge motion,—Captain Gordon Kane said: "I think our government has a good deal to dowith it. By all accounts the woman was a decent, respectable woman. I would like to see him hanged as far as I am concerned."

"Whilethe resolution may be true," said Constable Hobbs, who had arrested Blythe, "this may not be an opportune nor a wise time to offer it. Whatever I have to say, I will say it next week when he faces the judge."

The attention of those present was directed to the fact that if such uncountable delays in administration of justice received countenance, our laws might lose weight and be in danger of falling into the disrepute suffered by those of the country across the border.

MERELY WANT JUSTICE.

James T. Stuart, chairman, said; "A number of months ago there happened in this community a terrible tragedy, involving one of our citizens, which fell as a thunderbolt from the blue upon the peaceful citizens." He reviewed the whole case of Blythe, telling of the different juries who had dealt with it. The meeting he thought, was mainly to resent the long delays in the trial. He pointed out the force of Mr. A. Macklin's statement that if the precedent set by this case became general, our laws would suffer the same fate as those of the United States inthe complete loss of confidence in them by the people."

Havelock People are After Natural Gas

"The Tiffin Oil, Gas and Salt Syndicate is the title of a syndicate composed of local capitalists who will drill for oil and gas in Belmont in the course of a few weeks.

Mr. Alex Rose of town, is the originator of the syndicate. For years he has known of certain properties in this vicinity that showed every evidence of being oil and gas bearing. Lately he secured options on about 1500 acres and organized the syndicate to test and develope the prospect.

The syndicate consists of one hundred memberships of the value of $25 each, and enough memberships have already been subscribed in town to warrant operations being commenced at once. Mr. Wesley Davidson who has been appointed agent and manager of the syndicate, is away now procuring a drilling outfit, and in the course of two or three weeks drilling will commence in Belmont, probably on Mr. Jas. Maughton's property, lot 2, concession I.

All the members of the syndicate are extremely optimistic regarding the prospects to "make good" and it is to be hoped that the tests will realize their expectations as it would prove of inestimable benefit to themselves, to Havelock and the surrounding district.— Havelock Standard.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rock Gordon, Perry street, on Monday last. About thirtyfive of Mr. Gordon's friends assembled, it being a quiet celebration of the anniversary of her birthday. Progressive euchre, music and dancing were enjoyed, after which a light luncheon was served.

Among the musical numbers were piano selections by Miss E. Kelly, Mr. C. McIntyre, Mr. Foster, vocal solos by Mr. John King and a number of mandolin selections, all of which were much enjoyed. Mr. Gordon received many happy returns of the occasion.

AT ST. ANDREW'S.

Tomorrow will be missionary Sunday in St. Andrew's church. The Rev. D. C. Cock, B.D., of India, will assist the pastor in the morning service, and in the evening the Rev. Dr. Wilbur Crafts will deal with "Living and Dying Nations."

The adult Bible class and Sunday school will be held at 3 p.m.

BACK-WEARY MEN.

"Foundry work compels men to work in the winter in very cold shops," writes Tunis T. Bolter, a well-known mechanic in Hamilton. "I contracted a very severe cold a few months ago which settled in my back and kidneys. I suffered constant pain, and in bending over my work and in heavy lifting, the pain at times was excruciating. My digestion got all out of order, doubtless because the kidneys didn't work right My wife had used Dr. Hamilton's Pills as a family medicine and I took her advice and started them also. To my great delight a few doses helped me so much it was proof I was using a true remedy. Natural action of the kidneys was brought about, burning and aching ceased, and the back-lameness gradually disappeared. I no longer fear my work. I feel strong and robust, and with such a remedy as Dr. Hamilton's Pills at hand I will probably never again be sick I advise every working man to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

No other medicine will regulate the system and maintain health like Dr. Hamilton's Pills—beware of the dealer who tries to induce you to take something else on which he makes more profit. Sold in yellow boxes 25c. Prepared by The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

Rugby Season Opens, Locals vs. Parkdale at Riverside Park

The Rugby enthusiasts are keyed up to a high pitch in anticipation of the senior O.R.F.U. game this afternoon at Riverside Park, between the Parkdales of Toronto and Peterborough. From the lineup of the locals it will be seen that they will have a formidable fourteen to do battle with the Paddlers, who will also be represented by the strong aggregation that won from T.A.A.C. in spectacular fashion. The officials of the game will probably be Dr. Wood and J. B. MacArthur, both of Toronto.

The Peterborough team will be:
Craig—Back.
Quinlan—Center half.
Corkery—Right half.
Ecclestone—Scrimmage.
Clarke—Center.
Thornton—Right.
Dickson—Right inside.
Lundy—Right outside.

RUGBY NOTES.

The Junior Rugby boys will not go to Lindsay today. The boys of that town asked the locals for a practice game but a number of them were unable to get away.

The officials for today's game have been changed. Dr. Allan Brown of Toronto will officiate as referee and Dr. A. W. McPherson as umpire.

The juniors will practice at Riverside Park this afternoon after the big game and all of the boys are expected to be present, and also to be there in time to see thesenior play.

The juniors will have a very strong team this year. They have the Collegiate boys to pick from a number of last year's T.A.S. players besides Charlie Ray, Bill O'Brien, Fortye, and Jack Deanard's dark horses for the side wings. Harvey Staunton and McKnight will likely be on the line-up. They are both practising with the seniors and give promise of being good men. Cyril Lech is another good man who will likely beseen on the field.

In the O.R.F.U. senior series Parkdale Canoe Club meets Peterborough in Peterborough. The Peters are always tough nut to crack in their own town and with Dr. A. W. McPherson coaching them they will add trickiness and football strategy to their bag of tricks. Parkdale has a great team, and if the Peters play the game, as they are likely to do, with Strangler Hurtubise out of the way, should win, but it will be tough going all the way.—Toronto Star.

ANOTHER PAPER.

The Times is in receipt of copies of the Telegram of Zealandia, Sask., which is published by Mr. Robert Crossland, an old Peterborough boy, and a graduate of The Times office. The Telegram is only 18 weeks old, but it is bright, newsy and well printed paper and speaks well for the new publisher. The advertising columns show signs of progress and these columns are very essential to a newspaper. The Times wishes Mr. Crossland all success in his venture.

When a cold becomes settled in the system, it will take several days' treatment to cure it, and the best remedy to use is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It will cure quicker than any other, and also leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition.

Dr. Crafts will Address Mass Meeting Tomorrow

The Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, who has just returned from a three mobths' tour of Europe will arrive in the city this afternoon and will spend tomorrow in dealing with different phases of the great work of moral and social reform in which he has been for so many years an effective and progressive leader.

Dr. Crafts is one of the most outstanding personalities in the world wide social and moral reform movement of thie age. The secret of Dr. Craft's force as a speaker and success as a speaker of great movement, seems to lie in his comprehensive acquaintance with the universal problems and difficulties of his age and his wise policy of dealing with these. He ie no theorist, hie acchol-arschip is ripe. His practical experience in the progress of social science has been extensive and his leadership has been supported by governments and congresses in many countries.

He will address the mass meeting in the Opera House at 4.15 p.m. and at the mass meeting in George street Methodist church at 8.15 p.m.

He will also preach in St. Paul's church at 11 a.m., and in St. Andrew's church at 7 p.m.

The musical service at the Opera House will be specially attractive. The Salvation Army Band will assist in the praise and a list of appropriate campaign songs has been printed and copies will be distributed tomorrow afternoon. Offerings for the temperance reform work will be taken at the door.

Mrs. D. C. Cock Gave An Address on India

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of St. Andrew's church held their annual thank-offering meeting last night in the lecture hall.

Mrs. Potter, president of the Auxiliary, occupied the chair. After devotional exercises Mrs. D. C. Cock of India, gave a most interesting address on the work in India.

The impression received was that the missionaries in India are always busy—the work ever increasing—and that work is telling on the moral and spiritual life of India.

The address was full of the deepest value to any student of social science as well as missionary service.

No work could be of greater value to a nation's needy ones than the work that is being conducted in the industrial schools and colleges of British India.

Miss Olive Howell sang an appropriate solo after which the meeting closed with singing and prayers.

Normal Students were Entertained

The Young Women's Christian Association Building was all astir last niggt with a most brilliant assemblage of the Normal students and their friends.

Their was almost two hundred guests and that such a large number of students could gather together without having a big time cannot be imagined.

Everyone enjoyed the impromptu program rendered. The officials of specila music the Y.W.C.A. did all in their power to make the guests feel at home

The building was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and the ladies are to be congratulated on the great success of their undertaking.

Refreshments were served after which an interesting promenade was enjoyed before the reception came to a close.

Cold in the Chest

CURED QUICKLY BY NERVILINE.

No stronger proof of the wonderful merit of Nerviline could be produced than the letter of Miss Lucy Mosher who for years has been a well-known resident of Windsor, N.S.

"I want to add my unsolicited testimonial to the efficacy of your wonderful liniment, "Nerviline", I consider it the best remedy for a cold sore throat, wheezing tightness in the chest, etc., and can state that for years our home has never been without Nerviline. I had a dreadful attack of cold, that settled on my chest, that fourteen remedies couldn't break up. I rubbed on Nerviline three times a day, used Nerviline as a gargle, and was completely restored. I have induced dozens of my friends to use Nerviline and they are all delighted with its wonderful power over pain and sickness.

"You are at liberty to publish this signed letter, which I hope will show the way to health to many that need to use Nerviline.

(Signed) "LUCY MOSHER."

All sorts of aches, pains and sufferings—interna, and external—yields to Nerviline. Accept no substitute; 25c. per bottle, or five for $1.00. All dealers, or The Catarrhozones Company, Kingston, Ont. 12

THE RURAL CLERGYMAN.

Speaking of the duties of a rural clergyman and the relation in which he should stand to his parishioners, the New York Independent says: "On a Sunday, if it comes to a pinch between having his parishioners hay get wet and his church get empty, why should he not put his manuscript in his pocket, take a hay fork in his hand, and help his poorest parishioner secure his crop? This should be his comprehension of righteousness and duty."

This is a large question on which there will be much divergence of opinion. In more than one place in Ontario a man has been denounced from the pulpit for taking in his hay on a Sunday, when in fear of rain. A pioneer with his team ofoxen went thirty miles to a mill with his grist, and having been delayed on his return, so that he did not reach home until Sunday, he was brought before a magistrate and accused of desecrating the Lord's Day.

In many places local opinion will be shocked by the views of the Independent. It will be argued that a pious man should pray that the rain hold off until the hay can be taken in on Monday, but if thisprayer be not answered then it is the pious man's duty to bow to divine will, and let his hay meet its fate. This resigned spirit is not so often met withas in earlier days, yet few of those who dwell in cities are aware how stern and inflexible is the observance of the day of rest of some of our rura, communities.

RAILWAY PROGRESS.

The Labor Gazette, reviewing the progress made recently in railway construction, comments on the preparations that have been made by the railways to handle the Western crop of the present year. "It was stated that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway would be able to move approximately 10,000,000 bushels this year, about 175 locomotives being available for the traffic; last year the company handled about 2,000,000 bushels. Officials of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern Railway Companies stated that the arrangements for the moving of the crop were progressing very favorably and that there was every indication that the grain would be moved out rapidly. The former company has added about 3,000 cars, and 75 locomotives to its equipment in this connection during the past year." The Gazette notes that the volume of traffic on the railways has been heavy, especially passenger traffic, the tourist and convention season having been a very active one. The volume of freight traffic was also large. There has been a steady diminution since the spring months in the number of unemployed railway cars. These facts indicate that a great revival of trade is taking place throughout Canada.

STRANGE PEOPLES.

Denizens of Darkest Africa Described For Geographers.

Major R. G. T. Bright, C.M.G., gave an interesting account of survey and exploration in the Ruwensori and Lake region, Central Africa, before the Royal Geographical Society. The country described is in the neighborhood of the western border of the Uganda Protectorate and the Congo State. Maj. Bright gave some interesting details regarding the natives of the country through which the expedition passed. The people of Bavira were noticeable for their women wearing a particularly disfiguring ornament in their upper lips—an embellished wooden disc, from 21-2 to 3 inches in diameter. These tribes bartered their food for beads and cloth, much preferring the latter, though they were but scantily clothed. The males wore a piece of cloth carried between the legs, with its ends tucked, both in front and behind, through a belt of hide or rope, and for ornaments ivory and wooden bracelets. With the women a bunch of weeds worn behind was all that was considered necessary, though their necks were encircled with many strings of different-colored beads. The young men and women dressed their hair with a mixture of light clay.

A finer and a darker race—the Lendu—was warlike and continually fighting amongst themselves or with anyone else they thought themselves strong enough to overcome. They were treacherous, and would go to almost any extremes in their anxiety to obtain arms and ammunition. The district between the Congolese stations, Kasindi and Beni, Maj. Bright reported, was an ideal elephant country, and was tenanted by some large herds. The Etuli forest and the wooded slopes of Ruwensori formed veritable strongholds for elephant, while in the Toro Game Reserve devastated plantations and spoor testified to the numbers still living in and around the protected country. In the open country on the southern shore of Lake Albert, when the plains are marshy, elephant and buffalo roam over them. In the kingdom of Ankoli the population could be roughly classified as the Bahima, the aristocracy, and the Baero, the cultivators and serfs. The Bahima believed vaguely in an all-powerful Deity, who was associated mainly with rain, thunder, and other weather phenomena. They endeavored to propitiate various devils—most of whom were connected with the prevalent diseases—by erecting joss-houses, in which food and beer were placed. They invariably carried round the neck wooden charms or small goats' horns, which had been invested with magical power by the medicine men, and usually wore wire bracelets and anklets. The Bahima were a purely pastoral people. All forms of agriculture were held in contempt, and were relegated to their Baero servants.

The Baamba people living in the forest near the Etuli river were addicted to cannibalism of a particularly loathsome form. Families exchanged their young children, who were then eaten. The Baamba in many cases filed their teeth, but this practice was not quite general. They were a jovial people. A constant warfare went on between village and village. They are built on the top of a ridge, and a stout wooden stockade is erected round. Each village had a club-house, furnished with a few rough three-legged chairs, made of the forked boughs of a tree, on which the members lie: the men gathered there to talk and smoke.

Wifely Pride.

There is no telling what quaint turns wifely pride and devotion may take. Sir Melvill Beachcroft, whose work in connection with the London County Council is well-known, while waiting in a tenement house for the occupant of the first floor to admit him, chanced to overhear two women conversing on the stairs.

One remarked that her husband always wore a clean shirt every Sunday morning.

"Well, now," responded the other, "I never cares about Sundays, but I allays do see that 'e 'as a clean shirt Saturday afternoons, 'cos that's the time 'e is generally drinking, and when 'e does take 'is coat off to fight I do like to know 'e looks nice and clean.—M.A.P.

Easily Identified.

One of the peculiarities of Viscount Goschen is to pay surprise visits to the branches of the bank which he helps to control. Not long ago he entered a country branch and asked the clerk in charge to cash a cheque drawn by a friend, adding that both himself and friend were customers of the bank. When the clerk complied, Mr. Goschen, as he was then, read him a severe lesson on cashing cheques for strangers. "How do you know I came by the cheque honestly?" he asked. "I don't know," said the clerk, "but if anything went wrong your father would indemnify the bank against loss, and I always like to oblige a director." The said director had thought he was unknown.

Variety Artistes Salaries.

Exactly who is the highest-paid variety artiste next to Harry Lauder, who received close upon $4,000 a week while touring America, it is not easy to say. Miss Ada Reeve and Miss Vesta Tilley, however, must be very near the top. A recent law case revealed the fact that the former is accustomed to obtain engagements at $1,500 a week, while Miss Vesta Tilley's "turn" is placed at an even greater value. There are quite a number of variety artistes—Mr. Geo. Robey, "Little Tich," and Miss Marie Lloyd included—whose salaries range from $500 to $750 and more per week.

Queer Claret.

A party of miners calling at an inn in Llangollen during the absence of the landlord were shown into the best room which, on his return, caused him to remonstrate. His wife, however, explained that a lot of money had been spent, and that seven bottles of claret had already been drunk. "Claret!" said he. "Why, I sold the last bottle the other day, you've been using 'em catsup."

Important to Ladies.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwood of Toronto is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at Oriental Hotel on Monday October 18.

AUTOGRAPH P.... ES.

Regular Figures Are Quoted on Celebrated Signatures.

Whose signature, amongst those of celebrities of to-day, is worth most from the point of view of the autograph dealer and collector? The question is a difficult one to answer, for the simple reason that so much depends on the character and importance of the letter or document to which the signature is attached.

For instance, according to a catalogue issued a short time ago by a London dealer in autographs, while a Kipling letter referring to his writings is worth two guineas, an ordinary epistle of the same writer would be sold at half a guinea. The signature of Queen Alexandra can be bought for a guinea, but attached to a letter written in her girlhood days would fetch five and probably ten times that amount.

Here are a few of the market prices, so to speak, of other celebrities: Sir L. Alma-Tadema, 10s. 6d.; Sir Squire Bancroft, 2s. 6d.; J. M. Barrie, 5s.; Max Beerbohm, 10s 6d; Sarah Bernhardt, £1 5s.; Mr. Birrell, 2s. 6d.; Miss Braddon, 5s.; Hall Caine, 10s. 6.; Mark Twain, £2 2s.; Sir A. Conan Doyle, 7s. 6d; Sir W. S. Gilbert, 5s.; Rider Haggard, 4s.; and Sir Charles Wyndham 5s

With regard to famous men of the past, it is interesting to note that, while £63 was asked for a Tennyson letter, a Byron was only priced at 15 guineas, and a Cowper at 10 guineas. Twenty one pounds would have bought the signature of George Washington, and £12 that of Queen Victoria. Thirteen and fourteen guineas was asked for the autographs respectively of Dickens and Thackeray, while that of Edward Fitzgerald was priced at £21.

It is curious to note how variable are the prices of royal signatures. While, as already mentioned, £12 is asked for a Queen Victoria letter, a two-page epistle by the late Empress Frederick of Germany only realized a guinea. The sign-manual of George I. has been sold for 2s., that of George III. for £1 6s., and that of George IV. for 11s.; and it is an interesting fact that, while at one sale a letter from Charles I. to the Earl of Kingston, dealing with the request for a loan of £5,000, only fetched £31 10s., Cromwell's signature went for £80.

Bombay English.

"The horse is a very noble quadruped, but when he is angry he will not do so. He is ridden on the spinal cord by the bridle, and sadly the driver places his foots on the stirrup and dividies his lower limbs across the saddle, and drives his animal to the meadow. He has a long mouth and his head is attached to the trunk by a long protuberance called the neck. He has four legs; two are on the front side and two are afterward. These are the weapons on which he runs and also defends himself by extending those in the rear in a parallel direction toward his foe; but this he does only when he is in a vexatious mood. His fooding is generally grasses and grains. He is also useful to take on his back a man or woman, as well as some cargo. He has power to run as fast as he could. He has got no sleep at nighttime, and always standing awaken. Also there are horses of short sizes. There is no animal like the horse; no sooner they see their guardian or master they always crying for fooding, but it is always at the morning time. They have got tail, but not so long as the cow and other such like similar animals."

Interrupting Mr. Grantham.

One of the most amusing of Sir W. Grantham's experiences occurred when he was engaged as a political speaker in the days before he took his place on the bench, and when he was plain Mr. Grantham. On one occasion, while he was delivering an address, a man got up in the audience and shouted out excitedly, "It's a lie!" "Thanks," said the future judge. "It's a lie!" shouted the excited one again. "You're a gentleman," said Mr. Grantham, sarcastically. "It's a lie!" burst out his opponent again, carried away by his wrath; but the general laughter which arose at his answer recalled him to himself again, and he sat down discomfited.

Success In the Army.

Sir Redvers Buller is said to have replied to a lady, who asked by what means he had succeeded in reaching his high position in the service "I inherited £10,000 a year." "This answer," says Lieut.-Colonel Pollock, who, in addition to much active service, has written a number of books on military subjects, and who for the last eleven years has been editor of The United Service Magazine, "if ever made, was not, of course, intended to be accepted quite literally; yet it is certain that a handsome income is an immense assistance. A man must first become known before he can be appreciated, and the larger his income the more easy it is for him to mix freely with a circle of acquaintances."

A Many-Sided Man.

Sir John Quick, Australia's new Postmaster-General, is a Cornishman by birth, although nearly all his life has been spent in Australia. He has been many things in his time, including an engineer, a compositor, an engine-driver in a mine, and a reporter. He then went to Melbourne University, where he took his B.A., and became law reporter on The Age. He was called to the Victorian Bar, represented Sandhurst in the Assembly, and took the degree of LL.D. at Melbourne University. He has practiced as a barrister, and has contributed much to Australian literature.

Postman's Long Service.

An Imperial Service medal has lately been presented to Mr. Joseph Holt, Coventry's (Eng.) oldest postman, for long and faithful service. The recipient served nearly thirty years, and during that time the population of the Warwickshire city has grown from 37,670 to 91,808.

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Sheop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with amazing success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it is constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Sheop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another, everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you?

Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?

Positively knowing what Dr. Sheop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns". And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "No help, No pay" contract.

I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Sheop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same or else pass their prescriptions by.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvements.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys go wrong, then ask Dr. Sheop's Restorative. I do not dose the Stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. You agree? I endorse that quotation idea in medicine. The books below will best tell you how I can cure you.

These books also tell of a "key hidden in the side nerve," no larger than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until it fails, actually gives to the Heart its power, its tone, its never-ending motion or impulse.

These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how the Stomach, and Kidneys each have their "key" or power nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize those weak or failing inside nerves, full of that "key-hold vim" I am able to pay. All in hope if it fails.

This is why I say "take no chance on a medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to issue my medicines to the sick.

But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Sheop's Restoratives, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line please—and thus save disappointment and delays. Tell me also which book you need.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Sheop, Box 13, Racine, Wis.

ANNE'S GREAT DISCOVERY.

A Call That Made Her Sure About Her Own Heart.

By EMILY HODGES.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

"You're very foolish and very headstrong, Maisie, and you're going to be sorry some day," Anne said severely.

She was sitting before the glass, putting cold cream on her face, and Maisie was watching her from the bed.

It was to pretty Maisie a very funny performance—Anne's nightly comforting of her complexion with cold cream. She wondered if she would do the same when she was thirty-six and unmarried. But she would not be unmarried at thirty-six. Of course not. There was Dick, and she was determined to marry Dick, no matter what Anne or Aunt Hannah said. It was about Dick that Anne was talking now.

"You know as well as I do," Anne went on, "that you are too young even to think of marrying, and, anyway, Dick Launt isn't a person you should consider for one moment." Anne closed the cold cream box, with a sigh. "When you do marry I want you to have some one who is worthy of you."

"Is that the reason you've never married?" Maisie asked innocently.

Anne flushed under the cold cream.

"That was the reason," she returned steadily.

"Haven't you ever been sorry?" Maisie persisted. She wished Anne had not hidden her face by turning out the gas—the voice, Anne's voice, told so little.

"I—I don't know that I have been. Good night, dear." And Maisie had nothing to do but answer obediently, "Good night, Anne."

Sixteen years—what a long time that was! She was twenty that summer, just out of school, and she had a pink dress afloat with ruffles. One day when she had been wearing that dress she had met Dwight Marshall. He was a good deal like Dick Launt—big, clear eyed, ready to laugh. Like Dick, too, he was a plain workingman and had come from a long way off to find work in Hansell. It did not take Dwight long to fall in love with the pink dress and her, and it did not take her long to see it. He was her first beau, and straightway the world was made over for her.

But her mother was watch and ward. She had had to make many sacrifices in order to educate Anne, and she was worthy of the best. Mrs. Hall did not by any means consider Dwight Marshall the best, and she was determined that he should not have Anne. She appealed to Anne's pride and reason and after a time had the satisfaction of seeing her arguments prevail. Anne gave up her lover. He was hurt, disappointed, bitterly angry.

"This is your mother's doings," he said.

"No," Anne lied proudly; "it's mine. You aren't good enough for me."

"You'll be sorry for this some day," he returned. And that was his last word to her. She had never seen or heard from him since. She probably never would again. And now here was Maisie in the same boat in which she herself had been. But Maisie's heart would not be broken. Hers had not been. There had been times, indeed, when she was glad that she had not married Dwight. Maisie would come to feel the same way about Dick.

Anne scarcely slept all night.

"That cold cream makes you pale," Maisie said next morning. "What makes you use it, Anne? Are you afraid of wrinkles?" Anne winced, and Maisie went on wickedly. "Mrs. Warne says it doesn't make any difference how a woman looks if she isn't married or doesn't intend to be."

Mrs. Warne was the young matron who lived across the street. Because she and Maisie were very friendly and she was known openly to sympathize with Maisie's love affair Anne and her mother had not called upon her, though she had lived in the town almost a year. Now of a sudden Anne felt almost hatred for the gay little woman who seemed so happy in her married life and obviously had no need of cold cream or any other preparation for her charming face.

Anne was out of sorts all day. Her painting class did badly, her head ached, and she tore her walking skirt by stepping upon it in her hurry to take a car. Tired and utterly forlorn, she was sitting in her room trying to repair the skirt when Maisie came running upstairs and entered panting with her haste.

"Oh, Anne," she gasped, "there's a man in the parlor waiting to see you! I told him you'd be right down."

A man in the parlor to see Anne was almost an unheard of thing. Yet she took three stitches deliberately.

"Aren't you going to fix your hair or—or anything?" Maisie demanded.

"Why should I?" Anne said. "It is only some one to see about lessons probably."

The parlor door was open, and she went in softly. The man was waiting with his expectant face turned toward her. She gave him one glance and turned as white as her linen collar.

"Dwight—Dwight Marshall!" she said. Then she seemed to remember nothing more until she found herself on the sofa, with him close beside her.

"You never expected to see me again, did you?" he demanded. "And I didn't expect you would, but ever since my little cousin, Maud Warne, has lived here she and Dave have been teasing me to come and make them a visit. So I made up my mind I'd come. And here I am. You don't know Maud, do you?"

"No," Anne said feebly, wishing she did.

"Maud told me you hadn't acted very neighborly. You should know Maud. She's one of the best little women that ever lived."

He had been talking rapidly. Now he stopped and drew a long breath.

"Do you remember the last time we saw each other? I was right mad that day. It had never occurred to me that I wasn't the equal of the best girl living—and you were that, too—until you said what you did. So I swore I'd make myself good enough—and make you sorry. But now that I've seen you I only want to make you glad, Anne. You see, I like you just as well as I ever did, though I didn't expect to. And if you like me"—

"Oh, Dwight," Anne sobbed. "It's I who am not good enough! I'm homely and old and soured and—and disagreeable and narrow minded—and you're worthy of some one better."

Maisie had been in bed three hours when Anne came up and woke her with a kiss.

"Why, Anne, you look real pretty," Maisie said, yawning. "But your hair is messed up awfully."

"Maisie," Anne said solemnly, sitting down upon the edge of the bed and taking hold of Maisie's hand in a most unusual way—"Maisie, I want to tell you something. I've been a fool for years and never found it out until tonight. And I don't mean you shall be the same kind of fool. That man who came tonight was the one I might have married sixteen years ago—and didn't. But I'm going to marry him now.

"And—and, Maisie, I've been talking to mother, and you can have Dick any time you are ready. Dick's all right. He—Dwight knows him; they come from the same place.

"I thought I could forget," Anne went on gently after Maisie's ecstasy of surprise and joy had somewhat subsided, "and I've tried hard for sixteen years, but when you really love there's no forgetting in this world. I've been loving Dwight right straight along, and the minute I saw him tonight I knew it. I've missed a good many years of happiness, and I meant to make you miss a good many years of happiness in the same way. It wasn't because I was wicked, dear, but because I didn't know. I do know now."

Maisie smiled wisely.

"I knew all the while," she said.

Peculiarities of Crime.

One of the strangest peculiarities of human nature is its inclination to imitate the misdeeds of others. Crime is epidemical. A particularly dreadful murder, the details of which are set forth in all the newspapers, often has the effect of inducing similar crimes. One of the reasons and probably the chief reason why public executions were abolished in England was that instead of acting as a deterrent the execution had the contrary effect of inciting to murder.

Some years ago a woman of Genoa, named Lombardi, killed her four children. She admitted that she had been reading of a woman who killed her husband, and the very circumstantial account had made her wish to imitate the crime, but as her husband was dead she killed the children. This is only one instance out of hundreds which have come to our notice.

The infectious nature of self murder receives a striking testimony in the following incident: Dr. Oppenheim of Hamburg had to examine the body of a man who had cut his throat and had died after some days of suffering. The medico told his assistant that death would have been immediate if the man had made the cut in a way which he illustrated, and he was startled two days later to learn that his assistant had attempted to commit suicide by lacerating himself in that very manner. The man admitted that he had never thought of suicide until the day of the examination and the doctor's remark.—London Globe

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

1-2 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—10 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 10 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

Mill tests have proved that half of the values can be saved on the plates, and the remainder concentrate readily into a smelting product.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $600. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

ALEXANDER G. BAILLIE	Port Hastings N S

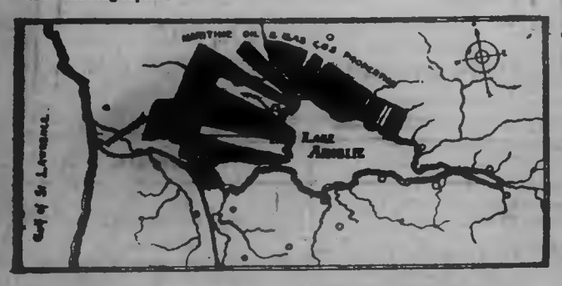
PROPERTY

The property of the Company consists of leases for oil and gas of about 25,000 acres of the best oil lands in the Lake Ainslie District, County of Inverness, Cape Breton. This district has been known for years to be an oil district. Recently Mr. P. H. Stover, who is rightly considered to be one of the best oil experts in America, examined the property, and after a thorough and searching examination his opinion of the possibilities of this property is contained in the following report:



Charlottetown, August 2nd, 1909

To the Directors of The Maritime Oil & Gas Company Limited;

Dear Sirs,—I beg to say that I have thoroughly examined the properties held under lease by your company for oil and gas, and as a result of the examination I beg to report:—

1st. I am familiar with the oil regions of Pennsylvania West Virginia, Ohio, and Ontario, having operated largely in these districts for the last twenty five years.

2nd. In my opinion Lake Ainslie District shows almost exactly the same indications of oil as appeared in Oil Creek in Pennsylvania, which has been the greatest oil producing district in America. Oil Creek was the only district where oil in any quantity was to be found seeping from the rocks, and in the Lake Ainslie District the same conditions are to be found. The oil is seeping from the rocks on the shores of the Lake. The difference between the two districts is that the oil sand rock in the Lake Ainslie district is thicker and hence more liable to be a better producing oil sand. I have taken samples of the oil as it comes from the rock, and I find that the oil is of a very high lubricating quality, and will require but little refining to make it a very valuable lubricating oil. I consider that there is no question of the existence of a very large quantity of oil and gas in this property, and the prospects of striking oil upon the Company's property are of the very best.

Yours truly P. H. STOVER

After the examination Mr Stover immediately became financially interested in the Company, and has accepted the office of President and General Manager of the Company.

The Company proposes to drill several wells upon this property at once, and for that purpose arrangements have been made with Messrs. Stover Bros., oil contractors, to place a first-class drilling equipment upon the property, this much can be said—it is the very best equipment possible to obtain for this purpose, and it is such that the contractors guarantee that under the conditions such as they expect to find in Lake Ainslie their equipment will drill a well to the depth of three thousand feet in two months.

STOCK.

Mr Alexander G. Baillie, of Port Hastings, is Trustee for a certain portion of the Company's stock, which is offered for sale for the purpose of development. Of this stock it is proposed to sell a block of three hundred thousand shares, starting at five cents per share.

100 shares	$ 5.00
200 shares	10.00
300 shares	15.00
400 shares	20.00
500 shares	25.00
1,000 shares	50.00
2,000 shares	100.00
10,000 shares	500.00

PROSPECTS FOR INVESTORS.

The history of the oil business in America, from its very inception to the present date, is one continuous story of financial success. Thousands of men, formerly poor, became enormously wealthy. More money has been made out of oil than out of any industry in the world today. When oil is once struck by this Oil Company the value of the stock is increased enormously. The following is a small list of the oil companies in operation less than three years, showing the original price of their stock and the highest price it has reached:—

	Original Price	Highest Price
New York Oil Co	$ .50	$ 200.00
Union Oil Co	1.00	1,500.00
Silversky Oil Co	.50	5.00
Kanna River Oil Co	1.00	20.00
Pantera Oil Co	.20	5.00
Rowland Oil Co	2.00	118.00
Rogue Oil Co	5.00	1,000.00

Contracts have been entered into on behalf of the Company, and to which the Company is a party with William Harrington, of Lake Ainslie, in the County of Inverness, dated July 9th, 1909, and Alexander G. Baillie, of Port Hastings, dated August, 1909, which contracts are on file in the office of the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, Halifax.

OUT ON THE COD BANKS

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF THE LUNENBURG FISHERMAN.

The Men Who Supply the World With Its Codfish Have a Hard and Dangerous Life—Fifty Tons Is the Average Size of Schooners—Squid Is the Favorite Bait—Casting Is All Done From Dories.

Like that of a policeman, the life of a "Banker" is not a happy one. It is a long record of toilsome endurance, of simple heroism, of the bearing of incredible hardships, of but scant reward.

The great banks of Newfoundland are a rich harvesting ground, and year in, year out, thousands of men explant them to the full. Not alone do the fishing towns of Canada and the United States send their representatives to the warfare of man against nature; Scotland sends its quota, as does France; in fact, during a good season few seafaring countries but are represented there in some form or other. Cod is the spoil, the wily, elusive cod; valuable as a food, grasping of chase; cheap as to price.

On the principle of fitting the back to the burden, Bankers do not fare forth in little luggers or smacks. They ship themselves aboard large, seaworthy schooners, capable of weathering the hardest gales that ever blew.

These schooners vary in tonnage, but fifty tons is a fair average size. They are manned by eight men usually, sufficient to handle the vessel comfortably in going from port to fishing ground and back, and also in following the fish as they travel from point to point. But this is not their only work; it is a very small part of it. Their real work is to catch fish.

Imagine yourself for the nonce aboard a schooner out of Lunenburg. She is well-found, a comfortable vessel, once possessed of a good turn of speed, for she has been a racer in her day, though now her glory has departed. This speed will serve her in good turn when the holds are full and the homeward race for market commences. The captain is a grizzled veteran, with a down east drawl that you could cut with an axe. But he has a reputation for being able to play the elusive cod at his own game; to "think cod," in short, which means that he can place himself in the position of the fish, and meet every move they make.

It is not a very long journey to the Banks, for the schooner is fast. Once there, the skipper begins to cast about for fish, watching the crested waves narrowly as if he could read their most cherished secrets, as indeed he can. There are certain signs and tokens, known to the Banker, which indicate the presence of cod, or, failing their presence, the direction in which they have traveled; and these signs your skipper reads as an open book. The schooner slips away on its own appointed course, and morning shows a deserted sea.

"Waal, I guess we're here or hereabouts," says the skipper, and the word is passed for work to commence. The schooner's decks have been filled with a number of small boats called dories; double-ended craft, a cross between a ship's dinghy and a Canadian canoe; easily managed by one man, fairly safe in rough weather, and as light as a feather.

Meanwhile the spare hands have been busy for days in baiting vast lengths of cod-line—stout, tough stuff, strong enough to hold a runaway whale in its flurry. Squid or cuttle-fish is the favorite bait, for cod loves squid as a trout loves the May fly. At stated intervals along the line hooks are firmly hitched, and each hook receives its piece of bait, after which the line is coiled away into shallow tubs; one tub to each dory, and the material is ready.

The complete equipment of a dory consists of a small anchor, a coir cable, for anchoring the boat; a heavy maul for stunning big fish as they are hauled aboard; a gaff, an axe; a compass, a stock of provisions, a tin horn for fog signals, a pair of sculls, and rowlocks, lamp and oil. All is in readiness, and a start is made at once, for the longer you wait the greater possibility of other schooners encroaching on your chosen ground. Each line is fitted with floats and sinkers at intervals, and your dory is swung outboard by a single whip from the masthead. You lower yourself into it as it touches the water, fit bottom boards and thwarts in place, receive your impedimenta, and start off.

Arrived at the spot you have selected, you commence to throw out your lines, which sink from sight as you pull back on the way you have come, until the entire line is submerged, after which you pull along to your first float, grapple the line—and probably receive some cruel jags from the hooks in so doing, and under-run the apparatus; pulling your dory along by the line, hand over hand, and as each hook comes into view it is more than likely that it holds a big fish.

One by one you pick off the spoil, fling them carelessly into the dory, until you are up to your knees in fish, and when the last hook has been reached you are ready to go back aboard, though as you unhooked each fish you rebaited the hook from the bait tub in the bows, and let the line drop out of sight again.

Such is the Banker's life in fine weather; but in a storm it is full of the grimmest dangers. The blinding blizzards of the Banks sweep down in howling fury, and woe betide the ship that is caught unawares. The mighty Atlantic seas rage on crashingly, and the spray freezes where it falls, so that the schooner becomes but a floating mass of solid ice.

England Increasing.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

LOVE ST. KILDA.

How the Inhabitants Live on Isolated Little Island.

Surrounded for eight months of the year by an isolating veil, which hides it almost impenetrably from the outer world, St. Kilda casts its mists in May, and comes forth to join the chorus of the isles again. With the resumption of the tourist traffic, the furthest fling of the Western Hebrides enters upon its summer "season." From now till August its people live in the stir of coming and going steamers. It is only within the last 15 years (says The Scotsman) that the Lone Isle began to be included in the itinerary of the tourist. In earlier days the islanders had to be satisfied with the certainty of a call from the factor's smack once or twice a year. It brought the factor on board. He came, as he comes yet, to collect the rents in kind—cattle, grain, cheese, sea bird feathers, fulmar oil, dried fish, and other limited products—and he supplied them with their fresh stock of meal, flour, salt, tea and sugar, and shawls. Tea and sugar are still comparatively modern luxuries, with only 20 years' familiarity to spice their pleasure. Shops are unknown on the island, so each householder must calculate the exact quantity of goods and merchandise he will require to tide him over the winter. There remain, of course, the dairy produce of the island, and the mutton which its sheep supplies. Beef or pork are never eaten.

The St. Kildians give all their cattle to the proprietor for rent, and, unlike the Irish, they don't keep pigs. Comparatively modern illustrations show the fashion in dress to have been distinctly bizarre, but it is much more up to date now. The men manufacture their own tweed and act as their own tailors. Occasionally, indeed, they ply the needle on behalf of the women, who are fond of bright colors, a not unknown feminine idiosyncrasy. Scarlet is their favorite shade. Imported shawls are worn on the head in winter time, and Turkey red napkins in summer. Some of the younger women order their costumes from the "mainland," but the majority are content with dresses of their own making. Education is now on an organised basis, although it is only within recent years that the Ladies' Association in Edinburgh began to send students to teach English to the children. Previously the children were taught Gaelic by the most proficient individual among the adults; obviously a haphazard method.

There are about 1,600 sheep scattered over the islands on common pasturage, and every owner has his private mark on his possessions. The sheep are small and wild, and can only be caught by dogs. That accounts for the number of dogs which are kept. In June, the shearing season, all the sheep are driven to ledges on the rocks, where they have a choice of being caught, or of jumping over the precipice. The latter alternative is not infrequently accepted. Tweed making is the principal industry, and it provides the women with the classic occupation of spinning the wool derived from their own sheep. The men do all the weaving, contrary to the custom in Harris, where the women weave as well as spin. At this work the long winter nights are spent, spiced with rivalry. The spinners and weavers of one house vie with those of others as to the quantity and quality of the tweed which will be produced, and it is a case of sitting up and rising early almost to the limit of endurance. In April the land claims attention, and the tweed is laid aside pending the arrival of the Glasgow steamers in May. With the first boat this year has gone out the Glasgow agent, who disposes of the manufactured tweed.

Shipwrecked Thirteen Times.

Mr. John Beveridge, of Kirkcaldy, who recently passed away, had an unusually adventurous career, and was quite a "character." At an early age he ran away to sea, and started as a ship's boy. For the forty-two years following he was only on shore for short periods and at long intervals, and thirteen times suffered shipwreck. Once, when wrecked in St. Andrew's Bay, he saved his life by swimming ashore, hanging to a live sheep. Beveridge sailed in many of the vessels which belonged to the Kirkcaldy whaling fleet, and when the last three whalers belonging to that port were wrecked he was a member of the crew on each occasion. For fifteen years he was a naval reservist, and twenty years ago he sailed his last voyage in the Empress of Dundee to the Baltic. To the last he always wore his seafaring garb.

Wonders of the British Museum.

The resignation of Sir Edward Maunde Thompson from the post of director and principal librarian of the British Museum creates a vacancy worth £1,500 a year and a house to live in. The post, however, is no sinecure. There are over 2,000,000 volumes for which the chief librarian is responsible—the only larger collection is the 2,400,000 volumes of the Bibliotheque Nationale of France—not to mention 70,000 valuable maps, over 100,000 manuscripts (many of which could not be replaced if stolen or destroyed), and a magnificent collection of prints and drawings. Altogether there are eleven departments in the British Museum, which originated in 1753 with three — namely, printed books, manuscripts, and objects of natural history.

A Royal Philatelist.

It is, of course, well known that amongst British stamp collectors the Prince of Wales occupies a prominent position. Exactly what his Royal Highness's collection is worth has not been made public; but in view of the fact that five years ago he paid £1,450 for a specimen of the twopenny blue Mauritius, it is apparently one of great value. It is not generally known that the Prince of Wales secured this stamp over the head of the German Postoffice Museum, who sent an agent here to secure it at any price. At £1,400 the agent lost courage, however, and thus the stamp came into the royal collection.

Croup is most prevalent during the dry cold weather of the early winter months. Parents of young children should be prepared for it. All that is needed is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many mothers are never without it in their homes and it has never disappointed them.

POST CARD PETITION.

The Toronto District Women's Christian Temperance Union has instituted a post card petition in behalf of Mrs. Anna Robinson, now under sentence of death at Sudbury. Acting under legal advice, we, with good reason, believe if this campaign succeeds, her life will be spared and her friends will have time in which to take further measures.

We make through the courtesy and generosity of the press a three-fold appeal.

1. Will every editor who receives this appeal kindly publish it in his next issue?
2. Will every man and woman who reads this request comply with its demands?
3. Will you do it AT ONCE, for the unhappy victim has only six weeks to live.

Our request is, write a postal card as follows:—

"I respectfully beg of you to recommend that the death sentence passed on Anna Robinson be commuted."

City Water Good.

Some time ago citizens were advised to boil the water used for drinking purposes as samples secured by the health authorities were found to be contaminated. Recently a quantity of the city's drinking water was sent to Toronto to be analyzed, but the medical health officer, Dr. McPherson, has received word that the water is all right again, and free from any injurious properties.

A Great Railway.

The commanding position of the Grand Trunk Railway System in connection with the transportation service of the Province of Ontario, is well illustrated by the fact that in this premier province of Canada there are 14 incorporated cities, every one of which is located on the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway. Thereare 100 incorporated towns, 25 of which are exclusively on the Grand Trunk Railway, and 43 others are reached by the tracks of the Grand Trunk. The incorporated villages number 66, of which 35 are exclusively on the Grand Trunk, and 13 additional reached by the tracks of the Grand Trunk.

It is easy to see how Canada's pioneer, double track railway, with its unsurpassed roadbed, high grade passenger coaches, etc., is the popular Ontario line. Service wins, and the Grand Trunk serves Ontario well

BIANCO—SABATIGO.

St. Paul's Roman Catholic church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday morning last, when Miss Concetta, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donato Sabatino, was united in marriage to Mr. Pasquale Bianco. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Phelan, the church being filled with the friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The bride, who entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Alice Kennedy, was attired in a handsome costume of cream silk, trimmed with pearls, and wore the customary veil. The bridesmaid, Miss Lucy Minnecola, of Peterborough, cousin of the bride, wore a costume of cream crepe de chene. Mr. Domenico Sabatino, brother of the bride, acted as groomsman. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where the bride and groom received the congratulations of the assembled guests and a sumptuous wedding repast was served. The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome and valuable presents. The happy couple left for a trip to Bangor, Pa., and on their return will take up their residence in the village.—Lakefield News.

MADE IN CANADA.

Exhibition in Peterborough is Advocated by a Visitor to Rochester.

Mr. R. M. Glover of the Examiner, returned home last night after a very pleasant holiday spent in Rochester and Lockport. Mr. Glover brought home with him an idea which he thinks will be a capital one to be adopted in Peterborough. In Rochester they have an exhibit for two weeks of the manufactured products of the city. It is known as the "Made in Rochester" exhibit. It is held in a large hall and every factory in the city has a display of goods. One great feature is the electrical display. Thousands of incandescent lights are burning and from six different points in the hall are hung sing immense bells and in these bells are between 1000 and 1200 incandescent colored lights. The effect is magnificent and great crowds attend the show. During the afternoon and evening concerts are given in the hall and attended by not only the people of the city but by thousands of visitors.

Mr. Glover is of the opinion that a "Made in Peterborough" show would make a great hit in this city and would also do a great deal to advertise Peterborough's manufacturers.

SIX PERISHED.

In Steamer at Point Pelee, Ont., Lake Erie.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 14.—Six men perished yesterday in the destruction of the steamer George Stone, of Cleveland, which went ashore at Point Pelee, Ont., in Lake Erie.

The dead, so far as known, are:

Paul Howell, captain, Erie, Pa.

Alexander Stewart, second engineer, Cleveland.

James Daley, sailor, residence unknown.

William Fredericks, oiler, Cleveland.

Two sailors, names unknown.

The vessel was bound to a Lake Superior port with a cargo of coal. She left Ashtabula Monday night, and shortly afterwards she ran into a heavy north-east gale. All went well, however, until shortly before midnight, Tuesday, when the Stone began to labor heavily in the rough seas then running. To make matters worse, a thick snow set in, which caused the helmsman to lose his bearings. The light on Grubb Reef was almost obscured, and before Captain Howell had a suspicion of the dangerous position his ship was in she grounded heavily. The fire started around the coal bunkers somewhere.

TAKEN OFF BURNING STEAMER

The lighthouse keeper at Grubb Reef was the only human being in sight of the wreck. Over the private Government telephone line from his station to Leamington, Ont., and thence to Amherstburg, he flashed the news and the wrecking tug Hackett was rushed to the scene. With the gale dead against her, the staunch Hackett battled fiercely for several hours and finally came along side the Stone at one o'clock this afternoon.

They found the boat in flames and the ten remaining members of the crew huddled in the bow, expecting every moment to be compelled to drop overboard. Although the wind still blew hard the men were taken off safely and carried to Point Pelee, where they rejoined the two survivors.

The George Stone was a wooden steamer, owned by M. A. Bradley & Company of Cleveland. She was built in 1893, and was 270 feet long and 40-foot beam.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroted forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucuous surfaces.

MOUNT ROBSON

In a letter received by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway from the Rev. George Kinney of Kerrmeade, B.C., who made a successful ascent of Mount Robson, the highest peak on the Canadian Rockies and which feat was chronicled some days ago, he says:—

"You are already aware of the value of this wonderful mountain to your road. Our party was one of the first to ever visit the mountain. The last three summers have been spent by me in this work and my discoveries are quite important. I have no hesitation in emphatically stating that from the scenic standpoint, Mt. Robson and vicinity is without a peer. Nothing in the Rockies or Selkirks can touch this one beauty spot; Forest fringed emerald lakes, Berg Lake with its icebergs floating at all times on its surface, countless glaciers and towering crags and its "Valley of 1000 falls" are but a few of the interesting features of this superb mountain.

ANY remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves.

The nerve centers require nutrition. If the digestion is impaired, the nerve centers become anemic, and indigestion is the result.

In other words, Peruna goes to the bottom of the whole difficulty, when the disagreeable symptoms disappear.

Mrs. J. C. Jamison, 61 Marchant street, Watsonville, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with my stomach for six years. I tried many kinds of medicine, also was treated by three doctors.

"They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months.

"I improved under the treatment, but as soon as I stopped taking the medicine, I got bad again.

"I took the medicine for two years, then I got sick again and gave up all hopes of getting cured.

"I saw a testimonial of a man whose case was similar to mine being cured by Peruna, so I thought I would give it a trial.

"I procured a bottle at once and commenced taking it. I have taken several bottles and am entirely cured.

"I have gained in strength and feel like a different person. I believe Peruna is all that is claimed for it."

Nervines, such as coal tar preparations, are doing a great deal of harm. Sleep medicines and headache powders are all alike,—heart depressants, and should not be used. The nerves would be all right, if the digestion were good. Peruna corrects the digestion.

Parkdale Canoe Club 31, Peterborough 1

Peterborough and Parkdale Canoe Club played the opening game of the senior O.R.F.U. here on Saturday, and the local fourteen went down to defeat by the score of 31—1.

The Peterborough boys started out well but as the game progressed they made many serious fumbles and as a result the visitors made many points on their costly errors. The locals' scrimmage were heavier than the visitors but repeatedly let the Canoe Club's wings break through their lines. The Peterborough team is composed mostly of young players who made their debut in O.R.F.U. company, and when the boys get working together well and are able to hold on to the pig skin, which they will when they get over their stage fright they will give a good account of themselves.

Following is a summary of the play:

Peterborough kicked off and in two minutes scored a rouge on fast following up by Cahill. A. Dissette ran 25 yards but dropped ball when tackled. A Parkdale man received the ball. Play continued in mid-field, Craig and Quinlan pulled off a sensational run and took the ball to tothree yards of Parkdale line, but lost ball. Brookbank made a long run for Parkdale and scored a touch which J. Dissette converted.

Score—Parkdale 6, Peterborough 1. End of first quarter.

Quinlan and Corkery got away for 50 yards. Peterborough lost ball near their own line and Parkdale went over for a touch which was not converted. Parkdale 11, Peterborough 1. Half time.

Parkdale is having best of play and Craig had to rouge. Parkdale 12, Peterborough 1. Quinlan was held behind the line for safety touch. Parkdale 14, Peterborough 1.

Fourth quarter opened with ball carried to Peterborough end. Beddoe kicked over line to Quinlan, who muffed, but recovered and rouged. One point for Parkdale.

Campbell gets away for 30 yards for Peterborough after a buck. Peddlers' halves seldom fumble. Beddoe's punting feature of game. J. Dissette gets ball from loose play and got away for 25 yards from a touch, downed just over the line. Score, Paddlers 26, Peterborough 1. Try not converted. Meagher dribbled from ten yards from his own line, followed by Peterborough field, kicked it over and Brookbank fell on it. Baillie converted. Game ended at Peterborough end. Score, Parkdale 31, Peterborough 1.

Referee—Dr. A. W. MacPherson, Peterborough. Umpire, Dr. Brown, Toronto.

The teams:

Peterborough — Full back, Craig; halves, Cahill, Quinlan and Corkery; quarter, Campbell; scrimmage, Ecclestone, Clarke and Thornton; wings, Dickson, Hickey, O'Connor, Davidson, Lundy and Hall.

Parkdale Canoe Club— Full back, Baillie; halves, Cromar, Beddoe and Meagher; quarter, J. Dissette; scrimmage, Leonard, Addison and Duncan wings, middle, Durand, Adams; inside, Harper and Crawford; outside, Brookbank and A. Dissette.

Appeals Against the Third Conviction

As noted our local contemporary the case against Mr. T. Cavanagh, proprietor of the hotel of that ilk, on Simcoe street, ended at one o'clock on Saturday in a conviction against the defendant. This was the hardest one as far as results go under the Liquor License Act and involved a fine of $200 and forfeiture of his license. The act also reads that under a third conviction the licensee convicted is not only fined but is deprived for three years of all possibility of having his license renewed. Under section No. 92 of the act it is established that when a man is convicted under a third offence the license commissioners must meet within one month and take such steps as would effectually prevent such proscribed man from selling any more liquor. Now under this section of the act, an appeal is allowed and when such appeal is made the date under which such man must stop selling liquor, as practically made indefinite, i.e., subject of course to the end of all local licenses on May 1st. Mr. Cavanagh has entered an appeal against the Saturday judgment of P. M. Dumble.

HOT FIGHT EXPECTED.

Local Option Campaign in Front of Escott Will Be Warm.

Brockville, Ont., October 17\— A petition is in circulating in the township of Front of Escott requesting the council to submit a local option by-law at the municipal elections next January. This was the by-law voted on in January last and quashed later by Justice Teetzel on account of irregularities at the polls. According to a recent decision of Chief Justice Mulock, where a vote taken is abortive, it can be again submitted without waiting for the statutory three years to elapse.

Last January the local option party secured a majority of four over and above the required three-fifths, and, owing to the by-law having been quashed the local optionists will again have to secure a majority over the three-fifths. It promises to be a bitter fight.

A NEW TRANSCONTINENTAL LINE

Canadian Pacific Railway Celebrates Opening of Second Main Line to Become Another Imperial Highway Over which the Fastest Trains will Run

(Special to The Times.)

Montreal, Oct. 16.—Today the Canadian Pacific celebrates the completion of the second main line through the praries, giving connection direct between Winnipeg and Edmonton.

It is an extension of the Manitoba Northwestern, one of the oldest branch lines in the west, and its manager, W. R. Baker, at present secretary of the Canadian Pacific Co., was assistant to the president.

Since its acquisition by the C.P.R., the line has been known as the Yorkton branch. It will not end at Edmonton, but will become an imperial highway over which the fastest trains connecting the capitals of the prairie provinces will run.

A NEW TRANSCONTINENTAL.

This is not all. It will mean ultimately a road through the Peace River country, the Athabasca River region and the Mackenzie River territory to the Pacific.

Rev. Dr. Crafts Addressed Great Crowds Four Times Yesterday

The Talented Lecturer Dealt with the Liquor Question in All Its Phases—Dealt with Facts Gleaned from Observation

Yesterday was the beginning of the campaign for local option in Peterborough so far as the awakening of public interest, and conscience is concerned.

Throughout the entire day with unabated vigor and enthusiasm the eloquent divine reasoned of temperance righteousness and judgment to come.

With a wide practical experience in dealing with all phases of the liquar problem in many lands he appealed to the judgment and heart of his audiences with great effectiveness.

At St. Paul's at 11 a.m., he dealt more particularly with the topic "Living and Dying Nations," and referred to the important task Britain had undertaken in trying to suppress the opium trade as a barrier to missions. His address was listened to with very great interest.

The public meeting in the Grand Opera House at 4.15 was an overwhelming success. An immense crowd filled the building, and Dr. Crafts was listened to with impressive interest.

His arguments against the use of alcohol in any form from the scientists of Germany, from the statesmen of France, from the philanthropists of Britain and the business men of the United States carried conviction to every mind.

At 7 p.m. in St. Andrew's church Dr. Crafts again addressed a very large congregation. Here he dealt more particularly with the verdict of science and business in alcohol. He scored in unmistakeable terms the reference in a local paper on Saturday to the Bishop of Worcester in his expressed desire for a doxology tavern, and showed how that in the subway tavern instituted by Bishop Potter the doxology had been sung and prayer offered at its beginning and in two years it was a complete failure.

This was the worst thing that could happen. A saloon under the control of the bishop and yet a hopeless failure.

The last meeting was held in George street Methodist church at 8.30, and Dr. Crafts seemed as fresh as if he had been beginning his day's services and in a very graphic way pictured the family circle in its glory, and in its power for good in a community and how everything should be done to save the boys and girls from the ruin that drink brought into any home.

Dr. Crafts leaves this morning for Toronto where he will address a union ministerial meeting at 11 a.m.

Jack Johnston Retains World's Championship

(Special to The Times.)

Colma Arena, Oct. 16.—Jack Johnson, the big negro, knocked out Ketchel in the 12th round at Colma yesterday, and thus retains the title to the heavyweight championship of the world.

In the early stages of the fight Ketchel showed signs of nervousness and instead of forcing the big negro to leading did most of the leading himself. Had Ketchel remained cool and forced Johnson to do the fighting the result may have been in his favor. Johnson was cool throughout the fight and displayed good ring generalship, his long reach being a source of worry to his opponent.

A Sufferer of Twenty Years Comes Forward With a Real Cure.

"I can't remember any time during the past 20 years when my head wasn't aching. If I bent over, dark specks would come before my eyes, and it seemed as if all the blood in my body wanted to rush to the head." Thus opens the letter of Mrs. Enoch S. Spry, of Putnam P. O., and continuing her interesting statement she says: "Work or exertion made my heart beat terrible, and going up stairs caused such shortness of breath that it fairly frightened me. My doctor told me that it was poisons in the blood and if that was the cause Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the greatest blood renewer on earth. I tell you how I feel today and you can understand what a great cure Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made. I feel strong enough now to work like a man, as for going upstairs on the run, it doesn't bother me at all. I eat and sleep as any well person ought, and as for dizziness which used to frighten me so much, it has entirely disappeared. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a wonderful woman's medicine. They helped me in other ways too, and I know every woman that uses them will have comfort and good health." Bernier May Make a Dash for North Pole

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Intimates that Captain of Steamer Arctic May Go to the Pole or Beyond It If He Choose

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, at the close of the Canadian Club banquet today, which a large number attended, and which Capt. Bernier, commander of the Arctic, addressed, made an intimation which practically means that if Bernier is willing, he may next year make a dash for the north pole on behalfof the Dominion Government. The luncheon was the first of a series and Vice-President Gerald Brown presided, to his right being Capt. Bernier, and to the left the premier.

The captain explained matters from a chart he had, and an interesting display was the showing of a spear found on Melville Island, said to have been left there by the Sir John Franklin party, and to have been there since 1846.

Capt. Bernier dwelt on difficulties the Arctic had encountered and overcome, and the care that had to be taken of a crew of over40, and the store of supplies. When he mentioned the latter there was a pronounced laugh from many. The famous Arctic supplies are still green in many memories.

Capt. Bernier referred to seeing Americans fishing in northern waters which he contended belonged to Canada. He objected to this, and advised the government to "impose a close season." He recalled meeting Harry Whitney and the crew of the Jennie, protesting at their illegal hunting on Canadian territory, and of getting a $50 cheque to pay for the fishing fee from Whitney. The captain said he claimed for Canada the whole Arctic archipelago, and that he had advanced northwards to claim it to prevent future possible trouble

Pirates Pound the Ball like Demons---Win Championship in Walk

Final score—

Pittsburg	8	8	0
Detroit	0	6	1

Detroit, Oct. 16.—Pittsburg won the world's baseball championship today by overwhelming Detroit by the score of 8—0 in the seventh and decisive game of one of the hardest world's series ever fought. This was the third consecutive time Detroit has been defeated in the world's championship series and consequently the third straight victory for the National League, the Chicago Nationals having won the title in 1907 and 1908. To Chas. Adams, the young Pittsburg pitcher, belongs the major portion of the credit for winning the series.

This is the third victory for the youngster, as he won the first victory at Pittsburg 4 to 1, the fifth game at Pittsburg 8 to 4 and today's contest. He held the Tigers' safely at all times and allowed only six hits, two of these coming in the fourth innings, but the remainder being distributed one to each session.

Donovan started the game for Detroit and lived up to his title of "Wild Bill" by giving six bases on balls and hitting one batter in the first two innings. In the third he allowed a two bagger and a single and George Mullin, the iron man of Detroit, succeeded him in the fourth inning. It was a case of once too often for Mullin, as he worked in four of the seven games of the series. The new world's champions hit him hard in spots and scored four runs on him, three in the sixth and one in the eighth. The first inning added two more accidents to the casualty list for the series.

Byrne reached first base when he was hit by Donovan and went to second on Leach's sacrifice. Manager Clarke passed him a hit and run signal, but he failed to hit and Byrne was caught off third after a desperate slide. Byrne sprained his ankle in the play and was carried from the field. Moriarity remained in the game until he doubled in the second inning and then his injured leg failed him and he was withdrawn O'Leary succeeding him.

Following is the lineup of the two teams:

Pittsburg—Byrne, 3b; Leach, cf; Clarke, lf; Wagner, ss; Miller, 2b; Abstein, 1b; Wilson rf; Gibson, c; Adams, p.

Umpires—O'Loughlin, Evans, Johnstone and Klem.

Nothing But a Duke or Prince

New York and London society is chatting busily about Miss Marjorie Gould. It seems to be but a foregone conclusion that nobody but a nobleman need seek her hand.

The Grand Duke Alexander Georgievitch Romanowski of Leuchtenberg received much attention from Miss Gould in London. He's 28, a cousin of the czar, rich, handsome and military. He's entitled to be called "Your Imperial Highness." Some society folk in London say that Miss Gould would be willing to be called "Your Imperial Highness, Mrs. Alexander Georgievitch Romanowski," or whatever Romanowkski's wife would be called.

There's also the Duke of Alba who saw much of Miss Gould while she was abroad this summer. He has a string of Spanish, English and French titles, and he's all mixed up with royalty, though he's not exactly royal himself and can't be called anything higher than "duke." He's 31. He was with the Goulds at Marienbad, motored with them through the Pyrenees and later joined them in England.

Then, as if two noblemen weren't enough to bother George Gould, Marjorie's father, there's Prince Francis Joseph, brother of Prince Miguel, who recently married Miss Anita Stewart. He comes of the Braganza house which was deposed in Portugal. He isn't as rich as the other two, but he's named for Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, and the emperor favors his wooing of Miss Gould.

Doctors Condemn Oily Liniments

The Public are Warned to be Careful of These Strong-Smelling Oily Liniments Containing Acids, Ammonia, Etc.

Many people have clung to the old-fashioned idea that a thick, greasy liniment is the best kind. Doctors say not — and they know.

Recently a number of these white, oily liniments were analyzed, and they were found to contain an enormously high percentage of harmful acids, and such irritating chemicals as ammonia, etc. For the moment they may cause a warm sensation when first applied, but their continued use never cures rheumatism, and only deteriorates the skin, sets up inflammation and causes endless trouble.

When a doctor warns you to quit using a white, oily liniment—do so. He knows that a thick liniment can't penetrate, can't sink through the pores and reach the seat of the pain.

When asked his opinion a few days ago, Dr. Roberts stated that he considered a strong, penetrating, pain-subduing liniment, such as "Nerviline," to be superior to any of the white ammonia liniments. In his twenty-five years of practice he had witnessed cases of rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago that simply would not respond to ordinary treatment —but Nerviline cured them. The same physician also spoke of the great advantages of keeping a preparation like Nerviline in the house always, because of cramps, diarrhoea, stomach disorders, earache, toothache, headache and such minor ailments. Nerviline is a first-class cure. There is scarcely an ache or a pain, internal or external, that Nerviline won't cure. In thousands of homes no other pain-relieving medicine is used. Fifty years' continued success and the endorsement of the profession are proof that Nerviline is the liniment for the home.

THE "NEW" CHINA.

Japan's operations and methods in Manchuria have been under discussion for many months, and there have been intimations from Washington that her railroad agreement with China, rather hastily concluded, contained provisions that were repugnant to the open door policy. It is not to be supposed that the astute of Japan would deliberately offend the United States and the other upholders of equal opportunity in the far East, but observers and correspondents of impartial newspapers iterate and reiterate statements that cast doubt on the fairness of the agreement in question.

While certain state departments are inquiring into the matter, a popular movement in northern China is springing up against Japan. Circulars issued by secret societies are urging a boycott of Japanese goods. Once before China resorted to the boycott in resenting Japan's treatment of her, and the effects were by no means negligible. Now that China is even more "awake" and giving many signs of new energy and modernization, a boycott, if really well founded, is likely to be even more serious in its consequences. The new China does not like "agreements" of the kind that used to be forced upon her in the days before the war over Manchuria. She even opposes semi-compulsory loans or additions to them as the way out of strange dilemmas. It is reported that the people in the territory to be served by the projected Hankow-Szechuen line are now deciding a referendum on the whole loan proposition.

The referendum, the boycott, dislike of foreign loans negotiated in a manner different from that in which other nations float bond issues—these, indeed, are new things in China. It behooves not only Japan and Russia but other powers to take cognizance of such popular manifestations. American interest in China should lead to fuller and fuller recognition of the independence and real sovereignty of the celestial kingdom, and it is hoped that recent happenings in Washington with reference to China spell proper stress on the open door and the square deal.

A WELSH FESTIVAL.

Eisteddfod is Opened by Musicians in London.

In a pretty glade in Kensington Gardens, in London, near the Albert Hall, the Welsh bards celebrated recently the ritual of the Gorsedd, which marks the opening of the Eisteddfod, or Welsh festival.

In accordance with the ancient tradition, the rites must be performed "in the face of the sun, the eye of light," and though the somber skies made it impossible to carry out the letter of the law, it was fulfilled sufficiently in the spirit by the performance of the rites on a druidical circle erected in the open air.

The circle consists of unhewn stones, outside of which three other stones are placed. In the centre of the circle is the Maen Llog, a large stone supported on three others.

A trumpeter, standing upon this stone, sounded the Corn Gwlad, thus formally opening the Gorsedd, and the prayer of the Gorsedd was recited in Welsh.

The bards, in their blue, green and white robes, presented a striking spectacle, and the insignia of his office rendered Dyfed, the archdruid, a notable figure. With his flowing white robe, oakleaf crown, and golden torque of horseshoe shape, he was impressive indeed as he mounted the Maen Llog and cried aloud thrice in a voice of thunder the formal challenge, "A oes Heddwch?" (Is it Peace?).

"Heddwch!" the assembly shouted, and Dyfed sheathed again the eight-foot sword which, in symbolic rite, he had half drawn from its scabbard.

Speech-making in Welsh followed, and then the bards and onlookers trooped off to the Albert Hall, where the eisteddfod met.

The proceedings at the hall during the morning were disappointing in a great many ways, and there appeared to be a deplorable lack of organization.

The best singing was heard in the chief choral competition, in which the first prize went to the Carnarvon Choral Society, and the second to the Llanelly Choral Society.

At the afternoon meeting Mr. Balfour made a most interesting speech in praise of music.

"Music has ever been one of the great arts in which Welshmen have excelled," he stated. "There cannot be a gift which carries with it higher pleasures—pleasures more easy of attainment, pleasures which leave no after-sting, no after-taste of evil, but which raise and must raise the whole level of civilized pleasures among the people who practice them.

"Music knows no national barrier; music is not subject to the limitations which unhappily beset language. Music speaks to men of all races and of all tongues."

Costly Pennies.

Who was Wiglaf? Numismatists know, and gave £449 for two of his silver pennies at Sotheby's. Wiglaf, or Withlafe, as his name is sometimes spelt in the old chronicles, was that King of Mercia tributary to Egbert, first King of England, and held nominal sway between 825 and 830. His silver penny, without bust, with a cross in centre and a pellet in each angle within a beaded circle on the obverse, and fanciful and pellets on the reverse, caused exciting bidding, which reached £275 (Spink). Only one other of this particular type is known, and it is fortunately in the British Museum. Another Wiglaf penny, with a rude head in a bead and a cross-crosslet in centre of reverse, realised £176 (Lincoln). This was found at Dorking in 1817. The sale was that of the famous Rashleigh collection. A penny of Egbert (785-791)—not to be confounded with Eogberht, son of Offa of Mercia, but the King of Kent mentioned in old charters—without a bust, but with the King's name, made £153 (Lincoln). Only three other coins of this type are known, two being in the Hunter Museum, Glasgow. An East Anglian penny of Eadvald, 819-827, realised £52 (Lincoln), and one of Jaenberht, who was Archbishop of Canterbury between 766 and 796, £93. This was discovered near Netley Abbey, and wears the names of Offa and the Archbishop. In the digging of the foundation for the Martyrs' Memorial at Oxford, another of this prelate's pennies was found, and this fetched £20. A penny with the diademed bust of Cynethryth, who was Offa's Queen, made £30 (Spink).

Lord Balcarres as a Walker.

It was Lord Balcarres, a trustee of the National Portrait Gallery, who announced the saving to England of Holbein's picture, "The Duchess of Milan." His lordship has crowded much good work into his thirty-seven years of life. Not only has he distinguished himself in the cause of art and architecture — he is a trained architect—but he has also served the state in the House of Commons as one of the Unionist Whips. A notable characteristic is his rapid walk. "Burns' gallop is nowhere in it with Balcarres' walk," growled a recalcitrant member on one occasion after being fetched back to the never-ending divisions while trying to escape. "It's no good unless you are streets ahead."

Helping the Enemy.

A coal heaver was getting in a load of coal in the suburbs of London. He was shovelling in the coal at a good rate when he was startled by a terrific yell from the house adjoining.

"Wot the dickens is the matter?" queried the coal man, starting up.

"Matter, you thickhead!" shouted the latter, frantically endeavoring to pull his hair up in clots by the roots. "You are putting the coal down the wrong hole. My wife don't live there."—London Tit-Bits.

Important to Ladies.

It is not often an opportunity occurs for your choice between the Latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, put out in the open, as Prof. Dorenwood of Toronto is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his parlors, apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly selected, retain an appearance of refinement, and exactly the opposite of the old conspicuously false up an effect appearance. Be sure and see them at Oriental Hotel on Monday October 22.

ANGLO-INDIAN SOCIETY.

Salary Decides a Briton's Standing In the Orient.

Anglo-Indian society is strictly official. The male exile's status depends upon the number of rupees he draws each month from the Government. An "Assistant District Superintendent of Police" may be the younger son of a baronet, with an ancestry going back to the Conquest. But he must take in to dinner the Eurasian wife of the "Opium Wallah" — a "Government servant," who is paid a salary of similar dimensions. The "Collector," who gets the equivalent of a thousand pounds a year, is paired off with the sister of the officer commanding the local regiment. In all probability, the lady has a supreme contempt for the "civilian's" social standing, although her unpretentious parents may have kept a Bayswater boarding-house. In the large "stations," railway employés, tea and indigo planters, barristers and business men have a bowing acquaintance with the officers of the British infantry regiments, and they are welcomed in native infantry messes. British cavalry officers and their wives, however, seldom tolerate them, though impecunious subalterns (with an eye to the main chance) make a point of cultivating bank managers. Occasionally, the officers of one corps do not encourage friendly relations with those of another, the womenkind of these warriors being only too ready to obey the mandate. Under these circumstances, jovial Anglo-Indians who are anxious to make friends of everybody—from the "Commissioner" down to the "Acting Additional Traffic Manager," who occupies a lowly position in the railway office—loathe (with exceeding hate) Rawalpindi, Secunderabad, Bangalore, Lucknow, Meerut, and other large military "stations" where cliques abound.

The "Mem-Sahib" is not over-burdened with household duties. For many months in the year, the appalling heat (which reduces the liveliest lady to the verge of apathy) dispels any good intentions she may have formed. Besides, it is not customary for the mistress of the house to pry too closely into the uncleanly mysteries with which the native servants surround themselves. Even the strongest-minded "Mem" is staggered by the sights which await her in the "bowarchi khanah," as the kitchen is known. Nor is she encouraged to take an interest in her servants and their children. Should she condescendingly pat little Ahmed's fat cheeks, little Ahmed's papa will straightway accuse her of regarding his offspring with the "evil eye."

Bronze Statuettes.

An interesting exhibition of bronze statuettes by Anthony Van Wouw was inaugurated recently at the Fine Arts Society's galleries by Sir Richard Solomon, who deputed to Dr. Engelenburg, one of the South African delegates at the Imperial Press Conference, the task of introducing the personality of the Boer sculptor.

Anthony Van Wouw's nationality is betrayed by his subjects rather than by his style, which is the result of sound training in the European art centres. He has chosen his models from among his own people and the indigenous black races, whose varied types he renders with considerable realistic force. Nor is this realism confined to the faithful reproduction of racial characteristics. In several cases, as in the statuette of a "Kaffir Eating Mealies" and the pathetic group "Bad News," he endeavors, with marked success, to convey a suggestion of the arid, stony veldt. There is something of monumental dignity in his little seated figure of "Paul Kruger in Exile." Of peculiar interest are the two figures of "Voortrekkers," designed for the corners of the Kruger monument, which was commissioned from the artist before the outbreak of the war.

Lord Lonsdale's Set.

There are few better all-round sportsmen in the Empire than the Earl of Lonsdale, who is taking such an active interest in the Travel and Sports Exhibition, due to open next month at Olympia. He rides, shoots, motors, boxes, yachts, and is an expert slipper of greyhounds. Horses, however, have been the hobby of his life, and on matters connected with them his opinions are of great value. Once Lord Lonsdale made a bet he would drive twenty miles in less than an hour. The roads were bad, but the weather was worse. For the first five miles his lordship drove a four-in-hand, a pair for another five miles, rode postilion of a pair for the next five, and completed the remainder of the distance by driving a single horse for the last stage. The entire journey was covered in four and a half minutes under the hour.

Engine-Cleaner as an Artist.

Another romantic struggle for fame is illustrated by the career of Mr. Alfred Hudson, who has had a picture accepted for this year's Academy in London. He started life as an engine-cleaner, and in the course of time was promoted to his present post of chief clerk in the locomotive department of the Northeastern Railway at Leeds. He developed a passion for art, but had no money to purchase the necessary equipment. By exercising the strictest economy, however, he was able to save out of his wages sufficient to procure some brushes and paint. He has exhibited in different parts of the country.

A Witty Entry.

Mme. Ghosal, the daughter of the Maharajah of Cooch Behar, the Indian prince whose magnificent attire makes him one of the most picturesque figures at Court, can be very witty on occasions. Once, when staying at a country house, she was asked to write down a thought in an album, and seeing that someone had written one somewhat serious, wrote: "Be bright, and fear no man," she took the pen and promptly underneath: "Don't write, [illegible]

RELICS OF ANTIQUITY

BRITISH SOCIETY MAKES BIG DISCOVERIES AT THEBES.

Professor Petrie Tells of His Excavations in Egypt—Palace of Pharaoh Mentioned in Bible by Jeremiah Is Found at Memphis—Golden Ornaments Are Found Along With Mummy.

An interesting lecture describing the work of the British School of Archaeology in Egypt during the last season was delivered by Professor Petrie the other evening at University College.

The work was divided into two portions. During the early part of the season extensive explorations were made in the hitherto unexplored valleys of Qurneh, the country of Thebes, and several most valuable finds were made.

One of the most interesting of these was the discovery of an undisturbed tomb of the period of the eleventh dynasty, B.C. 2500, and of a curious Osiris chapel of a king named Sankhka-ra. More important was the find of an untouched tomb of the seventeenth dynasty, about B.C. 1600—the simple furniture of which was very remarkable. Among the objects were a number of vases with a string network of most remarkable fineness, by which they were attached to a carrying pole, like a milkman's yoke. String bags of wonderful workmanship were also found and a chair of pretty design, with a knotted string seat.

The tomb in which the mummy was found was evidently that of some person of importance, for a gold necklace, gold bangles, and a girdle of curious Nubian pattern were found. There was found also a small private temple, built by a high priest named Nebannef, who associated himself with Rameses II.

At the end of one of the waddies leading into the desert as a modern sheik's tomb, near to it were small mud houses and jars of offerings containing water and food—a curious survival of the ancient customs.

At Memphis the work was directed to the exploration of a large mound over sixty feet in height, and which will take many years to dig out. At a depth of about ten feet the remains of a large edifice—about 400 feet long by 200 feet broad, with massive walls fifteen feet high—was discovered. It proved to be the palace of Apiries, or the Pharaoh Hophra of the Bible, B.C. 590, who is mentioned by Jeremiah. It was a large edifice, consisting of many halls, or rooms, and two very large quadrangles, as well as servants' quarters, and in these latter were the fireplaces and ovens for cooking the royal dinners.

The central hall was a large space about 100 feet square, which had been covered by a cedar wood roof, supported on columns 50 feet high. A large gateway, built of older material of the time of the twelfth dynasty, was found, the walls of which bore a series of interesting sculptures, representing the installation of the crown prince as vice ruler. During the excavation of the palace very large quantities of scale armor were found, much of it of very fine work, in steel, iron and bronze, probably borne by the Greek mercenaries of the king, and which had been hastily thrown away.

One of the most beautiful finds here was a silver-and-gold rest of a royal palanquin. It was of solid silver, weighing nearly two pounds, and in the centre was a head of the goddess Hathor, with a gold face and with a bronze wig inlaid with gold and blue—one of the finest works of art ever discovered. The exploration of the Temple of Ptah produced many interesting objects, among them a number of terra cotta heads of foreigners who had come to Memphis during the Persian rule—Europeans with the curious Spanish matador feature and side whiskers, Karians with their cockscomb hat, as described by Herodotus.

Very remarkable were two heads, with very modern turbans and distinctly Afghan features, no doubt Parthian allies of the Persian king. Two temples of Meneptah, the Pharaoh of the Exodus, have been found. The discovery of the palace mound is most important, for no doubt stratified under it are the ruined palaces of many dynasties, perhaps even that of Menes himself.

A Romantic Gift.

An altar frontal, which has just come into the possession of the Roman Catholic Church of St. John's, near Norwich, England, has a pathetic interest attaching to it. About 18 months ago Col. Noyes died suddenly while on his honeymoon. His young, grief-stricken widow sent her bridal robe to the nuns of a convent in Bloomsburg, where four skilled embroiderers have been engaged upon it ever since. The altar frontal is eight feet long and four feet deep, and it is designed in three panels, depicting beautifully executed figures. The first of these is an allegorical likeness of the late Col. Noyes, who is represented as a mediaeval knight. The arms and mottoes of Col. Noyes and of the widow's family are embroidered over the panels.

Explanation Called For.

Alfred (whose sporting opportunities have been limited by parental decree)—Papa, what does it mean by base on balls?

Papa (who is reading an account of the latest heavyweight fight)—Alfred, you could better employ yourself with your Sunday school lesson. I'm too busy now to explain.

Alfred (still thirsting for knowledge)—Did it mean the same as base on balls when you telephoned last night that as mamma was away you were going out on a bat?

Mamma (who is always listening)—Benjamin Ridgely, you will take time right now to make two explanations, with the most important one coming to me.

An Excuse For a Pardon.

When the stern Duke of Wellington was prime minister under George IV. he managed the old monarch easily enough, but when he attempted the same tactics with the young Queen Victoria he met his match. She constantly outwitted him. One of his earliest official acts was to bring before her a court martial death sentence which he expected her to sign as a matter of course. A soldier was to be executed for desertion, and as the death warrant was placed before the queen by the duke she raised her eyes, full of tears, to his face, saying:

"Have you nothing to say in behalf of this poor man?"

"Nothing," said the duke, standing at attention like one of his own privates; "he has deserted three times."

"Oh, your grace, think again," pleaded the queen, as if she were asking for the life of her dearest friend.

"Well, your majesty, he certainly is a bad soldier, but there was somebody who spoke for his good character. He may be a tolerably good fellow in civil life."

"Oh, thank you," said the queen in heartfelt tones, and before the astonished duke could utter a word of protest she had written across the paper the word "Pardoned."

Crawford's Care as a Writer.

Mr. F. Marion Crawford, we are told, once agreed to write for the London Sphere a novel with Dante for its hero. "The Harvest of the Sword" was to have been its title. The letter which he wrote to Mr. C. K. Shorter explaining his failure to fulfill his promise testifies to his conscientious care in authorship:

"I can only say that it is in no sense my fault if I cannot give you the book after all at the time appointed and that if I succeed in writing it you of course have the first claim to it for serial publication if you still wish to use it next year. I have worked at the manuscript unremittingly for months. I began it four times. I have done everything in my power to write it and have done no other work since Aug. 1, and the result is so utterly unsatisfactory that after allowing the first three chapters to be sent to you I decided to cable and throw up the contract. It is the first time I have ever done such a thing, and I am driven to it by the great difficulties of the subject and not by any neglect. I decline to allow a book so imperfect to go before the public, while feeling that by renewed labor I may succeed in the end. That is my whole and only excuse. Make it public in any way you please, together with the great regret I feel at disappointing you."

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—18 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

Mill tests have proved that half of the values can be saved on the plates, and the remainder concentrate readily into a smelting product.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount $90,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $600. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

Up to the present time, the Turquoise Copper Co., has been practically a close corporation; an initial offering of 100,000 shares has just been made at 25 cents, par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable. Proceeds will be used to further continue the development work already begun.

We have options on 50,000 shares of this stock and advise immediate purchase at 25 cents per share. It is the intention of The Board of Directors to list the stock on the New York Curb and it should sell at $1.00 per share by the first of the year.

PROPERTY

The property of the Company consists of leases for oil and gas of about 25,000 acres of the best oil lands in the Lake Ainslie District, County of Inverness, Cape Breton. This district has been known for years to be an oil district. Recently Mr. P. H. Stover, who is rightly considered to be one of the best oil experts in America, examined the property, and after a thorough and searching examination his opinion of the possibilities of this property is contained in the following report:

Charlottetown, August 2nd, 1909

To the Directors of The Maritime Oil & Gas Company Limited;

Dear Sirs,—I beg to say that I have thoroughly examined the properties held under lease by your company for oil and gas, and as a result of the examination I beg to report:—

1st. I am familiar with the oil regions of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, and Ontario, having operated largely in these districts for the last twenty five years.

2nd. In my opinion Lake Ainslie District shows almost exactly the same indications of oil as appeared in Oil Creek in Pennsylvania, which has been the greatest oil producing district in America. Oil Creek was the only district where oil in any quantity was to be found seeping from the rocks, and in the Lake Ainslie District the same conditions are to be found. The oil is seeping from the rocks on the shores of the Lake. The difference between the two districts is that the oil sand rock in the Lake Ainslie district is thicker and hence more liable to be a better producing oil sand. I have taken samples of the oil as it comes from the rock, and I find that the oil is of a very high lubricating quality, and will require but little refining to make it a very valuable lubricating oil. I consider that there is no question of the existence of a very large quantity of oil and gas in this property, and the prospects of striking oil upon the Company's property are of the very best.

Yours truly F. H. STOVER

After the examination Mr. Stover immediately became financially interested in the Company, and has accepted the office of President and General Manager of the Company.

The Company proposes to drill several wells upon this property at once, and for that purpose arrangements have been made with Messrs. Stover Bros., oil contractors, to place a first-class drilling equipment upon the property, this much can be said—it is the very best equipment possible to obtain for this purpose, and it is such that the contractors guarantee that under the conditions such as they expect to find in Lake Ainslie their equipment will drill a well to the depth of three thousand feet in two months.

STOCK.

Mr. Alexander G. Baillie, of Port Hastings, is Trustee for a certain portion of the Company's stock, which is offered for sale for the purpose of development. Of this stock it is proposed to sell a block of three hundred thousand shares, starting at five cents per share.

PROSPECTS FOR INVESTORS

The history of the oil business in America, from its very inception to the present date, is one continuous story of financial success. Thousands of men, formerly poor, became enormously wealthy. More money has been made out of oil than out of any industry in the world today. When oil is once struck by the Oil Company the value of the stock is increased enormously. The following is a small list of the oil companies in operation less than three years, showing the original price of their stock and the highest price it has reached:—

	Original Price	Highest Price
New York Oil Co.	$ .50	$ 200.00
Union Oil Co.	1.00	1,500.00
Riverside Oil Co.	.50	5.00
Kern River Oil Co.	1.00	25.00
Peerless Oil Co.	.20	8.00
Rockford Oil Co.	5.00	115.00
Home Oil Co.	5.00	4,000.00

Contracts have been entered into on behalf of the Company, and to which the Company is a party with William Harrington, of Lake Ainslie, in the County of Inverness, dated July 9th, 1909, and Alexander G Baillie, of Port Hastings, dated August, 1909, which contracts are on file in the office of the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies, Halifax.

HERO OF MAGERSFONTEIN.

Victoria Cross Cost Captain Towse His Eyesight.

Pathetic indeed was an incident which marked the recent inspection of the Gentlemen-at-Arms by the King. A tall, well-built, handsome soldier was carefully piloted before His Majesty by a fellow-officer. It was Captain E. B. B. Towse, V.C., whose eyes were shattered while leading a brilliant charge against the Boers during the South African war. The story of that charge will long live in the memories of the Gordon Highlanders, that regiment which has so many heroic deeds on its roll of honor, and to which Captain Towse belonged.

On April 30th, 1900, Captain Towse, with twelve men, took up a position on Mount Thaba. He was totally unsupported, but it was not thought any of the enemy were near. Suddenly, however, a party of Boers, over a hundred strong, who had also made for the position, appeared a hundred yards off. Seeing that they outnumbered the Highlanders, the Boers called upon Captain Towse to surrender.

His prompt reply was to give a ringing command to his men to fire and then charge, the Boers being now about forty yards distant. The sudden onslaught of these twelve intrepid Britishers, with their gallant leader, caused the Boers to waver and fall back; and thus the situation was saved.

But the victory was dearly bought; for the men, to their great grief, saw a bullet shatter the eyes of their captain, who has, consequently, never been able to look on the Cross of Valor which was duly awarded him.

Neither was this the only deed of gallantry performed by Captain Towse during the Boer war. Five months previously, on "Black Monday" (December 11th, 1899), at the disastrous battle of Magersfontein, when Lord Methuen fought 15,000 Boers with 11,000 men, with terrible loss, Captain Towse earned the title of the "Hero of Magersfontein." Concealed in their trenches, the Boers could not be driven out, and Lord Methuen was obliged to retire to the Modder River.

A terrible fire from rifles and pompoms at close range struck down one in five of the Highland Brigade under General Wauchope, who also fell, riddled with bullets. Colonel G. T. F. Downman, Captain Towse's commanding officer, was also struck down. But in spite of the hail of bullets Captain Towse hoisted the colonel on his back and bore him away. It was a gallant deed, well in keeping with the glorious traditions of the famous Gordons.

Rabbits in a Tree.

Walking with a friend the other day in Witham Woods, near Oxford, I came across a litter of young rabbits in a tree. It was an oak, with a hole at the base about the size of an ordinary rabbit-hole. We pulled ourselves up the tree to about eight feet from the ground, and found ourselves standing on a mass of mould and decayed wood which seemed to fill the inside of the trunk. On one side was a hollow branch, and at the end of the branch a rabbit's nest containing young rabbits. About a foot from the branch and slightly to one side was an opening which obviously led from the hole at the base of the tree. It would have meant a very steep ascent for the rabbits unless the way up took the form of a spiral. The nest in the branch must have been quite nine feet above ground.—G. C. Vassall, in The Field.

Thomas Hardy and the Stage.

At one time Mr. Thomas Hardy, who has just entered upon his seventieth year, had serious thoughts of devoting himself to dramatic authorship. He is an enthusiastic playgoer, and at one time took a flat in London for three or four months of the year so that he might attend the theatres. As an illustration of the dependence of the author upon the actor, Mr. Hardy tells a good story of "Walker, London." J. M. Barrie's first play, which was produced by J. L. Toole. He witnessed a performance of the play in Barrie's company, and several times found occasion to congratulate the author upon the dialogue, laughing freely and exclaiming, "That's a good thing." But, as sure as he did so, Barrie would reply, in a melancholy tone, "Ah, that's not mine; that's Toole's. There's a good deal that's new since I was last here."

A Famous Sea Painter.

A curious feature of the work of that clever marine painter, Mr. W. L. Wyllie, R.A., who celebrated his fifty-eighth birthday on July 6th, is the use he makes of the telescope. By this means he contrives to bring to his easel an astonishingly large area of shipping. During the Russo-Japanese war, for instance, Mr. Wyllie made an elaborate painting of the Japanese battleship Fuji when she was seven miles away. At the same time Mr. Wyllie more often than not studies ships at close quarters from his yacht, for he is an enthusiastic sailor, as befits a man whose studio is on the very edge of the narrow entrance to Portsmouth harbor.

Origin of the Postmark.

Great Britain claims the distinction of having originated the postmark. The first one, employed in London as long ago as 1660, was an extremely simple affair, consisting merely of a small circle divided into two parts. At the top there were two letters indicating the month, while in the lower half of the circle was shown the day of the month. No provision was made for indicating the year or the hour of the day. It is only by the date of the letters themselves whereon the mark was impressed that it is possible to fix the date of its use.—Sunday Magazine.

How the West Grows.

An idea of the methods used in colonizing western Canada may be gained from record of the Township of Hutton, where less than five weeks ago fertile soil was undisturbed by plow, but is now the home of no fewer than 86 hustling American families busy cultivating land and building homes.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause, rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny inside, hidden nerves, says Dr. Shoop governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

ARMY CORPS CALLED OUT.

Utmost Efficiency Shown in Recent Mobilization.

A British army corps was called out for war the other day, and afforded a fine object-lesson of how quickly and effectively British troops can be or-[illegible]

Never before in the history of the British army has so unexpected, and yet so complete, a mobilization been carried out. Nearly twenty thousand men of all arms were lined up ready to entrain, and it was only by the absence of a call to the Reservists that the feat differed from what the authorities hope to effect in case of an actual or threatened invasion.

No warning of what was coming was given. At six o'clock in the morning Lieut.-Gen. Smith-Dorrien rode down to the headquarters' office and gave the order for the alarm to be sounded, followed by the order for every unit in his command to turn out as rapidly as possible, fully mobilized, and ready for active service.

The military telephones linking up the barracks were soon busy with the order, and mounted orderlies carried the summons to those officers who live out of barracks.

Some of the battalions were already in the field; the Gloucesters, for instance, having left barracks at four o'clock for a long day's operations. They were summoned back by mounted men and cyclist messengers, and within the hour every barracks was the centre of activity.

Wagons were dragged out and loaded with stores, water-carts filled, ammunition drawn from the magazines and distributed, and field dressings and emergency rations issued to the men with their metal identity discs and pocket ledgers.

For some time past the chiefs of staff have been working at this mobilization scheme to render it perfect for a sudden call, and the test that was being applied could only be equalled by the actual call of war. Indeed, among many of the troops the belief was accepted that an invasion was an accomplished fact.

The telegraph wires had carried the news to those officers and men away on week-end leave, and the early trains to Aldershot were filled with serious soldiers, who on reaching the stations raced up to their barracks, to appear in a short space of time accountred and equipped for service.

Six hours was the time given for the units to get on parade, ready to move off, but so perfect was the machinery that in the great majority of cases little more than half that time was needed to report all ready.

From the Army Service Corps barracks parties of butchers and bakers, clerks, saddlers, and artificers marched off to join the brigade and divisional headquarters, every man having his allotted place and his special duties.

No confusion marked the preparations, and long before the allotted time was up nearly 20,000 men, artillery, cavalry, and infantry, with engineers and supply transport services, were marching out of barracks to go wherever needed.

To Punish the Mullah.

Col. Gough, says a report from Aden, according to present arrangements, will begin military operations this month against the Somaliland mullah, who has continued to harass the friendly tribes.

It is understood that the operations will take the form of flying columns, composed of mounted infantry and irregulars, which will endeavor to round up the elusive enemy.

Practically everything is now ready, and ample native troops on the spot are being supplied with white officers.

The chief difficulty is, as it has always been, transport. British agents have been buying animals all along the Red Sea, but prices have been high, particularly for camels. The Emperor Menelik has, moreover, forbidden the export of these animals from his territory.

It is thought that Sir Reginald Wingate, who has arrived in the country from Cairo, will, from his experience of Soudan "drives," be able to give Col. Gough some useful advice.

Berbera is the base of the new operations, which will cover a wide area. The British Government has for some time been collecting information as to the situation, particularly along the northwestern Somaliland border, and the authorities are very hopeful of success.

St. Fillan's Bell.

Early in the nineteenth century a bell was stolen from Killin, in Perthshire. This bell, which was said to have been used by St. Fillan, was supposed to possess marvelous healing powers, and was placed on the heads of all the mad people, who were brought to be dipped in the saint's pool, in order to complete the cure.

Popular opinion had it that the bell, which was not very large, would extricate itself from the hands of any one who stole it and return home, ringing all the way. The antiquary who finally annexed it explained his action by a desire "to abate superstition."

A Mild Reproach.

One cold morning little Elsie was being bathed by her mother, and usually her bath was a great delight to her. But this morning her mother talked incessantly while she worked.

Elsie loved her dearly and tried hard to be patient. "If the lecture was so tiresome" Her mother was laying out a course of conduct for the day, and it was all so old. She had heard it over and over again.

Finally she said very sweetly, but very wearily: "Please, mamma, don't talk any more. You do make such a draft!"

Jerry Needn't Bother.

It was the beloved and learned Monsignor Connolly, of the Church of St. John the Baptist, at St. John, N.B., who noticed an old parishioner stealing a glance at his watch as the text was read out one fine summer morning.

"It's just twenty minutes past eleven, Jerry Callahan, and at a quarter to twelve I'll be through, so you can save yourself the trouble of taking your watch out of your pocket," said his reverence, and proceeded with the sermon.

Croup is most prevalent during the dry cold weather of the early winter months. Parents of young children should be prepared for it. All that is needed is a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Many mothers and never without it in their homes and it has never disappointed them.

NEGRESS BECOMES WHITE.

Strange Metamorphosis Rouses Interest in Montana Town.

Anaconda, Mont., October 17.—A curious case diagnosed as vitiligo came to light in this city which has caused a great sensation here, particularly among the colored colony. Mrs. Dave Strader, colored, of Martinsdale, Mont., came here on a visit to friends, and she has changed from a woman of a rich chocolate brown to one of pure white, excepting only rings about her eyes and a small patch on her chin, which still retain the original color.

Mrs. Strader is thirty-seven years of age and the change first manifested itself in a small white spot on her hand, which has spread until now she says that almost her entire body is pure white and the blue blood shows through the cuticle. She has suffered no pain or inconvenience from it except from a slight itching around the edges of the spots when the change is taking place.

LINDSAY CURLERS.

Elected Their Skips and are Ready for the Season's Fun.

The annual meeting of the Lindsay Curling Club was held in the rink last evening and as a result everything is in readiness for the "roarin'" game, when Jack Frost puts in an appearance.

The meeting was one of the largest and most successful ever held in the history of the club. Over seventy-five members were present and the enthusiasm shown by those present is an indication that the coming season will be the banner one in the history of the club.

TWENTY-FOUR SKIPS.

Rev. J. J. Wallace, the popular president, occupied the chair, and after the reading of the minutes by Secretary J. M. Knowlston, the nomination of skips took place. Thirty-five members were nominated, out of which twenty-four skips were elected. Four extra skips were also elected in case some skip should drop out or be unable to take his rink when the season opens.

The Local Greeks.

The Times was informed by a local Greek on Saturday, that in case of war between Turkey and Greece, thousands of his countrymen would leave for home to enter the Greek army. The Greek colony in Peterborough is now quite large, and constantly growing.

Blue Hundred Cards.

The Ottawa Navigation Company's steamer Water Lily will, in a

all brought from the Stony Lake waters. A couple of large scows being used to transport the wood.

Laying the Dust.

Peterborough is not the only place where experiments are being made by oiling the streets. Ottawa has tried sprinkling certain streets with crude kerosene and it would seem to be a success. Galt is another town that is trying similar experiments. Peterborough Council should watch these places.

The greatest danger from influenza is of its resulting in pneumonia. This can be obviated by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, as it not only cures influenza, but counteracts any tendency of the disease towards pneumonia. 11

Wanted at Once.

Small furnished house or rooms suitable for light house keeping for two in family. All conveniences required. In the neighborhood of C. G. E. preferred. Apply to Mr. Brydin, 544 Bethune or leave address at this office.

Crops are Good.

Mr. H. G. Buck and Mr. W. T. Carbrey, says the Norwood Register, returned Saturday evening from a few weeks sojourn in the far West. Mr. Buck reports splendid crops in the West this year. He and Mr. Geo. W. Buck had a large tract of land under crop this season and report a yield of 8200 bushels of wheat and 300 bushels of oats. Next season Mr. Buck expects to have a much larger area under crop.

A sprained ankle will usually disable the injured person for three or four weeks. This is due to lack of proper treatment. When Chamberlain's Liniment is applied a cure may be effected in three or four days. This liniment is one of the best and most remarkable preparations in use. 12

The Gunpowder Plot.

A week from next Friday will be the anniversary of the Gunpowder Plot, which Orangemen all over the British empire will celebrate. In Peterborough city and district the various lodges will give suppers, entertainments, etc., at which patriotic address will be delivered.

Passenger Agents Meet.

Messrs. W. McIlroy, C.P.R. city agent, and W. Buntin, G.T.R. city agent, attended the annual meeting of the Canadian Passenger Agents' Association, held at Buffalo, N. Y., which took place last week. Mr. McIlroy was elected this year chairman of the executive, and Mr. Bunton was made a member of it. Mr. McIlroy read an interesting paper before the association on "A Trip Around the World."

A Building Moved.

Mr. T. Rehill, with his usual enterprise, has purchased the old G. T. R. warehouse and repair shops at the corner of Bethune and Sherbrook streets. The large warehouse has been moved to the bay, Townsend street, in the rear of Mr. Rehill's residence, about opposite the C.P.R. freight sheds. It is to be used as a large stable and driving shed. The timbers and lumber in the other buildings were all in good condition and will be put to various uses. Mr. Rehill has been very successful in this deal, and has done his work with satisfaction and despatch.

Circulating a Petition.

Many Peterborough business men will be interested in learning that an effort is being made to secure pardon for Montreal wholesale grocery traveler who was recently sentenced to a month in jail for insulting a lady on the public street. The head of the firm which this traveller represents, was in Port Hope circulating a petition asking for the release of the prisoner. The petition is being largely signed and will be forwarded to the Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice.

Appealing for Mrs. Robinson.

The Times is informed that the appeal on behalf of Mrs. Robinson, who is under sentence of death at Sudbury for the murder of her daughter's infant children, is being largely signed in Peterborough. At St. Paul's church, Rev. Mr. Pegnue referred in pathetic terms to the case, and invited the congregation to sign the petition after morning service, which was largely done. We understand a similar appeal and like response was made in St. Andrew's by Rev. Mr. Potter. A monster petition should go to the minister of justice from Peterborough.

Robbed Salvation Army.

But not in Peterborough.

There are no thieves here mean enough for that. The Parry Sound Star says:—

Some one entered the home of the Salvation Army Captain on Tuesday night while he and his wife were holding service in the barracks, and stole $93 out of the cash box. This money had been collected for the Thanksgiving offering, and was only waiting the final collections to be forwarded to headquarters. The thief certainly must be one very familiar with the workings of the Army. He knew where the money was kept, and when the service was on, entered the house by a back window and went to the cabinet took out the box and emptied it of the $93 and left by the back door. As soon as the Captain returned home he found the box on the table and the money gone. He reported it to the Chief of Police immediately, and from private information already at hand it is quite likely that the thief will be behind the bars tonight.

Assignment to Bank Effected.

At Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on Friday last, Chief Justice Meredith has dismissed with costs the appeal by the Trusts & Guarantee Co., Limited, liquidator of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company of Peterborough, from the certificate of Judge Weller, Local Master at Peterborough on December 23 last allowing the claim of the Ontario Bank against the Trusts Company. The only objection against the ruling of the master urged upon the argument was that the respondent, the bank, was not entitled to the benefit of certain securities assigned to it by the company because notice of the assignment had not been given to the persons liable upon the securities. That objection is not entitled to prevail, says his lordship, as the appellant as liquidator, stand in no better position than the company, and the assignment as to it was effectual to transfer the securities in equity at all events, notwithstanding that notice of it was not given to the persons liable.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

What is Transpiring in Peterborough and Vicinity.

Next Monday will be Thanksgiving Day.

—Orillia Packet: It is argued at Peterborough that the town is too large for Local Option. Measured by the size of its thirst, no doubt.

—It is against the law to shoot or kill partridge before the 15th of September 1910, and those who do so are liable to a heavy penalty.

—Next Sunday will be regarded by nearly all the churches as one specially devoted to Thanksgiving, when appropriate sermons will be preached.

—Work on the new Carnegie Library building is progressing slowly. We understand delay was caused by the non-arrival of the stone. The brickwork is now approaching the second storey.

—A woman was observed in one of the most crowded stores on Saturday afternoon to drop a pair of men's new gray woollen socks from beneath her rain coat. She hurriedly picked them up and left.

—Mr. J. L. Garvin has tendered his resignation as principal of the Lakefield Public School, to take a position as mathematical master of the high school at Penetanguishene.

—Deer hunting licenses are now being secured. In a few days the woods will be full of hunters. The other season begun on November 1st and closes on 15th.

OVER THE ROUTE.

C.P.R. Engineer and City Engineer May Go Over Route Together.

On Saturday last City Engineer Hay, accompanied by Mr. Killaley, C.P.R. engineer, to look over the C. P.R. grain route suggested by Mr. Hay. To The Times Mr. Killaley stated that there was nothing for publication regarding the new route. Should the new route be selected the present proposal made by the company to the council will be withdrawn.

POSTUM

Coffee is a hidden but powerful enemy to one's progress in life. Its subtle, narcotic poison, weakens heart, interferes with digestion and has a definite and destructive effect on the nervous system. People who are content to load themselves with impediments to progress, who refuse to supply body with food and drink of the kind needed to make up for the daily disintegration of nerve and brain tissue, must stand aside in the race.

The ones who are properly fed, will surely win the laurels.

Postum furnishes the gluten and phosphates of grain needed by Nature to nourish brain and nerves with food. When made right, that is, boiled 15 minutes after boiling begins, it has a delicious taste similar to the mild, high-grade Javas, but with none of the bad effects of coffee.

There are those who are entirely careless as to what goes into the stomach, but the one who would make all his movements tend towards health and possible greatness can know by a personal test.

Owing to the unfortunate illness of the bride, who was attacked last week by blood poisoning from contact with poison ivy, the marriage of Dr. W. Tassie Wilson, superintendent of the Hospital for Insane, Cobourg, and Miss Lillie Ellis, was solemnized very quietly last night at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. H. R. Walker, 198 Cottingham street. Only the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends were present. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. H. Sparks, of St. Olave's Church, Mimico, and Mr. Norman Ellis, of Hamilton, brother of the bride, gave her away. She wore a rich white duchess satin robe severely simple in style with some lovely duchess lace for trimming, and a tulle veil with wreath of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a shower of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Maud Proctor and Miss Hilda Walker, niece of the bride, were the bridesmaids, the former being in maize charmeuse fashioned in the new draped apron style, and finished with gold and crystal trimming; and the latter in pale blue messaline. Both wore black picture hats and carried russet chrysanthemums. Mr. Stuart Polson, of Kingston, and Mr. Gordon Weir and Mr. John Wilson, of Hamilton, were the groomsmen. Dr. and Mrs. Wilson left last night for Cobourg, and on the bride's complete recovery, will go to Washington Baltimore and Atlantic City for the honeymoon. A Great Railway.

The commanding position of the Grand Trunk Railway System in connection with the transportation service of the Province of Ontario, is well illustrated by the fact that in this premier province of Canada there are 14 incorporated cities, every one of which is located on the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway. There are 100 incorporated towns, 25 of which are exclusively on the Grand Trunk Railway, and 43 others are reached by the tracks of the Grand Trunk. The incorporated villages number 66, of which 36 are exclusively on the Grand Trunk, and 13 additional reached by the tracks of the Grand Trunk.

It is easy to see how Canada's pioneer, double track railway, with its unsurpassed roadbed, high grade passenger coaches, etc., is the popular Kntario line. Service wins, and the Grand Trunk serves Ontario well

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroted forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

MOUNT ROBSON

In a letter received by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway from the Rev. George Kinney of Keremeos, B.C., who made a successful ascent of Mount Robson, the highest peak on the Canadian Rockies and which feat was chronicled some days ago, he says:—

"You are already aware of the value of this wonderful mountain to your road. Our party was one of the first to ever visit the mountain. The last three summers have been spent by me in this work and my discoveries are quite important. I have no hesitation in emphatically stating that from the scenic standpoint, Mt. Robson and vicinity is without a peer. Nothing in the Rockies or Selkirks can touch this one beauty spot; Forest fringed emerald lakes, Berg Lake with its icebergs floating at all times on its surface, countless glaciers and towering crags and its "Valley of 1000 falls" are but a few of the interesting features of this superb mountain.

—THE CORNER STONE—

A Voice From India.

At St. Andrew's church yesterday morning the morning the Rev. D. C. Cook, B.D., of Mhow, India, gave a most interest account of the work of the Church in that part of the British Dominions and impressed upon the congregation the value of the gospel to lift up the nations of that great continent.

Buddism, Brahamanism, Fanaticism had utterly failed to save the people of India and to deliver them from the burden of sin.

A True Bill Brought in Against the Joplings

The Chandos Rape Case Adjourned Until Nine O'Clock This Morning

That cause celebre generally known as the Bollard Case, was brought before his Lordship Judge Sir G. Falconbridge at the High Court of Justice yesterday. It will be remembered that last summer a well known young Torontonian named Bollard, a son of Mr. Alive Bollard, the Yonge street tobacconist, while spending the summer at Chemong came to a sudden and violent death. It was alleged that the cause of his death was due to the result of a fight or wrestling match between the deceased and a young man living at Chemong, by name Jopling. It seems that a brother of the accused is implicated in the alleged manslaughter.

His lordship sent the grand jury, with Mr. Robt. Fair as foreman, out to consider whether there was a case or not. The grand jury after considering the matter for some time returned to the court room at 2.35 to ask some points of information from the judge. His lordship told them that in the eyes of the law if the principal defendant in the case were found guilty that any others implicated in the charge were also guilty but that if a verdict of guilty were finally returned that the matter of individual sentences lay in the jurisdiction of the judge. The jury then then returned and at about five o'clock brought in a true bill, so that the case against the Joplings will be triedthis morning.

THE CHANDOS RAPE CASE.

Whilst the grand jury were considering their verdict in the Bollard-Jopling case his lordship had the Chandos rape case brought before him for trial.

Robt. Hyderman, John Gibbs, W. A. Dimsdale, Chas. Christie, S. H. Long, Geo. Davis, John Brownlee, Russel Pierce, Frank Pitcher, Ernest Baptie, Robt. Knox, M. Blewett were sworn in as a jury. Several ladies in court were advised by his lordship to leave the court. Mr. Charles Denison of Toronto, acting for the prosecutrix, explained to the jury the case he expected to prove.

Miss Bullied, a school teacher in Chandos was the first witness called and said she was with the prisoner, W. E. Wigg, on the night of August 14th last. Prisoner took her for a drive in a covered buggy. Prisoner drove her some two miles from her father's home in the evening. She asked prisoner to take her home or she would get out of the rig and walk home. She then related circumstantially the details of the alleged assault.

To Mr. O'Connell, Miss Bullied said the prisoner had called on her several times while she boarded with Mrs. Tucker in Anstruther township. She identified her letter written by her to the prisoner last April in which there was a number of X X X or crosses and admitted that she knew that between lovers these crosses pass for kisses.

His lordship asked Miss Bullied at this point if she would be willing to marry the prisoner. The young lady emphatically replied; "I am not willing to marry him." The trial then proceeded. Further witnesses gave evidence that could not well be reproduced in print. At 5.50 his lordship adjourned the case until today, warning the jury not to talk to any one about the case. The prisoner was allowed to go on his own bail in the sum of $1,000.

THE RED FLAG IN LONDON BITTER FEELING AGAINST SPAIN

Victor Grayson, M. P., Demands the Expulsion of the Spanish Ambassador—Socialist Sympathizers with Ferrier Hold Noisy Demonstration

(Special to The Times.)

London, Oct. 18.—The red flag was raised in London yesterday afternoon and a large mob moved upon the Spanish embassy to make a demonstration of its disapproval of the execution of Professor Francisco Ferrer, the convicted revolutionist, at Barcelona, a few days ago. Several bodies of police were stationed at the approaches to the embassy, and they drove off the crowds in their usual bloodless, effectual way. But considerable excitement and uneasiness pervaded the neighborhood. The groans and hootings were plainly heard in the embassy and at Buckingham palace, nearby.

No one was injured seriously, although the mounted police rode against the crowds and scattered them several times.

The trouble began with a mass meeting in Trafalgar square, which was organized by several Socialists and labor bodies. Several hundred members of these organizations marched to the square carrying red flags draped with crepe and bearing inscriptions denouncing King Alfonso. A black bordered banner was raised against the Nelson monument with big letters that could be read from afar: "To hell with the murderer, Alfonso!"

Rich Find of Gold Near Apsley Village

The Times is Informed That a Rich Strike Has Been Made Which Has Caused Great Excitement.

A few days ago a letter was received from a well known resident of the back country to the effect that a rich gold discovery had been made by some prospectors in Chandos township. The matter was being kept very quiet, but somehow it leaked out. It is said that options have been taken on considerable amount of property adjoining, as well as in the neighboring townships.

Another strike is reported to have been made in the adjoining country of Haliburton. From the examinations made gold takes first place worth $65 a ton, followed by silver, oxide of iron and sulphur, the last named forming fifty-two per cent. of the whole, and being worth $8 a ton.

The parties interested, says the Lindsay Warder, are Messrs. Geo. A. Wintermute, of Sandwich, Ont., J.S. Austin, of Essex, and Capt Ross Anderson, of Tory Hill. These gentlemen, we understand, have already received offers for the ore and also for their interests, that may lead to the early development of the mines and create a new Cowganda or Cobalt in our midst.

There is also both copper and nickle in the neighborhood, and 150 tons of mica has been shipped during the past three months.

CHINKS WERE FINED.

Three Celestials Punished for Gambling.

Lee Nong who keeps a laundry at 232 Hunter street, was fined $50 for keeping a common gaming house and three other Chinamen, Jim Lee, John Lee and Lee Ying were each fined $20 for being participants in a game of fan tan. They appeared before Magistrate Dumble yesterday morning. They were represented by Mr. G. N. Gordon, who at first pleaded not guilty but later on consulting his clients put in a plea of guilty, his worship then imposed the above fines which were paid forthwith.

DEMAND MORE PAY.

Owen Sound Teachers Threaten to Resign.

The Times has been requested by one of the Public School teachers to publish the following:

A demand has been made by the forty teachers of the Owen Sound public schools for an increase in salaries, and they ask for an immediate decision, so that if the request is not granted those who desire may make a change before the first of next year. The teachers are determined and their petition when presented to the Board of Education created considerable stir. The teachers ask that the board make the minimum $450, and the annual increases $50 up to $800; to raise all teachers who have served five years or more, to the present maximum, $600, and those of 20 years or more to the new maximum; to recognize length of experience wherever obtained.

Chinese Laundries Should Be Carefully Regulated.

The fact that Chinese laundries are being used as resorts for gambling, is opening the eyes of the authorities to the evil of permitting such dens to exist at all. The City Council should at once take steps to impose a license on these places, and compel the owners to conform to proper conditions and regulations. If this were done and a proper bylaw put through, there would be no such places in existence.

The Canadian Laundryman, in referring to this evil, says that it is the duty of municipalities where Chinese laundries exist, to regulate them, and compel obedience to the law. Proper sanitary and other conditions if enforced would drive the yellow men out of town. The sooner this is done the better for the health as well as the moral welfare of the community.

King Alfonso Has a Row with Premier

Paris, Oct. 18.—A special from Madrid says that King Alfonso has had a violent quarrel with the premier because of the latter's failing to give his majesty an opportunity to exercise the royal prerogative of pardon in the case of Ferrier. The despatch says that the unpleasant interview followed when the king learned of the tempest that had been raised abroad by Ferrer's death.

PREMIER MAY FALL.

Madrid, Oct. 18.—The fall of Premier Maura is anticipated if former Premier Moret makes an announcement in the Chamber of Deputies today, as an article in the Diario Universal intimates that he will do, that the Liberal party must be newly constituted. The Diario Universal government in an article headed "Not one hour longer."

Paris, Oct. 18.—Joseph Caillaux, makes a sensational attack upon the former minister of finance, in a speech at Bonnetable today, warned the country of the danger of being involved in a recrudescence of clerical activity against the government schools. He declared that text books of unquestioned history had been interdicted solely because they failed to eulogize such incidents as the St. Bartholomew Massacre and the revocation of the edict of Nantes. The organ of Cardinal Andrieu, the archbishop of Marseilles, replying to the conciliatory speech of Minister Briand at Perigeuex, declares that if the government wishes peace it must apply at Rome.

Likely to Let Kinrade Murder Confessor Go

(Special to The Times.)

Hamilton, Oct. 18.—The Hamilton police today expressed the opinion that Edward William Bedford who was remanded until his story about having murdered Ethel Kinrade could be investigated, will be released when he appears tomorrow in the Bow street police station.

The man's whole story is ridiculous, said Detective Inspector McMahon, and I am sure they will let him go.

PUFFINESS UNDER EYES—SWELLING FEET.

These Symptoms are Among the Surest Indications of Real Kidney Disease.

For nearly a year my kidneys failed to do their work, writes William F. Plankett, a well-known dairyman residing in Britannia. "I had swollen feet so badly that at times I could scarcely walk, my skin grew yellowish, and a general puffiness under the eyes gave my face a very unnatural appearance. My strength failed, and as I am a working man, loss of time and the prospect of serious illness caused me great anxiety. I read of several cures from Dr. Hamilton's Pills and decided to get five boxes. Now I feel it my duty to testify they the best kidney, liver and stomach medicine on earth. While my kidneys were so badly affected after all I think it was because the liver and bowels were clogged up. Anyway in less than a month the swelling in my feet ceased—my skin lost its yellowish cast—my eyes grew clear and natural, and, considering my age is nearly sixty, I am as fit as most men. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a wonderful medicine that every man use to advantage."

Don't be misled into using any other pill but Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes at 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

A MAGNIFICENT LIGHT.

Bright Streams of Light Form Umbrella Shape—Rev. Dr. Marsh to Photograph Sun.

The Aurora was a magnificent sight last night. At eight o'clock it covered three-quarter of the sky and at 9.50 every portion of the sky was covered. The bright streams of light appeared to form in umbrella shape, the bright lights pointing to a center. Dr. Marsh was unable to see the sun yesterday owing to the cloudy sky, but will make an effort today. He says no doubt it will show very heavy solar storms showing large protruding spots from solar limbs. If the recent theories relative to magnetic influences are correct, no doubt telephone and telegraphic communication will be considerably interferred with.

Dr. Marsh will endeavor to photograph the sky this morning.

Laborers Object to Proposal to Do Away With Joss Houses.

Victoria, B.C., October 18.—Following an attempt on the part of Chinese merchants to do away with the four Joss houses in the Chinese quarter, a meeting called at the Chinese school to ballot on this question was stormed by several hundred Chinese laborers opposed to discontinuing the worship at Joss houses. The ballot boxes were smashed by the invading coolies, and several prominent Chinese merchants were assaulted, one being seriously injured. The idea of doing away with the Joss houses was broached at a day of Confucius on Saturday the merchant class favoring it, and the laboring class being opposed.

William Brown's body was about to be sent to medical school, as no one would bury it, when police arrested David Brown and this morning in court, in order to regain his liberty, he signed an order giving up all claim to the money, which will be devoted now to burying William Brown, and the remainder will be given to an older sister.

A BANKER'S NERVE.

Broken By Coffee and Restored by Postum.

A banker needs perfect control of the nerves and a clear, quick, accurate brain. A prominent banker of Chattanooga tells how he keeps himself in condition:

"Up to 17 years of age I was not allowed to drink coffee, but as soon as I got out into the world I began to use it and grew very fond of it. For some years I noticed no bad effects from its use, but in time it began to affect me unfavorably. My hands trembled, the muscles of my face twitched, my mental processes seemed slow and in other ways my system got out of order. These conditions grew so bad at last that I had to give up coffee altogether.

"My attention having been drawn to Postum, I began its use on leaving off the coffee, and it gives me pleasure to testify to its value. I find it a delicious beverage; like it the use of coffee. The nervousness has entirely disappeared, and I am as just as well as I did coffee, and during the years that I have used Postum I have been free from the distressing symptoms that accompanied the use of coffee. The nervousness has entirely disappeared, and I am as steady of hand as a boy of 25, though I am more than 92 years old. I owe all this to Postum." "There's a Reason." If this were done and a proper bylaw put through, there would be no such places in existence.

The Canadian Laundryman, in referring to this evil, says that it is the duty of municipalities where Chinese laundries exist, to regulate them, and compel obedience to the law. Proper sanitary and other conditions if enforced would drive the yellow men out of town. The sooner this is done the better for the health as well as the moral welfare of the community.

King Alfonso Has a Row with Premier

Paris, Oct. 18.—A special from Madrid says that King Alfonso has had a violent quarrel with the premier because of the latter's failing to give his majesty an opportunity to exercise the royal prerogative of pardon in the case of Ferrier. The despatch says that the unpleasant interview followed when the king learned of the tempest that had been raised abroad by Ferrer's death.

PREMIER MAY FALL.

Madrid, Oct. 18.—The fall of Premier Maura is anticipated if former Premier Moret makes an announcement in the Chamber of Deputies today, as an article in the Diario Universal intimates that he will do, that the Liberal party must be newly constituted. The Diario Universal government in an article headed "Not one hour longer."

Paris, Oct. 18.—Joseph Caillaux, makes a sensational attack upon the former minister of finances, in a speech at Bonnetable today, warned the country of the danger of being involved in a recrudescence of clerical activity against the government schools. He declared that text books of unquestioned history had been interdicted solely because they failed to eulogize such incidents as the St. Bartholomew Massacre and the revocation of the edict of Nantes. The organ of Cardinal Andrieu, the archbishop of Marseilles, replying to the conciliatory speech of Minister Brian at Perigueux, declares that if the government wishes peace it must apply at Rome.

PUFFINESS UNDER EYES—
SWELLING FEET.

These Symptoms are Among the Surest Indications of Real Kidney Disease.

For nearly a year my kidneys failed to do their work, writes William F. Plankett, a well-known dairyman residing in Britannia. "I had swollen feet so badly that at times I could scarcely walk, my skin grew yellowish, and a general puffiness under the eyes gave my face a very unnatural appearance. My strength failed, and as I am a working man, loss of time and the prospect of serious illness caused me great anxiety. I read of several cures from Dr. Hamilton's Pills and decided to get five boxes. Now I feel it my duty to testify they the best kidney, liver and stomach medicine on earth. While my kidneys were so badly affected after all I think it was because the liver and bowels were clogged up. Anyway in less than a month the swelling in my feet ceased—my skin lost its yellowish cast—my eyes grew clear and natural, and, considering my age is nearly sixty, I am as fit as most men. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a wonderful medicine that every man use to advantage."

Don't be misled into using any other pill but Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes at 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

A MAGNIFICENT LIGHT.

Bright Streams of Light Form Umbrella Shape—Rev. Dr. Marsh to Photograph Sun.

The Aurora was a magnificent sight last night. At eight o'clock it covered three-quarter of the sky and at 9.50 every portion of the sky was covered. The bright streams of light appeared to form in umbrella shape, the bright lights pointing to a center. Dr. Marsh was unable to see the sun yesterday owing to the cloudy sky, but will make an effort today. He says no doubt it will show very heavy solar storms showing large protruding spots from solar limbs. If the recent theories relative to magnetic influences are correct, no doubt telephone and telegraphic communication will be considerably interferred with.

Dr. Marsh will endeavor to photograph the sky this morning.

MORE FIVE CENT SHOWS.

Parties From Buffalo in Town Looking for Site.

We learn that still another five-cent show is likely to be opened up here. On Saturday last parties said to be from Buffalo, were in the city looking over the ground.

They decided to locate here if suitable premises can be obtained, and will open up a cheap vaudeville theater in addition to moving pictures. It is said that the matter of securing premises is left in the hands of a local real estate firm. The new "show" will be a rather large affair, as compared with those already in operation here. It may be that we have too much of a good thing.

Likely to Let Kinrade Murder Confessor Go

(Special to The Times.)

Hamilton, Oct. 18.—The Hamilton police today expressed the opinion that Edward William Bedford who was remanded until his story about having murdered Ethel Kinrade could be investigated, will be released when he appears tomorrow in the Row street police station.

The man's whole story is ridiculous, said Detective Inspector McMahon, and I am sure they will let him go.

CHINESE RIOT IN VICTORIA.

Laborers Object to Proposal to Do Away With Joss Houses.

Victoria, B.C., October 18.—Following an attempt on the part of Chinese merchants to do away with the four Joss houses in the Chinese quarter, a meeting called at the Chinese school to ballot on this question was stormed by several hundred Chinese laborers opposed to this continuing the worship at Joss houses. The ballot boxes were smashed by the invading coolies, and several prominent Chinese merchants were assaulted, one being seriously injured. The idea of doing away with the Joss houses was broached at a day of Confucius on Saturday the merchant class favoring it, and the laboring class being opposed.

DECLINED TO BURY BROTHER.

London, Ont., Oct. 18.— Several days ago William Brown, formerly of Toronto, but more recently of Cobalt, where he went to prospect, died in Victoria Hospital of typhoid fever, contracted in Cobalt. He left considerable money at the hotel where he was staying and this was obtained by his brother, David Brown, who absolutely refused to pay funeral expenses and started on a big drunk. Wilham Brown's body was about to be sent to medical school, as no one would bury it, when police arrested David Brown and this morning in court, in order to regain his liberty, he signed an order giving up all claim to the money, which will be devoted now to burying William Brown, and the remainder will be given to an older sister.

A BANKER'S NERVE.

Broken By Coffee and Restored by Postum.

A banker needs perfect control of the nerves and a clear, quick, accurate brain. A prominent banker of Chattanooga tells how he keeps himself in condition:

"Up to 17 years of age I was not allowed to drink coffee, but as soon as I got out into the world I began to use it and grew very fond of it. For some years I noticed no bad effects from its use, but in time it began to affect me unfavorably. My hands trembled, the muscles of my face twitched, my mental processes seemed slow and in other ways my system got out of order. These conditions grew so bad at last that I had to give up coffee altogether.

"My attention having been drawn to Postum, I began its use on leaving off the coffee, and it gives me pleasure to testify to its value. I find it a delicious beverage; like it the use of coffee. The nervousness has entirely disappeared, and I am as just as well as I did coffee, and during the years that I have used Postum I have been free from the distressing symptoms that accompanied the use of coffee. The nervousness has entirely disappeared, and I am as steady of hand as a boy of 25,though I am more than 92 years old. I owe all this to Postum." "There's a Reason." ALFONSO'S BLUNDER.

The cables tell us that no one is fuller of condemnation of the execution of Professor Ferrer than King Alfonso; and, though this is very probably only a guess at his attitude it has a plausible sound. The King—who is little more than a boy—probably had no notion of the way in which free and enlightened Europe would look upon such a step. No man with Ferrer's command upon the respect of the advanced thinkers of the Continent, should have been convicted of the crime which was laid at his door without the most public and convincing trial. The judgment of Europe should have been satisfied. As it was, it was practically told to mind its own business. This did not pay France in the Dreyfus case, and it will very probably cost Spain dearly in this case. There is today a world public opinion which no civilised country can afford to ignore.

THE NEXT MOVE.

The Stars and Stripes were nailed to the North Pole, according to Cook and Peary, and now a British sailor is planning on a dash to antarctic regions that he may nail the Union Jack to the other pole. This intrepid sailor is Captain Scott, whose voyage to the southern polar regions in the Discovery several years ago won him fame as an explorer.

What difference it makes whether or not the South Pole is ever found is something which will puzzle a great many people. But the same spirit which has animated explorers for centuries still glows in the men who seek the unknown and they defy dangers, suffering and death to force their way to the secrets of the world. Britishers the world over may doubt the good that Scott may accomplish but national pride will fan their enthusiasm over his undertaking and make strong the desire for his success.

DIVORCE RATE.

A Marked Increase in the Number of Divorces.

Washington, Oct. 9.— The Census Bureau has published a comprehensive report on marriage and divorce. The investigation of the subject was undertaken by direction of congress and grew out of a conference in this city between representatives of various religious denominations. The investigation has extended over a period of nearly five years.

"Apparently the divorce rate, like the velocity of a falling body, is constantly increasing," says the report, "and it is impossible to determine statistically from available data just what the result would be if the rate reached at any given time remained constant; in other words, no statistics have been gathered of the duration of the divorced state terminated by death, and consequently no data are obtained that accurately measure the present condition of things, during any particular period, for the country as a whole. Divorces are not static, but dynamic."

The statistics cover a period from 1887 to the end of 1906, and the total number of marriages recorded was 12,832,034. The investigation showed that in the twenty years covered the number of divorces granted was 945,625. In the twenty years from 1867 to 1886 the number was about 328,716, hardly more than one-third of the number recorded in the second twenty years. The report says that each successive five-year period since 1867 has witnessed a marked increase in the number of divorces.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is alleged that J. M. Barrie wishes to obtain a divorce so that he may marry a beautiful young actress who has made a great hit in one of his plays. The gratitude of some authors is astounding.

A Lawrence, Kan., preacher has left the pulpit to become a street car conductor, explaining that he doesn't believe a preacher can live an honest life nowadays. He probably expects that it will be comparatively easy, owing to the necessity of ringing up the fares as they are collected, for him to be honest in his new field of endeavor.

Rev. Dr. Clifford Asks for Jail

London, Oct. 18.—Paddington passive resisters headed by Dr. Clifford, appeared at the town hall, before the local bench of magistrates, for the twenty-second time for non-payment of the local rate for educational purposes.

Dr. Clifford in explaining why his co-defendants and himself objected to pay, instanced a case in which the vicar of a parish, finding that a lady teacher in a church school was a Wesleyan, endeavored to prevail on her to change her religious views, and failed. The passive resisters protested against the tyranny of applying ecclesiastical tests to state officers, whose salaries were paid from the rates and taxes.

A boy educated in a Willesden Council School became seventh wrangler at Cambridge, and the council put a commemorative tablet in the school, but as the seventh wrangler was a Free Churchman there were fifteen rate-aided schools in Willesden where he could not become a head teacher. Against the law which established that injustice the passive resisters protested.

The chairman made an order for the payment of Dr. Clifford's rate, and asked whether the rule of the resisters was now to simply make their protest and pky.

Dr. Clifford · No. The National Passive Resistance League recommended fourth methods: (1) Going to prison, to which resisters are still being sent; (2) distraint on goods without buying back; (3) distraint and buying back; and (4) protest and payment. Three of these methods are adopted in Paddington, and the fourth, that is, commitment to prison, would be adopted if the bench would only send me to jail instead of distraining of Mrs. Clifford's good

Some of the defaulters elected to have their goods seized with or with out buying back.

THE NEW STYLE.

"Say! Is My Hat on Crooked"—Parisian Styles.

"Say! Is my hat on crooked?"
"No! Why how provoking!"

Which only goes to show that the boudoir talk of the modern well-dressed woman is just as different as it can be from what we used to hear But, you see, it's all due to the styles. They've changed more than the women have, which is saying a good deal.

Woman in matter of style is the human antithesis. Old Noah Webster says antithesis is "opposition, contrast, expression by contrast," he never saw one of those befeathered hats on the side of a woman's head, or he'd have changed his definition to a shorter and better word.

The question, then, no longer is:

Get Well First

RAN A RUSTY NAIL INTO HIS FINGER

USING Zam-Buk on a cut or scratch is insuring yourself against the danger of blood-poisoning, festering, or inflammation. As soon as you sustain an injury—a scratch from barbed wire, a cut, a burn, a bruise—put on a little Zam-Buk, and then don't worry! Zam-Buk kills the disease germs, which, catering wounds, set up festering, etc. Not only so, but Zam-Buk stimulates the cells to rapid action, and in this way builds up healthy skin very quickly; also, it eases pain and smarting. You have ease, insurance against blood-poisoning, and rapid healing—only Zam-Buk combines the three! Try it!

Mr. Alf. Hy. Orth, of Shipley (Ont.), says:—"While at work recently I had the misfortune to run a rusty wire nail under my thumb nail, to the depth of about one and a half inches. The pain was terrible, and what I feared was that the nail, being so dirty and rusty, would set up festering and blood-poisoning. I knew, from previous experience, how good Zam-Buk was, so I cleaned the wound, melted a little of the balm, and ran it into the wound. The result was wonderful. It soothed the pain, and the thumb actually did not swell. Zam-Buk kept away all inflammation. I was able to go on with my work all the time, and in a few days the thumb was as good as ever."

Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, piles, festering sores, ulcers, scalds, blood-poisoning, eczema, varicose ulcers, prairie itch, ringworm, scald-head, bad leg, diseased ankles, and all other skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well into the parts affected, it cures neuralgia, rheumatism, and sciatica. All Druggists and Stores sell at 50c. box, three for $1.25, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

"Is my hat on straight?" but "Is my hat on crooked?"

Imagine a man politely going up to a woman nowadays and saying: "Pardon me, but your hat is on crooked!" Wow! Wouldn't there be an explosion?

Did you ever stop to think how the style change came about.

This year's meeting was held in a driving snow storm, but the women with their new hats and clothes were there just the same. Their big hats blew all over one side of their faces.

"Fine!" said the men. "You must leave 'em there all the time."

Anna Held brought the style to this side. In fact, some cruel men say Anna crossed the ocean ahead of time to be the first to exhibit it. Any way, it caught on amazingly, and the man who have been tired of bottoning their wives' gowns up the back can pause long enough to answer the new form of the question:

"Is my hat on crooked?"

A HUNGRY TIGER.

Persistent Attack on a Camp Reported From India.

The Indian mail brings the story of an exciting adventure which befell a surveying party in Assam. They were attacked by a tiger. The party were working in the Lushai hills adjoining the Cachar district of Assam, and the tiger appeared at the camp of surveyor Gopal Singh. It sprang at the surveyor and one of his khalasis, but fortunately touched neither of them, and disappeared as suddenly as it had come. Three days later the tiger returned, and seized a khalasi, who was washing his cooking pots in a stream 20 yards from the camp. A native armed with a stick, rushed to the rescue, and tried to beat the tiger off. When other men arrived the brute dropped its prey and disappeared again. In a few minutes it was back again. In spite of the shouts of the natives it seized the plucky native—who had gone to the rescue of the first man. Once more it was driven off, and again it returned, this time to seize a third khalasi.

Frightened away again, the beast left the camp, but the party sat up all night surrounded by a chain of fires. At daybreak they proceeded to a Lushai village. An armed party set off for the abandoned camp to collect the goods left behind. They found that the tents, bedding, blankets, and bags of rice had been dragged about by the tiger, and on a sight-rule and plane-table were marks of the brute's fangs. When Mr Williams, the camp officer, met the party all the men were so profoundly affected that not one of them could speak above a whisper. They begged not to be sent back to the same locality, but to be allowed to work for the rest of the field season in the open cultivated country. The first man seized by the beast died four days afterwards.

NEW VEGETABLE FIBER.

Australian Marine Plant Possesses Valuable Properties.

In Australia there was recently discovered an extraordinary fiber of marine growth which by reason of the vast amount of the deposit and the remarkable qualities of the fiber is expected to prove of great commercial importance.

This fiber is the result of the sheddings of the leaf sheath of a sea grass botanically known as Posidonia australis and so far has been found only in Spencer Gulf, South Australia, where the sheddings have been imprisoned by the action of wind and waves in the sand flats of the gulf.

The uses of the fiber are found by experiments made by competent persons to be many and varied, and it possesses unique qualities. It will spin and weave in union with wool and will also take dye equally well, being so far as is known the only vegetable fiber to do this. It is practically noninflammable, its charring point being 373 degrees F., and it is to that extent a nonconductor, unlike cotton. It does not shrink and has more resilience than kapok. It is also found to be as good for ship caulking as oakum.

Blankets and cloth woven of a mixture of wool and this fiber, together with samples of the fiber in various stages of production from plant to yarn, are now on view in the sample room of one of the leading wool houses in Australia, and the manufactured articles are being most favorably commented upon by those interested in the textile industries. On account of its splendid dyeing properties it can also be used in the making of carpets; also for coir matting, hessian, bagging, woolpacks, and it appears difficult to say to what other uses with proper machinery it cannot be put.

War on Bicycles.

"Give me ten thousand well-disciplined cyclists and I will guarantee to hold up any invading army that attempts to land on our shores," once remarked that ardent believer in the utility of the bicycle in warfare, Gen Sir Charles Douglas. In this connection he tells an amusing story. He was carrying out some cyclist manoeuvres, and found a troop of men sitting calmly under a hedge watching an opposing force of cyclists rapidly aproaching them. "Don't you worry about those chaps, sir," said the young officer. "I have tempered their road pretty well with sixpennyworth of tin tacks. Wait til they get off to mend their punctures and I will round the whole of them up in something like no time."

On the Royal Menu.

Sir Harry Johnston once had the grim experience of being captured by a cannibal king, who genially informed him that he was to form the "piece de resistance" of the royal menu that evening. "Eat me if you like," was Sir Harry's calm reply; "but if you do, the Great White Mother will send her soldiers, and you and your wives and your people will all be killed." This made the king waver, and after a consultation with his court he decided to forego the meal. But it was not enough for the captive. "You must send me down the river in your best barge," he announced, "till my white brothers meet me." And so great an impression had his sang-froid created that this was no sooner said than it was done.

Dr. Grace on Murdoch's Golf

There is a story about the famous cricketer, W. H. Murdoch, [illegible] with golf. Murdoch, it seems, drove into a deep sand-banker, and once in it was completely hidden from the view of the spectators. However, the ball came out amid the usual shower of sand, and the stroke was duly applauded. "At lunch one of the members remarked on Billy's excellent recovery, when Billy, having taken it all in quite seriously, whispered to me, "Knew I should never get out of that blessed hole, so I took a double handful of sand, and the ball and flung 'em out.'"—From "W. G.'s Little Book."

WOULDN'T CONFIRM BOY.

Anglican Vicar Refuses Sacrament to Canadian Lad.

The Rev. F. W. Clarke, vicar of Caldicot, South Monmouthshire, England, has refused to allow a Church lad, a Canadian, to attend his confirmation class because the youngster is a member of the Boys' Brigade, which holds its meetings in the Wesleyan school-room. The lad has been brought up in the Church of England, his parents belong to the Church, it was at the invitation of the curate that he presented himself at the vicar's confirmation class, but the vicar asked him at the close of the class if he belonged to the Boys' Brigade, and, when informed that he did, said, "We must draw the line somewhere."

The complaint seems to be that a church lad, though willing to claim full membership of the Church, should have been guilty of the grievous sin of "schism" by belonging to an unsectarian organization, and attending a Bible class in connection with the Boys' Brigade, in which simple Bible teaching is given. The vicar called upon the father of the lad, Mr. Arthur C. Luff, and said: "We must draw the line somewhere. Seeing he is in the brigade, we cannot very well confirm him." Mr. Luff said: "Very well; that finishes the matter."

To an interviewer, Mr. Luff observed: "It is strange to me, after living for fifteen years in British Columbia, where things are so different." When invited to give his version of the matter, the Rev. F. W. Clarke said he hoped no newspaper would interfere in a matter of this kind—"this is a matter which must be left to the clergy to deal with."

Mr. Alfred Kemp, the Wesleyan evangelist, who has charge of the Caldicot Boys' Brigade, said they were absolutely unsectarian, and told the boys to attend what place of worship they pleased, but several members of the Boys' Brigade were asked to leave the church Sunday school because of their membership, and a lieutenant of the brigade left the church choir for the same reason. The curious thing is that the brigade have attended Rogiet Church, where the Archbishop of Monmouth preached to them. But Boys' Brigade members are not wanted in the parish church of Caldicot.

From Journalism to Playwriting.

Quite a number of popular playwrights served their literary apprenticeship as journalists. J. M. Barrie was a reporter on a Nottingham paper before he came to London. Henry Arthur Jones wrote articles and stories from boyhood, and did not enter a theatre until he was eighteen years of age. Hubert Davies was for some years a journalist in America, while Hall Caine, after being trained as an architect, became a journalist and leader-writer on the staff of the Liverpool Mercury, and after coming to London wrote for the Athenaeum, Academy, and other papers.

Cecil Raleigh, the author of so many Drury Lane dramas, wrote for Vanity Fair, and was at one time sub-editor and dramatic critic for the Lady. Cosmo Hamilton has filled the editorial chair of the World. Adrian Ross has done much journalistic work, while it would be impossible to say how many papers and periodicals George R. Sims has written for.

Haydn Manuscript as "Rubbish."

Dr. Cummings, principal of the Guildhall School of Music, in an address on Haydn at the rooms of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, Hanover square, a few days ago, said that some time ago he visited a second-hand music seller's in St. Martin's lane and purchased a Haydn manuscript for two shillings and sixpence. The manuscript was rescued out of a sack of what the music seller described as rubbish.

Had It Lowered.

Sir Augustus Harris once settled the pitch question in his own offhand fashion. A famous prima donna of his opera company came to him complaining that the piano used for vocal rehearsals was too high and asking that it might be lowered.

"Certainly," replied Druriolanus, with a bow. "Here, Forsyth, have a couple of inches sawed off the legs of this piano."

The wholesome, harmless green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. Tickling or dry bronchial coughs quickly and safely yield to this highly effective medicine. Dr. Shoop assures mothers that they can with safety give it to even very young babies. No opium, no chloroform—absolutely nothing harsh or harmful. It calms the distressing cough and heals the sensitive membranes. Accept no other. Demand Dr. Shoop's Sold by all dealers.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—18 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

Mill tests have proved that half of the values can be saved on the plates, and the remainder concentrate readily into a smelting product.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $500. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

This is the last opportunity for the investor to get an interest in this safe and conservative mining venture.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

TURQUOISE COPPER

NOT A PROSPECT

400 FOOT TUNNEL—140 FOOT SHAFT

Mines located near Velardena, Durango, Mexico only six miles by wagon road and three miles straight line from the property of the Guggenheims upon which they have recently erected a $2,000,000 smelter. Sample assays have averaged from $54 to $102 per ton.

Up to the present time, the Turquoise Copper Co., has been practically a close corporation; an initial offering of 100,000 shares has just been made at 25 cents, par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable. Proceeds will be used to further continue the development work already begun.

We have options on 50,000 shares of this stock and advise immediate purchase at 25 cents per share. It is the intention of The Board of Directors to list the stock on the New York Curb and it should sell at $1.00 per share by the first of the year.

TEACHING HORSES TO JUMP.

There Are Three Methods Used—Coaxing, Lunging and Driving.

There are three methods of teaching a horse to leap—coaxing, lunging and driving. In the coaxing method the young horse is turned into a small paddock having a low hedge or hurdle across the center. In plain view of the pupil a rider on a veteran jumper should take him over the hurdle several times.

The trainer then goes to the opposite side with a measure of corn or oats and calls the horse, shaking up the grain and pouring it with his hand back and forth in the receptacle. The boundary will soon be cleared, and when a few mouthfuls have been eaten the station of the instructor should be at the other side of the hurdle and the lesson repeated. If this be done daily the hurdle may be gradually heightened.

The habit of jumping is thus acquired without those risks which attend a novel performance when a heavy burden oppresses the strength and whip and spur distract the attention. The horse's body, says Country Life in America, is not partially disabled by the imposition of a heavy load before the powers are taxed to the utmost and his capabilities are unfettered.

The second method is termed lunging. A long rein or cord is attached to the bit, and the animal is exercised in a circle in which a hurdle has been placed or a shallow ditch dug. A long lashed whip, used only to keep him in motion or lightly applied at the proper moment, will keep him up to his work. Soon the horse will enter into the spirit of the occasion and by unmistakable signs will manifest his enthusiastic enjoyment of the exercise.

The third method, driving, is exactly what its name implies. At first the obstruction should be slight. Any open space will answer the purpose, as earth or sod surface or tanbark being preferable. Long reins, a straight bar or snaffle bit, a long whip and patience and perseverance are required.

All things considered, the driving method is the quickest and surest way of teaching the horse to leap. When he has become somewhat proficient, having thoroughly learned what is required of him, the saddle may be called into requisition and the practical lessons begun.

Almost any young horse can be taught to leap. Of course his proficiency will depend on the care bestowed on his training and on his general characteristics of wind, limb and nerve. An ordinary cob or Morgan will attain the proficiency of an Irish hunter, but any horse that is used for a saddler will be of far greater value to his owner if he can be taken occasionally for a cross country ride and put over ditches and low obstructions.

Ethics and Morality.

If a woman's husband has been silly enough to take more wine than is good for him, morality would lead her to send him to bed. Ethics would lead her to send him to Coventry. And ethology would probably lead her to send him to a penal settlement for inebriates.

If a man's wife throws a teapot at him (as happened recently in the aristocratic neighborhood in which I live) morality would lead him to go out of the house for an hour or so and give her nerves a chance. Ethics would probably induce him to go out of the town and write to her from a garden city that their temperaments were incompatible. What ethology would make him do I hardly dare to think.—Chesterton in Illustrated London News.

More Accurate.

The pastor and his wife had called upon a member of the congregation, a widow with a small but exceedingly lively boy, and were on their way home. "Well," said the preacher, "she seems to be a very intelligent woman anyhow."

"Yes."

"And very positive in expressing her opinions."

"On the contrary," said his wife, "she struck me as being strongly negative."

"Negative? How?"

"Everything she said to her little boy began with a 'Don't, Johnny!'"—Exchange.

Sympathy of the Flowers.

More or less credence is still given in England to the old belief in the sympathy of the vegetable kingdom for human suffering. "I prayed all night," writes a gardener whose employer was very sick, "and the flowers on my window sill drooped, and I said to myself they were dead. But toward morning they picked up, and I was sure enough the master was better. And the same thing had happened to the flowers I had sent to his bedroom. They were dying, and they came to life again. And I knew when those flowers picked up that the master was better."

The Pins.

"Oh, dear," sighed her husband's wife, "I can't find a pin anywhere. I wonder where all the pins go to anyway?"

"That's a difficult question to answer," replied his wife's husband, "because they are always pointed in one direction and headed in another."

Painter's Colic.

Mamma—What's the matter with Fido? Tommie—Oh, I was playing with my soldiers, and he came in and insisted upon licking the whole army.—Yonkers Statesman.

Take a rest. A field that has rested gives a beautiful crop.—Ovid.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect worldwide into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. These "inside nerves" fail when the organs most falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specially to these failing nerves. In 48 hours after starting the [illegible]

SUPERSTITIONS.

They Play at Times an Important Role in Human Affairs.

When Sir Charles Napier had conquered Mehemet Ali, he found it impossible to force or coax the wily Egyptian into signing the treaty which only would make his victory effective. He had nineteen interviews with Mehemet, in which the Englishman by turns argued, flattered and threatened his antagonist, who listened day after day with the same immovable, smiling countenance.

One day Sir Charles in speaking of England said casually that it "was governed by a lucky woman." A strange flush passed over the pasha's countenance, but he made no answer. As soon as Napier had gone Mehemet sent for the English consul, who was an Egyptian, and demanded:

"You were in London when the English queen was crowned. Were the omens bad or good?"

"All good."

"You think that good luck is written on her forehead?"

"I did not think upon the matter before, but now that you ask me I believe that it is. When she asked Allah to help her in her work, her eyes ran over. Allah loves the innocent."

"No doubt of that," said Mehemet anxiously. "She must be lucky."

Early the next morning he sent for Sir Charles and signed the treaty. English power and English cannon he could brave, but not "the luck" written upon the forehead of a good woman whom he had never seen.

General Gordon's remarkable influence over the Chinese was in a large degree due, it is stated, to their belief in his extraordinary luck. During the Taiping rebellion he was followed by an army which did not comprehend either his ability or his religious zeal, but which believed that he was protected by an invisible being who led them to victory. No sword could wound him or bullet kill. A certain black ebony cane which he carried was supposed to be the magic talisman which brought him victory, and General Gordon was shrewd enough always to carry this cane when he led them into battle.

These superstitions seem absurd to us, but they show that the ignorant men who hold them believe in an invisible power who can give good or ill fortune at his will.—London Truth.

MAN EATING TIGERS.

The Killing Methods of These Terrible Brutes in India.

The theory that a man eating tiger is always an old tiger, more or less toothless and feeble, which has found the strain of catching vigorous wild game too much for its failing strength, has been upset by the bagging of notorious man eaters which were found to be young animals in the full pride of their powers. And it is likely that the taste for human flesh is passed on from mother to child, the tigress, herself a man eater, teaching her cubs to hunt as she hunts. How terrible a thing a man eater may be can be judged from the fact that a tiger generally kills every second night, whether its quarry be man or beast. Having killed, it makes one meal that night, then drags the carcass somewhere into cover and more or less conceals it as a dog may hide a bone. On the next night its habit is to return to the same kill, and it is in that second visit that the hunter usually finds his opportunity. It is not the rule for a tiger to return again a third time, not because it is above eating carrion, but seemingly it tires of the carcass, which it has already twice mumbled over.

Thus one tiger in India has been known to kill regularly its fifteen natives a month with almost mechanical punctuality. Another, which seemingly did not confine itself entirely to human flesh, devoured an average of eighty people, men and women, for several years, while yet another is reported to have killed 127 people and to have stopped traffic on a public road for many weeks. There have been both English sportsmen and native shikaris who have accounted for their hundred tigers and upward, but many a tiger has killed more human beings than any man has ever scored tigers.—London Times.

A Reasonable Request.

"Arabella," said old Billyuns as he finished his dinner, "I am going to ask you to do me a favor. I want you to give your young man—Mr.—Mr. Whatshisname—a message from me."

Arabella blushed and looked down at her plate.

"Tell him," the bluff old millionaire went on, "that I don't object to his staying here and running up my gas bills, but that I do object to his carrying the morning paper away with him when he leaves."—London Answers.

Force of Habit.

"I'm surprised that you should be so interested in watching those silly dudes."

"Force of habit, I guess. I'm president of a real estate improvement company."

"Well?"

"Well, they're a vacant lot."

Lost and Found.

"Found a dollar yesterday."

"Lucky boy!"

"Not so lucky. In stooping to pick it up I dropped and broke my eyeglasses."

Transposed.

Griggs—The doctor said I must throw up everything and take a sea voyage. Briggs—Got the cart before the horse, didn't he?—Boston Transcript.

Unreasonable.

"Your baby cries a great deal at night. Can't you do anything for it?"

"Your dog barks a good deal. Can't you do anything to stop him?"

"Confound it, such unreasonable people as you haven't any right to live in a flat!"

The Result the Same.

"Gimme some of that prune pie."

"Son, you've had two kinds of it already."

"Then another kind won't matter. There's only one kind of stomach."

Widows' Caps.

Widows' caps are as old as the days of Julius Caesar. An edict of Tiberius commanded all widows to wear one under the penalty of a heavy fine and imprisonment.

Shooting Flying Birds.

In Smith's "History of Kerry," published in 1754, is found the statement that the art of shooting flying birds was taught to the Irish people by the French refugees who came over after the revocation of the edict of Nantes and that to this circumstance is due the decline and disappearance of falconry.

Bicycles.

The first bicycle with pedals was made about 1840.

St. Paul's, New York.

The oldest public building in New York is St. Paul's chapel, at the corner of Broadway and Fulton street. It was built in 1766, ten years before the Declaration of Independence.

A Nincompoop.

A nincompoop was originally a person of unsound mind (non compos mentis).

England Is Exclusive.

The Victoria cross has never been awarded to a woman. It is not designed for female decoration. In Germany heroines are decorated with the iron cross and in France with the Legion of Honor.

Land and Water.

There is three times as much sea as land in the world.

Hats Were Once a Luxury.

In the reign of Elizabeth the wearing of hats was considered a sign of luxury. By an act of parliament every person above the age of seven years and under a certain degree was obliged on Sundays and holidays to wear a woolen cap made in England and finished by some of the fraternity of cappers.

Icebergs.

For every cubic foot of an iceberg that is above the surface of the water there are eight cubic feet below.

Personal Taxes in Holland.

There are five kinds of personal taxes levied in Holland, as follows: Government tax, including business and income tax, and capital tax, city income tax and provincial tax.

Haydn's Drum.

The drum which Haydn once played at a festival in 1740 is still preserved in Hamburg.

The Boomerang.

The Australian aborigines are not the only users of the boomerang, nor were they the first to use that missile. The Egyptians knew all about it, just as they seem to have known all about everything else.

The Gravitation Theory.

The theory of gravitation is a discovery attributed to Newton and bears date of 1687 notwithstanding that the same idea was advanced by Kepler seventy years before.

Great Britain's Crown.

The present crown of Great Britain was constructed in 1806 with jewels taken from old crowns and others furnished by command of the queen. It contains 4 large pear shaped pearls, 273 small pearls, 147 table diamonds, 1,273 rose diamonds, 1,363 brilliant diamonds, 5 rubies, 11 emeralds and 17 sapphires.

A Dutch Custom.

A piece of white muslin tied round the bell handle of a house in Holland informs intending visitors that a case of infectious disease is in the dwelling.

The Shape of the Earth.

That the earth is round was not a generally accepted theory in the time of Columbus, though Thales taught and Pythagoras demonstrated the theory several centuries before the Christian era.

South African Winter.

Parepa Rosa's Voice.

At the peace jubilee in Boston, 1869, Mme. Parepa Rosa's voice was distinguishable above 12,000 singers, an orchestra of over 1,000 instruments and in a hall where the audience consisted of 40,000 people.

Uninhabited Islands.

Between Madagascar and the coast of India there are about 16,000 islands, only 600 of which are inhabited, but most of which are capable of supporting population.

Korean Grass.

The Korean grass used in the manufacture of grasscloth is grown very thickly and is usually cut the second or third year after planting the roots. The grass reaches a height of four to five feet and with a proper start and under favorable conditions yields, it is roughly estimated, about 3,000 pounds to an acre.

Mexican Postal Law.

The Mexican postal law does not require the postal department to deliver mail addressed to a city on which the name of the state also does not appear.

A Rough Diamond.

An uncut diamond looks very much like a bit of the best gum arabic.

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with seeming success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it's constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another everywhere. Grateful patients, gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by Shows an Increase.

The business being done in the local freight department at the railways is considerably in excess of last year. This tells its own story, and, shows that business generally is better than it was a year ago.

Snow in the North.

There was a heavy snow storm in the north on friday and saturday. A letter from Apsley to the Times says that snow is several inches deep in that section.

First of the Season.

Mr. Rupert Gliddon has announced that a band concert will be given by the 57th Band at the armories on Friday evening, 29th, inst. A splendid program will be presented. A rehearsal took place last night.

—Marks Bros Theatre Company, so well known in Peterborough,are playing to big houses in Sudbury. They are heading this way.

Room for Improvement.

That there is room for improvement in the game laws, few will deny. A prominent sportsman, who usually spends a few weeks in the woods every year, told The Times yesterday that too much of the meat of the big game that is killed is left to rot in the woods. Many hunters take only the choice parts of the carcass and leave the rest. They are tired, or in a hurry to get home, or will have to walk too far to get a horse, and don't save the venison. There should be a provision in the license against such conduct.

Mr. Potter to Preach.

Rev. J. G. Potter, the popular pastor of St. Andrew's church, will conduct the anniversary services in connection with Centreville Presbyterian church, on Sunday next, preaching at both services. On Monday night, October 25th, Thanksgiving Day, a fowl supper will be given and a splendid program of entertainment, Miss Richardson of Millbrook, will sing and the male quartette of the Methodist church, Millbrook,will assist in the program.

Sunday School Workers Meet.

Quite an interesting and very instructive meeting was held last night in the lecture room of St. John's church, in connection with Sunday school work. Mr. D. Spence occupied the chair and after devotional exercises by the Rev. Canon Davidson, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt delivered a thoughtful address on the responsibility of churchmen and churchwomen in the work of the Sunday school Other addresses were also delivered interspersed with music, which added greatly to the pleasure of the evening.

Members' Banquet.

This evening the Y. M. C. A. members' banquet will take place at which will be presented the Howden and Trophies and other prizes won at the meet of September 11th. The plans for the season's work have been arranged and the various departments will report to the members. The Association has been fortunate in securing as Physical Director, Mr. H. A. McLaughlin, who was Assistant Physical Director at Washington, D. C. last year, and is proficient in this work. A good time may be expected by those who attend the banquet.

If Parents Knew

How important it is that school children have proper food, they would see to it that

Grape-Nuts

and cream is served one or two meals a day regularly.

Grape-Nuts is scientifically made of wheat and barley and contains the phosphate of potash, grown in the grain, for building brain and nerves to the highest degree of perfection.

This food can be eaten and digested in the time required to cook an ordinary meal, and children like its neutral flavour.

It is not only a brain-builder, but keeps them plump and rosy.

TAKE THEM OUT

Or Feed Them Food They Can Study On

When a student begins to break down from lack of the right kind of food, there are only two things to do: either take him out of school or feed him properly on food that will rebuild the brain and nerve cells. That food is Grape-Nuts.

A boy writes from Jamestown,N. Y., saying: "A short time ago I got into a bad condition from overstudy but Mother having heard about Grape-Nuts food began to feed me on it. It satisfied my hunger better than any other food, and the results were marvelous. I got fleshy like a good fellow. My usual morning headaches disappeared, and I found I could study for a long period without fatigue.

"My face was pale and thin, but is now round and has considerable color. After I had been using Grape-Nuts for about two months I felt like a new boy altogether. I have gained greatly in strength as well as flesh, and it is a pleasure to study now that I am not bothered with my head. I passed all my examinations with a reasonably good percentage, extra good in some of them, and it is Grape-Nuts that has saved me from a year's delay in entering college.

"Father and mother have both been improved by the use of Grape-Nuts. Mother was troubled with sleepless nights, and got very thin, and looked care-worn. She has regained her normal strength, sleeps well nights and looks well."

Justice Falconbridge Scolds Local Citizens

His Lordship Maintains That Peterborough Should Look After Her Old and Infirm Citizens

During the afternoon session of the High Court of Jistice presided over by his Lordship Sir Gwenholme Falconbridge, the grand jury returned after making their usual inspection of the local jail, court house, house of refuge at Lakefield, etc., and made their regular report. During the earlier hours of the Jopling trial, the grand jury made this report, showing that old people were confined in the jail for lack of accommodation elsewhere. They also spoke in feeling terms of the late Judge Weller and County Clerk John Moloney.

His lordship before dismissing the jury gave the city a severe reprimand for their lack of accommodation for the old and insane patients. He turned to Sheriff Hall and asked, "Mr. Sheriff, why does not the city send its old people to the House of Refuge at Lakefield?"

Sheriff Hall explained that the city was a different municipality from that owning and operating the Lakefield House of Refuge.

His lordship replied that so progressive a city as Peterborough should devise some better means of providing for its old and infirm. He then made a few feeling remarks as to the late Judge Weller, and said "That well-known old man whom we miss, the late Mr. Moloney, is greatly missed." His lordship then thanked the grand jury and dismissed them.

OBITUARY NOTICES.

Mrs. William Johnston.

The death occurred on Monday evening of Mrs. William Johnston, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. John Wilson, in Smith. The late Mrs Johnston had been stricken with paralysis some time ago. She was 85 years of age and an Anglican in religion. Three daughters and two sons survive. The daughters are, Mrs. John Wilson, Smith; Mrs. Hammel, Bancroft, and Mrs. Bird of Pierrefy. The sons are Messrs. John of Sudbury, and Benjamin of Coehill.

The funeral took place yesterday morning to the English church cemetery at Apsley.

Mr David Tully.

On Monday evening death removed one of the oldest and best-known residents of the county in the person of Andrew Tully at the residence of his sister-in-law, Mrs. David Tully, lot 2, in the 3rd concession of Smith The deceased, who was 71 years of age, had been in ill health for some time, which, however, did not prevent him from leaving the house and visiting neighbors in the vicinity. On Monday morning he went to visit a friend, and on his arrival back lay down on the floor beside the fire, as was his custom, and went to sleep. Several neighbors were with his sister-in-law in the house, and when the time came for retiring an effort was made to awaken him, but it was found that he was dead. The late Mr Tully was a voilinst of considerable reputation, and his services at young people's gatherings were always in demand.

The funeral will take place from the residence of his sister-in-law this afternoon at two o'clock to Little Lake cemetery.

Mrs. Roger Devlin.

Yesterday one of the best known and most generally respected ladies of the older generation of Ashburnham, passed away in the person of Mrs. Roger Devlin of Mark street. The late Mrs. Devlin had only been ill for about a week orten days, illfor about a week or ten days, and her death came as a great shock to her relations.

The late Mrs. Devlin leaves to mourn her loss her husband and five children, three sons, John, William, Patrick and two haughters, Mrs. T. McMurry, city, and Miss Honora, at home. The funeral will probably be held on Friday morning to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery. The deceased, who was about 60 years of age, was sister-in-law to Mr. B. Devlin, the well known local saddler.

Annual Banquet and Presentation of Prizes

The annual banquet of the members of the Y.M.C.A., was held last night in the lecture room of the association at 7 p.m. Mr. Vincent Eastwood, the donor of the Eastwood Trophy, occupied the chair, and complimented the members on the good work being done in connection with the association. He then called upon Mr. Howden to present the Howden Trophy, to Harold Wood.

The Eastwood trophy was won by Egert Kelly, but Harold Munroe holds it until the end of December. The other prizes were also presented to the winners of the different events

Mr. Chas. Sisson referred briefly to the benefit he had received from taking part in the gymnastic work, after which he introduced Mr. McLoughlin, the new physical director, who briefly outlined the work for the

Mr. Thornton and Mr. Dawson spoke on the religious work carried on by the association. A new feature in connection with this work is that there will be a class every night in the week, thus giving a good opportunity for all interested to attend.

Mr. Hassard dealt with the educational classes. He pointed out the many advantages that can be obtained from this department. He also expressed his desire to see more take an interest in the different classes and gymnastic work in connection with the association.

PIANO RECITAL.

By Miss Lulu McGill in the Conservatory Hall.

The announcement that an advanced piano pupil of Mr. Gliddon, musical director of the Conservatory, was to give a recital, was sufficient to draw a large number of music lovers to the Conservatory Hall last evening, when Miss Lulu McGill presebted a most exacting program of classical music, including numbers by Schubert, Chopin, Beethoven, Rachmaninoff and Liszt.

Miss McGill displayed a finely developed tecnique and musical temperament and in fact all of the natural qualifications that go to make a first-class artist.

The assisting artists were Miss Edna Pringle, vocalist, who delighted the audience with her beautiful singing, and Miss Pearl McKee, also a pupil of Mr. Gliddon's, played the accompaniments most acceptably.

Miss Kathleen Wallis played the violin obligato to the song "Angelus Guard Thee," by Goddard, which added much to the success of the numbers, and which was much admired.

PROSECUTION ENDS ITS CASE AGAINST THE JOPLING BROS.

Medical Experts Give Testimony and Dr. Archibald, the Celebrated Young Toronto Bacteriologist, Gives Evidence as Septi-Seamia in the Bollard Death Case

Considerable interest is being taken in the Joplin manslaughter case, and there was a large attendance yesterday morning.

Little new information was adduced in the examination of the witness so far heard, whose testimony adheres rigidly to that given at the coroner's inquest and was not varied very much in cross examination.

Yesterday afternoon his Honor Judge Huyeke, recently appointed from Cobourg, to take the place of County judge of Peterborough, in place of the recently deceased and universally respected Judge C. A. Weller, took a seat on the dias beside his Lordship Sir Gwenholme Falconbridge, during the session of the High Court of Justice.

Herbert Marks was the first witness called but there was nothing new in his evidence.

Miss Ada Minns, who was with Bollard and his friend, Marks, on the night of the fight, told the story of leaving the pavilion with them to go home, and of hearing some people running down the road behind them. She had heard some one say: "Here he is" and Bollard had turned around and taken off his coat and said: "Yes, here I am," whereupon Harry Jopling had seized him. She corroborated Marks' story of the fight, and of hearing Bollard cry out "Let go," and "dirty," when Fred Jopling had hold of him.

A SENSATION.

Mr. O'Connell in questioning the witness caused somewhat of a sensation.

"Did you say that it was a damn lie?"

"No, I did not," replied the witness emphatically and indignantly.

"You had better be careful of your information," admonished Chief Justice Falconbridge, "before you insult the witness."

"I am a Crown witness," said Miss Minns, turning to the bench, "and I ask for the protection of the court."

"You will get it too," replied the chief justice.

Mr. O'Connell explained that he had been acting upon information received from a brother of the prisoner and would not have asked the question otherwise.

"I have no doubt that you were acting on information," replied the judge, "but she has denied it anyway."

The point was allowed to drop and Miss Minns was dismissed.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The next witness, Dr. Scott, gave very similar testimony to that given by him at the preliminary hearing for the defence. Mr. O'Connell entered into a somewhat complicated and as to the different effects and, stand extensive discussion with Dr. Scott, as to the different effects and visible symptoms observable to the lay mind from blood poisoning. The doctor, however, seemed to preserve his full presence of mind under the stiff cross-examination, and to the casual observer, might have had somewhat the best of the argument. The talented counsellor, Mr. O'Connell, whilst evidently posted on septisaemia, met his match, in argument against Dr. Scott. The witness denied any relationship with the deceased young man Bollard, although he explained that "Bollard was related to relatives of mine." In reply to a question by his lordship, the doctor explained that Bollard's cousins were cousins of his (Dr. Scott's).

He went on to say that when he was called, the pulse of deceased was getting weaker. He made "a provisional diagnosis," then. He thought there was an inflamation of the stomach and bowels; it was the beginning of blood poisoning. Dr. Scott then, by request of the judge, explained to the jury the meaning of "peritonitis," i.e., inflamation in the peritoneum. He then described or rather agreed with Mr. O'Connell about the latter's written description of the post mortem. He thought there was nothing wrong in him taking part in the post mortem, although he had attended the patient. His lordship asked Dr. Scott whether there was any point in medical etiquette against a doctor taking part in the post mortem on a patient of the latter. Dr. Scott replied. "Well ask Mr. O'Connell, he ought to know the law on that point!" The doctor said he knew of nothing wrong in his doing this. Mr. O'Connel handed his lordship a medical book presumably having a point to bear on such matters, but the judge said the book showed nothing to back his (Mr. O'Connell's) contention. The doctor said, "Some one must have posted you, Mr. O'Connell." Here a lively passage took place between Mr. O'Connell and the witness as to the symptoms and effects of endo-carditis. Mr. O'Connel produced a book showing the opinion of Dr. Osler on endo-carditis. Dr. Scott said endo-carditis might have existed without his knowledge before death. The doctor then gave a detailed report of the extent of his post mortem examination of the stomach and bowels. Without a bacteriological examination at the post mortem it was impossible to say whether there was septiseamia or not.

Mr. Denison for the prosecution, took the witness. His lordship, as Mr. O'Connell in the interests of his clients, objected to certain questions to Dr. Scott, said to the plucky and talented lawyer for the defence. "Well, Mr. O'Connell, you opened the door for these questions yourself." A slight tiff here took place between Mr. O'Connell and the judge concerning a question put by Mr. Denison as towhether there was any indication of venereal disease. Dr. Scott denied any such indications.

Dr. T. N. Greer then went on the witness stand. He said he acted at the coroner's inquest on the late young Mr. Bollard. He has practised for 30 years and a physician 17 years in Peterborough. He was called in to attend Bollard during the latter's life. Bollard was almost in a state of collapse when he was called. He was in a hopeless condition then. He examined the heart and found no resultant murmurs therefrom. His diagnosis was septiseemia and diarrhoea. He was with the patient for about an hour. He thought the cause of death might have been gastro-enteritis. Gastro-enteritis, whilst not necessarily fatal might have assisted death when combined with blood poisoning. Blood poisoning might be brought about by external wounds or by absorption from internal troubles. He could not say offhand whether the germs in the mouth and about the teeth would cause quicker or worse poisoning than other germs. A sudden shock might cause lowered vitality in a patient. The alleged perspiration of Bollard would also lower vitality. Bollard was a healthy man, an athlete. Bollard was suffering from an intense blood poisoning.

To Mr. O'Connell, witness said the resisting power of a human body against disease germs certainly increases as the vital powers are lowered. Witness could not say outside theory what caused the gastro-enteritis in Bollard's case. There were no septis conditions in the wounds themselves. The septis or poisoning in the patient might possibly have arisen apart from the visible abrasions.

Dr. Archibald, next witness, who practices in Toronto, is a bacteriologist there. He said, as an expert, the evidence given as to the gastro enteritis by the doctors in the case, before, was quite correct. Gastro enteritis is caused by an inflamation of the lining membrance of the stomach. The result may or may not be grave owing to the kind of germ causing the inflamation. It would be grave where there would be bacteria of a bad kind in the blood. These germes might gain entrance by absorption from the intestines, or through an external wound. It would be the same kind of germs whether they get in from the skin or through the intestines. Typhoid fever may be rubbed on a cut but they would not do harm; they must get into the system through the intestines. The wounds received by the deceased during the struggle when he cried out, would have a tendency to lower his vitality and consequently do much more ravage. In reply to a question by Mr. Denison, as to the various kinds of external wounds and their relative liklehood to create blood poisoning, particularly with reference to a wound caused by the human teeth, witness said "If you take ten men and get each of them to expectorate individually into a sterilized bowl, and inject the contents of each of the bowl into one of ten rabbits each it is altogether likely that four or five of the rabbits would die from blood poisoning. This ended the case for the Crown. The defence will begin at nine o'clock this morning.

MAY BE DIVISIONAL POINT.

Peterborough May be District Headquarters for Bell Company.

It is not improbable that a new district may be created by the Bell Telephone Company, comprising the country between Toronto and Kingston, with Peterborough as the head quarters. The Times learns, through a Toronto source, that the matter is now being considered by the officials of the company at Montreal.

There probably is no better managed office in the company than the Peterborough branch, which will mean that Mr. Doan, the popular manager, will no doubt be promoted to the position of Divisional manager

NERVOUSLY DEPRESSED.

A Case of Rapid Cure.

"Only for a few weeks did I experience the misery of duodenal indigestion," explains Miss Puckhard, the well-known school teacher of Burtonville, "but it taught me the the need of conserving one's nervous strength. I am a teacher, and the close of the school year imposes a great strain upon those teaching advanced work. The trouble first manifested itself by occasional diarrhoeas especially if new vegetables were used, then heart burn and feelings of depression followed two or three hours after meals. At first my physician said he feared structural changes in duodenum, liver and pancreas. Happily, a box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which I had to use in one of the many severe attacks of constipation, which occasionally developed, proved this view was incorrect But it shows how bad I was. Well, Dr. Hamilton's Pills caused natural evacuations and permitted the inflamed condition, causing all the trouble to subside. Perseverance finally removed the cause which I am sure was in the liver and lower bowel, and by school opening in September I was actually well enough to work effectively."

See if your symptoms are like those above described—if so, Dr. Hamilton's Pills will cure. Price 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone, Canada.

Walter Blythe Trial will Proceed Today

Toronto, Oct. 19.—Mr. Justice Magee, who is presiding at the Criminal Assizes, decided after hearing the arguments of T. C. Robinette, K.C., and George Tate Blackstock, K.C., that there was not sufficient ground in the indignation meeting held in Agincourt, and the published reports of what was said there, for him to warrant an adjournment of the trial of Walter Blythe.

His lordship accordingly told the counsel interested to be ready to go on on Wednesday morning. Mr. Robinette asked for a longer delay to enable him to enter an appeal from his lordship's ruling, but this also was refused.

The reason given why the adjournment should not be made was that the meeting had not had such far-reaching effects as to make it impossible to secure 12 men to give Blythe a fair trial. The meeting and what was said at it were depreciated but it was of so small amount that thecourt could not notice it.

Fiftieth Anniversary of Their Wedding Monday

Mr. and Mrs. Wm Taylor Celebrated Happy Event Monday Evening —Surrounded by Their Children and Grandchildren — Presentation Made.

The Times joins in extending its hearty congratulations to Mr. Wm. B. Taylor, the genial and kindly care taker of the Customs House, and his wife on the 50th anniversary of their wedding, which was celebrated at their home on Tuesday evening when their children and grandchildren, with the exception of one son, Rev. Herbert Taylor, who resides in Minnesota, were present.

There were Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor and family of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. T. Buyers, and Mr. and Mrs. Sid. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. W. Stocker and family, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Greene, Auburn, and Mrs. Walkerton. Mrs. (Rev.) Henderson was also present, but Mr. Henderson was unavoidably absent.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor with their family and friends, sat down to a sumptuous dinner served at six o'clock, the catering being done by Mr. Thos. Hooper. While many dainty viands were being partaken of, Mr. Joseph Halpany's orchestra rendered an excellent program of music.

At the conclusion of the dinner, the following address was read by Mr. Geo. Taylor, and a purse of gold presented by Mrs. Walter Stocker to their parents.

Peterborough, Oct. 18, '09.
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Taylor,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Parents,—Our hearts are filled with joy and gladness, that a benevolent and loving Providence has marked you for especial honor and distinction, in this celebration of the 50th anniversary of your wedding. Memories of the past flood in upon us, and shed halos of fervent gratitude for the blessings and guidance that have been our portion. Our lives have been materially benefitted by your example, your sterling integrity, your high ideal and your loving counsel.

We feel that words are useless to express to you the emotions of our hearts but we are proud to see you so physically and mentally preserved in enjoyment of life, which we pray may hold for you many future years of usefulness, pleasure and blessing.

In asking your gracious acceptance of the accompanying purse of gold, we do so, not from the standpoint of value but from the love that prompts the giving. We extend our loving congratulations, and our prayers are, that when earthly celebrations have passed away we may all meet to celebrate around the great White Throne.

Signed on behalf of children and grandchildren.

Mr. Taylor in a few words, feelingly responded, thanking his children on behalf of himself and Mrs. Taylor, for their kindness.

During the evening Halpany's orchestra enlivened the proceedings with choice music. Mr. Thos. Hooper served the refreshments.

WIGG IS ACQUITTED.

Charge Against Prisoner Falls to the Ground.

The charge against Wm. Wigg, referred to in yesterday's Times, was not sustained, and he was acquitted by his lordship at the Hight Court of Justice yesterday, and discharged.

After the court assembled at nine o'clock the judge took the case out of the hands of the jury andformally dismissed it.

PURIFY THE FALL FAIRS.

Resolution Protesting Against Gambling on Grounds.

The teachers of the Campbellford Public school here forwarded a resolution to the local press and to the management of the Seymour Agricultural Fair protesting against games being allowed upon the grounds which would have an evil influence upon the boys and lead to the formation of the gambling habit. The resolution says in part. "And that we notify the directors that until we are assured that such games will be no longer tolerated upon the grounds, we shall refuse to assist either by the sale of flags, tickets, or otherwise, and shall discourage the attendance of our pupils."

The resolution is signed by the principal of the Public school.

A FILTRATION PLANT.

Lindsay Plant Visited by Our Water Commissioners.

The Lindsay Warder says: Peterboro may follow Lindsay's suit with reference to the purification of the public water supply. A deputation from Peterboro water board visited the Lindsay plant on Saturday, and were duly impressed with the superior advantages of ozone filtration. The deputation was composed of T. Matthews, chairman of the Peterboro Water Commissioners, W. Henderson W. H. Moore, and W. H. Hill.

Peterboro has no filtration plant at present. The system is a direct pressure one, the water being pumped directly from the river into the mains. However a filtration plant is contemplated. The commissioners will consider the matter, they stated and there is a strong possibility that the electrical purification process of water may be introduced. However, this is not definite, and the decision may not be reached for some months yet. A big dam is under construction in Peterboro and this will have to be completed or well on the way to completion before the system to be adopted is decided upon.

UNIFORM MUNICIPAL ACCOUNTS.

With the growth of Canadian towns and cities and the spread of public ownership the need for a proper, uniform system of municipal accounting becomes increasingly felt, says the Berlin Telegraph. The citizen who tries to compare his taxrate with that of some other place is confronted with differences of method in municipal accounting that preclude a fair comparison. The basis of valuation also varies widely, while in some places the accounts between the municipalities and its public utility commissions are confused in such a way as to make it well nigh impossible to get a correct idea of the position of either. For example, a Berlin commission some time ago received a report of the year's operations of a public utility in another Ontario municipality which showed a substantial profit. Upon further enquiry, however, it was learned that the maturing debentures of that year had been paid by the city instead of the commission, and which if charged to the proper account would have almost wiped out the profit shown.

The Union of Canadian Municipalities is conducting a praiseworthy campaign in favor of a uniform system of municipal accounting throughout Canada, that will, if successful, prevent a continuance of such bookkeeping methods, to be accomplished by the various provinces passing similar legislation on the subject.

Among the valuable results that would follow such action might be mentioned:

1. The cost of the various municipal services would be definitely known.

2. Statistics enabling a proper comparison of the results of municipal as against private ownership could be secured.

3. It would stimulate an increased zeal for economy among municipal officials.

4. It would stimulate increased interest in municipal affairs among citizens.

5. The adoption of business methods of accounting would enhance the credit of municipalities.

It is to be hoped that the need of definite legislation along this line may soon be recognized by our lawmakers and that uniform action by the various provinces may be secured.

BARNUM'S METHODS.

The Showman Always on the Alert For an Advertisement.

One morning the newspapers announced that grave fears were entertained for the safety of an agent of Barnum's big show who had gone to Africa to seek attractions for it in their native lairs. News had come, it was said, that he had last been heard from in a predicament from which escape was practically impossible. It was a very sad piece of business altogether.

Mr. Barnum was at a hotel in New York city at the time, and there a relative of the unfortunate agent found him entertaining a squad of reporters with a most interesting version of the African tragedy. The caller knew his man and waited patiently until the interviewers had departed. Then he anxiously asked for news.

"Oh, don't be worried," said the showman. "I've just got intelligence that he's safe and sound and will be back here in a few weeks."

"But he has a great many friends here," objected the visitor, "and this report of his death will cause them much sorrow."

Mr. Barnum looked solemn for an instant, and then he chuckled. "Well," he exclaimed cheerfully, "just think of this—they'll be all the happier when he gets back here alive."

SEA MONSTERS OF OLD.

The Marine Monster That Was Thought to Cause Tidal Waves.

The kraken was one of the sea monsters of old, and if all the stories told about its wondrous size and doings are true it overshadowed the serpent as much as the latter does the common garter snake. An old writer says that this marine giant caused tidal waves by swallowing a goodly part of the waters of the ocean and then belching them out again. He also makes mention of the fact that its gigantic horny beak was often mistaken for mountain peaks suddenly shoved into sight by the internal convulsions of the earth.

Bishop Pontoppidan, a truthful member of the Copenhagen Royal academy, is much more conservative in his estimates of its size, giving it as his opinion that they were seldom found more than "the half of an Italian mile in length and not larger in diameter than the cathedral at The Hague."

He also says that its body was frequently mistaken by sailors for an island, "so that people landed upon it and were engulfed in a maelstrom of water when the creature sank to its hidden ocean den." Other authorities testify that its beak from the eyes to the point "was longer than the mainmast of a man-of-war."

The Sewing Machine.

The invention of the sewing machine is one of the most interesting evolutionary romances in the history of human progress. Stone, Henderson and Greenough had experimented extensively with the double pincher idea, one to seize the needle below and one above. Hellmann used a double pointed needle, with the eye in the center, and Thimmonier and Ferrand had invented a chain stitch machine. In 1834 Walter Hunt originated the extension arm idea with a needle similar to the one now in general use, but before he applied for his patent in 1854 he had been forestalled by Elias Howe, who will always be known as the inventor of the sewing machine. If Hunt had not been so great a laggard he might have won fame as an inventor, but Howe is entitled to all the credit that has been given him. Like all great inventions, however, the sewing machine was the product of many minds.

Throwing the Shoe.

The peasants of southern France have the credit of originating the familiar custom of throwing an old shoe after the newly wedded pair. It was, moreover, the rejected suitor who first made it popular. The peasant bride is conducted by her friends to her new home, while the young husband is made to halt a couple of hundred yards from the house. If there is a rejected suitor he then arms himself with an old wooden shoe and flings it, with his best aim, at the bridegroom as he makes a dash for the house. When the shoe is thrown it is understood that the last feeling of ill will has been flung away with it.

An Easy One.

Billfurs—If I had $3 and you asked me to lend you two, how much would I have left? Jubb—Oh, I know the answer to that. You would still have $3 left, granting it were possible that you ever had that much at one time, because you wouldn't lend me any. Ask me something probable.—Pathfinder.

One on Papa.

Caller—Harold, when you get to be the head of a family what will you say to your children when they are naughty? Harold—Oh, I'll do like papa. I'll tell them how good I was when I was a kid.

Cheap Living.

She—I'm living on brown bread and water to improve my complexion. He—How long can you keep it up? She—Oh, indefinitely, I guess. He—Then let's get married.

Result of Rashness.

"Out of a job, are you?" asked the first girl. "Boss catch you flirting?"

"No; I caught the boss. Say, what sort of a wedding dress do you think is real swell?"

Truly this world can go on without us, if we would but think so.—Longfellow.

IRELAND.

George Meredith's plea for home rule is embodied in his last poem, "Ireland," which leads off "Scribner's" for July, accompanied by a hitherto unpublished portrait which was painted in 1897 for J. M. Barrie by Amy Draper Sumner. We quote three of the seven stanzas:

Fire in her ashes Ireland feels
And in her veins a glow of heat.
To her the lost old time appeals
For resurrection, good to greet;
Not as a shape to spectral eyes,
But humanly maternal, young
In all that quickens pride, and wise
To speak the best her bards have sung.

May she not call herself her own?
That is her cry, and thence her spells
Of fury, thence her graceless tone
At justice given in bits and bits.
The limbs once raw with gnawing chains
Will fret at silken when God's beams
Of freedom beckon o'er the plains
From mounts that show it more than dreams.

A nation she, and formed to charm,
With heart for heart and hands all round,
No longer England's broken arm,
Would England know whose strength is found,
And strength to-day is England's need;
To-morrow it may be for both
Salvation: heed the portents, heed
The warnings, free the mind from sloth.

British First.

We have in British Columbia as they have in the middle west many American settlers and whether west or east of the mountains we have no better, no more patriotic people. While they live here, and when once they come they do not as a rule go away, they are Canadians; but they are more than that, they are British and they not infrequently set an example to the natives of the country in the matter of their duty to imperial interests which is very salutary to the rather unthinking public of the Dominion.—Vancouver Province.

HUGO AS AN ARTIST.

The Great French Writer's Opinion of His Own Drawings.

When Victor Hugo's "Marion Delorme" was read before the troupe of the Porte-Saint-Martin theater, the actor Laferriere, then a young man, protested against the insignificant role assigned him, in which he would have only ten lines to recite. Hugo promptly reduced him to silence by thundering, "Ten lines of Victor Hugo are something not to be refused—for they endure." Hugo attached a similar exaggerated significance to everything he did and to every object that was in any way associated with him.

For instance, he considered his drawings, which were for the most part commonplace enough, of sufficient importance to make them the subject of a testamentary provision. In his will of Aug. 31, 1881, he wrote, "I give my drawings and everything which shall be drawn by me to the National Library of Paris, which will be one day the Library of the United States of Europe."

Hugo's drawings are said to have been produced more often than not in the following manner: If a blot of ink chanced to fall on his paper while he held his pen aloft in quest of a word or rhyme, he enlarged the spot absentmindedly and made additions to it instinctively under the influence of a species of subconscious direction until he had produced a sinister moonlight scene or a "venerable bourg dominating with its bristling ruins the shuddering waters of a river of legend." He elaborated with great care, however, during his irksome exile at Guernsey certain crude impressions he had transferred to his sketchbook during his journeys in the valley of the Rhine. Furthermore, being a great lover of children, he drew figures of the most extravagant sort for the amusement of the young people of his household.—Alvan L. Sanborn in Bookman.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—16 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

Mill tests have proved that half of the values can be saved on the plates, and the remainder concentrate readily into a smelting product.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $600. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

This is the last opportunity for the investor to get an interest in this safe and conservative mining venture.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

THE MOUND BUILDERS

Mystery of the Great Monuments Found In This Country.

RELICS OF A VANISHED RACE.

The Strangely Shaped Structures Are Thought to Be More Than Two Thousand Years Old—The Enigma of Those Who Reared Them.

Scattered through the middle west and in other parts of the United States are more than 10,000 monstrous, odd shaped "mounds." Some are built like forts, others in queer, sharp geometrical figures, others shaped like huge serpents, crocodiles, buffaloes, turtles, eagles, lizards, dragons with eggs in their mouths, etc. Some of these mounds are a mile long, some much smaller. In Newark, O., stands a continuous mound, constructed in a perfect circle, more than 5,000 feet in circumference. The mounds are often covered with trees that are many centuries in age. These strangely shaped structures are thought to be more than 2,000 years old.

Who built them?

Certainly not the North American Indians. The Indians have ever been a lazy, roving race, making their livelihood chiefly by hunting and fishing, seldom remaining long in one neighborhood and using tents or the rudest huts as their dwelling places.

The mysterious people who built the mounds were not a race of rovers. An infinitely long time must have been required for erecting each huge earth shape. Nor were they ignorant savages, for the mounds show deep knowledge of geometry as well as of astronomy and of the principles of building. Carefully laid out military fortifications abound in the mound builders' country, indicating that the aborigines had martial lore and engineering skill and that they understood many modern principles of attack and defense.

There are also sepulchral mounds, some of them sixty feet high. These contain human bones, skulls, etc., as well as copper utensils and bits of pottery. The bones when exposed to air crumble at once to dust. As the bones of Europeans who died twenty centuries ago are often found intact and strong, many authorities believe the mound builders date back at least several centuries before the time of Julius Caesar.

Cleverly made pottery and copper or bronze implements of war and peace are found all through the mounds. Ancient abandoned copper mines on the banks of Lake Superior show that the mound builders well understood the art of mining. The workmanship of the copper bracelets, bronze knives, etc., prove their skill at the forge.

In one of the prehistoric Lake Superior mines has been found a mass of copper weighing eight tons, resting on a high platform, ready for removal to the upper earth. This implies the use of well constructed mine machinery. Pictures that have been found etched upon copper and ivory portray much artistic skill.

From all this it seems that in some remote age the central part of North America was inhabited by a race of warlike, industrious, decidedly civilized beings who had splendid skill at building, at the arts of mining, engineering and higher mathematics and who flourished apparently during numerous centuries. Yet so long ago did the mound builders cease to exist that in all Indian folklore there is no mention, no memory, of them.

None know where the Indians themselves came from. Yet they apparently settled in America long after the mound builders had vanished. The skulls discovered in the mounds are not shaped like the least the skulls of Indians nor even of Europeans. Some archaeologists claim to find strong resemblance between the mound builders' skulls and those of the ancient Egyptians. If there were any connection between the two, who can explain how an Egyptian race chanced to flourish in the middle west?

The fate of the mound builders is as mysterious as the strange people themselves. After reaching so high a civilization and thriving for so long a time it seems strange that they should have been completely destroyed. No satisfactory explanation has ever been offered. Perhaps the mound builders moved south and became merged with the Mexican Astecs or Peruvians, or some savage race from the north may have swept down and utterly destroyed them, or a wholesale pestilence may have wiped out their nation.

The weird looking earthen monuments (the purpose of most of them a puzzle to the best archaeologists) are the sole remaining proof that this great lost American race ever existed.

How He Managed.

A man in an up state county owns a number of horses and has a great reputation for skill in the treatment of them. One day a farmer who wanted some valuable information approached the horse owner's little boy and said:

"Look here, my little man, when one of your father's horses is ill what does he do?"

"Do you mean slightly ill or seriously ill?" asked the boy cautiously.

"Oh, seriously ill," said the farmer.

"Because," said the child, "if a horse is only slightly ill he gives it medicine, but if it is seriously ill he sells it."

Troubles must come to all men, but those who are always looking for them will have the largest share.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect would become into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed especially to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

STRANGE PEOPLES.

Denizens of Darkest Africa Described For Geographers.

Major R. G. T. Bright, C.M.G., gave an interesting account of survey and exploration in the Ruwensori and Lake region, Central Africa, before the Royal Geographical Society. The country described is in the neighborhood of the western border of the Uganda Protectorate and the Congo State. Maj. Bright gave some interesting details regarding the natives of the country through which the expedition passed. The people of Bavira were noticeable for their women wearing a particularly disfiguring ornament in their upper lips—an embellished wooden disc, from 2 1-2 to 3 inches in diameter. These tribes bartered their food for beads and cloth, much preferring the latter, though they were but scantily clothed. The males wore a piece of cloth carried between the legs, with its ends tucked, both in front and behind, through a belt of hide or rope, and for ornaments ivory and wooden bracelets. With the women a bunch of weeds worn behind was all that was considered necessary, though their necks were encircled with many strings of different-colored beads. The young men and women dressed their hair with a mixture of light clay.

A finer and a darker race—the Lendu—was warlike and continually fighting amongst themselves or with anyone else they thought themselves strong enough to overcome. They were treacherous, and would go to almost any extremes in their anxiety to obtain arms and ammunition. The district between the Congolese stations, Kasindi and Beni, Maj. Bright reported, was an ideal elephant country, and was tenanted by some large herds. The Etuli forest and the wooded slopes of Ruwensori formed veritable strongholds for elephant, while in the Toro Game Reserve devastated plantations and spoor testified to the numbers still living in and around the protected country. In the open country on the southern shore of Lake Albert, when the plains are marshy, elephant and buffalo roam over them. In the kingdom of Ankoli the population could be roughly classified as the Bahima, the aristocracy, and the Baero, the cultivators and serfs. The Bahima believed vaguely in an all-powerful Deity, who was associated mainly with rain, thunder, and other weather phenomena. They endeavored to propitiate various devils—most of whom were connected with the prevalent diseases—by erecting joss-houses, in which food and beer were placed. They invariably carried round the neck wooden charms or small goats' horns, which had been invested with magical power by the medicine men, and usually wore wire bracelets and anklets. The Bahima were a purely pastoral people. All forms of agriculture were held in contempt, and were relegated to their Baero servants.

The Baamba people living in the forest near the Etuli river were addicted to cannibalism of a particularly loathsome form. Families exchanged their young children, who were then eaten. The Baamba in many cases filed their teeth, but this practice was not quite general. They were a jovial people. A constant warfare went on between village and village. They are built on the top of a ridge, and a stout wooden stockade is erected round. Each village had a club-house, furnished with a few rough three-legged chairs, made of the forked boughs of a tree, on which the members lie; the men gathered there to talk and smoke.

Wifely Pride.

There is no telling what quaint turns wifely pride and devotion may take. Sir Melvill Beacheroft, whose work in connection with the London County Council is well-known, while waiting in a tenement house for the occupant of the first floor to admit him, chanced to overhear two women conversing on the stairs.

One remarked that her husband always wore a clean shirt every Sunday morning.

"Well, now," responded the other, "I never cares about Sundays, but I always has me 'usband put on a clean shirt every afternoons, 'cos that's the time 'e comes 'ome drinking, and when 'e has to go out to fight I likes to know 'e looks nice and tidy."—M. A. P.

Easily Identified.

One of the peculiarities of Viscount Goschen is to pay surprise visits to the branches of the bank which he helps to control. Not long ago he entered a country branch and asked the clerk in charge to cash a cheque drawn by a friend, adding that both himself and friend were customers of the bank. When the clerk complied, Mr Goschen, as he was then, read him a severe lesson on cashing cheques for strangers. "How do you know I came by the cheque honestly?" he asked. "I don't know," said the clerk; "but if anything went wrong your father would indemnify the bank against loss, and I always like to oblige a director." The said director had thought he was unknown.

Variety Artistes Salaries.

Exactly who is the highest-paid variety artiste next to Harry Lauder, who received close upon $4,000 a week while touring America, it is not easy to say. Miss Ada Reeve and Miss Vesta Tilley, however, must be very near the top. A recent law case revealed the fact that the former is accustomed to obtain engagements at £1,500 a week, while Miss Vesta Tilley's "turn" is placed at an even greater value. There are quite a number of variety artistes—Mr. Geo. Robey, "Little Tich," and Miss Marie Lloyd included—whose salaries range from $500 to $750 and more per week.

Queer Claret.

A party of miners calling at an inn in Llangollen during the absence of the landlord were shown into the best room which, on his return, caused him to remonstrate. His wife, however, explained that a lot of money had been spent, and that seven bottles of claret had already been drunk.

"Claret!" said he. "Why, I sold the last bottle the other day; you've been giving 'em catsup."

His Transformation.

Little Harold aged six felt very proud when he donned his first pair of trousers. Taking his three-year-old brother behind the door, he was overheard to say, "Willie, Willie do you know I'm a gen'leman."

HERO OF MAGERSFONTEIN.

Victoria Cross Cost Captain Towse His Eyesight.

Pathetic indeed was an incident which marked the recent inspection of the Gentlemen-at-Arms by the King. A tall, well-built, handsome soldier was carefully piloted before His Majesty by a fellow-officer. It was Captain E. B. B. Towse, V.C., whose eyes were shattered while leading a brilliant charge against the Boers during the South African war. The story of that charge will long live in the memories of the Gordon Highlanders, that regiment which has so many heroic deeds on its roll of honor, and to which Captain Towse belonged.

On April 30th, 1900, Captain Towse, with twelve men, took up a position on Mount Thaba. He was totally unsupported; but it was not thought any of the enemy were near. Suddenly, however, a party of Boers, over a hundred strong, who had also made for the position, appeared a hundred yards off. Seeing that they outnumbered the Highlanders, the Boers called upon Captain Towse to surrender.

His prompt reply was to give a ringing command to his men to fire and then charge, the Boers being now about forty yards distant. The sudden onslaught of these twelve intrepid Britishers, with their gallant leader, caused the Boers to waver and fall back; and thus the situation was saved.

But the victory was dearly bought; for the men, to their great grief, saw a bullet shatter the eyes of their captain, who has, consequently, never been able to look on the Cross of Valor which was duly awarded him.

Neither was this the only deed of gallantry performed by Captain Towse during the Boer war. Five months previously, on "Black Monday" (December 11th, 1899), at the disastrous battle of Magersfontein, when Lord Methuen fought 15,000 Boers with 11,000 men, with terrible loss, Captain Towse earned the title of the "Hero of Magersfontein." Concealed in their trenches, the Boers could not be driven out, and Lord Methuen was obliged to retire to the Modder River.

A terrible fire from rifles and pompoms at close range struck down one in five of the Highland Brigade under General Wauchope, who also fell, riddled with bullets. Colonel G. T. F. Downman, Captain Towse's commanding officer, was also struck down. But in spite of the hail of bullets Captain Towse hoisted the colonel on his back and bore him away. It was a gallant deed, well in keeping with the glorious traditions of the famous Gordons.

Rabbits In a Tree.

Walking with a friend the other day in Wilham Woods, near Oxford, I came across a litter of young rabbits in a tree. It was an oak, with a hole at the base about the size of an ordinary rabbit-hole. We pulled ourselves up the tree to about eight feet from the ground, and found ourselves standing on a mass of mould and decayed wood which seemed to fill the inside of the trunk. On one side was a hollow branch, and at the end of the branch a rabbit's nest containing young rabbits. About a foot from the branch and slightly to one side was an opening which obviously led from the hole at the base of the tree. It would have meant a very steep ascent for the rabbits unless the way up took the form of a spiral. The nest in the branch must have been quite nine feet above ground.—G. C. Vansall, in The Field.

Thomas Hardy and the Stage.

At one time Mr. Thomas Hardy, who has just entered upon his seventieth year, had serious thoughts of devoting himself to dramatic authorship. He is an enthusiastic playgoer, and at one time took a flat in London for three or four months of the year so that he might attend the theatres. As an illustration of the dependence of the author upon the actor, Mr Hardy tells a good story of "Walker, London," J. M. Barrie's first play, which was produced by J. L. Toole. He witnessed a performance of the play in Barrie's company, and several times found occasion to congratulate the author upon the dialogue, laughing freely and exclaiming, "That's a good thing." But, as sure as he did so, Barrie would reply, in a melancholy tone, "Ah, that's not mine; that's Toole's. There's a good deal that's new since I was last here."

A Famous Sea Painter.

A curious feature of the work of that clever marine painter, Mr. W. L. Wyllie, R.A., who celebrated his fifty-eighth birthday on July 6th, is the use he makes of the telescope. By this means he contrives to bring to his easel an astonishingly large area of shipping. During the Russo-Japanese war, for instance, Mr. Wyllie made an elaborate painting of the Japanese battleship Fuji when she was seven miles away. At the same time Mr. Wyllie more often than not studies ships at close quarters from his yacht, for he is an enthusiastic sailor, as befits a man whose studio is on the very edge of the narrow entrance to Portsmouth harbor.

Origin of the Postmark.

Great Britain claims the distinction of having originated the postmark. The first one, employed in London as long ago as 1680, was an extremely simple affair, consisting merely of a small circle divided into two parts. At the top there were two letters indicating the month, while in the lower half of the circle was shown the day of the month. No provision was made for indicating the year or the hour of the day. It is only by the date of the letters themselves whereon the mark was impressed that it is possible to fix the date of its use.—Sunday Magazine.

How the West Grows.

An idea of the methods used in colonizing western Canada may be gained from record of the Township of Hutton, where less than five weeks ago fertile soil was undisturbed by plow, but is now the home of no fewer than 56 hustling American families busy cultivating land and building homes.

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with seeming success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it's constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another everywhere. Grateful patients, gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

REBUILDING FERNIE.

Two Months Have Seen Big Changes In Fire-Swept Town.

Fernie smiles, nestling amongst the mountains on every side, and seems to hold out the welcoming hand to the many stranger alighting amidst a bewildering throng of people from the train, says Moutrie in The Toronto Globe.

Almost before he is aware of it, his belongings are seized and deposited within an adjacent hotel by the ever-alert porter, who smilingly beckons him to follow. Providence, in the Canadian order of things, has doubtless ordained that hotels and banks shall occupy street corners by right; whilst not following this order so closely as some eastern cities- Toronto forsooth!—yet Fernie adheres sufficiently to the established decree, and is amply provided for.

Naturally the first things that attracts the stranger's eye are the mountains, with their snowy peaks and rivulets gladdening the vision on these hot days, and, strolling around with the curiosity of the newly-arrived, his attention is next taken by the turbulent little river Elk as it rushes and boils in its sinuous path. Shade, like the proverbial snake in Ireland, is non-existent in Fernie, but it is very pleasant indeed down by the river at evening time to sit, smoking one's pipe, on a fallen cottonwood tree, whilst listening to the hurrying river, and to enjoy the cool, fragrant air that blows softly by the waterside.

One can hardly credit at first that barely ten months ago Fernie was devastated by fire, and, like Carthage of old wiped out. When one looks around and sees the massive buildings that have already arisen, and are daily arising, and the continuous activity that prevails on every side, it seems marvellous and incredible. Some of the New Ontario towns are pretty go-ahead in the building line, but this place surprises one for strenuous effort and results.

As one walks down the main street, and is suddenly brought up short, so to speak, by a huge wooden building drawn right across the thoroughfare, one is at first taken aback, having seen no such obstruction early that morning; but it is nothing. They are only moving—a common sight in Fernie—to move oneself and residence at the same time. Lumber is high here, and cannot be left behind, and it is cheaper to utilise the building one has than to reconstruct another. So they haul away at the ropes and the house creaks and moves on.

Amidst the blackened stumps down by the water's edge are rapidly rising neat little cottages and dwellings, and lots are being fenced off and vegetables and flowers planted within the area once swept by flame. Real estate values are high in Fernie, and will be higher, and one can hardly wonder at it, with the progressive ideas of its inhabitants and the evidences of their belief in themselves around. Well-dressed people busily moving about remind one more of those of Edmonton or Calgary or a down east city than one would naturally expect to see in a town whose inhabitants vary from four to seven thousand, according to whom you ask.

At night the ruddy glare of the coke kilns, with their flickering flames, lends a weird air of its own to the surroundings in the city heights, with the eternal snow-capped mountains in the far distance, whilst behind the depot itself the mountain, with its color of purple heather and dark green foliage, makes a peaceful background to active little Fernie smiling beneath.

Canada's Peat Bogs.

A bulletin entitled "The Investigation of the Peat Bogs and Peat Industry of Canada, during the season of 1908-09, by Enik Nystrom, M.E., peat expert, has been issued from Ottawa showing the location of Canada's peat supply. Of those in eastern Canada the most valuable are:

1. Mer Bleue, near Ottawa.
2. The Alfred peat bog, about 40 miles from Ottawa.
3. The Welland peat bog, about six miles north of Welland.
4. The Newington bog, on the New York & Ottawa Railway, and about 40 miles from Ottawa.
5. The Perth bog, a mile and a half from Perth.
6. The Victoria Road bog, about a mile from Victoria road station on the Midland division of the Grand Trunk Railway.

The bulletin contains a descriptive report of each bog, showing the location, area and structure, and giving an estimate of the available supply of peat fuel with records of analyses, calorific values, etc., and should be of particular interest to those engaged in, or connected with, the development of Canadian peat resources.

A fuel testing plant is now being erected at Ottawa, in which the value of peat for the production of power gas will be demonstrated, and the Department proposes to carry on a very thorough investigation of this subject.

Last Tie Severed.

The last of the ties that bound Lord Dundonald to Ottawa has been severed.

His house and grounds at Rockliffe have been sold to an Ottawa syndicate and the property, which consists of 20 acres of beautiful land, will be broken into building lots.

When Lord Dundonald left Ottawa it was given out that he was holding his property at Rockliffe and that later, when his private and public affairs had been settled in Scotland, he would return to Ottawa to live. It was [illegible] that Lord Dundonald had a [illegible] heart for Canada — particularly for Ottawa.

The sale of the property would, however, seem to indicate that His Lordship has decided to remain in the Old Country.

CROP SUPERIOR TO ANY YET.

Mr. F. W. Thompson Declares Western Wheat Field Will Exceed 115,000,000 Bushels.

Montreal, October 18.—The Western crop this year in quality and quantity is superior to any that has been harvested in the past twenty years, according to Mr. F. W. Thompson, vice-president of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., who has just arrived from a trip to the West. It is now expected, he says, that the harvest will exceed 115,000,000 bushels. About 30,000,000 bushels have already been marketed.

The production of oats, barley and lax is also greater than in any previous season. The labor market has been insufficient, but the fine weather has enabled the hands to do the work at a smaller cost than usual.

"This question of adequate labor supply will remain a problem in the West for some time," said Mr. Thompson. "In Saskatchewan much grain is still on the stock because of the scarcity of labor."

Mr. Thompson said the railways handled the grain most expeditiously and there had not been a [illegible] complaint throughout the W[illegible].

Mr. W. A. Black, general manager for the company at Winnipeg, has accompanied Mr. Thompson to Montreal.

LONDON FINANCIERS INTEREST.

English Writer has Completed Investigation of Investment Possibilities.

Montreal, October 18.—Mr. C. Keith Morris, of London, England, has been spending some months in Canada for the purpose of writing up the opportunities for investment of British capital here in real estate, commercial and financial enterprises.

Mr. Morris has toured the country from the extreme western point of Vancouver Island to Halifax, visiting every place and industry of importance in order that they may be emphasized in the columns of the Canadian Gazette, of London, Eng. He has been much impressed with the agricultural and fruit growing possibilities in the Far West as well as in the Maritime Provinces, and with the opportunities for location of manufacturing enterprises, particularly in Montreal and Toronto. Mr. Morris was struck with the unbounded confidence of the people as a whole as to the future development especially for manufacturing purposes. There is no doubt that the series of articles which will be the result of his visit will cause some lively enquiries regarding the opportunities for British manufacturers in Canada. He has secured valuable information from the banking and [illegible] which will be read before the [illegible] interest[illegible] Old Country.

Congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Taylor.

At a meeting of Lansdowne Lodge, S.O.E., held on Monday evening, after routine business was translated, a resolution of congratulation was passed to Mr. William Taylor, who on Monday celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his wedding. Mr. Taylor or "Daddy" as he is familiarly known to his friends, is one of the oldest members of Lansdowne Lodge. For more than 20 years he has held the position of First Committeeman, and is one of the respected members of the lodge. The congratulations of the society were conveyed in a motion by R. Waram and T. Gunn.

Important to Ladies.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Burnswood of Toronto is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and embellish the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and correspondingly turn up an aged appearance. He can be seen at Oriental Hotel on Monday October 25.

Youthful Passengers.

Two little children, one seven and the other eight years of age, arrived in Peterborough from England, having come over by the Empress of Ireland, which as our readers are aware, met with an accident by striking a rock when off the Newfoundland coast. They were joined by their mother at Quebec, who brought the little ones to Peterborough, where the family will reside.

Among the Lumbermen.

Miss Agnes Sproule, who, for some years, has been a missionary among the lumbermen of New Ontario in the interests of the W. C.T.U., will address a public mass meeting in the Grand Opera House next Sunday afternoon at 4.15. Miss Sproule has a vital story to tell of the importance of the work in the lumber camps, and of the progress being made.

Tribute to Late Arthur Bollard.

The following is taken from an address by Principal Macdonald to the students of St. Andrew's College, Toronto, the occasion being the annual prize day, last Friday. "The speaker paid tribute to the late head Prefect Bollard, who died recently:—'Bollard,' he said, 'was a boy whose influence was entirely for good. He held the highest offices in the school, and he devoted his time and life in helping others— no one could do more.'

The peculiar properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have been thoroughly tested during epidemics of influenza, and when it was taken in time we have not heard of a single case of pneumonia. 15

Lost His Foot.

John Sherin of Lindsay, a Grand Trunk brakesman, well known in Peterborough, slipped and fell in front of a moving train at Victoria Road on Saturday night, and had his right leg partly severed above the ankle. The accident occurred shortly after six o'clock. The train, which was an extra, was shunting on the siding, and when nearing some cars Shearin ran across the track to make a coupling, and in so doing, tripped and fell in a heap of cinders, with the result that his right foot was run over by a carload of stone. He was placed in the van and conveyed to Lindsay with all possible speed, and sent to the Ross Memorial Hospital, where a foot was amputated.

What is Transpiring in Peterborough and Vicinity.

—Revival meetings will begin in St. Paul's church next week.

—The Times is indebted to Mr. John Nugent for Kansas City papers.

The beautiful Victoria Park has been "dismantled" and is now in winter habiliments.

Mr. Fred Roy got some good pictures of the Rugby match on Saturday last, for the Sunday World.

—The girls' Guild of St. Luke's church will meet this evening. A full attendance is requested.

—A cave-in at the new Lindsay locks occurred on monday morning, and a number of workmen had a very narrow escape.

—The Canadian Laundryman is in favor of placing a license on all Chinese laundries. The Laundryman is right.

—Rev. Dr. Crothers, of St. Catherines, formerly of Peterborough, conducted missionary sermons in the Baptist church in that city last sunday, preaching eloquent sermons.

—Rev. J. P. Wilson, formerly pastor of the George street Methodist church here, but at present stationed in Lindsay, is spoken of as likely to again be called by the George street congregation on the expiration of Rev. Mr. Pearson's term in June next.

—Messrs. W. Henderson, W. H. Moore, W. H. Hill and F. Matthews, of Peterboro, and Mr. F. D. Moore, town, were the guests of Mr. J. Howard Bridge for dinner at the Benson Hotel on Saturday evening. The Peterboro gentlemen comprise a deputation to inspect Lindsay's ozone filtration plant.

Mr. Elcome gave a very interesting and instructive address at the Charlotte Street Epworth Leaguemeeting on Monday evening, on "Migrations."

Many persons find themselves affected with a persistent cough after an attack of influenza. As this cough can be promptly cured by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, it should not be allowed to run on until it becomes troublesome. 13

SILENTLY SLID AWAY.

Collegiate Institute Pupils Attend Jopling Trial.

A number of young ladies yesterday afternoon arrived with school or Collegiate Institute bags of books to listen to the Jopling-Bollard manslaughter case. However as the ghastly details of the post mortem were revealed, the pretty little patrons of this court of justice seemed, one by one, to remember either that mother had preserved wrinkling stirring or that their various branches of study required looking into at once. By the the times the details of the post-mortem were all related the pretty little maidens were conspicuous by their absence. It was really laughable to note how the girls as the details of the post mortem were, one by one unrolled, tried to show those present that they were busily engaged in personal and private conversation. As the terms gastro-enteritis, perieaiditis, etc., were freely discussed between the medical witnesses and the examining lawyers, the girls would put arms round one another's necks and seem busily engaged in whispering school girls' secrets. It was almost possible to hear one or other say, "Belle dear, did you see the look he gave me last night?" "May, are you sure he said that, etc." However the ear farthest from their immediate friend might be seen pointing eagerly towards the speaker, whilst a visible shiver shook the budding form of the fair young creature. It is only fair to say though that the girls, almost without exception silently slid away from the court house benches.

DOCTORS DISAGREE AS TO POST-MORTEM ON ARTHUR BOLLARD

Evidence All in on the Jopling Trial---The Lawyers will Argue the Case and Address the Jury at Nine O'Clock This Morning

The defence in the Jopling case was concluded yesterday afternoon and this morning the counsels and judge will deliver their addresses to the jury.

The evidence for the defence in the Jopling case commenced yesterday morning and took up most of the day. The witnesses called, related much the same evidence given at the inquest. Reeve R. N. Scott, of the township of Smith; Rev. Simon Cruickshanks, Bridgenorth, and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, Ennismore, all gave character evidence on behalf of the Jopling brothers.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Dr. Morgan, examined by Mr. O'Connell, said that in his opinion the doctors who performed the post mortem did not cut as far into the body of the deceased asthey might havedone.

Dr. Young, the next witness, said he had practiced for 13 years in Peterborough, besides elsewhere previously. It was not a complete post mortem performed by the physicians on the body of the late young Bollard. He could not seehow the doctors could say there was septi-saemia from their incomplete examination. There should have been a bacteriological test. Dr. Scott only mentioned a high temperature and he should have given the rising and lowering scale of the temperature. The heart was not examined properly. There might have been heart troubles that may have been overlooked. There might have been a discoloring on the back part of the heart; this they did not see as they did not take the heart out. There might have been a blood stained fluid in the peri-cardium, but this they did not see through lack of proper examination. The peri-cardium should have been opened. The stomach of a dead human body would be about 12 inches long. Dr. Scott did not examine the stomach of Bollard as carefully as he would have done. Their might have been a constriction that they did not find. There might have been ulcerations of the stomach that they did not find. If ulcerations had occurred it might have caused septi-saemia. Witness would have opened up the intestines all their length to see if inflamation existed, had he performed the post mortem. The spleen should certainly have been examined to see if it were enlarged or swollen. With endo-carditis blood clots might have been carried to the brain, but Dr. Scott did not test for this. The brain should have been examined to test this. The witness thought none of the abraisons on hands, arms or legs caused septi-saemia. There was not the swelling or discolorations to denote this. Witness thought Bollard's vomiting might have been caused by over-exertion. Had Bollard been injured in a way that his hurts would be contributory to death he could not have danced on the Wednesday night.

To Mr. Denison, witness thought from what he had heard of the post mortem he would say that cholera nostris was the cause of Bollard's death. Sometimes a slight injury increases a man's vitality owing to the leucocytes or white corpuscles in the blood. Witness said it was not pleasant to criticise other doctors as he had done at this trial bethe thought itwas his duty to do so. He was not criticising but giving his opinion. He was not qualifying for the position of coroner. He holds a commission now as coroner elsewheres.

Dr. Boucher, next on the stand, said he regretted to say that the post mortem on young Bollard was very imperfectly performed especially as a young man's liberty was at stake. The examination made of Bollard's brain was too limited. He agreed with Dr. Young's evidence.

Dr. Carmichael, next witness said he thought the post mortem was a very superficial one. There was no evidence of septi-saemia shown in the post mortem. Witness, to ascertain whether there was septi-saemia, would have taken a sample of the blood and had it tested bacteriologically for germs.

Thisended the afternoon's session. The various counselors will make their addresses to the jury this morning at 9 o'clock.

MAY LOSE HIS MONEY.

Peterborough Amateur Weather Prophet Predicts.

Lindsay Warder. A Peterborough traveler was in town yesterday and made the boast that it was going to rain for forty days. When asked why he thought so he stated that he wished it would in order that he might earn a dollar bet. It seems that another Peterborough man who claims to be somewhat of a weather prophet stated that it would rain for forty days. However, the other man laughed at him and said he maintained that it would not rain the entire forty days. "Well if it doesn't rain forty days I will give you a dollar bill," said the prophet. The question is are we going to have forty days' rain? Here is hoping that we are not.

TERRIBLY SUDDEN DEATH.

Mr. Charles J. Cavanagh Unexpectedly Passed Away Yesterday.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. T. Cavanagh, proprietors of the Cavanagh House on Simcoe street, will extend to them their heartfelt sympathy in the sad bereavement they sustained yesterday in the death of their son, Charles J., who passed away at 5.15 p.m., very unexpectedly.

The late Mr. Charles John Cavanagh, has for some months been a victim to heart failure, but the family anticipated no immediate danger. The deceased yesterday seemed to be in good health and spirits; in fact on Tuesday night, together with some friends, he attended the moving picture show at the Crystal. Shortly after two o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mr. Cavanagh complained of feeling dizzy and ill and went to bed. The grim reaper, however, was present, and at fifteen minutes past five passed away. Medical attendance was summoned at once but with no avail.

The late Mr. Cavanagh was well known in Peterborough and had a large circle of friends and acquaintances to whom his sudden death will come as a great shock. The deceased for the past few years has been a constant and faithful assistant at the Cavanagh House. Mr. Cavanagh was 33 years of age, and leaves to mourn his loss his father andmother and two brothers, James and Roy, both of this city. The funeral will be held from the family residence on Simcoe street on Friday morning, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

JUST ESCAPED JAUNDICE.

Shows How Important it is to Keep Liver and Kidneys Active.

When you read of the growing yellowness of the skin extending to the white of the eyeballs, as described by Mr. J. P. Van Nostrand, a well known grocer in Manchester, you will realize that jaundice is nothing to be sniffed at. "Despite the best medical skill my face grew more yellow every day. It is no fun", he writes, to be given a lemon and find its hue reflecting itself from every part of the body. My physician informed me that a catarrhal condition had resulted in a plugging of the bile duets and the absorption of bile into the blood. I had some knowledge of the remarkable, stimulating and healing qualities of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and started in using them At first I felt better, had more appetite and entire freedom from headaches. Then came an easier feeling in the region of my stomach and I saw an almost imperfect fading away of the yellow, tinge in my skin. I persevered; used Dr. Hamilton's Pills for twelve weeks. My reward was cure—today I am healthy, happy and well."

Nothing ever discovered has such an influence on liver diseases as Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Refuse any substitute. Price 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

SIR GEORGE FRENCH HERE.

Famous Soldier Passes Through on C.P.R. Train.

Major-General Sir George French passed through Peterborough on Monday on his way west. He stepped off his car for a brief airing, and to a Times' representative said that he was on his way to Toronto, where he would remain a few days. He just returned from a visit to friends in Glengarry county. He confesses a strong affection for Canada, and enjoys a visit here every few years. He was here first in 1861 and was 14 years in the military service in Canada. He marched into Winnipeg in 1872 with the first corps of Mounted Police, going overland from Fargo, Dakota.

New Grain Elevator for Next Year's Crop

It Will be Finished Next September—The Coldwater-Peterborough Line

It is stated by C.P.R. officials that the new grain elevator at Victoria Harbor will be completed by September of next year in time to handle next year's crop. It will have a capacity of two million bushels. At present 40 per cent of the work has been finished.

The government is doing the dredging necessary for the building of this elevator, which means that practically a new harbor is being formed. So carefully has the site been chosen that upon completion, if necessary, additions could be easily made, capable of storing twenty million bushels of grain.

Until the completion of the new Coldwater-Peterborough line, the grain will be sent from Owen Sound to Montreal via Toronto and Peterborough. The new line, which will be built and completed within the next two years, will run from Coldwater which is in close proximity to Victoria Harbor, to Peterborough, or perhaps even to Havelock, and will mean a saving of more than 100 miles. It was intended at first to have this line completed at the same time as the elevator, but for different causes the work was delayed the distance between Coldwater and Peterborough is 98 miles. It is not definitely known in Toronto when the line will be commenced, or whether Peterborough or Havelock will be the terminus, but there does not appear to be any question that it will be completed in time to handle the 1911 crop.

The C.P.R. have been carrying grain to Montreal from this district at a great disadvantage compared to the G.T.R., who have an almost direct line between Coldwater and Montreal, via Peterborough and Port Hope. The projected C. P. R. route will be considerably shorter.

Australian Woman Swept Into the Sea

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 20.—Swept away by a great sea, which washed the decks of the Canadian-Australian liner Marama, which arrived here yesterday, Mrs. T. Sampson of Brisbane, was drowned before her husband's eyes, during a strong gale in which the wind blew sixty miles an hour from Sidney, and many others had narrow escapes.

VESSEL WAS STOPPED.

Mrs. Sampson was swept against the rail with such force that it broke and she was carried into the sea. Life buoys were thrown and a boat made ready for lowering, but it would have been madness to lower it even had the unfortunate woman been sighted after the vessel stopped as soon as the warning cries were heard on the bridge. Mrs. Sampson was a young woman 22 years of age whose husband is engaged in fruit business at Brisbane.

OTHERS RESCUED.

Steward Noble was swept against the rail clinging to two little girls rescued by him. Fireman Anderson had both legs briken, and from eighteen to twenty passengers and seamen were swept in a mass of broken deck fittings but only one life was lost.

Lively Uproar in Commons Caused by the Socialist Members

London, Oct. 20.—The Socialist members of the House of Commons tried to adjourn the session of the lower house yesterday afternoon in order to discuss the execution at Barcelona last week of Professor Francisco Ferrier, but only fourteen Labor and four Radical members could be found to support the motion. Albert Vietor Grayson, the Socialist member for the Colne Valley division of Yorkshire, and William J. Thorne, Labor member for Southwest Ham, then created a disturbance by anathematising their colleagues as "shameful cowards." Thorne shouted out it was his pious hope that "those who signed Ferrer's death warrant will be sent to Heaven by the chemical parcels post."

Hundreds of Junks Sank---Small Towns Totally Destroyed

London, Oct. 20.—Despatches from Macao, the Portuguese port near Hong Kong, declare that hundreds were killed in a typhoon which swept the Chinese coast.

Shipping was destroyed all along the coast, and hundreds of native junks were sunk with their crews.

Little is known of the damage in the interior, as communications has been cut off.

Several small towns along the coast were totally destroyed houses being wrecked, and in some cases blown far from their foundations.

IN THE PHILIPPINES, T.00.

Manila, Oct. 20.—A typhoon of unusual severity sweot across Western and Southern Luzon on Sunday night Wire communication to all points beyond Dagupan, Luzon, was cut off, and details are lacking.

One message brought to Dagupan from Sanfabian an that the loss of life was considerable, and the damage to property heavy. Torrential rains accompanied the storm, and an extensive area was flooded.

BEATS TORONTO ARTISTS.

Mr. Louis Mendel Gets a Large Percentage of His Business Outside Peterborough.

A Times representative yesterday had a most interesting talk with Peterborough's leading photographic artist, Mr. Louis Mendel of George street. During the conversation the Times man gained a few pointers about photography that somewhat surprised him. We all know that Peterborough possibly more than any town or city its size in Canada has photographers of high merit and acknowledged artistic ability; still, to learn that a Peterborough photographer could and does go monthly to the city of Toronto and take pictures of leading citizens, there in direct competition with the Toronto photographers is a direct encouragement to the artistic section of our home city. Mr. Mendel noted that he takes a trip every month to the Queen City, and whilst there is called into many of the more important homesto take photographs. In answer to a question put by the Times man, Mr. Mendel said, "I do not depend on the skylight of my studio now-a-days for my results. Fully 25 per cent. of my best work is done in Toronto, Cobourg, Port Hope and places in the private residences of the best people."

This Peterborough artist, as is well known to many of our leading citizens has recently been in Europe, getting information and latest scientific and artistic ideas in the leading studios there. On his return to Peterborough Mr. Mendel brought with him such knowledge and latest wrinkles in photography that his work now stands unique in the artistic section of Canada. It is a matter of pride for Peterborough that this young artist can not only equal but, by the best of proofs, excel the work done by the photographers of Toronto.

Blacks Took the Ship and Killed Sailors

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 20.—Details of the massacres in New Britain, an island in the Bismarck archipelago, last month, received by the steamer Marama, to the effect that Captain Lindsay and ten of his crew were murdered and burned. The trading vessel was looted and burned.

Capt. Lindsay, who was owner and master of the Raboul, prominent in New Britain trade, was of the east coast of New Britain, recruiting laborers. A swarm of blacks asked that he come ashore, as plenty of men were ready to sign as laborers. Capt. Lindsay went ashore. He was struck down from behind with a spea struck down from behind with a spear, and the blacks sprung upon him with knives, and hacked him to death. The flotilla of canoes then went off to the Raboul, and blacks swarmed aboard. One after another the ten men of the crew were slaughtered.

Hear the Moors Bombard Melilla

Lisbon, Oct. 20.— That the Riff tribesmen are storming the Spanish position at Melilla and have succeeded in planting their artillery within two miles of the center of the town is the report that reached Lisbon through Moroccan native sources today.

The report declares that the situation of the Spanish forces in Melilla is most serious, as the Riffs are attacking with their full force, and are using to great advantage heavy guns secured through officers of Mulai Hafid's army.

The attack began on Sunday morning, and according to the report here the Riffs soon succeeded in gaining the outer works of the town.

Despite heavy losses the natives are persisting in the attack. The Spanish losses are comparatively small as yet.

THE SPANIARDS' STORY.

Melilla, Morocco, Oct. 20.— Under cover of darkness and during a torrential downpour of rain the Moors furiously attacked the Spanish positions at 2 o'clock this morning. The fighting continued until daylight, when the enemy retired.

Yesterday a force of Riffs attacked and scattered a detachment of Spaniards, but subsequently were routed and pursued by a column under the command of the Infant Don Carlos. The Spanish lost twelve killed, including one officer. The Moorish loss was heavy.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain.. Sold by all dealers.

"Always to the Front."

News comes from Montreal that the publishers of the Montreal Daily Satr are doubling their mechanical equipment to meet the enormous growth in circulation and advertising patronage of that great daily. The Star is bound to be in the front always in Canadian Newspaperdom. Its growth in circulation has been marvellous, and this is the best evidence of its superiority as a newspaper. We understand most elaborate plans are being completed to make the Star a greater newspaper than ever. No expense stands in the way to furnish the readers with the best news service at all times.

The Montreal Daily Star, we understand, can be had in this territory at a special rate of $1.00 per year, which is just about one-third of the regular price, and at that figure no person should be without it.

Horse's Leg Swelled

Animal Was Too Sore and Lame to Work—Quickly Cured by Nerviline.

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill P. O. I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right fare leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff sore and swollen. I applied Nerviline and it worked like a charm; in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

NERVILINE IS A TRUSTY LINIMENT

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment."

We have received nearly five thousand letters recommending Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an allround cure for aches and pains. One million bottles used each year. Try it yourself. THE RURAL CLERGYMAN.

Speaking of the duties of a rural clergyman and the relation in which he should stand to his parishioners, the New York Independent says: "On a Sunday, if it comes to a pine between having his parishioners hay get wet and his church get empty, why should he not put his manuscript in his pocket, take a hay fork in his hand, and help his poorest parishioner secure his crop? This should be his comprehension of righteousness and duty."

This is a large question on which there will be much divergence of opinion. In more than one place in Ontario a man has been denounced from the pulpit for taking in his hay on a Sunday, when in fear of rain. A pioneer with his team of oxen went thirty miles to a mill with his grist, and having been delayed on his return, so that he did not reach home until Sunday, he was brought before a magistrate and accused of desecrating the Lord's Day.

In many places local opinion will be shocked by the views of the Independent. It will be argued that a pious man should pray that the rain hold off until the hay can be taken in on Monday, but if this prayer be not answered then it is the pious man's duty to bow to divine will, and let his hay meet its fate. This resigned spirit is not so often met with as in earlier days, yet few of those who dwell in cities are aware how stern and inflexible is the observance of the day of rest of some of our rural communities.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Lord's Day Alliance is active in Cobalt. Following the protest against the T. & N. O. Railway for operating steam excavation shovel on Sunday, has come an objection to the delivery of milk on the same day. No objection has yet been made by the Alliance to the cooking of hot Sunday dinners.

Hon. Mr. Hanna said last week that it is intended to abandon the practice of placing the inmates of Provincial prisons in striped suits, and of cropping their hair. It is also proposed to erect a new prison, with a farm attached, where most of the work of the prisoners will be done in the open.

The departure is a most commendable one. It is in accord with the modern and humane idea that a prison, save for the few morally insane, is a place of reform rather than of punishment, and the way to reform does not lie along a line of treatment that crushes the last spark of self-respect in the human breast.

A pain prescription is printed upon each 25c. box of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Ask your Doctor or Druggist if this formula is not complete. Headache pains, womanly pains, pains anywhere get instant relief from a Pink Pain Tablet. Sold by all dealers.

THE MOLSONS BANK

Fifty-fourth Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders Held Yesterday.

A VERY SATISFACTORY YEAR

Directors' Report Adopted, and Retiring Board Was Unanimously Re-elected.

The fifty-fourth annual general meeting of The Molsons Bank was held in the Board Room of the institution at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The President, Mr. Wm. Molson Macpherson, occupied the chair, and others in attendance were: Messrs. S. H. Ewing, Vice-President; George E. Drummond, W. M. Ramsay, H. Markland Molson, Alderman A. D. Fraser, S. W. Ewing, A. G. Watson, C. E. Sprague, George Durnford, E. K. Greene, A. Piddington, James Elliot (General Manager), and A. D. Durnford.

The President, having called the meeting to order, requested Mr. A. D. Durnford to act as secretary, and that gentleman read the notice convening the meeting.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

The General Manager, Mr. James Elliott, then read the annual report of the Directors, as follows:

Your Directors present to the Shareholders this their fifty-fourth annual report and statement of the affairs of The Molsons Bank as on the 30th September, 1909:

The net profits for the year amount to $493,479.69. From this have been paid quarterly dividends of 2½ per cent., each, $350,000; taxes, $17,442.69; to Officers' Pension Fund, $10,000 and expended on branch premises, $11,952.27, leaving $104,084.73 to be added to Profit and Loss Account balance making it $257,769.13.

Business during the first part of the year was depressed—the demand for money less than for the previous year—rates therefore declined, which accounts for decreased earnings.

There is, however, owing to this year's good Western harvest, a prospect of much increased business for the coming year throughout the whole country.

Your Directors have deemed it advisable to make alterations and improvements in several of our branch premises, to erect new buildings at Fraserville, Morrisburg and Revelstoke, besides purchasing the premises occupied by us at Forest, Lethbridge, and Woodstock. This involves a considerable outlay, and to cover, you will notice $100,000 has been added to Bank Premises Account, making it $600,000.

Branches have been opened during the year at Lethbridge Alta.; Forest Ont; Hamilton Mills, Ont.; Kirkton, Ont.; Camrose, Alta.; Pierreville, Que and Westminster Avenue Branch, Vancouver, B.C.

The Bank has suffered a heavy loss in the sad death of our esteemed director, Mr. W. C. McIntyre. His energy and devotion to the interests of the Bank were of much value.

In Mr. C. B. Gordon, who has been appointed to the Board, the Bank has secured the advice and support of an experienced merchant and manufacturer.

The Officers of the Bank have satisfactorily performed their duties.

WM. MOLSON MACPHERSON
President.

The President made a very interesting address and gave some interesting figures regarding the large increase in bank deposits throughout Canada during the past year, and concluded:

If any shareholders have any questions to ask, I shall be glad to answer them, and in the meantime I beg to move the adoption of the report.

The motion was seconded by the Vice-President, and was unanimously concurred in.

Mighty Mount Robson.

The interesting fact has just come out of the wilderness west of Edmonton that a distinguished party of British Alpine climbers have attempted to scale the icy summit of Mount Robson and have failed. Two points stand out distinctly in the story of this attempt and this failure. The first is that wgile they failed they felt more than repaid for the long journey just to have seen and to have stood in the presence of this "King of the Rockies." The party were twenty-four days reaching the foot of the mountain from Edmonton. At John Swift's homestead on the Upper Athabasca August 24th they met Rev. G. R. B. Kinney who had "Cook'd" them. Kinney warned them that they were too late but they pued on. On September 7th, they began the ascent. When they had gone within hills, whose icy crown sits 13,700 feet above the sea, the famous Swiss guide Morits Inderbinen turned to the man following him and whispered hoarsely "Foehn" which is the name of the warm wind of Switzerland, which compares with our "Chinook". And lo there blew, down across the glacier the wind which softens the snow and makes the going bad. In the Alps the "Foehn" brings not only a thaw but often an avalanche and sometimes showers of ice. Most of the climbers knew and better still they knew Moritz knew and they halted. Even as they talked the storm broke over the crags and the night fell before they could escape the glacier over which they were travelling. It was with great difficulty that they made their way back to the timber belt.

The second point referred to above in the interesting fact that these British climbers did not doubt for a moment that Mr. Kinney had reached the summit. On the contrary they accepted his statement and congratulated him heartily. Professor Coleman of Toronto has already called Mount Robson. "One of the show places of the world" and Mr. Hastings description of the big hill seems to corroborate Prof. Coleman's opinion.

The British party was composed as follows:

Geoffrey Hastings, Bradford; A.L. Mumm, London, L. S. Amery of the London Times; his brother, Capt. H. Amery and Mr. Mumm's Swiss guide Mortiz Indorbinen.

Speaking of the grandeur of Mount Robson Mr. Hastings said it was a magnificient peak, the northerly face of which was a tremendous precipice. There was a great glacier on the mountain, which he understood was to be called "Kinney glacier" in honor of Mr. Kinney. The river which rose on the glacier, said Mr. Hastings divided into two streams, one of which flowed into the north fork of the Fraser River, and so into the Pacific Ocean, while the other stream flowed into the Smoky River, thence into the Peace River and so into the Arctic Ocean. On the north side of the mountain there were two glacial lakes formed by the melting of the glacier. It was a scene of great beauty. Great blocks of ice were constantly breaking off the glacier's tongue, the crash being audible many miles away. The great glacier on Mount Robson was fed by smaller glaciers from the south, west and east.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucuous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucuous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Sold by Druggists, 75c.

CAUGHT A FAWN.

Mr. Frank Greene, of the Royal hotel, Bobcaygeon, caught a fawn in the woods near Bobcaygeon on Sunday. The little thing was running around and when Mr. Greene came along was quite tame and went right up to him, so that he had little difficulty in catching it. He brought the animal home and intends keeping it as a pet. There are plenty of deer in the woods around Bobcaygeon.

A FILTRATION PLANT.

Lindsay Plant Visited by Our Water Commissioners.

The Lindsay Warder says: Peterboro may follow Lindsay's suit with reference to the purification of the public water supply. A deputation from Peterboro water board visited the Lindsay plant on Saturday, and were duly impressed with the superior advantages of ozone filtration. The deputation was composed of: F. Matthews, chairman of the Peterboro Water Commissioners, W. Henderson W. H. Moore, and W. H. Hill.

Peterboro has no filtration plant at present. The system is a direct pressure one, the water being pumped directly from the river into the mains. However a filtration plant is contemplated. The commissioners will consider the matter, they stated and there is a strong possibility that the electrical purification process of water may be introduced. However, this is not definite, and the decision may not be reached for some months yet. A big dam is under construction in Peterboro and this will have to be completed or well on the way to completion before the system to be adopted is decided upon.

Something Better Now

THERE was a time when people were satisfied with any glasses with which they could read, regardless of westhet they were using one eye more than the other, knowing nothing of how the eyes were strained by wrong lens powers, and careless of the frame fitting the face.

All this is changing now; a thorough examination by experienced men, lenses spestally ground for each eye, and the neatest, most becoming are now required by discriminating people who realize that nothing is too good for the eyes.

TEACHING HORSES TO JUMP.

There Are Three Methods Used—Coaxing, Lunging and Driving.

There are three methods of teaching a horse to leap—coaxing, lunging and driving. In the coaxing method the young horse is turned into a small paddock having a low hedge or hurdle across the center. In plain view of the pupil a rider on a veteran jumper should take him over the hurdle several times.

The trainer then goes to the opposite side with a measure of corn or oats and calls the horse, shaking up the grain and pouring it with his hand back and forth in the receptacle. The boundary will soon be cleared, and when a few mouthfuls have been eaten the station of the instructor should be at the other side of the hurdle and the lesson repeated. If this be done daily the hurdle may be gradually heightened.

The habit of jumping is thus acquired without those risks which attend a novel performance when a heavy burden oppresses the strength and whip and spur distract the attention. The horse's body, says Country Life in America, is not partially disabled by the imposition of a heavy load before the powers are taxed to the utmost and his capabilities are unfettered.

The second method is termed lunging. A long rein or cord is attached to the bit, and the animal is exercised in a circle in which a hurdle has been placed or a shallow ditch dug. A long lashed whip, used only to keep him in motion or lightly applied at the proper moment, will keep him up to his work. Soon the horse will enter into the spirit of the occasion and by unmistakable signs will manifest his enthusiastic enjoyment of the exercise.

The third method, driving, is exactly what its name implies. At first the obstruction should be slight. Any open space will answer the purpose, an earth or sod surface or tanbark being preferable. Long reins, a straight bar or snaffle bit, a long whip and patience and perseverance are required.

All things considered, the driving method is the quickest and surest way of teaching the horse to leap. When he has become somewhat proficient, having thoroughly learned what is required of him, the saddle may be called into requisition and the practical lessons begun.

Almost any young horse can be taught to leap. Of course his proficiency will depend on the care bestowed on his training and on his general characteristics of wind, limb and nerve. An ordinary cob or Morgan will attain the proficiency of an Irish hunter, but any horse that is used for a saddler will be of far greater value to his owner if he can be taken occasionally for a cross country ride and put over ditches and low obstructions.

Ethics and Morality.

If a woman's husband has been silly enough to take more wine than is good for him, morality would lead her to send him to bed. Ethics would lead her to send him to Coventry. And ethology would probably lead her to send him to a penal settlement for inebriates.

If a man's wife throws a teapot at him (as happened recently in the aristocratic neighborhood in which I live) morality would lead him to go out of the house for an hour or so and give her nerves a chance. Ethics would probably induce him to go out of the town and write to her from a garden city that their temperaments were incompatible. What ethology would make him do I hardly dare to think.—Chesterton in Illustrated London News.

More Accurate.

The pastor and his wife had called upon a member of the congregation, a widow with a small but exceedingly lively boy, and were on their way home. "Well," said the preacher, "she seems to be a very intelligent woman anyhow."

"Yes."

"And very positive in expressing her opinions."

"On the contrary," said his wife, "she struck me as being strongly negative."

"Negative? How?"

"Everything she said to her little boy began with a 'Don't, Johnny!'"—Exchange.

Sympathy of the Flowers.

More or less credence is still given in England to the old belief in the sympathy of the vegetable kingdom for human suffering. "I prayed all night," writes a gardener whose employer was very sick, "and the flowers on my window sill drooped, and I said to myself they were dead. But toward morning they picked up, and I was sure enough the master was better. And the same thing had happened to the flowers I had sent to his bedroom. They were dying, and they came to life again. And I knew when those flowers picked up that the master was better."

The Pins.

"Oh, dear," sighed her husband's wife, "I can't find a pin anywhere. I wonder where all the pins go to anyway?"

"That's a difficult question to answer," replied his wife's husband, "because they are always pointed in one direction and headed in another."

Painter's Colic.

Mamma—What's the matter with Fido? Tommie—Oh, I was playing with my soldiers, and he came in and insisted upon licking the whole army.—Yonkers Statesman.

Take a rest. A field that has rested gives a beautiful crop.—Ovid.

British First.

We have in British Columbia as they have in the middle west many American settlers and whether west or east of the mountains we have no better, no more patriotic people. While they live here, and when once they come they do not as a rule go away, they are Canadians; but they are more than that, they are British and they not infrequently set an example to the natives of the country in the matter of their duty to imperial interests which is very salutary to the rather unthinking public of the Dominion.—Vancouver Province.

THE STAGE IN JAPAN.

Origin of the Drama—Women's Arduous Preparations of Dress.

There is a legend in Japan that the theater had its origin in that country in the ninth century by reason of an earthquake which took place in the province of Yamato. A large crevice was formed by reason of the upheaval, from which emanated poisonous vapors which spread death and destruction all around. An awful scourge was the result until the priests conceived the idea of performing a symbolic dance of incantation on the grass covered hill outside the temple. As if by magic the death vapors vanished, and peace and happiness were restored to the country. The legend concludes that this is how Japanese acting originated. The Japanese word for theater, shibai-ya, is supposed to have come from its origin, shibai, meaning sod, and ya, a house.

In Japan when a Japanese lady intends to go to the theater she is called upon the day previous by a hairdresser to build up the artificial structure which is the pride of every Japanese highborn lady. This necessitates her spending the night in her state dress, reclining her head on a wooden block, called makura. A few hours before going to the theater she covers her lips with a thin layer of gold, as it takes several hours for this paint to change into the cherry color which lends charm to the artificial white complexion of the face.

As a rule, Japanese performances last from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m., although certain historical dramas which follow the life of the hero through all his vicissitudes to his death go on for several days.

In Japan, officially, the social position of the actors is that of the lowest class of society, but in reality they enjoy great consideration and are idolized by the general public.

Crawford's Care as a Writer.

Mr. F. Marion Crawford, we are told, once agreed to write for the London Sphere a novel with Dante for its hero. "The Harvest of the Sword" was to have been its title. The letter which he wrote to Mr. C. K. Shorter explaining his failure to fulfill his promise testifies to his conscientious care in authorship:

"I can only say that it is in no sense my fault if I cannot give you the book after all at the time appointed and that if I succeed in writing it you of course have the first claim to it for serial publication if you still wish to use it next year. I have worked at the manuscript unremittingly for months. I began it four times. I have done everything in my power to write it and have done no other work since Aug. 1, and the result is so utterly unsatisfactory that after allowing the first three chapters to be sent to you I decided to cable and throw up the contract. It is the first time I have ever done such a thing, and I am driven to it by the great difficulties of the subject and not by any neglect. I decline to allow a book so imperfect to go before the public, while feeling that by renewed labor I may succeed in the end. That is my whole and only excuse. Make it public in any way you please, together with the great regret I feel at disappointing you."

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—18 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

Mill tests have proved that half of the values can be saved on the plates, and the remainder concentrate readily into a smelting product.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $600. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

This is the last opportunity for the investor to get an interest in this safe and conservative mining venture.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

TURQUOISE COPPER

NOT A PROSPECT

400 FOOT TUNNEL—140 FOOT SHAFT

Mines located near Valardena, Durango, Mexico only six miles by wagon road and three miles straight line from the property of the Guggenheims upon which they have recently erected a $3,000,000 smelter. Sample assays have averaged from $54 to $102 per ton.

Up to the present time, the Turquoise Copper Co., has been practically a close corporation; an initial offering of 100,000 shares has just been made at 25 cents, par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable. Proceeds will be used to further continue the development work already begun.

We have options on 50,000 shares of this stock and advise immediate purchase at 25 cents per share. It is the intention of The Board of Directors to list the stock on the New York Curb and it should sell at $1.00 per share by the first of the year.

AUTOGRAPH PRICES.

Regular Figures Are Quoted on Celebrated Signatures.

Whose signature, amongst those of celebrities of to-day, is worth most from the point of view of the autograph dealer and collector? The question is a difficult one to answer, for the simple reason that so much depends on the character and importance of the letter or document to which the signature is attached.

For instance, according to a catalogue issued a short time ago by a London dealer in autographs, while a Kipling letter referring to his writings is worth two guineas, an ordinary epistle of the same writer would be sold at half a guinea. The signature of Queen Alexandra can be bought for a guinea, but attached to a letter written in her girlhood days would fetch five and probably ten times that amount.

Here are a few of the market prices, as to speak, of other celebrities: Sir L. Alma-Tadema, 10s. 6d.; Sir Squire Bancroft, 3s. 6d.; J. M. Barrie, 5s.; Max Beerbohm, 10s. 6d.; Sarah Bernhardt, £1 5s.; Mr. Birrell, 2s. 6d.; Miss Braddon, 5s.; Hall Caine, 10s. 6.; Mark Twain, £3 3s.; Sir A. Conan Doyle, 7s. 6d.; Sir W. S. Gilbert, 5s.; Rider Haggard, 4s.; and Sir Charles Wyndham 5s.

With regard to famous men of the past, it is interesting to note that, while £43 was asked for a Tennyson letter, a Byron was only priced at 18 guineas, and a Cowper at 10 guineas. Twenty one pounds would have bought the signature of George Washington, and £12 that of Queen Victoria. Thirteen and fourteen guineas was asked for the autographs respectively of Dickens and Thackeray, while that of Edward Fitzgerald was priced at £21.

It is curious to note how variable are the prices of royal signatures. While, as already mentioned, £12 is asked for a Queen Victoria letter, a two-page epistle by the late Empress Frederick of Germany only realised a guinea. The sign-manual of George I has been sold for 8s., that of George III. for £1 6s., and that of George IV. for 11s.; and it is an interesting fact that, while at one sale a letter from Charles I. to the Earl of Kingston, dealing with the request for a loan of £5,000, only fetched £31 10s., Cromwell's signature went for £80.

Bombay English.

"The horse is a very noble quadruped, but when he is angry he will not do so. He is ridden on the spinal cord by the bridle, and sadly the driver places his foots on the stirrup and divides his lower limbs across the saddle, and drives his animal to the meadow. He has a long mouth and his head is attached to the trunk by a long protuberance called the neck. He has four legs; two are on the front side and two are afterward. These are the weapons on which he runs and also defends himself by extending these in the rear in a parallel direction toward his foe; but this he does only when he is in a vexatious mood. His fooding is generally grasses and grains. He is also useful to take on his back a man or woman, as well as some cargo. He has power to run as fast as he could. He has got no sleep bi nightime, and always standing awaken. Also there are horses of short sizes. There is no animal like the horse; no sooner they see their guardian or master they always crying for fooding, but it is always at the morning time. They have got tail, but not so long as the cow and other such like similar animals."

Interrupting Mr. Grantham.

One of the most amusing of Sir W. Grantham's experiences occurred when he was engaged as a political speaker in the days before he took his place on the bench, and when he was plain Mr. Grantham. On one occasion, while he was delivering an address, a man got up in the audience and shouted out excitedly, "It's a lie!" "Thanks," said the future judge. "It's a lie!" shouted the excited one again. 'You're a gentleman," said Mr. Grantham, sarcastically. "It's a lie!" burst out his opponent again, carried away by his wrath; but the general laughter which arose at his answer recalled him to himself again, and he sat down discomfited.

Success in the Army.

Sir Redvers Buller is said to have replied to a lady, who asked by what means he had succeeded in reaching his high position in the service, "I inherited £10,000 a year." "This answer," says Lieut.-Colonel Pollock, who, in addition to much active service, has written a number of books on military subjects, and who for the last eleven years has been editor of The United Service Magazine, "if ever made, was not, of course, intended to be accepted quite literally; yet it is certain that a handsome income is an immense assistance. A man must first become known before he can be appreciated, and the larger his income the more easy it is for him to mix freely with a circle of acquaintances."

A Many-Sided Man.

Sir John Quick, Australia's new Postmaster-General, is a Cornishman by birth, although nearly all his life has been spent in Australia. He has been many things in his time, including an engineer, a compositor, an engine-driver in a mine, and a reporter. He then went to Melbourne University, where he took his B.A., and became law reporter on The Age. He was called to the Victorian Bar, represented Sandhurst in the Assembly, and took the degree of LL.D. at Melbourne University. He has practiced as a barrister, and has contributed much to Australian literature.

Postman's Long Service.

An Imperial Service medal has lately been presented to Mr. Joseph Holt, Coventry's (Eng.) oldest postman, for long and faithful service. The recipient served nearly thirty years, and during that time the population of the Warwickshire city has grown from 37,670 to 91,099.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect troublesome into practice. When these "inside nerves" fail then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specially to these failing nerves. ANGLO-INDIAN SOCIETY.

Salary Decides a Briton's Standing in the Orient.

Anglo-Indian society is strictly official. The male exile's status depends upon the number of rupees he draws each month from the Government. An "Assistant District Superintendent of Police" may be the younger son of a baronet, with an ancestry going back to the Conquest But he must take in to dinner the Eurasian wife of the "Opium Wallah" — a "Government servant," who is paid a salary of similar dimensions. The "Collector," who gets the equivalent of a thousand pounds a year, is paired off with the sister of the officer commanding the local regiment. In all probability, the lady has a supreme contempt for the "civilian's" social standing, although her unpretentious parents may have kept a Bayswater boarding-house. In the large "stations," railway employes, tea and indigo planters, barristers and business men have a bowing acquaintance with the officers of the British infantry regiments, and they are welcomed in native infantry messes. British cavalry officers and their wives, however, seldom tolerate them, though impecunious subalterns (with an eye to the main chance) make a point of cultivating bank managers. Occasionally, the officers of one corps do not encourage friendly relations with those of another, the womenkind of these warriors being only too ready to obey the mandate. Under these circumstances, jovial Anglo-Indians who are anxious to make friends of everybody—from the "Commissioner" down to the "Acting Additional Traffic Manager," who occupies a lowly position in the railway office—loathe (with exceeding hate) Rawalpindi, Secunderabad, Bangalore, Lucknow, Meerut, and other large military "stations" where cliques abound.

The "Mem-Sahib" is not over-burdened with household duties. For many months in the year, the appalling heat (which reduces the liveliest lady to the verge of apathy, dispels any good intentions she may have formed. Besides, it is not customary for the mistress of the house to pry too closely into the uncleanly mysteries with which the native servants surround themselves. Even the strongest-minded "Mem" is staggered by the sights which await her in the "bowarchi whanah," as the kitchen is known. Nor is she encouraged to take an interest in her servants and their children. Should she condescendingly pat little Ahmed's fat cheeks, little Ahmed's papa will straightway accuse her of regarding his offspring with the "evil eye."

Bronze Statuettes.

An interesting exhibition of bronze statuettes by Anthony Van Wouw was inaugurated recently at the Fine Arts Society's galleries by Sir Richard Solomon, who deputed to Dr. Engelenburg, one of the South African delegates at the Imperial Press Conference, the task of introducing the personality of the Boer sculptor.

Anthony Van Wouw's nationality is betrayed by his subjects rather than by his style, which is the result of sound training in the European art centres. He has chosen his models from among his own people and the indigenous black races, whose varied types he renders with considerable realistic force. Nor is this realism confined to the faithful reproduction of racial characteristics; in several cases, as in the statuette of a "Kaffir Eating Mealies" and the pathetic group "Bad News," he endeavors, with marked success, to convey a suggestion of the arid, stony veldt. There is something of monumental dignity in his little seated figure of "Paul Kruger in Exile." Of peculiar interest are the two figures of "Voortrekkers," designed for the corners of the Kruger monument, which was commissioned from the artist before the outbreak of the war.

Lord Lonsdale's Bet.

There are few better all-round sportsmen in the Empire than the Earl of Lonsdale, who is taking such an active interest in the Travel and Sports Exhibition, due to open next month at Olympia. He rides, shoots, motors, boxes, yachts, and is an expert slipper of greyhounds. Horses, however, have been the hobby of his life, and on matters connected with them his opinions are of great value. Once Lord Lonsdale made a bet he would drive twenty miles in less than an hour. The roads were bad, but the weather was worse. For the first five miles his lordship drove a four-in-hand, a pair for another five miles, rode postilion of a pair for the next five, and completed the remainder of the distance by driving a single horse for the last stage. The entire journey was covered in four and a half minutes under the hour

Engine-Cleaner as an Artist.

Another romantic struggle for fame is illustrated by the career of Mr. Alfred Hudson, who has had a picture accepted for this year's Academy in London. He started life as an engine-cleaner, and in the course of time was promoted to his present post of chief clerk in the locomotive department of the Northeastern Railway at Leeds. He developed a passion for art, but had no money to purchase the necessary equipment. By exercising the strictest economy, however, he was able to save out of his wages sufficient to procure some brushes and paint. He has exhibited in different parts of the country.

A Witty Entry.

Mme. Ghosal, the daughter of the Maharajah of Cooch Behar, the Indian prince whose magnificent attire makes him one of the most picturesque figures at Court, can be very witty on occasions. Once, when staying at a country house, she was asked to write down a thought in an album, and seeing that someone had inscribed the somewhat sententious phrase, "Do right, and fear no man," she took the pen and promptly wrote underneath, "Don't write, and fear no woman."

Reclaiming Holland.

Since the 16th century the Dutch have reclaimed more than 1,000,000 acres of land from sea, lake and river.

Unreasonable.

"Your baby cries a great deal at night. Can't you do anything for it?"

"Your dog barks a good deal. Can you do anything to stop him?"

"Confound it, such unreasonable people as you haven't any right to live in a flat!"

The Result the Same.

"Gimme some of that prune pie."

"Son, you've had two kinds of pie already."

"Then another kind won't matter — it's only one kind of stomach ache."

SUPERSTITIONS.

They Play at Times an Important Role in Human Affairs.

When Sir Charles Napier had conquered Mehemet Ali, he found it impossible to force or coax the wily Egyptian into signing the treaty which only would make his victory effective. He had nineteen interviews with Mehemet, in which the Englishman by turns argued, flattered and threatened his antagonist, who listened day after day with the same immovable, smiling countenance.

One day Sir Charles in speaking of England said casually that it "was governed by a lucky woman." A strange flash passed over the pasha's countenance, but he made no answer. As soon as Napier had gone Mehemet sent for the English consul, who was an Egyptian, and demanded:

"You were in London when the English queen was crowned. Were the omens bad or good?"

"All good."

"You think that good luck is written on her forehead?"

"I did not think upon the matter before, but now that you ask me I believe that it is. When she asked Allah to help her in her work, her eyes ran over. Allah loves the innocent."

"No doubt of that," said Mehemet anxiously. "She must be lucky."

Early the next morning he sent for Sir Charles and signed the treaty. English power and English cannon he could brave, but not "the luck" written upon the forehead of a good woman whom he had never seen.

General Gordon's remarkable influence over the Chinese was in a large degree due, it is stated, to their belief in his extraordinary luck. During the Taiping rebellion he was followed by an army which did not comprehend either his ability or his religious zeal, but which believed that he was protected by an invisible being who led them to victory. No sword could wound him or bullet kill. A certain black ebony cane which he carried was supposed to be the magic talisman which brought him victory, and General Gordon was shrewd enough always to carry this cane when he led them into battle.

These superstitions seem absurd to us, but they show that the ignorant men who hold them believe in an invisible power who can give good or ill fortune at his will.—London Truth.

MAN EATING TIGERS.

The Killing Methods of These Terrible Brutes in India.

The theory that a man eating tiger is always an old tiger, more or less toothless and feeble, which has found the strain of catching vigorous wild game too much for its failing strength, has been upset by the bagging of notorious man eaters which were found to be young animals in the full pride of their powers. And it is likely that the taste for human flesh is passed on from mother to child, the tigress, herself a man eater, teaching her cubs to hunt as she hunts. How terrible a thing a man eater may be can be judged from the fact that a tiger generally kills every second night, whether its quarry be man or beast. Having killed, it makes one meal that night, then drags the carcass somewhere into cover and more or less conceals it as a dog may hide a bone. On the next night its habit is to return to the same kill, and it is in that second visit that the hunter usually finds his opportunity. It is not the rule for a tiger to return again a third time, not because it is above eating carrion, but seemingly it tires of the carcass, which it has already twice mumbled over.

Thus one tiger in India has been known to kill regularly its fifteen natives a month with almost mechanical punctuality. Another, which seemingly did not confine itself entirely to human flesh, devoured an average of eighty people, men and women, for several years, while yet another is reported to have killed 127 people and to have stopped traffic on a public road for many weeks. There have been both English sportsmen and native shikaris who have accounted for their hundred tigers and upward, but many a tiger has killed more human beings than any man has ever scored tigers.—London Times.

A Reasonable Request.

"Arabella," said old Billyums as he finished his dinner, "I am going to ask you to do me a favor. I want you to give your young man—Mr.—Mr. Whatshisname—a message from me."

Arabella blushed and looked down at her plate.

"Tell him," the blunt old millionaire went on, "that I don't object to his staying here and running up my gas bills, but that I do object to his carrying the morning paper away with him when he leaves."—London Answers.

Force of Habit.

"I'm surprised that you should be so interested in watching those silly dudes."

"Force of habit, I guess. I'm president of a real estate improvement company."

"Well?"

"Well, they're a vacant lot."

Lost and Found.

"Found a dollar yesterday."

"Lucky boy!"

"Not so lucky. In stooping to pick it up I dropped and broke my eyeglasses."

Transposed.

Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another everywhere. Grateful patients, gladly spread results. LONE ST. KILDA.

How the Inhabitants Live on Isolated Little Island.

Surrounded for eight months of the year by an isolating veil, which hides it almost impenetrably from the outer world, St. Kilda casts its mists in May, and comes forth to join the chorus of the isles again. With the resumption of the tourist traffic, the furthest fling of the Western Hebrides enters upon its summer "season." From now till August its people live in the stir of coming and going steamers. It is only within the last 15 years (says The Scotsman) that the lone Isle began to be included in the itinerary of the tourist. In earlier days the islanders had to be satisfied with the certainty of a call from the factor's smack once or twice a year. It brought the factor on board. He came, as he comes yet, to collect the rents in kind—cattle, grain, cheese, sea bird feathers, fulmar oil, dried fish, and other limited products—and he supplied them with their fresh stock of meal, flour, salt, tea and sugar, and shawls. Tea and sugar are still comparatively modern luxuries, with only 20 years' familiarity to spice their pleasure. Shops are unknown on the island, so each householder must calculate the exact quantity of goods and merchandise he will require to tide him over the winter. There remain, of course, the dairy produce of the island, and the mutton which its sheep supplies. Beef or pork are never eaten.

The St. Kildians give all their cattle to the proprietor for rent, and, unlike the Irish, they don't keep pigs. Comparatively modern illustrations show the fashion in dress to have been distinctly bizarre, but it is much more up to date now. The men manufacture their own tweed and act as their own tailors. Occasionally, indeed, they ply the needle on behalf of the women, who are fond of bright colors, a not unknown feminine idiosyncrasy. Scarlet is their favorite shade. Imported shawls are worn on the head in winter time, and Turkey red napkins in summer. Some of the younger women order their costumes from the "mainland," but the majority are content with dresses of their own making. Education is now on an organized basis, although it is only within recent years that the Ladies' Association in Edinburgh began to send students to teach English to the children. Previously the children were taught Gaelic by the most proficient individual among the adults; obviously a haphazard method.

There are about 1,600 sheep scattered over the islands on common pasturage, and every owner has his private mark on his possessions. The sheep are small and wild, and can only be caught by dogs. That accounts for the number of dogs which are kept. In June, the shearing season, all the sheep are driven to ledges on the rocks, where they have a choice of being caught, or of jumping over the precipice. The latter alternative is not infrequently accepted. Tweed making is the principal industry, and it provides the women with the classic occupation of spinning the wool derived form their own sheep. The men do all the weaving, contrary to the custom in Harris, where the women weave as well as spin. At this work the long winter nights are spent, spiced with rivalry. The spinners and weavers of one house vie with those of others as to the quantity and quality of the tweed which will be produced, and it is a case of sitting up and rising early almost to the limit of endurance. In April the land claims attention, and the tweed is laid aside pending the arrival of the Glasgow steamers in May. With the first boat this year has gone out the Glasgow agent, who disposes of the manufactured tweed.

Shipwrecked Thirteen Times.

Mr. John Beveridge, of Kirkcaldy, who recently passed away, had an unusually adventurous career, and was quite a "character." At an early age he ran away to sea, and started as a ship's boy. For the forty-two years following he was only on shore for short periods and at long intervals, and thirteen times suffered shipwreck. Once, when wrecked in St. Andrew's Bay, he saved his life by swimming ashore, hanging to a live sheep. Beveridge sailed in many of the vessels which belonged to the Kirkcaldy whaling fleet, and when the last three whalers belonging to that port were wrecked he was a member of the crew on each occasion. For fifteen years he was a naval reservist, and twenty years ago he sailed his last voyage in the Empress of Dundee to the Baltic. To the last he always wore his seafaring garb.

Wonders of the British Museum.

The resignation of Sir Edward Maunde Thompson from the post of director and principal librarian of the British Museum creates a vacancy worth £1,500 a year and a house to live in. The post, however, is no sinecure. There are over 2,000,000 volumes for which the chief librarian is responsible—the only larger collection is the 3,000,000 volumes of the Bibliotheque Nationale of France—not to mention 70,000 valuable maps, over 100,000 manuscripts (many of which could not be replaced if stolen or destroyed), and a magnificent collection of prints and drawings. Altogether there are eleven departments in the British Museum, which originated in 1753 with three — namely, printed books, manuscripts, and objects of natural history.

A Royal Philatelist.

It is, of course, well known that amongst British stamp collectors the Prince of Wales occupies a prominent position. Exactly what his Royal Highness's collection is worth has not been made public; but in view of the fact that five years ago he paid £1,450 for a specimen of the twopenny blue Mauritius, it is apparently one of great value. It is not generally known that the Prince of Wales secured this stamp over the head of the German Postoffice Museum, who sent an agent here to secure it at any price. At £1,450 the agent lost courage, however, and thus the stamp came into the royal collection.

Ending a Letter.

The simplicity of "Yours" as a letter ending would have astounded Jeremy Taylor, whose letters to John Evelyn often wind up with perfect triumphs of complexity in this respect. His best is, "Believe me that I am, in great heartiness and dearness of affection, dear sir, your obliged and most affectionate and endeared friend and servant," or "Your very affectionate friend and hearty servant." Even in his shortest perorations of the kind the "affectionate" and the "servant" are always the two indispensable words. Probably no man, woman or child would combine these two at the end of a letter today.—London Tatler.

A Division of Labor.

The following dialogue at the Bow county court deserves to be recorded:

Witness—One day I had some shrimps to sell, and I asked the plaintiff to help me. He said, "I can't push the barrow because my arm is bad, but if you like I'll come along with you and holler."

Counsel—Why was that?

Witness—Well, it's like this, sir. A man can often shout when he can't shove.—London News.

An Excuse For a Pardon.

When the stern Duke of Wellington was prime minister under George IV. he managed the old monarch easily enough, but when he attempted the same tactics with the young Queen Victoria he met his match. She constantly outwitted him. One of his earliest official acts was to bring before her a court martial death sentence which he expected her to sign as a matter of course. A soldier was to be executed for desertion, and as the death warrant was placed before the queen by the duke she raised her eyes, full of tears, to his face, saying:

"Have you nothing to say in behalf of this poor man?"

"Nothing," said the duke, standing at attention like one of his own privates; "he has deserted three times."

"Oh, your grace, think again," pleaded the queen, as if she were asking for the life of her dearest friend.

"Well, your majesty, he certainly is a bad soldier, but there was somebody who spoke for his good character. He may be a tolerably good fellow in civil life."

"Oh, thank you," said the queen in heartfelt tones, and before the astonished duke could utter a word of protest she had written across the paper the word "Pardoned."

Sweet Revenge.

Sam Sunflower — Yes, Miss Frost jilted Sam Bones an married Pete Green.

Jim Sumac—Huh! How did Sam Bones take de disappointment?

Sam Sunflower—Why, he goes to de wedding an throws his old shoes at de happy pair.

Jim Sumac — Well! Well! Dat's what I call forgiveness.

Sam Sunflower — No, dat was revenge. Sam wears a No. 17 shoe and dey wrecked de church.—Chicago News.

There are only thirty-one appeals against the assessment this year, which is a very low number when compared with the appeals for some years past, especially 1907, when a new record was set.

The Pay of Jurors.

Thepay of grand and petit jurors was increased from $2 to $2.50 a day on April 14, 1908, and the traveling expenses were increased April 15 from 10 to 13 cents a mile. According to several papers, the advance of juror's pay did not come in to force until this year, whereas the increase was recognized in the County of Frontenac as soon as the statute was passed. Since the increase came into force as soon as the statute was passed, those who served on juries in other counties last year were practically "done" out of 50 cents a day.

Since that time he has been an employe of the firm.

The funeral arrangements will be announced this afternoon.

A Popular Resort.

The great success and popularity which the "WaWa," the fine summer hotel situated on the Lake of Bays, "Highlands of Ontario," has attained has warranted the proprietors to materially increase the capacity of this resort, and it has been decided that an extension containing forty more rooms be added this year and ready for occupancy at the opening of the season next year. This addition to the hotel will be finished in the same plain but handsome style as the rest of the present structure and rooms will be connecting with bath between every two rooms.

The season this year has proved up to expectation and the house has been well patronized, in fact hundreds of people had to be denied accomodation owing to its entire capacity being taken up—in fact an auxiliary of fifteen tents was added to take care of as much as possible of the overflow.

If there were more hotels like this in the "Highlands of Ontario," thousands of more would be attracted to the favorite resorts.

DOCTORS SAID ONLY ZAM-BUK COULD CURE HER ECZEMA

In view of the numerous cures which Zam-Buk has worked when all else has failed, their is little wonder that in the end the doctor attending Mrs. J. P. St. Denis, of 303 Thompson Street, Winnipeg, should tell her there was nothing but Zam-Buk could cure her. The result showed the far-seeing wisdom of this practitioner, and having been completely cured by Zam-Buk, Mrs. St. Denis, gives her experience for the benefit of other sufferers.

She says: "Eczema started on one side of my face and nose. At first my nose felt sore, similar to what one feels when having a bad cold. I paid no attention to this, thinking it would pass away in a day or so, but to my surprise it got worse. The nose then became swollen and hard, and turned a purplish red, as well as part of the cheek on that side of my face.

"As the disease developed pimples and ulcers broke out, then the skin cracked in places and peeled off in flakes, leaving my face and nose raw and sore. This condition reacted on my general health, and I became very ill. I could get no sleep at night because of the irritation and the pain, and my face was in such a shocking condition that for two months I did not go out of the house. I applied remedies which were supposed to be good for skin diseases, but in vain.

"My doctor also treated me, but without effect, until one day he said that the only thing which would now be likely to cure me was Zam-Buk.

"Acting on his advice, I procured a supply and found that even the first few applications had a soothing effect on the sores. I left off everything else in favor of this balm, and applied it liberally every day to affected parts. In a remarkably short time, considering the obstinate nature of my disease, we saw traces of improvement, which encouraged us to persevere with Zam-Buk treatment. Zam-Buk reduced the discoloration, then the hard swelling began to show traces of leaving, the sores seemed less angry, and in about three weeks' time most of the sores were healing nicely To cut a long story short, I continued with the Zam-Buk treatment until my face was cleared completely of all traces of the troublesome and painful eczema."

Such was the experience of Mrs. St. Denis, and scores of other sufferers could tell of similar experience. Zam-Buk is Nature's own healer, being composed of pure herbal healing essences, and free from all trace of harmful animal fat or mineral poison. It is a sure cure for cuts, lacerations, burns, eczema, ring-worm, poisoned wound, festering sores, bad leg, and all skin injuries and diseases. Zam-Buk is also a cure for piles. Druggists and stores everywhere sell at 25c. a box, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price. You are warned against cheap and harmful imitations sometimes represented as "just as good."

ANOTHER FLAG EPISODE

HOW A CANADIAN SHIP FARED IN AUSTRALIA.

Officials of Port Adelaide Failed to Recognize the Canadian Ensign and Ordered a British Flag In Its Place —After a Heated Dispute With Handspikes Explanation of Affair Was Arrived At.

All the talk lately about an alleged insult to the British flag in Toronto, started one of the city's well-known wholesale merchants reminiscing the other day; and he told an interesting story of a flag episode in Port Adelaide, South Australia, in which he himself was a participant. Things became very livly for a while, but in the end, just as in the Toronto affair, it was found that the whole thing was due to a mistake. But let him tell it in his own words:

"In 1883 I was an able seaman on board the Canadian barque 'Lake Erie,' on a voyage from London, England, to Port Adelaide, South Australia, with general cargo. Our commander was Captain John Keay, our chief officer was George Fullam, and the second officer was Jack Bird, all Nova Scotia men, and two-thirds of the crew of 28 men were Nova Scotians or Canadians.

"We arrived in Port Adelaide one bright morning, and like all deep-water ships, we dressed ship when we moored alongside of our dock, and we were very proud to haul up the Canadian ensign at our peak. During the forenoon we were visited by a messenger from the deputy port warden's office, who came aboard and ordered our flag to be pulled down and the British ensign to be hoisted. Naturally, our mate being on his own ship, was not used to taking orders. A quick right and left—one between the eyes and the other in the neighborhood of the chin—put the messenger from the port warden's office out of business, and a few seconds later the bo'sun and the bo'sun's mate were busy piping 'All hands aft.' On our arrival aft we were told that the warden had ordered the Canadian flag to be hauled down, and the mate ordered that we line up alongside the ship, every man—in fact everybody on the ship, including the cook—to handle a handspike.

"On the return of the messenger to the port warden's office a couple more messengers were sent down, and from the dock, without coming aboard the ship, they commanded that we haul down the flag that was flying; and on the mate still refusing to do so a detachment of police was sent for. Naturally, when the police came aboard, a bunch of sailors that had been six months at sea were ready for a rough-house; and for a few minutes it looked like an Irish wake. It did not last long; but while it lasted it was hot. During the fracas the commander, Captain Keay, came aboard, and by instructions from the office, or rather the shipowners' agents the commander was compelled to haul down the flag and substitute the red ensign.

"Now this happened to a British ship in a British port, and naturally enquiries were made as to why such a thing should occur. In fact, our commander threatened to haul his ship out into the offing and lay at anchor and fly his flag in spite of the South Australian Government; but when it was explained, it shows how easily mistakes can occur through the misinterpretation of instructions by an over-zealous officer, only anxious to carry out his interpretations of the instructions.

"It appears that at that time South Australia was inaugurating a navy of her own, consisting of a number of small coasting gunboats. The South Australian flag is a blue ensign, the same as the British Royal Navy Reserve, but which had a round, white disc on the lower wing with an aboriginal or nigger in the corner. When the navy was inaugurated, they adopted the blue ensign with the nigger for their naval flag, the same as the British Royal Navy adopted the white ensign with the red cross of St. Andrew, and in adopting this flag for the South Australian navy they prohibited all Australian vessels from flying anything but the red ensign or British ensign; but in making out their regulations, instead of using the words 'South Australian vessels,' it read, "all colonial vessels," consequently the ship I was in, hailing from a British colony, came under the regulations as a colonial vessel and consequently under the rules of the port a colonial vessel was compelled to fly the British flag instead of the colonial. Needless to say, the matter was quickly remedied, and a very short time afterward a deputation again visited our ship from the port warden's office with instructions for us to hoist the Canadian flag, which was done with great ceremony, resulting in a general piping aft of the watch for grog, and a half-holiday."

Writes From Arctic.

A letter has been received at the geological survey at Ottawa from V. Steffansson, who is far up in the Arctic circle, conducting natural researches in conjunction with Dr. Anderson. The two gentlemen are living among the Eskimos, their principal diet being caribou.

Steffansson says that he has come in contact with many Eskimos who never before have seen a white man. The two explorers got along well during their long stay in the north, where they will remain for over a year more. They expect to spend next winter at the mouth of the Copper Mine River.

The letter was written on Feb. 18, taking five months to reach Ottawa.

Capital Abroad.

Why is it that so much Canadian capital is invested abroad? Millions upon millions of Canadian money are invested in Mexico in water-powers and irrigating lands. Much is also used in the American stock market. It looks as if this were not a good country for the investor.—Daily Review, Peterborough.

The Committee are Looking Abroad for New Industries—A Number of Enquiries as to Peterborough's Advantages

The Manufacturers' Committee of the City Council met last night with Ald. Gillespie in the chair. There were also present, Mayor Henry Rush, and Aldermen Hicks, Dullea and Metheral.

Communications were read from a number of manufacturing concerns enquiring as to Peterborough's advantages for location of industries.

Wm. Hamilton Co., Has Much Business.

The Wm. Hamilton Company wrote asking the committee's support of a three years' fixed assessment of $10,000. Amongst other reasons advanced in the communication why this growing concern is entitled to a fixed assessment was the fact that they are now employing 94 hands, which number of men they confidently expect will be increased to 100 shortly. Their present monthly pay roll is $4,000, while they have orders on hand to the amount of $110,000.

Ald. Hicks moved, seconded by Ald. Metheral,—That the solicitor be instructed to prepare a bylaw in accordance with the Wm. Hamilton Company's request for submission to the council.—Carried.

Otonabee Power Co.'s Franchise.

A communication was read from the Otonabee Power Company, re their request for a twenty years' street franchise for conveying power for lighting, heating and power purposes. The communication pointed out that to develop additional power at No. Five dam and to use No. Four dam for power purposes would entail an expenditure to the company of $250,000. Hence their request for a twenty years' franchise. The company would be pleased to meet a committee of the council and discuss their proposition.

Ald. Hicks moved, seconded by Ald Metheral.—That a committee of the council and citizens meet the Otonabee Power Company or their representatives at an early date.—Carried.

Peterborough Light and Power Co.'s Bylaw.

Mr. Larmonth wrote that the Peterborough Light and Power Company would pay the expense of submitting their bylaw re light and power, providing it be submitted to the ratepayers by itself.

Nothing definite was arrived at on this question.

The committee then adjourned.

A Modern Heroine Walked One Hundred and Forty Five Miles

The story of the work of Miss Agnes Sproule, who will speak at the Grand Opera House on Sunday afternoon is of the most interesting character. During the past year she journed for 238 days. In that time she visited 65 places, interested herself in 47 camps, and addressed 96 public meetings, 51 of them in the bush. Her addresses to women numbered 42, while her interest in the children of the lumber shanty districts is shown in the fact that 193 addresses were given among them. Six thousand four hundred and twenty miles were covered by railway, six hundred and twenty-five by boat, four hundred and five by sleigh hundred and thirty-five by wagon or buggy and walked one hundred and forty-five miles.

The valorous part of Miss Sproule's work is that she manages to do that immense work throughout Northern Ontario mining and lumbering without the promise of a large reward. Notwithstanding the fact that Miss Sproule's work has been among the men of the camp and her addresses specially adapted to mail audience it has been arranged that her meeting in the Grand Opera House next Sunday will be open to women as well as men.

Great Indian Fighter, General Otis, is Dead

Rochester, N.Y., Oct. 21.—Major-General Elwell Stephen Otis, U.S.A. retired, died at his home in Gates, near Rochester, at 1.20 o'clock this morning of heart trouble, which had not become serious until two weeks ago, when an affection of the kidneys caused a turn for the worse. It was not generally known that he was seriously ill. With him at the last were his wife, daughters, brother, and the latter's wife.

Gen. Otis was born at Frederick, Md., March 25th, 1838, but was brought to Rochester at the age of two years. He was made colonel of his regiment after the battle of the Wilderness, when its leader, Colonel O'Rourke was killed. He was wounded in 1864, at the battle of Chapin's Farm, but recovered in time to be brevetted brigadier-general of volunteers for conspicuous gallantry at Spottsylvania. He was appointed major-general of volunteers at the beginning of the war with Spain, and two years later was made major-general in the regular army which rank he held until retirement.

Gen. Otis did much fighting of Indians during his service at Western posts. He was judge advocate of the court which condemned Captain Oberlin M. Carter for the Savannah frauds. He succeeded General Merritt in the Philippines in 1898, and his aggressive policy there drew forth the commendation of President McKinley. He left the islands in 1900 and from that time until his retirement in 1902 was in command of the department of the lakes. General Otis was twice married.

CURED OF ACHING WEARINESS.

Had Goutty Pain, Flushings, Palpitations and General Feeling of Depression.

Mr. C. J. Stonewall, who for years has been a most respected citizen of Pemberton, writes interestingly and convincingly of a very serious sickness, extending over almost two years. Through the marvellous curative power of Dr. Hamilton's Pills he made rapid and permanent recovery.

"It was a puzzle to my doctor, because the symptoms seemed almost as numerous as the days of the month. But one thread ran through them all, and that was utter weariness morning, noon and night. I felt that—pain changed from one part of the body to another—seemed at one time rheumatic, at others it affected the extremities like gout. Little exertion, such as going upstairs, caused breathlessness and palpitation, and at times I had vague numb feelings and pricking. After Dr. Hamilton's Pills cured me, my doctor saw it wasn't the nervous system, but bowel and kidney disorders. I believe there is no pill on earth that can compare with Dr. Hamilton's, and in diseases that have their cause in thin or white blood, cure is inevitable with Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

THOUSANDS KILLED OR DROWNED DURING TORNADO IN EAST BENGAL

Hundreds Float Down the Ganges—Light Native Houses Piled in Heaps.

THE NUMBER OF DEAD WILL NEVER BE KNOWN

The Refugees Tell Tales of Terrible Disaster in Territory of East Bengal.

Calcutta, Oct. 21.—Their story corroborated by the mute evidence of scores of twisted bodies floating down the broad Ganges to the sea, refugees from the storm-swept territory in East Bengal, arriving today tell tales of a terrible disaster. Only a few worn-out and exhausted natives have succeeded in reaching Calcutta.

From their accounts it is estimated that between 5,000 and 10,000 perished in the tornado.

The refugees describe the stricken territory as littered for miles with native houses. Scattered among the ruins, and over the storm-swept fields are scores of dead natives left where they died by the fleeing survivors.

Every river in the storm zone is covered in many places with floating bodies swept into the stream by the floods resulting from the rains accompanying the storm.

Even the approximate number of dead will never be known.

STRUCK BY PULLEY.

He was unconscious for some time, and on Monday was unable to attend the council meeting. He is the salesman for the Shearer cheese factory and was absent from the board meeting yesterday. THE PRINCESS SUCCEEDS.

Scenes in Russian Life Explained by a Competent Lecturer.

The Princess, Peterborough's latest place for cheap, clean amusement has gone through the experimental stage, and is now an assured success The patronage extended to the Princess is almost phenominal. Mr. Stanley Coon, the proprietor, himself a skilfull electrician and a moving picture operator of acknowledged ability, from his many years of practical experience, has given the public of Peterborough a show that is unique in its excellence. Mr. Coon is showing moving pictures that are absolutely without any flicker. By flicker is meant that jumping movement so common with most moving pictures and that is so hard on the eye-sight of the audience. The pictures at the Princess are absolutely steady. For Thanksgiving Day Mr. Coon has secured one of the most perfect pictures yet produced, entitled "Lost in Siberia." As denoted by the name, this picture shows vividly the life and conditions in the country of the Czar. One sees thrilling and realistic scenes of the struggle between the down-trodden people, the Anarchists and the oligarchy that rules Russia. On Monday this thrilling picture as well as others of equal interest will be presented and as the anarchist picture proceeds it will be fully explained by a competent lecturer thus enabling the audiance to understand the dramatic situations, as they are evolved.

Says Sir Wilfrid will Retire and w. S. Fielding Take His Place

London, Oct. 21.—In a letter written by a member of the Canadian Government to a friend here, the possibility even the probability of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's retirement from the premiership was discussed.

That Sir Wilfrid's health is far from good has for some months past been manifest, but it is said that the hope has still been entertained that rather than withdraw from his post he would consent to take a holiday of from three to six months in European waters.

In the event, however, of his retirement, the letter said, it might be assumed that his successor would be Hon. W. S. Fielding.

Sir Willrid Laurier attended the wedding of Senator Gibson's daughter at Beamsville yesterday, and appeared in good health and spirits. He proposed the health of the bride.

JEALOUSY OF ENGLISH NAVY.

Austrian Newspaper Makes Attack Upon John Bull's Policy.

Vienna, Oct. 21.—The semiofficial Fremdenplatt in its military supplement, publishes an attack upon England. It remarks that England in 1912 will own 68 first-class fighting units, while France and Germany together will only have about 50. The writer conjectures that under these circumstances Germany will be obliged to enlarge, in spite of repeated official assurances her naval program up to 1917.

Germany (says the article) cannot remain contented with 38 battleships when England owns 80.

Say He Gave Wife Poison by Mistake

Montreal, Oct. 21.—In the trial of Dr. Samson, of Grand Rapids, Que., on a charge of poisoning his wife, Crown Prosecutor Garneau, in his statement to the jury said the wife was taken ill with convulsions at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and was dead at 6 o'clock. Dr. Bernier, who was called in, was told by Dr. Samson that he had given her adose of tincture of Colombo as an appetizer. The contents of the bottle were analyzed and found to contain a large percentage of strychnine. The prisoner repeated the statement after his wife's death that he had made a mistake in what he gave her. The crown will try to prove that Dr. Samson contradicted himself several times as to the antidotes he gave her; that they were an illmated couple, and that Dr. Samson had said that he would like to get rid of her.

The Jopling Brothers Acquitted Yesterday

His Lordship Justice Sir G. Falconbridge Gave the Accused Some Good Advice

After the morning spent yesterday in the celebrated Jopling case during which the contending counsel, Mr. Denison of Toronto, for the prosecution, and Mr. D. O'Connel for the defense, each addressed the jury at length, the case was handed over to the jury for their consideration at dinner time.

His lordship ascended the dais at 2 p.m., when the large court room was fairly well filled with spectators anxiously awaiting the verdict of the jury. The young Jopling brothers, Fred and Harry seemed to show little anxiety as to the result, and were seen several times to smile

At 2.10 the jury filed in. Dr. Middleton, foreman, asked by clerk of the court, W. Johnston, as to whether they found the prisoners guilty or not guilty replied, "Not guilty." His lordship told the prisoners to stand up and addressed them in these few words: "Fred and Harry Jopling, I have no means of knowing on what the jury bases their verdict, however I have a few words to say to you. I think the evidence was not sufficient to show any direct cause of death. You, Fred Jopling know yourself whether you did something or not to cause the death of young Bollard. After what you have suffered during the past few months. You, Harry Jopling, will remember hereafter to mind your own business and keep out of trouble You are both discharged.

The Jopling boys smilingly left the dock and received congratulations from a large number of friends and sympathisers present.

DRUNKEN PAINTERS!

The Fire Brigade on a Spree Last Night.

Clang, clatter, bang! Along Hunter street came the fire brigade.

Driving along ahead, oblivious of any danger, was a farmer in a ramshackle old buggy. P. C. Adams yelled at him: "Hi, there, look out! The fire department's coming."

Turning in by the curb the farmer watched the chief's buggy, and the hose cart whizz past. Then he turned out into the street again and drove on. Barely had he started when the hook and ladder came tearing along. The rear wheel of the big truck skewed into the farmer's buggy, smashing it into smithereens and sending the farmer sprawling into the gutter. The police officer ran to his assistance.

"Didn't I tell you to keep out of the way?" he demanded crossly. "Didn't I tell you the fire department was coming?"

"Wall, consarn ye," said the peeved farmer, "I did get outer the way for th' fire department. But what in tarnation was them drunken painters in sech an all-fired hurry fer?"

THE YELLOW METAL.

Sensational Gold Discoveries in the North.

Toronto, October 21.—The Ontario department of mines has just received reports of sensational gold discoveries in the district surrounding the township of Whitney. So great is the interest that already there are said to be over 500 prospectors in the field, according to the advices sent to the department. The route to these gold fields is by the Driftwood River, a tributary of the Abitibi. The field lies west of Night Hawk Lake, near Porcupine Lake. On the range of hills, whose valleys the East Main River drains into James Bay, mica, copper and gold deposits have been found by explorers; while on the banks of streams, extending even as far south as Sudbury, Ont., gold, silver, lead, copper, cobalt and other minerals have been found in paying quantities.

Just Touched the High Spots.

"Say! Do those firemen sit on the wagon all night," enquired a citizen last night as the hose wagon was flying along Hunter street, just touching the high spots. "Why the alarm is still sounding and the first wagon is crossing the Hunter street bridge, a good half mile from the fire hall. I guess that's 'some' fire department alright."

DYSPEPSIA CURED

Was Weak, Now Strong.

"For nearly three years," writes Mrs. Ferris Joye, of Sarnia, "I suffered the untold misery of dyspepsia I was brought up in the United States and attribute the weakened condition of my stomach to hasty eating and excessive ice water at meals. The morbid condition of my stomach affected my liver, and also affected my system in other ways. I suffered distress after eating, burning sensations after the food had passed from the stomach. My appetite would vary for days, having little, then it would seem as if I could not eat enough. Tonics and bitters failed and very severe constipation led me to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Can you imagine the joy after repeated failures to find a remedy that actually will cure. They are a wonderful pill in their action upon the stomach, liver and kidneys, and their mild action makes them all the more suited to people that are sick. I am well because of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I owe you a debt of gratitude for them."

Don't fail to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills — for general family use no medicine compares with them. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont

Outside the Fire Limits.

About 9 o'clock last night the fire department received a call to go to Auburn for a fire, but on arrival it was found to be outside the city limits, The north part of the city was illuminated to such an extent as to cause some alarm to citizens residing in that part of the city, and many persons from the north end who happened to be down town made for home in a hurry. As near as could be learned the fire was in the neighborhood of Lakefield.

Poured Oil Over Boy and Set Him Afire

Aneta, N.D., Oct. 21.—Citizens of Aneta today organized to hunt down two men who last night attempted to burn to death Kenneth McKenzie, aged 12, son of S. McKenzie, leader of the Reform Association here. The boy is believed to be fatally burned. While delivering meat for his father, he was met in the park by two men, who hurled him to the ground, poured oil from his lantern over him, and ignited it. The men fled.

Simon McKenzie has been prominent recently in a fight against the liquor element, and the deed has been ascribed to the hatred of that class against him.

The father is crazed over the condition of his son.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

DEATHLY CRAMPS. STOMACH WAS BLOATED.

A Bad Case That Proves Cramps and Stomach Disorders are Cured Fast by Nerviline.

In New Zealand when depression comes, the idle of the towns are sent to the bush to fell timber on govern ment land. One hundred and twenty men were sent out this way last July. They were, says the New Zealand correspondent of the British Empire Review, divided into groups of five or six. To each group was allotted a plot of forest to be cleared, and the money earned by each gang was shared equally by all the members of the same.

Conditions in Canada are so differ ent from those prevailing in New Zealand that exactly the same plan could hardly be worked out here, but there is at least an idea in the scheme that is worth considering. If labor could be made as fluid as capital there would be few idle hands; there is always work to be had at a living wage at least insomepart of the country.

THE TRENT CANAL.

That the completition of the Trent Canal will mean a vast debelopment of local as well as through traffic, is the opinion of many. Professor Emory R. Johnson, an authoritative writer on transportation conditions in the United States, says, in concluding his latest volume, that the rapid development of our internal waterways is certain. He gives the following facts to account for the strength of the waterways movement:

1. The internal commerce of the country is growing rapidly and is certain to increase with accelerating speed.

2. Waterways are to be regarded not only as competitors but as feeders and compliments of the railroads

3. The necessity for the development of our waterways is strengthened by the fact that there is little prospect of any considerable reductions in the cost of rail transportation.

4. Waterways will be more used for navigation because they are bound to be conserved for such other uses as water power and urban water supply.

The author believes that railroads will specialize their freight service in the future so as to provide quick service and delivery on schedule time. This tendency, already marked in European countries, has not show itself here yet, but seems certain to come. Since it will involve higher rather than lower freight rates, a fine field for the waterways to handle bulky traffic which does not require rapid movement. In short, the whole waterways forecast can be summed up in the general proposition that with increased population and developed industries the economy of employing railroads and waterways as complimentary transportation agencies also increases.

KING MANUEL'S VISIT.

The visit to England next month of King Manuel of Portugal may or may not be fraught with romantic significance. Dame Rumor has for some time coupled the name of the boy sovereign with that of her highness Princess Alexandra of Duff, and, in spite of inevitable contradictions, the approaching stay of his majesty with our own King will be taken as giving color to the gossip. The elder daughter of the Duke of Fife and the Princess Royal is one of the most popular of the scions of the ruling house. We are well aware that it is customary to refer to all princesses as beautiful and everything else that is superlative, but in the case of Princess Alexandra one need be no professional courtier to testify as to her charming personality. Being what she is, therefore, it is not unnatural that all British subjects should regard the plans for her future life as of more than ordinary moment. Dynastic and diplomatic expediency leave Dan Cupid very small scope where rotality is concerned, and the man or woman whom the throne shadows is too often shadowed also by the altar of self-sacrifice. But it is possible that in the present instance, where both parties to the putative alliance are still mere children, a mutual sympathy may already exist, if not a warmer feeling, which latter, under any circumstances, may develop from the first. Fortune at least regard Portugal and her fortunes with a friendly eye, as a result of the protection which we have accorded the little kingdom for so many years, and it is probable that the consummation of the matrimonial negotiations, if such really exists, will find favor with all classes, providing always that the loveliest of the king's grandchildren is not compelled to serve as a victim to the necessities of international policy.

ANGLO-INDIAN SOCIETY.

Salary Decides a Briton's Standing in the Orient.

Anglo-Indian society is strictly official. The male exile's status depends upon the number of rupees he draws each month from the Government. An "Assistant District Superintendent of Police" may be the younger son of a baronet, with on ancestry going back to the Conquest. But he must take in to dinner the Eurasian wife of the "Opium Wallah" — a "Government servant," who is paid a salary of similar dimensions. The "Collector," who gets the equivalent of a thousand pounds a year, is paired off with the sister of the officer commanding the local regiment. In all probability, the lady has a supreme contempt for the "civilian's" social standing, although her unpretentious parents may have kept a Bayswater boarding-house. In the large "stations," railway employes, tea and indigo planters, barristers and business men have a bowing acquaintance with the officers of the British infantry regiments, and they are welcomed in native infantry messes. British cavalry officers and their wives, however, seldom tolerate them, though impecunious subalterns (with an eye to the main chance) make a point of cultivating bank managers. Occasionally, the officers of one corps do not encourage friendly relations with those of another, the womenkind of these warriors being only too ready to obey the mandate. Under these circumstances, jovial Anglo-Indians who are anxious to make friends of everybody—from the "Commissioner" down to the "Acting Additional Traffic Manager," who occupies a lowly position in the railway office—loathe (with exceeding hate) Rawalpindi, Secundersbad, Bangalore, Lucknow, Meerut, and other large military "stations" where cliques abound.

The "Mem-Sahib" is not over-burdened with household duties. For many months in the year, the appalling heat (which reduces the liveliest lady to the verge of apathy, dispels any good intentions she may have formed. Besides, it is not customary for the mistress of the house to pry too closely into the uncleanly mysteries with which the native servants surround themselves. Even the strongest-minded "Mem" is staggered by the sights which await her in the "bowarchi whanah," as the kitchen is known. Nor is she encouraged to take an interest in her servants and their children. Should she condescendingly pat little Ahmed's fat cheeks, little Ahmed's papa will straightway accuse her of regarding his offspring with the "evil eye."

Bronze Statuettes.

An interesting exhibition of bronze statuettes by Anthony Van Wouw was inaugurated recently at the Fine Arts Society's galleries by Sir Richard Solomon, who deputed to Dr. Engelenburg, one of the South African delegates at the Imperial Press Conference, the task of introducing the personality of the Boer sculptor.

Anthony Van Wouw's nationality is betrayed by his subjects rather than by his style, which is the result of sound training in the European art centres. He has chosen his models from among his own people and the indigenous black races, whose varied types he renders with considerable realistic force. Nor is this realism confined to the faithful reproduction of racial characteristics; in several cases, as in the statuette of a "Kaffir Eating Mealies" and the pathetic group "Bad News," he endeavors, with marked success, to convey a suggestion of the arid, stony veldt. There is something of monumental dignity in his little seated figure of "Paul Kruger in Exile." Of peculiar interest are the two figures of "Voortrekkers," designed for the corners of the Kruger monument, which was commissioned from the artist before the outbreak of the war.

Lord Lonsdale's Bet.

There are few better all-round sportsmen in the Empire than the Earl of Lonsdale, who is taking such an active interest in the Travel and Sports Exhibition, due to open next month at Olympia. He rides, shoots, motors, boxes, yachts, and is an expert slipper of greyhounds. Horses, however, have been the hobby of his life, and on matters connected with them his opinions are of great value. Once Lord Lonsdale made a bet he would drive twenty miles in less than an hour. The roads were bad, but the weather was worse. For the first five miles his lordship drove a four-in-hand, a pair for another five miles, rode postilion of a pair for the next five, and completed the remainder of the distance by driving a single horse for the last stage. The entire journey was covered in four and a half minutes under the hour

Engine-Cleaner as an Artist.

Another romantic struggle for fame is illustrated by the career of Mr. Alfred Hudson, who has had a picture accepted for this year's Academy in London. He started life as an engine-cleaner, and in the course of time was promoted to his present post of chief clerk in the locomotive department of the Northeastern Railway at Leeds. He developed a passion for art, but had no money to purchase the necessary equipment. By exercising the strictest economy, however, he was able to save out of his wages sufficient to procure some brushes and paint. He has exhibited in different parts of the country.

A Witty Entry.

Mme. Ghosal, the daughter of the Maharajah of Cooch Behar, the Indian prince whose magnificent attire makes him one of the most picturesque figures at Court, can be very witty on occasions. Once, when staying at a country house, she was asked to write down a thought in an album, and seeing that someone had inscribed the somewhat sententious phrase, "Do right, and fear no man," she took the pen and promptly wrote underneath, "Don't write, and fear no woman."

STRANGE PEOPLES.

Denizens of Darkest Africa Described For Geographers.

Major R G T. Bright, C.M.G., gave an interesting account of survey and exploration in the Ruwensori and Lake region, Central Africa, before the Royal Geographical Society. The country described is in the neighborhood of the western border of the Uganda Protectorate and the Congo State. Maj. Bright gave some interesting details regarding the natives of the country through which the expedition passed. The people of Bavira were noticeable for their women wearing a particularly disfiguring ornament in their upper lips—an embellished wooden disc, from 2½ to 3 inches in diameter. These tribes bartered their food for beads and cloth, much preferring the latter, though they were but scantily clothed. The males wear a piece of cloth carried between the legs, with its ends tucked, both in front and behind, through a belt of bark or rope, and for ornaments ivory and wooden bracelets. With the women a bunch of weeds worn behind was all that was considered necessary, though their necks were encircled with many strings of different-colored beads. The young men and women dressed their hair with a mixture of light clay.

A finer and a darker race—the Lendu—was warlike and continually fighting amongst themselves or with anyone else they thought themselves strong enough to overcome. They were treacherous and would go to almost any extremes in their anxiety to obtain arms and ammunition. The district between the Congolese stations, Kasindi and Beni, Maj. Bright reported, was an ideal elephant country, and was tenanted by some large herds. The Etuli forest and the wooded slopes of Ruwensori formed veritable strongholds for elephant, while in the Toro Game Reserve devastated plantations and spoor testified to the numbers still living in and around the protected country. In the open country on the southern shore of Lake Albert, when the plains are marshy, elephant and buffalo roam over them. In the kingdom of Ankeli the population could be roughly classified as the Bahima, the aristocracy, and the Baero, the cultivators and serfs. The Bahima believed vaguely in an all-powerful Deity, who was associated mainly with rain, thunder, and other weather phenomena. They endeavored to propitiate various devils—most of whom were connected with the prevalent diseases—by erecting joss-houses, in which food and beer were placed. They invariably carried round the neck wooden charms or small goats' horns, which had been invested with magical power by the medicine man, and usually wore wire bracelets and anklets. The Bahima were a purely pastoral people. All forms of agriculture were held in contempt, and were relegated to their Baero servants.

The Baamba people living in the forest near the Etuli river were addicted to cannibalism of a particularly loathsome form. Families exchanged their young children, who were then eaten. The Baamba in many cases filed their teeth, but this practice was not quite general. They were a jovial people. A constant warfare went on between village and village. They are built on the top of a ridge, and a stout wooden stockade is erected round. Each village had a club-house, furnished with a few rough three-legged chairs, made of the forked boughs of a tree, on which the members lie: the men gathered there to talk and smoke.

Wifely Pride.

There is no telling what quaint turns wifely pride and devotion may take. Sir Melvill Beacheroft, whose work in connection with the London County Council is well-known, while waiting in a tenement house for the occupant of the first floor to admit him, chanced to overhear two women conversing on the stairs.

One remarked that her husband always wore a clean shirt every Sunday morning.

"Well, now," responded the other, "I never cares about Sundays, but I allays do see that 'e 'as a clean shirt Saturday afternoons, 'coz that's the time 'e is generally drinking, and when 'e does take 'is coat off to fight I do like to know 'e looks nice and clean.—M.A.P.

Easily Identified.

One of the peculiarities of Viscount Goschen is to pay surprise visits to the branches of the bank which he helps to control. Not long ago he entered a country branch and asked the clerk in charge to cash a cheque drawn by a friend, adding that both himself and friend were customers of the bank. When the clerk complied, Mr. Goschen, as he was then, read him a severe lesson on cashing cheques for strangers. "How do you know I came by the cheque honestly?" he asked. "I don't know," said the clerk; "but if anything went wrong your father would indemnify the bank against loss, and I always like to oblige a director." The said director had thought he was unknown.

Variety Artistes Salaries.

Exactly who is the highest-paid variety artiste next to Harry Lauder, who received close upon $4,000 a week while touring America, it is not easy to say. Miss Ada Reeve and Miss Vesta Tilley, however, must be very near the top. A recent law case revealed the fact that the former is accustomed to obtain engagements at $1,500 a week, while Miss Vesta Tilley's "turn" is placed at an even greater value. There are quite a number of variety artistes—Mr. Geo. Robey, "Little Tich," and Miss Marie Lloyd included—whose salaries range from $500 to $750 and more per week.

Queer Claret.

A party of miners calling at an inn in Llangollen during the absence of the landlord were shown into the best room, which, on his return, caused him to remonstrate. His wife, however, explained that a lot of money had been spent, and that seven bottles of claret had already been drunk. "Claret!" said he. "Why, I sold the last bottle the other day; you've been giving 'em catsup."

Important to Ladies.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of the face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at Oriental Hotel on Monday October 25.

IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

Now you should not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you?

Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?

Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns". And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "No help, No pay" contract.

I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails". Let others do the same—or else pass their prescriptions by.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys go wrong, then test Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I do not dose the Stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. Years ago I cast away that mistaken idea in medicine. The books below will best tell you how I am succeeding.

These books also tell of a tiny hidden "inside nerve," no larger than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until it fails, actually gives to the Heart its power, its tone, its never-ending motion or impulse.

These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how the Stomach, and Kidneys each have their "inside" or power nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize these weak or failing inside nerves. All of these facts tell why I am able to say, "It is free if it fails".

This is why I say "take no chance on a medicine whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer".

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to hand my medicines to the sick.

But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So drop me a line please—and thus save disappointment and delays. Tell me also which book you need.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailments. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

AWARDS HER BUT $40 A POUND.

She Asked $1,000 For for Flesh Lost Through Being Jilted.

Pittsburg, Oct. 21.—The jury trying the case of Miss Ludila Lowstetter, who sued Professor R. W. Reed of the Sheraden Public School for $25,000 damages, brought in a sealed verdict finding the defendant "guilty" and awarded Miss Lowstetter $1,000 damages.

Judge Thomas D. Carnahan advised the jurymen that in a civil court they could not find the defendant guilty or not guilty, but they would have to return a verdict finding in favor of the plaintiff. The jury took the papers back and followed out the judge's instructions.

Miss Lowstetter, a choir singer, prominent in educational and church circles of Sheraden, asserted in her bill against Professor Reed that he had refused to marry her in 1905 after ter ter he had promised to do so, and that she had lost twenty-five pounds in weight as a result, and prayed for $25,000 damages, or $1,000 a pound.

Attorney Thompson, for Professor Reed, said he would appeal the case.

HERO OF MAGERSFONTEIN.

Victoria Cross Cost Captain Towse His Eyesight.

Pathetic indeed was an incident which marked the recent inspection of the Gentlemen-at-Arms by the King. A tall, well-built, handsome soldier was carefully piloted before His Majesty by a fellow-officer. It was Captain E. B. B. Towse, V.C., whose eyes were shattered while leading a brilliant charge against the Boers during the South African war. The story of that charge will long live in the memories of the Gordon Highlanders, that regiment which has so many heroic deeds on its roll of honor, and to which Captain Towse belonged.

On April 30th, 1900, Captain Towse, with twelve men, took up a position on Mount Thaba. He was totally unsupported; but it was not thought any of the enemy were near. Suddenly, however, a party of Boers, over a hundred strong, who had also made for the position, appeared a hundred yards off. Seeing that they outnumbered the Highlanders, the Boers called upon Captain Towse to surrender.

His prompt reply was to give a ringing command to his men to fire and then charge, the Boers being now about forty yards distant. The sudden onslaught of these twelve intrepid Britishers, with their gallant leader, caused the Boers to waver and fall back; and thus the situation was saved.

But the victory was dearly bought; for the men, to their great grief, saw a bullet shatter the eyes of their captain, who has, consequently, never been able to look on the Cross of Valor which was duly awarded him.

Neither was this the only deed of gallantry performed by Captain Towse during the Boer war. Five months previously, on "Black Monday" (December 11th, 1899), at the disastrous battle of Magersfontein, when Lord Methuen fought 18,000 Boers with 11,000 men, with terrible loss, Captain Towse earned the title of the "Hero of Magersfontein." Concealed in their trenches, the Boers could not be driven out, and Lord Methuen was obliged to retire to the Modder River.

A terrible fire from rifles and pompoms at close range struck down one in five of the Highland Brigade under General Wauchope, who also fell, riddled with bullets. Colonel G. T. F. Downman, Captain Towse's commanding officer, was also struck down. But in spite of the hail of bullets Captain Towse hoisted the colonel on his back and bore him away. It was a gallant deed, well in keeping with the glorious traditions of the famous Gordons.

Rabbits in a Tree.

Walking with a friend the other day in Wilham Woods, near Oxford, I came across a litter of young rabbits in a tree. It was an oak, with a hole at the base about the size of an ordinary rabbit-hole. We pulled ourselves up the tree to about eight feet from the ground, and found ourselves standing on a mass of mould and decayed wood which seemed to fill the inside of the trunk. On one side was a hollow branch, and at the end of the branch a rabbit's nest containing young rabbits. About a foot from the branch and slightly to one side was an opening which obviously led from the hole at the base of the tree. It would have meant a very steep ascent for the rabbits unless the way up took the form of a spiral. The nest in the branch must have been quite nine feet above ground.—G. C. Vansell, in The Field.

Thomas Hardy and the Stage.

At one time Mr. Thomas Hardy, who has just entered upon his seventieth year, had serious thoughts of devoting himself to dramatic authorship. He is an enthusiastic playgoer, and at one time took a flat in London for three or four months of the year so that he might attend the theatres. As an illustration of the dependence of the author upon the actor, Mr. Hardy tells a good story of "Walker, London," J. M. Barrie's first play, which was produced by J. L. Toole. He witnessed a performance of the play in Barrie's company, and several times found occasion to congratulate the author upon the dialogue, laughing freely and exclaiming, "That's a good thing." But, as sure as he did so, Barrie would reply, in a melancholy tone, "Ah, that's not mine; that's Toole's. There's a good deal that's new since I was last here."

A Famous Sea Painter.

A curious feature of the work of that clever marine painter, Mr. W. L. Wyllie, R.A., who celebrated his fifty-eighth birthday on July 6th, is the use he makes of the telescope. By this means he contrives to bring to his easel an astonishingly large area of shipping. During the Russo-Japanese war, for instance, Mr. Wyllie made an elaborate painting of the Japanese battleship Fuji when she was seven miles away. At the same time Mr. Wyllie more often than not studies ships at close quarters from his yacht, for he is an enthusiastic sailer, as befits a man whose studio is on the very edge of the narrow entrance to Portsmouth harbor.

Origin of the Postmark.

Great Britain claims the distinction of having originated the postmark. The first one, employed in London as long ago as 1680, was an extremely simple affair, consisting merely of a small circle divided into two parts. At the top there were two letters indicating the month, while in the lower half of the circle was shown the day of the month. No provision was made for indicating the year or the hour of the day. It is only by the date of the letters themselves whereon the mark was impressed that it is possible to fix the date of its use.—Sunday Magazine.

How the West Grows.

An idea of the methods used in colonizing western Canada may be gained from record of the Township of Hutton, where less than five weeks ago fertile soil was undisturbed by plow, but is now the home of no fewer than 56 hustling American families busy cultivating land and building homes.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect were more practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed especially to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

Widows' Caps.

Widows' caps are as old as the days of Julius Caesar. An edict of Tiberius commanded all widows to wear one under the penalty of a heavy fine and imprisonment.

Shooting Flying Birds.

In Smith's "History of Kerry," published in 1754, is found the statement that the art of shooting flying birds was taught to the Irish people by the French refugees who came over after the revocation of the edict of Nantes and that to this circumstance is due the decline and disappearance of falconry.

Bicycles.

The first bicycle with pedals was made about 1840.

St. Paul's, New York.

The oldest public building in New York is St. Paul's chapel, at the corner of Broadway and Fulton street. It was built in 1766, ten years before the Declaration of Independence.

A Nincompoop.

A nincompoop was originally a person of unsound mind (non compos mentis).

England Is Exclusive.

The Victoria cross has never been awarded to a woman. It is not designed for female decoration. In Germany heroines are decorated with the iron cross and in France with the Legion of Honor.

Land and Water.

There is three times as much sea as land in the world.

Hats Were Once a Luxury.

In the reign of Elizabeth the wearing of hats was considered a sign of luxury. By an act of parliament every person above the age of seven years and under a certain degree was obliged on Sundays and holidays to wear a woolen cap made in England and finished by some of the fraternity of cappers.

There are five kinds of personal taxes levied in Holland, as follows: Government tax, including business and income tax, and capital tax, city income tax and provincial tax.

Haydn's Drum.

The drum which Haydn once played at a festival in 1740 is still preserved in Hamburg.

The Boomerang.

The Australian aborigines are not the only users of the boomerang, nor were they the first to use that missile. The Egyptians knew all about it, just as they seem to have known all about everything else.

The Gravitation Theory.

The theory of gravitation is a discovery attributed to Newton and bears date of 1687 notwithstanding that the same idea was advanced by Kepler seventy years before.

Great Britain's Crown.

The present crown of Great Britain was constructed in 1838 with jewels taken from old crowns and others furnished by command of the queen. It contains 4 large pear shaped pearls, 273 small pearls, 147 table diamonds, 1,273 rose diamonds, 1,363 brilliant diamonds, 5 rubies, 11 emeralds and 17 sapphires.

"Gimme some of that prune pie."

"Hon, you've had two kinds of pie already."

"Then another kind won't matter. There's only one kind of stomach ache."

RELICS OF ANTIQUITY

BRITISH SOCIETY MAKES BIG DISCOVERIES AT THEBES.

Professor Petrie Tells of His Excavations in Egypt—Palace of Pharaoh Mentioned in Bible by Jeremiah Is Found at Memphis—Golden Ornaments Are Found Along With Mummy.

An interesting lecture describing the work of the British School of Archaeology in Egypt during the last season was delivered by Professor Petrie the other evening at University College.

The work was divided into two portions. During the early part of the season extensive explorations were made in the hitherto unexplored valleys of Qurneh, the country of Thebes, and several most valuable finds were made.

One of the most interesting of these was the discovery of an undisturbed tomb of the period of the eleventh dynasty, B.C. 2800, and of a curious Osiris chapel of a king named Sankhka-ra. More important was the find of an untouched tomb of the seventeenth dynasty, about B.C. 1600—the simple furniture of which was very remarkable. Among the objects were a number of vases with a string network of most remarkable fineness, by which they were attached to a carrying pole, like a milkman's yoke. String bags of wonderful workmanship were also found and a chair of pretty design, with a knotted string seat.

The tomb in which the mummy was found was evidently that of some person of importance, for a gold necklace, gold bangles, and a girdle of curious Nubian pattern were found. There was found also a small private temple, built by a high priest named Nebunnef, who associated himself with Rameses II.

At the end of one of the waddies leading into the desert as a moslem sheik's tomb, near to it were small mud houses and jars of offerings containing water and food—a curious survival of the ancient customs.

At Memphis the work was directed to the exploration of a large mound over sixty feet in height, and which will take many years to dig out. At a depth of about ten feet the remains of a large edifice—about 400 feet long by 200 feet broad, with massive walls fifteen feet high—was discovered. It proved to be the palace of Apiries, or the Pharaoh Hophra of the Bible, B.C. 600, who is mentioned by Jeremiah. It was a large edifice, consisting of many halls, or rooms, and two very large quadrangles, as well as servants' quarters, and in these latter were the fireplaces and ovens for cooking the royal dinners.

The central hall was a large space about 100 feet square, which had been covered by a cedar wood roof, supported on columns 50 feet high. A large gateway, built of older material of the time of the twelfth dynasty, was found, the walls of which bore a series of interesting sculptures, representing the installation of the crown prince as vice ruler. During the excavation of the palace very large quantities of scale armor were found, much of it of very fine work, in steel, iron and bronze, probably borne by the Greek mercenaries of the king, and which had been hastily thrown away.

One of the most beautiful finds here was a silver-and-gold rest of a royal palanquin. It was of solid silver, weighing nearly two pounds, and in the centre was a head of the goddess Hathor, with a gold face and with a bronze wig inlaid with gold and blue—one of the finest works of art ever discovered. The exploration of the Temple of Ptah produced many interesting objects, among them a number of terra cotta heads of foreigners who had come to Memphis during the Persian rule—Europeans with the curious Spanish matador feature and side whiskers, Kurians with their cockscomb hat, as described by Herodotus.

Very remarkable were two heads, with very modern turbans and distinctly Afghan features, no doubt Parthian allies of the Persian king. Two temples of Meneptah, the Pharaoh of the Exodus, have been found. The discovery of the palace mound is most important, for no doubt stratified under it are the ruined palaces of many dynasties, perhaps even that of Menes himself.

A Romantic Gift.

An altar frontal, which has just come into the possession of the Roman Catholic Church of St. John's, near Norwich, England, has a pathetic interest attaching to it. About 18 months ago Col. Noyes died suddenly while on his honeymoon. His young grief-stricken widow sent her bridal robe to the nuns of a convent in Bloomsburg, where four skilled embroiderers have been engaged upon it ever since. The altar frontal is eight feet long and four feet deep, and it is designed in three panels, depicting beautifully executed figures. The first of these is an allegorical likeness of the late Col. Noyes, who is represented as a mediaeval knight. The arms and motices of Col. Noyes and of the widow's family are embroidered over the panels.

Explanation Called For.

Alfred (whose sporting opportunities have been limited by parental decree)—Papa, what does it mean by base on balls?

Papa (who is reading an account of the latest heavyweight fight)—Alfred, you could better employ yourself with your Sunday school lesson. I'm too busy now to explain.

Alfred (still thirsting for knowledge)—Did it mean the same as base on balls when you telephoned last night that as mamma was away you were going out on a bat?

Mamma (who is always listening)—Benjamin Ridgely, you will take time right now to make two explanations, with the most important one coming to me.

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with amazing success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it's constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

BARNUM'S METHODS.

The Showman Always on the Alert For an Advertisement.

One morning the newspapers announced that grave fears were entertained for the safety of an agent of Barnum's big show who had gone to Africa to seek attractions for it in their native lairs. News had come, it was said, that he had last been heard from in a predicament from which escape was practically impossible. It was a very sad piece of business altogether.

Mr. Barnum was at a hotel in New York city at the time, and there a relative of the unfortunate agent found him entertaining a squad of reporters with a most interesting version of the African tragedy. The caller knew his man and waited patiently until the interviewers had departed. Then he anxiously asked for news.

"Oh, don't be worried," said the showman. "I've just got intelligence that he's safe and sound and will be back here in a few weeks."

"But he has a great many friends here," objected the visitor, "and this report of his death will cause them much sorrow."

Mr. Barnum looked solemn for an instant, and then he chuckled. "Well," he exclaimed cheerfully, "just think of this—they'll be all the happier when he gets back here alive."

SEA MONSTERS OF OLD.

The Marine Monster That Was Thought to Cause Tidal Waves.

The kraken was one of the sea monsters of old, and if all the stories told about its wondrous size and doings are true it overshadowed the serpent as much as the latter does the common garter snake. An old writer says that this marine giant caused tidal waves by swallowing a goodly part of the waters of the ocean and then belching them out again. He also makes mention of the fact that its gigantic horny beak was often mistaken for mountain peaks suddenly shoved into sight by the internal convulsions of the earth.

Bishop Pontoppidan, a truthful member of the Copenhagen Royal academy, is much more conservative in his estimates of its size, giving it as his opinion that they were seldom found more than "the half of an Italian mile in length and not larger in diameter than the cathedral at The Hague."

He also says that its body was frequently mistaken by sailors for an island, "so that people landed upon it and were engulfed in a maelstrom of water when the creature sank to its hidden ocean den." Other authorities testify that its beak from the eyes to the point "was longer than the mainmast of a man-of-war."

The Sewing Machine.

The invention of the sewing machine is one of the most interesting evolutionary romances in the history of human progress. Stone, Henderson and Greenough had experimented extensively with the double pincher idea, one to seize the needle below and one above. Hellmann used a double pointed needle, with the eye in the center, and Thimmonier and Ferraud had invented a chain stitch machine. In 1834 Walter Hunt originated the extension arm idea with a needle similar to the one now in general use, but before he applied for his patent in 1854 he had been forestalled by Elias Howe, who will always be known as the inventor of the sewing machine. If Hunt had not been so great a laggard he might have won fame as an inventor, but Howe is entitled to all the credit that has been given him. Like all great inventions, however, the sewing machine was the product of many minds.

Throwing the Shoe.

The peasants of southern France have the credit of originating the familiar custom of throwing an old shoe after the newly wedded pair. It was, moreover, the rejected suitor who first made it popular. The peasant bride is conducted by her friends to her new home, while the young husband is made to halt a couple of hundred yards from the house. If there is a rejected suitor he then arms himself with an old wooden shoe and flings it, with his best aim, at the bridegroom as he makes a dash for the house. When the shoe is thrown it is understood that the last feeling of ill will has been flung away with it.

An Easy One.

Billfuss—If I had $3 and you asked me to lend you two, how much would I have left? Jubb—Oh, I know the answer to that. You would still have $3 left, granting it were possible that you ever had that much at one time, because you wouldn't lend me any. Ask me something probable.—Pathfinder.

One on Papa.

Caller—Harold, when you get to be the head of a family what will you say to your children when they are naughty? Harold—Oh, I'll do like papa. I'll tell them how good I was when I was a kid.

Cheap Living.

She—I'm living on brown bread and water to improve my complexion. He—How long can you keep it up? She—Oh, indefinitely, I guess. He—Then let's get married.

Result of Rashness.

"Out of a job, are you?" asked the first girl. "Boss catch you flirting?"

"No; I caught the boss. Say, what sort of a wedding dress do you think is real swell?"

Truly this world can go on without us, if we would but think so.—Longfellow.

The Word "Fiasco."

"Fiasco" originally meant a bottle or a flask. When the Italian glassblowers detected flaws in the vases they were blowing they made an ordinary bottle of the failure, and hence the name.

Spices.

Ginger is the most wholesome spice, mace, cinnamon and nutmeg the most delicate, while allspice has a coarser flavor and one disliked by many. White mustard and celery seed give an appetizing flavor.

Nutshells.

Save nutshells in an old paper bag until some time when you want something to brown very quickly in the oven. Then throw them on the fire and get the full benefit of the quick, intense heat.

The Flathead Indians.

In 1832 four Indians of the Flathead tribe, living on the Pacific coast, crossed the Rocky mountains and, traversing 3,000 miles of intervening wilderness, appeared at St. Louis. They had been sent by their nation to inquire about the white man's God.

Humor In Old Wills.

A certain Lieutenant-Colonel Nash left an annuity to the bell-ringers of Bath to "toll dolefully" on each anniversary of his wedding day, and contrite Mr. Withipol of Waltham-stow left the bulk of his property to his wife, "trusting," he says—"yes, I may say as I think, assuring myself—that she will marry no man for fear to meet with so evil a husband as I have been to her."

Mr. Jasper Mayne at least considered himself witty when he bequeathed to his valet a wornout portmanteau, as it contained something, said the will, which would make him drink. The excited valet ripped open the trunk and found a red herring in it. So, doubtless, did the Scotch gentleman who in 1877 left to his son's care his two worst watches, "because," he said, "I knew he is sure to dissect them."—St. James' Gazette.

A Willing Scot.

Dean Ramsay has a story of that border hostility between English and Scots which used to go to bitter lengths. A Scottish drover was returning from the south in particularly bad humor with the English, having done poor business, when he saw in Carlisle a notice offering a reward of £50 to any one who would volunteer for the unpopular task of hanging a condemned criminal. Seeing his chance to make up for his bad market and comforting himself with the thought that he was unknown there, he did the job and got his fee. As he was leaving he was taunted as a beggarly Scot, doing for money what no Englishman would. But he answered, with a cheerful grin, "I'll hang ye a' at the price."

Ways to an Untimely End.

The catalogue of the ways and means employed by otherwise sensible people to incur the risk of disease and an untimely end include running to catch trolley cars, breathing rapidly through the mouth instead of deeply through the nose, eating too hastily and overeating, "slouching" instead of standing and walking in an erect attitude, using unnecessary stimulants, failing to exterminate the pestilential housefly, which goes blithely about carrying the germs of disease; sleeping in ill ventilated rooms and failing to protect food from flies and other insects by proper screening.

Hard Luck.

Bob Footlite (actor)—Failure? I should think it was! The whole play was ruined. She—Gracious! How was that? Bob Footlite—Why, at the end of the last act a steam pipe burst and hissed me off the stage.

The Telegraph.

The first royal speech transmitted by telegraph was that delivered by the late Queen Victoria when she opened parliament on Nov. 15, 1857. The speed of transmission was fifty-five words a minute.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—18 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

Mill tests have proved that half of the values can be saved on the plates, and the remainder concentrate readily into a smelting product.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $600. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

This is the last opportunity for the investor to get an interest in this safe and conservative mining venture.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

400 FOOT TUNNEL—140 FOOT SHAFT

Mines located near Valardena, Durango, Mexico only six miles by wagon road and three miles straight line from the property of the Guggenheims upon which they have recently erected a $2,000,000 smelter. Sample assays have averaged from $54 to $102 per ton.

Up to the present time, the Turquoise Copper Co., has been practically a close corporation; an initial offering of 100,000 shares has just been made at 25 cents, par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable. Proceeds will be used to further continue the development work already begun.

We have options on 50,000 shares of this stock and advise immediate purchase at 25 cents per share. It is the intention of The Board of Directors to list the stock on the New York Curb and it should sell at $1.00 per share by the first of the year.

QUINQUENNIAL ECHOES.

Toronto Ladies Still Talk of Their Strong-Minded Guests.

If the half were to be printed of what is being told about delegates to the Quinquennial Council in Toronto that town would not contain the writing thereof. There were adequate daily reports as to how the council occupied its business hours, but the private lives of its members while there is a subject which has been left to gossip, and some funny stories are gaining currency.

Some of the European visitors stopped at other points on their way to Toronto, and it is said that a Montreal family, returning to the city for a brief sojourn in their town house in preparation of their visit to the city, found entirely to their surprise, a prominent Teutonic delegate to the council occupying their house and bossing their servants. They deprecated her untimely arrival during their absence and the upset condition of the house, and assured her of their complete surprise. But their guest comforted her involuntary entertainers with the assurances of the great comfort of her entertainment, and her intention to remain until it was time to move on. Meeting later on in Toronto, the German lady was equally candid in informing the Montreal people that she was not being half so well entertained in the Queen City.

There is an old cricket story, which saw the light in the times when cricket matches never extended into the second day, about some Englishmen exiled to France, who desired to alleviate their homesickness by indulgence in the national game. They accepted a free lease from a wealthy landowner near the town of a portion of his pasture, and soon came to feel so much at home that their secretary wrote their benefactor requesting him to remove his cows from their cricket field. Some of the delegates must have been descended from these old cricketers.

A Toronto lady who bears a foreign name, but yields in loyal British sentiment to no one in the Empire, was called upon to entertain a lady from over the seas and one daughter. The expected guest risked the privilege of bringing another daughter, and eventually turned up with three daughters and a maid. No doubt the hospitable hostess, who has never whined under the hardships of synod times, began to understand why the quartering of soldiers used to be unpopular, and has ceased to be customary, especially when her enterprising guests turned her out of her own room.

Niagara's Age.

According to Mr. Spencer, of the Canadian Geological Survey, the grand spectacle of Niagara Falls, as we see it to-day, has been about 30,000 years in the making. Mr. Spencer, in common with other geologists who have studied Niagara, believes that originally the cataract fell into Lake Ontario over three steps, or platforms, the first being 35 feet high, and the third being at or near the edge of the lake proper, instead of seven miles back up the river as at present. It took the stream 35 000 years to hollow out the first three miles of the gorge, but only 4,000 years for the other four miles. The difference of time in these two stages of the erosion, and of the cataract's upstream of seven miles in all, is explained on the theory of a sudden and enormous increase of the volume of water, caused by seismic disturbance, or earthquake.

Formerly the Niagara River served as outlet to Lake Erie only. After the upheaval, the waters of Lakes Huron, Michigan, and Superior, which previously had debouched directly into Lake Ontario, were diverted into Lake Erie into the Niagara River, swelling that stream to six times its former volume. Mr. Spencer's figures, of course, can be taken only approximately, as even contemporary authorities are at variance as to how the Falls of Niagara have receded during the past fifty years—some estimates making it 1.2 metres per annum, others 1.52. Moreover, while the U.S. Geological Survey declares that the rate of recession of the Falls has increased during the last fifteen years, the corresponding Canadian official report shows that the rate has decreased some 66 centimetres per annum.

Elevators and Flour Mills.

The Department of the Interior has recently issued a map of that part of Canada lying west of the Great Lakes, showing the positions of grain elevators and flour and oatmeal mills, together with tables showing their individual and collective capacity. In the three provinces of Manitoba, Alberta, and Saskatchewan there are 660 grain elevators, with an aggregate capacity of 43,866,900 bushels. The terminal elevators at Lake Superior have a capacity of 20,182,700 bushels, and there are also transfer elevators at eastern points with a capacity of 14,286,000 bushels. Thus the total elevator capacity of Western Canada amounts to 78,016,140 bushels. Manitoba has 50 flour and oatmeal mills, with a daily capacity of 17,325 barrels; Saskatchewan has 26 mills, with a possible daily output of 3,325 barrels; while Alberta has 17 mills, with a possible daily output of 1,530 barrels.

Fish Freights.

In order to encourage the developments of the Canadian fishing industry on the Pacific coast, where the bounty system prevailing in the Atlantic provinces does not obtain, the Dominion Government recently passed an Order-in-Council granting a bonus equal to a rebate of one-third of the express freight rates on all shipments of fish billed from Vancouver by Canadian fishing companies or Canadian fishermen to any point in Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba. This rebate or bonus applies to any variety of sea-fish caught in Canadian waters, including salmon, halibut, oysters, crabs, and clams.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

PROMPT JUSTICE.

The Magistrate Was Firm and Tried to Be Genial.

In the "History of Beverly," Mass., the following anecdote is related of a good justice of the peace in the old colonial times. On a cold night in winter a traveler called at his house for lodging. The ready hospitality of the justice was about being displayed when the traveler unluckily uttered a word which his host considered profane.

Upon this he informed his guest that he was a magistrate, pointed out the nature of the offense and explained the necessity of its being expiated by sitting an hour in the stocks.

Remonstrance was unavailing, for custom at that time allowed the magistrate to convict and punish at once, and in this case he acted as accuser, witness, jury, judge and sheriff, all in one.

Cold as it was, our worthy justice, aided by his son, conducted the traveler to the place of punishment, an open place near the meeting house where the stocks were placed. Here the traveler was confined in the usual manner, the benevolent executor of the law remaining with him to beguile the time of its tedium by edifying conversation.

At the expiration of the hour he was reconducted to the house and hospitably entertained till the next morning, when the traveler departed with, let us hope, a determination to consider his words more carefully before giving them utterance in the hearing of a conscientious magistrate.

JAPAN'S PAGODAS.

They Are Built to Resist the Shock of an Earthquake.

A remarkable fact in Japan is that pagodas built hundreds of years ago embody the principle of the modern seismograph, which is to minimise the effect of earthquake motion by the combination of an inverted pendulum with an ordinary pendulum, or, in other words, by the union of a stable and an unstable structure to produce a neutral stability which renders the whole building least sensible to earthquake shock.

In the hollow well of every five storied pagoda a heavy mass of timber is suspended freely, like an exaggerated tongue, from the top right to the ground, but not in contact with it, and at the shock of an earthquake this large pendulum slowly swings and the structure sways and then settles back safely upon its base.

This is also the principle followed in the construction of all bell towers throughout Japan, where the bell acts as pendulum, and the roof, supported by posts, forms an inverted pendulum, as in the seismograph.

When an earthquake occurs a pagoda or a bell tower may be rotated or displaced, but it cannot be overturned as a whole.—Wide World Magazine.

THE MOLSONS BANK

Fifty-fourth Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders Held Yesterday.

A VERY SATISFACTORY YEAR

Directors' Report Adopted, and Retiring Board Was Unanimously Re-elected.

The fifty-fourth annual general meeting of The Molsons Bank was held in the Board Room of the institution at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The President, Mr. Wm. Molson Macpherson, occupied the chair, and others in attendance were: Messrs. S. H. Ewing, Vice-President; George E. Drummond, W. M. Ramsay, H. Markland Molson, Alderman A. D. Fraser, S. W. Ewing, A. G. Watson, C. E. Sprague, George Durnford, E. K. Greene, A. Piddington, James Elliot (General Manager), and A. D. Durnford.

The President, having called the meeting to order, requested Mr. A. D. Durnford to act as secretary, and that gentleman read the notice convening the meeting.

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

The General Manager, Mr. James Elliott, then read the annual report of the Directors, as follows:

Your Directors present to the Shareholders this their fifty-fourth annual report and statement of the affairs of The Molsons Bank as on the 30th September, 1909:

The net profits for the year amount to $463,479.69. From this have been paid quarterly dividends of 2½ per cent., each, $350,000; taxes, $17,442.69; to Officers' Pension Fund, $10,000 and expended on branch premises, $11,952.27, leaving $104,084.73 to be added to Profit and Loss Account balance making it $257,769.13.

Business during the first part of the year was depressed—the demand for money less than for the previous year—rates therefore declined, which accounts for decreased earnings.

There is, however, owing to this year's good Western harvest, a prospect of much increased business for the coming year throughout the whole country.

Your Directors have deemed it advisable to make alterations and improvements in several of our branch premises, to erect new buildings at Fraserville, Morrisburg and Revelstoke, besides purchasing the premises occupied by us at Forest, Lethbridge, and Woodstock. This involves a considerable outlay, and to cover, you will notice $100,000 has been added to Bank Premises Account, making it $600,000.

Branches have been opened during the year at Lethbridge Alta.; Forest Ont; Lambton Mills, Ont.; Kirkton, Ont.; Camrose, Alta.; Pierreville, Que and Westminster Avenue Branch, Vancouver, B.C.

The Bank has suffered a heavy loss in the sad death of our esteemed director, Mr. W. C. McIntyre. His energy and devotion to the interests of the Bank were of much value.

In Mr. C. B. Gordon, who has been appointed to the Board, the Bank has secured the advice and support of an experienced merchant and manufacturer.

The Officers of the Bank have satisfactorily performed their duties.

WM. MOLSON MACPHERSON
President.

The President made a very interesting address and gave some interesting figures regarding the large increase in bank deposits throughout Canada during the past year, and concluded:

If any shareholders have any questions to ask, I shall be glad to answer them, and in the meantime I beg to move the adoption of the report.

The motion was seconded by the Vice-President, and was unanimously concurred in.

Dr. Pulkinghorn, dentist, who has been practising in Peterborough for the past year and who previously practised in Deseronto, has announced that he will cease his practice here after November 1st. The doctor's health has not been of the best the last few years on account of close confinement and he has been advised to give up for a few years at least. Books for the Fire Hall.

Yesterday Rev. Dr. Langfeldt presented the local fire hall with a large number of books to form thenucleus of a library for use of the members of the brigade. This presentation was most welcome to the brigade and it is to be hoped that the reverend donor's act in giving these books may be emulated by many others of our citizens. Chief Howard, who tak es a great interest not only in fire fighting and appliances appertaining thereto, but also in the welfare of his men, noted to The Times yesterday that books or magazines given to the fire hall would be most welcome to him and his men.

VOL. XXXII NO. 248 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, SATURDAY OCTOBER 23. 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

Two Drowned and Three were Burned

BURNED TO DEATH.

Robert McIntyre, Calabogie, Ont.
Mrs. McIntyre, mother of Robert.
Mr. Watt, Calabogie, Ont.

PERSONS DROWNED.

Daniel Keeley, Wolfe Island, Ont.
Metz Weaver, Wolfe Island, Ont.

Kingston, Oct. 22.—A message from Calabogie, Ont., on the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, says it is thought there that two or possibly three lives were lost in the destruction of a dwelling by fire last night.

Robert McIntyre and his mother are supposed to have perished.

A skull has been found in the smouldering ruins.

Very meagre details of the affair have been received as Calabogie is about ninety miles from here. The agent of the Kingston and Pembroke Railroad, however, has wired that no particulars are known as to the origin of the fire, but that what are supposed to be the remains of three human beings have been found in the ruins.

It is learned that the third person in the house at Calabogie was John Watt. An inquest will be held as soon as the coroner can arrange details. The house burned was a very comfortable log building. Mrs. McIntyre, sr., was well advanced in years.

TWO FISHERMEN DROWNED.

Kingston, Oct. 22.—Daniel Kelley and Metz Weaver, two well-known Wolfe Island fishermen, are supposed to have been drowned crossing from Cape Vincent, N.Y.

Last night their upturned boat was found on the island.

A fierce southerly wind blew hereabouts.

Daniel Keeley was 65 years old, and Metzler Weaver 50 years old. Their boat was found late on Thursday night pounding upon the shores of Carleton Island.

The two men were well known fishermen, men who had lived all their lives on the water, men who knew every channel and every current in the river in storm or calm. All their efforts and years of experience came to naught in the fierce gale of Thursday, and their attempt to cross the same way they had crossed time and again ended disastrously.

The wind had been blowing a gale from the south for some hours, and the river was lashed into foam, the waves rolling and breaking over one another with great force.

Keeley leaves a widow and four children, a son named Roy, and three daughters, two of whom are married and lived on the island.

Weaver is an unmarried man, whose only relatives live in Cape Vincent, where he also lived until a few years ago.

This afternoon on the arrival of the steamer America from Cape Vincent it was learned that the fishermen started from Cape Vincent at one o'clock on Thursday in a sailboat. It was half way across the river when the men were seen to haul down the sail, owing to the tossing of the frail craft. Immediately afterwards the boat went down into the trough of the sea and disappeared. Late in the evening the boat was found on Carpenter's Point. The fish box and pipe of Weaver was found under the seat as well as his coat. Every available boat, both of Cape Vincent and on Wolfe Island, are out today to locate the bodies. The family of Keeley on the island, are prostrated over the melancholy event.

Golf Championship is Being Played Off

The championship of the Peterborough Golf Club is being played off. The contestants being Mr. Sam Ray vs. Rev. Henderson, 36 holes will be played, 18 of which were played yesterday, and 18 will be played today. Mr. Sam Ray was four holes up on yesterday's playing.

"Perfectly Absurd Verdict and a Terrible Fall-Down"

SAYS MR. G. T. BLACKSTOCK.

Toronto. Oct., 22.—"There are no circumstances that would lead to the conclusion that it was an act which would only be chargeable as manslaughter. Reducing a charge from Murder to manslaughter does not rest with the jury. The law says that the crime is murder and the circumstances which are detailed circumstances which are detailed here do not seem to point in any way to any less crime than murder, such as is charged in the indictment.

ABOLISH TRIAL BY JURY.

These were the concluding words of Mr. Justice Magee to the jury, who were trying Mrs. Turner on the charge of murder. Two hours and a half later, in the face of this charge, they had brought in a verdict of "manslaughter," and fifteen hours later the Grand Jury brought in a presentment to the same judge, recommending the abolition of trial by jury.

The "manslaughter" verdict in the Turner case, after the collapse of any plan for defence witnesses, overshadowed in public interest, the opening proceedings in the Blythe trial, and was the subject of conversation even in the court room itself.

A TERRIBLE FALL DOWN.

Mr. George Tate Blackstock, who had described the killing of the infant child of Mrs. Authors as a case of "blue, black murder or nothing," was very emphatic in a comment to the press at noon today:

TO ORGANIZE QUEEN'S ALUMNI.

Rev. Prof. Laird Met With a Number of Graduates of Queen's.

The Rev. Prof. Robert Laird, M. A., of Queen's University, arrived in the city last night, and met with a number of graduates of that university, with a view to organizing a Queen's Alumni Association. The Rev. Jas. Wallace of Lindsay, Richard Lees, M.A., and Mr. E. L. Good will, B.A., were appointed a committee with power to add to their number, to further the interests of the organization.

Miss Agnes Sproule, who speaks in the Grand Opera House tomorrow afternoon will be the guest of Mrs. G. K. Martin, 694 Water street.

MR. ELLIOTT'S ENTERPRISE.

Proprietor of the Beehive is Making Improvements.

Mr. T. C. Elliott, proprietor of the Beehive, is making extensive improvements in his handsome premises on George street. The upper flats over both stores are being turned into departments, and a fine new passenger elevator is being put in. When completed the premises will be very fine, and will compare favorably with any in the city.

T.A.S. AT HOME.

Will Be Held on Monday Evening Next—Thanksgiving Day.

St. Peter's T.A.S. will hold an "at home" on the evening of Thanksgiving Day, Monday, October 25th. The committee have been making arrangements for some time and have prepared a program which should be much enjoyed. Apart from the "at-home" the Stratton-Spaulding trophy, which was won by the baseball team during the summer will be presented to the victors. A large attendance is looked forward to and a pleasant time may be anticipated.

THE LANTERN BURST.

Cause of the Fire on Thursday Night Near Lakefield.

Yesterday The Times referred to a fire which took place outside the corporation on Thursday night. It appears the following are the facts: Mr. Edward Feeley, who lives outon the Lakefield road, while in the barn after dark, had the misfortune to have the lantern which he carries burst, with the result that the entire building and contents were soon in flames. Mr. Feeley had barely time to get out a team of horses.

The fire was distinctly seen from Peterborough. The barn was owned by J. T. O'Connell of Peterborough. It is understood that it is covered by insurance. Mr. Feeley is reported to have had the contents partially covered.

"LOST HIS GRIP."

Grew Dull; Lost Snap, vim.

A man never realizes the strain of life until failing ability to work brings it sharply home to him. "I am an insurance agnet," writes Mr. W. E. Nemino, of Montreal, and to make commissions a man must have both energy and snap. My digestive organs began to give out; first a sluggish action of the bowels filled my blood with humors. A little scratch would fester and my face get red and pimply. Hot rushes of blood to the head made me very irritable and prevented sleep. I thought I could exercise it off, but the more I did, the more strength I lost. Finally I asked my druggist to recommend a pill that would cure constipation and slow acting liver—he endorsed Dr. Hamilton's. The first dose told me he had hit it right. So active yet so mild in action—no trouble to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I think them a wonder. I am now as fat as ever, blues all gone, energy enough to get business and give me pleasure and interest in life. Dr. Hamilton's Pills I consider a wonder."

Refuse any other pill but Dr. Hamilton's. 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

China Forced Into the Position of a World Power

The Diplomatic Advances that China Has Made in Late Years has been the Result of Wars with Foreign Countries

London, Oct. 22.—It is only through much tribulation and in spite of her own strenuous opposition that China has been forced into the position of a world power. Barely 70 years ago China first entered into diplomatic relations with European states by virtue of the treaty of Nanking. Since that time the rusty door of communication with the outer world has been forced wider and wider ajar until at the present time it may be said to be almostopen. As might be expected from the peculiar circumstances of the case, the diplomatic advances which China has made of late years has been the result of wars with foreign states. The Anglo-Frenchcampaign in northern China in 1860 first brought prominently to the notice of the ruling powers in Pekin that there was somethingwanting in the military defences of the country, and when peace was restored they for a time devoted their energies to supplying the palpable deficiencies which had permitted the advance of a comparative ly small body of "outer barbarians" to besieges and to take the capital city of the empire.

This war fervor endured for a time but after a while died out and things lapsed into their former condition of inefficiency. So matters went on until the war with the French in Tonquin again aroused the sleeping giant, and the same process of war ardor and eventual indifference supervened. At the end of another decade the Chinese were called on to cross swords with the formerly despised Japanese, and found to their astonishment that while they had slept the Jauanese had acquired weapons, and sufficient power and skill in the use of them, to enable them to conquer their former overlords. Then came the Boxer outbreak in 1900, and again an allied foreign force occupied Pekin, and the court for a second time sought refuge in flight.

The sting of these successive defeats were not confined to the battle fields, but was developed in the legations and the secret chambers of the Tsung li Yamen. In these recesses the amounts of the war indemnities and the necessary concessions were arranged on each occasion, and thus China was forced into an unwilling fellowship with the foreign powers, the effects of which we are now experiencing. Down to the time of the Chinese and Japanese wars the consciousness of this growing alliance was confined to the highest officers of state, and the country people were, for the most part, in entire ignorance of the new surroundings, but with the passage of time fuller information on political matters permeated the empire, and movements which had been rather evolutionary than revolutionary found expression.

This is a most hopeful sign and shows that the people are at last arousedto a due sense of their responsibilities. Nothing is more remarkable than the readiness with which they have sanctioned the introduction of reforms in their political and social systems. If there was anything in which these Chinese had implicit faith it was in their system of education, founded on their native classical texts. This has now been thrown to the winds, and western subjects of learning have been introduced instead of the dicta of Confucius and his fellow philosophers. Dr. Morrison, the Times correspondent at Pekin, lately made a journey through the empire, and wherever he went he found examination halls left to rack and ruin and the Buddist and Confucian temples converted into modern school buildings. The only difficulty which presented itself was that of securing sufficient teachers of English, for that was the language adopted as the medium of instruction. On all sides he found a craving for English literature, and the translations of standard works into Chinese were readily sought after.

In the towns and villages of the metropolitan province active educational work is being strenuously carried on. By the latest returns it appears that the number of students in these schools rose from 2000 in 1902 to 173,352 in 1908. It is, perhaps, unwise to take a pessemistic view of the prospects in China, but it cannot be denied that, as is pointed out in the report ofthe Christian Literature Society for China for the year ended March 31, 1909, a considerable diminution of the friendliness which characterized the relations between all classes of the people and foreigners during the next preceding years is noticeable. In fact there has been a general shrinkage back into their shells on the part of the Chinese.

SirRobert Hart has expressed the opinion that China alone can be reformed ubder the influence of Christianity. If those be so, the turn which events are about to take is of vital importance, and a scheme for establishing universities based on the English system is now propounded should exercise a wholesale influence on so learned an empire. At all events China can only arrive at her rightful position as a world power, when, with a willing mind, she shall have shown her genuine appreciation of the advantages of civilization.

Intoxication Theory being Played Strongly in the Blythe Case

Toronto, Oct. 22.—For the second time Walter Blythe faced a jury of his peers this morning on trial for hislife.

Several months ago he was convicted of murdering his wife Amelia, on January 3rd of this year, but his counsel, T. C. Robinette, K.C., succeeded in having the Court of Appeal order a new trial on the ground that the then trial judge, Mr. Justice Riddell, should have directed the then jury that there was evidence to show that when Blythe beat his wife to death with a poker he had been drinking considerably. As a result of this commission, he contended, a verdict of murder was returned, when, had there not been that omission, a verdict of manslaughter might have been brought in.

JAIL LIFE IMPROVES HIM.

The detention in the jail seems to have done Blythe considerable good, for his appearance this morning was a marked contrast to that at the former trial. Then his cheeks were wan and anemic looking, today, they were filled out and had a healthy ruddy color. He has filled out considerably, and altogether is a different man. He has the same shifty look in his eyes, however, and kept them wandering around the court.

The Crown has no evidence to bring forward other than that given at the first trial to the facts of the case itself. It is expected, however, thatnew evidence will be elicited from the witnesses as to the state of sobriety of the prisoner the night Mrs. Blythe was done to death with thepoker.

Mr. Robinette's defence will be that it was a case of manslaughter, and not murder. To support this he will quote extensively from the law as laid down in other cases, and on his table were noticed a dozen or so legal tomes.

OUTLINED THE CASE.

In outlining the case to the jury, Mr. Blackstock made no reference to the other trials, or to the reprieves granted.

"Every man who sits in the dock is there is innocent till he is found guilty," he said.

CALLED A NEIGHBOR.

Malcolm Walker, one of Blythe's neighbors in the village of Agincourt the first witness, told of meeting Blythe on the night of January 3rd, when Blythe asked him to come over to his house, "as he thought he had killed his wife."

"Ihad a lot to put up with. I couldn't stand it" was a remark Blythe made, said Walker.

The rest of his evidence dealt with the finding of the body, the description of the wounds that extended from the waist to the knees, and the removal of Blythe's two children to Walker's house.

THE INTOXICATION THEORY.

Right from the beginning of his cross-examination Mr. Robinette went into the matter of Blythe's intoxication. Under his skilful questioning Walker stated that the night he met Blythe he was in a "dazed condition," "that his eyes shone," "that he was not in a natural state. "Oh, yes, there is no doubt that he was drunk," said Walker. "Why, I had to help him home. He leaned on my shoulder, and I had to help him along."

"You helped him because he was drunk?"

"Yes."

In the house when the doctor came Blythe spoke in a rambling, drunken way, said the witness.

"You concluded he wasn't capable of his actions?"

"Yes."

"That he didn't know what he was doing?"

"He acted in a foolish manner?"

"Yes, he laughed and cried, as if there was something wrong with him."

"Walker, you're friendly and well disposed toward the prisoner?" asked Mr. Blackstock in re-examination

"Well, yes," came the answer with hesitation.

"At the former trial you did not say anything about helping Blythe across the road?"

"It is because I wasn't asked."

Three Little Boys Blown to Atoms

San Jose, Cal., Oct. 22.—Three boys whose ages ranged from 8 to 10 years were blown to atoms last night by an explosion of 500 giant powder caps.

The boys, whose fathers worked for a mining company here, were playing miner, and had crawled through a crack in the masonry of the mine left by the earthquake of 1906, taken the caps outside and began to tamp one of them into a hole with a boulder.

The resulting explosion was heard for miles, and the mine employes, fearing the magazine might go next dared not approach for some time.

TAKE OFF THE FAT WHERE IT SHOWS.

One can now take off and keep off extra fat at will. If you have an over fat abdomen or double chin you can clear it away completely without a minute's bother, exercising or dieting. Take a teaspoonful after meals and at bed time of this mixture: ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 4½ oz. Peppermint Water—any druggist has them — and go on eating as best pleases you; don't worry about results.

The double chin and ponderous stomach will soon show signs of melting away. They will not sag in or wrinkle, however; just go down nice and smooth and even. That effect is due to the harmless natural action of the mixture.

This is explained as follows: Blame overfatness to the stomach. It is getting lazy. Instead of making energy and muscle from your food, it is manufacturing fat. The above mixture corrects this defect and hence it makes you stronger and healthier at the same time it is taking off of you 12 to 16 ounces of useless fat a day. The reason it affects double chin, hips etc., first is because the fat on them is softer and can not resist the remedy as long as that on the limbs. But eventually all the fat has to go if you keep up the treatment.

Should Be Controlled.

(To the Editor of The Times)

Sir,—I was very much pleased with the article in your valuable polics regarding the Chinese laundries. Just why such places are permitted to exist, I know not. The country is full of them, and it is now full time that a move was made to weed them out.

The Canadian Laundryman hit the nail on the head when it proposes to "regulate" these shady places. By "regulation" it is meant that the yellow owners must do certain things or at once get out. Amongst others they will doubtless be required to separate thei "laundry" and living apartments, so as to be under separate roofs. They would also doubtless be required to pass frequent rigid inspections as to sanitary conditions and cleanliness.

These Chinks are not good citizens, and should not be countenanced by white people. They send every dollar they can lay their hands on back to China, where they usually go themselves when they make their "pile." A few hundred dollars is considered sufficient to make a man wealthy in China.

I hope the Council will at once put a by-law in force and along the above lines.

"Nerviline" Cures Rheumatism

"If I had lived through my sufferings another year it would have been a miracle." This is the opening sentence of the declaration made by Mr. J. Eccles Squires, member of one of the best-known families for twenty miles round Sydney. "My hands were drawn out of shape, even my fingers were gnarled and crooked—my lameness, stiffness and inhability to get about all showed the havoc Rheumatism made with my health. The blessing of it all is that I have heard of Nerviline, and now I am able to tell and advise others how they may get well, too. My system was so weakened that I had to build up with a good tonic, so I took Ferrozone at meals. But I never stopped rubbing on Nerviline—it had a magic influence on my stiff, painful joints, and bottle was rubbed on the painful parts. Nerviline cured me, I am well today—have been well for 4½ years."

CURED 4 1-2 YEARS

You also can cure rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia or any plain or stiffness in the muscles or joints—to do so use Nerviline. Don't let your druggist substitute. Get Nerviline only; large bottles, 25c., or five for $1 00; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 18

GREAT WHEAT FIELDS.

According to both Dominion and Provincial Government estimates of this year's wheat yield, Saskatchewan will produce more than one-half of the total of the whole country. An estimate sent out by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa placed the Dominion's yield at 163,366,000 bushels, of which 85,566,000 bushels are credited to the Province of Saskatchewan. Some weeks before the harvest began the Saskatchewan Government estimated the Province's yield at 86,668,693, but three weeks later it reduced this to 84,095,050 bushels. Accompanying the first Provincial forecast was the statement that while the figures given below might be a fair approximate, it was rather early to usethem as a basis of calculation for the total yield of the province. At the same time they were believed to be so nearly accurate that unless the crops were injured by frost or by severe hailstorms, practically the amount given—86,668,692 bushels—would be threshed.

Evidently the Saskatchewan Government attaches much importance to forecasting the extent of the wheat harvest while the grain is stil growing For this purpose a most efficient crop reporting service has been organized. This service, as explained by Hon. Mr. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, in a recent issue of the Canadian Courier, is divided according to the new uniform municipalities into which the province is being divided, and the area of each of the principal crops is carefully computed for each municipality The average yiled in each of these districts is estimated by township correspondents and the product is then computed by municipalities, after which the totals for the Province are ascertained. In each township a leading farmer proclaims the duties of crop correspondent for his district. The preliminary estimate this year was made by 900 of the 1,300 members of the crop reporting service and the latter one by 692 members. If these estimates err it is on the conservative side. Since the organization of the Department of Agriculture in Regina, it has been shown by threshers' returns that the preliminary figures of the correspondents are below the actual yield.

Of greatest importance, however, is the fact that a territory which not so very long ago was but a wild uninhabited prairie, is now not only being rapidly settled, but is yielding more than 50 per cent. of Canada's wheat. Mr. Motherwell says the people who are most closely in touch with the development of the Province "can scarcely realize how rapidly it is reaching the high position which it seems destined to attain." How much more wonderful must the development appear to the people of [illegible] and even those of Eastern Canada who have never visited the West.

Widows' Caps.

Widows' caps are as old as the days of Julius Caesar An edict of Tiberius commanded all widows to wear one under the penalty of a heavy fine and imprisonment.

Shooting Flying Birds.

In Smith's "History of Kerry," published in 1754, is found the statement that the art of shooting dying birds was taught to the Irish people by the French refugees who came over after the revocation of the edict of Nantes and that to this circumstance is due the decline and disappearance of falconry.

Bicycles.

The first bicycle with pedals was made about 1840.

St. Paul's, New York.

The oldest public building in New York is St. Paul's chapel, at the corner of Broadway and Fulton street. It was built in 1766, ten years before the Declaration of Independence.

A Nincompoop.

A nincompoop was originally a person of unsound mind (non compos mentis).

England Is Exclusive.

The Victoria cross has never been awarded to a woman. It is not designed for female decoration. In Germany heroines are decorated with the iron cross and in France with the Legion of Honor.

Land and Water.

There is three times as much sea as land in the world.

Hats Were Once a Luxury.

In the reign of Elizabeth the wearing of hats was considered a sign of luxury. By an act of parliament every person above the age of seven years and under a certain degree was obliged on Sundays and holidays to wear a woolen cap made in England and finished by some of the fraternity of cappers.

Icebergs.

For every cubic foot of an iceberg that is above the surface of the water there are eight cubic feet below.

Personal Taxes in Holland.

There are five kinds of personal taxes levied in Holland, as follows: Government tax, including business and income tax, and capital tax, city income tax and provincial tax.

Haydn's Drum.

The drum which Haydn once played at a festival in 1760 is still preserved in Hamburg.

The Boomerang.

The Australian aborigines are not the only users of the boomerang, nor were they the first to use that missile. The Egyptians knew all about it, just as they seem to have known all about everything else.

The Gravitation Theory.

The theory of gravitation is a discovery attributed to Newton and bears date of 1687 notwithstanding that the same idea was advanced by Kepler seventy years before.

Great Britain's Crown.

The present crown of Great Britain was constructed in 1838 with jewels taken from old crowns and others furnished by command of the queen. It contains 4 large pear shaped pearls, 273 small pearls, 147 table diamonds, 1,273 rose diamonds, 1,363 brilliant diamonds, 5 rubies, 11 emeralds and 17 sapphires.

A Dutch Custom.

A piece of white muslin tied round the bell handle of a house in Holland informs intending visitors that a case of infectious disease is in the dwelling.

The Shape of the Earth.

That the earth is round was not a generally accepted theory in the time of Columbus, though Thales taught and Pythagoras demonstrated the theory several centuries before the Christian era.

South African Winter.

Parepa Rose's Voice.

At the peace jubilee in Boston, 1869, Mme. Parepa Rosa's voice was distinguishable above 12,000 singers, an orchestra of over 1,000 instruments and in a hall where the audience consisted of 40,000 people.

Uninhabited Islands.

Between Madagascar and the coast of India there are about 14,000 islands, only 600 of which are inhabited, but most of which are capable of supporting population.

Korean Grass.

The Korean grass used in the manufacture of grasscloth is grown very thickly and is usually cut the second or third year after planting the roots. The grass reaches a height of four to five feet and with a proper start and under favorable conditions yields, it is roughly estimated, about 2,000 pounds to an acre.

Mexican Postal Law.

The Mexican postal law does not require the postal department to deliver mail addressed to a city on which the name of the state also does not appear.

A Rough Diamond.

An uncut diamond looks very much like a bit of the best grass obtain.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

WOULDN'T CONFIRM BOY.

Anglican Vicar Refuses Sacrament to Canadian Lad.

The Rev. F. W. Clarke, vicar of Caldicot, South Monmouthshire, England, has refused to allow a Church lad, a Canadian, to attend his confirmation class because the youngster is a member of the Boys' Brigade, which holds its meetings in the Wesleyan school-room. The lad has been brought up in the Church of England, his parents belong to the Church, it was at the invitation of the curate that he presented himself at the vicar's confirmation class, but the vicar asked him at the close of the class if he belonged to the Boys' Brigade, and, when informed that he did, said, "We must draw the line somewhere."

The complaint seems to be that a church lad, though willing to claim full membership of the Church, should have been guilty of the grievous sin of "schism" by belonging to an unsectarian organization, and attending a Bible class in connection with the Boys' Brigade, in which simple Bible teaching is given. The vicar called upon the father of the lad, Mr. Arthur C. Luff, and said: "We must draw the line somewhere. Seeing he is in the brigade, we cannot very well confirm him." Mr. Luff said: "Very well; that finishes the matter."

To an interviewer, Mr. Luff observed: "It is strange to me, after living for fifteen years in British Columbia, where things are so different." When invited to give his version of the matter, the Rev. F. W. Clarke said he hoped no newspaper would interfere in a matter of this kind—"this is a matter which must be left to the clergy to deal with."

Mr. Alfred Kemp, the Wesleyan evangelist, who has charge of the Caldicot Boys' Brigade, said they were absolutely unsectarian, and told the boys to attend what place of worship they pleased, but several members of the Boys' Brigade were asked to leave the church Sunday school because of their membership, and a lieutenant of the brigade left the church choir for the same reason. The curious thing is that the brigade have attended Roglet Church, where the Archbishop of Monmouth preached to them. But Boys' Brigade members are not wanted in the parish church of Caldicot.

From Journalism to Playwriting.

Quite a number of popular playwrights served their literary apprenticeship as journalists. J. M. Barrie was a reporter on a Nottingham paper before he came to London. Henry Arthur Jones wrote articles and stories from boyhood, and did not enter a theatre until he was eighteen years of age. Hubert Davies was for some years a journalist in America, while Hall Caine, after being trained as an architect, became a journalist and leader-writer on the staff of the Liverpool Mercury, and after coming to London wrote for the Athenaeum, Academy, and other papers.

Cecil Raleigh, the author of so many Drury Lane dramas, wrote for Vanity Fair, and was at one time sub-editor and dramatic critic for the Lady. Cosmo Hamilton has filled the editorial chair of the World. Adrian Ross has done much journalistic work, while it would be impossible to say how many papers and periodicals George R. Sims has written for.

Haydn Manuscript as "Rubbish."

Dr. Cummings, principal of the Guildhall School of Music, in an address on Haydn at the rooms of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, Hanover square, a few days ago, said that some time ago he visited a second-hand music seller's in St. Martin's lane and purchased a Haydn manuscript for two shillings and sixpence. The manuscript was rescued out of a sack of what the music seller described as rubbish.

Had It Lowered.

Sir Augustus Harris once settled the pitch question in his own off-hand fashion. A famous prima donna of his opera company came to him complaining that the piano used for vocal rehearsals was too high and asking that it might be lowered.

"Certainly," replied Drurielane, with a bow. "Here, Forsyth, have a couple of inches sawed off the legs of this piano."

Ending a Letter.

The simplicity of "Yours" as a letter ending would have astounded Jeremy Taylor, whose letters to John Evelyn often wind up with perfect triumphs of complexity in this respect. His best is, "Believe me that I am, in great heartiness and dearness of affection, dear sir, your obliged and most affectionate and endeared friend and servant," or "Your very affectionate friend and hearty servant." Even in his shortest perorations of the kind the "affectionate" and the "servant" are always the two indispensable words. Probably no man, woman or child would combine these two at the end of a letter today.—London Tatler.

A Division of Labor.

The following dialogue at the Bow county court deserves to be recorded:

Witness—One day I had some shrimps to sell, and I asked the plaintiff to help me. He said, "I can't push the barrow because my arm is bad, but if you like I'll come along with you and holler."

Counsel—Why was that?

Witness—Well, it's like this, sir. A man can often shout when he can't shove.—London News.

A Willing Scot.

Dean Ramsay has a story of that border hostility between English and Scots which used to go to baiter lengths. A Scottish drover was returning from the south in particularly bad humor with the English, having done poor business, when he saw in Carlisle a notice offering a reward of £50 to any one who would volunteer for the unpopular task of hanging a condemned criminal. Seeing his chance to make up for his bad market and comforting himself with the thought that he was unknown there, he did the job and got his fee. As he was leaving he was taunted as a beggarly Scot, doing for money what no Englishman would. But he answered, with a cheerful grin, "I'll hang ye a' at the price."

Ways to an Untimely End.

The catalogue of the ways and means employed by otherwise sensible people to incur the risk of disease and an untimely end include running to catch trolley cars, breathing rapidly through the mouth instead of deeply through the nose, eating too hastily and overeating, "slouching" instead of standing and walking in an erect attitude, using unnecessary stimulants, failing to exterminate the pestilential housefly, which goes blithely about carrying the germs of disease; sleeping in ill ventilated rooms and failing to protect food from flies and other insects by proper screening.

Hard Luck.

"Fiasco" originally meant a bottle or a flask. When the Italian glassblowers detected flaws in the vases they were blowing they made an ordinary bottle of the failure, and hence the name.

Ginger is the most wholesome spice, mace, cinnamon and nutmeg the most delicate, while allspice has a coarser flavor and one disliked by many. White mustard and celery seed give an appetizing flavor.

Humor in Old Wills.

A certain Lieutenant-Colonel Nash left an annuity to the bell-ringers of Bath to "toll dolefully" on each anniversary of his wedding day, and contrite Mr. Withipol of Walthamstow left the bulk of his property to his wife, "trusting," he says—yes, I may say as I think, assuring myself—that she will marry no man for fear to meet with so evil a husband as I have been to her."

Mr. Jasper Mayne at least considered himself witty when he bequeathed to his valet a wornout portmanteau, as it contained something, said the will, which would make him drink. The excited valet ripped open the trunk and found a red herring in it. No doubt was, did the Scotch gentleman who in 1677 left to his son's care his two worst watches, "because," he said, "I knew he is sure to dissect them."—St. James' Gazette.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-2 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—18 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

Mill tests have proved that half of the values can be saved on the plates, and the remainder concentrate readily into a smelting product.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 200,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 100,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $600. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

This is the last opportunity for the investor to get an interest in this safe and conservative mining venture.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

400 FOOT TUNNEL—140 FOOT SHAFT

Mines located near Velardena, Durango, Mexico only six miles by wagon road and three miles straight line from the property of the Guggenheims upon which they have recently erected a $2,000,000 smelter. Sample assays have averaged from $54 to $102 per ton.

Up to the present time, the Turquoise Copper Co., has been practically a close corporation; an initial offering of 100,000 shares has just been made at 25 cents, par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable. Proceeds will be used to further continue the development work already begun.

We have options on 50,000 shares of this stock and advise immediate purchase at 25 cents per share. It is the intention of The Board of Directors to list the stock on the New York Curb and it should sell at $1.00 per share by the first of the year.

OUT ON THE COD BANKS

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF THE LUNENBURG FISHERMAN.

The Men Who Supply the World With Its Codfish Have a Hard and Dangerous Life—Fifty Tons Is the Average Size of Schooners—Squid Is the Favorite Bait—Casting Is All Done From Dories.

Like that of a policeman, the life of a "Banker" is not a happy one. It is a long record of toilsome endurance, of simple heroism, of the bearing of incredible hardships, of but scant reward.

The great banks of Newfoundland are a rich harvesting ground, and year in, year out, thousands of men exploit them to the full. Not alone do the fishing towns of Canada and the United States send their representatives to the warfare of man against nature; Scotland sends its quota, so does France; in fact, during a good season few seafaring countries but are represented there in some form or other. Cod is the spell, the wily, elusive cod; valuable as a food, arresting of chase; cheap as to price.

On the principle of fitting the back to the burden, Bankers do not fare forth in little luggers or smacks. They ship themselves aboard large, seaworthy schooners, capable of weathering the hardest gales that ever blew.

These schooners vary in tonnage, but fifty tons is a fair average size. They are manned by eight men usually, sufficient to handle the vessel comfortably in going from port to fishing ground and back, and also in following the fish as they travel from point to point. But this is not their only work; it is a very small part of it. Their real work is to catch fish.

Imagine yourself for the nonce aboard a schooner out of Lunenburg. She is well-found, a comfortable vessel, once possessed of a good turn of speed, for she has been a racer in her day, though now her glory has departed. This speed will serve her in good turn when the holds are full and the homeward race for market commences. The captain is a grizzled veteran, with a down east drawl that goes could cut with an axe. But he has a reputation for being able to play the elusive cod at his own game; to "think cod," in short, which means that he can place himself in the position of the fish, and meet every move they make.

It is not a very long journey to the Banks, for the schooner is fast. Once there, the skipper begins to cast about for fish, watching the crested waves narrowly as if he could read their most cherished secrets, as indeed he can. There are certain signs and tokens, known to the Banker, which indicate the presence of cod, or, failing their presence, the direction in which they have traveled; and these signs your skipper reads as an open book. The schooner dips away on its own appointed course, and morning shows a deserted sea.

"Wal, I guess we're here or hereabouts," says the skipper, and the word is passed for work to commence. The schooner's decks have been filled with a number of small boats called dories; double-ended craft, a cross between a ship's dinghy and a Canoe canoe; easily managed by one man, fairly safe in rough weather, and as light as a feather.

Meanwhile the spare hands have been busy for days in baiting vast lengths of cod-line—stout, tough stuff, strong enough to hold a runaway whale in its flurry. Squid or cuttle-fish is the favorite bait, for cod loves squid as a trout loves the May fly. At stated intervals along the line hooks are firmly hitched, and each hook receives its piece of bait, after which the line is coiled away into shallow tubs; one tub to each dory, and the material is ready.

The complete equipment of a dory consists of a small anchor, a cork buoy, for anchoring the boat; a heavy maul for stunning big fish as they are hauled aboard; a gaff, an axe; a compass, a stock of provisions, a tin horn for fog signals, a pair of sculls, and rowlocks, lamp and oil. All is in readiness, and a start is made at once, for the longer you wait the greater possibility of other schooners encroaching on your chosen ground. Each line is fitted with floats and sinkers at intervals, and your dory is swung outboard by a single whip from the masthead. You lower yourself into it as it touches the water, fit bottom boards and thwarts in place, receive your impedimenta, and start off.

Arrived at the spot you have selected, you commence to throw out your lines, which sink from sight as you pull back on the way you have come, until the entire line is submerged, after which you pull along to your first float, grapple the line—and probably receive some cruel jags from the hooks in so doing, and under-run the apparatus; pulling your dory along by the line, hand over hand, and as each hook comes into view it is more than likely that it holds a big fish.

One by one you pick off the spoil, fling them carelessly into the dory, until you are up to your knees in fish, and when the last hook has been reached you are ready to go back aboard, though as you unhooked each fish you rebaited the hook from the bait tub in the bows, and let the line drop out of sight again.

Such is the Banker's life in fine weather; but in a storm it is full of the grimmest dangers. The blinding blizzards of the Banks sweep down in howling fury, and woe betide the ship that is caught unawares. The mighty Atlantic seas rage on crash-fingly, and the spray freezes where it falls, so that the schooner becomes but a floating mass of solid ice.

But no matter what the weather the work goes on.

England Increasing.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect were borne into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say it makes a pain. Sold by all dealers.

Siamese Snapshots.

White is the Siamese mourning color.

Siamese babies, dogs and cats are dyed yellow. The dye keeps off fleas.

The favorite Siamese delicacy is putrid prawns saturated with very strong red pepper.

In the midsummer heats the Siamese always bathe with the clothes on. Thus afterward they keep cool longer.

Believing that it is unpardonable to take life, the Siamese strain insects out of their drinking water and do not bathe at night lest in the darkness they crush some few parasites in drying themselves.

Train and Track.

The world's railways have a total length of more than seventeen times the circumference of the earth at the equator.

In Germany second class railroad cars differ from the first only in the color of the upholstery, which is gray instead of red.

In every mile of railroad there is seven feet four inches not covered by rails. This is the space left between the rails to allow for expansion in hot weather.

The railroads of the United States paid out $56,600,000 last year for cross ties, an average of 50 cents for each tie. Electric lines used one-sixteenth of the whole.

Tales of Cities.

The first stone of St. Petersburg was laid in 1703.

When it is carried to the northern limits of Manhattan, Riverside drive will be seven miles long. Five years ago the drive extended only a little beyond Grant's tomb.

Chicago, says a journal of that city, ranks fourth (possibly third) among the cities of the world, the others having been founded from 285 to 1,000 years ago, while Chicago as a city, is only seventy-one years of age.

His Transformation.

Little Harold, aged six, felt very proud when he donned his first pair of trousers. Taking his three-year-old brother behind the door, he was overheard to say, "Willie, Willie do you remember me?"—Delineator.

All is not false which at first seems a lie.—Southey.

Magnet vs. Dreadnought.

Naval Constructor Hollman, of the German navy, has taken out a patent for a device to destroy battleships of the Dreadnought class. Compared with this newest engine of war the Zeppelin dirigible airship, which aims, among other things, to drop explosives on an enemy's ships and towns, seems harmless. Hollman's device is an enormous dynamo-magnet capable of being charged up to 20,000 volts. With such a magnet, he says, he can attract by a magnetic power any battleship within a radius of seven miles. He believes that a magnet can be made powerful enough to attract a whole fleet of warships and draw them into shallow water, where they will run aground and be at the mercy of heavy artillery ashore. Hollman declares most seriously that the amount of metal in the battleships of to-day will only intensify the force of his magnets. Anchors and the ships' engines will be powerless, he says, against the magnet's attractive force. The magnet, or a battery of them, should be established, according to the ideas of Naval Constructor Hollman, at the mouth of a river or in some favorable submerged position along the coast where the enemy could not readily detect it. The rest is easy. Along comes a hostile fleet to blockade a port or bombard a town or even steam up the river. The moment the ships get within magnet-range the operator in charge of the station turns on the power and the ships are drawn to the shore, to be captured or demolished.

There are dynamo-magnets in several of the German shipyards capable of lifting a dead weight of 50,000 pounds. The Hollman magnet is designed to lift a battleship.

Your Canary.

Don't forget to give your canary the best of water and seed every day. See that he has a good fish bone. Clean his cage every day. Keep him out of the hot sun and the glare of night lights and yet let him have sunshine. Talk to him—talk to him with a kind voice. Let him out of the cage occasionally. We give crumbs of bread soaked in milk, lettuce, chickweed, a little piece of egg, sometimes a little fruit, a nut and lots of good things and let him eat or reject, as he pleases. Remember he is a prisoner in confinement, dependent on you every day for health and life, and constantly strive to make him happy. A little ten cent looking glass will aid greatly to his happiness. Take care that neither sun nor other light reflected shall dazzle him.

The Patient Mule.

The kind-hearted woman was very solicitous about a certain mule belonging to Erastus Pinkley. The mule had a sad and heavy appearance and never looked more dejected than when its proprietor brought it up with a flourish at the front gate, says a writer in The Washington Star.

"Do you ever abuse that mule of yours?" she inquired one day.

"Law' sakes, miss," returned Mr. Erastus, "I should say not! Dat mule has had me on de defensive fob de las' six years."

Devilfish.

Devilfish weighing up to 200 pounds are sometimes caught in Japan. These fish are amphibious. They are often seen wabbling on their tentacles like giant spiders in search of patches of sweet potatoes. The natives kill them with clubs. In the water they are caught in jars lowered to the bottom, which the octopus enters, thinking them a good retreat from which to watch its food.

Opening the Jar.

"Have you heard from Old Boomerang since she went home?" asked Mr. Tucker, putting his feet on the stove.

"I want you to stop calling mamma Old Boomerang," said Mrs. Tucker. "What makes you call her that?"

"Why, I was just wondering when she was coming back, that's all," answered Mr. Tucker. "You needn't get sore about it."

SUPERSTITIONS.

They Play at Times an Important Role in Human Affairs.

When Sir Charles Napier had conquered Mehemet Ali, he found it impossible to force or coax the wily Egyptian into signing the treaty which only would make his victory effective. He had nineteen interviews with Mehemet, in which the Englishman by turns argued, flattered and threatened his antagonist, who listened day after day with the same immovable, smiling countenance.

One day Sir Charles in speaking of England said casually that it "was governed by a lucky woman." A strange flash passed over the pasha's countenance, but he made no answer. As soon as Napier had gone Mehemet sent for the English consul, who was an Egyptian, and demanded:

"You were in London when the English queen was crowned. Were the omens bad or good?"

"All good."

"You think that good luck is written on her forehead?"

"I did not think upon the matter before, but now that you ask me I believe that it is. When she asked Allah to help her in her work, her eyes ran over. Allah loves the innocent."

"No doubt of that," said Mehemet anxiously. "She must be lucky."

Early the next morning he sent for Sir Charles and signed the treaty. English power and English cannon he could brave, but not "the luck" written upon the forehead of a good woman whom he had never seen.

General Gordon's remarkable influence over the Chinese was in a large degree due, it is stated, to their belief in his extraordinary luck. During the Taiping rebellion he was followed by an army which did not comprehend either his ability or his religious zeal, but which believed that he was protected by an invisible being who led them to victory. No sword could wound him or bullet kill. A certain black ebony cane which he carried was supposed to be the magic talisman which brought him victory, and General Gordon was shrewd enough always to carry this cane when he led them into battle.

These superstitions seem absurd to us, but they show that the ignorant men who hold them believe in an invisible power who can give good or ill fortune at his will.—London Truth.

MAN EATING TIGERS.

The Killing Methods of These Terrible Brutes in India.

The theory that a man eating tiger is always an old tiger, more or less toothless and feeble, which has found the strain of catching vigorous wild game too much for its failing strength, has been upset by the bagging of notorious man eaters which were found to be young animals in the full pride of their powers. And it is likely that the taste for human flesh is passed on from mother to child, the tigress herself a man eater, teaching her cubs to hunt as she hunts. How terrible a thing a man eater may be can be judged from the fact that a tiger generally kills every second night, whether its quarry be man or beast. Having killed, it makes one meal that night, then drags the carcass somewhere into cover and more or less conceals it as a dog may hide a bone. On the next night its habit is to return to the same kill, and it is in that second visit that the hunter usually finds his opportunity. It is not the rule for a tiger to return again a third time, not because it is above eating carrion, but seemingly it tires of the carcass, which it has already twice mumbled over.

Then one tiger in India has been known to kill regularly its fifteen natives a month with almost mechanical punctuality. Another, which seemingly did not confine itself entirely to human flesh, devoured an average of eighty people, men and women, for several years, while yet another is reported to have killed 127 people and to have stopped traffic on a public road for many weeks. There have been both English sportsmen and native shikaris who have accounted for their hundred tigers and upward, but many a tiger has killed more human beings than any man has ever scared tigers.—London Times.

A Reasonable Request.

"Arabella," said old Billyuns as he finished his dinner, "I am going to ask you to do me a favor. I want you to give your young man—Mr.—Mr. Whatshisname—a message from me."

Arabella blushed and looked down at her plate.

"Tell him," the bluff old millionaire went on, "that I don't object to his staying here and running up my gas bills, but that I do object to his carrying the morning paper away with him when he leaves."—London Answers.

Force of Habit.

"I'm surprised that you should be so interested in watching those silly dudes."

"Force of habit, I guess. I'm president of a real estate improvement company."

"Well?"

"Well, they're a vacant lot."

Lost and Found.

"Found a dollar yesterday."

"Lucky boy!"

"Not so lucky. In stooping to pick it up I dropped and broke my eyeglasses."

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with amazing success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it's constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

ARMY CORPS CALLED OUT.

Utmost Efficiency Shown In Recent Mobilization.

A British army corps was called out for war the other day, and afforded a fine object-lesson of how quickly and effectively British troops can be organized nowadays.

Never before in the history of the British army has so unexpected, and yet so complete, a mobilization been carried out. Nearly twenty thousand men of all arms were lined up ready to entrain, and it was only by the absence of a call to the Reservists that the feat differed from what the authorities hope to effect in case of an actual or threatened invasion.

No warning of what was coming was given. At six o'clock in the morning Lieut.-Gen. Smith-Dorrien rode down to the headquarters' office and gave the order for the alarm to be sounded, followed by the order for every unit in his command to turn out as rapidly as possible, fully mobilized, and ready for active service.

The military telephones linking up the barracks were soon busy with the order, and mounted orderlies carried the summons to those officers who live out of barracks.

Some of the battalions were already in the field; the Gloucesters, for instance, having left barracks at four o'clock for a long day's operations. They were summoned back by mounted men and cyclist messengers, and within the hour every barracks was the centre of activity.

Wagons were dragged out and loaded with stores, water-carts filled, ammunition drawn from the magazines and distributed, and field dressings and emergency rations issued to the men with their metal identity discs and pocket ledgers.

For some time past the chiefs of staff have been working at this mobilization scheme to render it perfect for a sudden call, and the test that was being applied could only be equalled by the actual call of war. Indeed, among many of the troops the belief was accepted that an invasion was an accomplished fact.

The telegraph wires had carried the news to those officers and men away on week-end leave, and the early trains to Aldershot were filled with anxious soldiers, who on reaching the stations raced up to their barracks, to appear in a short space of time accountred and equipped for service.

Six hours was the time given for the units to get on parade, ready to move off, but so perfect was the machinery that in the great majority of cases little more than half that time was needed to report all ready.

From the Army Service Corps barracks parties of butchers and bakers, clerks, saddlers, and artificers marched off to join the brigade and divisional headquarters, every man having his allotted place and his special duties.

No confusion marked the preparations, and long before the allotted time was up nearly 20,000 men, artillery, cavalry, and infantry, with engineers and supply transport services, were marching out of barracks to go wherever needed.

To Punish the Mullah.

Col. Gough, on a report from Aden, according to present arrangements, will begin military operations this month against the Somaliland mullah, who has continued to harass the [illegible] tribes.

It is understood that the operations will take the form of flying columns, composed of mounted infantry and irregulars, which will endeavor to round up the elusive enemy.

Practically everything is now ready, and ample native troops on the spot are being supplied with white officers.

The chief difficulty is, as it has always been, transport. British agents have been buying animals all along the Red Sea, but prices have been high, particularly for camels. The Emperor Menelik has, moreover, forbidden the export of these animals from his territory.

It is thought that Sir Reginald Wingate, who has arrived in the country from Cairo, will, from his experience of Soudan "drives," be able to give Col. Gough some useful advice.

Berbera is the base of the new operations, which will cover a wide area. The British Government has for some time been collecting information as to the situation, particularly along the northwestern Somaliland border, and the authorities are very hopeful of success.

St. Fillan's Bell.

Early in the nineteenth century a bell was stolen from Killin, in Perthshire. This bell, which was said to have been used by St. Fillan, was supposed to possess marvelous healing powers, and was placed on the heads of all the mad people, who were brought to be dipped in the saint's pool, in order to complete the cure.

Popular opinion had it that the bell, which was not very large, would extricate itself from the hands of any one who stole it and return home, ringing all the way. The antiquary who finally annexed it explained his action by a desire "to abate superatition."

A Mild Reproach.

One cold morning little Elsie was being bathed by her mother, and usually her bath was a great delight to her. But this morning her mother talked incessantly while she worked.

Elsie loved her dearly and tried hard to be patient. But the lecture was so tiresome. Her mother was laying out a course of conduct for the day, and it was all so old. She had heard it over and over again.

Finally she said very sweetly, but very wearily: "Please, mumma, don't talk any more. You do make such a draft!"

Jerry Needn't Bother.

It was the beloved and lamented Monsignor Connolly, of the Church of St. John the Baptist, at St. John, N.B., who noticed an old parishioner stealing a glance at his watch as the text was read out one fine summer morning.

"It's just twenty minutes past eleven, Jerry Callahan, and at a quarter to twelve I'll be through, so you can save yourself the trouble of taking your watch out of your pocket," said his reverence, and proceeded with the sermon.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE STAGE IN JAPAN.

There is a legend in Japan that the theater had its origin in that country in the ninth century by reason of an earthquake which took place in the province of Yamato. A large crevice was formed by reason of the upheaval, from which emanated poisonous vapors which spread death and destruction all around. An awful scourge was the result until the priests conceived the idea of performing a symbolic dance of incantation on the grass covered hill outside the temple. As if by magic the death vapors vanished, and peace and happiness were restored to the country. The legend concludes that this is how Japanese acting originated. The Japanese word for theater, shibai-ya, is supposed to have come from its origin, shibai, meaning sod, and ya, a house.

In Japan when a Japanese lady intends to go to the theater she is called upon the day previous by a hairdresser to build up the artificial structure which is the pride of every Japanese nightore lady. This necessitates her spending the night in her state dress, reclining her head on a wooden block called makura. A few hours before going to the theater she covers her lips with a thin layer of gold, as it takes several hours for this paint to change into the cherry color which lends charm to the artificial white complexion of the face.

As a rule, Japanese performances last from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m., although certain historical dramas which follow the life of the hero through all his vicissitudes to his death go on for several days.

In Japan, officially, the social position of the actors is that of the lowest class of society, but in reality they enjoy great consideration and are idolized by the general public.

Crawford's Care as a Writer.

Mr. F. Marion Crawford, we are told, once agreed to write for the London Sphere a novel with Dante for its hero. "The Harvest of the Sword" was to have been its title. The letter which he wrote to Mr. C. K. Shorter explaining his failure to fulfill his promise testifies to his conscientious care in authorship:

"I can only say that it is in no sense my fault if I cannot give you the book after all at the time appointed and that if I succeed in writing it you of course have the first claim to it for serial publication if you still wish to see it next year. I have worked at the manuscript unremittingly for months. I began it four times. I have done everything in my power to write it and have done no other work since Aug. 1, and the result is so utterly unsatisfactory that after allowing the first three chapters to be sent to you I decided to cable and throw up the contract. It is the first time I have ever done such a thing, and I am driven to it by the great difficulty of the subject and not by any neglect. I decline to allow a book so imperfect to go before the public, while feeling that by renewed labor I may succeed in the end. That is my whole and only excuse. Make it public in any way you please, together with the great regret I feel at disappointing you."

Literal Aid.

"So you make your wife do all the carving at dinner?"

"Sure! Isn't it a wife's duty to be a helpmeet?"—Baltimore American.

Things Theatrical.

Frank Daniels is adapting the book of "The Belle of Brittany" to American taste.

August Von Biene, the musician-actor, is to appear in vaudeville in "The Master Musician."

The Liebler company has engaged Charles B. Waldron to play the leading part in a new production.

Corinne, who is starring in "Miss Mischief," lately laid the cornerstone of a new Shubert theater in Minneapolis.

Justin Huntley McCarthy's drama of "The Proud Prince," which Sothern used here, has been produced with great success in London.

At the time of his death Clyde Fitch had just finished a play for Zelda Sears, called "Kitty and the Canary," and he was about to write one in which Miss Ruth Mayeliffe was to star.

Sporting Notes.

Hefferon, the South African Marathon runner, who once lived in Canada, has turned professional.

Catcher Billy Sullivan of the Chicago White Sox is now the only playing manager in the American league.

It is believed that the great Yale catcher, Tad Jones, has definitely agreed to play with the New York Nationals next season.

Pushball, with a ball six feet in diameter and 300 or more on a side, has taken the place of the annual hoist and cane rushes between the freshmen and sophomores at the university of California.

The 1910 Car.

Mr. R. E. Van Dyke, of the Canada Cycle and Motor Co., Toronto, was in the city yesterday on business. He called on The Times, and showed us photos of the fine new car which his company is making for next year. The 1910 Russell car is a thing of beauty, and is a great great improvement over the carof 1909. Mr. Van Dyke says that his company sold everything they had on hand this year, including second-hand machines. Next year the output of the works will be greater than ever. There are a number of the famous Russell cars in use here at present, including those owned by the Hon. Mr. Stratton and Mr. A. H. Stratton. Mr. Van Dyke thinks it is time Peterborough had a garage.

Bell—Bell.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of the bride's parents, Smith, on Wednesday last, when Miss Ida, daughter of Mr. Newton Bell, became the bride of Mr. Fred Bell, of the same township. Rev. S. Cruickshanks of the Bridgenorth Methodist church, was the officiating clergyman. There were no guests other than the families of the bridal couple.

NEW BUILDING IDEAS.

Messrs. Taylor Brothers Erecting Splendid New George Street Stores.

The splendid new stores on George street almost across from the Customs house are rapidly approaching completition. Messrs. Taylor Brothers, who are erecting these stores are certainly adding greatly to the appearance of Peterborough's principle business street. Messrs. Rutherford Brothers, the contractors in charge of the building, are keeping up with their well established reputation for doing good work. Mr. Thos. Rutherford yesterday called the attention of a Times representative to a unique feature of this building. This consists in massive iron I girders across the top of each story. The idea of this girder is as follows. Should it be desired at any time to make two stories into one or to change the various rooms on the upper flat into one large hall or assembly room, the necessity of pulling down the intervening partitions is made easier. The I beams will carry the several floors without any necessity for erecting pillars to hold the floors above. Messrs. Rutherford Bros. are introducing the most modern wrinkles known to the building trade.

COUNSEL FOR WALTER BLYTHE PAINTS A FEARFUL WORD PICTURE OF THE GALLOWS

"There Walter Blythe Must Go, If You Send Him," Said T. C. Robinette—Keynote of Plea Was That Prisoner Did not Intend to Murder.

COUNSEL MADE MASTERLY ADDRESS

Blythe Abject as Last Act Concluded—Denounced by G. T. Blackstock as a Faker, Who Played Part of Insanity at Trial.

(Special to The Times.)

Toronto, Oct. 23.—"Whether Walter Blythe shall travel by rail to Kingston penitentiary, there to serve out long years of expiation to his crime; there in the long lone hours of the night to suffer remorse and to repent, or whether on a gray winter morning there shall be a grim procession through the white walls of Toronto jail; whether Walter Blythe shall walk between the guards to the chant of the service for the dead; whether he shall stand upon the trap while the rope is neatly adjust about his neck; whether with the sound of a slamming of a trunk in an empty house that trap shall be sprung and this man, who today is Walter Blythe, shall become a thing that hangles from the end of a rope that sways idly there in the prison cell.

"This is for you to say."

With these words T. C. Robinette, K.C., rested the life of Walter Blythe in the hands of the second jury to try him for his life.

BLACKSTOCK'S ADDRESS.

He was followed by G. T. Blackstock, who denounced Blythe as a faker who had sat back while the farce that he was insane was played through at an earlier trial hearing; it pleaded that he was incapable of giving rational evidence, but who now came forward when that device had failed and pleaded once more against his own conviction of himself that he should be hanged with a rope as he had asked whentaken on the night of the murder.

TRAM STRUCK.

By Street Car on George Street Last Friday Night.

On Friday night at six o'clock the street car in charge of Conductor Doughty and Motorman Lagraunder, collided with a team of horses on George street, just north of Brock street. The team was coming down George street and just about 15 feet in front of the car one horse bolted across the track. Although the motorman applied the brakes a collision could not be avoided. The team was knocked down and the driver was thrown out but no serious damage resulted.

Interesting Talk on Travels of Miss Sproule

A large gathering heard with great interest the talk of Miss Sproule on her temperance work among the lumbermen of the north which was given in the Grand Opera House yesterday afternoon. Rev. H. J. Keith occupied the chair, and after a number of hymns were sung, Mr. Hassard offered a prayer, and then Miss Sproule was introduced.

The speaker first took up the work of the W.C.T.U. She gave the history of the organization and the development of the work. Her talk in the main was based on one of the W.C.T.U. mottos, viz., "For God, Our Home and Native Land," and she pointed out how the temperance cause was affected by our attitude towards those things. Then Miss Sproule dwelt upon her own work for the past nine or ten years. She travelled through a district running from east to west one thousand miles and as far north as one cared to go. She worked entirely among the men employed in the lumber camps, and she has visited more camps than any other priest, missionary or lumbering man, and she has reason to believe that she has accomplished some good. On many occasions she had met men at different railway stations who had told her that they had been greatly helped in their appetite against liquor by her addresses in the lumber camps.

Miss Sproule paid a high tribute to the men in the back woods, who had always met her courteously and when leaving had invited her to return. At no time during all the years she had been working among them, had any of those men ever said a word to her that they would not say to their own mother or sister. She hoped that everything possible would be done to assist the men in the wilds of Canada, and to provide them with comforts.

Dedication Festival at St. John's Church Sunday

His Lordship, the Bishop of Toronto, Will be Present—Formal Opening of the New Rectory

The dedication festival of St. John's church will be held next Sunday and as usual extend over two Sundays. This event marks the birth day of St. John's parish, the beautiful church on the hill having been erected just seventy-four years. The sacred edifice was re-opened after restoration twenty-seven years ago next All Saints' Day, Monday, November first.

The dedication festival this year will be honored by the presence of the right reverend, the Lord Bishop of Toronto, whom the whole congregation are invited to meet at a reception in the rectory on Monday, November first, from 5 to 6 and 8 to 10 p.m.

FORMAL OPENING OF RECTORY

The reception will be made the formal opening of the handsome new rectory on the church's own property, corner of Sheridan and Brock streets, erected by the congregation in 1908-9. The architect of this work was John E. Belcher, C.E., who also planned and supervised the large and commodious new vestry, opened some eighteen months ago, and which beautiful adjunct to the sacred building is pronounced to be second to no other Anglican vestry in the diocese. The committee entrusted with the duty of providing this new rectory was as follows: Messrs. Peter Campbell, chairman; Dr. Halliday W. H. Clurton, Joseph Mills, Harry Long, Chas. H. J. Mitchell. This valuable property is vested for the congregation in a Board of Trust, composed of Dr. Boucher, Dr. Halliday, Dr. Burnham, Messrs. Peter Campbell and Chas. H. J. Mitchell.

The rector, Rev. Canon Davidson trusts that the rectory may be widely used for the general advantage of the parish and church. He invites every parishioner to feel a personal share in the house, where a warm welcome will always be found within its walls.

Junior Rugby Today Lindsay vs. the Locals

Undoubtedly one of the best Rugby games of the season will be the Junior O.R.F.U. fixture at Riverside Park at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon, when the fast Lindsay team, last year champions of the O.R.F.U., will try conclusions with Peterborough's Junior O.R.F.U. team. The Sour-g team is bubbling over with confidence and expects to beat Peterborough handily this afternoon, while on the other hand the Peterborough youngsters are just as sure that the large end of the score will be in their possession when the game is over.

The Lindsay team expects to beat the Peterborough juniors on Monday according to the Warder which says;

Frank Green, who is billed to play at half for the Rugby team, will be out tonight and the half line will be able to work in some good stiff practise. Greene is in Bobcaygeon now and is lighter in weight than last year, but it as a fiddle. Plenty of paddling and other exercise has hardened him up.

Hall, a new tall man, shows a streak of speed in practise, and has the weight to add strength to the line. He is a hard man to tackle and runs like a hare.

The team expects to win in Peterborough, although they are not over confident. The Toronto teams will be strong, it is expected, but the mug won't travel from Lindsay without a furious fight.

"Get through this time, boys!"

Swish ! ! Bif ! ! !

The "something doing" sign was hung out prominently at Rugby practise last night and two sides smashed into one another for over three-quarters of an hour. The trick were all gone through and repeated a couple of times. Bumps and bruises were flying coincident with hard bucking and tackling. The team is rounding into shape admirably.

The bucking was the feature of the practise last night, and Carew, Coulter, McHugh, Bigelow, MacKenzie and Murdie hit the line like demons. The two opposing sides went at each other in great style.

Tonight the signals will be rehearsed and Frank Greene will be out on the half line.

Bescroft, an L.C.I. youth was out on the "scrub" half line and showed himself to possess the earmarks of a comer. He can't catch well but has speed and weight and is a clever dodger and hard to pull down

THANKSGIVING.

This is the day set apart for general thanksgiving to Divine Providence for a bountiful harvest and other blessings which we as Canadians enjoy in a marked degree. We have indeed much to be thankful for.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

Mr. Alfred S. Brown Visits His Old Home.

Mr. Alfred S. Brown of Calgary, brother of Mr. C. N. Brown, the well known floor merchant, Simcoe street, is back to Peterborough after an absence of 27 years, except for a day or two on his way to South Africa with the Strathcona Horse. It was Mr. Brown who took the dog "Peterborough Ben," to Montreal, and introduced him as the mascot of that famous regiment. Most of our readers will remember that Peterborough Ben went through the war, and returned with Mr. Brown, a veteran, only to perish, as most dogs do, at the hand of the poisoner.

Mr. Brown thinks that Peterborough has grown enormously since his last visit, He will leave for the West tomorrow. The Times joins Mr. Brown's many friends in wishing him a safe journey home and a speedy return.

EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN.

Speakers in the Presbyterian Churches Next Sunday.

Great preparations are being completed by the Presbyterian churches in the city and throughout the Peterborough Presbytery for the evangelistic campaign which opens next Sunday morning and continues every night, except Saturday, for the two weeks following. These meetings, while held under the auspices of the Presbytery, are open to members of all denominations and all are cordially invited to attend. The ministers who are selected for the Peterborough churches stand prominently in the Presbyterian Church in Canada. They are men of eloquence and ability, and great benefit is anticipated as a result of the campaign.

In St. Paul's church, Rev. R. G. McBeth, M.A., of Paris, will preach. Rev. Robt. Atkinson of Chesley, will be at St. Andrew's.

Rev. A. E. Mitchell, M.A., of Hamilton, will be at Knox next Sunday and Rev. Dr. Farquharson of Durham, the week following.

Next Sunday afternoon a big mass meeting will be held in the Grand Opera House.

THE PHILOMATHEAN SOCIETY.

Committees Appointed and Work Laid Out.

The Times was unable to secure the list of committees in time for Saturday's issue, but although a little late we give it below:

The meeting was opened at 4.15 by an introductory speech by President Primeau. The business was transacted as follows:

Secretary—Miss Myra White, appointed on motion of Arthur Rosborough, seconded by Miss Maxie Armstrong.

Convener for recitations—Miss Bessie Reed, appointed on motion of Miss Denne, seconded by Arthur Rosebore.

Convenor for dramatic—Miss M. Armstrong.

Convenerfor Debate—Miss Denne.

Mr. Primeau then moved that the first meeting should be held two weeks from Monday evening. The motion was carried.

The president then called for suggestions for the first meeting, and as there was a hesitancy on the part of the members, he suggested that "the school term should begin with a play, pointing out at the same time advantages which would be gained by this.

Miss Bessie Reed then suggested that there should be one play and several dialogues throughout the terms, this motion was unanimously carried.

Mr. Primeau passed some complimentary remarks about the old Philomathean and the meeting was brought to a close.

As the meeting was supplied with music from an adjoining room, one of the members suggested that ear trumpets be supplied for future meetings.

Quarterly Meeting.

The quarterly meeting of the Sunday school teachers of Murray street church will be held on Wednesday night. Mr. W. J. Dunlop will discuss the lesson for next Sunday at this meeting.

IT MAY BE THE BLOODIEST STRUGGLE IN HISTORY

War Cloud Gathers---Banks are Hoarding Money

New York Market Breaks Several Points as Result of Significant News from Banking Capitals of Germany and Britain.

ISOLATED NATION, BRITAIN'S ANSWER

Each Country is Apparently Building up Its Gold Reserve—One Step Near the Inevitable Crisis.

From a financial firm of the highest standing in English monetary circles, the following cable late Saturday afternoon was received.

"It begins to look like friction between Germany and England, and that the Bank of England is meeting the German Bank rate, and that both are likely to go to 6 per cent. as each country is apparently building up its gold reserve."

It needs no politician skilled in the knowledge of the present day European situation to read between the lines of the above message.

AN ISOLATED NATION.

Thus it will be seen how friendless the fatherland is in her central position, for she can no longer count on the help of bankrupt Russia. Then, the second reason, the fear of protection in England. Germany needs a market and right in Britain with her free trade she finds it. When, as it seems inevitable, the tariff wall will be raised against her, she will receive a deadly blow, for it will deprive her of her markets throughout the British empire.

The traditions of Bismark die hard, and depend upon it, Germany, rather than face financial disaster, will let loose the dogs of war.. The third and most powerful reason is the enormous increase in population.

A VAST DIFFERENCE

Try and Understand It.

Nothing except food is so essential to the maintenance of health as regularity of the system. Neglect this, and the certain result is pimples, boils, bad blood, dark rings under the eyes and sallow skin. Those who neglect regularity have headaches, languor, biliousness, despondency and live short, unhappy lives.

It is both a duty and a necessity to use medicine to make the system active. The old-time idea of salts, calomel and drastic purgatives has long since passed away. Nearly every one now uses Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are so mild— why they cleanse out the bowels, tone the stomach, stimulate the liver in one night. While you sleep Dr. Hamilton's Pills rid the system of its wastes and poisons —in the morning you arise bright and energetic, eager for breakfast and anxious for work.

There is no medicine so universally used in the family for biliousness, headache and stomach trouble as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut; 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Mrs. Turner in State of Collapse Saturday

Toronto, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Turner, who was to come up for sentence for manslaughter before Justice Magee at 7 o'clock tonight, has collapsed

She has been in a dead faint since 5.30.

Mrs. Turner's crime was the strangling of the Authers' infant, which she had accepted for adoption on payment of $100.

Blythe Sentenced to Serve 18 Years in the Kingston Penitentiary

(Special to The Times.)

Toronto, Oct. 24.—The jury in the Blythe case, the Agincourt man, who was having his second trial on a charge of murdering his wife, by beating her to death with a poker, and was convicted and sentenced to hang in the first trial, but granted a new trial,, was found guilty of manslaughter on Saturday night. He was sentenced by Judge Magee to 18 years in Kingston Penitentiary.

Parkdale A. A. C. Defeated Peterborough

The Peterborough Rugby Club with practically a junior fourteen on were defeated in Toronto on Saturday by the Toronto A.A.C. in their second game of the season, by a score of 31—4. The Petes were without four of the men who had played against Parkdale the week before through sickness or other causes and four new men had to be worked in the result being that the lightest and youngest team that has ever represented Peterborough in senior company. On the other hand the Toronto Club had a formidable machine of veterans lined out against them, outweighing the Petes by many pounds on the wing line. Maguire, Crooks, Holden, Sheriff and other well-known wing men were on the frontier for them while McCrimmon of McMaster University, Reg. DeGruchy the former Upper Canada College star and Art. Meredith were on the back division. It was a totally different team from the one which Parkdale defeated some weeks ago and should give the Paddlers a good run for their money when the two meet on Saturday.

Typhoon Victims Lashed to Spars

San Francisco, Oct. 23.—The Japanese liner Nippon Maru, which arrived here yesterday, reported that before leaving Hongkong, the British steamer Kwuyang arrived there and told of having passed many human bodies at the entrance to Haiten Straits.

The bodies were those of victims of a terrific typhoon. Many of the bodies were lashed to spars and were in an advanced state of decomposition. On one waterlogged sampan 30 bodies were counted.

Site Reserved for a New Silver City

The probable location of another new northern townsite is intimated by Hon. Frank Cochrane, minister of lands, forests and mines, in this week's issue of the Ontario Gazette.

Upon the recommendation of the minister, crown lands situated near the Timagami Forest Reserve west of Blue or Thor Lake, and along the line of the Canadian Northern Railway, are withdrawn from prospecting staking out, and from sale or lease under the Mining Act.

The lands in question adjoing the proposed junction of the Gowganda branch of the Canadian Northern, is an official intimation of the probable establishment of a townsite at the junction.

Rrssian Monarch Receives Welcome

Raeconigi, Italy, Oct. 23.—Nicholas emperor of all the Russias, made a triumphial entry into Italy today. Whatever may have stirred beneath the surface, the outward manifestation was a cordial and popular welcome to the head of a friendly state. Threatened demonstrations of ill-will had been steraly suppressed, but the day's rejoicing was spontaneous and genuine, even the mayor of Rome having been sent by a Radical and Socialistic board of aldermen to participate in the imperial reception.

Broadly viewed the much discussed and keenly anticipated meeting between Emperor Nicholas and King Victor Emmanuel opened most auspiciously.

The emperor arrived here at 3.30 p.m. From early dawn the scene in this city was most animated, as crowds gathered in the streets, anticipating the arrival of the royal visitor. The whole city had been decorated with flags and bunting.

He was 45 years of age, and a brother of the late John A. Vandervoort, commercial traveler, who died in Toronto last January. He leaves a widow and two sons.

Just before the C.P.R. local arrived from Toronto Saturday night the man in charge of the gates across George street, was raising the gates to let a street car pass. A boon to Stock Raisers

To Know How to Cure Colic, Distemper, Colds, Swellings, Etc.—Saves Thousands Each Year.

It is a matter of vital importance to every farmer, horse-owner and stock-raiser, to know exactly what to do when one of his animals is taken suddenly sick.

The letter of Mr. Frank F. Fullerton, which we print below, gives information of inestimable value, and tells of his experience in curing ailing stock during the past thirty-eight years:

SAVED $1,000 BY NERVILINE

"Several years ago when my horses took colic I used to give them Cayenne Pepper in hot milk, but in a few cases only did it help, and because I had no proper means at hand I lost several valuable animals. Some one told me of the success Mr. Wendling, of Brockville, Ont., had in his racing stable with "Nerviline," so I laid in a supply. It wasn't very long before Nerviline saved the life of a very valuable stallion of mine, which was worth at least $1,000. This horse was taken with colic, and would have died, had it not been for Nerviline. I have used Nerviline for reducing swellings, for taking out distemper lumps, and easing a bad cough, and always found it worked well. I recommend every man who owns horses or cattle to keep Nerviline on hand.

Mr. Fullerton is one of thebest known residents of Stormont, and his recommendation as an experienced and practical horseman proved beyond question how valuable Nerviline really is.

Give Nerviline a trial. It's good for man or beast, internally or externally. 25c. per bottle or five for $1.00. At all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

BRITISH NERVOUSNESS.

The Quebec Chronicle remarks that "it is easy to laugh at the British nervousness and yet it seems to be justified. Germany has no 'far flung battle line' to defend, such as compels Great Britain to maintain her costly naval armaments. The German coast is short and naturally impregnable against assault. The kaiser has no colonies worth defending, and an ornamental naval squadron would easily satisfy all the requirements of imperial dignity and all the needs of the empire, nor have the German people at any time shown anything of that fantastical disposition which at times leads nations to indulge in useless expenditures to make a temporary impression upon their neighbors. All this and more being admitted, the tremendous rush of work on a great German question—what is it for?"

The Chronicle doesn't believe Lord Northcliffe's newspaper instinct so far overpowers his conservative judgment as a statesman as to make him "see things at night." That there is no quarrel between England and Germany is answered by Lord Northcliffe in his latest interview by a reference to Germany and France, which had no quarrel in 1869, and probably would have had no war in 1870 if the plans of the empire-building Bismark had not reached that point in their development. The Chronicle approves this as the thought of sane and conservative men and commends every proposal for the strengthening of Britain against the time of wrath three years hence, when Lord Northcliffe thinks Germany will be ready to force a war on England to extinguish the latter's primacy in the commerce of the world.

AFTER CEMENT TRUST.

A despatch from Halifax announces the initiation of a movement to induce the Canadian Union of Municipalities to formulate action against the cement merger. Since the establishment of the merger the price of cement has risen and as the merger will be practically absolute in the control of cement output and control in Canada, there is the grave possibility that the recent increase may be found to be merely a forerunner of worst things to come. The increase will affect injuriously every inhabited part of Canada. The Canadian Union of Municipalities, as an admirably constituted and growingly influential body, representing a practically national constituency, would be the ideal head of a systematized plan for the collection of evidence against the merger and the invocation of the most severe penalties the law provides.

COULD NOT AFFORD IT.

It is highly improbable that our American neighbors intend to arm the training ships which Canadian courtesy permitted them to take through the canals to the upper lakes. Even the less responsible government of a single State would hardly think of such a breach of international faith. Should it happen, it is altogether likely that nothing more would be needed than to call the attention of the Washington Government to the fact. The American Republic cannot afford to stand before the world convicted of such a departure from international honor.

CANADIAN EATABLES LIMITED.

An Investment That Promises Good Results.

Elsewhere will be found the prospectus of the Canadian Eatables, Limited, to which The Times invites the attention of investors. The company offers for sale 50,000 full paid shares of $1.00 par value each, of Cumulative preferred stock, and in order to make it easy for the investor have arranged payments as follows: 25 cents per share with subscription and 75 cents on or before December 1st 1909. The Company has an Ontario charter and has an authorized capital of $100,000. It is splendidly officered the directors, all being successful and well known business men.

The business of the company will be the manufacture of food products, such as canned meats, cheese, canned fruits, confectionary, biscuits and kindred products, also breeders of Cattle for export.

Mr. Milton Worth DeLaborbe, a director of this company, and whose experience will be valuable to it, has been a successful manufacturer of Food Products, has a thorough and practical understanding of this business, and is the inventor of many secret and valuable formulas for the preparation of Food Products.

Canadian Eatables, Limited, owns its factories and farms in Toronto and Honora, Manitoulin Island. The property in Manitoulin Island represents some 7000 acres of land, well wooded and suited to the purposes of the Company. On this land is bred live stock for the Canadian and European markets, the buildings are commodious and fully equipped for the economic manufacture of the Company's products.

Canadian Eatables, Limited, will market its output principally in Canada, but will conservatively commence building up a substantial European business by the export of live stock as well as its manufactures.

The Island of Manitoulin, as the home of the Company's farms, is well chosen. It is located in the heart of the pastoral portion of the Dominion, and is unexcelled for its magnificent crops, and one of its valuable features is its water frontage, its excellent wharves, and shipping facilities, by the use of which we are enabled to ship live stock and goods to any point of importance.

The Times cannot speak too highly of the investment. It is, we believe, sound and safe, and will prove a most profitable one.

We are calling a few extra copies of the paper to leading investors, in the belief that they will respond by subscribing for a liberal allotment of stock.

Get Well First

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that.

I am the only physician who says to the sick "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you health."

And for 20 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been sold on just that basis. Millions are now using them in every civilized land, and in every community, and every locality. Then why pay for cure, and at your risk, for the experimental stage? Don't you see that I must be thoroughly sure, beyond the peradventure of a doubt, before Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes from the factory to the user, or the druggist who sells it to you? Else how could I afford to make such a bold offer as I do?

Then Pay For Health

Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a physician's prescription for sick people. It is not a stimulant, but a true tonic. It is not a habit former, but a health builder. It is not a false forcer, but a true nerve food. It is not a mere relief, but a permanent cure. It is not a make-shift, but a help that helps to stay helped.

J. L. MITCHELL, Manager

IRELAND.

George Meredith's plea for home rule is embodied in his last poem, "Ireland," which leads off "Scribner's" for July, accompanied by a hitherto unpublished portrait which was painted in 1897 for J. M. Barrie by Amy Draper Sumner. We quote three of the seven stanzas:

Fire in her ashes Ireland feels
And in her veins a glow of heat.
To her the lost old time appeals
For resurrection, good to greet;
Not as a shape to spectral eyes,
But humanly maternal, young
In all that quickens pride, and wise
To speak the best her bards have sung.

May she not call herself her own?
That is her cry, and thence her spite
Of fury, thence her graceless tone
At justice given in bits and bits.
The limbs once raw with gnawing chains
Will fret at silken when God's beams
Of freedom beckon o'er the plains
From mounts that show it more than dreams.

A nation she, and formed to charm,
With heart for heart and hands all round,
No longer England's broken arm,
Would England know whose strength is found,
And strength to-day is England's need;
To-morrow it may be for both
Salvation: heed the portents, heed
The warnings,' free the mind from sloth.

TEACHING HORSES TO JUMP.

There Are Three Methods Used—Coaxing, Lunging and Driving.

There are three methods of teaching a horse to leap—coaxing, lunging and driving. In the coaxing method the young horse is turned into a small paddock having a low hedge or hurdle across the center. In plain view of the pupil a rider on a veteran jumper should take him over the hurdle several times.

The trainer then goes to the opposite side with a measure of corn or oats and calls the horse, shaking up the grain and pouring it with his hand back and forth in the receptacle. The boundary will soon be cleared, and when a few mouthfuls have been eaten the station of the instructor should be at the other side of the hurdle and the lesson repeated. If this be done daily the hurdle may be gradually heightened.

The habit of jumping is thus acquired without those risks which attend a novel performance when a heavy burden oppresses the strength and whip and spur distract the attention. The horse's body, says Country Life in America, is not partially disabled by the imposition of a heavy load before the powers are taxed to the utmost and his capabilities are unfettered.

The second method is termed lunging. A long rein or cord is attached to the bit, and the animal is exercised in a circle in which a hurdle has been placed or a shallow ditch dug. A long lashed whip, used only to keep him in motion or lightly applied at the proper moment, will keep him up to his work. Soon the horse will enter into the spirit of the occasion and by unmistakable signs will manifest his enthusiastic enjoyment of the exercise.

The third method, driving, is exactly what its name implies. At first the obstruction should be slight. Any open space will answer the purpose, an earth or sod surface or tanbark being preferable. Long reins, a straight bar or snaffle bit, a long whip and patience and perseverance are required.

All things considered, the driving method is the quickest and surest way of teaching the horse to leap. When he has become somewhat proficient, having thoroughly learned what is required of him, the saddle may be called into requisition and the practical lessons begun.

Almost any young horse can be taught to leap. Of course his proficiency will depend on the care bestowed on his training and on his general characteristics of wind, limb and nerve. An ordinary cob or Morgan will attain the proficiency of an Irish hunter, but any horse that is used for a saddler will be of far greater value to his owner if he can be taken occasionally for a cross country ride and put over ditches and low obstructions.

Ethics and Morality.

If a woman's husband has been silly enough to take more wine than is good for him, morality would lead her to send him to bed. Ethics would lead her to send him to Coventry. And ethology would probably lead her to send him to a penal settlement for inebriates.

If a man's wife throws a teapot at him (as happened recently in the aristocratic neighborhood in which I live) morality would lead him to go out of the house for an hour or so and give her nerves a chance. Ethics would probably induce him to go out of the town and write to her from a garden city that their temperaments were incompatible. What ethology would make him do I hardly dare to think.—Chesterton in Illustrated London News

More Accurate.

The pastor and his wife had called upon a member of the congregation, a widow with a small but exceedingly lively boy, and were on their way home. "Well," said the preacher, "she seems to be a very intelligent woman anyhow."

"Yes."

"And very positive in expressing her opinions."

"On the contrary," said his wife, "she struck me as being strongly negative."

"Negative? How?"

"Everything she said to her little boy began with a 'Don't, Johnny!'"—Exchange.

Sympathy of the Flowers.

More or less credence is still given in England to the old belief in the sympathy of the vegetable kingdom for human suffering. "I prayed all night," writes a gardener whose employer was very sick, "and the flowers on my window sill drooped, and I said to myself they were dead. But toward morning they picked up, and I was sure enough the master was better. And the same thing had happened to the flowers I had sent to his bedroom. They were dying, and they came to life again. And I knew when those flowers picked up that the master was better."

The Pins.

"Oh, dear," sighed her husband's wife, "I can't find a pin anywhere. I wonder where all the pins go to anyway?"

"That's a difficult question to answer," replied his wife's husband, "because they are always pointed in one direction and headed in another."

A Willing Scot.

Dean Ramsay has a story of that border hostility between English and Scots which used to go to ballad lengths. A Scottish drover was returning from the south in particularly bad humor with the English, having done poor business, when he saw in Carlisle a notice offering a reward of £20 to any one who would volunteer for the unpopular task of hanging a condemned criminal. Seeing his chance to make up for his bad market and comforting himself with the thought that he was unknown there, he did the job and got his fee. As he was leaving he was taunted as a beggarly Scot, doing for money what no Englishman would. But he answered, with a cheerful grin, "I'll hang ye a' at the price."

Ways to an Untimely End.

The catalogue of the ways and means employed by otherwise sensible people to incur the risk of disease and an untimely end include running to catch trolley cars, breathing rapidly through the mouth instead of deeply through the nose, eating too hastily and overeating, "slouching" instead of standing and walking in an erect attitude, using unnecessary stimulants, failing to exterminate the pestilential housefly, which goes blithely about carrying the germs of disease; sleeping in ill ventilated rooms and failing to protect food from flies and other insects by proper screening.

HUGO AS AN ARTIST.

The Great French Writer's Opinion of His Own Drawings.

When Victor Hugo's "Marion Delorme" was read before the troupe of the Porte-Saint-Martin theater, the actor Lafeuriere, then a young man, protested against the insignificant role assigned him, in which he would have only ten lines to recite. Hugo promptly reduced him to silence by thundering, "Ten lines of Victor Hugo are something not to be refused—for they endure." Hugo attached a similar exaggerated significance to everything he did and to every object that was in any way associated with him.

For instance, he considered his drawings, which were for the most part commonplace enough, of sufficient importance to make them the subject of a testamentary provision. In his will of Aug. 31, 1881, he wrote, "I give my drawings and everything which shall be drawn by me to the National Library of Paris, which will be one day the Library of the United States of Europe."

Hugo's drawings are said to have been produced more often than not in the following manner: If a blot of ink chanced to fall on his paper while he held his pen aloft in quest of a word or rhyme, he enlarged the spot absentmindedly and made additions to it instinctively under the influence of a species of subconscious direction until he had produced a sinister moonlight scene or a "venerable bourg dominating with its bristling ruins the shuddering waters of a river of legend." He elaborated with great care, however, during his irksome exile at Guernsey certain crude impressions he had transferred to his sketchbook during his journeys in the valley of the Rhine. Furthermore, being a great lover of children, he drew figures of the most extravagant sort for the amusement of the young people of his household.—Alvan L. Sanborn in Bookman.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—18 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Cheat Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

Mill tests have proved that half of the values can be saved on the plates, and the remainder concentrate readily into a smelting product.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $500. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

Mines located near Valardena, Durango, Mexico only six miles by wagon road and three miles straight line from the property of the Guggenheims upon which they have recently erected a $2,000,000 smelter. Sample assays have averaged from $64 to $102 per ton.

Up to the present time, the Turquoise Copper Co., has been practically a close corporation; an initial offering of 100,000 shares has just been made at 25 cents, par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable. Proceeds will be used to further continue the development work already begun.

We have options on 50,000 shares of this stock and advise immediate purchase at 25 cents per share. It is the intention of The Board of Directors to list the stock on the New York Curb and it should sell at $1.00 per share by the first of the year.

ANOTHER FLAG EPISODE

HOW A CANADIAN SHIP FARED IN AUSTRALIA.

Officials of Port Adelaide Failed to Recognize the Canadian Ensign and Ordered a British Flag in Its Place —After Heated Dispute With Handspikes Explanation of Affair Was Arrived At.

All the talk lately about an alleged insult to the British flag in Toronto, started one of the city's well-known wholesale merchants reminiscing the other day; and he told an interesting story of a flag episode in Port Adelaide, South Australia, in which he himself was a participant. Things became very lively for a while, but in the end, just as in the Toronto affair, it was found that the whole thing was due to a mistake. But let him tell it in his own words:

"In 1883 I was an able seaman on board the Canadian barque 'Lake Erie,' on a voyage from London, England, to Port Adelaide, South Australia, with general cargo. Our commander was Captain John Keay, our chief officer was George Fullam, and the second officer was Jack Bird, all three Scotia men, and two-thirds of the crew of 28 men were Nova Scotians or Canadians.

"We arrived in Port Adelaide one bright morning, and like all deep-water ships, we dressed ship when we moored alongside of our dock, and we were very proud to haul up the Canadian ensign at our peak. During the forenoon we were visited by a messenger from the deputy port warden's office, who came aboard and ordered our flag to be pulled down and the British ensign to be hoisted. Naturally, our mate being on his own ship, was not used to taking orders. A quick right and left—one between the eyes and the other in the neighborhood of the chin—put the messenger from the port warden's office out of business, and a few seconds later the bo'sun and the bo'sun's mate were busy piping 'All hands aft.' On our arrival aft we were told that the warden had ordered the Canadian flag to be hauled down, and the mate ordered that we line up alongside the ship every man—in fact everybody on the ship, including the cook—to handle a handspike.

"On the return of the messenger to the port warden's office a couple more messengers were sent down, and from the dock, without coming aboard the ship, they commanded that we haul down the flag that was flying, and on the mate still refusing to do so a detachment of police was sent for. Naturally, when the police came aboard, a bunch of sailors that had been six months at sea were ready for a rough-house; and for a few minutes it looked like an Irish wake. It did not last long; but while it lasted it was hot. During the fracas the commander, Captain Keay, came aboard, and by instructions from the office, or rather the shipowners' agents, the commander was compelled to haul down the flag and substitute the red ensign.

"Now this happened to a British ship in a British port, and naturally enquiries were made as to why such a thing should occur. In fact, our commander threatened to haul his ship out into the offing and lay at anchor and fly his flag in spite of the South Australian Government; but when it was explained, it shows how easily mistakes can occur through the misinterpretation of instructions by an over-zealous officer, only anxious to carry out his interpretations of the instructions.

"It appears that at that time South Australia was inaugurating a navy of her own, consisting of a number of small coasting gunboats. The South Australian flag is a blue ensign, the same as the British Royal Navy Reserve, but which had a round, white disc on the lower wing with an aboriginal or nigger in the corner. When the navy was inaugurated, they adopted the blue ensign with the nigger for their naval flag, the same as the British Royal Navy adopted the white ensign with the red cross of St. Andrew, and in adopting this flag for the South Australian navy they prohibited all Australian vessels from flying anything but the red ensign or British ensign; but in making out their regulations, instead of using the words 'South Australian vessels,' it words 'South Australian vessels,' it seemed, "all colonial vessels," consequently the ship I was in, hailing from a British colony, came under the regulations as a colonial vessel and consequently under the rules of and consequently under the rules of the port a colonial vessel was compelled to fly the British flag instead of the colonial. Needless to say, the matter was quickly remedied, and a very short time afterward a deputation again visited our ship from the port warden's office with instructions for us to hoist the Canadian flag, which was done with great ceremony, resulting in a general piping aft of the watch for grog, and a half-holiday."

Writes From Arctic.

A letter has been received at the geological survey at Ottawa from V. Steffansson, who is far up in the Arctic circle, conducting natural researches in conjunction with Dr. Anderson. The two gentlemen are living among the Eskimos, their principal diet being caribou.

Steffansson says that he has come in contact with many Eskimos who never before have seen a white man. The two explorers got along well during their long stay in the north, where they will remain for over a year more. They expect to spend next winter at the mouth of the Copper Mine River.

The letter was written on Feb. 12, taking five months to reach Ottawa.

Capital Abroad.

Why is it that so much Canadian capital is invested abroad? Millions upon millions of Canadian money are invested in Mexico in water-powers and irrigating lands. Much is also used in the American stock market. It looks as if this were not a good country for the investor.—Daily Review, Peterborough.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect would come into practice. A tiny, invisible, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these "inside nerves" fail then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain.. Sold by all dealers.

ANGLO-INDIAN SOCIETY.

Salary Decides a Briton's Standing In the Orient.

Anglo-Indian society is strictly official. The male exile's status depends upon the number of rupees he draws each month from the Government. An "Assistant District Superintendent of Police" may be the younger son of a baronet, with an ancestry going back to the Conquest. But he must take in to dinner the Eurasian wife of the "Opium Wallah" or a "Government servant," who is paid a salary of similar dimensions. The "Collector," who gets the equivalent of a thousand pounds a year, as paired off with the sister of the officer commanding the local regiment. In all probability, the lady has a supreme contempt for the "civilian's" social standing, although her unpretentious parents may have kept a Bayswater boarding-house. In the large "stations," railway employes, tea and indigo planters, barristers and business men have a bowing acquaintance with the officers of the British infantry regiments, and they are welcomed in native infantry messes. British cavalry officers and their wives, however, seldom tolerate them, though impecunious subalterns (with an eye to the main chance) make a point of cultivating bank managers. Occasionally, the officers of one corps do not encourage friendly relations with those of another, the womenkind of these warriors being only too ready to obey the mandate. Under these circumstances, jovial Anglo-Indians who are anxious to make friends of everybody—from the "Commissioner" down to the "Acting Additional Traffic Manager," who occupies a lowly position in the railway office—loathe (with exceeding hate) Rawalpindi, Secunderabad, Bangalore, Lucknow, Meerut, and other large military "stations" where cliques abound.

The "Mem-Sahib" is not over-burdened with household duties. For many months in the year, the appalling heat (which reduces the liveliest lady to the verge of apathy, dispels any good intentions she may have formed. Besides, it is not customary for the mistress of the house to pry too closely into the uncleanly mysteries with which the native servants surround themselves. Even the strongest-minded "Mem" is staggered by the sights which await her in the "bowarchi whansh," as the kitchen is known. Nor is she encouraged to take an interest in her servants and their children. Should she condescendingly pat little Ahmed's fat cheeks, little Ahmed's papa will straightway accuse her of regarding his offspring with the "evil eye."

Bronze Statuettes.

An interesting exhibition of bronze statuettes by Anthony Van Wouw was inaugurated recently at the Fine Arts Society's galleries by Sir Richard Solomon, who deputed to Dr. Engelenburg, one of the South African delegates at the Imperial Press Conference, the task of introducing the personality of the Boer sculptor.

Anthony Van Wouw's nationality is betrayed by his subjects rather than by his style, which is the result of sound training in the European art centres. He has chosen his models from among his own people and the indigenous black races, whose varied types he renders with considerable realistic force. Nor is this realism confined to the faithful reproduction of racial characteristics; in several cases, as in the statuette of a "Kaffir Eating Mealies" and the pathetic group "Bad News," he endeavors, with marked success, to convey a suggestion of the arid, stony veldt. There is something of monumental dignity in his little seated figure of "Paul Kruger in Exile." Of peculiar interest are the two figures of "Voortrekkers," designed for the corners of the Kruger monument, which was commissioned from the artist before the outbreak of the war.

Lord Lonsdale's Bet.

There are few better all-round sportsmen in the Empire than the Earl of Lonsdale, who is taking such an active interest in the Travel and Sports Exhibition, due to open next month at Olympia. He rides, shoots, motors, boxes, yachts, and is an expert slipper of greyhounds. Horses, however, have been the hobby of his life, and on matters connected with them his opinions are of great value. Once Lord Lonsdale made a bet he would drive twenty miles in less than an hour. The roads were bad, but the weather was worse. For the first five miles his lordship drove a four-in-hand, a pair for another five miles, rode postilion of a pair for the next five, and completed the remainder of the distance by driving a single horse for the last stage. The entire journey was covered in four and a half minutes under the hour

Engine-Cleaner as an Artist.

Another romantic struggle for fame is illustrated by the career of Mr. Alfred Hudson, who has had a picture accepted for this year's Academy in London. He started life as an engine-cleaner, and in the course of time was promoted to his present post of chief clerk in the locomotive department of the Northeastern Railway at Leeds. He developed a passion for art, but had no money to purchase the necessary equipment. By exercising the strictest economy, however, he was able to save out of his wages sufficient to procure some brushes and paint. He has exhibited in different parts of the country.

A Witty Entry.

Mme. Ghosal, the daughter of the Maharajah of Cooch Behar, the Indian prince whose magnificent attire makes him one of the most picturesque figures at Court, can be very witty on occasions. Once, when staying at a country house, she was asked to write down a thought in an album, and seeing that someone had inscribed the somewhat sententious phrase, "Do right, and fear no man," she took the pen and promptly wrote underneath, "Don't write, and fear no woman."

Reclaiming Holland.

[illegible] the 16th century the Dutch have reclaimed more than 1,000,000 acres of land from sea, lake and river.

Unreasonable.

"Your baby cries a great deal at night. Can't you do anything for it?"

"Your dog barks a good deal. Can't you do anything to stop him?"

"Confound it, such unreasonable people as you haven't any right to live in a flat!"

The Result the Same.

"Mimme some of that prune pie."

"Mon, you're had two kinds of pie already."

"Then another kind won't matter if there's only one kind of [illegible]"

STRANGE PEOPLES.

Denizens of Darkest Africa Described For Geographers.

Major R. G. T. Bright, C.M.G., gave an interesting account of survey and exploration in the Ruwensori and Lake region, Central Africa, before the Royal Geographical Society. The country described is in the neighborhood of the western border of the Uganda Protectorate and the Congo State. Maj. Bright gave some interesting details regarding the natives of the country through which the expedition passed. The people of Bavira were noticeable for their women wearing a particularly disfiguring ornament in their upper lips—an embellished wooden disc, from 21-2 to 3 inches in diameter. These tribes bartered their food for beads and cloth, much preferring the latter, though they were but scantily clothed. The males wore a piece of cloth carried between the legs, with its ends tucked, both in front and behind, through a belt of hide or rope, and for ornaments ivory and wooden bracelets. With the women a bunch of weeds worn behind was all that was considered necessary, though their necks were encircled with many strings of different-colored beads. The young men and women dressed their hair with a mixture of light clay.

A finer and a darker race—the Lendu—was warlike and continually fighting amongst themselves or with anyone else they thought themselves strong enough to overcome. They were treacherous, and would go to almost any extremes in their anxiety to obtain arms and ammunition. The district between the Congolese stations, Kasindi and Beni, Maj. Bright reported, was an ideal elephant country, and was tenanted by some large herds. The Etuli forest and the wooded slopes of Ruwensori formed veritable strongholds for elephant, while in the Toro Game Reserve devastated plantations and spoor testified to the numbers still living in and around the protected country. In the open country on the southern shore of Lake Albert, when the plains are marshy, elephant and buffalo roam over them. In the kingdom of Ankoli the population could be roughly classified as the Bahima, the aristocracy, and the Baero, the cultivators and serfs. The Bahima believed vaguely in an all-powerful Deity, who was associated mainly with rain, thunder, and other weather phenomena. They endeavored to propitiate various devils—most of whom were connected with the prevalent diseases—by erecting joss-houses, in which food and beer were placed. They invariably carried round the neck wooden charms or small goats' horns, which had been invested with magical power by the medicine men, and usually wore wire bracelets and anklets. The Bahima were a purely pastoral people. All forms of agriculture were held in contempt, and were relegated to their Baero servants.

The Baamba people living in the forest near the Etuli river were addicted to cannibalism of a particularly loathsome form. Families exchanged their young children, who were then eaten. The Baamba in many cases filed their teeth, but this practice was not quite general. They were a jovial people. A constant warfare went on between village and village. They are built on the top of a ridge, and a stout wooden stockade is erected round. Each village had a club-house, furnished with a few rough three-legged chairs, made of the forked boughs of a tree, on which the members lie: the men gathered there to talk and smoke.

Wifely Pride.

There is no telling what quaint turns wifely pride and devotion may take. Sir Melvill Beachcroft, whose work in connection with the London County Council is well-known, while waiting in a tenement house for the occupant of the first floor to admit him, chanced to overhear two women conversing on the stairs.

One remarked that her husband always wore a clean shirt every Sunday morning.

"Well, now," responded the other, "I never cares about Sundays, but I allays do see that 'e 'as a clean shirt Saturday afternoons, 'cos that's the time 'e is generally drinking, and when 'e does take 'is coat off to fight I do like to know 'e looks nice and clean.—M.A.P.

Easily Identified.

One of the peculiarities of Viscount Goschen is to pay surprise visits to the branches of the bank which he helps to control. Not long ago he entered a country branch and asked the clerk in charge to cash a cheque drawn by a friend, adding that both himself and friend were customers of the bank. When the clerk complied, Mr. Goschen, as he was then, read him a severe lesson on cashing cheques for strangers. "How do you know I came by the cheque honestly?" he asked. "I don't know," said the clerk; "but if anything went wrong your father would indemnify the bank against loss, and I always like to oblige a director." The said director had thought he was unknown.

Variety Artistes Salaries.

Exactly who is the highest-paid variety artiste next to Harry Lauder, who received close upon $4,000 a week while touring America, it is not easy to say. Miss Ada Reeve and Miss Vesta Tilley, however, must be very near the top. A recent law case revealed the fact that the former is accustomed to obtain engagements at $1,500 a week, while Miss Vesta Tilley's "turn" is placed at an even greater value. There are quite a number of variety artistes—Mr. Geo. Robey, "Little Tich," and Miss Marie Lloyd included—whose salaries range from $500 to $750 and more per week.

Queer Claret.

A party of miners calling at an inn in Llangollen during the absence of the landlord were shown into the best room which, on his return, caused him to remonstrate. His wife, however, explained that a lot of money had been spent, and that seven bottles of claret had already been drunk. "Claret!" said he. "Why, I sold the last bottle the other day; you've been selling him cutcup."

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with seeming success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it's constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another everywhere. Grateful patients, gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

WHY THESE SHARES ARE BEING OFFERED.

Every legitimate business founded on public necessity for a good low-priced article, and on sound, healthy conditions, must in the course of its development, reach a point where its expansion has outgrown its facilities, and call for additional capital to provide for its necessities and greater possibilities. The foregoing information illustrates the commercial condition of this business. It has reached that point where more capital is necessary in order to do greater business, and to satisfy the urgent demand for its products.

PERMANENT INVESTMENTS CANNOT BE MADE BY MONEY ADVANCED BY BANKS, OR OBTAINED THROUGH ANY OTHER CHANNEL, EXCEPTING THE SALE OF SECURITIES.

In a large business this policy is always considered the best one, for investors have always found that the man who has built up a business by hard effort of years, and by all he owns in the world, furnishes the best guarantee for a continuance and further development of the methods that have brought success. For this reason, and after careful consideration, it has been decided to offer to the investor an opportunity to become interested in Canadian Eatables, Limited, and to share in its further success.

PROFITS

This company manufactures only necessary food products, for which the demand is permanent and staple, and supply dominates the market prices, and the high prices prevalent proves the inability of the manufacturer to satisfy the needs of the market. The profits earned are enormously high in comparison to other enterprises, and the company has sufficient contracts on hand to warrant the distribution of a 50 per cent. dividend on both Preferences and Common Stock.

EQUAL SHARING OF PROFITS.

By-law 26 provides that a fixed 8 per cent. dividend will first be paid on the Preference Shares, and that balance of profits for distribution as dividends, in excess of that amount, will secondly, pay all or part of an 8 per cent. dividend on the Common Stock, and the surplus shall be equally divided between Common and Preferred Stock.

SUPERSTITIONS.

They Play at Times an Important Role in Human Affairs.

When Sir Charles Napier had conquered Mehemet Ali, he found it impossible to force or coax the wily Egyptian into signing the treaty which only would make his victory effective. He had nineteen interviews with Mehemet, in which the Englishman by turns argued, flattered and threatened his antagonist, who listened day after day with the same immovable, smiling countenance.

One day Sir Charles in speaking of England said casually that it "was governed by a lucky woman." A strange flash passed over the pasha's countenance, but he made no answer. As soon as Napier had gone Mehemet sent for the English consul, who was an Egyptian, and demanded:

"You were in London when the English queen was crowned. Were the omens bad or good?"

"All good."

"You think that good luck is written on her forehead?"

"I did not think upon the matter before, but now that you ask me I believe that it is. When she asked Allah to help her in her work, her eyes ran over. Allah loves the innocent."

"No doubt of that!" said Mehemet anxiously. "She must be lucky."

Early the next morning he sent for Sir Charles and signed the treaty. English power and English cannon he could brave, but not "the luck" written upon the forehead of a good woman whom he had never seen.

General Gordon's remarkable influence over the Chinese was in a large degree due, it is stated, to their belief in his extraordinary luck. During the Taiping rebellion he was followed by an army which did not comprehend either his ability or his religious zeal, but which believed that he was protected by an invisible being who led them to victory. No sword could wound him or bullet kill. A certain black ebony cane which he carried was supposed to be the magic talisman which brought him victory, and General Gordon was shrewd enough always to carry this cane when he led them into battle.

These superstitions seem absurd to us, but they show that the ignorant men who hold them believe in an invisible power who can give good or ill fortune at his will.—London Truth.

MAN EATING TIGERS.

The Killing Methods of These Terrible Brutes in India.

The theory that a man eating tiger is always an old tiger, more or less toothless and feeble, which has found the strain of catching vigorous wild game too much for its failing strength, has been upset by the bagging of notorious man eaters which were found to be young animals in the full pride of their powers. And it is likely that the taste for human flesh is passed on from mother to child, the tigress herself a man eater, teaching her cubs to hunt as she hunts. How terrible a thing a man eater may be can be judged from the fact that a tiger generally kills every second night, whether its quarry be man or beast. Having killed, it makes one meal that night, then drags the carcass somewhere into cover and more or less conceals it as a dog may hide a bone. On the next night its habit is to return to the same kill, and it is in that second visit that the hunter usually finds his opportunity. It is not the rule for a tiger to return again a third time, not because it is above eating carrion, but seemingly it tires of the carcass, which it has already twice mumbled over.

Thus one tiger in India has been known to kill regularly its fifteen natives a month with almost mechanical punctuality. Another, which seemingly did not confine itself entirely to human flesh, devoured an average of eighty people, men and women, for several years, while yet another is reported to have killed 127 people and to have stopped traffic on a public road for many weeks. There have been both English sportsmen and native shikaris who have accounted for their hundred tigers and upward, but many a tiger has killed more human beings than any man has ever scored tigers.—London Times.

A Reasonable Request.

"Arabella," said old Billyuns as he finished his dinner, "I am going to ask you to do me a favor. I want you to give your young man—Mr.—Mr. Whatshisname—a message from me."

Arabella blushed and looked down at her plate.

"Tell him," the bluff old millionaire went on, "that I don't object to his staying here and running up my gas bills, but that I do object to his carrying the morning paper away with him when he leaves."—London Answers.

Force of Habit.

"I'm surprised that you should be so interested in watching those silly dudes."

"Force of habit, I guess. I'm president of a real estate improvement company."

"Well?"

"Well, they're a vacant lot."

Lost and Found.

"Found a dollar yesterday."

"Lucky boy!"

"Not so lucky. In stooping to pick it up I dropped and broke my eyeglasses."

McGILL'S BENEFACTORS.

Lord Strathcona and Sir Wm. Macdonald Big Givers.

Lord Strathcona's recent gift of half a million dollars to McGill University for the completion of new medical buildings and the increase of the professors' salaries brings afresh to the mind the great debt which this university owes to its two principal benefactors. Lord Strathcona and Sir William Macdonald. So great is this debt that, without these two men, McGill to-day, instead of being a world-famous seat of learning, would be nothing more than a small college of parochial reputation. Lord Strathcona has always had an especial love for the medical department, and his donations have largely been in aid of this particular faculty. His most outstanding gift to McGill, however, was the palatial Royal Victoria College for Women, which he built and equipped at his own expense. Altogether, his gifts to the university must now approach $2,000,000, and, in addition, it must be remembered that he has given something like $1,500,000 to the Royal Victoria Hospital, which works in close connection with the McGill Medical Faculty.

Great as are Lord Strathcona's gifts, however, they pale beside those of Sir William Macdonald, which total at least $10,000,000, and probably exceed that sum by a considerable amount. Besides large amounts for endowments, McGill University is indebted to Sir William Macdonald and Lord Strathcona for all its more important buildings. Lord Strathcona gave the medical building and Royal Victoria College for Women, while Sir William Macdonald has given the Physics, Chemistry and Mining and Engineering buildings, together with the palatial McGill Union, used as a social club for the students, and last, but not least, the unique agricultural college at Ste. Anne de Bellevue. This latter is put in the above list at $3,000,000. Only Sir William himself and Prof. Robertson, however, know what the actual cost to him has been. It is known that the endowment fund is just over two million dollars, and it is commonly said among McGill men that the whole thing cost him $5,000,000.

Sir William is still in business as a tobacco manufacturer. He never advertises his goods, and he pursues the most conservative methods, not even having a telephone in his factory or in his house. Anyone buying imported tobacco from him has to send in with the order an accepted check for the import duty, and under no circumstances does he allow credit to extend over the end of the month, the only concession allowed being that those who do not pay may cancel their orders. Yet such is his reputation that he does an enormous wholesale business in chewing and smoking tobacco, and it is out of this business that he has made his immense fortune.

A peculiar thing is that Sir William not only hates the smoking habit, but positively loathes tobacco chewing, and does his best to discourage the use of tobacco in all with whom he comes in contact. It is related of him that when he was visiting New Brunswick recently with Prof. Robertson a waiter who helped Sir William on with his coat, wishing to ingratiate himself with the famous philanthropist, remarked that he had smoked tobacco of Sir William's manufacture for fifteen years.

"A most disgusting habit," snapped out Sir William, turning on his heel.

A City of Canoes.

Gowganda might be called the City of Canoes. There is a Venetian aspect about the little six months' old silver city, for the waterways form the principal means of getting back to civilization or farther back from the frontier. Here and there canoes are dragged up on the shore, while others, sped by the paddle, strike westward, southward and northward during every hour of daylight.

At the foot of the main street a big white launch looms up alongside the flotilla of canoes like the Lusitania among a lot of river tugs or ferries. Tents dot the landscape here and there among the larger and more permanent buildings of log or board.

As Gowganda is supposed to be a dry town, a realistic touch is given by a sign which bears the words "Gowganda Saloon," but only soft drinks are served. Down at the water front is a unique institution called the "Gowganda Canoe Exchange." Another building boasts a signboard bearing the words "Quick Lunch." Three reading chartered banks carry conspicuous signs which indicate that the monetary business of the camp is well looked after.

To Redeem Old Coins.

The punishment for mutilating and attempting to pass mutilated coins is not generally understood, and is so severe that there is a reluctance to prosecute and as a consequence many innocent persons are put to inconvenience and loss, being only able to dispose of them as old silver at a mere fraction of their nominal value.

In order to relieve such persons and at the same time to keep the currency clean, the Minister of Finance has now authorized the assistant receivers-general to take such coins at a discount of 25 per cent. off their face value, so that they may be recoined at the mint.

Medical Reciprocity.

The Ontario Medical Council has appointed a committee to discuss with committees from Manitoba and the Northwest Provinces the subject of medical reciprocity. Manitoba has already appointed a committee, but British Columbia is not yet prepared to deal with the question. It is something little better than a scandal that the unqualified Canadian physician of one province should be a professional outlaw in another.—Hamilton Times.

Humor in Old Wills.

A certain Lieutenant-Colonel Nash left an annuity to the bell-ringers of Bath to "toll dolefully" on each anniversary of his wedding day, and contrite Mr. Withipol of Walthamstow left the bulk of his property to his wife, "trusting," he says—yes, I may say as I think, assuring myself—that she will marry no man for fear to meet with so evil a husband as I have been to her."

Mr. Jasper Mayne at least considered himself witty when he bequeathed to his valet a wornout portmanteau, as it contained something, said the will, which would make him drink. The excited valet ripped open the trunk and found a red herring in it. So, doubtless, did the Scotch gentleman who in 1877 left to his son's care his two worst watches, "because," he said, "I know he is sure to dissect them."—St. James' Gazette.

A WELSH FESTIVAL.

Eisteddfod is Opened by Musicians in London.

In a pretty glade in Kensington Gardens, in London, near the Serpentine, the Welsh bards celebrated recently the ritual of the Gorsedd, which marks the opening of the national eisteddfod.

According to the ancient tradition, the rites must be performed "in the face of the sun, the eye of light," and though the somber skies made it impossible to carry out the letter of the law, it was fulfilled sufficiently in the spirit by the performance of the rites in a druidical circle erected in the open air.

The circle consists of unhewn stones, outside of which three other stones are placed. In the centre of the circle is the Maen Llog, a large stone supported on three others.

A trumpeter, standing upon this stone, sounded the Corn Gwlad, thus formally opening the Gorsedd, and the prayer of the Gorsedd was recited in Welsh.

The bards, in their blue, green and white robes, presented a striking spectacle, and the insignia of his office rendered Dyfed, the archdruid, a notable figure. With his flowing white robe, oakleaf crown, and golden torque of horseshoe shape, he was impressive indeed as he mounted the Maen Llog and cried aloud thrice in a voice of thunder the formal challenge, "A oes Heddwch?" (Is it Peace?).

"Heddwch!" the assembly shouted, and Dyfed sheathed again the eight-foot sword which, in symbolic rite, he had half drawn from its scabbard.

Speech-making in Welsh followed, and then the bards and onlookers trooped off to the Albert Hall, where the eisteddfod met.

The proceedings at the hall during the morning were disappointing in a great many ways, and there appeared to be a deplorable lack of organization.

The best singing was heard in the chief choral competition, in which the first prize went to the Carnarvon Choral Society, and the second to the Llanelly Choral Society.

At the afternoon meeting Mr. Balfour made a most interesting speech in praise of music.

"Music has ever been one of the great arts in which Welshmen have excelled," he stated. "There cannot be a gift which carries with it higher pleasures—pleasures more easy of attainment, pleasures which leave no after-sting, no after-taste of evil, but which raise and must raise the whole level of civilized pleasures among the people who practice them.

"Music knows no national barriers; music is not subject to the limitations which unhappily beset language. Music speaks to men of all races and of all tongues."

Costly Pennies.

Who was Wiglaf? Numismatists know, and gave £449 for two of his silver pennies at Sotheby's. Wiglaf, or Withlafe, as his name is sometimes spelt in the old chronicles, was that King of Mercia tributary to Egbert, first King of England, and held nominal sway between 825 and 839. His silver penny, without bust, with a cross in centre and a pellet in each angle within a beaded centre on the obverse, and lunettes and pellets on the reverse, caused exciting bidding, which reached £378 (Spink). Only one other of this particular type is known, and it is fortunately in the British Museum. Another Wiglaf penny, with a rude head in a circle and a cross-crosslet in centre of reverse, realized £174 (Lincoln). This was found at Dorking in 1817. The sale was that of the famous Rashleigh collection. A penny of Egberht (765-791)—not to be confounded with Egberht, son of Offa of Mercia, but the King of Kent mentioned in old charters—without a bust, but with the King's name, made £153 (Lincoln). Only three other coins of this type are known, two being in the Hunter Museum, Glasgow. An East Anglian penny of Eadvald, 819-827, realized £52 (Lincoln), and one of Jaenberht, who was Archbishop of Canterbury between 766 and 190, £93. This was discovered near Netley Abbey, and wears the names of Offa and the Archbishop. In the digging of the foundation for the Martyrs' Memorial at Oxford, another of this prelate's pennies was found, and this fetched £20. A penny with the diademed bust of Cynethryth, who was Offa's Queen, made £10 (Spink).

Lord Balcarres as a Walker.

It was Lord Balcarres, a trustee of the National Portrait Gallery, who announced the saving to England of Holbein's picture, "The Duchess of Milan." His lordship has crowded much good work into his thirty-seven years of life. Not only has he distinguished himself in the cause of art and architecture — he is a trained architect- but he has also served the state in the House of Commons as one of the Unionist Whips. A notable characteristic is his rapid walk. "Burns' gallop is nowhere in it with Balcarres' walk," growled a recalcitrant member on one occasion after being fetched back to the never-ending divisions while trying to escape. "It's no good unless you are streets ahead."

Helping the Enemy.

A coal heaver was getting in a load of coal in the suburbs of London. He was shoveling in the coal at a good rate when he was startled by a terrific yell from the house adjoining.

"Wot the dickens is the matter?" queried the coal man, starting up.

"Matter, you thickhead!" shouted the man, frantically endeavoring to pull his hair up in clots by the roots. "You are putting the coal down the wrong hole. My wife's people live there!"—London Tit-Bits.

A Little Strong.

It is said that a young man, who invited his best girl out for a drive the other evening, when his horse dropped dead, took the horse's place and pulled her back to the city. This story is a trifle off color, but as it appeared in one of our local contemporaries we will make a bluff at swallowing it

Carters Want More Money.

Lindsay Discusses Paving.

Lindsay is just now thinking about paving Kent street at a cost of $20,000. At a public meeting held on Thursday night the matter was discussed in detail. It was thought that 40 cents should be paid by frontage tax.

The outcome of the meeting was that Mr. John Moffat, representative of the Westrumito Paving Co., will stay in town for a few days and will interview the merchants and property holders on Kent street where the pavement will be laid, if it is laid at all, and endeavor to get a petition up. He will be accompanied by members of the council.

INS AND OUTS.

It has been remarked that some of the Peterborough aldermen are becoming stout. Of course. They have swallowed some big propositions lately.

* * *

Some are born to trouble, some hunt for trouble and some go into politics.

* * *

A citizen thinks that both of the candidates at the last Dominion election in West Peterborough, are possessed of a ruinous quantity of self esteem. This g.f.j. would offer a friend this advice. Never judge a man by the opinion he has of himself.

* * *

TheTimes has been accused of favoring the local Grits in this column since the election trial. This great family journal might say in reply, as a sort of offset to this, that although relieved by a court of law from charges of corruption against him, it is not likely that the church will take steps to have the Hon. J. R. Stratton canonized as a Saint.

* * *

Senator Cox, in visiting Peterborough, says that he is always glad to get back to his own town. Well, it's nearly all his.

* * *

Why not give the local political situation a seitzl powder?

* * *

It is said that the Ontario Government proposes to have a searching investigation into the late lamented West Peterborough election. This great family journal finds it rather difficult to find the line which divides one political crisis from another.

* * *

If you have anything to say to a mule say it to his face.

* * *

The Times is informed that a citizen in the west end was nearly killed by an apple pie. This g.f.j. is left to wonder whether he eat the pie or whether it was thrown at him by an infuriated housekeeper.

Charity Board Expects to Have an Easy Winter

Several Families Who were Dependent on the City Have Moved Away and Several Have Been Deported

Conditions in Peterborough have undergone a great improvement during the past several months. The factories are all busy and many of the larger ones are increasing their staff so that today there are really no men out of work. In fact it is almost impossible to secure a laborer for a day or two to do odd jobs about one's premises.

This is a very bright outlook for the Charity Board and its sister institutions. The probability is that next winter will be an easy one compared with the past two years. Inspector F. W. Miller says he does not expect any such rush for charity this year. He reports that several families that relied upon the city for the necessities of life have moved away and the men have secured permanent employment in outside towns. Several other families have also been deported, so that the majority of those kept by the Charity Board are now gone and with the improved conditions here there should be quite a surplus next spring.

Smallpox Tents were Taken Down Yesterday

At last the smallpox epidemic has been stamped out and the last traces of the dreaded disease were removed yesterday afternoon when the several tents that have decorated the north end of the Hilliard farm for the past four months were taken down, steralized and packed away for future reference. The breaking up of the camp was a great relief to the medical authorities of the city and to the City Council as that little colony has been a source of great expense and not a little worry.

During the four months or more that Smallpoxville was in existence some thirty-five patients were the guests of the city for various periods. For those who have not the cares and worries of a family at home depending upon them for support their sojourn on the hill was something like a holiday, as nearly all the cases were of a very mild type. The tents and furnishings were made as comfortbale as possible and and the table board and the attendance, medical and otherwise, were the best obtainable. A number of games were also provided for the inmates and things made as pleasant as possible. None of the inmates suffered from their visit while the majority were physically much better when they came out.

SCARLET FEVER.

The scarlet fever tent which was up for six weeks and which occupied two patients was also taken down and stored away in case of emergency in the future.

The Hilliard farm is all farm now and it is the hope of every one that it will remain so.

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE.

Mrs. John Hazlitt, died at Her Home, Dublin street, Monday.

On the morning of October 25th, 1909, at her residence, 102 Dublin street, Mrs. John Hazlitt, aged 82 years and three months fell asleep. The late Mrs. Hazlitt was born in Belfast, Ireland, July 15th, 1827. When 12 years of age her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dick came to Canada, settling in Kingston, where she resided until her marriage with the late John Hazlitt on July 25th, 1850. For fifty years Mrs. Hazlitt resided in Otonabee, seeing it transformed from a wilderness into a beautiful country. On the death of her husband June 16th, 1899, she removed to Peterborough, residing on Harvey street for ten yeers. Mrs. Hazlitt was one of the oldest members of St. Paul's church, removing from St. Andrew's when the late Rev. Mr. Roger with a band of faithful followers erected what is now known as St. Paul's church. Her life was full of kind thoughts and gentle influences. When able she was always present at the services of the sanctuary. It was a great trial to her when she was no longer able to attend church. Her tired body is at rest, her spirit is with the Lord.

Mrs. Hazlitt is survived by one son, Thomas G., of Otonabee and seven daughters, namely Mrs. Howson and Mrs. Dickson of Quill Lake; Mrs. Millar, of Oxbow, Sask.; Mrs. Frank Sanderson, of Smith; Mrs. John Lancashire, of Otonabee; Mrs. Roland Johnson, of Lakefield, and Miss Emmeline Hazlitt, of this city, and twenty-one grandchildren; also one sister, Mrs. John Murray, of Kingston. Another sister, Mrs. W. Robinson of Kingston, passed away on October 24th, just a few hours before Mrs. Hazlitt. We extend our hearts' sympathy to the bereaved family and commend them to the loving Father.

Life's race well run,
Life's work well done,
Life's crown well won,
Now comes rest.

A DOCTOR'S SLEEP.

Found He Had to Leave Off Coffee.

Coffee drinking, being such an ancient and respectable form of dissipation, few realize that the drug—caffeine—contained in the coffee and tea, is one of the principal causes of dyspepsia and nervous troubles.

Without their usual portion of coffee or tea, the coffee topers are nervous, irritable and fretful. That's the way with a whiskey drinker. He has got to have his dram "to settle his nerves"—habit.

To leave off coffee is an easy matter if you want to try it, because Postum—well boiled according to directions—gives a gentle but natural support to the nerves and does not contain any drug—nothing but food.

Physicians know this to be true, as one from Ga., writes:

"I have cured myself of a long-standing case of Nervous Dyspepsia by leaving off coffee and using Postum, says the doctor.

"I also enjoy refreshing sleep, to which I had been an utter stranger for 20 years.

"In treating Dyspepsia in its various types, I find little trouble when I can induce patients to quit coffee and adopt Postum." The Dr. is right and "there's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE.

Seniors and Juniors to Get Out every Day This Week.

There is Rugby practice for both seniors and juniors every afternoon at 4.30 and every evening at 7.30 this week and the executive committee make a special appeal to every player to get out at least once a day all week. The seniors need to put in a lot of work between now and their next game as it is necessary for them to win everything from now on if the championship is to be captured.

The juniors have a hard game ahead of them next Saturday when they go to Lindsay. The score here on Monday was very close and the Seagog boys are out after the championship again. They will put up as hard a game or harder on their own grounds and it is up to the locals to do business every day. All the best players are asked to be on hand to help along the other boys.

Black Hand Men Get 10 Years

Calgary as a Centre for Colonization

London, Oct. 26.—Colonel Lamb says his report to General Booth will be distinctly favorable to Calgary as a center for colonization. Asked about the financing of the scheme, Colonel Lamb replied; "It is purely a business arrangement on the part of the C.P.R. They met us handsomely, and though there is no philanthropy in their action, for an increase in trade will bring them better revenue, we suppose, than philanthropy, they supply the cash.

No Olympic Games in Greece Next Year

Toronto, Oct. 26.—The feeling throughout Canada for the past few weeks that there would be no Olympic games in Greece next year is confirmed by a letter to Elwood Hughes from a Greek naval officer, who is in close touch with affairs in Greece at the present time. The heads of affairs are too busy with the militia troubles at present to give any time to committee work in connection with any set of Olympic games. It will be sad news to a few Canadian boys who had planned on going next year.

Fell from Building Died from Fright

Seattle, Oct. 24.—Andrew Clark, a brick mason, imagined he was bleeding to death and died before a doctor could arrive to assure him he was all right. Clark fell from a high scaffold here. In falling he caught on projecting beams and was held suspended by his steel cloth overall straps. A bottle of coffee which he carried in his hip pocket was cracked by the fall and the lukewarm fluid oozed out and trickled down his legs.

Clark imagined this was blood and he called to companions to get his wife, for he was dying. The coffee continued to leak out and Clark turned as white as a sheet. Police and workmen rescued Clark from the perilous position and carried him down to terra firma, but just as the doctor arrived he expired. The examination showed that the man's body did not even come in contact with the beam and that the came to his death purely from fright.

Korean Assassin Shot Prince Ito at Harbin

"I Came to Harbin for the Sole Purpose of Assassinating Prince Ito to Avenge My Country," Said Murderer.

PRINCE ITO DIED ALMOST INSTANTLY

He Had Been Japan's Leading Representative in Corea, and Was Looked Upon as One of the Foremost Statesmen of the World.

Harbin, Oct. 26.—Prince Hirobumi Ito was assassinated at the Tsaitsagen Railway Station here today.

At the moment the Japanese diplomat was acknowledging the noisy welcome that had greeted him as he stepped from the railway train. Smiling and bowing, he turned toward Russian Finance Minister Kokovsoff, who was awaiting him on the station platform a few paces distant.

Suddely came half a dozen revolver shots in quick succession, followed by the cries of those standing near the prince.

At the second report Prince Ito staggered and fell.

It was found that he had received three bullets, two of whom entered the abdomen.

Prince Ito died twenty minutes later without recovering consciousness.

The fusilade of shots threw the crowd into a panic but when the excitement had somewhat subsided it was found that three other members of the party on the platform had been injured.

They were Prince Ito's private secretary, Japanese Consul-General Kawakan and General Manager Tanaka of the South Manchurian Railway, who had moved closer to the prince as the firing began.

Their wounds are not believed to be mortal.

The assassin was not hard to locate, as he stood defiantly in the crowd, revolver in hand.

Paving Lindsay Streets.

It will be interesting for Peterborough people to know what is being done in Lindsay in regard to paving Kent street. The estimated cost is to be $20,800. Petitions are in circulation asking the Council to submit a by-law to the people, and here is what the Warder says regarding it:

Up till last evening (Friday), Ald. Kylie had met only one merchant or property owner who did not sign the petition for paving of Kent-st. This one man was busy at the time, but promised to give the matter due consideration at a later time.

A NEW GAME.

Volley Ball Will be Played by the Men at the Y.M.C.A.

A new game which is full of excitement and exercise will be introduced at the men's gymnasium classes at the Y.M.C.A. next Tuesday night. The game is very simple but it will cause a great deal of fun. A net seven feet high and a large ball like a soft rubber ball covered with leather are used, and the game is similar to tennis, except that the ball is kept in the air altogether and the hands are used instead of rackets. An equal number of players are stationed on each side of the net and every time it touches the floor it counts for the opposite side. The business men will get busy at volley ball next Tuesday night.

Mr. Coulter called on The Times and said that the Single Tax idea was rapidly growing and would in the near future, be recognized as a great boon to mankind.

He thinks the time has arrived when the municipalities of Ontario should wake up. Many grave abuses have arisen in this Province, which would not long be tolerated.

Mr. Coulter is circultaing a petition to the legislature, praying that the present Assessment Act be amended so that municipalities may tax improvement values at a lower rate than land values.

BAD DREAMS CURED.

A Winnipeg Man Tells of a Simple Remedy That Cured.

Escape From Indigestion.

"Though I am an active hard working man, somehow I fell into a condition of poor digestion and disordered stomach," writes Mr. Eb. P. Whinney. "In the morning I had a very unpleasant in the mouth. My tongue was whitish and nothing tasted good. An hour or so after eating I experienced pain in my right side, gas formed in the stomach and caused great distress. Even in warm weather my hands felt clammy, and seldom regular. Brooding and despondency would now and then get hold of me and completely unman me. When unfit for work I tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills. In my case their wonderful curative power was like magic. So mildly did they work upon my system I at first thought they wouldn't benefit. But a few doses proved how much they helped the stomach, how quickly they brace up digestion. Food tasted natural, my appetite improved, my face looked clear and bright, and day by day as I gained in health, so I gained in spirits. Today I am as sound, healthy, vigorous and well as any man could be. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

Beware of the dealer that may try to sell you an inferior pill to Dr. Hamilton's, which are sure to help and cure. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box. All dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

PETERBOROUGH MY HOME.

The Place for Me to Spend My Money is the Christmas Motto.

The next holiday is Christmas and it will keep, not only the merchants and business men, but the individuals busy preparing for it. Everything points to Christmas, the season when one finds pleasure in remembering friends far and near, and in sending some little souvenir of the joys of the past. All the merchants are either placing their orders or receiving the goods for the Christmas trade. Everything is bustle and bustle as the signs of the times are for a bumper business. Larger stocks than ever are being laid in and as the people, as a whole, have much more money this year than for the past two weeks the holiday buying will be brisk.

Christmas is just two months off, and it is early yet to talk about it so far as the average person is concerned. It is not, however, too early to determine that all the money you have for the Christmas trade will be spent in Peterborough. That is the essence of true citizenship. Spend all your money here. The city needs it. The merchant need its. The merchants of Peterborough are the back bone of the city. They are equal in importance to the manufacturers. They pay a very large percentage of the taxes and they figure on the extra holiday buying to help them out and to make up their profits on the year's business.

Be loyal to Peterborough's merchants. They are loyal to the city, and to you as individuals. Take as your motto, "Peterborough my home; the place for me to spend my money."

The greatest danger from influenza is of its resulting in pneumonia. This can be obviated by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, as it not only cures influenza, but counteracts any tendency of the disease towards pneumonia. 11

Real presided over the meeting and at the close nearly fifteen young ladies stood up as an indication that they had resolved to consecrate their lives to the service of Christ.

Hunter Asked His Relatives Not to Blame His Wife

Blames Whiskey for Murder—The Bobcaygeon Man Who Shot Wife and Then Hanged Himself Leaves Note for His Son

Lindsay, Oct. 26.—At the inquest held yesterday into the death of Joseph Hunter, the man who shot his wife dead with a rifle and who hanged himself in the cells on Sunday, the jury arrived at a verdict of strangulation by hanging, after being out only a few minutes.

A number of notes were found on Hunter's person, one of which read as follows:

"Mort Andrews.

"The Turnkey:

"Don't tell how it happened, but that I had a faint spell and died. Fix pail and box and say it was a fit. Don't tell doctor until he passes his examination.

"Many thanks for kindness, both Mr. Andrus and Governor Jackson. Good-bye for a time. Meet you in Heaven."

NOTE TO HIS SON.

Hunter left the following note to his young son, Carman:

"Good-bye, Carman. Be a good boy. We shall meet in Heaven."

He also left notes to other relatives in which he asked them not to blame poor Rose, his wife—whiskey was the cause of it all.

Hunter hanged himself to the bars over the door of the cell, using a rope made out of the sheets of his bed.

When the guards went through on their usual rounds at an early hour Sunday morning all was quite in the Hunter cell. On entering for inspection the guards found the lifeless body of Hunter hanging to the bars. The legs were tied together and a handkerchief tied over the face, and everything evidenced the most determined act.

Hubter at his trial was said to suffer from epileptic fits, and the judge adjourned the trial till spring in order to allow the defence to obtain more evidence.

During the past week Hunter had been cheerful, showing no signs of remorse, and nothing in his demeanor indicated that he meditated doing away with himself.

The body of Joseph Hunter, murderer and suicide, was sent to Bobcaygeon, his home for many years, this morning. The funeral arrangements have not been made as yet, but it is expected that interment will take place in the family plot at the Bobcaygeon cemetery tomorrow afternoon. He had numerous relatives in that vicinity, and the body was taken in charge by his mother, who is still living.

The Gym Classes in Full Swing at Y.M.C.A.

The gymnasiyom classes at the Y. M.C.A. are well under way for this season and under the very capable direction of Mr. H. A. McLaughlin, the best of results are anticipated. Last night a Times representative visited the "gym." while the business boys class was being put through its paces and it is very interesting operation from a spectator's standpoint as well as a beneficial one for the boys. Mr. McLaughlin is personally one of the best developed specimens of manhood in the city and his thorough knowledge of physical culture and his ability to handle boys specially fits him for his position.

Last night a dozen young fellows who are employed in stores, offices and factories were on the floor and were put through various exercises which will in a short time harden their muscles and develop their physical organization to a state border. ing on perfection. The boys are also taught the art of defending themselves if occasion arises as well as the essentials in improving health and prolonging life.

If the youth of Peterborough would spend more time in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium, where the surroundings and associations tend to the physical and moral improvement, and less time on the streets and at cheap shows and other harmful pastimes, the standard of citizenship would be greatly advanced. At the Y.M.C.A. there is a great deal of real pleasure connected with all departments and once one gets into the swing of the place there is a strong fascination to stay with it.

MEN'S CLASSES.

The business men's classes in the gymnasium begin on Tuesday afternoon of next week at 5.15 o'clock and will continue twice a week throughout the season, on Tuesday and Friday afternoons. The men who belonged last year were greatly benefitted and a much larger class is assured for this season.

THAT RUGBY GAME.

The Peterborough team turned out to be fast and by no means lightweights. It is by no means a disparagement to the Lindsay team to say the Peterborough juniors beat them. Peterborough scored a try and a field goal and Lindsay a try. Peterborough's try was flukey to say the least of it. Sylvester muffed a punt and it rolled to the dead line and over it. Sylvester let the ball go, thinking it was a "dead ball" and two or three Peterborough men fell on it. The referee decided it was a try, however, and the flukey ones count as well as those hard-earned. —Lindsay Warder.

SEVENTY YEARS OLD.

"Though I had passed by seventieth birthday," writes R. A. Silvera from Duncan P. O., "I am painfully aware that one of the penalties of old age is the slowing down of the activities of the system. One of the most dangerous condition of old age is constipation, an indirect cause of many sudden deaths. I have used many medicines, but none so suited to old age as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They are wonderful regulators—keep the stomach and bowels a perfect condition, prevent indigestion, biliousness, fever complaint and constipation. I recommend Dr. Hamilton's Pills because they never grip nor cause distress—just a mild tonic laxative."

By using Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularity you have a guarantee of good health, 25c per box, at all dealers.

VARICOCELE CURED
NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.
Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I reached land this enlarged veins ceased and I was called up for a week at a time. My days of failed engagements and my nights of pain—were I to tell all they suffered would fill a volume. I complained to local doctors of dreams as these passed through my mind. One day my wife read to me from a paper about Dr. Kennedy, and his book called "Confidential Talks with Men." It opened my eyes and I wrote them and got my free copy of the book. Before I had finished reading it I knew I had found the right doctors. My confidence grew stronger as I read the many testimonials from those who had been cured. I wrote them and got my free opinion and they explained everything to me. I could only spend a few dollars at first, but they said that was all right, and they would treat me for a week on credit. I paid all on account when I got able to work. I paid all on account when I got able to work. I paid all on account when I got able to work

Dying of Cholera

Local Physician Says Thousands Dying in Europe Can Be Saved With Proper Medicine.

What is it that keeps down cholera cramps, and summer complaints in America? Ask any doctor or live druggist and he will tell you "Nerviline." Just fancy a million bottle are sold every year to people who use Nerviline for stomach disorder, cramps, flatulence and summer complaint. For fifty years in most Canadian homes no other pain-relieving medicine but Nerviline is kept. Nothing cures the aches, pains, and sickness of the entire family so quickly as Nerviline.

LETTER NO 4762

"As far back as I can remember, at least 50 years ago, there was never a time that our house was without 'Nerviline.' In the summer time when the children ate green apples and got sick with diarrhoea and cramps, it was Nerviline that cured them. My father used Nerviline frequently to cure gas on his stomach and acute indigestion. There are but few minor ailments that Nerviline does not cure, and I know of no medicine so useful; in fact, so indispensable around the home as Nerviline."

This letter, written by Mrs. N. C. Butcher, a well known resident in Battersea, shows the high opinion entertained of Nerviline by those who have used it constantly for nearly half a century.

You'll never regret using Nerviline. Get it today, keep it on hand for an accident or sudden case of sickness in your home. Refuse anything else offered you instead of Nerviline. 25c. per bottle, or five for $1.00. All dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

OILING THE STREETS.

Results of the Experiment Made in Barrie.

The Advance says: The citizens of Barrie will bear with interest of the success that has attended the experiments conducted by ex-Mayor Bennett in the matter of bringing about dustless roads. Early in the summer Mr. Bennett obtained permission from the town council to have a portion of Bayfield street, opposite his residence, prepared for the introduction of crude petroleum. It was not, however, until the latter part of August that the experiment was made, and the roadway received its first sprinkling. The sprinkling was done in a small way, a can being used for the purpose. Three thousand square feet of street was treated—a stretch 100 feet long by 30 feet wide. About forty gallons of oil was required, but less would have answered had there been less dust when applied. The oil cost 5c. a gallon. Mr. Bennett speaking of the results of the oil treatment, declares himself highly pleased, as indeed, were all the residents of that part of Bayfield street. It certainly has kept down the dust, said he, "and I see no reason why the method should not be tried by the council next year on a number of the streets. A large territory could be covered with great convenience to the public and at a very small expense. The very slight odor arising from the crude petroleum is not objectionable in the least."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

WHAT ALINE FOUND OUT.

The Great Change It Made In Her Mode of Life.

By BELLE MANIATES.

(Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.)

Aline looked up from her book as her husband rose from his chair.

"I am going to work again tonight," he remarked casually.

A faint flush stole to her cheeks. For the first time in her three months of married life her thoughts were centered on her husband. Stephen Alden. When her father committed suicide because he had lost his fortune in speculation Stephen had asked her to marry him. Her wealth had hitherto prevented his paying her any special attention. One other refuge was available. A distant cousin whom Aline's father had once befriended and who lived on a farm offered her a home.

She accepted Stephen, and three months after her father's death they were married. The home Stephen was able to provide was a very simple one, and it had not been a very happy one. Aline was in the listless state that succeeds violent grief and apathetically allowed the house to be run at the will of a succession of slatternly servants.

Three nights before a break in their monotonous life had resulted from Stephen's leaving the house at 7 o'clock and not returning until late. His excuse of having to work would have passed unnoticed tonight except for the fact that she had been unable to get him by telephone at the office the night before even after repeated calls.

At 10 o'clock she had gone to bed. An hour later she heard him come in and go down the hall to his room. His behavior engrossed her thoughts entirely throughout the following day. The fact of his spending his evenings out did not disturb her, but she was at a loss to fathom his motive in deceiving her. It assailed her conscience and opened her eyes to the truth that she, his wife, did not know him well enough to resent the deception nor to speak to him about the matter.

A newly awakened sense of duty and a feeling that she ought at least to assume the duty of taking some interest in his movements impelled her to attempt to discover where he was spending his evenings. Therefore, as he was again leaving after dinner, she slipped out a side entrance and followed him at discreet distance. After a walk of nearly two miles she saw him pause in front of a theater.

"Poor Stephen!" she thought. "His evenings must have been dull! No wonder he seeks recreation."

But he turned and went down the side street, entering the theater by the way of the stage door. As a solution of his conduct occurred to her she felt a great heart wrench—the only thing she had felt sure of was taken from her. Without knowing that she valued it, she had had perfect confidence in his love for her.

Instantly she felt a wild—almost an insane—desire to know what manner of woman had attracted him. It was a vaudeville theater, and she bought a ticket, choosing a seat in an obscure part of the house.

At the end of an hour she learned what she had come to find out and quietly stepped from the theater and returned home. She spent an hour at Stephen's desk and then went to bed. She did not pass the night in sleep, but laid out a course of action which she began to follow at breakfast.

"Stephen," she said quietly, "I am not—very well. You know I am not used to staying in the city in the summer."

He looked up quickly, a flush on his face.

"I know you are not," he replied.

"Cousin Lois has been anxious for me to pay her a visit ever since father died. I think I will go to her today."

"The country air would do you good," he said slowly.

"The cook's going to leave today. You can stay here and get your meals in the city, can't you?"

"Yes; I can manage all right."

A month later, at the end of a long summer day, Stephen approached home, weary and discouraged. He dreaded to unlock the door and go into the stale, shutup atmosphere of the dust coated, empty rooms. But when he had entered the living room he stood still in amazement. The windows were open and freshly curtained in soft muslin. The room was in perfect order. A bunch of fragrant old fashioned flowers filled a big bowl on the table. Wondering, he went on into the dining room. The table was laid with clean linen, shining glass, speckless dishes and decorated by another bunch of country flowers.

He heard a light step in the kitchen. The door opened, and Aline, dressed, not in mourning, but in becoming color, came in.

"Oh, Stephen!" she cried, running into his arms.

He held her close and quiet for a moment. When she lifted her face for his kiss she put her hand caressingly across his tired eyes.

"You haven't dined? I was sure you came home from the office first. It is too hot for a regular dinner, but I have prepared a cool little meal for us."

"But, Aline, when did you come? Why didn't you let me know?"

"It's a surprise," she laughed. "Sit down at the table while I bring the things in."

He followed her into the kitchen.

"How did you get a cook so soon?"

EDITORIAL NOTES.

United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, who has recently returned from abroad, says it requires only the striking of a match to set Europe aflame. Chauncey has not hitherto taken high rank as an alarmist.

It is estimated that Dr. Cook has already made $100,000 out of his lecture engagements. Is it any wonder that he manages to be so calm in spite of Peary's charges?

SIKES AND SONS.

Lord Charles Beresford holds three medals for life saving.

Kubelik received his first music lesson from his father, a market gardener.

Sir Thomas Lipton once stated he would give every penny he had and begin again at the bottom of the ladder to lift the America cup.

Dr. William Olin Stillman, a practicing physician of Albany, N. Y., is serving his fifth term as president of the American Humane association.

Seth Low was thought to have had about the shortest name in the English language, but in Pleasantaquis county, Me., there is a man by the name of Guy Dow.

William Guertin of Northboro, Mass., has found his six hundredth pearl. He got all the pearls from fresh water clams which he took from the brooks about the town.

Max Darewsky, the child musician, who has won the gold and silver medals of the London Academy of Music, had to memorize for his examination 2,000,000 notes in thirty days.

Brakie J. Orr, a lawyer of Bay City, Mich., who has served three terms as prosecuting attorney of Bay county, twice under emphatic protest, has moved to Detroit to practice law and to escape a fourth election as county prosecutor.

The German colonial secretary, Herr Dernburg, was a clerk in a Wall street office in New York when he was a young man and soon after his arrival in America. His employer refused to raise his wages when requested, and young Dernburg went back to his native land. His success is due to his ability and energy.

Papa (who is reading an account of the latest heavyweight fight)—Alfred, you could better employ yourself with your Sunday school lesson. I'm too busy now to explain.

Alfred (still thirsting for knowledge)—Did it mean the same as base on balls when you telephoned last night that as mamma was away you were going out on a bat?

Mamma (who is always listening)—Benjamin Ridgely, you will take time right now to make two explanations, with the most important one coming to me.

British First.

We have in British Columbia as they have in the middle west many American settlers and when they come west or east of the mountains we have no better, no more patriotic people. While they live here, and when once they come they do not as a rule go away, they are Canadians; but they are more than that, they are British and they not infrequently set an example to the natives of the country in the matter of their duty to imperial interests which is very salutary to the rather unthinking public of the Dominion.—Vancouver Province.

If Sick

Don't risk even one single penny!

And I will tell you why I say this.

This happens every morning of Dr. Shoop's medicine is absolutely free if it fails.

No one need risk even one single penny. Just think what this means to the suffering sick!

No pills, no poisons, nothing whatever use but Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Not even a cathartic. Yet Dr. Shoop's Restorative will make you well. Will make you clear of mind, clear of skin, clear of tongue, sweet of breath, full of energy, full of ambition, full of vim, vigor and vitality.

Why purchase any medicine when another does not know if just as I do by this remarkable offer?

And besides, I can not afford to pay. Why should I? Dr. Shoop's Restorative must make Dr. Shoop's Restorative must make you well or you pay nothing. Is not that fair? Can I do more than make you well? Can I do more than make you well? Can I do more than make you well

Something Better Now

THERE was a time when people were satisfied with any glasses with which they could read, regardless of weather they were using one eye more than the other, knowing nothing of how the eyes were strained by wrong lens powers, and careless of the frame fitting the face.

All this is changing now; a thorough examination by experienced men, lenses specially ground for each eye, and the neatest, most becoming are now required by discriminating people who realize that nothing is too good for the eyes.

We make appointments for eye examination by our phones, Bell 1221, Mach. 7; it saves waiting your turn.

At Taber, Alb., three masked men raided a house of ill-fame and took nearly $100 off the inmates.

Three Chinamen under sentence of death at Boston have professed the Christian religion and will die as Catholics.

The attempt to elect a sword-bearer of the City of Dublin resulted in riotous scenes, and the corporation meeting had to be adjourned.

While trying to separate a fighting hog and dog with a shotgun, David Brown of Birmingham, Ala., was accidentally shot and killed.

Paris, France, gave a public funeral with all honors to a 14-year-old boy who lost his life in attempting to rescue a woman from fire.

Col. MacLachlan, counties clerk, has presented to the Cobourg Collegiate Institute a valuable collection of fossils, minerals and Indian relics.

The tame fox hunt scheduled for the countryside in the vicinity of Cincinnati by local society belles will be prevented by the Ohio Humane Society.

His Transformation.

Little Harold, aged six, felt very proud when he donned his first pair of trousers. Taking his three-year-old brother behind the door, he was overheard to say, "Willie, Willie do you remember me?"—Delineator.

Ending a Letter.

The simplicity of "Yours" as a letter ending would have astounded Jeremy Taylor, whose letters to John Evelyn often wind up with perfect triumphs of complexity in this respect. His best is, "Believe me that I am, in great heartiness and dearness of affection, dear sir, your obliged and most affectionate and endeared friend and servant," or "Your very affectionate friend and hearty servant." Even in his shortest perorations of the kind the "affectionate" and the "servant" are always the two indispensable words. Probably no man, woman or child would combine these two at the end of a letter today.—London Tatler.

A Division of Labor.

The following dialogue at the Bow county court deserves to be recorded:

Witness—One day I had some shrimps to sell, and I asked the plaintiff to help me. He said, "I can't push the barrow because my arm is bad, but if you like I'll come along with you and holler."

Counsel—Why was that?

Witness—Well, it's like this, sir. A man can often shout when he can't shove.—London News.

STRANGE PEOPLES.

Denizens of Darkest Africa Described For Geographers.

Major R. G. T. Bright, C.M.G., gave an interesting account of survey and exploration in the Ruwenzori and Lake region, Central Africa, before the Royal Geographical Society. The country described is in the neighborhood of the western border of the Uganda Protectorate and the Congo State. Maj. Bright gave some interesting details regarding the natives of the country through which the expedition passed. The people of Bavira were noticeable for their women wearing a particularly disfiguring ornament in their upper lips—an embellished wooden disc, from 2 1-2 to 3 inches in diameter. These tribes bartered their food for beads and cloth, much preferring the latter, though they were but scantily clothed. The males wore a piece of cloth carried between the legs, with its ends tucked, both in front and behind, through a belt of hide or rope, and for ornaments ivory and wooden bracelets. With the women a bunch of weeds worn behind was all that was considered necessary, though their necks were encircled with many strings of different-colored beads. The young men and women dressed their hair with a mixture of light clay.

A finer and a darker race—the Lendu—was warlike and continually fighting amongst themselves or with anyone else they thought themselves strong enough to overcome. They were treacherous, and would go to almost any extremes in their anxiety to obtain arms and ammunition. The district between the Congolese stations, Kasindi and Beni, Maj. Bright reported, was an ideal elephant country, and was tenanted by some large herds. The Etuli forest and the wooded slopes of Ruwenzori formed veritable strongholds for elephant, while in the Toro Game Reserve devastated plantations and spoor testified to the numbers still living in and around the protected country. In the open country on the southern shore of Lake Albert, when the plains are marshy, elephant and buffalo roam over them. In the kingdom of Ankoli the population could be roughly classified as the Bahima, the aristocracy, and the Baero, the cultivators and serfs. The Bahima believed vaguely in an all-powerful Deity, who was associated mainly with rain, thunder, and other weather phenomena. They endeavored to propitiate various devils—most of whom were connected with the prevalent diseases—by erecting joss-houses, in which food and beer were placed. They invariably carried round the neck wooden charms or small goats' horns, which had been invested with magical power by the medicine men, and usually wore wire bracelets and anklets. The Bahima were a purely pastoral people. All forms of agriculture were held in contempt, and were relegated to their Baero servants.

The Baamba people living in the forest near the Etuli river were addicted to cannibalism of a particularly loathsome form. Families exchanged their young children, who were then eaten. The Baamba in many cases filed their teeth, but this practice was not quite general. They were a jovial people. A constant warfare went on between village and village. They are built on the top of a ridge, and a stout wooden stockade is erected round. Each village had a club-house, furnished with a few rough three-legged chairs, made of the forked boughs of a tree, on which the members lie; the men gathered there to talk and smoke.

Wifely Pride.

There is no telling what quaint turns wifely pride and devotion may take. Sir Melvill Beachcroft, whose work in connection with the London County Council is well-known, while waiting in a tenement house for the occupant of the first floor to admit him, chanced to overhear two women conversing on the stairs.

One remarked that her husband always wore a clean shirt every Sunday morning.

"Well, now," responded the other, "I never cares about Sundays, but I always do see that 'e 'as a clean shirt Saturday afternoons, 'cos that's the time 'e is generally drinking, and when 'e does take 'is coat off to fight I do like to know 'e looks nice and clean.—M.A.P.

Easily Identified.

One of the peculiarities of Viscount Goschen is to pay surprise visits to the branches of the bank which he helps to control. Not long ago he entered a country branch and asked the clerk in charge to cash a cheque drawn by a friend, adding that both himself and friend were customers of the bank. When the clerk complied, Mr Goschen, as he was then, read him a severe lesson on cashing cheques for strangers. "How do you know I came by the cheque honestly?" he asked. "I don't know," said the clerk; "but if anything went wrong your father would indemnify the bank against loss, and I always like to oblige a director." The said director had thought he was unknown.

Variety Artistes Salaries.

Exactly who is the highest-paid variety artiste next to Harry Lauder, who received close upon $4,000 a week while touring America, it is not easy to say. Miss Ada Reeve and Miss Vesta Tilley, however, must be very near the top. A recent law case revealed the fact that the former is accustomed to obtain engagements at £200 a week, while Miss Vesta Tilley's "turn" is placed at an even higher value. There are quite a number of variety artistes—Mr. Geo. Robey, "Little Tich," and Miss Marie Lloyd included—whose salaries range from $500 to $750 and more per week.

Queer Claret.

A party of miners calling at an inn in Llangollen during the absence of the landlord were shown into the best room which, on his return, caused him to remonstrate. His wife, however, explained that a lot of money had been spent, and that seven bottles of claret had already been drunk. "Claret!" said he. "Why, I sold the last bottle the other day. I've been giving 'em catsup."

An Excuse For a Pardon.

When the stern Duke of Wellington was prime minister under George IV. he managed the old monarch easily enough, but when he attempted the same tactics with the young Queen Victoria he met his match. She constantly outwitted him. One of his earliest official acts was to bring before her a court martial death sentence which he expected her to sign as a matter of course. A soldier was to be executed for desertion, and as the death warrant was placed before the queen by the duke she raised her eyes, full of tears, to his face, saying:

"Have you nothing to say in behalf of this poor man?"

"Nothing," said the duke, standing at attention like one of his own privates; "he has deserted three times."

"Oh, your grace, think again," pleaded the queen, as if she were asking for the life of her dearest friend.

"Well, your majesty, he certainly is a bad soldier, but there was somebody who spoke for his good character. He may be a tolerably good fellow in civil life."

"Oh, thank you," said the queen in heartfelt tones, and before the astonished duke could utter a word of protest she had written across the paper the word "Pardoned."

The Word "Fiasco."

"Fiasco" originally meant a bottle or a flask. When the Italian glassblowers detected flaws in the vases they were blowing they made an ordinary bottle of the failure, and hence the name.

The Flathead Indians.

In 1832 four Indians of the Flathead tribe, living on the Pacific coast, crossed the Rocky mountains and, traversing 3,000 miles of intervening wilderness, appeared at St. Louis. They had been sent by their nation to inquire about the white man's God.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—18 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

Mill tests have proved that half of the values can be saved on the plates, and the remainder concentrate readily into a smelting product.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $600. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

This is the last opportunity for the investor to get an interest in this safe and conservative mining venture.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

400 FOOT TUNNEL—140 FOOT SHAFT

Mines located near Valardena, Durango, Mexico only six miles by wagon road and three miles straight line from the property of the Guggenheims upon which they have recently erected a $2,000,000 smelter. Sample assays have averaged from $34 to $102 per ton.

Up to the present time, the Turquoise Copper Co., has been practically a close corporation; an initial offering of 100,000 shares has just been made at 25 cents, par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable. Proceeds will be used to further continue the development work already begun.

We have options on 50,000 shares of this stock and advise immediate purchase at 25 cents per share. It is the intention of The Board of Directors to list the stock on the New York Curb and it should sell at $1.00 per share by the first of the year.

Siamese Snapshots.

White is the Siamese mourning color.

Siamese babies, dogs and cats are dyed yellow. The dye keeps off fleas.

The favorite Siamese delicacy is pickled prawns saturated with very strong red pepper.

In the unbearable summer heats the Siamese always bathe with the clothes on. Thus afterward they keep cool longer.

Believing that it is unpardonable to take life, the Siamese strain insects out of their drinking water and do not bathe at night lest in the darkness they crush some few parasites in drying themselves.

Train and Track.

The world's railways have a total length of more than seventeen times the circumference of the earth at the equator.

In Germany second class railroad cars differ from the first only in the color of the upholstery, which is gray instead of red.

In every mile of railroad there is seven feet four inches not covered by rails. This is the space left between the rails to allow for expansion in hot weather.

The railroads of the United States paid out $58,000,000 last year for cross ties, an average of 50 cents for each tie. Electric lines used one-sixteenth of the whole.

Tales of Cities.

The first stone of St. Petersburg was laid in 1703.

When it is carried to the northern limits of Manhattan, Riverside drive will be seven miles long. Five years ago the drive extended only a little beyond Grant's tomb.

Chicago, says a journal of that city, ranks fourth (possibly third) among the cities of the world, the others having been founded from 285 to 1,000 years ago, while Chicago as a city, is seventy-one years of age.

Unreasonable.

"Your baby cries a great deal at night. Can't you do anything for it?"

"Your dog barks a good deal. Can' you do anything to stop him?"

"Confound it, such unreasonable people as you haven't any right to live in a flat!"

The Result the Same.

"Gimme some of that prune pie."

"Sir, you've had two kinds of pie already."

"Then another kind won't matter. There's only one kind of stomach ache."

Magnet vs. Dreadnought.

Naval Constructor Hollman, of the German navy, has taken out a patent for a device to destroy battleships of the Dreadnought class. Opposed with this newest engine of war the Zeppelin dirigible airship, which aims, among other things, to drop explosives on an enemy's ships and forts, seems harmless. Hollman's device is an enormous dynamo-magnet capable of being charged up to 10,000 volts. With such a magnet, he says, he can attract by a magnetic power any battleship within a radius of seven miles. He believes that a magnet can be made powerful enough to attract a whole fleet of warships and draw them into shallow water, where they will run aground and be at the mercy of heavy artillery ashore. Hollman declares most seriously that the amount of metal in the battleships of to-day will only intensify the force of his magnets. Anchors and the ships' engines will be powerless, he says, against the magnet's attractive force. The magnet, or a battery of them, should be established, according to the ideas of Naval Constructor Hollman, at the mouth of a river or in some favorable submerged position along the coast where the enemy could not readily detect it. The rest is easy. Along comes a hostile fleet to blockade a port or bombard a town or even steam up the river. The moment the ships get within magnet-range the operator in charge of the station turns on the power and the ships are drawn to the shore, to be captured or demolished.

There are dynamo-magnets in several of the German shipyards capable of lifting a dead weight of 50,000 pounds. The Hollman magnet is designed to lift a battleship.

Your Canary.

Don't forget to give your canary the best of water and seed every day. Also that he has a good fish bone. Clean his cage every day. Keep him out of the hot sun and the glare of bright lights and yet let him have sunshine. Talk to him—talk to him with a kind voice. Let him out of the cage occasionally. We give crumbs of bread soaked in milk, lettuce, chickweed, a little piece of egg, sometimes a little fruit, a nut and lots of good things and let him eat or reject, as he pleases. Remember he is a prisoner in confinement, dependent on you every day for health and life, and constantly strive to make him happy. A little ten cent looking glass will add greatly to his happiness. Take care that neither sun nor other light reflected shall dazzle him.

The Patient Mule.

A long-bearded woman was very enthusiastic about a certain mule before Dr. Erastus Pinkley. The mule had a kind and heavy appearance and never looked more dejected than when its proprietor brought it up with a flourish at the front gate, says a writer in The Washington Star.

"Do you ever abuse that mule at times?" she inquired one day.

"Lan' sakes, miss," returned Mr. Thomas, "I should say not! Dat mule has had more to do defensive foh de last six years."

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with lasting success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it's constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by

Whose signature, amongst those of celebrities of to-day, is worth most from the point of view of the autograph dealer and collector? The question is a difficult one to answer, for the simple reason that so much depends on the character and importance of the letter or document to which the signature is attached.

For instance, according to a catalogue issued a short time ago by a London dealer in autographs, while a Kipling letter referring to his writings is worth two guineas, an ordinary epistle of the same writer would be sold at half a guinea. The signature of Queen Alexandra can be bought for a guinea, but attached to a letter written in her girlhood days would fetch five and probably ten times that amount.

Here are a few of the market prices, so to speak, of other celebrities: Sir L. Alma-Tadema, 10s. 6d.; Sir Squire Bancroft, 3s. 6d.; J. M. Barrie, 5s.; Max Beerbolm, 10s. 6d.; Sarah Bernhardt, £1 5s.; Mr. Birrell, 2s. 6d.; Miss Braddon, 5s.; Hall Caine, 10s. 6.; Mark Twain, £2 2s.; Sir A. Conan Doyle, 7s. 6d.; Sir W. S. Gilbert, 5s.; Rider Haggard, 4s.; and Sir Charles Wyndham 5s.

With regard to famous men of the past, it is interesting to note that, while £63 was asked for a Tennyson letter, a Byron was only priced at 18 guineas, and a Cowper at 10 guineas. Twenty one pounds would have bought the signature of George Washington, and £12 that of Queen Victoria. Thirteen and fourteen guineas was asked for the autographs respectively of Dickens and Thackeray, while that of Edward Fitzgerald was priced at £21.

It is curious to note how variable are the prices of royal signatures. While, as already mentioned, £12 is asked for a Queen Victoria letter, a two-page epistle by the late Empress Frederick of Germany only realized a guinea. The sign-manual of George I. has been sold for 2s., that of George III. for £1 6s., and that of George IV. for 11s.; and it is an interesting fact that, while at one sale a letter from Charles I. to the Earl of Kingston, dealing with the request for a loan of £5,000, only fetched £31 10s., Cromwell's signature went for £80.

Bombay English.

"The horse is a very noble quadruped, but when he is angry he will not do so. He is ridden on the spinal cord by the bridle, and sadly the driver places his foots on the stirrup and divides his lower limbs across the saddle, and drives his animal to the meadow. He has a long mouth and his head is attached to the trunk by a long protuberance called the neck. He has four legs; two are on the front side and two are afterward. These are the weapons on which he runs and also defends himself by extending these in the rear in a parallel direction toward his foe; but this he does only when he is in a vexatious mood. His fooding is generally grasses and grains. He is also useful to take on his back a man or woman, as well as some cargo. He has power to run as fast as he could. He has got no sleep at nighttime, and always standing awaken. Also there are horses of short sizes. There is no animal like the horse; no sooner they see their guardian or master they always crying for fooding, but it is always at the morning time. They have got tail, but not so long as the cow and other such like similar animals."

Interrupting Mr. Grantham.

One of the most amusing of Sir W. Grantham's experiences occurred when he was engaged as a politicsl speaker in the days before he took his place on the bench, and when he was plain Mr. Grantham. On one occasion, while he was delivering an address, a man got up in the audience and shouted out excitedly, "It's a lie!" "Thanks," said the future judge. "It's a lie!" shouted the excited one again. "You're a gentleman," said Mr. Grantham, sarcastically. "It's a lie!" burst out his opponent again, carried away by his wrath; but the general laughter which arose at his answer recalled him to himself again, and he sat down discomfited.

Success in the Army.

Sir Redvers Buller is said to have replied to a lady, who asked by what means he had succeeded in reaching his high position in the service: "I inherited £10,000 a year." "This answer," says Lieut.-Colonel Pollock, who, in addition to much active service, has written a number of books on military subjects, and who for the last eleven years has been editor of The United Service Magazine, "if ever made, was not, of course, intended to be accepted quite literally; yet it is certain that a handsome income is an immense assistance. A man must first become known before he can be appreciated, and the larger his income the more easy it is for him to mix freely with a circle of acquaintances."

A Many-Sided Man.

Sir John Quick, Australia's new Postmaster-General, is a Cornishman by birth, although nearly all his life has been spent in Australia. He has been many things in his time, including an engineer, a compositor, an engine-driver in a mine, and a reporter. He then went to Melbourne University, where he took his B.A., and became law reporter on The Age. He was called to the Victorian Bar, represented Sandhurst in the Assembly, and took the degree of LL.D. at Melbourne University. He has practiced as a barrister, and has contributed much to Australian literature.

Postman's Long Service.

An Imperial Service medal has lately been presented to Mr. Joseph Hemmingway's (Eng.) oldest postman, for long and faithful service. The recipient served nearly thirty years, during that time the population of the Warwickshire city has grown from 57,670 to 91,000.

Hard Luck.

Bob Footlite (actor)—Failure? I should think it was! The whole play was ruined. She—Gracious! How was that? Bob Footlite—Why, at the end of the last act a steam pipe burst and blewed me off the stage.

The Telegraph.

The first royal speech transmitted by telegraph was that delivered by the late Queen Victoria when she opened parliament on Nov. 15, 1837. The speed of transmission was fifty-five words a minute.

IRELAND.

George Meredith's plea for home rule is embodied in his last poem, "Ireland," which leads off "Scribner's" for July, accompanied by a hitherto unpublished portrait which was painted in 1867 for J. M. Barrie by Amy Draper Sumner. We quote three of the seven stanzas:

Fire in her ashes Ireland feels
And in her veins a glow of heat.
To her the lost old time appeals
For resurrection, good to great;
Not as a shape to spectral eyes,
But humanly maternal, young
In all that quickens pride, and wise
To speak the best her bards have sung.

May she not call herself her own?
That is her cry, and thence her spite
Of fury, thence her graceless tone
At justice given in bits and bits.
The limbs once raw with gnawing chains
Will fret at silken when God's beams
Of freedom beckon o'er the plains
From mounts that show it more than dreams.

A nation she, and formed to charm,
With heart for heart and hands all round,
No longer England's broken arm,
Would England know where strength is found,
And strength to-day is England's need;
To-morrow it may be for both
Salvation: heed the portents, heed
The warnings, free the mind from sloth.

HUGO AS AN ARTIST.

The Great French Writer's Opinion of His Own Drawings.

When Victor Hugo's "Marion Delorme" was read before the troupe of the Porte-Saint-Martin theater, the actor Laferriere, then a young man, protested against the insignificant role assigned him, in which he would have only ten lines to recite. Hugo promptly reduced him to silence by thundering, "Ten lines of Victor Hugo are something not to be refused—for they endure." Hugo attached a similar exaggerated significance to everything he did and to every object that was in any way associated with him.

For instance, he considered his drawings, which were for the most part commonplace enough, of sufficient importance to make them the subject of a testamentary provision. In his will of Aug. 31, 1881, he wrote, "I give my drawings and everything which shall be drawn by me to the National Library of Paris, which will be one day the Library of the United States of Europe."

Hugo's drawings are said to have been produced more often than not in the following manner: If a blot of ink chanced to fall on his paper while he held his pen aloft in quest of a word or rhyme, he enlarged the spot absentmindedly and made additions to it instinctively under the influence of a species of subconscious direction until he had produced a sinister moonlight scene or a "venerable bourg dominating with its bristling ruins the shuddering waters of a river of legend." He elaborated with great care, however, during his irksome exile at Guernsey certain crude impressions he had transferred to his sketchbook during his journeys in the valley of the Rhine. Furthermore, being a great lover of children, he drew figures of the most extravagant sort for the amusement of the young people of his household.—Alvan L. Sanborn in Book News.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these inside nerves fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

WHY THESE SHARES ARE BEING OFFERED.

Every legitimate business founded on public necessity for a good low-priced article, and on sound, healthy conditions, must in the course of its development, reach a point where its expansion has outgrown its facilities, and call for additional capital to provide for its necessities and greater possibilities. The foregoing information illustrates the commercial condition of this business. It has reached that point where more capital is necessary in order to do greater business, and to satisfy the urgent demand for its products.

PERMANENT INVESTMENTS CANNOT BE MADE BY MONEY ADVANCED BY BANKS, OR OBTAINED THROUGH ANY OTHER CHANNEL, EXCEPTING THE SALE OF SECURITIES.

In a large business this policy is always considered the best one, for investors have always found that the man who has built up a business by hard effort of years, and by all he owns in the world, furnishes the best guarantee for a continuance and further development of the methods that have brought success. For this reason, and after careful consideration, it has been decided to offer to the investor an opportunity to become interested in Canadian Eatables, Limited, and to share in its further success.

PROFITS

This company manufactures only necessary food products, for which the demand is permanent and staple, and supply dominates the market prices, and the high prices prevalent proves the inability of the manufacturer to satisfy the needs of the market. The profits earned are enormously high in comparison to other enterprises, and the company has sufficient contracts on hand to warrant the distribution of a 50 per cent. dividend on both Preference and Common Stock.

EQUAL SHARING OF PROFITS.

By-law 25 provides that a fixed 8 per cent. dividend will first be paid on the Preference Shares, and that balance of profits for distribution as dividends, in excess of that amount, will annually, pay all or part of an 8 per cent. dividend on the Common Stock, and the surplus shall be equally divided between Common and Preferred Stock.

SAVING MRS. STEPSANDS

Making Jimmy's Suit Was All Right, But—

When Mrs. Stepsands dressed Jimmy in preparation for the evening meal there were traces of excitement on her face. She turned the small boy about with many lingering pats and held him off at arm's length several times critically to view the effect. Jimmy somewhat disturbed matters by standing on one foot and hooking the other around his stationary ankle, at the same time twisting with the agility usual to small boys aged five. "It looks fine!" she concluded.

When Stepsands came puffing in after a battle with wind and snow on his way from the suburban train he was too much occupied at first in commenting fervently on the weather to notice his son particularly, but on the way to the dining room Jimmy got in full range of Stepsands' eye.

"Hello!" said Stepsands. "What's this? Jimmy in a new suit?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Stepsands with delicate indifference. "He really needed one."

"He looks different somehow," said Stepsands. "Guess it's all right, though. Where'd you get it?"

Mrs. Stepsands exploded the bomb. "I made it myself!" she said. "Every stitch of it."

Stepsands laid down the carving knife and whistled. "You don't say!" he cried. "Jimmy, come around here and let me look at you. Made it yourself! Well, well!"

Mrs. Stepsands in her excitement left her seat and joined the family group, of which Jimmy was the center. "And it looks just as good as though I'd bought it," she said, triumphantly.

"Well, I should say!" agreed her husband.

"I just got tired of handing over such ridiculous sums of money for Jimmy's little suits," explained the wife. "They charge so for children's clothes—I think it is an outrage. It's out of all proportion to the amount of cloth in them. And I thought I'd get a pattern and see what I could do."

"It looks splendid," said Stepsands, examining his son about.

"I didn't know whether I could make a success of it or not," went on his wife. "I was nervous, but then I thought if I did spoil the goods it wasn't expensive and I could get more. By Jupiter, that suit cost only a little over $9! And I paid $12 at the store for his last suit. Nearly $10 saved."

"Think of that!" said Stepsands approvingly.

"I thought it would be lots better for Jimmy to have that $10 toward his education than put in clothes he didn't care anything about," said his mother. "It will mean lots more to him."

"It certainly will!" said his father. "It must have taken an awful lot of time, didn't it?"

"Yes," admitted Mrs. Stepsands. "But I didn't mind. I think it's a woman's duty to spend her time on her family instead of on clubs and society."

"There aren't many women that feel that way," said Stepsands, in a self-congratulatory tone. "I think I'm lucky."

"Here I was with plenty of time on my hands," said Mrs. Stepsands, "and I felt that I wanted to have something to show for it."

"Well, you have," said her husband. "I felt so interested in the work," said his wife. "Jimmy, put your napkin up and be careful not to spill anything on yourself. It seemed as if I really was accomplishing something, if I make five or six suits a year that's nearly $100 saved."

"Think of it!" said Stepsands. "You certainly have a head on you."

"I knew you'd think so," nodded his wife. "I've got another surprise for you, too, Julian. I was going to keep it till after dinner, but I can't wait."

She ran upstairs and approached Stepsands from the back of his chair, suddenly thrusting something into his lap. "There!" she said, triumphantly. "I made that, too! I got the goods on the remnant counter—and a pattern just like your old smoking jacket—and I made every bit of it."

"You don't say!" cried Stepsands, in something like consternation. He pushed back his chair and held up the garment gingerly.

"Why, your last smoking jacket cost you $18," said his wife. "And I can't see but that this looks just as good—and it cost exactly $3.06, lining and all. The lining was made from my old skirt!"

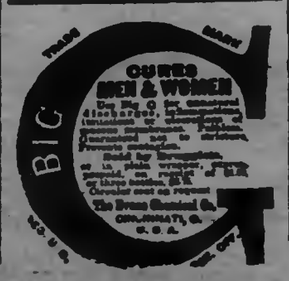
"You don't say!" repeated Stepsands, a little faintly.

"Don't you like it?" asked his wife, anxiously.

"Oh, my, yes!" said Stepsands, courageously, hurriedly folding over a seam which struck him as unusual in tailored work. "It is grand. But, Evelyn, dear, I can't have you shutting yourself up in the house and working yourself to death doing things for me. I want my wife to get out and enjoy herself. I can't let you sacrifice yourself for me this way. Promise me you'll never do it again."

"You are so thoughtful of me, Julian," said his wife, with tears in her voice. "Why, if I make all your smoking jackets you'll save an awful lot of money. Put it on."

"Not at the expense of your health," said Stepsands, firmly. "I—I think I'll just keep this carefully because it is the work of your own hands, Evelyn, and have one sent up from down town to wear that I won't care about."



NO STEEL TIES FOR ACTOR.

Tragedian Comes Forward with Grievance for Which Real Sympathy Will Be Felt.

He had long hair and it was black, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. His voice was heavy, so heavy that at times it rumbled.

"Have the common people any rights?" he asked.

"A few," the editor admitted.

"And the uncommon people—how about them?"

The editor adroitly parried the question.

"State your grievance," he said.

The stranger assumed an impressive pose.

"I am an actor," he announced, "and while I am a very busy man, I find time to read the daily journals. In your sheet this morning, sir, I noted the statement that certain railroads are to adopt electricity as a motive power. In this connection, they will use steel ties instead of wooden ones. These steel ties, I am informed, are apt to carry powerful electric currents. There are times, sir, when, through lack of financial appreciation, actors are forced to use the railroads—but not the cars. I am a tragedian, sir. I have played Hamlet and Lear. Do you think it right for soulless corporations to force a Hamlet or a Lear to dance a frantic mazurka, as it were, from one electric-charged tie to another? Can these corporations do this unjust thing?"

"I'd like to see 'em try it," said the editor, as he turned back to his work.

WEDDING AN ENTIRE SUCCESS

Interruption by Sweet Judson Was Only Discordant Element in Grand Ceremony.

"Too bad, Sistah Sagg—suttingly 'twus!—dat yo' couldn't be at de wedd'n'," sympathetically said Sister Tuggle, who had been present. "Ah-Lawd! —'twus one o' de most numerous events of de present social season, yass'm! De bride, wid her hair all fussed up like it had been done wid an egg-beater, came uh-glidin' up de aisle, exceeded by de ushers and six little girls disarrayed as angels uh-strollin' flowers in de way, uh-whilst de awgin pealed fo'th de 'Weddin' March fum Meddlesome, followed by a whole pahsession o' swell-elegant kin folks uh-smellin' o' puffoomery like an observatory, and two little boys dressed like cherry-bims, uh-holdin' up her trail. Pahson Bagster met 'em dar at de cancellation rail, and 'twas all gwine fine twell he done axed: 'Who-all giveth dis yuh woman away?' and dat low-down, triflin' gamblin' man, Sweet Judson, settin' back yander by de do', spoke up, and says: 'Ah-Lawd! I could, but I don't dat meant!' De ushers done put him out, ramrah and all, an' dat was de end o' him. And den de pahson spoke de solemn words o' de sarrymony, an' 'most everybody cried, 'twus so disinfectant."

"H'm—yass'm!" returned the lady addressed. "But what about de groom? Yo' isn't mentioned him a-tall."

"Oh, he was de conventional black."—Puck.

The Longest Word.

What is believed to be the longest word to be found in any dictionary—one that leaves even German and Dutch hopelessly out of it—may be turned up in Liddell and Scott's lexicon by those who can read Greek characters. Those who cannot may be content to know that this word which begins "lepadotemachoselachogaleo," proceeds in like manner through 78 syllables, and counts 170 letters in all. Of course, no ancient Greek ever used such a word as this in ordinary conversation. It is a comic word invented by Aristophanes for rhythmical delivery in one of his plays and means a dish compounded of all sorts of fish, flesh, fowl and sauces, which are enumerated in the word. The most ingenious English translation of it yet suggested is—"hash."

Couldn't Place Horace.

"They say that Horace wrote his poems in praise of wine," the school teacher said to the Millville citizen.

"Who? Horace Greely? Never knowed he writ poetry."

"No, no—the other Horace, who comes from antiquity."

"Never heam tell of him, nor the place he come from; but it's my opinion, whoever he was, that he had mighty little to do to be wastin' words on wine, when the country has more corn licker than it kin consume convenient; but, come ter think of it, the less said 'bout corn, now-a-old, in the north Georgy region, the better. The blamed ol' government mighty watchful!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Poor Fellow.

Police Justice—The man you ran down swears positively you were grinning like a fiend before the car hit him.

Trolley Motorman—I was, your honor! But you will understand when I tell you that I was a chauffeur three years before I got my present job, and from force of habit I thought I could steer the car to avoid hitting after throwing the usual gear into him.—Puck.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

ART'S LIMITATIONS

When the Portrait Painter Called.

On his thumb hung a palette such as an artist sports in his hours of ease, and taking this palette as the keynote of his adornment, he had contrived an appearance which loudly sang of the studio. Fixing his face and drawing a full breath, he rang the bell of apartment No. 61 and awaited the event, his palette held prominently before him and his black leather box on the floor.

Little feet tripped along the hall inside and the door opened.

She was, then, just about as this sex they make them, and it would be difficult to tell which of her features challenged the glance with the greatest insistence. Her hair was set as beautiful as her eyes, nor her eyes as beautiful as her nose, nor her nose as beautiful as her lips, nor her lips as beautiful as her chin. And as for her chin, she had none. Yes, such was she who opened the door of apartment 61 and looked into the eyes of the artist.

"Madame," said he, "good morning!" whipped a pencil from his pocket and, closing one eye, he squinted at her over the tip of this pencil with a heavenly look of rapture on his face.

"Has any one ever told you," he exclaimed, with a sudden vigor, "that you would make a perfect artist's model?"

"Why, no," she said. "Why, no."

"Then, madame," he cried, "if I were to paint a lovely picture of you—in oils—a full-length picture fit for any gallery—and all for nothing, mind! you all for nothing— would it be too much for me to ask you to tell admiring friends that Prof. Soulsky painted it—Prof. Soulsky of the Munich art school. Would that be asking too much?"

"Why, no," she said. "Why, no. All for nothing, you say?"

"All for nothing!" he graciously assured her. "All for nothing!"

"Why, no," she said, and, almost blushing, she added, "Why, I'd be pleased to tell them."

But as her vacant look fell from her a stern voice called out from the apartment within:

"Margaret! You be careful!"

"There is no need for her to be careful, madame!" cried the artist through the open door. "If she will only consent to sit for me I'll be more than amply repaid." And turning again to Margaret, Mr. Faust added: "You know it's so hard to get a start in this this great city of yours. Every one is so suspicious."

"O, I don't mind her!" she whispered.

"Now, I have here," whispered the artist as he opened the black leather box, "a package of sealed envelopes numbered from 1 to 100. Ninety-nine of these are empty; the 100th contains a card bearing these simple words, 'Grand prize.' Of course there isn't a lady in New York, however grand and however beautiful, who wouldn't jump at the chance of getting a genuine Soulsky portrait—in oils—and so I have adopted this method. You pick an envelope—any envelope—it costs you nothing and it commits you to nothing. And if you draw the lucky one, why, then, you do get your portrait in oils for nothing, absolutely nothing, and that's all there is to it. Now! Any card! Any card!"

She drew a card, and taking it from her the artist held it to the light.

"By jove!" he exclaimed in shaking tones, "you've won it!"

"O, mother!" she cried over her shoulder. "I've won it!"

"Look!" cried the artist, and opening the envelope he drew forth a card bearing those simple words "grand prize."

"O, isn't that grand!" cried Margaret. "But, then, I was always lucky!"

"Now, madame," said the artist, "as I said before I am a stranger in your city, just arrived from the great art centers of Europe, and my studio is not yet fitted up as I would like to have it. So if you will let me have a cabinet photograph of yourself I will at once—"

"Ask him," cried the voice within, "if any deposit is necessary."

"Why, no, mother!" cried Margaret over her shoulder. "Don't you understand? I won the grand prize!" And turing to the artist she whispered: "Is any deposit necessary?"

"Only a dollar," he hurriedly whispered back. "First installment on the beautiful frame I furnish with each and every picture. Of course, you understand that I can hardly be expected to furnish the beautiful frame for nothing as well as the picture, do you?"

"Why, no," said Margaret. "I couldn't expect that."

"Is he trying to sell a frame?" cried the voice within.

"Mother!" exclaimed Margaret over her shoulder. "I tell you I won the Grand Prize!"

"Perhaps," said the gloomy voice within, "perhaps they are all Grand Prizes. Come in here, young man, and let me draw one of those envelopes."

"Madame," cried the artist through the door, as he hid his palette under his coat, and slued his box [illegible] boy over his shoulder, "I [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] I have [illegible] been obliged to [illegible] [illegible] on a wild night at the [illegible] times at the menagerie, or [illegible] on the ruins, or"—

"Margaret!" cried the voice, "shut the door!"

And as for Margaret, Margaret's gaze fixed itself upon vacancy again, and she sadly shut the door.

Football Game.

The Brinton Football Club defeated the Toronto Carpet Company's team in an exhibition game on the former's grounds on Monday afternoon by a score of 2—0.

Hay is Scarce.

There has been a scarcity of hay on the local market for the past few days owing to the farmers being so busy with their fall plowing etc. One farmer who had a load in yesterday had the nerve to ask $19 for it. It seems that although the number of automobiles in the city are increasing that the number of horses are not decreasing, nor is the demand for hay coming down.

Blythe's Sentence.

A local party stated, in speaking of the Blythe case, that at the rate things are going in Canada in a short time the Courts will be awarding the Victoria Cross or the Humane Society medal to those who take a human life. While the above is exaggerated it gives an idea of the public feeling that there has been a miscarriage of justice,

Nearly a Foot of Snow.

Forty one years ago, on October 16th, snow fell to the depth of nearly a foot, and did not leave until late in April. This was known as the wonder of deep snow. Lumbering operations were practically at a stand still during winter, while the spring floods did enormous damage, destroying Dickson's dam on the river, as will as other dams.

Hunters Ready.

A large number of hunters are preparing for the chase, and the end of this week will see many parties leaving for the northern wilds for a two weeks' hunt in the woods. Reports from the deer section are very favorable for a successful season and there is no doubt but that the Peterborough sports will get their share of the game.

Progressive Euchre.

The Woodmen of the World entertained a number of their friends in the Sons of England Hall, Monday evening to progressive euchre. There were eight tables and a very enjoyable time was spent. The winner of the lady's prize was Miss Crane, and the winner of the gentlemen's was Mr. G. Worboy. At the conclusion refreshments were served.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

What is Transpiring in Peterborough and Vicinity.

The Grand Trunk is going to put up a $5,000 station at Omemee. Work will be proceeded with at once.

Next year Lent will begin on February 7th, fifteen days earlier than it did this year, so that Easter Sunday will fall on March 27th, instead of April 11th, as it did last year. Inasmuch as the vernal equinox which falls on March 21st each year it is evident next year will near the record for early dating. It will be the second earliest Easter in a quarter century, that of March 25th, 1894, being the nearest to the vernal equinox in that period.

The old, old story, told times with out number, and repeated over and over again for the last 30 years, but it is always a welcome story to those in search of health—There is nothing in the world that cures coughs and colds so quickly as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. 10

Once again is heard the shout against the methods of the local Liberals, coming from the neighborhood of the Conservative Club. For goodness sake keep quiet. This great political interest hasn't run the first mile.

The Examiner published an item the other day telling about a man who dropped a dime on the pavement while moving his household effects. Time evidently hung heavily on his hands.

A citizen told The Times that he thought he felt a tremor of earthquake a few days ago, but it was probably the city overdraft in the bank shifting a little and resting on one foot.

Would Make Big Improvement to the City's Present System of Lighting—Would Have a Beautiful Effect

A brilliantly illuminated main street is a possibility of the near future. Some time ago The Times printed an interview with Ald. Wm. Buller, in which that gentleman referred to the beautifully illuminated streets in some of the American cities he visited last summer. One scheme which he proposed was that the are lamps on George street be replaced by two lines of colored incandescent lamps across the corners, and that a string of the same kind of lamps be hung across the street every couple of hundred feet.

The Times recently interviewed the managing director of the Peterborough Light & Power Company, Mr. J. H. Larmonth, in reference to the matter. That gentleman stated that his company would be pleased to supply the necessary lights for any form of civic beautification the council wished to indulge in.

Starting at King street and going north on George street to the Public Library, a distance of six blocks, it is estimated that three hundred and fifty lamps would provide lots of light and give the most beautiful effect. An 8-candle power lamp it is thought would be the best for the purpose.

The city is now paying $50 per year per arc lamp. In the six blocks named seven lamps would be removed and $350 would already be provided for the new lighting system.

The Light & Power Company allows the merchants to use 8-candle power lamps for their electric signs at a flat rate of $1.50 per year. Taking this as a basis the 350 incandescent lamps required would cost $525, or $175 more than the city is now paying.

Should the council undertake to make the change that $175 additional would be charged up as a frontage tax upon the property bordering on the street between the six blocks. This tax the property holders effected would not know had been placed upon them and at the same time George street would present a most beautiful and attractive appearance.

As a matter of fact the cost is so small that the same ideamight be carried out on all the principal business streets in the city. The effect would be that the city would be advertised in a way that no other town could be. It would uphold the city's reputation as being the Electric City. It would be something new and that is what the age calls for.

Toronto's Rulers were Guests of the C. G. E. and Visited Peterboro

It is seldom that Peterborough is visited by so large a body of distinguished Canadians as composed the party from Toronto who were here yesterday as the guests of the Canadian General Electric Company and its allied industries. When the C.P.R. noon train arrived yesterday a special coach for Peterborough was attached. It carried some of the head officials of the company and the municipal governors and officials of Toronto, who spent the afternoon here.

The party was in charge of Mr. G. E. Watts, superintendent of Works of the C.G.E., and Mr. R. E. Layfield, superintendent of the Canada Foundry Company, and for many years connected with the C.G.E. Works here. These two officials proved themselves worthy of the responsibility placed upon them by giving their guests a first-class outing.

The train was met at the station here by his Worship Mayor Rush, Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., and several of the aldermen who also had luncheon at the Oriental Hotel with the visitors. First the party was driven over to the hydraulic lift lock which had never before been seen by many of them and in which they were greatly interested. The lock was operated for their special benefit, and the Toronto people expressed their appreciation of the courtesy.

Luncheon was provided at the Oriental and afterwards Mayor Rush proposed the health of the City Council of Toronto, and it was heartily honored.

After luncheon the party was again taken in charge by Messrs. Watts and Layfield, and the afternoon was spent at the C.G.E. Co.'s Peterborough plant where the visitors found a great deal to interest them. The immenseness of the plant was a great surprise to them and they have today a much larger idea of the C.G.E. Works.

Among those who made the trip were Mayor Oliver, Controllers Hoeken, Harrison and Ward, City Treasurer R. T. Coady, City Engineer C. H. Rust, Assessment Commissioner J. C. Forman, Property Commissioner R. C. Harris, George B. Wilson, secretary to Mayor Oliver, and others. Practically all the members of the Toronto City Council were present.

Mr. H. R. Matthewson, of the C. P.R. passenger department, accompanied the visitors and he made things very comfortable and pleasfor them. The return trip was made by special train at half-past five o'clock.

Publicity Department to be Opened Next Year

This is Canada's growing time. It is Ontario's growing time. Every town and city in the Province has an opportunity to grow now if the people only accept that opportunity. It is a pleasure to know that most towns are in the swim and that their councils and boards of trade are out for business. Nearly every town and city in this Province have, either a separate publicity department or have a strong active committee, which looks after that work. As a result thousands of dollars are being spent in advertising and hundred of thousands of dollars worth of results are being received.

Peterborough has no publicity department. There is no one looking after that work. The council has no money to spend for that purpose because no provision was made in the estimates. Nine of the ward can be guarded against in the future and the finance minister next year will make a great big mistake if he does not provide at least $1000 for advertising purposes.

Peterborough certainly does need a strong publicity department. Every alderman and business man recognizes that fact. Still nothing has been done. True, there was some talk of it on several occasions during the past year. Talk, however, is cheap and does not secure industries, nor bring conventions or excursions to the city. Those are the things that we want. First industries, second conventions, third excursions, and fourth all the best mechanics and business men and capitalists in the country.

There are six members of this year's council who are sure to be in the council next year. There is no better time than the present to organize a campaign and to carry it out. The time for talk is past. It is no good. It must bework and hard work because Peterborough is several laps behind the other cities in this respect. Get the plans prepared now and a publicity commissioner appointed so that the first thing the new council may do is to start Peterborough on the up grade. There is just enough time left the old council now to get busy.

CENTRAL ONTARIO ROAD.

It is Rumored Has Been Purchased By Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann.

It is rumored that Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann have purchased the Central Ontario Railway which runs from Trenton to Coe Hill, a distance of 100 miles. This looks like the C.N.R. planning a system of steam railways in Ontario to connect with their main trunk line.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

Prince Rupert Fighting Hard to Retain Control of Public Utilities.

One town at least is endeavoring to get off to a good start and retain control now of all public franchises so that the citizens of the near future will not be burdened and handicapped by high taxation and high prices for the necessities of commerce. Prince Rupert, B.C., the western terminal of the Grand Trunk Pacific, although not yet an incorporated municipality, is putting up a strenuous fight for public ownership of public utilities,such as water works, sewers, electric lights, telephones. etc. The British Columbia Government is advancing the money for these necessary improvements, the liabilities to be assumed by Prince Rupert as soon as the incorporation legislation is passed.

Prince Rupert is a place that will experience greater advancement with in the next few years than any other town or city on the American continent.The pioneers are of the right stuff and they are every one working for their town. Large fortunes will be made there within the next few years and many of those who are already there have made big profits. Next spring will see a wonderful influx of capitalists, speculators and artizans and the town will grow up by leaps and bounds.

NO PAVEMENTS

Are Necessary Here to Cover Up the Mud Holes.

While many towns and all cities in Ontario are grappling with the good roads proposition, Peterborough remains secure. There are no mud holes here that refuse to be filled up and there is no necessity fora paved street. Peterborough is particularly fortunate in this respect and the ratepayers can look forward to at least one avenue of taxation they can keep closed.

Peterborough's roads could be made the best in the Province at small expense by the use of crushed stone. If the council would secure the granite from Stony Lake and use only granite the city engineer could make the roads permanent and the heavy bill of expense for repairs that is necessary where concrete is used or, where half lime stone has been used as in the case here, would be done away with.

This is a proposition for the council to take up and prepare a recommendation, with all information attached, for next year's council to act upon.

A SLOW LIVER CAUSE OF HEADACHES.

Why a Mild Liver Remedy is so Much Safer Than Headache Wafers.

Most headacge wafers contain Phenacetine, Antipyrine, Acetanilid, and in many cases, analysis shows they contain destructive harmful opiates. They do incalculable injury to the system and should be looked upon with suspicion and distrust. When headache is due to the liver—don't try to "drug" the headache.

A well-known resident of Lebanon/ Mr. J. F. Flemming, tells the following experience: "I think I must have the most sluggish sort of a liver. In the morning my mouth was bitter and that foul soft feeling that tells you, 'no breakfast needed here this morning.' A cup of coffee would sort of brace me up, but in two hours I was disposed to quit work, all energy having oozed out of me. Supper was only my good meal, but I guess I didn't digest very well, for I dream to beat the band. A friend put me wise to Dr. Hamilton's Pills.I think they must have taken hold on my liver, perhaps my stomach too, because from the very start they made things go right. Look at me now—not sleepy in the daytime, but bustling for the mighty dollar and getting fun out of life every minute. That's what Dr. Hamilton's Pills have done for me—they have rebuilt and rejuvenated my entire system."

To keep free from headaches, to feel young and bright, to cy your meals, to sleep sound and look your best, nothing can help like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c per box, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston Ontario.

Ernest A. Hutchison Dropped Dead Yesterday

The very large circle of friends of Ernest A. Hutchinson, were shocked to learn last night of his very sudden death which occurred just before six o'clock that evening. The deceased was all ready to come home when he dropped dead just as he was about to get into the rig. He had been working on a roof at Mr. C. L. Hall's farm, about a mile north of Scott's Corners. He was accompanied by his nephew, Harry Hutchison and Percy Pearse, who immediately notified the relatives in the city.

The late Ernest Alfred Hutchison was a tinsmith and worked for his brother, Mr. Geo. Hutchison. He was a native of Peterborough and has always lived here, where he was widely known and had many warm friends. He was 39 years of age, and he leaves to mourn his loss a wife and three young children, Marjorie, Kathaleen and Jack. Two brothers, George of this city, and Joseph of Lindsay, and two sisters, Mrs. Stone of London, and Mrs. Fred Fossy of Chatham, also survive, and to them is extended the sympathy of the community.

The funeral will be held from his late residence, on Brock street, Friday afternoon and interment will take place in Little Lake cemetery.

Peterborough People Invested $200,000 in Houses This Year

At least 125 new residences were, or are being, erected in Peterborough this year. These represent a total of practically $200,000, exclusive of several thousand dollars spent on repairs, alterations and enlargements

During the summer and at the present time several hundred carpenters, masons, lathers, plasters, painters and decorators have been given steady employment and the work will be continued for several weeks yet.

The class of houses erected are good. Practically all are brick or brick veneer, and cost from $1000 to $4000 each, with a very few below $1000. The general run was from $1500 to $2500. In nearly all of them modern conveniences have been installed so that they will rent in the neighborhood of $14 to $18 per month. A very large number of the houses were built, however, as homes for the owners and are not on the market for sale or to rent.

It is this kind of growth that counts in a city, and Peterborough is noted for the large proportion of its citizens who reside in their own houses.

Thirty-Four Souls Perish Survivors are Tortured

Seal Cove, Grand Manan Island, N.B., Oct. 27.—Thirty-four souls perished in the wreck of the Donaldson liner Hestia about five miles from here in the raging waters of the Bay of Fundy. The vessel struck just after midnight on Sunday on the rock known as the Old Proprietor, some miles from the shore, where there are some submerged ledges, and after nearly thirty-four hours in the rigging the sole survivors, six persons, were rescued by the heroic lifesavers of this place. All the others including the captain, most of the officers, and four Scotch laddies went to death below the billows.The vessel was many miles out of her course.

SEAS SWEPT SHIP.

The Hestia, bound from Glasgow to St. John, crashed bow on to the rocks when a gale was blowing fifty miles an hour. Mountainous seas at once swept her from stem to stern. The Hestia settled rapidly, and Captain Newman, fearing that she would fall off into deep water and sink or be broken up by the fury of the waves, decided to leave in the boats, although it did not seem as if such small craft would have any possible show in such a night.

In the first boat were placed one of the boy passengers, the second officer and eleven of the crew. While being lowered from the davits, the tackle at one end of the boat broke, allowing it to dip downwards, throwing its occupants into the water. It was then that the survivors declare they could hear one of the Scotch boys cry in a terrified voice; "Mamma, mamma, save me!" His appeal was brief, for a huge comber carried him swiftly away into the dark seas. The cries of his companions were drowned by the noise of the storm. Only one was seen afterwards He managed to cling to the boat in a manner almost miraculous, and the boat again turned right side up. For a moment the boat was seen onthe crest of a wave, then a huge sea swept over it and it sank from view

TOO CROWDED TO ROW.

Captain Newman, the first officer, and nineteen men, had better luck with the second boat, for they succeeded in getting it clear of the ship When last seen by those left behind they were doing their utmost to keep their frail craft headed to the sea. There seems little doubt, however, that they met a watery grave.

Old sea captains at Grand Manan and Eastport last night thoug ht that the only chance of their being alive lay in their success in reaching the Nova Scotia shore, a fact that those same men declare to be practically impossible.

A third boat was smashed into pieces as it hung on the davits and therefore there was no way for the six men left to make their escape. Theywatched the fate of their companions as long as they could, expecting every minute that the steamer would slide off the rocks and founder beneath them. These men were Second Engineer Morgan, Third Mate Stewart, and seamen McVicar, Keene and Mackenzie. They climbed to the rigging of the foremast, the ship by this time being submerged, with the exception of a portion of the foremast and the top of her funnel Each wave threatened to break the mast in twain, and the clinging seamen believed that only death awaited them.

LONG HOURS OF PERIL.

As hour after hour passed, and the ship remained in her position, they began to hope that the morning would bring them aid. As noon approached, with no signs of rescue, their hopes again were dashed. Their suffering grew intense, and it seemed evident to them that unless taken from their perilous position some time during the afternoon they would perish from exposure to the cold and wet. Here, however, it was again demonstrated what human beings can stand. Evening came on and darkness found them still holding fast in the rigging. Throughout all Monday night they remained in this position. On Tuesday morning, with renewed energy, they frantically waved a portion of a jacket in an attempt to attract attention from the port.

About noon on Tuesday they were overjoyed to see the schooner Mispah, Capt. Joseph Gaskill put out from Seal Cove and boat her way towards the wreck. The mispah, however, could not approach near enough to take them off, and although their signals were answered by Captain Gaskill, they were forced to see the little schooner sail away.

LIFE SAVERS APPEAR.

In a short time, however, Captain Frank L. Benson and his crew of life-savers, who had seen the signal, set out to the wreck in their lifeboat. When they reached the men the sea was still running high, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that Capt. Benson was able to approach near enough to throw a line to the men in the mast. This, however, he succeeded in doing, and one by one, brought the men more dead than alive, aboard. They were taken into the lifeboats.

ADVANCE GUARD.

Messrs. R. Gibbs, R. Munro and Major Bennett leave this morning for Ketchecum Lake. They compose the advance guard of the Ketchecum Lake Hunt Club and they will take out the supplies and prepare the cottage for the arrival of the main party which will leave on Saturday morning in charge of Mr. H. C. Winch, the veteran sportsman. The deer hunters anticipate a good time this year as so far conditions are faborable.

OILING THE STREETS.

Results of the Experiment Made in Barrie.

The Advance says: The citizens of Barrie will hear with interest of the success that has attended the experiments conducted by ex-Mayor Bennett in the matter of bringing about dustless roads. Early in the summer Mr. Bennett obtained permission from the town council to have a portion of Bayfield street, opposite his residence, prepared for the introduction of crude petroleum. It was not, however, until the latter part of August that the experiment was made, and the roadway received its first sprinkling. The sprinkling was done in a small way, a can being used for the purpose. Three thousand square feet of street was treated—a stretch 100 feet long by 30 feet wide. About forty gallons of oil was required, but less would have answered had there been less dust when applied. The oil cost 5c. a gallon. Mr. Bennett speaking of the results of the oil treatment, declares himself highly pleased, as indeed, were all the residents of that part of Bayfield street. It certainly has kept down the dust, said he, "and I see no reason why the method should not be tried by the council next year on a number of the streets. A large territory could be covered with great convenience to the public and at a very small expense. The very slight odor arising from the crude petroleum is not objectionable in the least."

Daughter Says Her Father is Murderer

Punxsutawny, Pa., Oct. 27.— Declaring to the district attorney that she was unable longer to keep the fact secret that her mother was murdered, and stated that she was threatened with a similar fate if she did not keep silent, Mrs. John Kuzzelman, living near here yesterday caused the arrest of her father. William Jones, whom she declared upon oath, killed her mother more than a year ago.

When Mrs. Jones died an investigation was made, but a verdict of "death from unknown causes" was rendered with no suspicion pointing to the husband. Mr. Kuzzelman has frequently found his wife sobbing bitterly of late, and finally the girl confessed to him the reason, saying that her father murdered her mother and that she had been present when the crime was committed. The daughter will give no details of the deed byadvise of council.

Fear Enroachments of Romanism in the West

Rev. Mr. Graham Appealed te the Heroism and Patriotism of the Church's Young Men to Stem the Tide and Support Missions on Prairies

Hamilton, Oct. 28.—Rev. W. T. Graham, of First avuene Baptist church, Toronto, moving the acceptance of the report on Missions at Baptist convention today, made a strong attack on Romanism.

"Rome has never been able to build a nation up in the things that are good and great," he said,

"Canadian people will make a mistake if we allow Rome to get control in this Church. Rome is becoming very aggressive. They are bound to capture in the new West what they have lost in the old East. We must meet Romanism as it has always been met by strong aggressive Christianity. I have no opposition to offer to Rome preaching what she believes. It is an ancient Baptist principle that every church has the right to preach what it will without interference. The Baptists, will not, if they could, stop by an Act of Parliament tomorrow, the encroachments of Rome. We have never used the State for religious ends, and never will. Rome has never neglected an opportunity to do so."

TOAST WAS AN INSULT.

Referring to the joint toast given by the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec at the recent Roman Catholic plenary council banquet at Quebec to the King and the Pope, Mr. Graham thundered: "It was an insult to Canada," and the sentiment was loudly applauded. "We ought to meet them on their own ground and tional Manufacturing Company, was thing better to offer them that the church of Rome. The day has not come in this country when we, or the Presbyterians either, have to ask the Church of Rome the right to preach to a certain people. We want Rome to understand today this is a free country and we can go where we like, and preach what we believe.

"I would like to appeal to your heroism, young men, to your Canadian patriotism. I want to ask you to consecrate your life to save our country from the encroachments of Romanism. We don't want men in the home mission fields to feel that they are burying themselves Some men will never come to the resurrection of the power until they are buried. There is no field too small for the man who loves God's work so long as there is one unsaved soul."

The report was seconded by Rev. A. L. Huddlestone, of St. Catharines, who made an impassioned appeal that the Baptists would respond to the great appeal from the West.

Mr. D. E. Thompson, K.C., said it was his conviction that the Baptists of Ontario and Quebec were doing more, man for man, than any other Church.

New Warehouse Being Erected on George St.

Peterborough's wholesale business is increasing and the neighborhood of the C.P.R. station is being rapidly built up. The latest addition to the warehouse district is the Peterborough Hardware Company's new building. This very enterprising firm has awarded a contract to Mr. Wm. Langford for a large three-storey brick building to be used for warehouse purposes. The company will have a 66-foot frontage on George street and 117 feet back, and when completed it will add greatly to the appearance of the street.

Contractor Langford started a gang of men to work on the excavation this week and every effort will be put forth to complete the structure this year as the company's business has expanded to such an extent that more room is required at once.

The new building is situated immediately south of T. Kinnear & Co's warehouse.

A Large Party for the North Shore will Leave on Friday

Great preparations are being made by the Sam Ray party for their annual hunt in the wilds on the north shore of Lake Superior. There will be seventeen or eighteen in the party this year and they will leave tomorrow morning on the early C.P.R. train and go right through to Shawanaga station, where they will spend the night. They are taking a private car so that they will remain in the one car all the way andwill be by themselves. They will also have their meals on board prepared by their own cook.

The hunting grounds are just seven or eight miles from the station and the hunters will make that trip on Saturday and spend Sunday in camp resting before the opening of the season on Monday. Returning they will leave on the 16th, and arrive home that night on the local.

Those who will compose the party are:—Messrs. Chas. Gladman, James Metheral, Dickson Best, Sam Ray M. McFadden, Geo. Metcalf, C. Curtis, A. Curtis, Dave Evans, B.Odett, John Bennett, J. Bradley and son, cook; P. Kerr, L. Steele and Bothwell and son of Otonabee.

Declares England is Not Decadent

London, Oct. 27.—At the opening of the Winter Session of the London School of Tropical Medicine, when Professor Osler delivered an address on "The Nation and the Tropics," the American Ambassador, who was in the chair, introducing the lecturer, said Dr. Osler, was a very excellent example of what America could do with a Canadian when she caught him young. McGill University brought him into some prominence, but the doctor reached the climax of his fame at Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Osler explained what science has done for the Empire and civilization, and the enormous possibilities which are still open. Concluding his address, he gave a vigorous denial of the idea that England was decadent.

At the annual dinner of the London School of Tropical Medicine, Mr. Mears replying to a toast on behalf of Dr. Osler, who was unavoidably absent, said: "One of the best things which has come out of Canada to England, is Dr. Osler."

PROMENADE CONCERT.

To Be Given by the 57th Regiment Band on Friday Night.

The first promenade band concert by the 57th Regimental Band will be rendered in the armories tomorrow night. Bandmaster Gliddon has brought his musical organization up to a high standard of perfection and an exceptionally fine program will be rendered. Besides the band numbers with solos by cornet soloist Hughes, vocal solos will be given by Mr. W. Mellroy and Jos. Halpany.

The armories are an ideal place for a promenade concert, and it is expected that the first public event in the new building since the opening will attract a very large crowd.

The greatest danger from influenza is of its resulting in pneumonia. This can be obviated by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, as it not only cures influenza, but counteracts any tendency of the disease towards pneumonia. 11

FAST TRAVEL.

Two Local Aldermen Did a Stunt in an Automobile.

Speaking of the use of the automobile and its superiority over the horse as a mode of travel, Ald. Duffus stated last night that he and Ald. Gillespie made a flying trip to Trenwern and back yesterday afternoon. After the Toronto aldermen left at 5.30 o'clock the two Peterborough aldermen got into an auto and went out to the Trenwern cheese factory, a distance of eight miles. Ald. Gillespie inspected the cheese, which occupied half an hour and they were home ready for supper at 6.30 o'clock. They were just an hour in making the trip.

Invaluable to Every Farmer

Its Wonderful Power in Curing Sick Cattle and Colicky Horses Makes "Nerviline" Worth Its Weight in Gold.

The stockman or farmer that doesn't know of the thousand and one uses of "Nerviline" around the stable, has a great deal to learn. "Why, I wouldn't think of keeping my stable door at night without knowing I had a supply of "Nerviline" on hand. I always get a dozen bottles at a time from my druggist.

"To cure colic, indigestion and bad stomach in a horse or cow there is no remedy on earth in the same class as "Nerviline." Last summer I had a $250 horse that got the scours, and I would have lost him if I hadn't been able to give him Nerviline. I poured a full bottle of Nerviline in a pint of water down his throat and saved his life. I know of neighbors who have saved many heads of valuable stock, stricken with colic, just by using Nerviline. It is equally good as a rub-on liniment, and I know from my experience that for man or beast, internally or externally, "Nerviline" is worth a dollar a drop."

POLICING THE AIR.

Before the Aero Club in New York Lyttleton Fox has raised questions of air traffic which may soon require new legislation or new reading of old laws.

One of the problems is as to an aviator's right of way over private property, the ownership of which extends upward indefinitely. To avert suits for aerial trespass Mr. Fox suggests that the State condemn and buy a stratum of air as a highway for flying machines. The fact that Count Lambert in his flight across Paris violated a police regulation forbidding aeroplaning over the city shows that the French have already applied the law to cover one phase of the question. By leaving the aerodrome for his Paris flight Lambert insurred a penalty of $4; at the Rheims meet an aviator was fined for reckless driving.

The military airship will necessitate new provisions in international law to meet the new problems of international relations which it will raise. France has now seven airships Germany eleven and Italy five in course of construction. Given a fleet of Zeppelins arriving unannounced above a British port, will the act constitute a cause of war? If the aeroplane develops the power to carry explosives for dropping on an enemy's fleet, will the practice be permitted under the rules of war?

The interesting fact in connection with the suggested regulation of air trave is that it is already made necessary by an invention only yesterday in its infancy which threatens a revision of the statute books along with its revolution of traffic.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

ON ST. KILDA.

The Inhabitants Live on Isolated Little Island.

[illegible] for eight months of the year in an isolating veil, which hides it almost impenetrably from the outer world. St. Kilda casts its mists in front and comes forth to join the Orkneys of the isles again. With the cessation of the tourist traffic, the last thing of the Western Hebrides [illegible] upon its summer "season." From till August its people live [illegible] of commerce and going steam[illegible]. It is only within the last 15 years (says The Scotsman) that the Outer Isle began to be included in the itinerary of the tourist. In earlier days the islanders had to be satisfied with the certainty of a call from the factor's smack once or twice a year. It brought the factor on board. He came, as he comes yet, to collect the rents in kind—cattle, grain, cheese, fish, bird feathers, fulmar oil, dried fish, and other limited products—and he supplied them with their fresh stock of meal, flour, salt, tea and sugar, and shawls. Tea and sugar are still comparatively modern luxuries, with only 20 years' familiarity to spice their pleasure. Shops are unknown on the island, so each householder must calculate the exact quantity of goods and merchandise he will require to tide him over the winter. There remain, of course, the dairy produce of the island, and the mutton which its sheep supplies. Beef or pork are never eaten.

The St. Kildians give all their cattle to the proprietor for rent, and, unlike the Irish, they don't keep pigs. Comparatively modern illustrations show the fashion in dress to have been distinctly bizarre, but it is much more up to date now. The men manufacture their own tweed and act as their own tailors. Occasionally, indeed, they ply the needle on behalf of the women, who are fond of bright colors, a not unknown feminine idiosyncrasy. Scarlet is their favorite shade. Imported shawls are worn on the head in winter time, and Turkey red napkins in summer. Some of the younger women order their costumes from the "mainland," but the majority are content with dresses of their own making. Education is now on an organized basis, although it is only within recent years that the Ladies' Association in Edinburgh began to send students to teach English to the children. Previously the children were taught Gaelic by the most proficient individual among the adults; obviously a haphazard method.

There are about 1,600 sheep scattered over the islands on common pasturage, and every owner has his private mark on his possessions. The sheep are small and wild, and can only be caught by dogs. That accounts for the number of dogs which are kept. In June, the shearing season, all the sheep are driven to ledges on the rocks, where they have a choice of being caught, or of jumping over the precipice. The latter alternative is not infrequently accepted. Tweed making is the principal industry, and it provides the women with the classic occupation of spinning the wool derived form their own sheep. The men do all the weaving, contrary to the custom in Harris, where the women weave as well as spin. At this work the long winter nights are spent, spiced with rivalry. The spinners and weavers of one house vie with those of others as to the quantity and quality of the tweed which will be produced, and it is a case of sitting up and rising early almost to the limit of endurance. In April the land claims attention, and the tweed is laid aside pending the arrival of the Glasgow steamers in May. With the first boat this year has gone out the Glasgow agent, who disposes of the manufactured tweed.

Shipwrecked Thirteen Times.

Mr. John Beveridge, of Kirkcaldy, who recently passed away, had an unusually adventurous career, and was quite a "character." At an early age he ran away to sea, and started as a ship's boy. For the forty-two years following he was only on shore for short periods and at long intervals, and thirteen times suffered shipwreck. Once, when wrecked in St. Andrew's Bay, he saved his life by swimming ashore, hanging to a live sheep. Beveridge sailed in many of the vessels which belonged to the Kirkcaldy whaling fleet, and when the last three whalers belonging to that port were wrecked he was a member of the crew on each occasion. For fifteen years he was a naval reservist, and twenty years ago he sailed his last voyage in the Empress of Dundee to the Baltic To the last he always wore his seafaring garb.

Wonders of the British Museum.

The resignation of Sir Edward Maunde Thompson from the post of director and principal librarian of the British Museum creates a vacancy worth £1,600 a year and a house to live in. The post, however, is no sinecure. There are over 2,000,000 volumes for which the chief librarian is responsible—the only larger collection is the 2,600,000 volumes of the Bibliotheque Nationale of France—not to mention 70,000 valuable maps, over 100,000 manuscripts (many of which could not be replaced if stolen or destroyed), and a magnificent collection of prints and drawings. Altogether there are eleven departments in the British Museum, which originated in 1753 with three — namely, printed books, manuscripts, and objects of natural history.

A Royal Philatelist.

It is, of course, well known that amongst British stamp collectors the Prince of Wales occupies a prominent position. Exactly what his Royal Highness's collection is worth has not been made public; but in view of the fact that five years ago he paid £1,450 for a specimen of the twopenny blue Mauritius, it is apparently one of great value. It is not generally known that the Prince of Wales secured this stamp over the head of the German Postoffice Museum, who sent an agent here to secure it at any price. At £1,400 the agent lost courage, however, and thus the stamp came into the royal collection.

HIGH PRICE PAID

For Cheese on the Lindsay Market Yesterday Morning.

Lindsay October 28.—Buyer Fitzgerald, of Peterboro, purchased 790 boxes of cheese at the sale of the Lindsay Cheese Board this morning.

The salesmen were agreeably surprised to get 11 1-16 cents for their cheese, because the prices have been extremely low of late and the highest bid in Peterboro last week was 10 15-16, cents. W. Flavelle, A. G. Gillespie, Fitzgerald and J. Brown were the buyers and bidding was fairly brisk.

The next sale is on Nov. 4 and it will be the final sale of the year. A dairy meeting will be held that afternoon and those interested are requested to attend.

A BOON TO MOTHERS

When Children are Injured!

Children are always sustaining cuts, bruises, burns, etc., and not infrequently contract ringworm, scalp diseases, and similar skin troubles at school. Mothers will find Zam-Buk without equal for all these accidents and diseases.

Mrs. Thomas Allen, 156, Water Street, St. Mary's (Ont.) says:—"My daughter Mildred, 4 years old was severely burned by falling on a hot flat iron. She was burned on the heel, instep, and on the thigh very badly. I at once applied some Zam-Buk, which eased the pain, and in the course of a few days the wounds were thoroughly healed."

Mrs. George Aldridge, 12, Louise Street Stratford, says:—"While playing barefooted about the yard my son Bertram, 6 years old, stepped on a broken glass bottle, which cut very deeply into his big toe. The cut was so deep that I sent for a doctor and had the foot properly dressed, the doctor leaving a lotion to be applied daily. Under this treatment, however, the wound seemed to get no better, but on the contrary inflammation set in. A kindly neighbour then recommended Zam-Buk. We obtained a supply, and after a few applications the child seemed to rest better, and the pain was very much reduced. In a few days, under the Zam-Buk treatment, the wound assumed a better appearance, and from that time healing was very rapid. Inflammation and soreness were finally completely banished, and in ten days from the first application of Zam-Buk, we took the bandages from the foot. I feel sure that but for Zam-Buk the child would have had a very bad time, and might have had to sacrifice the toe."

Not only for cuts, burns, bruises, etc., is Zam-Buk effective, but also for serious skin diseases such as eczema, ringworm, ulcers, etc. It also cures poisoned sores, chronic wounds bad leg, piles, festering sores, chapped hands, cold sores, frost-bite, and all skin injuries and diseases. Druggists and stores everywhere sell at 50c a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto; 3 boxes $1.25 You are warned against harmful imitations sometimes represented to be "just as good."

To quickly check a cold druggists are dispensing everywhere, a clever Candy Cold Cure Tablet called Preventics. Preventics are also fine for feverish children. Take Preventics at the sneeze stage, to head off all colds Box of 48—25c. For sale by all dealers.

The Greatest Inventor.

Teacher—Who is the greatest inventor? Shaggy Haired Pupil—Paul Pending, I guess. I see his name on more inventions than I do any other man's.

The Word "Fiasco."

"Fiasco" originally meant a bottle or a flask. When the Italian glassblowers detected flaws in the vases they were blowing they made an ordinary bottle of the failure, and hence the name.

Spices.

Ginger is the most wholesome spice, mace, cinnamon and nutmeg the most delicate, while allspice has a coarser flavor and one disliked by many. White mustard and celery seed give an appetizing flavor.

Nutshells.

Save nutshells in an old paper bag until some time when you want something to brown very quickly in the oven. Then throw them on the fire and get the full benefit of the quick, intense heat.

The Flathead Indians.

In 1832 four Indians of the Flathead tribe, living on the Pacific coast, crossed the Rocky mountains and, traversing 3,000 miles of intervening wilderness, appeared at St. Louis. They had been sent by their nation to inquire about the white man's God.

Get Well First

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that. I am the one physician who says to the sick "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help." And for 30 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been sold and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively endorsed in every community and by druggists everywhere. Then why pay the sick, and at your risk, for other unproved and untried remedies? Why not accept what thousands have in the past successfully used, Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

When the stomach nerves, or the Heart or Kidney nerves fail, there is one sure way to know how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatsoever. They know that when health fails Shoop will pay the druggist. And for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted. But write me first for an order

This will save delay and disappointment.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test. So drop me a line please—for I have specialized on honest and responsible druggists in almost every community in this country, everywhere. No pay, no pay. Tell me the sick. Tell me the need. The books below will surely open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Then Pay For

Perhaps a word or note from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now, while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Something Better Now

THERE was a time when people were satisfied with any glasses with which they could read, regardless of weather they were using one eye more than the other, knowing nothing of how the eyes were strained by wrong lens powers, and careless of the frame fitting the face.

All this is changing now; a thorough examination by experienced men, lenses specially ground for each eye, and the neatest, most becoming are now required by discriminating people who realize that nothing is too good for the eyes.

We make appointments for eye examination by our phones, Bell 1221, Mach. 7; it saves waiting your turn.

His Transformation.

Little Harold, aged six, felt very proud when he donned his first pair of trousers. Taking his three-year-old brother behind the door, he was overheard to say, "Willie, Willie do you remember me?"—Delineator.

Ending a Letter.

The simplicity of "Yours" as a letter ending would have astounded Jeremy Taylor, whose letters to John Evelyn often wind up with perfect triumphs of complexity in this respect. His best is, "Believe me that I am, in great heartiness and oearness of affection, dear sir, your obliged and most affectionate and endeared friend and servant," or "Your very affectionate friend and hearty servant." Even in his shortest perorations of the kind the "affectionate" and the "servant" are always the two indispensable words. Probably no man, woman or child would combine these two at the end of a letter today.—London Tatler.

A Division of Labor.

The following dialogue at the Bow county court deserves to be recorded:

Witness—One day I had some shrimps to sell, and I asked the plaintiff to help me. He said, "I can't push the barrow because my arm is bad, but if you like I'll come along with you and holler."

Counsel—Why was that?

Witness—Well, it's like this, sir. A man can often about when he can't shove.—London News.

STRANGE PEOPLES.

Denizens of Darkest Africa Described For Geographers.

Major R. G. T. Bright, C.M.G., gave an interesting account of survey and exploration in the Ruwenzori and Lake region, Central Africa, before the Royal Geographical Society. The country described is in the neighborhood of the western border of the Uganda Protectorate and the Congo State. Maj. Bright gave some interesting details regarding the natives of the country through which the expedition passed. The people of Bavira were noticeable for their women wearing a particularly disfiguring ornament in their upper lips—an embellished wooden disc, from 2 1-2 to 3 inches in diameter. These tribes bartered their food for beads and cloth, much preferring the latter, though they were but scantily clothed. The males wore a piece of cloth carried between the legs, with its ends tucked, both in front and behind, through a belt of hide or rope, and for ornaments ivory and wooden bracelets. With the women a bunch of weeds worn behind was all that was considered necessary, though their necks were encircled with many strings of different-colored beads. The young men and women dressed their hair with a mixture of light clay.

A finer and a darker race—the Lendu—was warlike and continually fighting amongst themselves or with anyone else they thought themselves strong enough to overcome. They were treacherous, and would go to almost any extremes in their anxiety to obtain arms and ammunition. The district between the Congolese stations, Kasindi and Beni, Maj. Bright reported, was an ideal elephant country, and was tenanted by some large herds. The Etuli forest and the wooded slopes of Ruwensori formed veritable strongholds for elephant, while in the Toro Game Reserve devastated plantations and spoor testified to the numbers still living in and around the protected country. In the open country on the southern shore of Lake Albert, when the plains are marshy, elephant and buffalo roam over them. In the kingdom of Ankoli the population could be roughly classified as the Bahima, the aristocracy, and the Baero, the cultivators and serfs. The Bahima believed vaguely in an all-powerful Deity, who was associated mainly with rain, thunder, and other weather phenomena. They endeavored to propitiate various devils—most of whom were connected with the prevalent diseases—by erecting joss-houses, in which food and beer were placed. They invariably carried round the neck wooden charms or small goats' horns, which had been invested with magical power by the medicine men, and usually wore wire bracelets and anklets. The Bahima were a purely pastoral people. All forms of agriculture were held in contempt, and were relegated to their Baero servants.

The Baamba people living in the forest near the Etuli river were addicted to cannibalism of a particularly loathsome form. Families exchanged their young children, who were then eaten. The Baamba in many cases filed their teeth, but this practice was not quite general. They were a jovial people. A constant warfare went on between village and village. They are built on the top of a ridge, and a stout wooden stockade is erected round. Each village had a club-house, furnished with a few rough three-legged chairs, made of the forked boughs of a tree, on which the members lie; the men gathered there to talk and smoke.

Wifely Pride.

There is no telling what quaint turns wifely pride and devotion may take. Sir Melvill Beachcroft, whose work in connection with the London County Council is well-known, while waiting in a tenement house for the occupant of the first floor to admit him, chanced to overhear two women conversing on the stairs.

One remarked that her husband always wore a clean shirt every Sunday morning.

"Well, now," responded the other, "I never cares about Sundays, but I allays do see that 'e 'as a clean shirt Saturday afternoons, 'cos that's the time 'e is generally drinking, and when 'e does take 'is coat off to fight I do like to know 'e looks nice and clean.—M.A.P.

Easily Identified.

One of the peculiarities of Viscount Goschen is to pay surprise visits to the branches of the bank which he helps to control. Not long ago he entered a country branch and asked the clerk in charge to cash a cheque drawn by a friend, adding that both himself and friend were customers of the bank. When the clerk complied, Mr. Goschen, as he was then, read him a severe lesson on cashing cheques for strangers. "How do you know I came by the cheque honestly?" he asked. "I don't know," said the clerk; "but if anything went wrong your father would indemnify the bank against loss, and I always like to oblige a director." The said director had thought he was unknown.

Variety Artistes Salaries.

Exactly who is the highest-paid variety artiste next to Harry Lauder, who received close upon $4,000 a week while touring America, it is not easy to say. Miss Ada Reeve and Miss Vesta Tilley, however, must be very near the top. A recent law case revealed the fact that the former is accustomed to obtain engagements at $2,500 a week, while Miss Vesta Tilley's "turn" is placed at an even greater value. There are quite a number of variety artistes—Mr. Geo. [illegible] Tich," and Miss Marie Lloyd included—whose salaries range from $500 to $750 and more per week.

Queer Claret.

A party of miners calling at an inn in Llangollen during the absence of the landlord were shown into the best room which, on his return, caused him to remonstrate. His wife, however, explained that a lot of money had been spent, and that seven bottles of claret had already been drunk.

"Claret!" said he. "Why, I sold the last bottle the other day; you've been giving 'em cat's-up."

HERO OF MAGERSFONTEIN.

Victoria Cross Cost Captain Towse His Eyesight.

Pathetic indeed was an incident which marked the recent inspection of the Gentlemen-at-Arms by the King. A tall, well-built, handsome soldier was carefully piloted before His Majesty by a fellow-officer. It was Captain E. B. B. Towse, V.C., whose eyes were shattered while leading a brilliant charge against the Boers during the South African war. The story of that charge will long live in the memories of the Gordon Highlanders, that regiment which has so many heroic deeds on its roll of honor, and to which Captain Towse belonged.

On April 30th, 1900, Captain Towse, with twelve men, took up a position on Mount Thaba. He was totally unsupported; but it was not thought any of the enemy were near. Suddenly, however, a party of Boers, over a hundred strong, who had also made for the position, appeared a hundred yards off. Seeing that they outnumbered the Highlanders, the Boers called upon Captain Towse to surrender.

His prompt reply was to give a ringing command to his men to fire and then charge, the Boers being now about forty yards distant. The sudden onslaught of these twelve intrepid Britishers, with their gallant leader, caused the Boers to waver and fall back; and thus the situation was saved.

But the victory was dearly bought; for the men, to their great grief, saw a bullet shatter the eyes of their captain, who has, consequently, never been able to look on the Cross of Valor which was duly awarded him.

Neither was this the only deed of gallantry performed by Captain Towse during the Boer war. Five months previously, on "Black Monday" (December 11th, 1899), at the disastrous battle of Magersfontein, when Lord Methuen fought 15,000 Boers with 11,000 men, with terrible loss, Captain Towse earned the title of the "Hero of Magersfontein." Concealed in their trenches, the Boers could not be driven out, and Lord Methuen was obliged to retire to the Modder River.

A terrible fire from rifles and pompoms at close range struck down one in five of the Highland Brigade under General Wauchope, who also fell, riddled with bullets. Colonel G. T. F. Downman, Captain Towse's commanding officer, was also struck down. But in spite of the hail of bullets Captain Towse hoisted the colonel on his back and bore him away. It was a gallant deed, well in keeping with the glorious traditions of the famous Gordons.

Rabbits in a Tree.

Walking with a friend the other day in Wilham Woods, near Orford, I came across a litter of young rabbits in a tree. It was an oak, with a hole at the base about the size of an ordinary rabbit-hole. We pulled ourselves up the tree to about eight feet from the ground, and found ourselves standing on a mass of mould and decayed wood which seemed to fill the inside of the trunk. On one side was a hollow branch, and at the end of the branch a rabbit's nest containing young rabbits. About a foot from the branch and slightly to one side was an opening which obviously led from the hole at the base of the tree. It would have meant a very steep ascent for the rabbits unless the way up took the form of a spiral. The nest in the branch must have been quite nine feet above ground.—G. C. Vassall, in The Field.

Thomas Hardy and the Stage.

At one time Mr. Thomas Hardy, who has just entered upon his seventieth year, had serious thoughts of devoting himself to dramatic authorship. He is an enthusiastic playgoer, and at one time took a flat in London for three or four months of the year so that he might attend the theatres. As an illustration of the dependence of the author upon the actor, Mr. Hardy tells a good story of "Walker, London," J. M. Barrie's first play, which was produced by J. L. Toole. He witnessed a performance of the play in Barrie's company, and several times found occasion to congratulate the author upon the dialogue, laughing freely and exclaiming, "That's a good thing." But, as sure as he did so, Barrie would reply, in a melancholy tone, "Ah, that's not mine; that's Toole's. There's a good deal that's new since I was last here."

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—18 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

Mill tests have proved that half of the values can be saved on the plates, and the remainder concentrate readily into a smelting product.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $600. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

This is the last opportunity for the investor to get an interest in this safe and conservative mining venture.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

400 FOOT TUNNEL—140 FOOT SHAFT

Mines located near Valardena, Durango, Mexico only six miles by wagon road and three miles straight line from the property of the Guggenheims upon which they have recently erected a $2,000,000 smelter. Sample assays have averaged from $54 to $102 per ton.

Up to the present time, the Turquoise Copper Co., has been practically a close operation; an initial offering of 100,000 shares has just been made at 25 cents, par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable. Proceeds will be used to further continue the development work already begun.

We have options on 50,000 shares of this stock and advise immediate purchase at 25 cents per share. It is the intention of The Board of Directors to list the stock on the New York Curb and it should sell at $1.00 per share by the first of the year.

Siamese Snapshots.

White is the Siamese mourning color.

Siamese babies, dogs and cats are dyed yellow. The dye keeps off fleas.

The favorite Siamese delicacy is putrid prawns saturated with very strong red pepper.

In the mid-summer heats the Siamese always bathe with the clothes on. Then afterward they keep cool longer.

Believing that it is unpardonable to take life, the Siamese strain insects out of their drinking water and do not bathe at night, lest in the darkness they crush some few parasites in drying themselves.

Train and Track.

The world's railways have a total length of more than seventeen times the circumference of the earth at the equator.

In Germany second class railroad cars differ from the first only in the color of the upholstery, which is gray instead of red.

In every mile of railroad there is seven feet four inches not covered by rails. This is the space left between the rails to allow for expansion in hot weather.

The railroads of the United States paid out $50,000,000 last year for cross ties, an average of 50 cents for each tie. Electric lines used one-sixteenth of the whole.

Tales of Cities.

The first stone of St. Petersburg was laid in 1703.

When it is carried to the northern limits of Manhattan, Riverside drive will be seven miles long. Five years ago the drive extended only a little beyond Grant's tomb.

Chicago, says a journal of that city, ranks fourth (possibly third) among the cities of the world, the others having been founded from 285 to 1,000 years ago, while Chicago as a city, is "in seventy-one years of age.

Unreasonable.

"Your baby cries a great deal at night. Can't you do anything for it?"

"Your dog barks a good deal. Can't you do anything to stop him?"

"Confound it, such unreasonable people as you haven't any right to live in a flat!"

The Result the Same.

"Gimme some of that prune pie."

"Son, you've had two kinds of pie already."

"Then another kind won't matter. There's only one kind of stomach ache."

Magnet vs. Dreadnought.

Naval Constructor Hollman, of the German navy, has taken out a patent for a device to destroy battleships of the Dreadnought class. Compared with this newest engine of war the Zeppelin dirigible airship, which some, among other things, to drop explosives on an enemy's ships and ports, seems harmless. Hollman's device is an enormous dynamo-magnet capable of being charged up to 20,000 volts. With such a magnet, he says, he can attract by a magnetic power any battleship within a radius of seven miles. He believes that a magnet can be made powerful enough to attract a whole fleet of warships and draw them into shallow water, where they will run aground and be at the mercy of heavy artillery ashore. Hollman declares most seriously that the amount of metal in the battleships of to-day will only intensify the force of his magnets. Anchors and the ships' engines will be powerless, he says, against the magnet's attractive force. The magnet, or a battery of them, should be established, according to the ideas of Naval Constructor Hollman, at the mouth of a river or in some favorable submerged position along the coast where the enemy could not readily detect it. The rest is easy. Along comes a hostile fleet to blockade a port or bombard a town or even steam up the river. The moment the ships get within magnet-range the operator in charge of the station turns on the power and the ships are drawn to the shore, to be captured or demolished.

There are dynamo-magnets in several of the German shipyards capable of lifting a dead weight of 50,000 pounds. The Hollman magnet is designed to lift a battleship.

Your Canary.

Don't forget to give your canary the best of water and seed every day. See that he has a good fish bone. Clean his cage every day. Keep him out of the hot sun and the glare of night lights and yet let him have sunshine. Talk to him—talk to him with a kind voice. Let him out of the cage occasionally. We give crumbs of bread soaked in milk, lettuce, chickweed, a little piece of egg, sometimes a little fruit, a nut and lots of good things and let him eat or reject, as he pleases. Remember he is a prisoner in confinement, dependent on you every day for health and life, and constantly strive to make him happy. A little ten cent looking glass will aid greatly to his happiness. Take care that neither sun nor other light reflected shall dazzle him.

The Patient Mule.

The kind-hearted woman was very solicitous about a certain mule belonging to Erastus Pinkley. The mute looked sad and heavy appearance and never looked more dejected than when its proprietor brought it up with a flourish at the front gate, says a writer in the Washington Star.

"Do you ever abuse that mule of your'n?" she inquired one day.

"Law! nebber," returned Mr. Erastus. "I nebber do not! Dat mule have [illegible] defensive fob de [illegible]"

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Shoop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with amazing success. Rub-ons, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it's constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another everywhere. Grateful patients, gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

AUTOGRAPH PRICES.

Regular Figures Are Quoted on Celebrated Signatures.

Whose signature, amongst those of celebrities of to-day, is worth most from the point of view of the autograph dealer and collector? The question is a difficult one to answer, for the simple reason that so much depends on the character and importance of the letter or document to which the signature is attached.

For instance, according to a catalogue issued a short time ago by a London dealer in autographs, while a Kipling letter referring to his writings is worth two guineas, an ordinary epistle of the same writer would be sold at half a guinea. The signature of Queen Alexandra can be bought for a guinea, but attached to a letter written in her girlhood days would fetch five and probably ten times that amount.

Here are a few of the market prices, so to speak, of other celebrities: Sir L. Alma-Tadema, 10s. 6d.; Sir Squire Bancroft, 3s. 6d.; J. M. Barrie, 5s.; Max Beerbohm, 10s. 6d.; Sarah Bernhardt, £1 5s.; Mr Birrell, 2s 6d.; Miss Braddon, 5s.; Hall Caine, 10s. 6.; Mark Twain, £2 2s.; Sir A. Conan Doyle, 7s. 6d; Sir W. S. Gilbert, 5s.; Rider Haggard, 4s.; and Sir Charles Wyndham 5s.

With regard to famous men of the past, it is interesting to note that, while £63 was asked for a Tennyson letter, a Byron was only priced at 18 guineas, and a Cowper at 10 guineas. Twenty one pounds would have bought the signature of George Washington, and £12 that of Queen Victoria. Thirteen and fourteen guineas was asked for the autographs respectively of Dickens and Thackeray, while that of Edward Fitzgerald was priced at £21.

It is curious to note how variable are the prices of royal signatures. While, as already mentioned, £12 is asked for a Queen Victoria letter, a two-page epistle by the late Empress Frederick of Germany only realized a guinea. The sign-manual of George I. has been sold for 2s., that of George III. for £1 6s., and that of George IV. for 11s.; and it is an interesting fact that, while at one sale a letter from Charles I. to the Earl of Kingston, dealing with the request for a loan of £5,000, only fetched £31 10s., Cromwell's signature went for £80.

Bombay English.

"The horse is a very noble quadruped, but when he is angry he will not do so. He is ridden on the spinal cord by the bridle, and sadly the driver places his foots on the stirrup and divides his lower limbs across the saddle, and drives his animal to the meadow. He has a long mouth and his head is attached to the trunk by a long protuberance called the neck. He has four legs; two are on the front side and two are afterward. These are the weapons on which he runs and also defends himself by extending those in the rear in a parallel direction toward his foe; but this he does only when he is in a vexatious mood. His fooding is generally grasses and grains. He is also useful to take on his back a man or woman, as well as some cargo. He has power to run as that as he could. He has got no sleep at nighttime, and always standing awaken. Also there are horses of short sizes. There is no animal like the horse; no sooner they see their guardian or master they always crying for fooding, but it is always at the morning time. They have got tail, but not so long as the cow and other such like similar animals."

Interrupting Mr. Grantham.

One of the most amusing of Sir W. Grantham's experiences occurred when he was engaged as a political speaker in the days before he took his place on the bench, and when he was plain Mr. Grantham. On one occasion, while he was delivering an address, a man got up in the audience and shouted out excitedly, "It's a lie!" "Thanks," said the future judge. "It's a lie!" shouted the excited one again. "You're a gentleman," said Mr. Grantham, sarcastically. "It's a lie!" burst out his opponent again, carried away by his wrath; but the general laughter which arose at his answer recalled him to himself again, and he sat down discomfited.

Success in the Army.

Sir Redvers Buller is said to have replied to a lady, who asked by what means he had succeeded in reaching his high position in the service, "I inherited £10,000 a year." "This answer," says Lieut.-Colonel Pollock, who, in addition to much active service, has written a number of books on military subjects, and who for the last eleven years has been editor of The United Service Magazine, "if ever made, was not, of course, intended to be accepted quite literally; yet it is certain that a handsome income is an immense assistance. A man must first become known before he can be appreciated, and the larger his income the more easy it is for him to mix freely with a circle of acquaintances."

A Many-Sided Man.

Sir John Quick, Australia's new Postmaster-General, is a Cornishman by birth, although nearly all his life has been spent in Australia. He has been many things in his time, including an engineer, a compositor, an engine-driver in a mine, and a reporter. He then went to Melbourne University, where he took his B.A., and became law reporter on The Age. He was called to the Victorian Bar, represented Sandhurst in the Assembly, and took the degree of LL.D at Melbourne University. He has practised as barrister, and has contributed much to Australian literature.

IRELAND.

George Meredith's plea for home rule is embodied in his last poem, "Ireland," which leads off "Scribner's" for July, accompanied by a hitherto unpublished portrait which was painted in 1897 for J. M. Barrie by Amy Draper Sumner. We quote three of the seven stanzas:

Fire in her ashes Ireland feels
And in her veins a glow of heat.
To her the lost of time appeals
For resurrection, good to great;
Not as a shape to spectral eyes,
But humanly maternal, young
In all that quickens pride, and wins
To speak the best her bards have sung.

May she not call herself her own?
That is her cry, and thence her spite
Of fury, thence her graceless tone
At justice given in bits and bits.
The limbs once raw with gnawing chains
Will fret at silken when God's beams
Of freedom beckon o'er the plains
From mounts that show it more than dreams.

A nation she, and formed to charm,
With heart for heart and hands all round,
No longer England's broken arm,
Would England know where strength is found,
And strength to-day is England's need;
To-morrow it may be for both
Salvation: heed the portents, heed
The warnings, free the mind from sloth.

HUGO AS AN ARTIST.

The Great French Writer's Opinion of His Own Drawings.

When Victor Hugo's "Marion Delorme" was read before the troupe of the Porte-Saint Martin theater, the actor Laferriere, then a young man, protested against the insignificant role assigned him, in which he would have only ten lines to recite. Hugo promptly reduced him to silence by thundering, "Ten lines of Victor Hugo are something not to be refused—for they endure." Hugo attached a similar exaggerated significance to everything he did and to every object that was in any way associated with him.

For instance, he considered his drawings, which were for the most part commonplace enough, of sufficient importance to make them the subject of a testamentary provision. In his will of Aug. 31, 1881, he wrote, "I give my drawings and everything which shall be drawn by me to the National Library of Paris, which will be one day the Library of the United States of Europe."

Hugo's drawings are said to have been produced more often than not in the following manner: If a blot of ink chanced to fall on his paper while he held his pen aloft in quest of a word or rhyme, he enlarged the spot absentmindedly and made additions to it instinctively under the influence of a species of subconscious direction until he had produced a sinister moonlight scene or a "venerable bourg dominating with its bristling ruins the shuddering waters of a river of legend." He elaborated with great care, however, during his irksome exile at Guernsey certain crude impressions he had transferred to his sketchbook during his journeys in the valley of the Rhine. Furthermore, being a great lover of children, he drew figures of the most extravagant sort for the amusement of the young people of his household.—Alvan L. Sanborn in Book man.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. Whenthese inside nerves fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

Canadian Eatables, Limited, owns its factories and farms in Toronto and Honora, Manitoulin Island. WHY THESE SHARES ARE BEING OFFERED.

Every legitimate business founded on public necessity for a good low-priced article, and on sound, healthy conditions, must in the course of its development, reach a point where its expansion has outgrown its facilities, and call for additional capital to provide for its necessities and greater possibilities. The foregoing information illustrates the commercial condition of this business. It has reached that point where more capital is necessary in order to do greater business, and to satisfy the urgent demand for its products.

PERMANENT INVESTMENTS CANNOT BE MADE BY MONEY ADVANCED BY BANKS, OR OBTAINED THROUGH ANY OTHER CHANNEL, EXCEPTING THE SALE OF SECURITIES.

In a large business this policy is always considered the best one, for investors have always found that the man who has built up a business by hard effort of years, and by all he owns in the world, furnishes the best guarantee for a continuance and further development of the methods that have brought success. For this reason, and after careful consideration, it has been decided to offer to the investor an opportunity to become interested in Canadian Eatables, Limited, and to share in its further success.

PROFITS

This company manufactures only necessary food products, for which the demand is permanent and staple, and supply dominates the market prices, and the high prices prevalent proves the inability of the manufacturer to satisfy the needs of the market. The profits earned are enormously high in comparison to other enterprises, and the company has sufficient contracts on hand to warrant the distribution of a 20 per cent. dividend on both Preference and Common Stock.

EQUAL SHARING OF PROFITS.

By-law 30 provides that a fixed 8 per cent. dividend will first be paid on the Preference Shares, and that balance of profits for distribution as dividends, in excess of that amount, will annually, pay all or part of an 8 per cent. dividend on the Common Stock, and the surplus shall be equally divided between Common and Preferred Stock.

TELEGRAPH YOUR SUBSCRIPTION AT OUR EXPENSE, or mail same by first post, or, if convenient, bring it to offices, only do not delay your subscription, as late comers will positively have their money returned.

A SUBLIME SUMMONS

A Story of Turkey and the Sultan

Dr. Jani was in prison in Stamboul, he did not know why. All he had been able to learn from the guards was that he was arrested by the orders of the sultan. He had protested innocence of all wrongdoing, but without avail. He had begged for time to put his affairs in order, to write a few notes to friends, to communicate with the ambassador or with Constantinople, to send a telegram. No, all he was to do was to go with the soldiers who had taken him quietly from prison and locked him up without a hint of why or wherefore.

He could not so much as guess why he was there. Of course then there had been others whom he remembered them well. Montinelli, the oriental scholar who had lived in peace for years and suddenly had been summoned to be seen no more among his friends nor ever heard of by them. There was Selorna who never had returned from the ride he started out upon one afternoon, though his household waited days and weeks and months. Then there was Morelli, the musician, and little Grigo, whom every one had loved, whose life had all joy and merriment, but who had vanished like the others as though changed to air.

Now his turn had come, and why? He could think of nothing whatever that could have offended anyone holding authority in Stamboul.

With his elbows on the rough table before him, he looked back to the day when first he saw the Thespian Bosphorus. He had come for a month's holiday, and the magic scenery, with its infinity of panoramas, had bewitched him. The one month had lengthened into 12, and the artist in him had been supremely happy. As a physician, too, he had been attracted by Stamboul, but from a very different reason than that which had attracted the artist, namely, the city's filth. Where there was so much filth there must be diseases, probably strange diseases that western Europe know nothing of. He had stayed on account of this filth, and his reward had been ample, as medals and diplomas in his quarters showed.

The literature of the east had been another charm to hold him. He had delighted in it and had translated much. He also had put some western stories into Arabic, and had won distinction by so doing.

But it was all done now. His laboratory work, his pictures, his studies and translations were of the time that has been. He should never see his manuscripts or be in his beloved studio again. He like those others whom he had been thinking of had come to the end. He might have known it. He had been a fool but why? Why? Why? He asked himself with a sort of madness over again and again, why? Why should it be? What had he done? Was he not useful? Had he not done good? Had he not saved lives? He had. He had saved many lives. He had taught the people how they might save themselves when diseases came. He had been the friend of all, and had never so much as thought of politics or uttered a word about the state.

He pressed his hands to his head and tried once more to think, staring at the dull blank wall before him. Then the door of the cell opened and an officer came in.

"You are Dr Jani?" he inquired.

"I am, but—"

"You have been translating a story from the French, which has been running as a serial in the Weekly Crescent?"

"I have been translating a story from the French, a romance, in which there is not one word that could give offense, not a word that—"

As before he was interrupted.

"I am commanded by the sultan," said the officer, "that you are to remain here until the translation is finished. His majesty desires to read the remainder of the story immediately. Whatever you may require for the task will be brought here with the greatest possible dispatch."

And so it happened that all was not over for Dr Jani. Indeed, so eager was the sublime porte to have the story that he dispensed with the formality of having the story written out, and had the doctor brought into his study, where the translation was finished orally. The sultan had many questions to ask the doctor read aloud, which the man of medicine being learned in the literatures both of the east and of the west, and being furthermore, an artist, was able to answer and to illustrate in a way that gave the sultan the liveliest satisfaction.

Instead, therefore, of never seeing his Stamboul home again, the doctor returned there on the second day after his arrest wearing an especial decoration and driving in a royal carriage with an escort. But he was not quite himself again for many weeks.

Meteor Seen in New Jersey.

The superstitious were thrown into consternation at the sight of a strange comet, with a fiery tail, in the eastern sky about ten o'clock, the other night. The big ball of bluish flame, with a sputtering appendix of the same color, appeared in the heavens at one minute past ten o'clock, and traveled in a southeasterly direction. So close did the meteoric object appear that it was believed it would fall somewhere in New Jersey near Haddonfield, but inquiry brought the report that while the light had been seen near there no meteor had fallen.—Philadelphia Evening Times.

NEVER A MAN TO BE ENVIED.

Philadelphia Writer's Idea of Status to Be Accorded Bachelor in Society.

The bachelor is punished chiefly, not only in losing the joys of a home, but being an object of contempt. So long as bachelors are willing to put up with all the losses they sustain in celibacy far be it from the majesty of the law to impose further penalties. It was Cicero or a man of his day who remarked that it was onerous for a man to get along with a wife, but impossible to get along without one. The bachelor is not a man—only a more or less imitation of one—sometimes a very poor one. He thinks he has a good time in escaping all the major responsibilities of life, but he is deceiving no one but himself. As an example and a warning he has his uses in society. As an individual he is apt to find that he is eating only apples of Sodom. The man who deliberately remains a bachelor is already punished enough. Let him alone in his misery until some nice girl comes along and carries him off. And we may remark that no man is a bachelor of his own initiative—no matter how much he may think so. He is simply a human derelict whom the women have examined and passed by. The bachelors are the dejecta membra of society whom no woman will have. That is awful and it is enough. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

MUSIC APPEALS TO ESKIMOS.

Voices Good and They Sing in Tune, According to Traveler in Regions of the North.

Music is one of the chief pleasures and accomplishments of the Eskimos. At the Labrador missions violins are used by them in the church choir, and brass bands are organized. In "Along the Labrador Coast" Dr Townsend tells of an evening's entertainment with the Eskimos at Nain.

"For over an hour these natives sing to us," he says, "familiar music with Eskimo words—'Rock of Ages,' 'Holy Night,' interspersed with what I take to be secular songs. Their voices are harmonious and the singing is of a superior order. We return the compliment in the only way we can with a graphophone. It is indeed a terrible come-down to 'The Old Apple Tree' and 'Everybody Works But Father,' but the Eskimos seem to enjoy it, and greet the songs and their explanation by the interpreter with peals of laughter.

"A song in which a man beats his wife seems especially to amuse them. A Moravian brother told me that they had been unable to win the Eskimo from the wife-beating habit. Even the wives resent any interference on this score.

"An Irish jig makes them shake with joy, and I am sure they would dance were there room to stir."

Terms for Inebriety.

According to Ebers, some of the terms denoting inebriety are as follows: Beery, bemused, boozy, bosky, corned, foggy, fou, fresh, hazy, elevated, kicky, lushy, mazey, maggy, mazzy, on, screwed, stewed, tight and wizy. In an intermediate class stand podgy, beargared, blued, cut, primed, tempy, plowed, muddled, obfuscated, swipsy, three sheets in the wind and topheavy. "But the same," says the same authority, "in only obtained when the disguised individual 'can't see a hole in the ladder,' or when he is 'all mops and brooms,' or 'off his nut,' or 'with his main-brace well spliced,' or 'with the sun in his eyes,' or when he has 'lapped the gutter' and 'got the gravel rash,' or 'on the rantan,' or 'on the re-raw,' or when he is 'sewed up,' or 'regularly scammered.'"

Getting Into Practice.

It is often pleasanter to theorize than to perform. A young law student, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer, was making a study of certain processes of his future profession. He showed an inclination to sit in the house and speculate idly, instead of doing some of the domestic tasks which stood waiting.

"Deduction is an interesting process," declared the youth to his father. "For example, there is a heap of ashes in the yard. That is evidence that the family has recently had fires."

"Well, John," interrupted his father, "suppose you pursue your studies a little farther by going out and sifting that pile of ashes."—Youth's Companion.

Dickens' Method of Speaking.

Before making a speech Charles Dickens would decide on his various heads and then in his mind's eye liken the whole subject to the tire of a cart wheel—he being the hub. From the hub to the tire he would run as many spokes as there were subjects to be treated and during the progress of the speech he would deal with each spoke separately, elaborating them as he went round the wheel; and when all the spokes dropped out one by one and nothing but the tire and space remained he would know that he had accomplished his task and that his speech was at an end.

American Girls Responsible.

Probably the American girl is answerable for a certain unrest among the young men of the country, for she comes among them with all sorts of daring projects and perfectly lovely clothes. She marries their brothers, she studies art, music and literature in their country and then walks serenely on along the path of liberty, to the amazement of men, angels and the Parisian.—The Queen.

Applications for Renewal.

Application has been made to parliament by the C. P. R. for two years' extension of their charter to build a line between Blairton and Ivanhoe, southerly through Peterboro, Hastings and Northumberland, counties to Cobourg, thence westerly through North Durham, Ontario and York, to a point on the C. P. R. between Locust Hill and Leaside junction, passing through Campbellcroft, Cobourg, Port Hope, Newcastle Bowmanville Oshawa and Whitby. The distance from Toronto to Cobourg is about 70 miles.

A KNIGHT OF THE BEARD

Was to Be as His Dear Wife Wished

Suddenly then my Josephine added words to me, crying:

"Augustus!"

To which I made my ever fond reply:

"My love?"

"Augustus! I think that beards are so distinguished—don't you think so?"

And her voice so trembled in its pleading and, when I looked at my beloved, her lip so quivered and her eyes so filled with the tears of her longing that I groaned in my spirit, for I knew that my fate was near at hand and that if I should deny my heart's desire she would pine and pine and fade away, until her tender heart would break at last and my love would be no more.

"Augustus!" she whispered.

To which I bravely made reply:

"My love?"

"Augustus! I wish that you, my sweet, would grow a beard!"

And, pressing my darling boldly to my heart I raised my hand and solemnly I swore that never more should razor touch my face till I was bearded like the pard and that I would ever emulate the pirate in his business till men should tremble at the mention of my name; whereat my darling kissed me with the kiss of pride and joy and thus the pact was made.

And in fear and in trembling I fared forth into the world the following day, for never before had I faced my fellowmen in the morning until I had passed the greasing steel over my lathered countenance. And my fears were all realized and my trembling was not without cause for as I walked along the thoroughfare it was as though I had walked along through a gauntlet of eyes, large, rounded eyes, insistently staring, bold eyes and prominent eyes that never winked or wavered; eyes to the right of me, eyes to the left of me, eyes all around me—and every eye upon my unshaved beard.

My glance fell in shame and confusion and I slinked along the pave.

"Augustus!"

To which I made my sorrowful, fond reply:

"My love?"

"Augustus! How slowly it grows!"

I pressed my darling sadly to my heart and soothed her, for I saw that she had expected my beard to flower like a plant that grows beneath the hand of the conjurer and that in a few short hours she wished to see it beaming in the breeze, triumphant, fiery and untamed. And sadly then I pointed out to her that the grand, imperial city was not built in a day and that only perseverance brought success in that field of endeavor where we had thrown our die and cast our unshaved lot.

And when the morning broke I fared out into the world again, unshaved, unshorn, and seeking the solitary places of seclusion; but all the friends that I had ever made and all the chance acquaintances that I had ever met, all, all were there to greet me and to look with pity and with wonder at my woe.

The policeman gave me the second look of sharpness, and when I passed the parlors of the tonsors they pressed their faces to the window, melancholy, mournful and full of deep reproach.

On the cars my neighbors sat away from me, and all day long when rising in the elevators I was always carried past my stated floor.

"Augustus!"

To which I made my fond, despairing cry:

"My love?"

"Augustus! Can't you hurry it?"

But in sadness and in sorrow I explained to her, my love, that the execution of our plan must take its own appointed time and that, come heat or cold, rain or snow, day or night, fire or sword there was nothing that could hasten the even tenor of its way, and nothing, nothing, nothing that could soften now the blow.

And the third day came, and the third day fared I forth, looking no man in the eye except with a fierce defiance. At the restaurant no man would come and sit at the table where I was, and on the streets the youth of the land made capricious cries, exclaiming also "Z-z-z-z-z-z-z" and "Whish-sh-sh-sh!"

"Augustus!"

To which I made my fond, lamenting cry:

"My love?"

"Augustus! How much bearded is the pard?"

"I do not know," I stammered forth, a great and sudden joy infusing me. "I do not know, my love!" I stammered forth.

"A strange and fearful name," then mused my Josephine, "and I am sure that he was horrified so. The pirate, no it was agreed that we should exercise, so that all men then should tremble at the mention of thy name. And do they tremble yet, dear heart?"

"They tremble exceedingly," then cried I in my eagerness. The barbers scarcely can restrain themselves, and when my friends must come and talk to me they tremble for fear they will be seen with me. My enemies tremble with happiness, and never an A. D. T. but trembles with that fierce joy that the eagle feels when it scents its helpless prey—"

"Enough, enough!" she mused. "Besides—"

"Besides—my love? Besides—"

"I wish to go out with you to-night and so—"

And so—! And so another cloud was rolled away and the sun of love once more beamed forth again and the birds sang and the young lambs gambolled on the green and love—deep, sweet, abiding love—came stealing back and pitched his feathered tent upon the sward.

A Clerical War is Going on in France

Archbishop Seeks to Rally Roman Catholic Electors to Church's Defence—To Protect the Teachers

Paris, Oct. 28.—A new and interesting situation has been created by the French Episcopales' declaration of war against the Public schools of France, and the open attempt initiated by Archbishop Germain of Toulouse to rally the German Catholic voters at the general elections of 1910 in support of candidates committed to the defence of Church interests.

The archbishop says that the situation of French Catholics is intolerable and that they must adopt the attitude of their Irish brethren in the days of Daniel O'Connell and their German brethren as assumed against Bismarck's "Kulturkampf." M. Doumergue, minister of Educa-tin this afternoon issued a circular to school teachers instructing them to diregard the demand of the clergy and Catholic parents for the withdrawal of the text books placed under the ban by the Episcopate.

Thegovernmebt is preparing a bill for the protection of teachers who are subject to persecution by Catholic parents and religious committees which are forming throughout the republic.

Historical Society has been Reorganized

There was a good meeting of the Peterborough Historical Society held last night in the Y.M.C.A. parlors and the society has got off to a good start. The course of lectures given last year were very popular and much new interest was aroused in the work so that this year the prospects are very bright.

It is the intention to have another course of lectures this winter and the executive committee has the preliminary arrangements in hands. They will confer with the Astronomical Society and other organizations for the purpose of securing dates that will not unnecessarily conflict with lectures under the auspices of these organizations. As soon as possible a program will be prepared and it is expected that a number of first-class speakers will be brought here to give addresses on historical subjects.

A financial statement was presented to the meeting and it was satisfactory. But for the coming season's work the funds are short and an effort will be made at oncto re replenish the exchequer. This is a very worthy and noble object and very worthy and noble object and there should be no trouble in securing a good subscription.

The society is also looking for a permanent place for meeting and in which to hold their lectures which will be of public interest.

There was a general discussion of the work of the society and of the museum which is making considerable headway, and which is one of the interesting places in the city.

One of the chief objects of the meeting was to reorganize for the season and the following officers were elected:—

Hon. President—Mr. Richard Hall.
President—Mr. T. A. S. Hay.
Vice Presidents—Messrs. Cornish and Elcomb and Dr. Burnham.
Secretary—Mr. W. J. Dunlop.

An executive committee was also appointed.

New Battery System for the Fire Hall

Ald. Buller, chairman of the Fire, Water & Light Committee, has in hand a proposition which will mean a saving of considerable money to the city. It is in connection with the fire alarm system. While at the Fire Chiefs' convention in Grand Rapids last summer, he made special inquiries as to the best battery system to use, and he found that all the chiefs who had tried the dry battery with the storage system were unanimous in pronouncing it the best in every way.

The system used here calls for a great deal of work in looking after it and very large expense for supplies. This will all be done away with if the dry battery is installed.

Ald. Buller is now looking into the cost of the change and he will bring it before his committee in the near future. He proposes to adopt a similar system as is used by the Bell Telephone Company, or perhaps try to arrange with that company for the power.

OPIUM SMOKERS.

Chinese Laundries in All Cities are Opium Dives.

(To the Editor of The Times)

Sir,—In your issue of Saturday appears a letter signed by E. E. F. Berry, in which the writer advocates the strict control of Chinese laundries. Mr. Berry's contention is well based but this gentleman hardly goes far enough. If he had lived in the larger cities of the United States and known the under-world history of Chinese laundries as I do, he would have noted a danger, he omits but which almost universally exists, to every community afflicted by the presence of these laundries. I refer, Sir, to opium or "hop" smoking. It is generally known that where Chinese laindries flourish that insidious plague, the curse of opium becomes more or less prevalent. In the larger cities the Chinese have been the direct cause of thousands of young men, and sad to say young women, becoming adicted to the terrible curse of hop smoking. The sauve, smiling Chink has taught thousands of heretofore good citizens to become moral and mental wrecks from the use of "the pipe." Many as a "lark" or on an amateur slumming trip are induced to try a "pill" or so of opium. The soothing, care-dispelling fumes of the poppy juice once tried too often have gained a life-long hold on these victims. Right here in Peterborough is at least one Chinese laundry where one acquainted with the characteristics and smell of opium may sometimes recognize the sickly-sweet oror left from opium smoking. In the inspection suggested by your correspondent might be included a rigid search, when the presence of such is suspected for the stone-bowled, bamboo-stemmed opium pipe.

VARICOCELE CURED
NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.
Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $30 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

Made Business of Marrying Women then Murdering Them

New York, Oct. 28.—Pressure by the police, which has already forced from Frederick Gebhardt, alias Otto Mueller, intimations that he may have done away with other wives besides Anna Luther, was again applied today. The authorities believe the man made a business of marrying women and putting them out of theway for their money.

Today they were working on the theory that at least three more erimes like that which Gebhardt committed at Ialip could be traced to his door. In this connection they are investigating a story that Gebhardt, under the name of Mueller, was the man who in 1906 induced his landlady in Jamaica, L.I., a Mrs. Mary Katz, to sell out her boarding house and turn the money over to him, as well as to make himthe beneficiary of her life insurancepolicy. Three days later she was found dead in Jersey City, and there were no signs of Meuller.

Jas. Robinson Now on Trial for Murder

Sudbury, Oct. 28.—James Robinson was put on trial today for the murder of an infant son of his daughter. The prisoner's wife was recently found guilty of murder, and many persons are appeaking for her pardon.

The prisoner was brought into court at 11 o'clock, and the alienists reported him perfectly sane. He appears to feel the seriousness of his position. Two brothers living near Ottawa, were with him in court today, and also one from Manitoba.

The prosecutor, Mr. H. G. Creswick, K.C., of Barrie, in explaining the case said the charge was that Robinson had abetted the killing of the child of his daughter Ellen. He had urged his wife to kill the babe. [illegible] in the next room, having heard Mrs. Robinson say: "Oh, Jimmy, I can't do it," and she had heard her father reply: "Yes, you must."

"Yes, you must do it," the prisonerhad replied. "Do the same with it as you did with the other."

Bythe other had been meant the childof Jessie, another daughter, which had supposedly been killed six days before.

"If this is so," concluded Mr. A. Creswick, "then the prisoner stands guilty of this most terrible crime of murder."

"I would like to call Ellen Robinson as the first witness, my lord" saidMr. Creswick, "but it is impossible that she should give her evidence here."

Mr. Justice Magee then adjourned court to the Cook and Arthur Hospital where the girl is at present confined.

At this session, attended only by the jury and counsels, Ellen Robinson told of a son born to her on March 23. She had heard her mother say: "Jimmy, I can't do it," and she had heard her father reply: "Yes, you must."

GENERAL BOOTH IS GOING BLIND

Despite His Operation He Has Lost Sight of One Eye and Is Losing Other.

His Announcement at First Public Meeting Stirs Public—May Live 15 Years.

London, Oct. 28.—General William Booth, the remarkable octogenarian commander-in-chief of the greatest missionary organization in the world, the Salvation Army, has all London shocked and sympathetic today following his calm announcement from a lecture platform last night, that he is rapidly going blind. The veteran churchman explained that when the "light fails" he will continue to supervise the work of the Salvation Army all over the world despite his infirmity.

Gen. Booth's speech last night at at Clapton was his first public appearance since his illness which prevented his proposed American trip this fall and kept him confined to his room for weeks. He took it uponhimself to apologize for his enforced vacation, and in doing so said that despite an operation which the surgeons had performed, he has already lost the sight of one eye entirely, and that the other is failing, but may last some years.

The aged missionary took great pleasure, however, in telling his audience that his doctors believed that he will live ten or fifteen years more to carry on the work he has devotedhis life to.

SALE OF CIGARETTES.

No License Fee Charged in Peterborough Now.

A citizen enquired of the Times yesterday what license was charged for the sale of cigarettes in Peterborough. It will be remembered that a couple of years ago a by-law was passed placing a high fee on those wishing to traffic in this line of goods. The by-law was, however, quashed when a test case was tried before the magistrate Since then the matter has been allowed to stand.

It is felt however by a great many citizens that the cigarette traffic in Peterborough should be curtailed and placed under more strict control as the use of the weed in that form is very injurious. In Ottawa the Board of control have decided to charge a fee of $15 for the privilege of selling cigarettes.

The peculiar properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have been thoroughly tested during epidemics of influenza, and when it was taken in time we have not heard of a single case of pneumonia. 15

A WOMAN'S FRIEND.

Inspiring Testimony That Tells How a Sick Woman Can Quickly Regain Health and Strength.

"For years I was thin and delicate. I lost color and was easily tired; a yellow pallor, pimples and blotches on my face were not only mortifying to my feelings, but because I thought my skin would never look nice again I grew despondent. Then my appetite failed. I grew very weak. Various remedies, pills, tonics and tablets I tried without permanent benefit. A visit to my sister put into my hands a box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. She placed reliance upon them and now that they have made me a well woman I would not be without them whatever they might cost. I found Dr. Hamilton's Pills by their mild yet searching action very suitable to the delicate character of a woman's nature. They never once griped me, yet they established regularity. My appetite grew keen—my blood red pure—heavy rings under my eyes disappeared and today my skin is as clear and unwrinkled as when I was a girl. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

The above straightforward letter from Mrs. J. Y. Todd, wife of a well known miller in Roquerville, is proof sufficient that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a wonderful woman's medicine. Use no other pill but Dr. Hamilton's 25c. per box. All dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ontario.

Canada will Exchange Warships with Britain

Vessels of Our New Navy will Probably Serve in Other Parts of the World with Distant Colonial or Imperial Units

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 28.—While no definite announcement has been made here that when Canada has provided herself with a navy Dominion and British warships will be interchanged. There is every reason to believe that such a proposal was discussed at the Naval Defence Conference.

An interchange of warships, it is pointed out, would be the natural process of bringing about a proper [illegible] just as exchange of army officers is expected to lead to co-ordination of the land forces. In respect to the navy, it will doubtless be an easier matterto make this interchangeability of forces more effective because the ships will be manned by professional sailors who will accompany the ship wherever it may be, while the volunteer land forces must stay at home, the exchanges being confined to the officers only.

In this connection it will be remembered that Premier Asquith in a statement which he made in the British House of Commons said that there would be exchanges of ships and co-operation between the Australian and New Zealand fleets in the Pacific, and the Imperial fleet in the same waters. That a similar plan would be carried out in connection with the Canadian and home fleets in Atlantic waters and perh. s also in respect to such Canadian vessels as are located in Pacific waters is altogether likely.

Definite arrangements as to these exchanges, naturally will not be made until Canada's fleet has been built at least in part, and has relieved the home fleet of the duty ofwatching over our coasts. The natural sequence of such an arrangement would be the occasional exchange of ships with the colonial auxiliary navies if the idea of well co-ordinated naval forces is to be pushed to its logical conclusion.

Thinks Bedfort Story Should be Probed

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 28.—Although the Provincial authorities are are apparently satisfied that there is not a possibility of Edward Wm Bedford being connected in any way with the Kinrade murder, George Lynch Staunton, who represented the family at the inquest, is more impressed than ever as a result of thelatest despatched that the man's story should be carefully investigated. Discussing the matter last night he expressed himself very strongly about the way the police hasten to cry "fake," and attach no importance to a story when it does not fit in with their views before they havetime to investigate it.

SMITH STREET BRIDGE.

Foundations are Completed and Contractors are Working on the Piers and Abutments.

Very favorable progress is being made on the construction of the new Smith street bridge, under the direction of Messrs. E and F. Conroy. The contractors have completed the foundations and are now building the casings for the piers and abutments. They have been handicapped a little by the high water, but they expect that the Quaker Oats Company will lower the water so that they can get over the difficult part with more speed. Messrs. Conroy have a gang of nearly twenty-five men at work, and they are rushing things. The lower part of the bridge will be completed this fall unless the weather turns too severe, and in the spring only the top and the arches will remain to be completed. The Smith street bridge will be an ornament to the city as well as the most useful and permanent structure in the city.

Some one wants to know if there is such a thing as noiseless pavement. Sure. It is to be found on streets where merchants do not use the advertising columns of this great family journal.

The Review printed a rather pathetic paragraph the other day to the effect that a divorced couple named Carr have been re-united by their baby. This is certainly something very unique in the line of Carr coupling.

Prince Rupert, B. C. Empire says:

A prominent New Brunswick citizen who has just returned from a trip in the interior says "but little is known on the outside of the vast acreage of timber and agricultural lands of the upper country in British Columbia," and predicted that within a few years that part of the country would have a population far exceeding even the dreams of those who have long known of the country's great resources.

STEFOFF HANGS DECEMBER 23

Judge Riddell Condemned the Murderer to Death Yesterday Morning—Prisoner Unmoved.

Canadian Law Gives Every Man an Opportunity, Says Judge, But Stands Against Spoliation.

Toronto, October 28.—Poral Stefoff found guilty yesterday afternoon of the murder of Vani Simoff in an Eastern avenue boarding house last April, was condemned to death this morning by Judge Riddell. He will hang on Thursday, December 23rd. Not a quiver of emotion disturbed the lines of the Macedonian's face. He heard the long address from the bench, which even in its first sentences carried the tone of death, with the indifference of a schoolboy in recitation hour.

HUNTERS' LICENSES.

Fifty Had Been Issued by Col. Miller Up to Last Night.

Up to last night Lt. Col. Miller had issued fifty deer hunting licenses to Peterborough people, including a number from the county. The hunters are just as numerous and just as keen for the sport this year as ever. There will be quite a number of licenses issued today and tomorrow as about half of the sports leave their license until the last minute.

Chest Inflamation

Suffered from a Heavy Cold, Pleuritic Pains in Side—Constant Coughing.

"NERVILINE" CURED QUICKLY.

"Anyone that goes through all that I suffered last winter will appreciate the value of a remedy that cures like Nerviline cured me." These are the opening words of the solemn declaration of E. P. Von Hayden, the well-known violinist of Middleton. "My work kept me out late at night, and playing in cold drafty places brought on a severe cold that settled on my chest. I had a harsh racking cough and severe pains darted through my sides and settled in my shoulders. I used different liniments, but none broke up my cold till I used Nerviline. I rubbed it on my neck chest and shoulders, morning and night, and all the pain disappeared. Realizing that such a heavy cold had run down my system, I took Ferrozone at meals, and was completely built up and strengthened. Since using Nerviline I have no more colds or pleurisy, and enjoy perfect health."

NERVILINE CURES CHEST COLDS

It's because Nerviline contains the purest and most healing essences and medicinal principles, because it has the power of sinking through the to the kernel of the pain—these are the reasons why it breaks up colds, cures lumbago, stiffness, neuralgia, sciatica and rheumatism. Refuse any substitute your dealer may suggest—insist on Nerviline only. Large 25c. bottles, five for $1.00. Sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Oiling the Streets.

It appears that Toronto has obtained very satisfactory results from oil sprinkling during the past season. After a two months trial there on the principal streets, the system bids fair to be adopted permanently. It was shown in Toronto that the oiling was 25 per cent. cheaper than watering would have been, and it was much more effective. The oil used was the same as tried in the Barrie experiment, referred to in these columns a few days ago, being a by-product of the distillation of petroleum. Owing to the small demand it is largely a waste product, hence its cheapness.

"The Soul's Awakening."

Never in the history of newspapers has there been such enthusiasm over a premium as "The Soul's Awakening" has created during the past two weeks. Almost every newspaper in Canada has published most flattering tributes to The Family Herald's enterprise. Clergymen of all denominations have written thanking the Publishers for giving the people of Canada an opportunity to possess such a picture. Every mail brings scores of letters from parents, fathers and mothers, expressing their sincere gratitude for furnishing the home with such an elevating influence. School Inspectors have written suggesting that every school room in Canada should have a copy of "The Soul's Awakening," believing that it will have a powerful, though silent, influence on the minds of the children. The Family Herald and Weekly Star alone is big value at one dollar, but with this picture as a premium it looks like giving away money. It is said the supply is limited and there is a big rush of subscriptions. No one should miss it.

Travel Via G. T. R.

Messrs. S. Tamura, R. Hara, I. Watasi and T. Minami, four Japanese gentlemen, composing part of the committee sent out officially from Japan to study commercial and other conditions in the United States and Canada arrived in Montreal Tuesday morning, October 19th, and immediately proceeded with W. T. R. Preston, the Canadian Trade Commissioner to Japan, to Ottawa at 8.30 A. M. on the Grand Trunk Railway System. At Ottawa they were met by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and he gave them a luncheon and they dined with Japanese Consul-General in the evening. The party left Ottawa in Grand Trunk Railway private car "Violet" at 8.30 A. M. Thursday, October 21st, for Ste. Anne de Bellevue for the purpose of inspecting the MacDonald Agricultural College, leaving Ste. Annes the same evening for Toronto where they spent Friday and left for Montreal same night via Grand Trunk for Montreal.

The party is under the guidance of Mr. W. T. R. Preston for the entire trip

ANGLO-INDIAN SOCIETY.

Salary Decides a Briton's Standing in the Orient.

Anglo-Indian society is strictly official. The male exile's status depends upon the number of rupees he draws each month from the Government. An "Assistant District Superintendent of Police" may be the younger son of a baronet, with an ancestry going back to the Conquest. But he must take in to dinner the Eurasian wife of the "Opium Wallah" — a "Government servant," who is paid a salary of similar dimensions. The "Collector," who gets the equivalent of a thousand pounds a year, is paired off with the sister of the officer commanding the local regiment. In all probability, the lady has a supreme contempt for the "civilian's" social standing, although her unpretentious parents may have kept a Bayswater boarding-house. In the large "stations," railway employes, tea and indigo planters, barristers and business men have a bowing acquaintance with the officers of the British infantry regiments, and they are welcomed in native infantry messes. British cavalry officers and their wives, however, seldom tolerate them, though impecunious subalterns with an eye to the main chance) make a point of cultivating bank managers. Occasionally, the officers of one corps do not encourage friendly relations with those of another, the womenkind of these warriors being only too ready to obey the mandate. Under these circumstances, jovial Anglo-Indians who are anxious to make friends of everybody—from the "Commissioner" down to the "Acting Additional Traffic Manager," who occupies a lowly position in the railway office—loathe (with exceeding hate) Rawalpindi, Secunderabad, Bangalore, Lucknow, Meerut, and other large military "stations" where cliques abound.

The "Mem-Sahib" is not over-burdened with household duties. For many months in the year, the appalling heat (which reduces the liveliest lady to the verge of apathy, dispels any good intentions she may have formed. Besides, it is not customary for the mistress of the house to pry too closely into the uncleanly mysteries with which the native servants surround themselves. Even the strongest-minded "Mem" is staggered by the sights which await her in the "bowarchi whanah," as the kitchen is known. Nor is she encouraged to take an interest in her servants and their children. Should she condescendingly pat little Ahmed's fat cheeks, little Ahmed's papa will straightway accuse her of regarding his offspring with the "evil eye."

Bronze Statuettes.

An interesting exhibition of bronze statuettes by Anthony Van Wouw was inaugurated recently at the Fine Arts Society's galleries by Sir Richard Solomon, who deputed to Dr. Engelenburg, one of the South African delegates at the Imperial Press Conference, the task of introducing the personality of the Boer sculptor.

Anthony Van Wouw's nationality is betrayed by his subjects rather than by his style, which is the result of sound training in the European art centres. He has chosen his models from among his own people and the indigenous black races, whose varied types he renders with considerable realistic force. Nor is this realism confined to the faithful reproduction of racial characteristics; in several cases, as in the statuette of a "Kaffir Basting Meealies" and the pathetic group "Bad News," he endeavors, with marked success, to convey a suggestion of the arid, stony veld. There is something of monumental dignity in his little seated figure of 'Paul Kruger in Exile." Of peculiar interest are the two figures of "Voortrekkers," designed for the corners of the Kruger monument, which was commissioned from the artist before the outbreak of the war.

Lord Lonsdale's Set.

There are few better all-round sportsmen in the Empire than the Earl of Lonsdale, who is taking such an active interest in the Travel and Sports Exhibition, due to open next month at Olympia. He rides, shoots, motors, boxes, yachts, and is an expert slipper of greyhounds. Horses, however, have been the hobby of his life, and on matters connected with them his opinions are of great value. Once Lord Lonsdale made a bet he would drive twenty miles in less than an hour. The roads were bad, but the weather was worse. For the first five miles his lordship drove a four-in-hand, a pair for another five miles, rode postilion of a pair for the next five, and completed the remainder of the distance by driving a single horse for the last stage. The entire journey was covered in four and a half minutes under the hour

Engine-Cleaner as an Artist.

Another romantic struggle for fame is illustrated by the career of Mr. Alfred Hudson, who has had a picture accepted for this year's Academy in London. He started life as an engine-cleaner, and in the course of time was promoted to his present post of chief clerk in the locomotive department of the Northeastern Railway at Leeds. He developed a passion for art, but had no money to purchase the necessary equipment. By exercising the strictest economy, however, he was able to save out of his wages sufficient to procure some brushes and paint. He has exhibited in different parts of the country.

A Witty Entry.

Mme. Ghosal, the daughter of the Maharajah of Cooch Behar, the Indian prince whose magnificent attire makes him one of the most picturesque figures at Court, can be very witty on occasions. Once, when staying at a country house, she was asked to write down a thought in an album, and seeing that someone had inscribed the somewhat sententious phrase, "Do right, and fear no man," she took the pen and promptly wrote underneath, "Don't write, and fear no woman."

Reclaiming Holland.

Since the 16th century the Dutch have reclaimed more than 1,000,000 acres of land from sea, lake and river.

DON'T KILL ALL YOUR TURKEYS FOR CHRISTMAS

But leave one or two for the Peterborough Poultry Show.

While turkeys usually fetch a good price at Christmas, farmers' wives would make no mistake in saving one or two for the Peterborough Poultry Show, to be held in the Market Hall, Peterborough, on January 4th, 5th and 6th, 1910. On that occasion three prizes of $3, $2, and $1, respectively—$10 in all—will be offered for the best three 1909 turkeys, dressed, exhibited. This is a special cash inducement offered by the directors, who are leaving no stone unturned to assure 1910's Poultry Show excelling, both in exhibits and attendance, all previous attempts in this direction. It is confidently expected that over 1200 birds will be exhibited at the coming show and the directors themselves are now busy building 250 new coops to accommodate the entries.

The Peterborough Poultry Show has gained the confidence of the public in Peterborough city and county, and also throughout a large district outside the county. Heretofore each year's show has surpassed that of the previous year, and 1910 will undoubtedly prove no exception to the rule. Energetic and enterprising members have given to Peterborough an annually recurring Poultry Show worthy the name, and which is productive of good results in encouraging the breeding of high class poultry, and in attracting hundreds of visitors to Peterborough city.

Farmers' wives will unquestionably be unusually interested in the Poultry Show next January, for a $6 prize for the best 1909 turkey, dressed, is worth bidding for, to say nothing of the $3 and $1 prizes. An expert from Guelph Agricultural College will judge these turkeys.

PROMPT JUSTICE.

The Magistrate Was Firm and Tried to Be Genial.

In the "History of Beverly" Mass the following anecdote is related of a good justice of the peace in the old colonial times On a cold night in winter a traveler called at his house for lodging. The ready hospitality of the justice was about being displayed when the traveler unluckily uttered a word which his host considered profane.

Upon this he informed his guest that he was a magistrate, pointed out the nature of the offense and explained the necessity of its being expiated by sitting an hour in the stocks

Remonstrance was unavailing, for custom at that time allowed the magistrate to convict and punish at once, and in this case he acted as accuser, witness, jury, judge and sheriff, all in one.

Cold as it was, our worthy justice, aided by his son, conducted the traveler to the place of punishment, an open place near the meeting house where the stocks were placed. Here the traveler was confined in the usual manner, the benevolent executor of the law remaining with him to beguile the time of its tedium by edifying conversation.

At the expiration of the hour he was reconducted to the house and hospitably entertained till the next morning, when the traveler departed with, let us hope, a determination to consider his words more carefully before giving them utterance in the hearing of a conscientious magistrate.

JAPAN'S PAGODAS.

They Are Built to Resist the Shock of an Earthquake.

A remarkable fact in Japan is that pagodas built hundreds of years ago embody the principle of the modern seismograph, which is to minimise the effect of earthquake motion by the combination of an inverted pendulum with an ordinary pendulum, or, in other words, by the union of a stable and an unstable structure to produce a neutral stability, which renders the whole building least sensible to earthquake shock.

In the hollow well of every five storied pagoda a heavy mass of timber is suspended freely, like an exaggerated tongue, from the top right to the ground, but not in contact with it, and at the shock of an earthquake this large pendulum slowly swings and the structure sways and then settles back safely upon its base.

This is also the principle followed in the construction of all bell towers throughout Japan, where the bell acts as pendulum, and the roof, supported by posts, forms an inverted pendulum as in the seismograph

When an earthquake occurs a pagoda or a bell tower may be rotated or displaced, but it cannot be overturned as a whole.—Wide World Magazine

Tell Some Sick One

It Is Free If It Fails.

Will you do an act of Humanity?
Will you tell some sick friend of this, my remarkable offer?

Tell him or her, that you have learned of a medicine so certain that its maker dare say to the sick, "It is absolutely and unconditionally free if it fails."

And you, no doubt, already know of Dr. Shoop's Restorative and its popularity.

For 20 years it has been the standard remedy for Stomach, Kidney and Heart ailments everywhere in America.

When the "inside" or controlling nerves of these vital organs begin to fail, it is Dr. Shoop's Restorative that has quickly vitalized, and strengthened, and brought these nerves and organs back to health again.

I do not dose the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys—for that is all wrong.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes direct to the cause of these ailments—the failing, faltering, inside or controlling nerves. And herein lies the keynote to my success.

When these nerves are again made well and strong, then that is the certain end of all such sickness.

To me it is a great satisfaction that I am the only physician able to say to the suffering sick, "Take my prescription for full 30 days, and if it fails to help you, the entire expense is mine—not yours."

Then why should the sick take any chance on any other medicine, whose maker dare not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer?

I also have a Rheumatic Remedy—and that remedy is covered by the same identical "no help, no pay" protective plan.

Besides, you are free to consult me just as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request.

So let me send you an order at once. Take the message to some sick friend.

A postal will bring the opportunity.

I will have an honest and trustworthy druggist to whom you can conveniently go for the 30 day test.

But first, ask me for the order, for all druggists are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So write me now and save all delays. Remember that tomorrow never comes. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

Which Book Shall I Send You?

No. 1 On Dyspepsia
No. 2 On the Heart
No. 3 On the Kidneys
No. 4 For Women
No. 5 For Men
No. 6 On Rheumatism

His Transformation.

Little Harold, aged six felt very proud when he donned his first pair of trousers. Taking his three-year-old brother behind the door, he was overheard to say, "Willie, Willie do you remember me?"—Dellneator.

Ending a Letter.

The simplicity of "Yours" as a letter ending would have astounded Jeremy Taylor, whose letters to John Evelyn often wind up with perfect triumphs of complexity in this respect. His best is, "Believe me that I am, in great heartiness and dearness of affection, dear sir, your obliged and most affectionate and endeared friend and servant," or "Your very affectionate friend and hearty servant." Even in his shortest perorations of the kind the "affectionate" and the "servant" are always the two indispensable words. Probably no man, woman or child would combine these two at the end of a letter today.—London Tatler.

A Division of Labor.

The following dialogue at the Bow county court deserves to be recorded:

Witness—One day I had some shrimps to sell, and I asked the plaintiff to help me. He said, "I can't push the barrow because my arm is bad but if you like I'll come along with you and holler."

Counsel—Why was that?

Witness—Well, it's like this, sir. A man can often shout when he can't shove.—London News.

STRANGE PEOPLES.

Denizens of Darkest Africa Described For Geographers.

Major E. G. T. Bright, C.M.G., gave an interesting account of survey and exploration in the Ruwenzori and Lake region, Central Africa, before the Royal Geographical Society. The country described is in the neighborhood of the western border of the Uganda Protectorate and the Congo State. Maj. Bright gave some interesting details regarding the natives of the country through which the expedition passed. The people of Bavira were noticeable for their women wearing a particularly disfiguring ornament in their upper lips—an embellished wooden disc, from 2 1-2 to 3 inches in diameter. These tribes bartered their food for beads and cloth, much preferring the latter, though they were but scantily clothed. The males wore a piece of cloth carried between the legs, with its ends tucked, both in front and behind, through a belt of hide or rope, and for ornaments ivory and wooden bracelets. With the women a bunch of weeds worn behind was all that was considered necessary, though their necks were encircled with many strings of different-colored beads. The young men and women dressed their hair with a mixture of light clay.

A finer and a darker race—the Lendu—was warlike and continually fighting amongst themselves or with anyone else they thought themselves strong enough to overcome. They were treacherous, and would go to almost any extremes in their anxiety to obtain arms and ammunition. The district between the Congolese stations, Kasindi and Beni, Maj. Bright reported, was an ideal elephant country, and was tenanted by some large herds. The Ituli forest and the wooded slopes of Ruwenzori formed veritable strongholds for elephant, while in the Toro Game Reserve devastated plantations and spear testified to the numbers still living in and around the protected country. In the open country on the southern shore of Lake Albert, when the plains are marshy, elephant and buffalo roam over them. In the kingdom of Ankoli the population could be roughly classified as the Bahima, the aristocracy, and the Bacro, the cultivators and serfs. The Bahima believed vaguely in an all-powerful Deity, who was associated mainly with rain, thunder, and other weather phenomena. They endeavored to propitiate various devils—most of whom were connected with the prevalent diseases—by erecting joss-houses, in which food and beer were placed. They invariably carried round the neck wooden charms or small goats' horns, which had been invested with magical power by the medicine men, and usually wore wire bracelets and anklets. The Bahima were a purely pastoral people. All forms of agriculture were held in contempt, and were relegated to their Bacro servants.

The Baamba people living in the forest near the Etuli river were addicted to cannibalism of a particularly loathsome form. Families exchanged their young children, who were then eaten. The Baamba in many cases filed their teeth, but this practice was not quite general. They were a jovial people. A constant warfare went on between village and village. They are built on the top of a ridge, and a stout wooden stockade is erected round. Each village had a club-house, furnished with a few rough three-legged chairs, made of the forked boughs of a tree, on which the members lie; the men gathered there to talk and smoke.

Wifely Pride.

There is no telling what queer turns wifely pride and devotion may take. Sir Melvill Beacheroft, whose work in connection with the London County Council is well-known, while waiting in a tenement house for the occupant of the first floor to admit him, chanced to overhear two women conversing on the stairs.

One remarked that her husband always wore a clean shirt every Sunday morning.

"Well, now," responded the other, "I never cares about Sundays, but I allays do see that 'e 'as a clean shirt Saturday afternoons, 'cos that's the time 'e is generally drinking, and when 'e does take 'is coat off to fight I do like to know 'e looks nice and clean.—M.A.P.

Easily Identified.

One of the peculiarities of Viscount Goschen is to pay surprise visits to the branches of the bank which he helps to control. Not long ago he entered a country branch and asked the clerk in charge to cash a cheque drawn by a friend, adding that both himself and friend were customers of the bank. When the clerk complied, Mr. Goschen, as he was then, read him a severe lesson on cashing cheques for strangers. "How do you know I came by the cheque honestly?" he asked. "I don't know," said the clerk; "but if anything went wrong your father would indemnify the bank against loss, and I always like to oblige a director." The said director had thought he was unknown.

Variety Artistes Salaries.

Exactly who is the highest-paid variety artiste next to Harry Lauder, who received close upon $4,000 a week while touring America, it is not easy to say. Miss Ada Reeve and Miss Vesta Tilley, however, must be very near the top. A recent law case revealed the fact that the former is accustomed to obtain angagements at $1,500 a week, while Miss Vesta Tilley's "turn" is placed at an even greater value. There are quite a number of variety artistes—Mr. Geo. [illegible], "Little Tich," and Miss Marie Lloyd included—whose salaries range from $500 to $750 and more per week.

Queer Claret.

A party of miners calling at an inn in Llangollen during the absence of the landlord were shown into the best room which, on his return, caused him to remonstrate. His wife, however, explained that a lot of money had been spent, and that seven bottles of claret had already been drunk. "Claret!" said he. "Why, I sold the last bottle the other day; you've been giving 'em catsup."

HERO OF MAGERSFONTEIN.

Victoria Cross Cost Captain Towse His Eyesight.

Pathetic indeed was an incident which marked the recent inspection of the Gentlemen-at-Arms by the King. A tall, well-built, handsome soldier was carefully piloted before His Majesty by a fellow-officer. It was Captain E. B. B. Towse, V.C., whose eyes were shattered while leading a brilliant charge against the Boers during the South African war. The story of that charge will long live in the memories of the Gordon Highlanders, that regiment which has so many heroic deeds on its roll of honor, and to which Captain Towse belonged.

On April 30th, 1900, Captain Towse, with twelve men, took up a position on Mount Thaba. He was totally unsupported; but it was not thought any of the enemy were near. Suddenly, however, a party of Boers, over a hundred strong, who had also made for the position, appeared a hundred yards off. Seeing that they outnumbered the Highlanders, the Boers called upon Captain Towse to surrender.

His prompt reply was to give a ringing command to his men to fire and then charge, the Boers being now about forty yards distant. The sudden onslaught of these twelve intrepid Britishers, with their gallant leader, amazed the Boers to waver and fall back; and thus the situation was saved.

But the victory was dearly bought; for the man, to their great grief, saw a bullet shatter the eyes of their captain, who has, consequently, never been able to look on the Cross of Valor which was duly awarded him.

Neither was this the only deed of gallantry performed by Captain Towse during the Boer war. Five months previously, on "Black Monday" (December 11th, 1899), at the disastrous battle of Magersfontein, when Lord Methuen fought 15,000 Boers with 11,000 men, with terrible loss, Captain Towse earned the title of the "Hero of Magersfontein." Concealed in their trenches, the Boers could not be driven out, and Lord Methuen was obliged to retire to the Modder River.

A terrible fire from rifles and pompoms at close range struck down one in five of the Highland Brigade under General Wauchope, who also fell riddled with bullets. Colonel G. T. F. Downman, Captain Towse's commanding officer, was also struck down. But in spite of the hail of bullets Captain Towse hoisted the colonel on his back and bore him away. It was a gallant deed, well in keeping with the glorious traditions of the famous Gordons.

Rabbits in a Tree.

Walking with a friend the other day in Wilham Woods, near Oxford, I came across a litter of young rabbits in a tree. It was an oak, with a hole at the base about the size of an ordinary rabbit-hole. We pulled ourselves up the tree to about eight feet from the ground, and found ourselves standing on a mass of mould and decayed wood which seemed to fill the inside of the trunk. On one side was a hollow branch, and at the end of the branch a rabbit's nest containing young rabbits. About a foot from the branch and slightly to one side was an opening which obviously led from the hole at the base of the tree. It would have meant a very steep ascent for the rabbits unless the way up took the form of a spiral. The nest in the branch must have been quite nine feet above ground.—G. C. Vassall, in The Field.

Thomas Hardy and the Stage.

At one time Mr. Thomas Hardy, who has just entered upon his seventieth year, had serious thoughts of devoting himself to dramatic authorship. He is an enthusiastic playgoer, and at one time took a flat in London for three or four months of the year so that he might attend the theatres. As an illustration of the dependence of the author upon the actor, Mr Hardy tells a good story of "Walker, London," J. M. Barrie's first play, which was produced by J. L. Toole. He witnessed a performance of the play in Barrie's company, and several times found occasion to congratulate the author upon the dialogue, laughing freely and exclaiming, "That's a good thing." But, as sure as he did so, Barrie would reply, in a melancholy tone, "Ah, that's not mine; but if anything went wrong your father would indemnify the bank against loss, and I always like to oblige a director." The said director had thought he was unknown.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—16 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Cripple Creek county. It is absolute owner of 10 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

Mill tests have proved that half of the values can be saved on the plates, and the remainder concentrate readily into a smelting product.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 300,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $500. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

This is the last opportunity for the investor to get an interest in this safe and conservative mining venture.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

400 FOOT TUNNEL—140 FOOT SHAFT

Mines located near Valardena, Durango, Mexico only six miles by wagon road and three miles straight line from the property of the Guggenheims upon which they have recently erected a $2,000,000 smelter. Sample assays have averaged from $54 to $102 per ton.

Up to the present time, the Turquoise Copper Co., has been practically a close operation; an initial offering of 100,000 shares has just been made at 25 cents, par value $1.00, full paid and non-assessable. Proceeds will be used to further continue the development work already begun.

We have options on 50,000 shares of this stock and advise immediate purchase at 25 cents per share. It is the intention of the Board of Directors to list the stock on the New York Curb and it should sell at $1.00 per share by the first of the year.

Siamese Snapshots.

White is the Siamese mourning color.

Siamese babies, dogs and cats are born yellow. The dye keeps off fleas.

The favorite Siamese delicacy is pickled prawns saturated with very strong red pepper.

In the midsummer heats the Siamese always bathe with the clothes on. Dress afterward they keep cool longer.

Believing that it is unpardonable to take life, the Siamese strain insects out of their drinking water and do not bathe at night lest in the darkness they crush some few parasites in drying themselves.

Train and Track.

The world's railways have a total length of more than seventeen times the circumference of the earth at the equator.

In Germany second class railroad seats differ from the first only in the color of the upholstery, which is gray instead of red.

In every mile of railroad there is seven feet four inches not covered by rails. This is the space left between the rails to allow for expansion in hot weather.

The railroads of the United States paid out $56,000,000 last year for cross ties, an average of 50 cents for each tie. Electric lines used one-sixteenth of the whole.

Tales of Cities.

The first stone of St. Petersburg was laid in 1703.

When it is carried to the northern limits of Manhattan, Riverside drive will be seven miles long. Five years ago the drive extended only a little beyond Grant's tomb.

Chicago, says a journal of that city, ranks fourth (possibly third) among the cities of the world, the others having been founded from 285 to 1,000 years ago while Chicago, as a city, is only twenty-one years of age.

Unreasonable.

"Your baby cries a great deal at night. Can't you do anything for it?"

"Your dog barks a good deal. Can't you do anything to stop him?"

"Confound it, such unreasonable people as you haven't any right to live in a flat!"

The Result the Same.

"Gimme some of that prune pie."

"Non, you've had two kinds of pie already."

"Then another kind won't matter. There's only one kind of stomach ache."

Dagnet vs. Dreadnought.

Naval Constructor Hollman, of the German navy, has taken out a patent for a device to destroy battleships of the Dreadnought class. Combined with these modern engines of war is Zeppelin dirigible airship, which among other things, by dropping explosives on an enemy's ships and forces, does harmless. Hollman's device is an enormous dynamo-magnet capable of being charged up to 50,000 volts. With such a magnet, he says, he can attract by a magnetic power any battleship within a radius of seven miles. He believes that a magnet can be made powerful enough to attract a whole fleet of warships and draw them into shallow water, where they will run aground and be at the mercy of heavy artillery ashore. Hollman declares most seriously that the amount of metal in the battleships of to-day will only intensify the force of his magnets. Anchors and the ships' engines will be powerless, he says, against the magnet's attractive force. The magnet, or a battery of them, should be established, according to the ideas of Naval Constructor Hollman, at the mouth of a river or in some favorable submerged position along the coast where the enemy could not readily detect it. The rest is easy. Along comes a hostile fleet to blockade a port or bombard a town or even steam up the river. The moment the ships get within magnet-range the operator in charge of the station turns on the power and the ships are drawn to the shore, to be captured or demolished.

There are dynamo-magnets in several of the German shipyards capable of lifting a dead weight of 50,000 pounds. The Hollman magnet is designed to lift a battleship.

Your Canary.

Don't forget to give your canary the best of water and seed every day. See that he has a good fish bone. Clean his cage every day. Keep him out of the hot sun and the glare of bright lights and yet let him have sunshine. Talk to him—talk to him with a kind voice. Let him out of the cage occasionally. We give crumbs of bread soaked in milk, lettuce, chickweed, a little piece of egg, sometimes a little fruit, a nut and lots of good things and let him eat or reject, as he pleases. Remember he is a prisoner in confinement, dependent on you every day for health and life, and constantly strive to make him happy. A little tin cent looking glass will add greatly to his happiness. Take care that neither sun nor other light reflected shall dazzle him.

The Patient Mule.

The kind-hearted woman was very solicitous about a certain mule belonging to Erastus Pinkley. The mule had a sad and heavy appearance and never looked more dejected than when the proprietor brought it up with a flourish at the front gate, says a writer in The Washington Star.

"Do you ever abuse that mule of yours?" she inquired one day.

"Lan' sakes, miss," returned Mr. Erastus, "I should say not! Dat mule done had me on de defensive foh de las' six years."

Go to the blood, if you are to drive out Rheumatism. A Wisconsin physician, Dr. Sheop, does this with his Rheumatic Remedy—and with amazing success. Rub-ene, says the doctor, never did cure Rheumatism. It is more than skin deep—it's constitutional, always. Because of this principle, Dr. Sheop's Rheumatic Remedy is perhaps the most popular in existence. It goes by word of mouth from one to another everywhere. Grateful patients gladly spread results. It is an act of humanity, to tell the sick of a way to health. Tell some sick one. Sold by all dealers.

THE MOUND BUILDERS

Mystery of the Great Monuments Found in This Country.

RELICS OF A VANISHED RACE.

The Strangely Shaped Structures Are Thought to Be More Than Two Thousand Years Old—The Enigma of Those Who Reared Them.

Scattered through the middle west and in other parts of the United States are more than 10,000 monstrous, odd shaped "mounds." Some are built like forts, others in queer, sharp geometrical figures, others shaped like huge serpents, crocodiles, buffaloes, turtles, eagles, lizards, dragons with open in their mouths, etc. Some of these mounds are a mile long, some much smaller. In Newark, O., stands a continuous mound, constructed in a perfect circle, more than 5,000 feet in circumference. The mounds are often covered with trees that are many centuries in age. These strangely shaped structures are thought to be more than 2,000 years old.

Who built them?

Certainly not the North American Indians. The Indians have ever been a lazy, roving race, making their livelihood chiefly by hunting and fishing, seldom remaining long in one neighborhood and using tents or the rudest huts as their dwelling places.

The mysterious people who built the mounds were not a race of rovers. An infinitely long time must have been required for erecting each huge earth shape. Nor were they ignorant savages, for the mounds show deep knowledge of geometry as well as of astronomy and of the principles of building. Carefully laid out military fortifications abound in the mound builders' country, indicating that the aborigines had martial lore and engineering skill and that they understood many modern principles of attack and defense.

There are also sepulchral mounds, some of them sixty feet high. These contain human bones, skulls, etc., as well as copper utensils and bits of pottery. The bones when exposed to air crumble at once to dust. As the bones of Europeans who died twenty centuries ago are often found intact and strong, many authorities believe the mound builders date back at least several centuries before the time of Julius Cæsar.

Cleverly made pottery and copper or bronze implements of war and peace are found all through the mounds. Ancient abandoned copper mines on the banks of Lake Superior show that the mound builders well understood the art of mining. The workmanship of the copper bracelets, bronze knives, etc., prove their skill at the forge.

In one of the prehistoric Lake Superior mines has been found a mass of copper weighing eight tons, resting on a high platform, ready for removal to the upper earth. This implies the use of well constructed mine machinery. Pictures that have been found etched upon copper and ivory portray much artistic skill.

From all this it seems that in some remote age the central part of North America was inhabited by a race of warlike, industrious, decidedly civilized beings who had splendid skill at building, at the arts of mining, engineering and higher mathematics and who flourished apparently during numerous centuries. Yet so long ago did the mound builders cease to exist that in all Indian folklore there is no mention, no memory, of them.

None know where the Indians themselves came from. Yet they apparently settled in America long after the mound builders had vanished. The skulls discovered in the mounds are not shaped in the least like skulls of Indians nor even of Europeans. Some archaeologists claim to find strong resemblance between the mound builders' skulls and those of the ancient Egyptians. If there were any connection between the two, who can explain how an Egyptian race chanced to flourish in the middle west?

The fate of the mound builders is as mysterious as the strange people themselves. After reaching so high a civilization and thriving for so long a time it seems strange that they should have been completely destroyed. No satisfactory explanation has ever been offered. Perhaps the mound builders moved south and became merged with the Mexican Aztecs or Peruvians, or some savage race from the north may have swept down and utterly destroyed them, or a wholesale pestilence may have wiped out their nation.

The weird looking earthen monuments (the purpose of most of them a puzzle to the best archaeologists) are the sole remaining proof that this great lost American race ever existed.

How He Managed.

A man in an up state county owns a number of horses and has a great reputation for skill in the treatment of them. One day a farmer who wanted some valuable information approached the horse owner's little boy and said:

"Look here, my little man, when one of your father's horses is ill what does he do?"

"Do you mean slightly ill or seriously ill?" asked the boy cautiously.

"Oh, seriously ill," said the farmer.

"Because," said the child, "if a horse is only slightly ill he gives it medicine, but if it is seriously ill he sells it."

Troubles must come to all men, but those who are always looking for them will have the largest share.

Hard Luck.

Bob Footlite (actor)—Failure? I should think it was! The whole play was ruined. She—Gracious! How was that? Bob Footlite—Why, at the end of the last act a steam pipe burst and hissed me off the stage.

The Telegraph.

The first royal speech transmitted by telegraph was that delivered by the late Queen Victoria when she opened parliament on Nov. 15, 1837. The speed of transmission was fifty-five words a minute.

IRELAND.

George Meredith's plea for home rule is embodied in his last poem, "Ireland," which leads off "Scribner's" for July, accompanied by a hitherto unpublished portrait which was painted in 1897 for J. M. Barrie by Amy Draper Sumner. We quote three of the seven stanzas:

Fire in her ashes Ireland feels
And in her veins a glow of heat.
To her the lost old time appeals
For resurrection, good to greet;
Not as a shape to spectral eyes,
But humanly maternal, young
In all that quickens pride, and wise
To speak the best her bards have sung.

May she not call herself her own?
That is her cry, and thence her spite,
Of fury, thence her graceless tone
At justice given in bits and bits.
The limbs once raw with gnawing chains
Will fret at silken when God's boons
Of freedom beckon o'er the plains
From mounts that show it more than dreams.

A nation she, and formed to charm,
With heart for heart and hands all round.
No longer England's broken arm,
Would England know where strength is found.
And strength to-day in England's need;
To-morrow it may be for both
Salvation: heed the portents, heed
The warnings, free the mind from sloth.

HUGO AS AN ARTIST.

The Great French Writer's Opinion of His Own Drawings.

When Victor Hugo's "Marion Delorme" was read before the troupe of the Porte-Saint-Martin theatre, the actor Laferriere, then a young man, protested against the insignificant role assigned him, in which he would have only ten lines to recite. Hugo promptly reduced him to silence by thundering, "Ten lines of Victor Hugo are something not to be refused—for they endure." Hugo attached a similar exaggerated significance to everything he did and to every object that was in any way associated with him.

For instance, he considered his drawings, which were for the most part commonplace enough, of sufficient importance to make them the subject of a testamentary provision. In his will of Aug. 31, 1881, he wrote, "I give my drawings and everything which shall be drawn by me to the National Library of Paris, which will be one day the Library of the United States of Europe."

Hugo's drawings are said to have been produced more often than not in the following manner: If a blot of ink chanced to fall on his paper while he held his pen aloft in quest of a word or rhyme, he enlarged the spot absentmindedly and made additions to it instinctively under the influence of a species of subconscious direction until he had produced a sinister moonlight scene or a "venerable bourg dominating with its bristling ruins the shuddering waters of a river of legend." He elaborated with great care, however, during his irksome exile at Guernsey certain crude impressions he had transferred to his sketchbook during his journeys in the valley of the Rhine. Furthermore, being a great lover of children, he drew figures of the most extravagant sort for the amusement of the young people of his household.—Alvan L. Sanborn in Book Man.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these inside nerves fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

PERMANENT INVESTMENTS CANNOT BE MADE BY MONEY ADVANCED BY BANKS, OR OBTAINED THROUGH ANY OTHER CHANNEL, EXCEPTING THE SALE OF SECURITIES.

In a large business this policy is always considered the best one, for investors have always found that the man who has built up a business by hard efforts of years, and by all he owns in the world, furnishes the best guarantee for a continuance and further development of the methods that have brought success. For this reason, and after careful consideration, it has been decided to offer to the investor an opportunity to become interested in Canadian Eatables, Limited, and to share in its further success.

PROFITS

This company manufactures only necessary food products, for which the demand is permanent and staple, and supply dominates the market prices, and the high prices prevalent proves the inability of the manufacturer to satisfy the needs of the market. The profits earned are enormously high in comparison to other enterprises, and the company has sufficient constraints on hand to warrant the distribution of a 50 per cent. dividend on both Preference and Common Stock.

FOR WALL STREET SUCCESS.

Just a Few of the Qualifications Necessary If One Is to "Beat the Game."

The clergyman who says that he can take "a $100 bill, a pencil and a pad" and make a fortune in Wall street recommends the process only to those who possess one important qualification. They must know the game. Given that, the rest is easy. To know the game thoroughly it is necessary to be in the confidence of the board when ten per cent. dividends are to be declared; to learn ahead of the crowd what stock is next to be marked up on the strength of rumors of dividend guarantees; what bankrupt road is to be sold to a system; what manipulation the bull pool is about to undertake, and to have other advance information equally helpful. It is given to few to possess this knowledge, no doubt by a wise provision of nature which permits the many to be sacrificed that the most fit may survive. If it were possible for any one with a $100 bill to become a Wall street millionaire the aggregation of swollen fortunes would menace the republic. Doubtless in the case of the clergyman in question the gain to the ministry involved the loss of a magnate to the financial world. But for the ordinary run of speculators there is no place where a little learning is so dangerous a thing as in Wall street.

MULES NOT HARD TO HANDLE.

Whole Secret Is in Knowing How to Do It, According to Army Officer.

Horse and mule men at the stock yards stood in admiration the other afternoon while the soldiers of Battery A and B, Second United States artillery, loaded 13 cars of mules in 35 minutes. It was a new record on the loading docks, and it wasn't accomplished by any unusual methods either. Nor was the mule driver's vocabulary resorted to. How did they do it? The lieutenant simply called the roll and the mules responded to their names.

"Nigger," called an officer, and a little black gun mule ambled up.

"Now, Mollie, you're next; now Cyclone," and Cyclone came like a cyclone.

If a mule was refractory a few men in khaki took hold of him and pushed and shoved him into place.

"No wonder," said an envious mule driver, "they know their mules; they couldn't do them all that way."

"That so?" said a non-commissioned officer. "I guess we could. It's all in knowing how. You never want to flinch around a mule. Never look back when you leave him. After you know how, mules are easier to handle than horses."—Kansas City Times.

How the Baby Bird Flew.

J. M. Barrie has a little fable in one of his works about a baby lark asking its mother to teach it to fly. The mother thought hard about how she herself had learned to fly long ago last year, but all she could recall was that you suddenly do it.

"Wait till the sun comes out after the rain," she said, half remembering. The rain came and glued the bird's wings together.

"I shall never be able to fly nor to sing," it wailed. Then of a sudden it had to blink its eyes for a glorious light had spread over the world. The baby bird's breast swelled, it did not know why, and it fluttered from the ground, it did not know how. "The sun has come out after the rain," it trilled. "Thank you, sun, thank you," and it floated up crying: "Thank you."

An Optical Illusion.

Did you ever try to see through your hand? By following these directions you may at least make yourself believe you are looking right through the palm. Out of a piece of paste board about five inches square roll a tube. Have one end just large enough to fit around the eye, and the other a little smaller. Take the tube between the thumb and fingers of the right hand; put the larger end to your eye, and press your left hand against the smaller end. Keep both eyes open. Objects beyond the left hand will be plainly visible, and there will appear to be a hole through the center of the palm. It is the uncovered left eye which is actually doing all the seeing, but so far as appearances go, it will seem as if the right eye were seeing right straight through the left hand.

Well Answered.

During the encampment of several regiments of British soldiers in a certain district the wood and turf used for cooking purposes were carted by the neighboring farmers. One day a donkey-cart full of turf was brought in, the driver being a country lad. As a regimental band was playing, he stood in front of the donkey and held the animal tightly by the head. Some of the "smart ones" gathered round, highly pleased, and the wit of the party asked why he "held his brother so tightly." The reply was crushing: "I'm afraid he might enlist."

Well-Stocked.

Last summer a typical down-easter furnished a New York author, who had a cottage in a Maine village, with farm produce.

One day when the man called with a wagon-load of vegetables, the author, wishing to make himself agreeable, asked how much stock he kept on his farm.

"Five cows an' a bull," enumerated the farmer, "'nd two yokes of 'xen, a calf, a hoss, an' three shares of Maine Central."—Youth's Companion.

HARDSHIPS ENDURED BY TRUTH.

Why She Took Up Her Abode at the Bottom of a Well.

"I am naked," said Truth, and shivered. "Come here," said the Grafter, "and I will dress you as you should be dressed." And so Truth was rigged out in the garments he provided for her. She presented a sorry figure, and many people took her for an effigy. Looking at herself in the glass, she discovered that something was wrong. And so she flung aside the garments and started forth once more.

"I am still naked," she moaned.

"As if," cried the Scientist, "I hadn't been waiting all these years to show you just how you should be garbed." And so he caught her, and fitted her out with a complete wardrobe. It certainly looked alluring. Truth was fetching in the extreme. She looked so convincing that she was almost ready to believe she had now become, through the force of outward appearances, the real thing. But alas! Her colors did not wear. As fast as her clothes were made for her by this new tailor they faded. And so once more Truth stole away and denuded herself.

"Still naked," she murmured.

A theologian came along.

"And so," he said, "perhaps you will be ready now to believe that I can improve your appearance." And he promptly tugged her out in surplice and stole and put a solemn mask on her face.

Truth stood it as long as she could. "I am suffocating," she exclaimed at last, and tore off the mask and the other robes and started to run away.

"Come here," said Good Society, "and I will give you precedence over the mighty."

But Truth shook her head.

"Sorry," she replied, "but I have a permanent engagement at the bottom of a well. No one will trouble me there, as there are too many germs."

And so Truth found herself at last.

PUT ON TO A NEW WRINKLE.

City Salesman Learned Something About Regulation of Watches.

"After carrying a watch for 30 years I have just learned something new in watch lore," said the city salesman. "I don't know whether it is true or not, but an old watchmaker told me. I bought a watch of him the other day. It was a cheap watch. He said:

"'What pocket are you going to carry your watch in—the right or left?'

"I told him the left.

"'Then,' said he, 'I will regulate it for the left.'

"I asked what difference it made, and he declared that a watch runs faster on the left side than on the right, so to keep it from gaining time he regulates it accordingly. In fine watches the difference is hardly worth considering, but in watches of cheap make like mine it is very noticeable. I asked for a scientific reason for this variation. He could give none; said he only knew it was true, and then, whether he was faking or not, he pretended to regulate my watch for the left pocket."

A Legal Triumph.

A seasoned old lawyer was cross examining a recalcitrant witness. The question at issue was the identification of an individual charged with assault and battery. For some time the lawyer endeavored to break down the attempt on the part of the witness to describe the guilty party, and at last, becoming irritated, he put the following question:

"You say the assailant had black hair?"

"I did," calmly replied the witness.

"What is the color of my hair?" continued the attorney.

"It is brown," was the answer.

Thereupon the lawyer rose to his feet, and snatching off his wig, which disclosed a pate as bald as an egg, bellowed out as he glanced in triumph toward the jury box, "What is the color of it now?"—Harper's Weekly.

Jim Crow.

The crow is the chough and daw of Shakespeare, the raven of Poe, and the jackdaw, magpie and rook of English story writers. His inky highness is a remarkably cunning bird, and an arrant rogue, but superstitious withal, for, great corn thief that he is, a common white string strung on poles around a field will keep him out better than would a tight fence a mile high. If you have a gun you can't get near him; otherwise you can. I have seen him steal a hen's egg out of a nest and fly off with it, and he did it by running his beak through the shell at one end, and holding the delicious morsel close to his breast by bending his neck, and so flying away."—New York Press.

The Last Leisure.

Leisure is gone—gone where the spinning-wheels are gone, and the pack horses and the slow wagons, and the peddlers who brought bargains to the door on sunny afternoons. Ingenious philosophers tell you, perhaps, that the great work of the steam engine is to create leisure for mankind. Do not believe them; it only creates a vacuum for eager thought to rush in. Even idleness is eager now—eager for amusement; prone to excursion trains, art museums, periodical literature and exciting novels.—George Eliot.

A Wily One.

"While hunting in the woods I got on the track of a black bear, which I shot five times before he dropped!"

"A hard one to kill, eh?"

"Yes. Even after he dropped three on he was dead game!"—Harper's Magazine.

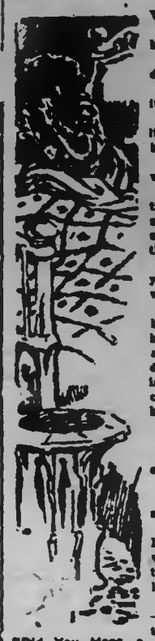
VOICES IN THE NIGHT

Feminine Voice (in the darkness)—Are you awake?



"Did You Hear a Noise?"

Masculine Voice—Yes.

She—Did you hear a noise?

He—I thought I did.

She—What did it sound like?

He—It sounded like the beach-door bell.

She—That's what I thought.

He—I dreamed that I heard it, and was going to answer it, and then I woke up.

She—What do you suppose it was?

He—I don't know. We don't have to bother about it. The dining-room door is locked, and they couldn't get in here. (Silence.)

Radiator—Sing!

She—Oh!

He—That was only the radiator.

She—I know it.

He—Then what made you jump?

She—Well, I—I didn't know it was going to be the radiator. (Silence.)

Window Shade—Se-re-e-w contter!

She—Oh!

He—That was the window shade.

She—I know—but I wasn't expecting it. (Silence.)

Veneer on the Dresser—Snickk!

She—Oh!

He—That was nothing but that eternal veneering.

She—I know. But it was some of those things that woke us up.

He—Well, what do you think it was?

She—It sounded like the door bell.

He—Burglars aren't going around ringing door bells at four o'clock in the morning.

She—It might not have been the door bell.

He—What then?

She—It sounded sort of metallic. It might have been a jimmy, or something. (Silence.)

She—There's a creaky board in the hall, and we'll hear it if any one steps on that. That's what I thought it was going to be when the radiator snapped.

He—Nonsense. (Silence.)

She—I'll bet you're afraid to get up and investigate.

He—What's the use? (Silence.)

She—I know I'm afraid to get up and investigate. (Silence.)

Window Shade—Scutter-utter-utter!

She—Oh!

He—Why don't you go to sleep?

She—I simply can't. I'm waiting for that miserable board to creak.

He—Oh, well, I'll get up and look around if you say so.

She—Maybe I could go to sleep if I knew that the dining-room door was still locked, and the front door.

He—All right, all right! Where are the matches?

She—In the study.

He—None in here?

She—No, I noticed that the box was empty to-day.

He—Humph! (Silence.)

"Where Are the Matches?"

Match — "S-c-r-a-t-c-h!"

She—Oh!

He—What's the matter?

She — Nothing. That was such a loud match.

Dining-Room Door Handle—Rattle!

Front Door Chain — Clankety-clank!

He—Now, are you satisfied?

She—Are both doors all right?

He—Yes.

She—Thank you so much.

He—Can I turn out the gas now?

She—Yes. I shan't worry any more.

He—I don't see the use of making such a fuss over nothing.

She — Weren't you frightened?

He—Of course I wasn't.

She—Not a bit?

He — Certainly not. What was there to be afraid of?

She—Hm.

He—What?

She—Oh, nothing. I was just wondering why your arm was all covered with [illegible] just before you got up. (Silence.)—Chicago Daily News.

A Good Season.

While the street railway is a "close" corporation, and no one except the owners are supposed to know how things are going, it is generally believed that the past season was a fairly good one and the company made some money. Jackson's Park was not used as an attraction, lessening the receipts no doubt, but the "round trips" more than made up for this loss. Next year we understand the company intend to have a park of its own.

To quickly check a cold druggists are dispensing everywhere, a clever Candy Cold Cure Tablet called Preventics. Preventics are also fine for feverish children. Take Preventics at the means stage, to head off all colds Box of 48—25c. For sale by all dealers.

Snow Up North.

A resident of Chandos told the Times there is considerable snow in the northern township.

Hotels are Full.

There seems to be a considerable number of travellers on the move just now. The hotels are usually full to overflowing, guests having frequently to use camp beds. Who says Peterborough has too many hotels?

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society will be held in the council chamber on Friday evening of next week at eight o'clock. This is an important meeting and all the members should be present.

TO-NIGHT.

"Joe" Halpany, Peterborough's solo humorist, will sing at the 57th Regt. band concert in the Armories evening. Silver Collection.

Over One Thousand.

From Peterborough alone it is said that over 1000 names have been signed to the petition asking for the pardon of Mrs. Robinson. Besides this, many post card petitions have gone forward. The total appeals exceed 100,000.

When to Celebrate.

A citizen asked the Times yesterday if it is not customary, when Hollowe'en falls on Sunday, as it does this year to observe Saturday evening instead. We would say that this is not the custom. Monday is the day, and the small boy will have to suppress his ambition for mischief until Monday evening.

Opening of New Church.

An event of interest in the history of Roman Catholicism in the city will be the formal opening of the Church of the Sacred Heart in the south end of the city. This will take place when his lordship Bishop O'Connor arrives home from attending the Plenary Council in Quebec. He is expected to return about the 7th or 8th of November.

Thousand Dollars.

Lord Strathcona, high commissioner for Canada in England, has written Rev. H. J. Keith, promising a donation of $1,000 towards the building fund of the new Knox church. The high commissioner's cheque will be forwarded as soon as the friends and members of the church subscribe the balance.

A lady from Ottawa, who is visiting in town, remarked to a friend yesterday, after purchasing a quantity of hand painted Foley China at The Times bookstore:

"I am so glad you brought me here, for this ware is so nice and don't look like fifteen cents."

Approaching Completion.

Brickwork on the Carnegie Library building is approaching completion Mr. Bogue, the contractor, expects to finish next week, and will rush the roof on at once, before the very cold weather sets in. The building will look very fine, and will be an ornament to the city.

Shot in the Hand.

While handling a shot gun on Saturday Mr. Ben Oakman, son of Mr. Oakman of Asphodel, shot himself in the hand between the thumb and the fore-finger. The charge did not go deep into the hand, but gouged out a piece of flesh in passing. Mr. Oakman picked the powder out with his pocket knife and then came into town and had the dressing completed.—Hastings Star.

Against Gambling.

There is a strong feeling abroad and it is rapidly expanding, against gambling in all forms. The churches are actively supporting the movement and there is lots of work to be done. Still, the most effective work can be done in the home and in the schools—day and Sunday. Gambling is like the liquor habit, the only real cure is education and proper moral training.

Gone Hunting.

Rev. G. W. Henderson, J. D. Collins, Robt. Neill and Felix Brownscombe, have left for two weeks' hunting trip in the Parry Sound district. They were joined by Mr. Gregory of Lindsay, and the party will be further increased by gentlemen from other towns. They travel by train to Parry Sound and have a fifty mile journey over a rough road until they reach their destination.

Rent the Streets.

The City of Detroit has made a proposition to the street railway in that city for the use of the city's streets. The company is to pay $300 per day. It will be many years before Peterborough can dicker with the street railway company upon such a basis. It would be a nice little income if the company would hand over that amount to Treasurer Adams.

If you are suffering from biliousness constipation, indigestion, chronic headache, invest one cent in a postal card, send to Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa, with your name and address plainly on the back, and they will forward you a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. 14

TO-NIGHT.

Sergt. Hughes, solo cornetist, who has just returned from Vancouver, always popular with Peterborough audiences will play a specially selected solo at the 57th Regt. band concert in the Armories evening. Silver collection.

Canal Closing.

The navigation season for 1909, is rapidly drawing to a close. Very few boats will pass over the lift lock between now and next spring. As a matter of fact the lift lock will be closed in a couple of weeks as the frost is becoming dangerous now to the mechanical portion of the lock. The rest of the canal will not likely close until the rivers and lakes freeze over.

Doing a Large Business.

Mr. J. H. Gardner, the well known auctioneer, has already conducted a considerable number of large sales of farm stock and implements, and has booked a large number for the near future. Some of these sales run into big money and in many cases cover the entire plant and stock of the farm. The stock and implements usually bring good prices and the farmers are well satisfied with Mr. Gardiner as an auctioneer.

New Railway Project.

As will be seen by an advertisement elsewhere in this issue an application has been made to Parliament for an act incorporating the Toronto Eastern Railway Co. It is the intention of the company to construct and operate a line of railway from Toronto through the towns of Whitby, Oshawa and Bowmanville to Cobourg and several branches, one of which will run to Peterborough from Cobourg.

Rushing Ahead.

Word received from the front of the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific west of Edmonton announces that construction gangs all the way along from the Pembina River to Tete Jaune Cache are working, and that at the rate at which the work is progressing the line will undoubtedly be graded and ready for steel by next fall. The bridge over the Pembina River is almost half completed and will likely be finished the end of next November.

Sunday Mass Meeting.

On Sunday next at 4.15 a religious mass meeting will be held in the Opera House, which will be addressed by Rev. R. G. MacBeth, M. A., of Paris, and Rev. J. D. Morrow, of Toronto.

Mr. MacBeth was a Soldier and a Lawyer in early life, and Mr. Morrow held the Canadian Championship as a runner for years, and still does much to promote clean sport. There doubtless will be a large attendance.

St. Andrew's Day.

The day which all Scotchman delight to honor—St. Andrew's Day—will soon be here. It has been suggested to the Times that an old-fashioned Scotch concert be given in honor of the day—an entertainment consisting of Scotch songs and music, and an address or two by some good speaker. The proceeds might be devoted to the formation of a St. Andrew's society, or some similar object. We hope some one will make a move.

Military Funeral.

The late Ernest A. Hutchison will have a military funeral tomorrow afternoon. He was sergt.-major in the 24th Field Battery, and the officers and men met last night and made arrangements.

Canvassers Wanted.

One or two good hustling canvassers are wanted. Steady employment, pleasant work and good money Apply to the Times Bookstore.

VOL. XXXII NO. 253 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, SATURAY OCTOBER 30, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

$25,000 Damage Done by Fire to the National Hotel Yesterday

Started in the Furnace Room and Gave the Firemen a Hard Fight for Several Hours.

Fire Confined to the Basement

Most of the Damage Was Caused by Smoke—Woodwork Badly Scorched.

The National Hotel today presents a sorry appearance as a result of the fire which raged in the basement last evening. The damage to the building and furnishings from fire, water and smoke will be between $20,000 and $25,000, although the actual loss from the fire alone would be covered at by most $2000. The chief cause of the loss was the smoke, which was so dense and which filled the entire building from cellar to garret and from the front to the back.

The National Hotel building is owned by the Chamberlain estate and is covered by insurance. Besides having to put in some new floors and petitions, most of the joist and wood work in the front part of the basement will require replacing, and all the rooms will have to be repapered and painted.

Mr. Denison is the proprietor of the hotel and he suffered a big loss from the smoke and a great deal ofthe furnishings will have to be replaced. He carried considerable insurance, but he had none on his stock of liquors or cigars and he carried one of the largest and best lines of these goods in the city.

Thefire was first discovered by the clerk of the hotel, who was in the office, when he smelled smoke. He went down cellar and there found the place all in flames. An alarm was sent into the fire department at twenty minutes to five and the brigade was on the job at once. When theyarrived the fire had secured a good start and great clouds of smoke was pouring out of all the basement windows and was rapidly filling the entire building.

The blaze was started in the furnace room which is just under the office and the bar. All the wood work was burning fiercely and the smoke was so thick that it was impossible to get down into the source of the trouble. Lines of hose were laid and shoved in through the windows and through a hole in the bar floor. The firemen worked hard in this way until about half-past five when the flames struck the electric wires running up the partition between the office and the bar, and they broke out in the office and also chemicals were used to good effect Downstairs, however, a line of hose was taken in and the flames extinguished. It was at this time that the exact location of the fire was found and from then on the work was more effective and the firemen made lots of headway. Later on the flames broke through the partition between the bar and hallway but again the firemen were on the job with the water. At another time the floor under the main stairway was found burning but it was not allowed to get much of a start.

For two hours Chief Howard and his men worked like good fellows before the fire was under control and then for three hours more they battled away and about ten o'clock they gathered up their traps and returned home.

STOP ALL TRAFFIC.

While Fire Teams are Responding to an Alarm.

A movement is on foot in Ottawa with which Peterborough might join forces, as it is quite as necessary as in the Capital. Recently a serious accident happened there by a fire department team colliding with another team. In Montreal one of the firemen was killed in a similar accident. Now the councils of those two cities are seeking legislation which will allow them to pass a bylaw requiring the stopping of all traffic when the fire department is responding to a fire alarm. Common courtesy and ordinary horse sense would prompt a driver of private rigs to keep out of the firemen's way. There appears, however, to be so many people who lack that horse sense that legislations is necessary. It is a funny and also a surprising thing that the majority of delivery drivers and draymen and other dribers of horses upon hearing the fire bell, will drive with all haste directly at the approaching fire teams and some will even try to cross a street ahead of them. The bylaw should require the street cars to stop until the teams are past and all other vehicles to pull to the sideof the road and stop. The fire teamswill then drive around them and all accidents will be avoided.

THOSE CIGARETTES.

License the Sale and the Consumption Would Be Reduced.

As a last measure for the general good of the city the aldermen might bring a bylaw at their next meeting placing a license upon the sale of cigarettes. Too many minors are smoking them and also too many adults. There is no more offensive odor than the cigarette smoke and a man who has any regard whatever for the ladies, as well as other men,would not be guilty of poisoning the air with his stink. A fair license fee of about $15 would greatly reduce the sale of cigarettes in the city. The small dealers would all go out of them and many of the largerdealers would refuse to sell them as the profit now on them is so small that it does not pay to carrythem in stock.. Cigarettes are kept more for the convenience of regular customers than for any profit that is in them.

Great Mass Meeting in Grand Opera House on Sunday Afternoon

A great mass meeting will be held in the Grand Opera House tomorrow afternoon to mark the opening of the two weeks' evangelistic campaign in the Presbyterian churches of the Peterborough Presbytery, St. Paul's, St. Andrew's and Knox's will all hold special services in the morning and evening and special preachers will be present. At this meeting Rev. R. G. McBeth, M.A., of Paris, will be the first speaker. He is a man known throughout the Presbyterian Church in Canada as being able, clever, eloquent and interesting.

Rev. J. D. Morrow of Toronto, the athletic preacher, will be the other speaker. He is a man who appeals at once to the young men. He understandsyoung men and their pastimes as he himself has been and still is a great athlete. His last great work is the erection of a church in Toronto with funds furnished by the athletes of the country and he is meeting with great success. His address will be of a special interest to young men and all are invited to be present.

Special music will be provided for the occasion, and familiar and rousing hymns will be sung. All are cordially invited to be present as it is forthe benefit of the general public. It is expected that the Opera House will be crowded. The meeting is scheduled to begin at a quarter past four o'clock.

ADVERTISING ONTARIO.

City and town councils are often puzzled to know how best they can advertise the corporation whose destinies they seek to make. A great deal of money is spent to publish the advantages of a certain place, and bonusing in one form or another is arranged. This is considered good government for it makes for the "good times" people want.

Ontario has been advertized during the past week by horrible crimes and murder trials that have cost the government untold thousands of dollars, and our fair Province has been held up before the world as having been the scene of the most atrocious and foul crimes ever known in the annals of her history. Such has been the awful nature of this horrible wreckage of human life that judges and jury cannot place responsibility save on men

STUPIFIED WITH WHISKEY.

Walter Blythe of Agincourt, was sentenced to 18 years in the penitentiary for beating his wife to death by smashing her body to a pulp with a poker. His only defence was that he was drunk, and evidence was shown that otherwise he was a kind and affectionate husband.

Joseph Hunter of Bobcaygeon—liquor seller—wife murderer and suicide, left a note in his cell in Lindsay, stating that whiskey killed his wife.

Robinson, the moral degenerate, as his own counsel termed him, commit ted his brutish deed and lived his woeful and wretched life as the result of whisky debauch, which has also led to the detah penalty being pronounced upon his wife, and causing the eternal disgrace and horrible shame to family and community.

Look at Brockville. The proprietor of the Central Hotel, acknowledging that Morton Boyd had secured his liquor from him just prior to his shocking death. That was the sad end to such a life and yet that bargoes on to do its deadly work.

CANADIANS MUST AROUSE.

How long are the Canadian people going to tolerate the continued cruelty, heartlessness and fiendish greed of gain in this horrible and death-dealing traffic that piles up its mammoth wealth at the cost of the blood of once innocent lives, of crushed homes and blasted lives.

ARE PETERBOROUGH MEN TIMID.

How long can we in this City of Peterborough continue to respect public men who are by their quietness, weakness, fear and private gain simply making themselves the allies of this diabolic carnage of human lives.

The Toronto Globe yesterday dealt in no uncertain sound with this matter showing that the traffic in strong drink was spreading evil everywhere and that its vile consequences were involving both Church and State. He are bolstering up a huge monster evil that is making a few men immensely wealthy while everywhere it is making paupers and parasites, and spreading poverty and ruin. The Globe lays much responsibility at the door of the Provincial Government, and there is no doubt that it will be acknowledged, but the people of any municipality have been given the sovereign right and power, by their own act at the polls, to blot this nefarious traffic out of existence altogether. More, let the Globe and all other papers, that wiel great influence for the moral and material welfare of Canada, urge upon the Federal Government the stopping of the manufacture of the vile stuff.

There are many in Peterborough who would vote for such a measure and who are not afraid or ashamed to say so.

With the great handicap of the constant supply of liquors from distilleries and breweries and importations, the Province is making rapid progress through local option. Men running hotels feel that the strong tide of public opinion is against them and the time will come when the holders of licenses will give up the business that keeps them from being looked upon by fellow citizens as worthy of all honor and esteem.

"England just now is facing a fearful wave of disorder and crime," says a contemporary. My dear boy, Britain has always rulled the waves, so do not worry.

VARICOCELE CURED
NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.
Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $27 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

THE BELL'S FINE SERVICE.

Peterborough One of the Company's Best Customers.

From the Telephone Gazette we learn that during September Peterborough had 4270 "Out" and 2464 "In" calls over the company's wires This is nearly double that of most of the surrounding towns and minor cities of the country, including Kingston, and seventh in the list in Canada. This is certainly gratifying as it shows Peterborough to be well up in business lines with much larger places.

The Bell Company is to be congratulated on the splendid service which it gives to its patrons. Peterborough in particular has reason to feel proud of this service, which hasdone so much to make our prosperousand rapidly growing city what it is today. Under the careful and popular management of Mr. Doan, the number of telephones has increased in the last year or so from about 385 to 1150. The local service has also been improved from time to time, until it is now well nigh perfect.

OPENING CONCERT.

By the 57th Band in the New Armories Was a Great Success.

The first promenade band concert, or in fact the first concert of a public function of any kind that has beenheld in the new armories, was the promenade concert given by the members of the 57th Regimental Band last night. When the doors were opened at half past seven o'clock there was quite a number waiting and half an hour later the place was crowded with a jolly crowd who appreciate the music of the 57th Band.

The armories is an ideal place for such an affair. There is lots of room in the immense drill hall and the people can be as near or as far fromthe music as they desire. Then the novelty of the concert in the armories mean an attraction to many and so pleased were they that they will go again.

Prof. R. Gliddon, the popular band master deserves great credit for the splendid program of the band as hey were never heard to better advantage. Each number was given a perfect interpretation and that it was appreciated and enjoyed by the udience was evidenced by the warm pplause which greeted each number.

Features of the program were the vocal solos by two of Peterboroughs avorite singers, Mr. Wm. Mellroy, who sang "Kilarney," and Mr. Jos. Halpany, who sang "Hey, Mr. Joshua."

This was the first of a series of concerts to be given by the band uringthe coming season and they will be looked forward to with reat pleasure.

"LOST 16 LBS. IN WEIGHT."

Was Kept Down by Bilious Indigestion, and When in Despair

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS CURED.

In the following interesting letter Mrs. H. R. Plunkett, well known in her home town of Hewtonville, tells how she conquered bilious indigestion: "I think it was drinking ice water on a very hot July day two years ago that caused an inflamed condition in my stomach, which gave me such repeated and weakening attacks of biliousness and stomach trouble. So severely did I suffer, that my strength was impaired, and I lost sixteen pounds in weight. My whole body was weakened, both kidneys and bowels failing to keep the system in natural condition. Food fermented, skin was dry and yellow. I had flushes of heat, and prickling sensations in various parts of the body. In the winter I had cold feet and clammy hands, and not until I commenced to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills did I obtain relief. In a short time Dr. Hamilton's Pills cured the bilious dyspepsia, and in a month I gained almost four pounds. The pain over the liver disappeared, the bowels acted regularly, and I kept on improving so rapidly that in three months I was vigorous and well. I recommend Dr. Hamilton's Pills to every one in poor health."

Have Laid About Six Miles of Walk

Owing to the frosty nights it is dangerous and impracticable for the street commissioner to continue the work on the granolithic walks in the city and it is expected that the work will be wound up tonight. The season has been a very favorable one and six miles or more have been laid. For several weeks the gang has been in Ashburnham where a great deal of walk has been laid including the famous Omemee [illegible] are now about [illegible] has been heard. In all probability a number of the men employed on the walks will be transferred to the sewer gang and the work rushed along.

Men are now engaged in grading the property for a siding from the C.P.R. near the new Peterborough Hardware Company's new warehouse on George street. The siding will come in at the back instead of from George street.

Boad of Works Closed Up a Lot of Business

The Board of Works met last night and put through a lot of business. Their season is rapidly drawing to a close and things have to be bustled from now on.

Those present at the meeting were Ald. Phelan, chairman, Aldermen Buller, Bradburn, Gillespie, Duffus, Morgan, Morrow and Mayor Rush.

Ald. Morgan appeared on behalf of Mr. O'Dett and asked permission to dig a drain across Crescent street into Little Lake for sewer purposes to connect with his residence.

The request was granted.

WANTS SEWER CONNECTION.

Mr. Switzer appeared on behalf of the Toronto Savings & Loan Co., and asked lor sewer connection with one of their houses on Wolsely St. It is within 72 feet of the Benson streetsewer, but it is outside the city limits. The house is a good one and without the sewer connection it is very hard to sell it. There are two or three more houses that will takethe sewer also and they are in the city limits.

The chairman said that the board would take the mattor up later in the evening. It was a big thing and established a precedent.

Ald.Bradburn said that just as soon as the city granted this request there would be a lot of others seekingthe same privilege.

It was decided however to first get a report from the city engineer before doing anything.

PLUMBING INSPECTOR

On the Carpet for Indulging too Freely in Liquid Refreshments.

Mr. Peter Thompson was before the council last night upon the invitation of the mayor who has received, he said, a great many complaints against the plumbing inspector for indulging too freely in liquid refreshments, and thus neglecting his duty.

A couple of other aldermen also said that they had heard many complaints about the inspector. The mayor said he had personal knowledge of Mr. Thompson drinking while on duty.

Mr. Thompson denied that he was ever incapable through drink.

The mayor and aldermen then warned the plumbing inspector that if the mayor ever caught him indulging again during working hours he would be dismissed at once.

Mrs. W. E. Thornton, (Miss Nettie Dawe), will receive on Thursday afternoon, November 4th, at her home, 262 Rubidge street, and afterwards on the first Thur-day of each month.

THAT DOUBLE CHIN.

Every woman who is fat, and especially every woman (or man) who has a hog like double chin, will welcome this news paragraph. Your night masks and sticking-plaster strips and strokings are at end. A method of reducing double chins (also fat abdomens and hips, shoulders, ankles and neck), that really does reduce them, has been found.

And would you believe it, it is nothing more than a simple, harmless home receipt that any druggist will fill for you, viz: ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 4½ oz. Peppermint Water, a teaspoonful of which after each meal and at bedtime will take off up a pound of fat a day. Try it—it is good for the stomach—strengthens that organ—so it turns the food into energy, bones, muscles, as it should, instead of into fat, as yours is doing now after each meal. Eat what you wish: drop exercising: be lazy even; this mixture will still trim up your figure. And it will do it evenly, too, without causing wrinkles: removing the soggy fat, such as double chins and stout abdomens are made of, first.

Oiling the Streets.

It appears that Toronto has obtained very satisfactory results from oil sprinkling during the past season. After a two months trial there on the principal streets, the system bids fair to be adopted permanently. It was shown in Toronto that the oiling was 25 per cent. cheaper than watering would have been, and it was much more effective. The oil used was the same as tried in the Barrie experiment, referred to in these columns a few days ago, being a by-product of the distillation of petroleum. Owing to the small demand it is largely a waste product, hence its cheapness.

Prince Rupert, B. C. Empire says:

A prominent New Brunswick citizen who has just returned from a trip in the interior, says "but little is known on the outside of the vast acreage of timber and agricultural lands of the upper country in British Columbia," and predicted that within a few years that part of the country would have a population far exceeding even the dreams of those who have long known of the country's great resources.

NO "RATS" TO BE WORN BY LADIES

Kansas City, Oct. 29.—'On and after November first all lady clerks and employes must discontinue the wearing of 'rats' in their hair dress. Please govern yourself accordingly.

"A. B. Richard, District Superintendent."

This order, issued from the office of the superintendent of the Postal Telegraph Company here, has become a matter of grave concern to the women clerks and operators in the employ of that company in this city. They declare that not only will the order compel them to appear out of date, but that the modernfeminine hats cannot be worn without the universal 'rat.' The general opinion among the women affected is that Mr. Richards will find it difficult to enforce the ruling.

COAL AND WOOD.

Great Rush Now for the Winter's Supply of Fuel.

The cool and wood men are at the present time being rushed to death in an effort to keep up to the demands for fuel. This cool spell has caused everyone to feel the need of a fire and many are now wishing they had got their supply in last summer when the merchants had lots of time. The supply of coal, however, has been good up to the present and even though a strike in the mines was to occur, Peterboro people would not be cold as there is enough good hard wood in the city to last for a year.

DROP NAME LIBERAL AND TORY

Hamilton, Oct. 29.—"It would be more in keeping with the spirit of the times and the survival of the fittest to divide the house into "clean" and "unclean," said Rev. J. B. Kennedy of Toronto, who, in speaking last evening at the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, on the attitude of the Church toward legislation, declared that the time had come when the old names Liberal and Tory, so dear to the traditions of our forefathers should be obliterated.

"The Soul's Awakening."

Never in the history of newspapers has there been such enthusiasm over a premium as "The Soul's Awakening" has created during the past two weeks. Almost every newspaper in Canada has published most flattering tributes to The Family Herald's enterprise. Clergymen of all denominations have written thanking the Publishers for giving the people of Canada an opportunity to possess such a picture. Every mail brings scores of letters from parents, fathers and mothers, expressing their sincere gratitude for furnishing the home with such an elevating influence. School Inspectors have written suggesting that every school room in Canada should have a copy of "The Soul's Awakening," believing that it will have a powerful, though silent, influence on the minds of the children. The Family Herald and Weekly Star alone is big value at one dollar, but with this picture as a premium it looks like giving away money. It is said the supply is limited and there is a big rush of subscriptions. No one should miss it.

Publish My Letter the World over

The Words of Harold P. Busby, Who Was Permanently Cured of Chronic Lumbago by "Nerviline."

"Three years ago I discovered that a man subject to lumbago might just as well be dead as alive." These words open the sincere, straightforward letter of H. P. Busby, a well-known man in the plumbing and tinsmithing business in Fleetland.

"One attack came after another, and lumbago got to be a chronic thing with me. I could scarcely get in a day's work before that knifing, cruel pain would attack my back. I used a gallon of liniments; not one of them seemed penetrating enough to get LETTER at the core of the SO. pain. I read in The Montreal Witness 1911. about Nerviline, and got five bottles. It is a wonderful medicine—I could feel its soothing pain-relieving action every time it was applied. When I got the disease under control with Nerviline, I built up my strength and fortified my blood by taking Ferrozone at meals. This treatment cured me permanently, and I urge everyone to give up the thick, white, oily liniments they are using, and try an up-to-date, penetrating, pain-destroyer like Nerviline.

"Please publish my letter the world over. I want all to hear of Nerviline."

Don't be coaxed into receiving anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." Large bottles 25c.; five for $1.00. Sold everywhere or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont. 23

THE SUFFRAGISTS

Mrs. Pankhurst defends the violence of the "Suffragettes" on the ground that all great revolutions have been made with violence. But Mrs. Pankhurst should remember that all revolutions made with violence which have succeeded, have succeeded because they commanded the largest share of violence available at the time and place. The American Revolution won by overcoming the violent resistance of the British. The French Revolutionists bested the defenders of royalty. Nothing can resist a revolution by violence except superior violence. But are the "Suffragettes" quite sure that they have superior violence on their side? So far they have not been able to even overcome the ordinary police force of London. If brutal man should order out the army, could the "Suffragettes" beat it in the field? The ladies have other forces which can conquer men: but when they appeal to violence, they appeal to precisely the one quality which they conspicuously lack.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

The date of the opening of parliament has been definitely fixed for Thursday, November 11. The proclamation calling the members has been issued. The early assembling of the house should allow business to be well advanced by the Christmas recess, and is to be hoped that prorogation may be reached by Easter.

As yet the sessional legislative programme is in a somewhat tentative shape, but from now on cabinet meetings will be held almost daily.

The promised legislation providing for the creation of a Canadian navy and for full measure of co-operation with the mother country in the general scheme of Empire defence as evolved at the Imperial conference in London during the summer will probably be the feature of the government measure for the session. The details of this defence bill probably be the feature of the government measure for the session. The details of this defence bill are still to be worked out upon the lines agreed upon by the Canadian Ministers at the conference.

The insurance bill left over from last session, will be another important measure for the house to dispose of, and it is not improbable that the government will ask parliament to make some radical changes in the rules of the house looking to the expediting of public business.

A WELSH FESTIVAL

Eisteddfod is Opened by Musicians in London.

In a pretty glade in Kensington Gardens, London, near the Serpentine, the Welsh bards celebrated recently the opening of the Gorsedd [illegible] in connection with the [illegible] Eisteddfod.

According to the ancient ceremony which must be performed "in the face of the sun, the rays of light," the weather alone made it impossible to carry out the full ritual. Instead the ceremony was performed on three sides.

The bards, in their blue, green and white robes, presented a striking picture, and the insignia of his office carried Dafid the archdruid, a silver spade with which to cut the sod, and golden horn of harmless shape, in the form of a bugle. He mounted the Maen Llog and cried aloud three times in a voice of thunder the formal challenge, "A oes Heddwch?" (Is it peace?).

"Heddwch!" the assembly shouted, and Dafid sheathed again the eight-foot sword which, in symbolic rite, he had half drawn from its scabbard.

Speech-making in Welsh followed, and then the bards and onlookers trooped off to the Albert Hall, where the Eisteddfod met.

The proceedings at the hall during the morning were disappointing in a number ways, and there appeared to be a deplorable lack of organization.

The best singing was heard in the test of choral competition, in which the first prize went to the Carnarvon Choral Society, and the second to the Llanelly Choral Society.

At the afternoon meeting Mr Balfour made a most interesting speech in praise of music.

"Music has ever been one of the great arts in which Welshmen have excelled," he stated. "There cannot be any which carries with it higher or purer pleasures more easy of attainment pleasures which leave no after-sting, no after-taste of evil, but which raise and must raise the whole level of civilized pleasures among the people who practise them.

"Music knows no national barrier; music is not subject to the limitations which unhappily beset language. Music speaks to men of all races and of all tongues."

Costly Pennies.

Who was Wiglaf? Numismatists [illegible] gave £440 for two of his coins recently at Sotheby's. Wiglaf, or Wiflaf, as his name is sometimes spelt in the old chronicles, was that King of Mercia tributary to Egbert, first King of England, and held nominal sway between 825 and 839. His silver penny, without bust, with a cross in centre and a pellet in each angle within a beaded centre on the obverse, and lunettes and pellets on the reverse, caused exciting bidding, which reached £275 (Spink). Only one other of this particular type is known, and it is fortunately in the British Museum. Another Wiglaf penny, with a rude head in a circle and a cross-crosslet in centre of reverse, realized £174 (Lincoln). This was found at Dorking in 1917. The coin was that of the famous Rashbrook collection. A penny of Egberht (785-791)—not to be confounded with Eegberht, son of Offa of Mercia, but the King of Kent mentioned in old charters—without a bust, but with the King's name, made £153 (Lincoln). Only three other coins of this type are known, two being in the Hunter Museum, Glasgow. An East Anglian penny of Eadvald, 819-827, realised £53 (Lincoln), and one of Beonberht, who was Archbishop of Canterbury between 766 and 190, £73. This was discovered near Notley Abbey, and wears the names of Offa and the Archbishop. In the digging of the foundation for the Martyrs' Memorial at Oxford, another of this prelate's pennies was found, and this fetched £20. A penny with the diademed bust of Cynethryth, who was Offa's Queen, made £30 (Spink).

Lord Balcarres as a Walker.

It was Lord Balcarres, a trustee of the National Portrait Gallery, who announced the saving to England of Holbein's picture, "The Duchess of Milan." His lordship has crowded much good work into his thirty-seven years of life. Not only has he distinguished himself in the cause of art and architecture — he is a trained architect—but he has also served the state in the House of Commons as one of the Unionist Whips. A notable characteristic is his rapid walk. "Burns' gallop is nowhere in it with Balcarres' walk," growled a recalcitrant member on one occasion after being fetched back to the newly-sitting divisions while trying to escape. "It's no good unless you are streets ahead."

Helping the Enemy.

A coal heaver was getting in a load of coal in the suburbs of London. He was shoveling in the coal at a good rate when he was startled by a terrific yell from the house adjoining.

"Wot the dickens is the matter?" queried the coal man, starting up.

"Matter, you thickhead!" shouted the man, frantically endeavoring to pull his hair up in clots by the roots. "You are putting the coal down the wrong hole. My wife's people live there!"—London Tit-Bits.

Self-Supporting Blind.

Of the students at the Royal Normal College for the Blind, South London, Eng., nearly 90 per cent. are self-supporting.

HIS CAR STOPPED.

The pleasures of motoring sometimes receive a jolt that is anything but pleasant. Ald. Jos. Duffus will vouch for that as he can speak from experience. Yesterday morning he was running his car east along Charlotte street and before he saw the trench the G.T.R. workmen had dug in the center of the street for the new sewerage, the wheels of his car had dropped into it and the machine came to a sudden stop. Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the auto out and on its way again. Fortunately no damage of any kind was done.

Travel Via G. T. R.

Messrs. S. Tamura, R. Hara, I. Watasi and T. Minami, four Japanese gentlemen, composing part of the committee sent out officially from Japan to study commercial and other conditions in the United States and Canada arrived in Montreal Tuesday morning, October 19th, and immediately proceeded with W. T. R. Preston, the Canadian Trade Commissioner to Japan, to Ottawa at 8.30 A. M. on the Grand Trunk Railway System. At Ottawa they were met by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and he gave them a luncheon and they dined with Japanese Consul-General in the evening. The party left Ottawa in Grand Trunk Railway private car "Violet" at 8.30 A. M. Thursday, October 21st, for Ste. Anne de Bellevue for the purpose of inspecting the MacDonald Agricultural College, leaving Ste. Annes the same evening for Toronto where they spent Friday and left for Montreal same night via Grand Trunk for Montreal.

The party is under the guidance of Mr. W. T. R. Preston for the entire trip.

Haydn's Drum.

The drum which Haydn once played at a festival in 1740 is still preserved in Hamburg.

The Boomerang.

The Australian aborigines are not the only users of the boomerang, nor were they the first to use that missile. The Egyptians knew all about it just as they seem to have known all about everything else.

The Gravitation Theory.

The theory of gravitation is a discovery attributed to Newton and bears date of 1687 notwithstanding that the same idea was advanced by Kepler seventy years before.

Great Britain's Crown.

The present crown of Great Britain was constructed in 1808 with jewels taken from old crowns and others furnished by command of the queen. It contains 4 large pear shaped pearls, 273 small pearls, 147 table diamonds, 1,273 rose diamonds, 1,363 brilliant diamonds, 5 rubies, 11 emeralds and 17 sapphires.

A Dutch Custom.

A piece of white muslin tied round the bell handle of a house in Holland informs intending visitors that a case of infectious disease is in the dwelling.

The Shape of the Earth.

That the earth is round was not a generally accepted theory in the time of Columbus, though Thales taught, and Pythagoras demonstrated the theory several centuries before the Christian era.

South African Winter.

Parepa Rosa's Voice.

At the peace jubilee in Boston, 1869, Mme. Parepa Rosa's voice was distinguishable above 12,000 singers, an orchestra of over 1,000 instruments and in a hall where the audience consisted of 40,000 people.

Uninhabited Islands.

Between Madagascar and the coast of India there are about 16,000 islands, only 600 of which are inhabited, but most of which are capable of supporting population.

Korean Grass.

The Korean grass used in the manufacture of grasscloth is grown very thickly and is usually cut the second or third year after planting the root. The grass reaches a height of four to five feet and with a proper start and under favorable conditions yields, it is roughly estimated, about 2,000 pounds to an acre.

Don't Risk even a penny—until health returns. And I mean just exactly that.

I am the one physician who says to the sick, "I will, out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help!"

And for 29 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other unwarranted and uncertain medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

Get Health

When the Stomach, the Heart or Kidneys fail, or new how Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever.

They know that when health fails to return Dr. Shoop will himself gladly pay the druggist for what test. And for that test a full 30 day treatment is freely granted.

But write me first for an order.

This will save delay and disappointment.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but recommend to [illegible] test. So [illegible] for [illegible] and an honest and responsible druggist in almost every community, everywhere, to issue my "no help, no pay," medicines to the sick.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely

Something Better Now

THERE was a time when people were satisfied with any glasses with which they could read, regardless of weather they were using one eye more than the other, knowing nothing of how the eyes were strained by wrong lens powers, and careless of the frame fitting the face.

All this is changing now; a thorough examination by experienced men, lenses specially ground for each eye, and the neatest, most becoming are now required by discriminating people who realize that nothing is too good for the eyes.

We make appointments for eye examination by our phones, Bell 1221, Mach. 7; it saves waiting your turn.

ANOTHER FLAG EPISODE

HOW A CANADIAN SHIP FARED IN AUSTRALIA.

Officials of Port Adelaide Failed to Recognize the Canadian Ensign and Ordered a British Flag In Its Place —After Heated Dispute With Handspikes Explanation of Affair Was Arrived At.

All the talk lately about an alleged insult to the British flag in Toronto, started one of the city's well-known wholesale merchants reminiscing the other day; and he told an interesting story of a flag episode in Port Adelaide, South Australia, in which he himself was a participant. Things became very lively for a while, but in the end, just as in the Toronto affair, it was found that the whole thing was due to a mistake. But let him tell it in his own words:

"In 1883 I was an able seaman on board the Canadian barque 'Lake Erie,' on a voyage from London, England, to Port Adelaide, South Australia, with general cargo. Our commander was Captain John Keay, our chief officer was George Fullam, and the second officer was Jack Bird, all Nova Scotia men, and two-thirds of the crew of 28 men were Nova Scotians or Canadians.

"We arrived in Port Adelaide one bright morning, and like all deep-water ships, we dressed ship when we moored alongside of our dock, and we were very proud to haul up the Canadian ensign at our peak. During the forenoon we were visited by a messenger from the deputy port warden's office, who came aboard and ordered our flag to be pulled down and the British ensign to be hoisted. Naturally, our mate being on his own ship, was not used to taking orders. A quick right and left—one between the eyes and the other in the neighborhood of the chin—put the messenger from the port warden's office out of business, and a few seconds later the bo'sun and the bo'sun's mate were busy piping 'All hands aft.' On our arrival aft we were told that the warden had ordered the Canadian flag to be hauled down, and the mate ordered that we line up alongside the ship, every man in fact everybody on the ship, including the cook—to handle a handspike.

"On the return of the messenger to the port warden's office a couple more messengers were sent down, and from the dock, without coming aboard the ship, they commanded that we haul down the flag that was flying, and on the mate still refusing to do so a detachment of police was sent for. Naturally, when the police came aboard, a bunch of sailors that had been six months at sea were ready for a rough-house, and for a few minutes it looked like an Irish wake. It did not last long; but while it lasted it was hot. During the fracas the commander, Captain Keay, came aboard, and by instructions from the office, or rather the shipowners' agents the commander was compelled to haul down the flag and substitute the red ensign.

"Now this happened to a British ship in a British port, and naturally enquiries were made as to why such a thing should occur. In fact, our commander threatened to haul his ship out into the offing and lay at anchor and fly his flag in spite of the South Australian Government; but when it was explained, it shows how easily mistakes can occur through the misinterpretation of instructions by an over-zealous officer, only anxious to carry out his interpretations of the instructions.

"It appears that at that time South Australia was inaugurating a navy of her own, consisting of a number of small coasting gunboats. The South Australian flag is a blue ensign, the same as the British Royal Navy Reserve, but which had a round, white disc on the lower wing with an aboriginal or nigger in the corner. When the navy was inaugurated, they adopted the blue ensign with the nigger for their naval flag, the same as the British Royal Navy adopted the white ensign with the red cross of St. Andrew, and in adopting this flag for the South Australian navy they prohibited all Australian vessels from flying anything but the red ensign or British ensign; but in making out their regulations, instead of using the words 'South Australian vessels,' it read, "all colonial vessels," consequently the ship I was in, hailing from a British colony, came under the regulations as a colonial vessel and consequently under the rules of the port a colonial vessel was compelled to fly the British flag instead of the colonial. Needless to say, the matter was quickly remedied, and a very short time afterward a deputation again visited our ship from the port warden's office with instructions for us to hoist the Canadian flag, which was done with great ceremony, resulting in a general piping aft of the watch for grog, and a half-holiday."

Writes From Arctic.

A letter has been received at the geological survey at Ottawa from V. Steffansson, who is far up in the Arctic circle, conducting natural researches in conjunction with Dr. Anderson. The two gentlemen are living among the Eskimos, their principal diet being caribou.

Steffansson says that he has come in contact with many Eskimos who never before have seen a white man. The two explorers got along well during their long stay in the north, where they will remain for over a year more. They expect to spend next winter at the mouth of the Copper Mine River.

The letter was written on Feb. 12, taking five months to reach Ottawa.

Capital Abroad.

Why is it that so much Canadian capital is invested abroad? Millions upon millions of Canadian money are invested in Mexico in water-powers and irrigating lands. Much is also used in the American stock market. It looks as if this were not a good country for the investor.—Daily Review, Peterborough.

The Word "Fiasco."

"Fiasco" originally meant a bottle or a flask. When the Italian glass-blowers detected flaws in the vases they were blowing they made an ordinary bottle of the failure, and hence the name.

Spices.

Ginger is the most wholesome spice, mace, cinnamon and nutmeg the most delicate, while allspice has a coarser flavor and one disliked by many. White mustard and celery seed give an appetizing flavor.

Nutshells.

Save nutshells in an old paper bag until some time when you want something to brown very quickly in the oven. Then throw them on the fire and get the full benefit of the quick, intense heat.

The Flathead Indians.

In 1832 four Indians of the Flathead tribe, living on the Pacific coast, crossed the Rocky mountains and, traversing 3,000 miles of intervening wilderness, appeared at St. Louis. They had been sent by their nation to inquire about the white man's God.

Origin of the Postmark.

Great Britain claims the distinction of having originated the postmark. The first one, employed in London as long ago as 1660, was an extremely simple affair, consisting merely of a small circle divided into two parts. At the top there were two letters indicating the month, while in the lower half of the circle was shown the day of the month. No provision was made for indicating the year or the hour of the day. It is only by the date of the letters themselves whereon the mark was impressed that it is possible to fix the date of its use.—Sunday Magazine.

How the West Grows.

An idea of the methods used in colonizing western Canada may be gained from record of the Township of Hutton, where less than five weeks ago fertile soil was undisturbed by plow, but is now the home of no fewer than 58 bustling American families busy cultivating land and building homes.

PRODUCING GOLD

On a Business Basis

When you eat pie you want a substantial slice and not a mere sliver.

The same idea governs in the purchase of mining stock.

Any share of mining company stock may be represented by a simple fraction.

The numerator is the mine.

The denominator is the capitalization.

The bigger the numerator the more valuable the share.

The bigger the denominator the less valuable the share.

10-3 is a good deal better than 3-10

Shares in the Princess Alice Gold Mining and Milling Company have a big numerator and a small denominator.

The company has a large acreage—18 claims, a tunnel location, mill site and water, surrounded by some of the great mines of Clear Creek county. It is absolute owner of 16 of the claims, and holds a bond and lease on two.

It has nearly $100,000 worth of ore developed and ready to break down. Some of the ore runs better than $100 a ton, and careful sampling by a competent engineer gives an average of $24 a ton.

Mill tests have proved that half of the values can be saved on the plates, and the remainder concentrate readily into a smelting product.

The capitalization of the company is 500,000 shares of a par value of $1.00 each.

Only 200,000 shares have been issued, and of this amount 200,000 represent the property, and the proceeds of 100,000 shares have been used in the development now in progress. The monthly pay roll amounts to $500. The money goes into the ground.

Of the 200,000 shares still in the treasury, a portion is now offered to build the first unit of a mill.

The mill will complete the equipment for the production of gold at a low cost and large profits.

WHY THESE SHARES ARE BEING OFFERED.

Every legitimate business founded on public necessity for a good low-priced article, and on sound, healthy conditions, must in the course of its development, reach a point where its expansion has outgrown its facilities, and call for additional capital to provide for its necessities and greater possibilities. The foregoing information illustrates the commercial condition of this business. It has reached that point where more capital is necessary in order to do greater business, and to satisfy the urgent demand for its products.

PERMANENT INVESTMENTS CANNOT BE MADE BY MONEY ADVANCED BY BANKS, OR OBTAINED THROUGH ANY OTHER CHANNEL, EXCEPTING THE SALE OF SECURITIES.

In a large business this policy is always considered the best one, for investors have always found that the man who has built up a business by hard effort of years, and by all he owns in the world, furnishes the best guarantee for a continuance and further development of the methods that have brought success. For this reason, and after careful consideration, it has been decided to offer to the investor an opportunity to become interested in Canadian Eatables, Limited, and to share in its further success.

PROFITS

This company manufactures only necessary food products, for which the demand is permanent and staple, and supply dominates the market prices, and the high prices prevalent proves the inability of the manufacturer to satisfy the needs of the market. The profits earned are enormously high in comparison to other enterprises, and the company has sufficient contracts on hand to warrant the distribution of a 50 per cent. dividend on both Preference and Common Stock.

EQUAL SHARING OF PROFITS.

By-law 26 provides that a fixed 8 per cent. dividend will first be paid on the Preference Shares, and that balance of profits for distribution as dividends, in excess of that amount, will accordily, pay all or part of an 8 per cent. dividend on the Common Stock, and the surplus shall be equally divided between Common and Preferred Stock.

MR. PICHE, PROMOTER

Prospector Has Floated Some Interesting Companies In His Career.

Piche, the French-Canadian prospector, who was captured by the authorities after a two years' search in all parts of the continent, has, as has already been shown by the reports in the daily press, had a spectacular career in his long life in the wilds, but there is one episode in his career that has not found its way into the daily papers.

A few years ago the city editor of an evening newspaper was asked to send a reporter to a certain address on John street, Toronto, to receive an item about on important joint stock company that was to be formed. He finally located the place, and found it to be one of the rather shabby lodging houses that abound in that district. Here he found the little weasel-faced prospector in the company of twelve or fifteen Englishmen who had come to Canada with their savings to make a fortune. Piche was expounding what he called a great scheme, which the Englishmen were drinking in with apparent delight.

It was nothing less than to secure a large reservation on the shores of the Hudson Bay for the breeding of fur-bearing animals. The promoter of the scheme had his prospectus drawn up, and [illegible] high prices of furs and [illegible] wanderings in the [illegible] had learned the secret of [illegible] other valuable beasts. The reporter had obviously been sent for as a ruse to convince the [illegible] that his scheme was bona fide. Piche himself seemed to believe in his own plan, and his manner was so sincere that it was impossible to say whether he regarded the other fellows as "suckers" or not. However the reporter decided that his paper did not want to boost this "get-rich-quick" scheme, and whether any of the Englishmen were persuaded to tempt fortune in the frozen north he never learned. At any rate, Piche's company never obtained letters of incorporation.

Farm Hands In Demand.

"We cannot begin to supply the demands which come to us for farm laborers. We have at the present time over fifty applications which we cannot fill," was the statement made by a Montreal Salvation Army immigration official last week. "These are all local applications, from farmers and landowners within easy distance of Montreal.

"We have had a good many immigrants book with us this year, more than last year, but not so many as the year before. Next summer we expect the number to be larger than we have ever had. We book only for farm labor and domestic service, that is, we guarantee only to find those classes of work. Nearly all the immigrants come with the intention of going West, but we have placed several near Montreal this spring. For one man who came with his family, we found a situation at Come at $30 per month, and a free house besides. Several others have been similarly placed.

"The class of our immigrants has been unusually good. They have nearly all been able to pay their own way out, and in only about a dozen cases have we been obliged to give any assistance of this kind. They have been respectable, industrious men and women, and have been giving good satisfaction wherever we sent them. We have had only three deportations this year.

"For domestics we have always far more applications than we can possibly fill. Out of two hundred and fifty this year we have been able to fill only twenty.

To Stop Accident Fakirs.

Arising out of the arrest of three foreigners in Montreal July 7, for "faking" railway accidents, a bureau of information and identification is soon to be established in Canada, whereby tab will be kept on all accidents, to guard against any capricious "repeat," with the idea of "holding up" the corporations of this country.

This announcement was made by James Forrest, claims agent of the Toronto Railway Co., on the occasion of a picnic to Buffalo, on which all the chief officials of the company participated.

Such a bureau has been in existence in the United States for some time, with headquarters in Columbus, Ohio; but until the charges were laid against the three foreigners in Montreal for having adopted the system of purposely falling off street cars or trams as a profitable means of making capital through damage claims, no such system has been thought necessary.

Already, Mr. Forrest states, the Toronto Street Railway has the forms in shape and cards printed relating to certain recent accidents, including the Montreal trio, and Acton Burrows, secretary of the Canadian Street Railway Association, will, it is said, assume the duties of filing and keeping track of these and future cases and holding these cards for distribution.

Sir Charles Tupper.

Canada has emerged into the status of a young nation blinking at the brilliancy of its own future. We are fond of saying that Canada stands on the threshold. But surely we crossed the threshold on July 1, 1867, when a few scattered settlements under the genius of the old chieftain and the devoted loyalty to Canada of a galaxy of patriots. And of all that brilliant corps of nation founders the one whose task was the most arduous, still lives in the full possession of his faculties, Sir Charles Tupper.—Vancouver Sunset.

Apples In Africa.

According to a report from the trade commissioner at Cape Town the consignment of Canadian apples shipped last fall to test the South African market has been disposed of to the retail trade at satisfactory prices.

The shipment consisted of 4,858 barrels of various varieties. They were sold at prices per barrel from $9.75 for Kings down to $7.90 for Ben Davis.

Freight charges from Montreal, were $2.50 and other charges, excepting insurance, amounted to 55 cents more per barrel.

Stomach troubles would more quickly disappear if the idea of treating the cause rather than the effect, would come into practice. A tiny, inside, hidden nerve, says Dr. Shoop, governs and gives strength to the stomach. A branch also goes to the Heart, and one to the Kidneys. When these inside nerves fail, then the organs must falter. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is directed specifically to these failing nerves. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment patients say they realize a gain. Sold by all dealers.

OUT ON THE COD BANKS

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF THE LUNENBURG FISHERMAN.

The Men Who Supply the World With Its Codfish Have a Hard and Dangerous Life—Fifty Tons Is the Average Size of Schooners—Squid Is the Favorite Bait—Casting Is All Done From Dories.

Like that of a policeman, the life of a "Banker" is not a happy one. It is a long record of toilsome endurance, of simple heroism, of the bearing of incredible hardships, of but scant reward.

The great banks of Newfoundland are a rich harvesting ground, and year in, year out, thousands of men exploit them to the full. Not alone the fishing towns of Canada and the United States send their representatives to the warfare of man against nature; Scotland sends its quota, as does France; in fact, during a good season few seafaring countries but are represented there in some form or other. Cod is the spoil, the wily, elusive cod; valuable as a food, exacting of chase; cheap as to price.

On the principle of fitting the back to the burden, Bankers do not fare forth in little luggers or smacks. They ship themselves aboard large, seaworthy schooners, capable of weathering the hardest gales that ever blow.

These schooners vary in tonnage, but fifty tons is a fair average size. They are manned by eight men usually, sufficient to handle the vessel comfortably in going from port to fishing ground and back, and also in following the fish as they travel from point to point. But this is not their only work; it is a very small part of it. Their real work is to catch fish.

Imagine yourself for the nonce aboard a schooner out of Lunenburg. She is well-found, a comfortable vessel, once possessed of a good turn of speed, for she has been a racer in her day, though now her glory has departed. This speed will serve her in good turn when the holds are full and the homeward race for market commences. The captain is a grizzled veteran, with a down east drawl that you could cut with an axe. But he has a reputation for being able to play the elusive cod at his own game; to "think cod," in short, which means that he can place himself in the position of the fish, and meet every move they make.

It is not a very long journey to the Banks, for the schooner is fast. Once there, the skipper begins to cast about for fish, watching the crested waves narrowly as if he could read their most cherished secrets, as indeed he can. There are certain signs and tokens, known to the Banker, which indicate the presence of cod, or, failing their presence, the direction in which they have traveled; and these signs your skipper reads as an open book. The schooner slips away on its own appointed course, and morning shows a deserted sea.

"Wal, I guess we're here or hereabouts," says the skipper, and the word is passed for work to commence. The schooner's decks have been filled with a number of small boats called dories; double-ended craft, a cross between a ship's dinghy and a Canadian canoe; easily managed by one man, fairly safe in rough weather, and as light as a feather.

Meanwhile the spare hands have been busy for days in baiting vast lengths of cod-line—stout, tough stuff, strong enough to hold a runaway whale in its flurry. Squid or cuttlefish is the favorite bait, for cod loves squid as a trout loves the May fly. At stated intervals along the line hooks are firmly hitched, and each hook receives its piece of bait, after which the line is coiled away into shallow tubs; one tub to each dory, and the material is ready.

The complete equipment of a dory consists of a small anchor, a coir cable, for anchoring the boat; a heavy maul for stunning big fish as they are hauled aboard; a gaff, an axe; a compass, a stock of provisions, a tin horn for fog signals, a pair of sculls, and rowlocks, lamp and oil. All is in readiness, and a start is made at once, for the longer you wait the greater possibility of other schooners encroaching on your chosen ground. Each line is fitted with floats and sinkers at intervals, and your dory is swung outboard by a single whip from the masthead. You lower yourself into it as it touches the water, fit bottom boards and thwarts in place, receive your impedimenta, and start off.

Arrived at the spot you have selected, you commence to throw out your lines, which sink from sight as you pull back on the way you have come, until the entire line is submerged, after which you pull along to your first float, grapple the line—and probably receive some cruel jags from the hooks in so doing, and under-run the apparatus; pulling your dory along by the line, hand over hand, and as each hook comes into view it is more than likely that it holds a big fish.

One by one you pick off the spoil, fling them carelessly into the dory, until you are up to your knees in fish, and when the last hook has been reached you are ready to go back aboard, though as you unhooked each fish you rebaited the hook from the bait tub in the bows, and let the line drop out of sight again.

Such is the Banker's life in fine weather; but in a storm it is full of the grimmest dangers. The blinding blizzards of the Banks sweep down in howling fury, and woe betide the ship that is caught unawares. The mighty Atlantic seas rage on crashingly and the spray freezes where it falls, so that the schooner becomes but a floating mass of solid ice.

Devilfish.

Devilfish weighing up to 200 pounds are sometimes caught in Japan. These fish are amphibious. They are often seen wabbling on their tentacles like giant spiders in search of patches of sweet potatoes. The natives kill them with clubs. In the water they are caught in jars lowered to the bottom, which the octopus enters, thinking them a good retreat from which to catch its food.

Opening the Jar.

"Have you heard from Old Boomerang since she went home?" asked Mr. Tucker, putting his feet on the table.

"I want you to stop calling mamma Old Boomerang," said Mrs. Tucker. "What makes you call her that?"

"Why, I was just wondering when she was coming back, that's all," answered Mr. Tucker. "You needn't get sore about it."

No Pleniches.

He had to shun the cool retreat
And hold aloof from rustic scenes
Because he could not learn to eat
Hard tack and olives and sardines.

Celerity.

Such is the builders' art,
You're over there and back again
Before you really start.

His Transformation.

Little Harold, aged six, felt very proud when he donned his first pair of trousers. Taking his three-year-old brother behind the door, he was overheard to say, "Willie, Willie do you remember me?"—Delineator.

A Famous Sea Painter.

A curious feature of the work of that clever marine painter, Mr. W. L. Wyllie, R.A., who celebrated his fifty-eighth birthday on July 6th, is the use he makes of the telescope. By this means he contrives to bring to his easel an astonishingly large area of shipping. During the Russo-Japanese war, for instance, Mr. Wyllie made an elaborate painting of the Japanese battleship Fuji when she was seven miles away. At the same time Mr. Wyllie more often than not studies ships at close quarters from his yacht, for he is an enthusiastic sailor, as befits a man whose studio is on the very edge of the narrow entrance to Portsmouth harbor.

STRANGE PEOPLES.

Denizens of Darkest Africa Described For Geographers.

Major R. G. T. Bright, C.M.G., gave an interesting account of survey and exploration in the Ruwenzori and Lake region, Central Africa, before the Royal Geographical Society. The country described is in the neighbourhood of the western border of the Uganda Protectorate and the Congo State. Maj. Bright gave some interesting details regarding the natives of the country through which the expedition passed. The people of Bavira were noticeable for their women wearing a particularly disfiguring ornament in their upper lips—an embellished wooden disc, from 21-2 to 3 inches in diameter. These tribes bartered their food for beads and cloth, much preferring the latter, though they were but scantily clothed. The males wore a piece of cloth carried between the legs, with its ends tucked, both in front and behind, through a belt of hide or rope, and for ornaments ivory and wooden bracelets. With the women a bunch of weeds worn behind was all that was considered necessary, though their necks were encircled with many strings of different-colored beads. The young men and women dressed their hair with a mixture of light clay.

A finer and a darker race—the Lendu—was warlike and continually fighting amongst themselves or with anyone else they thought themselves strong enough to overcome. They were treacherous, and would go to almost any extremes in their anxiety to obtain arms and ammunition. The district between the Congolese stations, Kasindi and Beni, Maj. Bright reported, was an ideal elephant country, and was tenanted by some large herds. The Ituli forest and the wooded slopes of Ruwenzori formed veritable strongholds for elephant, while in the Toro Game Reserve devastated plantations and spoor testified to the numbers still living in and around the protected country. In the open country on the southern shore of Lake Albert, when the plains are marshy, elephant and buffalo roam over them. In the kingdom of Ankoli the population could be roughly classified as the Bahima, the aristocracy, and the Baero, the cultivators and serfs. The Bahima believed vaguely in an all-powerful Deity, who was associated mainly with rain, thunder, and other weather phenomena. They endeavored to propitiate various devils—most of whom were connected with the prevalent diseases—by erecting joss-houses, in which food and beer were placed. They invariably carried round the neck wooden charms or small goats' horns, which had been invested with magical power by the medicine men, and usually wore wire bracelets and anklets. The Bahima were a purely pastoral people. All forms of agriculture were held in contempt, and were relegated to their Baero servants.

The Baamba people living in the forest near the Ituli river were addicted to cannibalism of a particularly loathsome form. Families exchanged their young children, who were then eaten. The Baamba in many cases filed their teeth, but this practice was not quite general. They were a jovial people. A constant warfare went on between village and village. They are built on the top of a ridge, and a stout wooden stockade is erected round. Each village had a club-house, furnished with a few rough three-legged chairs, made of the forked boughs of a tree, on which the members lie; the men gathered there to talk and smoke.

Wifely Pride.

There is no telling what quaint turns wifely pride and devotion may take. Sir Melvill Beachcroft, whose work in connection with the London County Council is well-known, while waiting in a tenement house for the occupant of the first floor to admit him, chanced to overhear two women conversing on the stairs.

One remarked that her husband always wore a clean shirt every Sunday morning.

"Well, now," responded the other, "I never cares about Sundays, but I allays do see that 'e 'as a clean shirt Saturday afternoons, 'cos that's the time 'e is generally drinking, and when 'e does take 'is coat off to fight I do like to know 'e looks nice and clean.—M.A.P.

Easily Identified.

One of the peculiarities of Viscount Goschen is to pay surprise visits to the branches of the bank which he helps to control. Not long ago he entered a country branch and asked the clerk in charge to cash a cheque drawn by a friend, adding that both himself and friend were customers of the bank. When the clerk complied, Mr. Goschen, as he was then, read him a severe lesson on cashing cheques for strangers. "How do you know I came by the cheque honestly?" he asked. "I don't know," said the clerk; "but if anything went wrong your father would indemnify the bank against loss, and I always like to oblige a director." The said director had thought he was unknown.

British First.

We have in British Columbia as they have in the middle west many American settlers and whether west or east of the mountains we have no better, no more patriotic people. While they live here, and when once they become they do not as a rule go away, they are Canadians; but they are more than that, they are British and they not infrequently set an example to the mother of the country in the matter of their duty to imperial interests which is very salutary to the rather unthinking public of the Dominion.—Vancouver Province.

Things Theatrical.

August Von Bleue, the musician-actor, is to appear in vaudeville in "The Master Musician."

The Liebler company has engaged Charles B. Waldron to play the leading part in a new production.

Justin Huntley McCarthy's drama of "The Proud Prince," which Sothern used here, has been produced with great success in London.

At the time of his death Clyde Fitch had just finished a play for Zelda Sears, called "Kitty and the Canary," and he was about to write one in which Miss Ruth Maycliffe was to star.

Humor In Old Wills.

A certain Lieutenant-Colonel Nash left an annuity to the bell-ringers of Bath to "toll dolefully" on each anniversary of his wedding day, and contrite Mr. Withipol of Walthamstow left the bulk of his property to his wife, "trusting," he says—"yea, I may say as I think, assuring myself—that she will marry no man for fear to meet with so evil a husband as I have been to her."

Mr. Jasper Mayne at least considered himself witty when he bequeathed to his valet a wornout portmanteau, as it contained something, said the will, which would make him drink. The excited valet ripped open the trunk and found a red herring in it. So, doubtless, did the Scotch gentleman who in 1677 left to his son's care his two worst watches, "because," he said, "I know he is sure to dissect them."—St. James' Gazette.

An Easy One.

Billfoss—If I had $3 and you asked me to lend you two, how much would I have left? Jubb—Oh, I know the answer to that. You would still have $3 left, granting it were possible that you ever had that much at one time, because you wouldn't lend me any. Ask me something probable.—Pathfinder.

Widows' Caps.

Widows' caps are as old as the days of Julius Caesar. An edict of Tiberius commanded all widows to wear one under the penalty of a heavy fine and imprisonment.

Shooting Flying Birds.

In Smith's "History of Kerry," published in 1754, is found the statement that the art of shooting flying birds was taught to the Irish people by the French refugees who came over after the revocation of the edict of Nantes and that to this circumstance is due the decline and disappearance of falconry.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

"HEADACHE, WEAKNESS, HEART TROUBLE"

"I Suffered With for Years—Pe-ru-na Cured Me Entirely."

Miss Albina Chauvin, No. 50 Rue Agnes, St. Henri, Montreal, Can., writes:

"I consider Peruna better than any other remedy, as it cured me when nothing else could. I suffered for years and years with heart trouble, headache and weakness. I never expected to find anything to cure me. I saw one day, in "La Presse," that Peruna was excellent and I tried it. One bottle produced a change in me and if the price had been ten times as much a bottle I would have paid it gladly. I have taken six bottles and am entirely cured. Please accept my thanks and best wishes for your Peruna."

"Please Accept My Thanks and Best Wishes For Your PE-RU-NA."

Many cases of heart trouble are caused by reflex disturbances.

Derangements of the stomach and liver produce symptoms of heart trouble.

Catarrh of the stomach is a very frequent cause of sympathetic heart disease.

Palpitation, shortness of breath and bloating after meals are the most prominent symptoms.

Such a condition of the stomach is also liable to produce headaches of the worst sort.

Medicines that palliate the symptoms will never lead to a cure.

It is the effect which Peruna has upon the stomach, healing the mucous membranes and restoring the natural function of the stomach, that causes Peruna to bring such prompt relief.

FALCONER BIBLE CLASS.

The Falconer Bible Club, conducted by Rev. H. J. Keith, met last night at the Y.M.C.A., and the leader outlined the work to be taken up in the course. He pointed out that some of the questions that business men and others are up against as to the "Ideal Life," and how far it is practicable, will be discussed. It is a course full of what all men need and offers an opportunity that is not met with every day. All men are welcome, whether members of the Y.M.C.A. or not. Club meets every Friday at 8 p.m.
